Allen, Malesardi To Head Finish-the-Job Campaign For Hospital Expansion

A "finish-the-job" fund-raising campaign to raise all or part of the $1,500,000 needed to complete the Englewood Hospital Building Fund is now being organized by Dudley C. Allen, former mayor of Leonia and Harold Malesardi, of Tenafly, former president of Citizens National Bank of Englewood.

Arthur A. Kron, president of the Englewood Hospital, announced that Mr. Allen and Mr. Malesardi have consented to serve as co-chairmen "because they believe wholeheartedly in the worthiness of this cause." Both are members of the Board of Trustees of the Hospital.

Mr. Allen and Mrs. Malesardi will immediately set about the task of appointing sub-chairmen for Englewood, Tenafly, Leonia and other communities and for business, industry, clubs, organizations and foundations. A committee will be organized within the hospital itself to solicit doctors, personnel and trustees.

In a joint statement, Mr. Kron, Mr. Allen and Mr. Malesardi point out that the decision to conduct a "finish-the-job" campaign was the result of searching sober thought by the Board of Trustees which feels that it cannot shirk its responsibilities to meet the needs of the people. The building program is costing about $7,000,000 and should be completed in the spring.

Mr. Allen, Industrial Relations Manager of the Electric Department of Public Service Corporation, was recently given the Leonia Distinguished Citizen Award for service to Leonia as mayor for eight years. Community Chest chairman and Englewood Hospital Chairman.

Mr. Malesardi served as president and later as chairman of the Board of Citizens National Bank after having been an officer of the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York. He is now consultant to City National Bank & Trust Company, Hackensack.

Mr. Allen and Mr. Malesardi are asking those who want to take advantage of tax deductions which are considerable, before the year-end are urged to make their contributions in advance.

Cliffs Groups Discussion

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS—For the first time in Englewood Cliffs, the leading organizations have joined together to sponsor a town meeting in an attempt to learn "What Is Public Education Worth To You?", the subject of a discussion to be held at the Upper School, Charlotte pl., at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 16.

The sponsoring organizations include the Armenian Home-Owners, Chamber of Commerce, Citizens League, E.C.H.O., Lions Club and the PTA.

They will include Archie Hay, Bergen County Superintendent of Schools; Charles Harrison, education editor of The Record; Dr. John Polley, professor and financial expert at Teachers College, Columbia University; and Leonard Hansen, Englewood realtor.

They will be introduced by Dr. Raymond Gambino. The panel discussion will be moderated by Ross Alger. Residents have been urged to attend this meeting, not only to hear but to question the specialists.

CITED FOR SERVICE—Maxwell M. Upson, vice-president of the Boys' Clubs of America, is awarded the golden keystone, most highly coveted honor, received by less than a dozen men in the 104-year history of the boys' clubs movement. During more than 30 years of membership on the national board, Mr. Upson, long-time resident of Englewood, has given continually of his time, energy, inspiration, leadership and funds. A fellow board member, Morgan D. Wheelock, presents the award. Looking on approvingly is Richard M. Nixon, recently elected to succeed the late Herbert Hoover as chairman of the 645 club, 600,000 member national youth guidance organization.

More Data Required On Urban Renewal

ENGLEWOOD—City officials were busy this week assembling additional data requested by a federal agency on some phases of its proposed Urban Renewal programs but this does not necessarily mean that the plans are being questioned or that approval is being deferred, in the opinion of City Administrator Rex B. Little. The request for further data, Mr. Little explained, came from the Division of Habitability Programs of the HHFA (Housing and Homes Financing Agency) in Philadelphia, to which the City had submitted its request for certification as of September.

"Our plans had been cleared by that office some time ago," he stated. "However, while final approval of a program is still pending, an annual recertification is required. It is therefore our opinion that the new information requested is for inclusion in the 1965 recertification."

"There is no indication that this is holding up our two programs submitted for federal approval. So far as we know, our plans are still in Washington, awaiting final action by the HHFA."

Mr. Little said the new data requested was in three major areas. The Philadelphia office, he said, commended the local planners on a map showing where inspections had been made of blighted areas, but now asks that this include all city areas, whether or not they are classed as blighted. City-wide inspections have been made but the entire city was not included in the original map.

Board Vacancies Siege Now Aimed At Ticknor

ENGLEWOOD—Preparing to become Englewood's acting mayor or at the stroke of midnight next Tuesday when the resignation of present Mayor Francis J. Donovan becomes effective, Councilman-at-Large William D. Ticknor, Jr. has already felt the impact of the storm of controversy over who or who shouldn't be appointed to membership on the Board of Education. Mr. Ticknor will have the responsibility of making two such appointments shortly after he takes office. There is one existing vacancy, to fill the board seat formerly held by Dr. Frank H. McCloskey, who recently resigned because of the Board of Education's refusal to acquire the Creche property for school use. The other will come Jan. 1, when the 5-year term of Dr. Theodore B. Van Itallie expires.

DONOVAN BEIEGED

Mr. Donovan had expected to fill the first vacancy, before his retirement, with appointment of Bernard Chazen. However, on the weekend before he could announce both the appointment and his resignation at the Dec. 1 Council meeting he was literally besieged by groups and individuals opposed to Mr. Chazen because he had formerly been active in the Save Our Neighborhood Schools organization. He then made known that he would make no appointment, leaving the controversy in the hands of his successor.

In the past few days groups which have already approached Mr. Ticknor on the appointments or have indicated they will lose little time in doing so have included the Joint Civic Committee, the Englewood Ministerial Association, the Englewood Democratic Club and the PTA Council. There is every indication that other groups, to say nothing of numerous individuals, will be getting to him with their own views of board trustee qualifications.

AN ACTIVE GROUP

Although it has never had a board nominee accepted since it was organized in 1959 for the express purpose of submitting such proposed candidates, the Joint Civic Committee is still trying. Its screening committee had prepared data on five names for submission to Mr. Donovan. However, when its president, Mrs. Eliot R. Frankel, contacted him on Nov. 30 for an appointment to submit these names he informed her he was submitting his resignation the next night and would not be filling the McCloskey vacancy.

The mayor said he would like to have the list, anyway, Mrs. Frankel said, and she gave him the names and "profiles" on each one two days later. She said yesterday that she has since been in touch with Mr. Ticknor, to ask whether he wished to have this file duplicated and sent to him. Mr. Ticknor informed her, she stated, that Mr. Donovan had already advised him that he could obtain the original file from the mayor's office if he wished to do so.

DEMOCRATS ACT
The Englewood Democratic Club entered the controversy with a demand that Ticknor "act for the whole community by choosing one of the slate of highly qualified citizens recommended by the Joint Civic Committee after a widespread search and careful evaluation."

A resolution to that effect was adopted Monday night by the Club's executive committee. Asserting the present controversy "can be traced to the stubborn insistence of Republican officials on operating behind closed doors and through secret pipelines, shutting the public out from any real voice in decisions," the resolution went on to say:

"Republicans as candidates speak piously of the need for better communications, but the Republican office-holders still haven't learned to practice it. The administration has repeatedly ignored past recommendations of the non-partisan Joint Civic Committee ... but it is acutely important at this time that the new appointment be one which will command community-wide approval and respect."

MINISTERS CONCERNED
The Ministerial Association, holding a routine meeting on Tuesday of last week, had a record turn-out of 18 members who took a stand that persons who have taken extreme stands on educational matters should not be appointed to the school board, according to the group's president, the Rev. David M. Gillespie.

The Association designated a committee of six, presumably to draft such an expression to present to Ticknor. This group met Monday but the Rev. Mr. Gillespie said its decision could not be made public until "six other groups" concerned had opportunity to study it.

A spokesman for the PTA Council said it would probably have a special meeting before the end of this week to consider recommendations on the proposed appointment. All of the seven PTA units in Englewood are represented among the 12 groups whose representatives make up the Joint Civic Committee.

PTA Council Scores School Plant Upkeep

ENGLEWOOD—The two official Englewood bodies most concerned, the Board of Education and the Common Council, will have before them at their regular meetings next week—the first on Monday night, the second on Tuesday night—a report by the Building Needs Committee of the PTA Council declaring that "the growing obsolescence of the Englewood school plant" has resulted in "numerous dangerous and unhealthy conditions."

The scathing report was adopted Monday night by the council. The committee which drafted it, headed by Herbert Honig,

Also requested was a report on fire inspections made since the city adopted a new fire prevention code last April.

Thirday, the Philadelphia HHFA office asked for a summary of business and other affiliations of each of the 12 members comprising the local Urban Renewal Citizens Advisory Committee, of which John W. Brown is chairman.

Mr. Little said all data requested would be ready to go off to Philadelphia by the end of this week.

consisted of nine members. It scored "the current austerity maintenance" of the school system plan "as false economy ... resulting in numerous dangerous and unhealthy conditions and leading to the inevitable prospect of higher future costs for repair."

The committee declared that "it strongly recommended that the Board of Education immediately engage an architectural engineering firm to survey the school plant, prepare a report indicating the present condition of all facilities, making recommendations for repairs, rehabilitation, replacement or abandonment, and preparing cost estimates and a master plan to accomplish the necessary work with the priorities given to the most urgent safety hazards."

Referring specifically to "hazardous conditions," the report placed emphasis on the Liberty School, which was built in 1902. It stated that a special meeting between PTA Council representatives and school authorities on Dec. 2 "to consider urgent problems of safety" resulted in "a commitment for immediate corrective action." It declared that "unless immediate correction of potential hazards can be effected the abandonment of Liberty School must be accelerated."

The report also took up the $100,000 cut for maintenance in last year's school budget, citing such examples as "electrical fixtures bought in 1903 and still not installed in the Engle Street School ... increased operating cost of inadequate, hand-stoked coal systems and the resulting extremes of temperatures in the various classrooms ..."

The "absence of a long-range program of continued adequate maintenance" was underlined, and the need for "an immediate and definite program to bring the school plant to a safe and economical operating level" was emphasized.

The committee strongly supported "the announced program to update the facilities of the high school, and urged a program of continuous surveillance of present deterioration and obsolescence of school facilities."

The committee also urged that "an evaluation of deficiencies in the schools be completed

Civic Group Believes In 'Try, Try Again'

ENGLEWOOD—Although it has never had one of its recommended candidates appointed in the five years of its existence, the Joint Civic Committee's members, "feeling that they can do a real service for the community," are not so discouraged that there is any thought of disbanding, the organization's president, Mrs. Elliot R. Frankel, told the Press Journal yesterday.

"In fact, we have good reason to believe that our representation of various groups, now at 12, will increase in the near future," Mrs. Frankel said. When it started in 1959, with Charles Parlin as first chairman, the Committee was representative of 23 groups.

Present membership takes in the League of Women Voters, United Church Women, Urban League, Englewood Teachers Association, Elizabeth Morrow PTA and the PTA's of all Englewood public schools.

The organization was formed for and has no other purpose than the recommendation of what it considers highly qualified candidates for appointment to the Board of Education.

Mrs. Frankel explained that when there is a board vacancy the Committee considers names suggested by its representatives. A screening committee then narrows down the suggested list, usually to three names when there is a single vacancy. This time, since there is one existing vacancy and another coming up on Jan. 1, the Committee suggested five candidates to Mayor Francis Donovan and will now ask that the same five be considered by Councilman-at-Large William D. Ticknor to consider the same five after he becomes acting mayor next Tuesday night.

To these names, Mrs. Frankel's letter to mayor Donovan said, should be added that of Dr. Theodore B. Van Itallie should he be willing to be appointed to another term upon the Jan. 1 expiration of his present term.

The five new candidates proposed by the committee are: Dr. Ian Alger, 207 Maple st., who practices psychiatry and psychoanalysis at that address and offices in New York City; member of the faculty of N. Y. Medical College since 1952.

Mrs. William E. Fairbanks, 157 Wintrop pl., teacher of social studies on the secondary level at Dwight School since 1958; member of State Board, League of Women Voters.

Carmen R. Hintz, 141 Sheffield ave., plant manager of toy factory; served on board, 1958-63, vice president in 1962; Board of School Estimate, 1959.

Dr. Harry Passow, 394 Eton st., professor of Education at Teachers College, Columbia University; educator since 1942; educational consultant and lecturer.

The Rev. James A. Mitchell, 334 Palisade ave.; rector emeritus of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, from which he retired two years ago after 29 years of service.

(Note: The above are merely identifying sketches; the Committee's "profiles" are much more extensive.)

Santa Arrives Here Dec. 17

ENGLEWOOD—With a deep-throated chuckle, and a ruff of white whiskers, Santa Claus will arrive in full regalia here on Dec. 17.

His course, charted on earth, instead of through the stars, will bring him from the Soldier's Monument on Palisade ave., starting at 3 p.m., and proceeding east on Palisade to Engle st., north on Engle to Park place, west to Dean st., south on North Dean to Palisade ave., and finally the procession will head the way back on Palisade to City Hall, where Santa will give each child candy and a Yuletide gift.

Added City Parking Lessens Trudging

ENGLEWOOD—The Christmas season is upon us and there are only 11 shopping days left. The City is decorated with the traditional Christmas lighting that will lend a pleasant atmosphere for the evening shopper.

The problem of parking confronting the shoppers as they make the rounds in the waning days before Christmas, has been made easier than in any previous years with the enlarged parking facilities of Depot Square and Railroad Plaza. This area in the heart of the shopping center will save the shopper much time and many steps.

For the convenience of the shopping public the Press-Journal herewith provides a map designating all the parking lots and off street parking areas. The complete list of all the parking areas and the off-street parking zones are located as follows: Lot "A" at South Dean street. Lot "B" is at North Van Brunt street adjacent to the newly enlarged Lot "J" at Depot Square is at West street and Lot "G" at Humphrey street, Lot "H" at Rockwood place and Lot "I" at Engle street (Franklin-and Railroad place. Lot "C" is at North Dean street with Lot "D" located at the Northwest corner of Tallman place. Lot "F" street, school lot.)

The off-street parking in Zone No. 1 is on the north side of Palisade avenue, (Hillside avenue to N. Van Brunt street). Both sides of Engle street to Church street. Both sides of N. Dean street to Demarest avenue, also Park place and Bergen street.

Zone No. 2—North side of Palisade avenue (N. Van Brunt street to James street) N. Van Brunt street, West street, Tallman place and James street.

Zone No. 3—North side of Palisade avenue (James street to Tenafly road) Tenafly road south side of Palisade avenue (Bennet road to S. Van Brunt street) and Humphrey street.

Zone No. 4—South side of Palisade avenue (Railroad to Grand avenue) S. Dean street and Grand avenue.

Two-Way Hearing Dec. 18
ENGLEWOOD—The City's suit contesting the State's jurisdiction over local traffic regulations, involving proposed return to two-way traffic on Engle and Dean streets and Grand avenue, is now scheduled for hearing in Superior Court in Hackensack on Dec. 18. At the request of Deputy Attorney General James Oliver, a two-weeks adjournment was granted when the case was called in court last Friday.

Englewood Taking Steps Toward Improved Housing

ENGLEWOOD - The recent poverty within prosperous community by the Bergen County municipalities, caught eight out of ten of the freeholders which indicated the extent of hidden pockets of Englewood as the sole exception.

The study showed that 13,500 families over 5% of the total population in the county, earn less than $3,000 per year which is the dividing line for hard core poverty; that 95.6 per cent of those families are white, but in Englewood, which has acknowledged the blight problem which exists in its fourth ward, the percentage of Negroes who are below that line rises to 15 per cent, with a total of 251 families who are below the line.

Englewood currently is attempting to deal with the problem through development of an extensive urban renewal project. This could raise many of the buildings in the fourth ward using the land for industrial purposes, and transplanting Negroes to housing projects to be constructed.

NEGRO GHETTO

Such a program would raise the housing level made available, but would not counteract the effects of the Negro ghetto. City Administrator Rex Little stated that the study was coordinated without the help of local officials, and that he anticipates being able to take more constructive views when the full report has been released by the county.

In eight of the communities named, officials expressed surprise or indignation when the county report came out in the press. Some contended that such conditions did not exist in their towns.

Englewood officials were neither surprised or annoyed. They pointed out that the city has acknowledged something should be done about the overcrowded and inadequate housing conditions in the fourth ward by having initiated plans for an urban renewal project. Final decision on how this program will be carried out is still pending.

"It is now important that planners, on the federal state, county and municipal levels, don't go off on different tangents in attempting to solve the problem," stated City Administrator Little.

"Of course we realize that the problem exists, and that something should be done to alleviate it. We have had discussions concerning it with the State Office of Economic Opportunities.

It was a matter for discussion at the annual convention of the New Jersey League of Municipalities in Atlantic City last month. On the county level, we had been awaiting the report and are prepared to give it careful study.

"What we need to do now is to take all of the reports and use them as a basis for arriving at the proper measures to seek betterment of this unfortunate situation."

Spies Seized In Englewood Found Guilty

ENGLEWOOD - The espionage case which began just over a year ago with the surprise arrest of John W. Butenko and Igor A. Ivanov in the darkened parking lot of the Englewood railroad station, ended last week after a prolonged and heated period of testimony.

The two men were found guilty of conspiracy against the United States by a jury which deliberated for nine hours and 24 minutes before reaching its decision, but it will be up to U.S. District Court Judge Anthony A. Guarnelli to deliver the sentence which could conceivably be death.

The crime involved the interception of vital United States defense data through information obtained by Butenko, an electronics plant engineer working on a secret ITT air-force project in Paramus. When the FBI intervened in Englewood, he was found to be carrying documents relating to the determination of the Strategic Air Command's minute by minute war preparedness.

Others involved in the trial were three members of the Soviet U.N. Mission, who were promptly expelled from the country. The Soviet government has posted $100,000 bail for Ivanov, who does not have diplomatic immunity.

A large portion of the intrigue was conducted in and around Bergen County over a six-month period from April to October, 1963 when the sensational raid took place.

Anybody Want $500,000,000?

ENGLEWOOD - Did you know that someone's looking to give away $500,000,000? That's the sum that over 1,000,000 lost stockholders in America have come to them. Many have forgotten about their holdings during the lean years when no dividends were paid; others were unaware they inherited them; still others threw the holdings into attic trunks and cellar chests considering them worthless.

All old securities, dating back to 1860, can be checked and many of them are worth money, even if the issuing company has been liquidated.

Some of the missing stockholders have lived in this area, and they or their heirs are being sought. Together with their last known addresses they are:

DeForest A. Drake of 122 Englewood, Englewood; Clara H. Stobaugh, 15 Franklin st., Englewood; Robert P. Simpson, 330 Rutland ave., West Englewood, and Sheldon M. Block of 3031 Edwin ave., Fort Lee. If anyone knows the whereabouts of these individuals, they are urged to contact Tracers Company of America, 515 Madison ave., New York 22, N.Y.

City "Green Thumb" Nets Award

ENGLEWOOD - Our city has been named the recipient of New Jersey's Tercentenary Green Thumb Competition Award for civic beautification. A Certificate of Merit has been received and the Garden State Rose Bush (shown in picture) will arrive in the spring. Former Mayor Austin Volk recognized the need for improvement of Englewood's northern gateway and envision the citizens and organizations of this city and their interest in a living investment in a green Englewood has been well supported. Toward these ends, noted landscape designer Mrs. Alice Ireys was contracted to plan the City beautification. The Mayor's Arbor Day and Shade Tree Committee, under both Mayor Volk and Mayor Francis J. Donovan's administration, solicited and received funds for the purchase of dogwoods, flowering crabapples, azaleas and other plants.

The response came from all quarters. Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Home Owners Mutual Aid Society joined with the Chamber of Commerce, Garden Club and the Guild of Englewood Merchants.

Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs contributed funds as did public and private school groups, merchants, banks and many individuals who banded together to support the beautification plan.

Nurses from as far away as Ohio helped and the City Director of Public Works and the men of the Shade Tree and Parks Departments have cooperated in the planting and maintenance of materials according to the design.

Contributors were recognized at the Arbor Day celebrations, but even up to the present, funds have been received from the Girl Scouts, Junior League, Dwight School Parents Association and private groups.

In addition, the Women of the Contemporary Club of and the Englewood Woman's Club joined together to raise funds by conducting a garden tour for the purchase of additional plants for the area west of Englewood Hospital. Planting of this section will mark completion of the entire strip.

The Tercentenary Green Thumb Award was given in recognition of New Jersey's 300th anniversary to municipalities which have undertaken civic beautification.

If you're handy with a whip and chair, go for the 360-hp GTO. It bites. But then, even the 335-hp GTO bites. EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Important Reading Coming Up

Even in India the value of motorized transportation is appreciated, as is attested by this letter received by the New Jersey State Highway Department.

"Dear Sir:

The following are some of the effects that would follow anti-automobility: expansion in schools and hospitals in each hamlet and farm increase more expenditures as the students and patients could not travel to distant places for higher education; increase in transport charges would mean price jumps in many of the essential commodities; unemployment of drivers, foremen, servicemen; no better earnings to loaders, unloaders, and laborers; irregularities in attendance of office-goers; fall down in tax figures; retrenchment in transport lines; fall in gasoline and oil sales coupled with unemployment to many pump attendants; less production in motor vehicles, their spare parts, resulting in the breakdown in national economy with high unemployment; impeding defense service; decline in quality shopping for lack of bus transport; sudden decrease in income and sales taxes; wiping out of tourism; in the absence of more output, industries suffer much, there being no speedy transport.

"It is, after all, a hen killing or breaking its own egg, or one dragging down a rock on himself.

"A week's trial of complete non-transportation will convince even a layman of the effects of anti-automobility; resulting hue and cry, helter-skelter, discouraging our own industries production and output affecting our national wealth.

"Virupax Chanvir Simpi Sholapur, India"

The New Jersey State Highway Department says it is not up on the hen killing or breaking its own egg, but the rest of the letter reflects exactly what would happen here under the same conditions.

Letters to the Editor

Tribute To Trubek

Editor, Press Journal
The late Robert Trubek, former resident of Leonia, was a significant benefactor to the Borough of Leonia. Many of his financial gifts to worthy causes have received any publicity and they are too numerous to mention in this column.
The Leonia Community Center became a reality through the generosity of this man. Bob Trubek left his mark on other parts of New Jersey and I hope that they will accord him the recognition worthy of a great person.
I believe it fitting at this time that we pay homage to our friend by memorializing the name Robert Trubek on our Community Center.
A Grateful Leonian

He's Exiting, Too

Editor, Press Journal
With deep regret I read of Mr. Donovan's decision to discontinue as Mayor of our city. All who had the pleasure to know Mr. Donovan during his short stay as Mayor will agree that we have lost the most sincere, honest, humblest man that ever occupied that office. A good man lost in the vicious undertow that generates our City Government.
Now the citizens of Englewood are supposed to believe that our good Mayor resigned just because a certain group opposed a school board appointment that he was to make; at length this is what Mr. Breslin our City Solicitor stated. Mr. Breslin also defended the Mayor's right to appoint Mr. Chazen to the school board to which I agree if Mr. Chazen was the Mayor's personal choice, and if this be true then I say good riddance to the Mayor, but having the pleasure of knowing the warm, compassionate nature that our Mayor displayed to all citizens, Mr. Breslin could not make me believe on a stack of Bibles that Mr. Chazen was our Mayor's choice.
When Mr. Breslin was asked to name the certain group who pressured the Mayor's decision to resign Mr. Breslin refused and graciously left this pleasure for the Mayor. I don't blame Mr. Breslin for refusing; it's still pretty stupid to step on one's own foot.
The Republican image in Englewood is at its lowest for it seems that the only men available to fill important posts are open advocates. The courts and surely the recent election have proven without a doubt that men and women who think in terms of Mr. Chazen brought about this decline. It was this type of thinking that blossomed our recent school situation into a national disgrace. Housing under Mr. Dan Allen, another advocate, and urban renewal here in Englewood is the biggest circus since Barnum & Bailey.
There was a time that I was proud to state that I was a healthy, registered Republican

Bill of Rights Day

Editor, Press Journal
Dec. 15, 1791 How many of the readers of this column remember the significance of that day? Yet what was achieved has had a profound influence on the lives and thoughts of mankind ever since.

The American Bill of Rights in the form of the first ten amendments to the Constitution became the law of the land on that day. For the first time in history a sovereign state limited its own powers in order to protect the individual rights of its citizens.

The idea of inherent human rights developed in the 18th Century both here and abroad. But it was George Mason of Gunston Hall, Virginia, who first formed it into the glowing phrases that were accepted as part of written constitutional law.

He wrote the Virginia Declaration of Rights. It was copied by seven of the newly formed 13 States of America; it spread to France in 1789, and finally it became a part of the Constitution of the United States.

On this Dec. 15 let us remember what it means to us.

Longview Avenue Contrast . . Primitive Versus Abstract

LEONIA - The neat brick home of Eleanor Smoler with its picture window seems a part of the world of Longview Ave.

Inside her home, however, two worlds vie with each other and blend: the modern as represented by her collection of abstract paintings drawn by such noted artists as Ted Knauth, John Heliker, and John Beggs which line the walls; and the primitive, which is represented by her unique collection of artifacts from Africa, Peru, New Guinea, and Israel, arranged on tables, bookcases and alongside the abstract paintings.

As a painter and creator of embroidered hangings she occupies the modern world, and as a collector she seeks the early primitive art. Often she brings them together using ancient stones or pieces of glass obtained on a trip to the Near East, to form a pin or earring.

Three of her creations in the field of creative stichery as it is now called, are being currently exhibited at the Newark Museum of Art.

25 YEARS

Mrs. Smoler has been a painter for 25 years with time out for motherhood. She describes herself as an abstract painter but "I don't want to throw reality out of the window," she says. Her paintings line the walls of the large studio on the back of her home. She describes her metamorphosis as an artist:

"I use more color and more texture now. My pictures are simpler in design and more abstract."

She has strong feelings about art.

"I love Romanesque architecture. My father was an architect and wanted me to be one. His influence shows—I like to paint Romanesque buildings, and particularly Romanesque churches with water near them.

Speaking of her creative tapestries and hangings:

"I hate machines. Mine are all handwoven and the pieces of material used are handloomed." Examples of her work in this field are hung on the walls beside her paintings. Several are hung in front of lighted box frames and the brilliant colors which dominate, glow, when the lights are turned on. She calls these "light panels."

Speaking about primitive art, she states the belief that "all primitive art bears a resemblance to each other. The house decoration from New Guinea on my wall resembles the totem pole of the American Indian."

Many pieces in her collection were picked up on a trip last spring to Israel, Greece, and Yugoslavia. It includes a Benin, a figure of a warrior in bronze and a group of five wooden figures, made by the Dogon tribe of the French Sudan. These items are museum pieces. Two wooden figures from the African tribes of Yoruba and Senohu stand with a wooden headress or Bambara on her coffee table.

They join a pre-Columbian ear wooden dollor Ashanti from Peru, an ancient Egyptian ear plug and an early Peruvian whistle in the living room of her home.

KAPLAN (SEATED) AND HAMPTON

A Leonia Widow Writes - "Memoirs of C.S. Chapman"

LEONIA - Mrs. Charles Chapman, 87 years young, a resident of Leonia for 77 years, and the widow of the noted painter whose works hang in many American museums, has written a book about her husband, "Memoirs of Charles S. Chapman."

In this book she recounts his early life in Morristown on the St. Lawrence River, in upper New York State; the profound influence on his art of a year in the Canadian woods; and the happy summers at Rivington, Conn., and Morristown.

It is peopled with sisters and brothers, aunts, mothers and fathers, and 10 nieces and nephews; it abounds with swimming, walks in the woods, corn roasts, picnics, golf, and tennis, which Mr. Chapman loved above all. It tells of the places he traveled to and drew; the Virgin Islands, Wyoming, the Grand Tetons and the Grand Canyon.

EARLY HONORS

The book lists his honors from his early days at Pratt Institute and the McDowell and Salmagundi Clubs, including his election as the youngest artist ever admitted to the National Academy. His pictures hang in the Metropolitan, Cleveland, Montclair Museums, and the Museum of Natural History.

Names of fellow artists fill the pages; Frederick Remington, who urged him to spend a year in the Canadian north; Howard McCormick, with whom he shared a studio when he first came to Leonia, Peter Newell, Enos Comstock, and Arthur Covey, three other Leonia artists; and Harvey Dunn, with whom he established an art school in the old Moore home on Grand Ave.

It is a story of the man, the artist, and their marriage. It is much like an informal visit with Mrs. Chapman.

The Chapman's met when he rented a studio across the street from her family home on Prospect St. Mrs. Chapman moved to Leonia in 1887. Her family, retaining part of the home of Cornelius Christie on the corner of Grand and Fort Lee rd. Mr. Christie was to become the first mayor of Leonia in 1895 and her father, H.F. Ahrens, served as first borough clerk.

SPARKLING EYES

Her eyes sparkle as she recalls playing in the coal yards near the railroad track with a neat neighbor, Harry Williamson, who managed to emerge clean and tidy, while she was black with coal dust.

Her conversation is sprinkled with names of early Leonians: the Hopkins, Dargues, Grinsaldes, and Grays, who with her father established the All Saints' Episcopal Church. Her tenure as organist began with the establishment of the parish, and continued for a quarter of a century.

The oldest of five children, she went to work at 16 in the offices of the "Scientific American," magazine and later worked for a firm of patent attorneys in New York City. She loves to remember how she would run down Prospect to the railway station each morning while the train to New York was held for her.

"It was a small town then," she recalls, and everyone knew each other."

DESIGNS JEWELRY

Her collection of Bedouin jewelry hangs in her bedroom. It includes hair pieces, turquoise pins, a bride's neckpiece, and earrings; all in silver and decorated with turquoise, amber, or carnelian stones. Also displayed in this room is her collection of jewelry she has designed, borrowing from the old and new. One piece utilizes souptones, chicken bones and silver delicately carved.

Mrs. Smoler studied art at Pratt Institute, the Art Students League, the University of Syracuse and the Traphagen School of Design. She has been a fashion illustrator, illustrated children's books, and is currently a teacher of two classes at her home.

When she moved to Leonia two years ago, she taught painting and creative arts separately. Now she conducts a workshop two afternoons a week in which the students may paint, create mosaic designs and embroidered hangings, or design jewelry.

Leonians are cordially invited to visit her workshop and see her collection. They may do so by telephoning her to arrange the time of the visit.

The Chapmans were married in 1911 and moved the following year to the home she still lives in at 156 Sylvan Ave. The home, which was built for them, contains a large second floor studio where Mr. Chapman worked and taught. Now she shares her home with her sister, Mrs. Celeste Irving.

LITERARY LEAGUE

She can remember the Leonia Literary League; when the Leonia Woman's Club was the Housewives League; when she founded the Shakespeare Club and Garden Club, now departments of the Woman's Club, and how she started the first kindergarten class in Leonia. The "Memoirs" represents an act of self defense. AT-Cresskill - Benjamin Casser, former Mayor of Cresskill, has been selected as "Man of the Year" by the Northern Valley Post 208, Jewish War Veterans of the United States.

The award will be presented to Mr. Casser at a cocktail party Sunday afternoon, Jan. 17 at the Jewish Community Center in Tenafly.

In making the selection, the committee pointed out that Mr. Casser has been an outstanding philanthropist in the county for the past two decades. The selection was announced this week by Irving Elits, former post commander who was chairman of the awards committee. Members of that committee are Stanley Wides, co-chairman; William Gans, William Freeman, Paul Saldel, Nat Mironov, Bernie Wallach, Commander Alexander Flenbaum, Sol Koloff, Dr. Leonard Shaw and Murray Proper.

Mr. Casser, who is president of the Manhattan Trust Co., was recently presented the Friends of Yeshiva University plaque and has also served as president of the New Jersey State Motor Bus Association.

Hospital Report Thanks Its Financial Supporters

ENGLEWOOD - Appreciation for the cooperation of the Bergen County Board of Freeholders in supporting Bergen hospitals in their provision of free and part-free care to patients, was expressed last week both by Arthur A. Kron, president of Englewood Hospital, and Arthur H. Reeve, treasurer in the Hospital's annual report. The Hospital's annual reports do not cover finances at this time because of a change in the fiscal year, but the institution's authorities said the Freeholders, the Community Chests, several municipalities, and many individuals are helping the Hospital to offset operating deficits caused by free and part-free care. Englewood Hospital is now appealing to residents in non-Community Chest towns to make their contributions towards this cause. This year's annual report, just published by the Englewood Hospital, contains reviews of the year by president, treasurer, administrator, committees of the Board of Trustees, and most department heads. A major report is included by Robert A. Escher, vice-president, who as chairman of Buildings, Grounds and Future Development, discloses that the expansion project is nearly 90 per cent complete and that it was complicated by the unexpected breakdown of the old plumbing and heating system in the old East and Central

Gem-Wise
Jewelry fashions, facts, fictions

TERM PRECIOUS
Often you hear people refer to gems as being either "precious" or "semi-precious." Gemologists, of course, and members of the American Gem Society, such as myself, never use the term "semi-precious" for this is actually a mis-nomer.

Almost every gem mineral for sale today occurs in a variety of qualities. To be a precious gem, the material must first possess beauty, be durable, rare, in demand, have a tradition, and be portable. When any of these six elements is missing, the value of the gem material is lessened. A ruby may be very fine and sell for $5000 per carat, or be a very poorly colored specimen, lacking in beauty and be worth only $2 per carat. One quality of jade may sell for 50¢ and another for $1000 or more in the same size.

As you can see, not all stones that are in the so-called "precious category (ruby, sapphire, emerald, diamond and pearl) may be actually precious in terms of cost, nor are all stones sometimes thought of as semi-precious, inexpensive. For that reason, professionally trained jewelers and gemologists refer to all fine gemstones as precious, only. Turquoise, when of good quality, is a precious stone, as is jade, amethyst, opal, and many others. A poor quality diamond, however, may not qualify as a precious gem at all.

When selecting your fine gems, don't be gulped by mis-informed stories about what you should, or should not buy. Select the gems that please your personal taste in color and general appearance, relying upon the jeweler to properly advise you of the stone's quality.

RECEIVING HONORS—Miss Marilyn Bookman (on the left), and Mrs. Alan Silverberg, chairman of the day, (on the right), presenting illuminated scroll to Mrs. Lloyd Bookman who had been the honored subject of "This Is Your Life", the program arranged for the annual Chanukah luncheon of the Temple Emanu-El Sisterhood.

Temple Sisterhood Honors Mrs. Bookman At Gala

Mrs. Lloyd Bookman, a resident of Englewood for more than 17 years and one of the most active members in Temple Emanu-El, was honored at the annual Chanukah luncheon held on Monday, Dec. 7, by the Temple Sisterhood.

In an exciting "This Is Your Life" program, she was presented with a magnificent scroll, honoring her for her many Sisterhood activities, especially the founding of the Gift Shop and her work with Young Judeans.

Mrs. Bookman is the mother of two daughters, Mrs. Marshall Duke who resides in Bloomington, Indiana, and could not be present, and Miss Marilyn, a student at Dwight Morrow High School, who attended. Others who were also present were Mrs. Bookman's three sisters, her three sisters-in-law, and three close friends, among the more than 100 members who attended.

Mrs. Leonard Rubin, president, and Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg of Temple Emanu-El paid glowing tributes to Mrs. Bookman.

Mrs. Alan Silverberg, chairman of the day, was assisted by Mrs. Kurt Silbermann, luncheon chairman, and Mrs. Jack Shapiro and Mrs. Ben Silverberg.

Hadassah Cites Gains In Arab-Israel Relations

The facts about the Arabs living in Israel were brought out by Morton Steinberg at the Hadassah Educational Forum conducted at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Seymour Fried of Tenafly. He was joined by a distinguished panel, including Charles Chapler and Arthur Fischer.

Mr. Steinberg recently returned from Israel where he made an intensive study of Israel's Arab minority. He met not only with government leaders, but also with top Arab personalities, on both the political and religious level. With this objective background, Mr. Steinberg gave a detailed review of the health, education, rural and urban life of the Arabs and their participation in government at the local and national levels.

The contrasts between their condition in all these segments in 1948 when the State of Israel was created and today, only 16 years later, is startling, he said. As an example, he cited the advances made against malnutrition and disease, education and farming. In Israel 90% of the Arab voters go to the polls. It is the only state in the Middle East where women have this right, and 7 Arabs are members of the Israel Parliament.

The principal obstacle to complete integration is the difference in cultural background, the Jewish background being mainly western in origin and the Arabic, middle-eastern. Mr. Steinberg emphasized that there can be no complete integration of the Israeli-Arabic minority until the neighboring states recognize her right to national existence and make peace in the Middle East.

The program, enjoyed by a very appreciative audience, was presided over by Mrs. Stanley Siegel, president of the Englewood, Tenafly and Englewood Cliffs Chapter of Hadassah.

PTA Gets Data

ENGLEWOOD - Questionnaires recently returned by parents for 427 Cleveland school children showed the following: Fifty-five children walk to school on streets without sidewalks; 23 on Durie ave., 10 on Hudson ave.; 12 on Manor rd., 5 on Lafayette pl. The survey showed that 160 children must travel more than a mile to school; of these 67 walk and 123 ride at estimated monthly costs ranging from $3.60 to $48. per month.

Larry Hayes (LO 9-8700) is trying to extend private bus service at a cost of $5.50 per month to 4th Ward children. Assistant Superintendent F.A. Garrity has found that three nearby towns provide transportation at public expense for children less than two miles from school: Englewood Cliffs (0.7 mi.), Paramus (1.0 mi.) and Teaneck (1.2 mi.).

ORT PLAY-DANCE COMMITTEE - Mrs. Irving Weiss, vice-president; Mrs. Irving Gartner, chairman of play; Mrs. Ruben Dankoff, ORT president; and Mrs. Evelyn Lewis, director, who were responsible for the very successful presentation on Saturday, Dec. 5, of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying", shown at Temple Emeth in Teaneck. Mrs. Herbert Nelson, stage manager, and Mrs. Louis Kletter, props, were not present when picture was taken. The cast included members of ORT and their husbands. About 200 were present at this important fund-raising affair. Albamont Photo.

FOCUS

By FRANK RUSSO

Today's column was written by William Messner of Teaneck, a life member of the Amateur Movie Society of Bergen County.

Instead of just shooting random footage of this year's Christmas why not a little script to tell a story and give it continuity? After all, Christmas day is a climax of weeks of preparation therefore your movies of Christmas day should be the climax of the holiday reel so why not start well in advance of Christmas morning.

Here is a suggestive script. Scene 1 - Man's hand momentarily holding family's Xmas card ... slipping it into an envelope.

2 - Woman's hand addressing envelope.

3 - Man's hand lifting down Xmas purchases from closet-shelf.

4 - Woman's hand wrapping one or two presents.

5 - Child's hand hanging stocking by fireplace.

6 - Man's hand placing Xmas tree stand on floor on spreaded cloth previously placed on the floor.

7 - Woman's and man's hands hanging short series of tree ornaments.

8 - Man's hands placing gift packages under tree.

9 - Woman's hands tucking small gifts in fireplace stocking.

10 - Man's hand pressing light switch to "off".

11 - Tree lights glowing in otherwise darkened room.

12 - Clock hands turning slowly. (Light from side and deliberately underexpose about one stop as hidden hand from rear slowly turns clock hands by twisting "TIME" knob. Stop camera while hands are still turning.) (Insert a short length of unexposed film.)

13 - Lower corner of opening door - child's feet emerging (Make this anytime, before or after Xmas, and splice it here).

14 - Child's hands pounding on parent's door.

15 - Adult feet "feeling for slippers".

16 - Hall entrance of living room - as child enters to get first glimpse of tree - then follow with all the customary, climactic shots of Christmas Day. Also, if your youngster is as tired by nightfall as most happy youngsters are, it should be easy to conclude your holiday reel of the youngster, sound asleep, clutching his favorite toy (or gift). (Fade-out by slowly masking off light source with a cardboard.)

All the scenes with the exception of #11 and #16 should be either close-up or extreme close-up.

A final enhancement of the presentation of this film would be some Christmas music in the background, the source could be records, sound on tape or a

Mall Christmas Carolers Try Singing In The Snow

A popular trend towards public caroling has burgeoned into something of a landslide, at least if Bergen Mall's carolers are any indication.

What began in 1957 as a choral singing program using massed choirs of public school children, has this year turned into a showcase for choirs of every denomination in the county, who gather at the Mall to further remind frantic holiday shoppers that the Christmas season has arrived in full glory.

Groups who will indulge in the feats of vocal fancy, include members of St. Cecilia Grammar and High Schools, Englewood; St. Mary's Men's Chorus, Dumont; Girl Scout Troop 8 Bergenfield, Teaneck High School Choir.

To cap the festivities the Teaneck chapter of a cryptically designated group, the S.P.F.-B.S.Q.A., which - freely translated - helps to preserve the status of barber shop quartets, will stand on the corner in traditional barber-shop style and harmonize their way through a Christmas selection.

The church choirs will be fully robed, and many will be strengthened by the musical presence of organs, bells, and an occasional brass section. Shoppers are urged to stop, look and listen.

ENGLEWOOD - James H. Grossman has been named general chairman of the Englewood-Tenafly-Englewood Cliffs Israel Bond campaign. Mr. Grossman also headed the drive last year.

He recently returned from an inspection tour of Israel Bond projects in Israel and met with many top government officials there.

Mr. Grossman will give a reception for the coming campaign's executive board at his home on Dec. 15. This will officially launch the current drive.

The 1965 executive board members are: Jules Bressler, Benjamin Casser, Dr. Sidney M. Edelstein, Stanford Eisenberg, Nathaniel L. Fish, Arthur B. Fisher, Martin Ginsburg, George Gershuny, Seymour Graye, Sol Greene, Max Grobow, Eugene Jacobson, Jean Paul Marks, Harold Meltzer, Joseph Nelson, Arthur Pearlman, Sam Rapoport, Dr. Elias Reiner, Samuel Richman, Harold Rosenberg, Emanuel B. Scher, Eugene Schiff, Norman Selden, Dr. Robert Shomer, Bernhard Smulovitz, Irving Swire, Michael Trachtenberg, Samuel Warshauer, Eugene White.

Plans for the campaign, to take place in Jan. and Feb. will also be made at the reception.

Interesting Dolls In Library Display

ENGLEWOOD - Dolls from the exotic reaches of the globe are the attraction at the Englewood Public Library this month of December. They are from the collection of Mrs. Henry Mandle, Closter, who has succeeded in finding dolls of a wonderfully realistic character.

The dolls illustrate a variety of traditional and native dress. There is a Philippine lady in formal evening wear complete with a train and butterfly sleeves of net, and a Polynesian doll in the native "pareu" of Tahiti. A Berber doll from North Africa and a doll from India in the traditional sari demonstrate two distinctive native costumes. One of the dolls from Yugoslavia wears the red hat of an unmarried girl (married women wear gold and a yellow tassel on her vest. From Lapland comes a doll made of fur, and from Pretoria, South Africa, beaded figures representing Zulu warriors and a small girl. One of the beaded dolls is a gift to the bride to insure fertility. Dressed in authentic French provincial costumes are four dolls made entirely of silk. Irreplaceable are the old Chinese dolls which are replicas of a troop of Chinese actors.

In the Children's Room dolls from Latin America are graphic examples of the life and customs of the people. The gaucho from the Argentine, with his black mustache and fine clothes, presents a dashing picture. A Mexican woman has her baby beside her as she kneads the dough for the tortillas. Handmade dolls depicting the burden bearers of Guatemala, vegetable and flower sellers of Xochimilco, Mexico, in their dugout canoes, and dancers from Oaxaca, Mexico, in headgear of bright colored feathers reveal images of the color and multiplicity of life in Latin America.

U.N. Chapter Given Report On Current Congo Turmoil

ENGLEWOOD - The entire international fabric of relationships is affected by race, said the Rev. Dr. Chester Marcus, secretary for Africa of the United Church Board for World Ministries, addressing a meeting of the Northern Valley Chapter, U. N. Association, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parlin of Englewood.

Dr. Marcus, a Teaneck resident, further said that if the world can stave off the nuclear threat, and organize a recognized, highly mobile U. N. Army, then the race question may also be solved. He explained that "the heart of the problem is the struggle for the right to be a person. Our founding forefathers recognized this fact, as does the Judeo-Christian heritage, by writing into law and morality that each person is intely sacred and has the right of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

These precepts were discussed as Human Rights Week celebrations begin throughout the country this week.

In his travels through Africa, Dr. Marcus said he observed that "Radio Peking is talking loud and clear about the race question. This point may be the divisive force between Russia and China. The Congo tragedy was further inflamed by Tshombe's hiring of white mercenaries. The African people know through bitter experience about European colonialism and imperialism but not of communism."

Two organizations in the Congo, the Organization of African Unity and the All Africa Church Conference, may provide hope for stable leadership by playing the role of unifiers to cut across tribal lines, Dr. Marcus said.

The U. N. Chapter is planning a discussion of the T.V. program on the U. N., "Carol for Another Christmas," on Dec. 28, in member homes. Those who wish to attend may contact Miss Eleanor Harvey in Englewood for further information.

Bank Ends Split Rate

Peoples Trust Company of Bergen County is the first commercial bank in the county to raise to 4% from 3.5% the interest it pays on monies on deposit in a regular savings account for less than one year.

Peoples Trust Company's announcement marks the first concrete benefit to the savings depositors here of the Federal Reserve Board's action taken Nov. 30.

The Federal Reserve Board at that time authorized the Federal Reserve banks to increase the discount rate from 3.5% to 4%. The Board took this action after the Bank of England raised its discount rate from 5% to 7%.

Edward A. Jessor, Jr., Peoples Trust president, said the first quarterly payment of interest at the new rate will be April 1, 1965.

The bank has paid interest of 3.5% on regular savings on deposit for less than one year, and 4% on regular savings on deposit for more than one year. This was the legal maximum rate permitted by commercial banks under the Federal Reserve regulations.

Mr. Jessor said the bank's board of directors also took the action because the current split rate of 3.5% for 12 months, and 4% thereafter was confusing to the public.

TIMELY FOOD BUYS

HOMEMAKER NEWS

By MAR BETH THOMAS & JEAN CARROLL
Home Agents, Bergen County Extension Service

Christmas time is treat time, so prepare goodies of all descriptions. However, says Mrs. Mar Beth Thomas, County Home Economist, Bergen County Extension Service, add nutrition to the family diet by using more than cookies and candy for between meal tempters.

Use the natural sugar in dried fruits to satisfy the sweet tooth and provide minerals and vitamins as well.

Dates and prunes can be stuffed with nuts, marshmallows, candied fruit peelings and peanut butter, as well as fondant.

Raisins are good plain or spiced. Ground raisins, dried apricots and prunes can be mixed and rolled into small balls. Roll in sugar or coconut for a fine confection.

Flgs make festive treats. Clip the stem ends from processed fruit and press the cut side down. In the indentation of the small "patty" press a nut, candied fruit or marshmallow.

Chopped dried fruits add flavor and surprise to many cookies.

Two Generations of Quality Combine In Arian Jewels

ARIAN SHOWS A WATCH TO A CHRISTMAS SHOPPER

Like fine jewels which are handed down from generation to generation, Jack Bahrtarian, who saves his customers the pronunciation problem by calling himself Mr. Arian, has had jewelers in his family for two generations. Transplanted from Marselles, France, he has been dealing in jewelry since 1932, has had his store in Englewood since 1954 and has been at his present address, 24-A East Palisade ave.

Mr. Arian is most concerned with the current trend in ballyhoo which allows jewelry dealers to laud their own low prices without indicating the quality of the product sold.

"What with the many changes in the jewelry business -- synthetics, imitations, even so-called man-made diamonds, the consumer is even more confused, and is often taken in by inferior goods."

Mr. Arian is dedicated to running a business which will provide his customers with authoritative and honest opinions on the value of jewelry to be purchased. A wide selection of gifts is available including wedding rings, pendants, bracelets or charms, and the sentimental value of old jewelry is enhanced by superior craftsmanship in remodeling. Name brand watches are serviced on the premises and are electronically timed. Diamonds are bought, sold and exchanged, and are subject to exchange or refund if unsatisfactory.

In all, Mr. Arian seeks to bring a diverse selection of high standard to his many satisfied customers.

3 Generations See Franklin Firm Growth

ENGLEWOOD - Third generation customers at the Franklin Furniture Company, 32 North Dean st., can easily attest to the effects of suburban expansion. The company, which opened as a Victrola Parlor in 1912, employing a staff of two, has expanded to accommodate the growth of enterprise over the years.

Its latest growth spurt has resulted in the addition of a second story to one of their buildings, which now houses 21 employees and is the base of operations for a fleet of five trucks, operating in a delivery area that covers every town in the county, and travels on occasion to points as far away as Syracuse.

The Franklin Company, which originally supplied only gramophones to a public which was at that time awed by the sound of an invisible man's voice emerging from a speaker, now carries the entire gamut of home furnishings.

The first enlargement of facilities brought the company from one small store on Engle st. to larger quarters on East Palisades ave., where victrolas moved over to make room for the added presence of pianos.

By 1925 business had boomed, and Franklin Parlors was transformed into the Franklin Furniture Company with new headquarters on North Dean st. Three floors and 16,200 sq. feet of floor space were more than enough room for them then, but by 1956 claustrophobia set in, and an adjoining one story building was constructed.

The latest addition comes just in time for the Christmas melee.

ZIP Speeds Parcels, Says PM

ENGLEWOOD - All major post offices have recently converted their parcel post sorting and transportation facilities to the ZIP Code system, reports Postmaster Joseph C. Thomas.

"This is important to people in all areas of the country, since almost every parcel at one time on its trip goes through these offices," he said. "The use of ZIP Codes can save 24 hours or more in delivery of most parcel post."

"ZIP Codes on parcels means a far less chance of damage because of more direct routing and fewer handlings."

Postmaster Thomas suggested that even if people do not know the ZIP Code of the address to which their mail is going, they should use the code on return addresses. "When cards and packages arrive, the five digit return address codes should be added to Christmas lists for use in the future," he said.

"ZIP Coded mail from a smaller post office will generally be sent to the nearest main post office or 'sectional center.'" From there, it is sent directly to the sectional center nearest the final destination. In most instances, this eliminates at least one further separation of mail."

The refrain at holiday time used to be, "I'll be home for Christmas," but patterns are changing. Many people are enjoying Christmas vacations away from home, joining in with customs that typify local celebrations.

NITROGEN FIXATION, one of nature's great mysteries, is under scientific scrutiny. This is the process by which plants and bacteria seize nitrogen from the air for manufacture of nucleic and amino acids, proteins and other critical cellular components. Scientists at the University of Wisconsin have now determined the general outlines of the process, second only to photosynthesis in production of the world's food supplies. The researchers point out, however, that gaining intimate knowledge of the details and mapping the sequence of the reactions -- perhaps the toughest job of all -- still must be accomplished.

SILLY PUTTY, the gooey material popular with children who have a penchant for sculpting, is a vital element in a new super-sensitive weighing scale designed by Case Institute of Technology scientists to measure slight variations in the weight of a bedfast patient. The silly putty is used as a damper to absorb the effect of sudden disturbances such as breathing or heartbeat ... YOUR CAR costs you $2.17 a day even if it just sits in the garage, according to the American Automobile Association. This is the fixed cost of the average 8-cylinder, 4-door sedan. That adds up to $792 a year including depreciation and insurance premiums.

SUGAR CANE PULP has constructive uses after it has been divested of its sweetness. It makes stronger hardboard than does the usual wood pulp, says Votator, Louisville. The sugar cane pulp fibers are separated from the spongy tissue (pith) and then fed into powerful Thermo dielectric heaters which dry out all moisture in about two minutes. Artificial binders aren't needed either, according to the company.

RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS is three times more common in women than in men, says the American Medical Association. The disease, producing painful, deformed joints, usually begins when a person is between 20 and 35 years old. Symptoms include weakness, fever, loss of appetite and loss of weight. One or more joints become inflamed and swollen. AMA says the attacks may come and go for no apparent reason.

COOLING with sunlight is just around the corner, researchers say, and this is only one of the many practical applications for solar energy still to be developed. They predict the sun will do our cooking, heating and cooling, will disinfect water and generate electricity long after coal, gas and oil supplies are used up.

Board Explains Thinking On 4-Year H.S. Program

(SECOND OF A SERIES)
ENGLEWOOD - Dwight Morrow High School is destined to become a four-year comprehensive high school of approximately 1,100 pupils by 1966, according to the Board of Education's long range proposal for the Englewood public schools system.

The proposal calls for the transfer of ninth grade pupils from the Englewood Junior High School to Dwight Morrow. The present Junior high school would then be made into a "middle school" composed of grades six, seven, and eight. "The Board believes that the four-year high school provides better preparation for college admission and for entry into business or industry," says its statement explaining this proposed change. "At the same time, the ninth grade pupil is in a climate better suited to his intellectual, social, and physical needs.

"Colleges ask for a student's records in grades nine through twelve. The Board feels that having these records stored in the same building will enable the school to give more efficient service to the college applicant.

"Too, in the four-year high school, the guidance counselor who works with the student until he graduates will be able to help him plan a program fulfilling college entrance requirements or preparing him for the world of work.

"In the ninth grade the pupil should have more highly specialized opportunities in science, foreign languages, industrial arts, home economics, business education, and language arts that will help him reach his goals. To maintain and provide the facilities for these opportunities in Dwight Morrow will be less expensive than providing them in two schools."

"Dwight Morrow's science, home economics, and industrial arts facilities are obsolete. They must, in any eventuality, be brought up to date," said Dr. Mark Shedd, superintendent of schools. "The ninth grade pupil will have the benefit of the new equipment and laboratories."

Dr. Shedd added that transferring ninth grade pupils to Dwight Morrow would mean that a physical education program better adapted to the needs of seventh, eighth, and sixth grade pupils could be developed.

"In Junior high schools all over the United States extensive programs in interschool athletics are built around the ninth grade," he observed. "Its transfer to the senior high school will permit a less extensive, a less competitive, and a less expensive athletic program in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades."

Dr. Shedd added that the four year high school provides a better grouping socially. "The ninth grade pupil has more in common with the tenth grade student than with the eighth. He will derive benefit from the extensive activities provided by the co-curricular program of the senior high school. The seventh or eighth grade pupil does not need the same type of activity."

Dr. Frank E. Rians

ENGLEWOOD - Funeral services for Dr. Frank E. Rians formerly of 124 Lydecker st., who practiced dentistry in Englewood more than 40 years, were held in the First Presbyterian Church Chapel Monday, Dec. 7, with the Rev. Edward Brubaker officiating.

Interment was in Brookside Cemetery with arrangements under direction of the Greenleaf Funeral Home.

Dr. Rians died in Englewood Hospital Friday, Dec. 4.

Born in New York City in 1876 he started the practice of dentistry in Englewood in 1909. He was predeceased by his wife the late Mrs. Marguerite E. Rians.

Mary Taylor, Former Teacher At Leonia High

LEONIA - A memorial service for Miss Mary A. Taylor, a former Leonia High School teacher who retired in 1947, will be held Saturday, Dec. 12, at 2:30 p.m. in the Leonia Presbyterian Church. Friends are invited.

Miss Taylor died Friday, Dec. 4, in Bergen Pines Hospital. She was 82 and had been a resident at the Mary Fisher Home, Tenafly, for about a year.

Private funeral services were held Saturday, Dec. 5, in the John G. Heuss and Son Funeral Home, Fort Lee, with the Rev. Paul Noble officiating. Interment was in the family plot in Greenville, Tenn.

Miss Taylor was born in Washington, D. C. She spent her early years in Greenville, Tenn., where she attended Tusculum College. After she received her B. S. degree she taught Latin there and was college librarian.

Later Miss Taylor earned her master's degree from Teachers' College, Columbia University, and came to Leonia where she instructed in Leonia High School.

While teaching at the high school, she initiated a boys' cooking class, which included not only culinary techniques, but emphasized nutritional standards and the social graces of playing host and of serving guests at dinner.

She originated the Christmas Fund, a voluntary student contribution of a penny a day from Thanksgiving to Christmas, for the benefit of anonymous needy causes in the community. The fund later was used for the support of a war orphan.

After her retirement she was active in the social welfare department of the Leonia Woman's Club, and the cancer dressing committee sponsored by that department. She was a member of the Leonia Presbyterian Church, attending Sunday services there until a few weeks before her death.

Mrs. Enos Comstock, speaking for a group of Miss Taylor's associates, paid tribute to her "selfless devotion to her professional duties and her deep interest in humanitarian causes. She was a lover of birds and animals, especially dogs, and her store of stories, sparked with a warm and ready wit, was inexhaustible."

Friends are making contributions to the John W. Voorhis Scholarship Fund for Princeton Theological Seminary students, in her name, through the Rev. Mr. Noble.

There are no immediate survivors.

Lenrow Memorials

The Press Journal regrets that an important sentence was omitted from last week's details of funeral services for the late Nathan (Andy) Lenrow. This was to the effect that the family had requested that those who wished to pay tribute to Mr. Lenrow's memory make the Englewood Hospital the beneficiary. The Hospital has already received several gifts memorializing Mr. Lenrow.

Dinner Scheduled Monday To Fete Players, Coaches

By JOHN HALLIGAN
Unbeaten River Dell and twice-beaten Teaneck each placed three men on the second annual Palisades Newspaper Group All-Star Football Team, announced today by Lindley G. Paskus, PNG president and publisher. The eleven first-team selections, along with 21 others who tied for spots on the second team, will be honored at the PNG All-Star Football Dinner Monday night, Dec. 14, at 7 p.m. at the Tenakill Restaurant, Tenafly.

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation by Paskus of the PNG Most Valuable Player Trophy to the player receiving the most votes in a recent poll of area coaches. Seven schools are represented on the first team of PNG All-Stars, with players from Bergen Catholic, Englewood, Leonia, Bogota and Tenafly joining those from River Dell and Teaneck.

The annual dream team features an extremely powerful line anchored around senior center Bob Schmonsees of River Dell.

Jim Jones of Englewood and Jeff Sawyer of River Dell are two of the finest ends in Bergen history. Both are seniors and naturally, both were favorite targets of talented quarterbacks Frank Burns of Englewood and Harold Phillips of River Dell. Burns and Phillips, were both named to the PNG second team at quarterback.

Two Teaneck boys, Bernie Martin and Dean Haledjian, nailed down the tackle slots and another Teaneck lad, Paul Gombos, made the first team at guard. The trio was mainly responsible for Teaneck's extra string defensive record as the Highwaymen won seven games and lost two for their best record in six seasons. Manny Garcia of Bergen Catholic got the nod at the other guard position, just nipping Al

Alessi of River Dell, Bob Collins of New Milford, and Jason Carle of Cresskill. Schmonsees had it a little easier at center as he beat out Ron Pearce of Old Tappan and George Caggiano of Teaneck. Jones and Sawyer were runaway choices at end. Charlie Rott of St. Cecilia, Bob Sturges of New Milford and John Egan of Bergen Catholic followed in that order.

It was the same story with Martin and Haledjian at tackle as both chalked up sizable margins over Phil Mahalic of Dumont, Karl Gunther of Tenafly and Phil Corrinet of River Dell. Quarterback Dave Barudin of Leonia high nailed down the quarterback slot with a slight edge over River Dell's Phillips. Englewood's Burns, and Joe Mele of Saints.

Barudin's brother, incidentally, was the starting quarterback this past season for Colgate University's varsity team. He also starred for Leonia High. The halfback slots went to Jack Victoris, Bogota High's

The closest battle of all was for the fullback slot, where John Godfrey of Tenafly just edged four other performers, Andy Gunsberg of Teaneck, John Crum of Demarest, John Coppola of Old Tappan and Phil Malberti of Bergenfield.

WHO'LL BE MVP

Hoop Time For EGAC

ENGLEWOOD — The Englewood Girls Athletic Club opened its fifth straight basketball season this past week.

The Girls' A. C., which began in 1960 with a membership of 40 athletes, now includes over 100 members and the first week has already shown an increase with the start of basketball.

Tom Morgan, director of recreation and the City's Recreation Department give full support to the athletic programs of the Girls' A. C. These programs include an all-year round schedule with softball in the summer and basketball in the winter. The Recreation Department provides equipment, gyms, fields and officials for the programs.

The Girls' A. C. includes three different age groups — 11 to 12, 13 to 14 and 15 and over with teams now participating in City Championships along with their annual participation in the Central Bergen League with teams from the Central Bergen County area.

The 15 and over softball team has won the League's softball Championship for the years 1963 and 1964 while the 13 to 14 age group basketball team are the current defending champs.

The 15 and over basketball team meets every Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., as does the 13-14 group. Due to an increase in attendance, however, another night is expected to be added to the schedule. The 11-12 group meets every Saturday afternoon in the Sixth Grade School on Engle Street at 2 p.m.

Grusso, incidentally, had a torn cartilage removed from his knee recently and was released from the hospital the day before Thanksgiving. He's recuperating at his home in Lyndhurst.

Vince Caggiano, of Clinton St., Norwood, won his football letter at Youngstown University in Ohio, despite a broken ankle, which sidelined him in mid-season. He's a halfback.

Joe Martire, 325 Locust St., Teaneck, has completed his first season as coach of the junior varsity team at Haledjian Preparatory Academy. His squad tied for the championship in the Hill Amateur League.

Here's for more doubleheaders in the future.

Up for grabs next Monday night will be the Most Valuable Player Award to be presented to a deserving high school football star at the second annual Palisades Newspaper Group All-Star Football Dinner.

There are candidates galore for the award this year, and we can assure you that the battle was a close one. Practically every team in the area had one or more worthy operatives.

It seems to us that there are more outstanding linemen on the scene than usual this year. Teaneck and River Dell, the two top teams in the area, feature the best linemen around.

Teaneck's two top-flight tackles, Bernie Martin and Dean Haledjian and Paul Gombos, the hard-nosed center, can be given much of the credit for the Big Blue's fine 7-2 record this year.

The same goes for River Dell's powerful front line, spearheaded by end Jeff Sawyer, center Bob Schmonsees and guard Al Alessi.

Englewood's big end, Jim Jones, is another outstanding lineman. Big Jim, a three-sport star, blocked an attempted field goal by St. Cecilia to preserve Englewood's 21-20 decision over Saints Thanksgiving Day.

The PNG first-team backfield is nothing to sneeze at, either. Leonia's talented quarterback, Dave Barudin, hard-running halfbacks, Jack Victoris of Bogota and Jim Hains of River Dell and fullback John Godfrey of Tenafly deserve a round of cheers along with the linemen.

So, there's a veritable bevy of candidates for the MVP Award. Take your pick.

SWIFTEES

Would you say that everything is "A-O-Shea" with Yogi Berra?..Would you say that Johnny Keane was Yank'd from the Cards? Ugh...

Some 375 persons were on hand recently for the first Fall Sports Awards Night at Teaneck High School. "It was a smashing success," Bill Powley, advisor of the sponsoring Varsity Club reports. Football coach Jack Lammers capped the evening by showing films of the Teaneck-Hackensack football game.

"Tis the season to be jolly, but it's also the season to announce collegiate letter winners from our area. Paul Fimbel and John Grusso, co-captains at St. Cecilia last year, both earned recent letters, Fimbel getting his at St. Mary of the Plains, Dodge City, Kansas, and Grusso earning his at Bullis Academy in Maryland.

A NEW IDEA, AND A GOOD ONE

The doubleheader that will open the local basketball season at Englewood High with a bang Dec. 11 is a good one as far as we're concerned.

It's been a long time since a hoop twin bill was played in Bergen, but we're sure the fans will fill the Dwight Morritt gym to capacity to see the twinbill.

Doubleheader Scheduled To Open Raider Season

ENGLEWOOD - A unique doubleheader will kick off the basketball season for three local squads December 11 at the Englewood High School gymnasium, it was announced this week by George Baldwin, Englewood's director of athletics. The twinbill is the first in Bergen County since the early 1940s.

Englewood High, with five lettermen back in camp for the new season, will face a perennially strong Morristown squad in the featured game of the doubleheader at 8:30 p.m.

In the first game, two other local squads, St. Cecilia of Englewood and Ridgefield Park, will clash. The opener is set for a 7:15 p.m. start.

On account of schedule problems, the doubleheader will probably be the only one held this year, Baldwin said. "I think the two games offer local fans a fine opportunity to see four excellent teams in action."

The schedule for Dec. 11: St. Cecilia vs. Ridgefield Park, 7:15 p.m. Englewood vs. Morristown, 8:30 p.m.

OFF - Englewood halfback Tom Drakerford (44) breaks by St. Cecilia guard Frank Casey (63) during recent game between two clubs. Englewood won, 21-20.

New Milford Quintet Is Favored for Title

NEW MILFORD - Lettermen Sturges and Ken Schwartz are two of the main reasons why New Milford High School's varsity basketball squad is being picked to meet Manchester regional this year in the race for the championship of the win County Conference. Sturges, having put away his football cleats (he was a star on the Knight gridiron), could be the key man in the attack for coach Joe McGrath's club.

A 6-1 center, Sturges marked up 192 points last year. Schwartz also hit for over 100 points in 1963-64 when he connected on 117 markers.

Another returnee is Mike Arcore, a 5-6 guard. He'll probably nail down one of the starting posts with Sturges and Schwartz.

The rest of the spots may go to any of the following: Glenn Ashworth, Steve Grund, Dan Elefante, Steve Messina, Ray Uzzi and Lou DeMola.

Saints Dinner Fetes Gridders

ENGLEWOOD - The Fathers Club of St. Cecilia High School sponsored the annual football banquet honoring the school team Tuesday evening, at the Suburban Restaurant, Paramus. Jack McMullen, formerly of the University of Notre Dame and currently playing with the Jersey Giants of the Atlantic Coast Football League, was the guest speaker at the affair. Jerry Malloy of St. Peter's College served as master of ceremonies. Co-chairmen of the affair were Ed Labels and Nick Cardaccia.

Local Swimmers Score for 'Y'

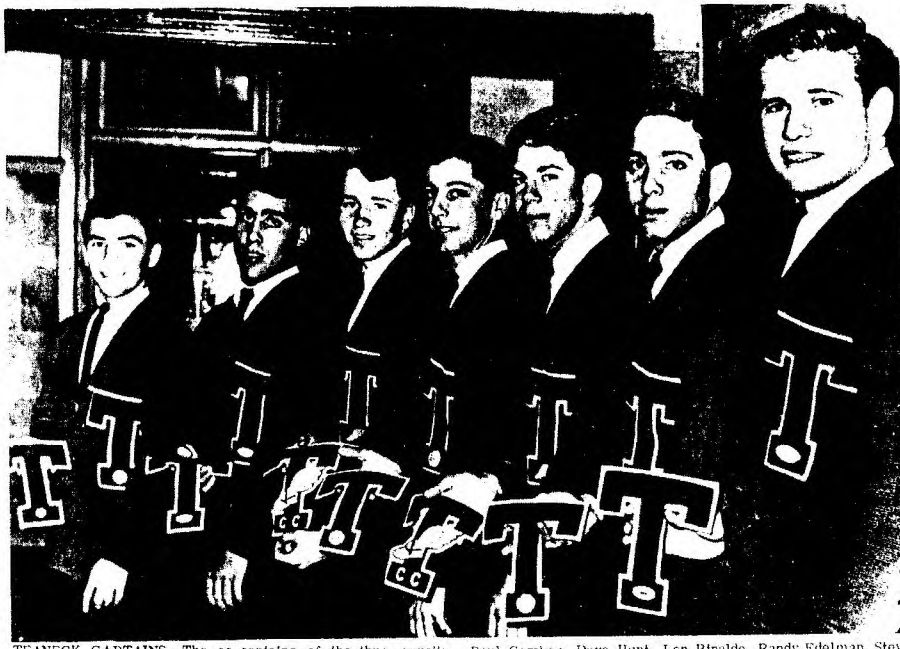

HACKENSACK - Several Central Bergen YMCA swimmers won honors at the AAU age group swim meets over the last weekend.

Buster Chabza of Teaneck placed second in two freestyle events at Trenton and Flushing. John Iozanba of New Milford took third place in the eight years and under freestyle at the North Virginia Aquatic Club. He raced against contestants from all over the country.

Doug Rice of Tenafly placed third in the ten years and under diving competition held at Perth Amboy.

The YMCA swim team, coached by Larry Mott, has started a girls team for the current season. In addition to their regular boys competition.

Awards were presented to the varsity team by head coach Ralph Cavallucci and athletic director the Rev. Aidan Butler, O. Carm.

Mites, Hawks, Blues in In Mat Tournament

Bergenfield, River Dell and two teams from Teaneck will battle with four other teams Dec. 19 for the championship of the ninth annual Teaneck Novice Wrestling Tournament at Teaneck High School.

Three sessions, all open to spectators have been setup for the tournament. All contestants will weigh in between 8 and 9 a.m.

Stynchula And James Speakers

Defensive tackle Andy Stynchula and running back Dick James will be the featured speakers Monday night at the second annual Palisades Newspaper Group All-Star Football Dinner.

The dinner begins at 7 p.m. in the Tenakill Restaurant, Tenafly.

Stynchula and James are newcomers to the Giants, arriving in New York after the 1963 season in the celebrated deal with the Washington Redskins.

The pair will give short talks to the guests at the dinner; hold a short question and answer period; and distribute the first and second team certificates.

Stynchula is a graduate of Penn State University while James matriculated at Oregon State.

Last year, two other Giants, Roosevelt Brown and Hugh McElheny spoke at the PNG dinner.

Tenafly Mets Rename Ullrich as Manager

TENAFLY - The executive board of the Tenafly Mets gave a vote of confidence to field manager Warren Ullrich of Harrington Park, when he was named manager of the local nine last week for the third straight year.

This will be Ullrich's fourth year with the club, and he is the only remaining charter member. The search for new talent is still on the manager's mind since he needs improvement in power hitting, better pitching, and a few defensive gaps plugged in order to gain the crown. Ullrich is interested in any additions which could help the orange and blue clad locals for the coming season, all new players will be given an equal opportunity in making the club.

Ullrich has not named the coaching staff for the coming year, but it is believed to be unchanged. Mickey Spaulding of Bergenfield, in his first year with the Mets, did an outstanding job along with Charlie Wilson of Tenafly. Len Grebla will return to the position of player representative or team captain next season, Ullrich has announced.

The executive board of the Mets will announce the additions to the executive board for the coming season, this year the Mets will add more manpower to add to the further expansion of the filled activities.

Ullrich's one plea to the executive board was given approval when he asked that the Mets apply for a franchise in the North Jersey League in addition to their competitive schedule in the Bergen County Baseball League. If approved, the Mets will play some forty to fifty games this summer.

BOWLING Around BERGEN

Steve Villandre was 15 years old when he won the Junior Scholastic Golden Pins in 1959. He was only bowling three years at the time and had a 194 overall average. In the ensuing years he has experienced the feeling of a non-ABC sanctioned perfect game. He bowled a 300 game in open bowling at Bowler City.

Last week on Lanes 29 and 30 at Roosevelt Lanes in Jersey City, Steve Villandre, threw 12 consecutive strikes for his second perfect game, but this time in the Bernotas 3-Star Classic League, which is ABC sanctioned.

Villandre who lives in New Milford with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Villandre added a 259 tally for a 967 total over the four game route. "My only regret was that I wasn't wearing my Hilton shirt, you know they kick in with a $1000 for a perfect game."

Low Pastre, who had gone along with Steve to Jersey City, made mention that Steve might have felt a bit pressured and this got the most out of him. Low said, Jim Deedy and Carl Flotsburg, his regular teammates, had called Steve earlier at Best Trucking Co., Hackensack, where he works, to beg off for the night. Steve was able to get Rick Spring and Clint Taylor to substitute for him.

The American Bowling Congress will present Villandre with a ring and the Hudson County Bowling Association will give him a gold watch. Roosevelt Lanes will present him with a clock and the memory of that night will always be treasured.

Villandre over the years has shown great potential but his bowling has not been consistent enough to make him a contender in big tournaments. Steve was so sure of this that he believed he needed to get more rolling. I'm going to concentrate on bowling for the next year like a fighter training for a fight, once every night I need to come up with top scores, but against the top bowlers you must be consistent and steady."

Steve also bowls in the Le-Mat Traveling Team with Len Deedy, Carl Flotsburg, Ronny Basso and Frank Lohrster, who greeted him at Bowler City with a round of applause as he threw his first ball. This was then one of the best bowling perfect game and hoping to inspire another one.

Steve didn't quite come through with another perfect game the morning after the perfect night. "I bowled a 170 the next morning, but I'll never forget it," after Steve told her of the perfect game.

Guiliano's Performance Stuns Leonia Audience

By Dr. Lowell Matson
(Director, Fairleigh Dickinson University Theatre)

LEONIA—Let no one cast sneebish stones against our little theatres, for when the touting stock companies disappeared from America it was the intrepid amateurs who kept the theatrical art alive in America's far flung communities.
One of those groups, the 46 year old Players' Guild of Leonia, opened a stimulating production of "A Far Country" at Davidson Hall last Friday and worthily upheld the best in that little theatre tradition.

Henry Denker's laudly constructed three act drama deals with a short period in the life of the Viennese neurologist Sigmund Freud just at the time when he was groping through a labyrinth of ignorance and superstition to discover the psychic method we know as psy-choanalysis. We share Freud's painful journey as he discovers the key to release his own class ically famous woman patient from the burden of guilt which caused a hysterically seated paralysis of her legs.

In his lonely journey into the "far country" of the mind Freud is dramatically supported by the love and faith of his wife, Martha.
His Viennese colleague, Dr.
Joseph Breuer, voices the Jeopardy to which Freud, as a Jew and a medical revolutionary, exposes his career by flying in the face of violent opposition from the reactionaries in medicine and from the know-nothings among the lay.

Interpreting the leading characters are four outstanding performers. As Martha Freud, the wife, Sidney Unsworth gives a skillful and warm performance which tastefully avoids spilling over into a tempting, but naive-ous, bathos. Frank Janelli's depiction of Dr. Joseph Breuer is sure and authoritative and competently contrasts with the younger and rasher Freud. In the role of Elizabeth von Ritter actress Tessa Edward is moving as she creates the difficult characterization of the paralytic who resists revealing her intolerable guilt feelings.

But it is Peter Guilliano's recreation of the personality of one of the world's truly authentic geniuses that is the piece de resistance of the evening. He is volatile, bullish, sweet, obsessed, angry, or tender on call.

One audience member was overheard commenting: "I haven't seen as brilliant a performance by a 20 year old actor since Lee J. Cobb began his career in character roles some thirty years ago." This reviewer heartily concurs.

These four actors are supported by a group of little theatre stalwarts who include Michael Karp, Jack Hagman, Beatrice Schultz, Linda Winokur, and especially Raquel Funes-Grin-berg who breathes life into the role of the anything but servile maid, a kind of role too often thanklessly filled from the trash can in casting.

serves real credit for his firm, understanding direction and for pulling off one of those minor miracles in spite of the vagaries of little theatre producing.

Designer John Stenken and his crew have come up with a setting of professional caliber which provides a convincing, well appointed environment for the action, and the production is smartly costumed.

It was here in America that Freud's work took its deepest root and it is fitting that this play has generated wide American interest. "A Far Country" will be repeated at Davidson
Hall on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 11-12, and this the production deserves the support of all followers of good theatre in its community.

The finest versions are seen,
not heard; they live in the lives of men and women.

LILITH, whose name has come down since biblical times as the mythical temptress, is brought up to date on the screen in a haunting and provocative study of mental disorder. With Warren Beatty as her co-star, Jean Seberg is alternately captivating and shocking in a demanding role. The Robert Rossen production opens Wednesday at the Linwood Theatre in Fort Lee.

Young Catholic Adults Elect 1965 Officers

The Young Catholic Adults of Bergen County recently elected a complete staff of officers for 1964-65, including Sal Adirente of Rochelle Park, president; Miss Janet Murphy of Oradell, vice-president; James Newton of Bergenfield, treasurer; Miss Paula Corra of Washington Township, recd. secretary; Miss Betty Corbett of Oradell, corr. secretary; and Miss Marian Roemlein of New Milford, membership chairman.

At a recent meeting, Mr. Adirente announced definite arrangements have been made for the ski weekend Jan. 29-30-31 to be held in the Adirondacks with reservations to be at the Gideon Putnam Hotel in Saratoga Springs. There are still a few openings.

The organization was founded, first, to encourage continuance of spiritual devotion, and second, to promote interest of young Catholics in social activities. Membership is open to all young Catholics 23 years of age and older. The Rev. Martin Lee, curate in St. Theresa's Church in Cresskill is moderator. The group meets there the first Sunday of the month at 8:30 p.m. and on the 3rd Sunday at the Club 50 in Tenafly.

Among the spiritual activities are monthly Communion breakfasts every 4th Sunday following the 10:30 Mass at St. Theresa's, and annual weekend retreats.

Social activities include a monthly cocktail party every 2nd Sunday at The Rounders, and monthly dance at the K. of C. Hall in Englewood. Sports activities consist of a bowling league held on every Tuesday evening at Bowlerland in Englewood, indoor tennis and skiing.

Show Historical Items At A Hackensack Bank

HACKENSACK - A display of items of County historical interest is being shown at the main office of the Hackensack Trust. The display was assembled and mounted by Alfred R. Vogt Sr. of 28 Sheffield ave., Englewood.

It consists of a map showing the location of the plantation and the residence of Dr. Johannes Van Emburgh in New Barbadoes Township which included Hackensack in the year 1688, and documents showing how Dr. Van Emburgh came into possession of the land and the subsequent transfer of part of the property to his son.

According to tradition, Dr. Van Emburgh's house is believed to be the first residential dwelling in Hackensack. He is also said to be the first doctor in Bergen County.

The map drawn by Mr. Vogt shows that Dr. Van Emburgh's property comprised a large section in downtown Hackensack extending from Hudson st. to Main and Mercer, and including the present site of the courthouse and other municipal buildings. The doctor's home was built right on the creek which bore his name, and which was filled in a few years before the courthouse and county jail were built there in 1910. The Colonial names of thoroughfares are indicated - Bergen Turnpike County's rd., now Hudson st.; Kings rd., Common rd., the road to Orange Turnpike; now Main st.

The exhibit includes a deed from Garret Van Dien to Dr. Van Emburgh, dated Nov. 20, 1696, conveying the upper part of the plantation to him, and a deed dated March 20, 1699 in which Lorraine Ackerman transfers the lower half of the property to Lodewich Ackerman, who in turn conveys it to Dr. Van Emburgh.

A third document is a deed dated June 9, 1751, from Gyskert Van Emburgh, acting as executor and administrator of his father's estate, transferring Lot 3 on the property to his brother, Dr. William Sanford Van Emburgh.

List Savings For Sr. Citizens

Taxpayers 65 years old and older will find additional tax savings as a result of the tax bill of 1964.

Of particular benefit are the minimum standard deduction, and the removal of the one per cent floor on medicine and drug expenses.

Other benefits include tax free treatment in certain cases for gains in the sale of residences and an election increasing the computation base on retirement income credit for certain taxpayers.

None of the 11 million older taxpayers previously exempt from filing a return will have to file a return under the new law.

Electric LIVING GUIDE

Total Electric Heat Is Modern

FOREVER SUMMER

"Sure I can take a blast of icy air now and then... but on the ski slopes."

"At home I'm as demanding as a cranky millionaire. That's why we turned to electric heat. No roaring drafts, no hot spots... in fact no trouble at all. Just comfort a la carte." And the young lawyer who said that, it seems, was voicing the main reason for the unexpectedly large upswing to electric home heating systems.

"We had assumed naturally that the ever-lowering costs of electricity, as fuel were proving a powerful attraction," said a utility company spokesman. "But it seems the very excellence of electricity heating systems - and the unexcelled comfort they provide - is the real reason people are going for it."

"There are now over two million homes in the country with electrical heating... that's way ahead of expectations when you realize most of them are within the past three and a half years."

QUESTION BOX

- Q. How long does it take electrical radiators to warm up?
- A. Electrically is instant. There's no wait. The warming starts the instant you flip the switch.
- Q. Is it possible to heat an outdoor patio? What gave me the idea was one cold night I came out of a modernized Broadway theater. Everybody under that marquee was basking but just beyond it people were shivering.
- A. If you really wanted it, yes. Consult the contractor who provided your home electrical heating system. The heat-the-outdoors equipment is also made by manufacturers of home heating equipment.
- Q. What is the correct placement for a thermostat?
- A. About five feet from the floor is the general practice for height. Other factors the experts take into consideration are: Do not place it in direct line with the door leading to the outdoors. Do not place it where it will receive the direct rays of the sun. Do not put it too close to the source of the room's heat.
- Q. Are all electrical baseboards of a uniform size? Some at an airport looked big to me.
- A. This covers a lot of ground. For residential use "standard baseboard" height is adhered to, and manufacturers provide a wide assortment of lengths, corner pieces, etc., providing unlimited freedom of selection to fit a given home's varying needs.
- Now, electrical heating is also widely used for commercial structures and public buildings... and though the principals are the same different sizes of equipment may be indicated. For example, the huge O'Hare Field in Chicago is entirely heated by electricity and that means the terminal, the concourse buildings, the restaurant buildings and all connecting links. For some of the walkways, custom designed baseboards, nearly double the height of home-type were used. But then each floor to ceiling space is about the height of a two-story residence.
- Q. How do I find out if a house with electrical heating is what you'd call "Gold Medalion"?
- A. Ask. If it is, the seller will be pretty proud of it, and most likely show you where the Medalion has been tucked. Maybe it's been incorporated into a door knocker, or mail box. But the most important thing, if you're buying, is to get the actual certificate. It should be turned over to you with the deed.
