Forbes Loses 10 Votes in Recount, No Change in Peacos-Calvo Contest

A contest of the legality of absentee ballots may become Chapter Three in Somerset's Election Saga of 1955.

The County Board of Elections closed the books on Chapter Two Monday with a recount of 108 voting machines that failed to reverse any of five challenges.

Only one mistake was discovered, this in Somerville's 4th District, that credited State Senator Malcolm S. Forbes with 10 more votes than he should have been given. Thus, his victory over Democrat Charles W. Engelhard was narrowed to 360 votes.

Arthur S. Meredith, Democratic County Chairman, said after the recount that several applications for absentee ballots in Franklin Township might be illegal because they were not signed or stamped properly by a notary.

"At this point, they're questionable," he said.

Two of the absentee ballots were not signed in the proper place, he said, holding out the possibility that Democrat Michael Peacos still might win the election or end up in a tie with Republican Cesarino Calvo, who was declared the winner by two votes in the election for Township Committee.

Mr. Meredith had not decided yesterday whether the matter would be pressed in court if it goes to court, the Election Story will have its third chapter. Candidates have until Dec. 8, 30 days after the election, to file complaints.

Other contesting election results Monday were M. Steve Gabryelski, defeated Council President of Manville, who lost his seat to Paul Sulla, Republican, by 37 votes; Raritan police, who lost a referendum for a salary raise by an 833-833 vote deadlock; Robert Billian and Joseph Baranski, Republican and Democrat candidates for Bound Brook Borough Council, who lost to Democrat William Gehring and Republican Frank De Lisi.

George Sopko of Manville, chairman of the County Board of Elections, was in charge of the recount.

SCOUTMASTER NEEDED FOR MIDDLEBUSH PACK

Wanted: One Cub Scoutmaster for Cub Pack 7, which meets in Middlebush School on Tuesdays from 7 to 8 p.m.

The Pack, undergoing re-organization, is supervised by Mrs. Fred F. Brown Jr., Mrs. Stanley Zotto, Mrs. Carl Hallengren and Mrs. Joseph W. Lushan.

On the PTA sponsoring committee are Mr. Brown, Mrs. Peter Hutnick, Mrs. James McClure and Mr. Hallengren.

Boys from eight to 11 years old are eligible for membership.

Inoculation Plan Outlined by MDs

Plans to coordinate municipal programs to administer State-supplied Salk anti-polio vaccine were outlined Sunday at a joint meeting of Board of Health men from 12 Somerset municipalities and a committee from the Somerset County Medical Society in the County Administration building.

The society, which has offered to administer the shots in municipal clinics without cost, called the meeting to organize details for each community.

Tentative clinic dates have been set for two areas. South Bound Brook's clinic will give shots Nov. 30, Montgomery Township on Dec. 1.

Dr. J. L. Spaldo, president of the medical group, proposed that the municipalities name three or four men to coordinate their timetables. Three full-time health officers, Everett Ross of Somerville, Walter Debiec of North Plainfield and John McGuinness of Bernardsville, were proposed for the assignment.

Dr. Harry Abramson of Somerville, Dr. Gene Ross of Bound Brook, Dr. Harold Wender of South Bound Brook and Dr. Spaldo are the society's polo committee.

Deadline Jan. 31

Dr. Spaldo explained that society members will contribute their services to administer two inoculations in the program between now and the Jan. 31 deadline for State-supplied vaccine. He did not commit the doctors to inject a free booster shot six or seven months after the second one.

He also made it clear that the society does not plan to make a general practice of providing free clinic services for Salk Centers. He compared the services being offered this time to the work doctors performed when diphtheria and smallpox inoculations first were given.

"We're just cooperating this time. Maybe we'll get a couple

MORE TOYS STILL NEEDED BY WELFARE DEPARTMENT

Mrs. May Hobbs, Township welfare director, told The News Tuesday that the Christmas drive for toys for needy children was coming along very well. She asked, however, that residents continue bringing toys to her, as still more are needed.

Army Completes Flood Survey

Results of a flood damage survey made in Somerset County by the Corps of Army Engineers will be made available to the County, the Board of Freeholders was told by County Engineer Frank E. Hamler at their meeting Friday.

The 10-day study, completed Wednesday by Alfred Burger and Larry Mender of the Army Engineers, will be used in considering any request by the county for immediate flood relief.

The Freeholders approved Prosecutor Leon Gerofsky's appointment of State Trooper Gino Conti as a county detective at an annual salary of $4,200.

In response to a question by Director Robert L. Adams, the prosecutor said Detective Capt. Paul Bellocchio is continuing with his regular duties as well as acting as county traffic coordinator.

Somerset's part in the recent Civil Defense test, "Operation Muster" was praised in a memo received by Thomas S. Dignan, Acting State CD Director.

The board referred to its budget committee a request that $61,061, the same amount as in 1954, be allotted for child welfare care in 1955.

WATER MAIN REPAIRED ON HAMILTON STREET

Repair of a water main break on Hamilton Street across from Brookline Avenue was completed about 1 a.m. yesterday. The pipe had broken about 7 p.m. Tuesday. Township water department maintenance men Ernest Babo and Fletcher Cuddy, assisted by H. C. Maurer of New Brunswick and his trench digging machine, made the repairs.

LOCAL MEN INDUCTED

Among the 14 area men inducted into the Armed Forces Nov. 7 and sent to Newark for assignment were George Kirby of Kingston and Ralph Aaronsen of RD Princeton.

School Board Turns Down Pleas To Put Beginners on Full-Day Session

Amendments Put In Plumbing Code

Local plumbers and builders sat in a smoke-filled room in Township Hall Tuesday evening to argue the pros and cons of amendments to a proposed plumbing code scheduled for its third hearing by the Township Committee tomorrow night.

The master plumber's license, costing $225 as written in the code, was reduced to $100 and the renewal certificate was raised from $15 to $20.

A provision added to the proposed code stipulates that a master plumber licensed in another area will be able to work in the Township on applying for and receiving a special $50 permit from the plumbing inspector.

Under an amendment to section 4, the plumbing license examination fee will not go to the examining board, as previously agreed.

Examination fees were reduced from $15 to $10 for a maintenance plumber, while the initial license fee was changed, from $25 to $15, and renewal from $10 to $5.

The staff of the Township Board of Examining Plumbers came under scrutiny and change, too. One master plumber, instead of two, is now required, with two lay members added to the group.

A group of approximately 20 critical parents, whose children attend the Beginners' Class in Phillips School, came to the Board of Education meeting Monday night to protest that the newly-instituted double session was working an educational hardship on their children.

Their objections, overruled by the board were outlined by B of E vice-president George A. Spiro, who had met with the group in Franklin Park School recently.

Mr. Spiro said the group contended: "1. A two and one-half hour day is not enough from an educational standpoint; 2. The schoolroom is large enough to have 35 children in the class; 3. The short session is a burden on parents who work and can not be home when the children are scheduled to leave or arrive."

Superintendent of Schools James Lynch said that from "an educational standpoint, 25 children in a class is the maximum." He also cited Township practices of the past three years which have doubled up sessions when the 25-pupil maximum has been reached.

Mr. Spiro added that "ninety percent of all Beginner Classes in the State are on a two and one-half hour session."

Fink Approves

Board member Kenneth Fink, the only official to approve the parents' demands, said there were "mitigating circumstances."

Mr. Fink claimed that parents were notified of the double session only a few days before it started. "They were confused and could not keep up with all the

Morhart to Seek Approval to Hire Probation Officer for Juvenile Cases

Somerset's Chief Probation Officer John A. Morhart will ask the County Court to approve appointment of a full-time officer to handle juvenile cases, he told The News Friday. The formal request will be made next week.

"The county is growing. Other work has expanded so that we don't have enough time to spend on juvenile cases," he explained.

Several PTAs have asked the Board of Freeholders to engage a juvenile expert. The latest request came Friday morning from Hamilton School PTA in Franklin Township.

Mr. Morhart said the next step after gaining approval of the judges will be to ask the Freeholders to allocate funds in the 1956 budget for the new employee.

The County Probation Office now has only two officers on its staff, Mr. Morhart and Donald Kohler, the latter holding a temporary appointment pending completion of Civil Service examinations.

The new officer will be selected from a Civil Service list now being made of eligible applicants.

REHEARSAL TOMORROW FOR COMMUNITY CHORUS

The next rehearsal of the Community Chorus of Franklin Park will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the home of Dr. & Mrs. John Small of Lincoln Highway.

At a meeting last Friday, Mrs. A. S. Westcott was elected chairman; Mrs. Colin Lancaster, secretary; Fred Brannan, treasurer; and Oiden Small and Mrs. A. Dennis, executive board members.

MISS HART HAS ROLE IN HOSPITAL PAGEANT

Miss Nancy Hart, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. J. F. B. Hart of Wortman Street, East Millstone, has been chosen from among nursing students in Middlesex General Hospital for a part in their "History of Nursing" recruiting pageant.

The pageant was presented for the first time Nov. 13 in the Roosevelt Tuberculosis Center before county hospital executives. Twenty-nine other future performers will be given in high schools to induce students to take up nursing as a career.

Frankly Speaking

It's Turkey Time . . . time for turning off the Early, Early, Early Show and sitting back in the old rocking chair with lights turned low . . . Time for somber and sober review . . . Time for remembering the good things in life we Americans enjoy . . . Time to remember our blessings and realize how much they overpower our gripes . . . Time to feel especially proud how this Land of Freedom has withstood the fierce onslaughts of oppression to maintain the dignity of the human being as opposed to the paramountcy of the state.

Dig into the stuffing and the cranberry sauce, gobble the gobbler's tender meat or chop your way around a luscious drumstick . . . wash it down with muscatel, cider, or your favorite brew of coffee or tea . . . and then consider what a lucky guy you are to be dreaming your dreams, working at your job, praying to your God, voting the way you like in Uncle Samland—where a man doesn't get shot for not being a conformist to a party line.

Now don't be smug, muchacho . . . don't give us a cynical snarl . . . and don't try to bust up this monologue with the whitewash that we're waving the flag—because we are, and at a time like this you'll have to provide plenty of evidence that it's wrong to do so . . . Wipe off the smirk, boy, get down to the basics of Americana, and you'll wind up with a smile and a new outlook on life.

Do you have a job? . . . Well just remember that no one is forcing you to work in any given place. You can stay or you can leave, and if you think that's not freedom then just remember that in some countries lots of people work only where and when the government tells them.

Got any religion, eh? . . . If you do, it's your own private business, and the same goes if you don't . . . But just remember that Uncle Sam won't tolerate any mugs telling people they can't worship God the way they please.

Did you vote on Nov. 2? . . . If you didn't you missed a thrill of thousands millions of people in other countries would like to experience . . . and we mean going to vote and having a choice of candidates instead of a single list for which you had better make your affirmative mark!

Have you ever gone to a meeting of your local government? . . . If you haven't, then just remember you don't need an engraved invitation. And when you get there, bear in mind that during the time set aside for public hearing you can criticize your governors without fear of being escorted to a cell for treason against the state. Try this in Moscow, or a few other places we can mention, and you'll see what we mean by freedom and Thanksgiving.

What paper do you read, what radio or tv station do you listen to? . . . The answer is easy, but . . . You take yer choice, and no government agency is telling the editorial staff or the airwave crews what to feed you . . . And no reporters or editors are thrown in jail, or presses shut down, because a newsmen disagrees with some guys in power. If you don't think that's something to think about on Thanksgiving, just try screaming against legislative mugs in Minsk or Prague.

Give a good look around your friend . . . Ask the gal for another drumstick—and be happy you are where you are.

A couple of the county's more politically astute observers claim they have the angles all figured out when it comes to the Governor, the vice-presidential nomination and Miss T.

New Jersey's handsome and unmarried Chief Executive, they say, will wait until a week before the Democratic Convention before letting it be known that he and Margaret have decided they are meant for each other. The tremendous popular reaction to this romantic turn of events will, of course, make Bob a shoo-in for the nomination.

After that coup the problem of getting Adlai and Bob to Washington will be no problem at all, according to imaginative dopesters. How can the Democrats lose, they ask, with a campaign team that would see Harry at the piano, Margaret doing the vocals, Adlai as the comedian and Governor Bob playing straight man?

And as if that weren't enough, our informants say the plan has still another angle guaranteed to make the Democratic National Committee delirious with joy. Such a talented quartet could pack Madison Square Garden with paying customers, thereby underwriting the cost of the national campaign and leaving the mundane money worries to the Republicans.

A couple of weeks ago Paul Farley, the Branchburg Township committeeman, paid a visit to the Board of Freeholders. Last week he told fellow solons all about it. As usual, the colorful Paul minced no words. What impressed him most about the Freeholder meeting was the role played by Chester Van Tine, veteran clerk of the board.

"It's that Chester who knows what's going on," said Paul. "It's Chester who tells them fellows the answer."

One municipality where there is certain to be a big change come Jan. 1 is Bridgewater. At least in the excitement of the State Senate race was the fact that James Dobson — a "minority" member of the Bridgewater Township Committee — was swept back into office as high man on the Republican ticket. The next day a jury, which had sat through a 14-day trial, ruled that Township Attorney Arthur Tuttle had no cause for action in his $200,000 slander suit against Dobson.

Tuttle, the ex-mayor who left his seat on the Township Committee last Dec. 31 after being defeated for renomination, and then returned to the Municipal Building Jan. 1 as municipal attorney, was seen as the real man to beat in the Nov. 8 election since he was still the fair-haired boy of the Committee's three-man majority.

The defeat of Bob Byrne, a Tuttle-backed candidate, and the election of Dobson and his running mate, C. Norman Thompson, will shift the control of power on the governing body next year. And if there is one thing certain, it is that Tuttle will be out of a job.

Mayor Quintin Van der Veer, one of Tuttle's boys at least up until now, isn't expected to offer much, if any, opposition to the regime. Van is up for reelection next year and he likes being a township committeeman. Since it doesn't take a tornado — just a mild hurricane — for him to see which way the wind is blowing, Van would just as soon forget about past alliances and drift along with the current political breezes in Bridgewater.

The election returns in Bridgewater and the outcome of his slander suit are seen as the finale to Tuttle's political career. When he started out in politics five years ago Tuttle faced the prospects of a bright political future. As a young lawyer with considerable practical experience in local politics and government, Tuttle was the sort of timber from which Republican Assembly candidates and such are made. The whole trouble is that Art got the idea before anyone else.

The conversation in some political circles is that Freeholder Bob Adams may follow John Vignita into retirement. Some of the political weather vane claim Bob'll finish his current term without seeking re-election.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS ATTEND WORKSHOP SESSION

Township Board of Education members attended the annual school board workshop, sponsored by the State Federation of District Boards of Education, in the Hotel Chalfonte in Atlantic City recently.

Panel sessions covered school board policies, new construct on planning, school board meeting practices and procedures, public school relations, teaching of foreign languages in elementary schools, school finance, the education of the mentally handicapped and school finances.

Attending from the Township were Dr. C. Rexford Davis, board president; Leonard Bardsley, Kenneth Fink, John Kelly, Mrs. Catherine Pattison, George Spiro, Arthur Westneat, Superintendent of Schools James M. Lynch and board secretary Mrs. Florence Randolph.

THE PATCH TESTS GIVEN IN 3 TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS

Children in the Middlebush, Phillips, Kingston and Pine Grove Manor schools received tuberculosis patch test last Monday from school nurses Mrs. Norman Yingling and Mrs. Mathias Zimmerman.

The patches, given to pre-1st, 8th Graders, and all new students, were removed Wednesday.

Mrs. Zimmerman announced she will give the tests to children in the Hamilton and East Millstone schools on Monday, Nov. 28.

PENNY SALE SCHEDULED BY E. M. FIRE AUXILIARY

The Ladies Auxiliary of the East Millstone Fire Company will hold a penny sale Dec. 8 in the firehouse.

Editor, The News:

I have noted your editorial which appeared in The News on November 10, in which you say: "Though Senator H. Alexander Smith and Representative Peter Frellinghuysen have been thunderously silent about about flood control preparations heretofore, we can be thankful that Senator Case has recognized the potential danger to this section of the State."

Apparently you have not received the various press releases which I have issued on the sub-

For your information, I am enclosing copies of various statements I have issued on these topics and wish you to know that I have been and will continue to be seriously concerned about the problem of flood control.

As a matter of fact, I have been in touch with Senator Malcolm Forbes about these matters and am planning to introduce legislation at the next session of Congress which will be specifically directed toward implementing flood control programs in Somerset County.

Don't Become a Traffic Statistic!

If you're not in the habit of watching your speedometer very often, if you like to do a lot of daydreaming when you're behind the wheel, if your pedestrian habits are a bit careless, if you like to mix whiskey with gasoline—if any of these traits fit you, now is as good a time as any to make a resolution to change your way of living.

A statewide safety campaign got under way this week and it will lead right into a nationwide crusade on Dec. 1 and continue through the end of the year. The object of this movement by Federal, State, county and municipal officials is to take a concentrated whack at the bloody toll which Americans leave on the roadways every year. Since December, with its bad weather and holiday spirit, is a most dangerous period of the year, the State campaign and National S-D (Safe Driving) Day on Dec. 1 and the four weeks that follow are attuned to a well-turned query: "Will You Be Home for Christmas?"

The answer to the question is most obvious to the average person, because the average person wants to get home every day, including Christmas. However, while the inquiry might draw an immediate response, something more than words is necessary to fulfill the desire. The man, woman or child who has a real hankering to stay alive for the holidays and thereafter must do something on his own accord to insure his own existence.

Of course, it's a sad commentary that safety weeks and safety slogans must be such a common part of our lives, but they are justified—because some people just can't give a hoot about other people and they have to be overpowered with propaganda to make them understand the necessity for avoiding murder on the roadways. Editorials like this merely constitute another barrage in the direction of the hot rod, the tipsy driver, the careless pedestrian—the folks who should never leave their porches but do.

The files of U.S. statistics on highway mishaps that never should be classified as accidents probably could make a pyre that would burn for a year without interruption. Police departments and insurance companies are loaded with these dry computations, and so are cemeteries. Without digging up a batch of digits, let it suffice to say the bodies lost on our roadways are worse than any war toll ever recorded.

While it's a shame there must be safety campaigns, let's make the most of it—and ourselves. Drive carefully, walk carefully, and you'll have a good chance to be home tonight and on Christmas.

The Microscope On Communism

By Dr. Alexander S. Balinsky
Specialist in Russian Affairs and Economics, Rutgers University

There are two principal factors underlying Soviet policy in the Middle East.

The obvious one is that the Soviets have a world to gain by inciting more trouble anywhere on the globe.

It is the less obvious 2nd factor which deserves special mention. The Soviet leaders are not afraid of Israel but of Zionism, and there is a difference between these two. Israel is a nation. Zionism is an ideology which embraces many more adherents than the population of Israel.

No Competition

There is nothing the Soviet leaders fear more than a competing ideology. Any movement or cause which absorbs the interest of people and takes them away from possible communist converts is anathema to the communists.

From the communist point of view, the Jewish minority in the world already has been a very useful tool. Whether world Jewry liked it or not, the communists became its spokesmen, shedding crocodile tears over the 'persecution' of the Jew in the capitalist sector of the world. In return for this sympathy, a certain segment of world Jewry either joined or sympathized with the communists.

As long as Zionism was just a dream, the communists could afford to speak in its behalf, as they did at one time. Israel turned a dream into a reality, while at the same time turning communists into anti-Zionists. Jews who once looked to communism as a possible solution began to look to Zionism and the political democracy of Israel instead.

Zionism, its strength bolstered by a homeland, began to compete for the interest, allegiance and funds of world Jewry. The Jewish minority was becoming a less useful tool in the service of the communists. A Jew could not be a Zionist and a communist at the same time.

A New Attack

It was at this point that the Soviet leaders began a now open, now hidden campaign against Zionism. The Kremlin coined a new word: Cosmopolitan. It was an epithet thrown upon those who saw any good coming out of Zionism or Israel. Jews living in the Soviet Union found this epithet a line difficult to accept. For years they had been led to believe that the Soviet regime was dedicated to the task of undoing all the persecution which history has heaped upon the Jews.

Instead, the Jews living in the Soviet Union find the following to be the case: Beginning Oct. 23, 1955, a wave of arrests and searches of Jewish homes has been going on in Moscow, Leningrad and other cities of the USSR. All Jews found possessing Jewish literature, especially in Yiddish, were rounded up and jailed. At least 30 Jews were jailed in Moscow alone.

The Soviet government hopes to wipe out Zionism wherever it might exist in the world. The Soviet leaders regret deeply the loss of a minority group whose problems and hardships lent themselves so well to exploitation in behalf of the communist cause. And since Zionism derives much of its strength from the existence of a homeland—Israel—the Soviet Union aims at doing what it can to destroy Israel. If the Soviet Union can succeed in its present policy of arming the Arabs so that it is the Arabs who destroy Israel, so much the better from the Soviet point of view.

The Art of Cookery

A housewife in the course of the day is called upon to fulfill numerous functions. She is a charwoman, mechanic, doctor, social worker, and heaven knows what else. But in really only one of her multifarious roles is she an artist. And that is when she cooks.

The recipes in the slick paper magazines talk a lot about "subtle blendings of flavors." However, the average American palate is not capable of experiencing super-delicate flavors any more than the average American ear is capable of distinguishing between the sound created by a hi-fi set costing $500 and that created by one costing $700.

The really clever menu planner will count upon a "subtle blending of textures" to make her meal a success. It is surprising how much of what we call taste really depends on feel. We like a salad with spaghetti or stew because we need the contrast between the mushy main course and the sharp coolness of raw greens. Vanilla ice cream covered with chocolate sauce is good, but a hot fudge sundae is better because the difference between the hot and the cold adds a piquancy that is otherwise lacking.

Many a bride is frightened to death at the prospect of baking her first pie. She has been told for years that pie is terribly difficult, that the delicate touch required for perfect pastry takes years to acquire. Well, it may take years to become adept, but there is no reason why the first pie should not be a good one.

Pastry is another example of a foodstuff that depends for its effect upon texture. Certainly it has no flavor in and of itself. It is simply the crisp and delicate background for the flavor of the filling. It is really not difficult to avoid the toughness which is the hallmark of poor pastry. Just don't fuss with the dough. Don't be ashamed in the beginning to cut the shortening into the flour with a pair of knives so that the warmth of your hands won't melt the fat. Handle the pastry dough as little as possible.

Pies have enormous advantages over cakes. They are quicker to make. The dough may be done up in large quantities and stored in the refrigerator weeks in advance. They are ridiculously cheap, since they involve neither eggs nor butter. They make use of foods which are in season and are therefore available for very little.

A brilliant college classmate of ours married a young man of Italian descent. They live contentedly in their East Side apartment except for one thing.

"My mother-in-law," our friend said, "does not believe I can cook. She keeps sending me things with the implication that if she didn't we would starve. I baked a chocolate cake last week to take up to her, but Joe wouldn't let me."

"It would have been cruel," Joe said. "My mother is a fabulous cook, but in all her life the one thing which she has never been able to manage successfully is a chocolate cake." He looked up from his dinner plate heaped with fried, chicken, sweet potatoes, green beans with mushrooms and other delicacies prepared by his southern-born wife and said with a smile, "My wife could cook until she was blue in the face and still my folks wouldn't call it cooking. When they say cooking they mean Italian cooking."

Joe paused for a minute and then uttered a truly profound observation. "You know," he said, "I married an emancipated woman, a career girl, an artist, a scholar. And upon what subject is she sensitive? The equality of woman? Her reputation as a scholar? Her creations as an artist? I should say not. Her cooking!"

BLACK HEIGHTENS COLOR

There are physical as well as psychological reasons why any color or object looks better when placed next to or framed with black. Black plays an important role by negation; it makes adjacent colors more vibrant and beautiful. Therefore, women with clear, vivid complexions find black a flattering color in dresses.

Administration will again ask Congress to raise first-class postal rates, government sources state. Basic rates would jump from three to four cents for first class mail; from six to seven cents for air mail. Post office hopes thereby to establish itself on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

PLANT FRUIT-BEARERS

This is the season of the year when our gardens may be enlivened by fruits that some of our plants may bear. We recommend that you visit nurseries and botanical gardens where you can see these in their autumnal effect. Then include some when you plan your garden.

Many plants with conspicuous fruits belong to the great rose family which includes many of our domestic fruits — apples, peaches, plums, cherries, to mention only a few — as well as roses and many shrubs and trees. Pyracantha is one of them.

Another large genus is Cotoneaster, shrubs for various purposes that have white or pinkish flowers clothing the branches in spring. Some of the species have black fruits that last well into the winter.

Good Bank Covering

Most commonly available is Cotoneaster horizontalis, or Rock Spray Cotoneaster. This is a low, spreading half-evergreen plant, rising at most to a height of 18 inches. It makes a good bank cover and foundation, but will not grow as rapidly as honeysuckle and memorial roses.

This Cotoneaster must be planted in a pocket of good soil to get it established.

Serving a like purpose on banks is Cotoneaster adpressa, Creeping Cotoneaster, which is deciduous. It clings more closely to the ground than the species

Ladle-Up Memories With This Old-Fashioned Corn Soup

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

WARMs the heart as well as the tummy these blustery early winter days—good, old-fashioned corn syrup. Served with croutons, tuna salad sandwiches and a bowl of fruit, it makes a fine main luncheon dish. And it's a grand entrée for a light supper, too.

Corn Soup (4-5 Servings)

One and one-half tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1 1/4 cups (17-ounce can) canned, creamed corn, 2 1/2 cups milk (part cream, if desired), 1 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1/4 teaspoon sugar, 1/4 teaspoon minced onion, 1 1/2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Combine tapioca, creamed corn, milk, salt, pepper, sugar and onion in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil.

Remove from heat. Add butter. Serve in cups or bowls. Suggested garnishes: Thin slivers of ham, cheese croutons, a few chopped chives, a thin slice of tarragon in each bowl, sprinkled with finely cut parsley.

And here's another fine "ladle" dish, for serving while the wind howls around the house and all is snug and warm in the kitchen.

Tomato Bisque (5-6 Servings)

Two tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1 cup milk, 1 cup water, 1/2 cup light cream, 2 1/2 cups strained, canned tomatoes; 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 3 (tablespoons) butter or margarine, 4 drops Tabasco sauce (optional).

Combine tapioca, milk, water and cream in saucepan; mix well. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat and let stand about 3 minutes, stirring once or twice.

Meanwhile, combine tomatoes, sugar, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil. Add butter or margarine and pour slowly into tapioca mix-

Corn soup is the "something different" you've been wanting as a replacement for everyday fare on your winter menu agenda. Stirring constantly. Add Tabasco sauce. Serve at once in cups or bowls. Garnish with finely chopped parsley, if desired. Note: If desired, in place of 2 1/2 cups strained, canned tomatoes, use 2 1/2 cups canned tomatoes (broken up with fork), or 2 1/2 cups tomato juice.

horizontalis, and its branches often root.

About the flattest is Cotoneaster dammeri, Bearberry Cotoneaster, quite prostrate with long trailing branches that usually root. It is nearly evergreen and the fruits are larger than those of the two previously named.

A shrub of 6 to 8 feet that deserves a place in the shrub border where it can be given space is Cotoneaster divaricata, Spreading Cotoneaster. This is upright with slender, spreading, arching branches with many bright red fruits.

Home of the Week

Design c-331. Several features of outstanding interest are noteworthy in this plan, such as the delightful kitchen with a snack bar and dinette, the minimum hall space, and the variety of closets. In addition to this, there are three bedrooms, a comfortable living room and a full basement.

Kitchen cabinets are arranged to form a compact, step-saving workroom, with the advantage of having a three-way view of the side and rear yards, and overlooking the front entrance. The dinette is separated from the living room by means of folding doors. High windows in the ends of the bedrooms add to the already liberal wall space.

The exterior is attractively finished with a combination of wide siding and stone. The house includes a stone fireplace, picture window, shutters and asphalt shingles. Ground area is 1180 square feet, with a cubage of 22,515 cubic feet.

Information about this week's design, and all the others shown in this series of articles, can be had without obligation. For additional data, write to the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn. Give your name, address, house design number, and name of this newspaper.

YOU NEED THE RIGHT WIRING TO SUPPORT YOUR HOUSE ELECTRICALLY!

How many lights and electric appliances have you added to your home's wiring load in the last 5 or 10 years? Have you done anything to modernize your home wiring during this same period?

This is an electrical age. In 1945, the average homeowner in Public Service territory used 917 KWH of electricity in one year. By the end of 1955 this figure will jump to 1,000 KWH per year. In 1965 that figure will probably be 3,000 KWH per year.

Now is the time to modernize your wiring for safety... for convenience. More capacity, more circuits, more outlets should be installed. Call your electrical contractor today for a free wiring estimate and enjoy modern electric living to the fullest!

of black eyes from the State Medical Society," he said.

Opening the meeting, Dr. Spaldo pointed out that the county medical group's program was not in conflict with the state medical society's attitude, but that the Somerset organization simply had gone one step further by offering to provide free services in clinics set up especially to administer the vaccine at this time. Neither State nor county group is in favor of administering the vaccine free at established clinics as a general practice, he said.

"Too Much Fussing"

"I think there has been too much fussing about this altogether," he declared. "Get the shots taken care of and forget about them."

Each municipality will determine its own needs, obtain the vaccine from the State, acquire syringes and other equipment, and prepare a time schedule for the doctors.

More than 100 syringes were offered for general use by South Bound Brook's health officer, Harvey Conner. Mrs. Ruth Kissel, county chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said a stockpile of more than 500 syringes could be loaned to municipalities. The stockpile was donated by county industries and is kept sterile by the American Cyanamid medical department.

Mrs. Kissel estimated the number of children up to 15 and pregnant women in the county who would be eligible for the shots at 10,000. She said 2,500 inoculations were given last Spring in Somerset at the Foundation's clinic.

Dr. C. V. N. Davis, president of the Hillsborough Board of Health, said his community has started work on a clinic program, and is polling the school to learn how much vaccine will be required.

Board of Health officials from Bernards, Bernardsville, Green Brook, Hillsborough, Bound Brook, South Bound Brook, Warren, Montgomery, Manville, Watchung, Somerville and North Plainfield attended the meeting.

B'd Rejects Pleas For All-Day Class

happenings," he said. "When you have 97 percent of the people in one community who want something, it has to be done, if possible. After all, the Board of Education, as elected officials, are responsible to the people."

Favoring a return to the five-hour session for this school year, Mr. Fink said however, he would oppose the full day for next year, when parents will have had adequate notice.

In over-riding the objection of the complainants, whose spokesmen were George B. Olsen and John B. Langfeldt, board president Dr. C. Rexford Davis said, "This decision is not taken lightly. It is taken with the belief that the board is doing the right thing."

"Where do we go from here?" Mr. Olson asked.

Dr. Davis said he could present his case to Dr. Sampson G. Smith, county superintendent of schools. Dr. Smith, should he uphold the parents' requests, could direct the board to go back to the full-day Beginners' Class they abandoned on Nov. 1.

Asks Session Change

Karl Meier requested that his son Roger, a pupil in the afternoon Beginners' Class, be permitted to attend the morning session. He said he didn't see why he "should be discriminated against."

Board members felt they would be setting a precedent which might turn into a mass changing of sessions if they approved Mr. Meier's request. However, Dr. Davis directed Dr. Lynch and Mr. Fink to meet with Mr. Meier and seek an amicable arrangement.

In other business, the board directed Andrew Johnson of Franklin Avenue to hire students from the local colleges at $1.50 an hour to help him complete his painting contract. Building & Grounds Committee chairman John J. Kelly estimated about 300 man hours were needed.

Mrs. T. J. Donovan's low bid of $463 for the rest of the school year was accepted for transporting two pupils from their homes to Pine Grove Manor and Lincoln schools, the latter being a school in New Brunswick which educates handicapped children.

In the cafeteria, part-time employees, to work no more than four hours daily, were put on a salary of $75 a month, instead of an hourly basis. Dr. Davis explained that this would permit employees to benefit from the 10 days sick leave allowed by law. Mrs. Emma Rice, Phillips School, was put back on full-time at $125 a month, to compensate for the expected increased use of the cafeteria.

Amendments Put In Plumbing Code

spector had his term reduced from three years to one.

Several amendments and sections of the original code were fought out in brief but sometimes bitter battles between Township Committeeman Charles T. Jackson, Township Attorney Robert E. Gaynor and members of the audience.

One of the first disputes concerned the code as a whole. Several plumbers maintained there was no need for it yet in the Township.

Mr. Jackson answered by saying "You can't control plumbing without a plumbing code."

Edmund Jenkins, a building contractor, replied that "You can control it with a plumbing inspector," the same way that construction is controlled by a building inspector. "There's no building code, either."

Mr. Jenkins later suggested that the Township Committee, which was conducting the hearing, meet with representatives of builders, plumbers and homeowners to discuss the code. "Otherwise we'll be fighting it out into the next administration."

A long discussion on licenses for helpers and journeymen took up a good part of the 90-minute hearing. Plumbers cited a theoretical case in which they might have a contract to install plumbing in 100 homes, which would require them to hire men. They wanted to know if these employees would need licenses.

Under the proposed code, no layman may work on plumbing unless it is in his own home, or unless he works under a licensed journeyman or master plumber as a helper.

Still another question raised was that of final job approval required before issuance of an occupancy permit.

The Committee agreed to consider the objections before it meets again tomorrow night.

Man Convicted Of Animal Neglect

Luther Fourman, of Harrison Avenue, Old Bridge, was charged with neglecting to give his horse proper food, drink and shelter Monday night in Magistrate Vernon D. Hagmann's court.

Mr. Fourman's attorney, Philip Nadler of New Brunswick, claimed that the defendant had not
