—Every tramp carries a roamin' nose.
 —Flies work from sun to sun; but the mosquitoes work is never done.
 —In some of the new styles there is no change. Poor relatives are cut the same as last year.
 —No boy can come upon a sign of "keep off the grass," without feeling a spirit of defiance clear down to his heels.
 —They went fishing. She looked languidly at him and said: "I wish the fish would bite at your hook: if I was a fish, I would."
 —A movement is on foot to introduce police women. The women have got as far as brass buttons already; and we saw one fond mamma with her little Billy the other day.
 —"Sam, why don't you talk to your master and tell him to lay up treasures in Heaven!" "What's de use ob him laying up treasures up dar?" replied Sam. "He neber see um again."
 —"Is this my train?" asked a traveler at the Kansas Pacific depot of a lounger. "I don't know; but I guess not," was the doubtful reply. "I see it's got the name of the railroad company on the side, and I expect it belongs to them. Have you lost a train anywhere?"
 —"I see," said a young lady, "that some printers advertise blank declarations for sale; I wish I could get one." "Why?" asked the mother. "Because, ma, Mr. G— is too modest to ask me to marry him; and perhaps, if I should fill up a blank declaration, he would sign it."
 —A German peddler sold a man a liquid for the extermination of insects. "And how do you use it?" inquired the man after he had bought it. "Ketch te insect und drob von little drop in his mouth," answered the peddler. "The deuce you do!" exclaimed the purchaser; "I could kill it in half the time by stamping on it." "Vell," calmly exclaimed the German, "dat ish a good vay, too."

A Brand New Office Boy.

He was a brand new office boy, young, pretty-faced, with golden ringlets and blue eyes. Just such a boy as one would imagine would be taken out of his little trundle bed in the middle of the night and transported beyond the stairs. The first day he glanced over the library in the editorial room, became acquainted with everybody, knew all the printers, and went home in the evening as happy and cheery as a sunbeam. The next day he appeared, leaned out of the back window, expectorated on a bald-headed printer's pate, tied the cat up by the tail in the hall-way, had four fights with another boy, borrowed $2 from an occupant of the building, saying his mother was dead, collected his two days' pay from the cashier, hit the janitor with a broomstick, pawned a coat belonging to a member of the editorial staff, wrenched the knobs off the doors, upset the ice cooler, pried three galleys of type, and mashed his finger in the small press. On the third day a note was received saying, "Mi mother do not want I to work in such a dull place. She said I would make Good preacher, so Do I, my finger is Better; gone fishing'. Yours Till Deth do Yank us."—Boston Courier.

WHAT NEXT?

The nomination of General Hancock was scarcely announced when the Republican press was teeming with charges in connection with the Surratt execution. Entirely waiving the fact that whatever participation the Democratic candidate had in that matter, he was acting under instructions from a Republican administration, and not a free agent, it was none the less thoroughly explained away, and General Hancock fully exonerated. That was a severe shock to the Republican party, who knew their only chance to vilify a pure man and gallant soldier was gone. They accordingly looked around for something new, and were not long in manufacturing the story about the revolutionary letter in the Sherman-Hancock correspondence at the time of Samuel J. Tilden's election. This bare-faced lie held good only until it came to the ears of General Sherman, who immediately denied any knowledge of such letter; nor did he remember ever hearing anything of a disloyal character from General Hancock. This coming from so staunch a Republican as General Sherman, must prove a cruel blow to his own party all over the country. In connection with the large number of old-time Republicans, who are coming to their senses and deserting the wreck for the staunch Democratic ship, it will certainly tend towards filling our ranks, and, from present appearances, give Hancock the largest majority known in many decades. From all parts of the country daily, the press is full of accounts of Republicans who have actually grown sick and disgusted of the late choice of their delegates at Chicago. It is little wonder while the only two charges so far advanced against the Democratic candidate were promptly wiped out, the De Golyer, Credit Mobilier, and back-pay grab still stands to the debit of Garfield and can never be eradicated. There seems to be little or no activity in the ranks of the Republican party. They are evidently at a loss how to parade such bad records as Garfield and Arthur without doing their cause more harm than good, and have apparently decided to keep their favorites as much as possible in the dark, knowing how much they suffer in comparison with such names as Hancock and English. We wonder what charge will be trumped up next?

"COMICAL SAMMY."

Every public body, we presume, is entitled to sport a clown, if some member is idiot enough to volunteer to fill this unenviable position. "Sam" Crissy has appointed himself jester to the Council, and his first appearance in that role Tuesday evening was a decided failure. If "Sammy" wants fun for himself and colleagues he cannot produce it at the expense of any attachée of this paper without suffering the consequence. He is not up to the calibre, either mentally or physically, to play any of his little jokes on us; and for further information on this subject he can refer to a near neighbor of his on Newark street who has been pretty thoroughly "through the mill." We had said or done nothing to warrant Mr. Crissy in lowering our representative to the level of the "amorous Barney," who had given good cause to every member of the Council to favor his ejection when he published that "paying committee" item. It may be that "Sammy" does not mind such insinuations. We want our elongated statesman to distinctly understand that he cannot let his friend Bayer down easy or lessen his embarrassment at our expense. "Sammy" thought it a real good practical joke, and laughed "all around his mouth," which is a pretty good circle even to laugh around. Now, if our friend of fickle experiences continues growing funny we would kindly suggest the saw-dust arena as his proper sphere. He would be just the proper figure to waltz around in tights after a ring-master—being evidently used to masters—besides he would receive remuneration under such circumstances for being funny, whereas, now, he is abused for trying to be so. His numerous male and female friends in the profession would also, no doubt, welcome one as their clown, who has long been their toyl.

The next occasion that the "Panama fiend" feels like having a little joke let him practice more care in selecting a subject and not use those who have been extremely kind and considerate to him in the past.

—CHASTINE COX, the murderer of Mrs. Hull, was hung in the yard of the Tombs at 8:30 yesterday morning.

COUNCILMANIC NOTES.

The last meeting of the Common Council proved a most exciting session. After the reading of the minutes Chairman Buckley took the floor and administered a severe castigation to Bernard Bayer and Albert Hoffman, of the Democrat (!), the new Councilman from the Second Ward coming in for a fair share. This action resulted in motions to expel Bayer and others from within the enclosure, which were carried.

A large number of claims were reported correct and several others ordered paid.

A claim of S. A. Besson for legal services in the Lewis mandamus case was laid over one week.

Samuel Overton requested that his claim for repairing sidewalks which had been reduced and vetoed be referred to a committee so that he could explain his case. It was so ordered.

A petition from a number of property holders on First street was received, requesting that said thoroughfare be filled in at the expense of the city, Councilman Timken objected, and believed that the owners of the property, who alone would be benefitted, had a right to bear the expense. Councilman Kaufmann explained that the request was reasonable. The city had once before filled in this street and assessed the owners, and later removed the filling and charged them again. He thought if it was necessary to return said filling and put the street in its former condition the people could not be expected to pay three times for the same work. The petition was referred.

The following resolution was offered by Councilman Quirk and adopted by the same old 5 to 3 vote:

Resolved, That the Street Commissioner be and he is hereby directed to remove all frame buildings from Market Square forthwith.

The resolution of Councilman Curtin that F. G. Himpler be directed to prepare the necessary plans and specifications for the proposed New City Hall and also superintend its erection, was adopted.

The following preambles and resolution by Chairman Buckley were adopted, though strenuously opposed by the three graces, Crissy, Plunkett and Timken, who, it would appear, did not care to be vindicated:

Whereas, The conductors of the "Hudson County Democrat," in their issue of July 10, do by innuendo assert that some committees of this Board are "paying committees;" and

Whereas, The only logical inference that can be drawn from such an assertion is that some members of this Board are tainted with venality; and

Whereas, Such a grave charge, if left unchallenged, would tend to lower our city government in the estimation of our tax-payers, interfere with our credit and create a lack of confidence in the minds of our citizens; therefore be it

Resolved, That the City Clerk be directed to call upon the conductors of said paper to make good their charges at the next stated session of this Board.

On motion of Councilman Mehan the City Clerk was directed to notify all ex-Chiefs and Assistants of the Fire Department to turn in their badges forthwith.

Some unimportant routine business was rushed through and the meeting adjourned.

The Living Sporting with the Dead.

As usual, the present week furnished its sensation. A body was found near the Hackensack river and brought to Crane's morgue last Monday. The deceased bore decided Jewish features, and members of his faith in this city determined to have him decently interred. They sought subscriptions to that end, and having secured the required funds, amounting to about $18, paid Mr. Crane for ice, hearse and other necessities. Just previous to removing the body Thursday morning it was proven beyond any doubt that the man was not an Israelite, and, of course, those who had interested themselves so far decided to have no more to do with the case, and Gustav Hauser, who had collected and paid over the amount to Crane, demanded its return. The latter offered $4.50, which was indignantly refused, and Hauser has commenced suit for the full amount, less $6, which he is prepared to allow for ice. It has since transpired that both Crane, the Coroner, and a physician of Jersey City knew for three days before that the corpse was a Christian, but considered it a good joke on the Jews.

It does seem rather a profitable joke for Mr. Crane, and the fact of his refusing to return the money is a positive outrage. If the matter was presented to the courts in the light of receiving money under false pretences, perhaps the sympathetic Bethuel would disgorge. Several Christians were among the contributors to the burial fund, and hence the anxiety of Mr. Hauser to return the different amounts.

LACONICS.

—After the sermon at the First Baptist Church to-morrow evening the ordinance of Baptism will be administered by the pastor, Rev. W. S. Goodno.

—"The Two Reigns" will be the subject of the Rev. D. B. F. Randolph's sermon at the M. E. Free Tabernacle to-morrow morning. Evening subject: "The Pearl of Great Price."

—A meeting of the Democratic voters of Hoboken is called at Odd Fellows' Hall for Thursday evening next for the purpose of forming a Hancock and English campaign club. Several prominent speakers will be present and address the meeting.

—The proprietors of the dry and fancy goods and other stores of Hoboken have decided to close their places of business during the summer season at 7 o'clock in the evening. This is a humane move and will, no doubt, be appreciated by the employees.

—All preparations are complete for the moonlight excursion to Coney Island of the Knights of Honor, who will sail from Fifth street dock Tuesday evening at 8:30 sharp. They will make a landing at West 10th street, New York, fifteen minutes later and at Morris street, Jersey City, at 9 o'clock. A large delegation of Knights from Newark and Paterson are expected.

—The following company appeared at Weber's Germania Garden the past week and drew well: Miss Lizzie Derious, quite a versatile young lady, who dances and sings well, besides performing on the slack wire; the old-time favorites, Max and Martha Miller, Ada Forrest, Miss Carrie Lewis, who made a decided hit in her national medley in three languages, and is a cultured and sweet vocalist; and Mons. Derious, who is an expert gymnast. "Jolly Josh" Allworth, who is running the stage, evidently knows his business and crowded houses is the result.

—Messrs. Kuehle and Foster, of the Meteors, and Ackerman, of the Castle Point Boat Club, all of this city, showed good work at the Lake George regatta Wednesday and Thursday last. The two former secured places in the final heat of the junior single sculls, which was won by Foster with only half a second to spare, Kuehle coming in second. "Charlie" Ackerman had a walk-over in the senior singles, the three other entries failing to put in an appearance. He went over the mile and a half in 11m. 4s. The same gentleman, who promises to make a wonderful oarsman, won the junior race last year.

—The utmost excitement prevailed on and about Market Square last Wednesday morning, when Street Commissioner Stack appeared with a large force of men to demolish the structures located thereon. This was in accordance with a resolution passed by the Council the evening before and promptly approved by His Honor Mayor O'Neill. The occupants were indignant, the mob were excited, the sheds were demolished, the lumber was stolen, the rats were slaughtered, and before 6 o'clock the same day Market Square was laid bare. All this was necessary to make room for the elegant structure which will shortly be erected on this site, which has long been an eye-sore to our citizens. There is nothing left for the sufferers but to console themselves with the reflection that their inconvenience was for the general good, and their sacrifices necessary to the cause of progress.

CHAIRMAN BUCKLEY CRUSHES THE TRIO

The last session of the Council will be remembered for years to come as the most memorable in the official history of this city. Chairman Buckley presided just long enough to call the meeting to order, when Councilman Mehan was requested to swing the gavel while Mr. Buckley was engaged in swinging some terrible blows at the heads of the "official" journal and members of the Board. Mr. Buckley, on taking the floor, produced the last issue of the Democrat, (?) and from an article headed "A Contemptible Action," quoted the following:

But Chairman Buckley, who on every occasion has proven himself the servile tool of the ring who boosted him into an office he should never have occupied, has again harkened to their dictation, and without the slightest excuse for his extraordinary conduct, refused to allow Mr. Timken to take the committees his predecessor held and to which Mr. Timken was entitled by precedence and courtesy. He made a new deal, and distributed Schmidt's important committees among his satellites, whilst Mr. Timken was placed on committees of no importance.

As Mr. Buckley concluded reading this paragraph, the ponderous Timken arose and shouted: "Mister Chairman, Mister Chairman, I call the gentleman to order." "Sit down, sir," responded Chairman Mehan, "Mr. Buckley has the floor," and about 300 pounds of air dupois dropped into chair No. 2 on the right with a crash which means business for the furniture houses.

Mr. Buckley then proceeded to dissect the above, which he did in a most startling and emphatic manner. He exclaimed at the top of his voice, "Mr. Chairman, this lying rag which I hold in my hand, issued by Bayer & Kaufmann, and edited by that penny-a-liner, Hoffman, has made statements which they know are false in every particular. Councilman Timken never occupied a place on any committee, consequently I did him no wrong. It was for me to arrange those committees and not this contemptible trio who have fed on the fatted calf and are now living on the flesh pots of the people. I was not 'boosted into office' by any ring nor have I any satellites to favor. I, however, did not favor the ideas of this shabby sheet (holding the paper aloft). The men who are credited with opposing the ring are the very ones who have favored every scheme introduced to rob the tax-payers of this city, and who are now and always have been supported by the parasitical scribbler. I am not fighting Mr. Timken, but am obliged to defend myself against charges which are as false and empty as the contemptible cheap scribe who wrote them, and as slanderous as the sheet wherein they appeared. Mr. Chairman, who and what are these men, any way, and by what right do they presume to dictate to this Council how we shall transact our business? Let us examine the records of this brace of demented paragons of literary trash. Let us take the lying, hired scribbler who pens slander at so much per week. (Applause.) This monumental mass of bloated corruption, who pretends to protect the interests of the people, while his small, selfish soul entertains nothing manly or noble but every and anything that will tend to replenish the pockets of his "boss," Barney, and proportionately his own! This lying, over-fed turkey gobbler, who is known as "Windy" Hoffman (laughter), and who has drawn money from the tax-payers of this County before he was a citizen, and who now fills a position which every day serves only to more plainly expose his ignorance! Now, Mr. Chairman, a glance at the career of the illustrious (?) and spotless (?) beauty (laughter) sitting there (pointing to Bayer, who was white as a sheet). This object—it would be a crime to call him a man—is the active proprietor of this filthy rag which I hold in my hand, and while I don't accuse him of writing this article, knowing his lack of intellectual qualifications, yet he tolerates such, and I know suggests much of the blackguardism to which we are weekly subjected. It might be claimed that he is a prominent tax-payer and notorious public man, which is admitted. But for what is he notorious? How did he become prominent? He is notorious; Mr. Chairman, as a lecherous ruffian who attempted to break in on the peace of a happy family and seduce a wife from her husband and children. (Applause.) He is further notorious, sir, through the noble action of that plucky little woman who arraigned the would-be seducer before her husband, and, at the advice and under the protection of the latter, administered the licentious "Barney" a cowhiding in one of our public parks. (Laughter.) This fellow, who was chased through the streets by an indignant and insulted woman, and who plead for mercy, talks through his scurrilous sheet to us of honor, integrity and manhood. What are things coming to, Mr. Chairman, when this fellow, who bore marks of his public chastisement for outraging all of the above virtues, presumes to look honest men in the face, let alone to take exceptions to their acts? Now, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I have explained how our self-appointed adviser, the virtuous (?) "Barney," became notorious, and will now as briefly as possible state how he became prominent. The story I have just related of the insult, cowhiding, etc., made a grand subject for illustration; in fact, covered one page of a paper known as the National Police Gazette. At the top of the first column stood out in bold relief the handsome (?) features of Bayer, (laughter), and underneath a full account of one of the most disreputable sensations with which our city was ever scandalized. Yes, Mr. Chairman, these are incontrovertible facts, and painful recollections of them still remain. The idea of this fellow, whose physiognomy disgraced the pages of this sensational journal, and whose name as the horse-whipped editor of Hoboken was in every person's mouth from the shores of Maine to the golden sands of California! Bernard Bayer was known as the amorous journalist; the disturber of family firesides; the attempted seducer of wives. He, gentlemen, dare to question my honor and integrity, or insinuate that I am prompted by any other motive than my honest and conscientious duty towards my constituents, the tax-payers of Hoboken, who sent me here! I am serving no ring nor favoring any satellites! My record proves this plainer than anything I can say. I have, however, Mr. Chairman, no doubt, interfered with the official printers. I may have, in an indirect way, tended to prevent their feeding much longer on the flesh-pots of the people, and they may lose the fatted calf which they have so long enjoyed. (Applause.) They abused ex-Councilman Schmidt, an honest man, in the same manner because they could not use him; because he also attempted to keep their hands out of the city treasury. Yes, gentlemen, they vilify any man who will not prostitute his position to perpetuate the powers of this rag which I hold in my hand (raising the paper).

Turning to the audience, Mr. Buckley continued: "You tax-payers of all classes and every station in life, you who have indirectly supported the proprietor of this gutter-snipe sheet and the snob Hoffman, are designated by these worthies as the rabble. Don't forget, gentlemen, you are called the scum of society, and what more can you expect from such a source. They would bring you to their own level if possible." (Jeers.)

Again Mr. Buckley quoted from the paper which he held in his hand as follows:

Mr. Timken is known to be a man of sterling integrity and great means, whose self-interest dictates the most careful scrutiny of municipal expenditures. Yet he is removed from those committees held by his predecessor that have the expenditure of the great bulk of the city's funds, and the favorites of Buckley are put in his place. How can Mr. Buckley explain his action? Does he wish the public to understand that he does not consider Mr. Timken as honest as Schmidt was, and that he cannot be trusted?

Mr. Chairman, I am sorry, on Mr. Timken's account, to be obliged to differ once more with the "scribbler." I do not, as I before stated, want to fight Mr. Timken, but his vindicator being "Windy" Hoffman, and having departed so far from the truth, I am obliged to take notice. I hold in my hand, sir, a number of up-town street improvement certificates, recognized and remembered as the greatest swindle ever perpetrated on this city. Gentlemen, Mr. Timken was a member of the Council at that time, and I find his name attached to over $400,000 worth of this scrip, and he voted in favor of the job all through. I also know him to have held shares himself (great applause); and within a few weeks Mr. Timken himself denounced, in unmeasured terms, the up-town streets swindle. Did he think that a people, who had not yet recovered from this steal, had forgotten the projectors and beneficiaries of the job? Oa, no, Mr. Chairman, we have it here in black and white (waiving the documents aloft). (Applause.) Mr. Timken has been announced as a paragon of purity, and presented to me by the pure (?) Democrat clique as a man of honor and integrity, who would not fraternize with the ring, and one whom I should place on prominent committees. I, having a right to use my own judgment, differed with the unreliable sheet, and hence this filthy article."

Again Mr. Buckley glanced at the paper and read as follows:

Mr. Timken has served a number of years in the Council before and given universal satisfaction, so that Mr. Buckley cannot even get out on the plea that Mr. Timken has no experience. He acted in accordance with the dictates of the ring, and in so doing he questioned the honesty, integrity and ability of Mr. Timken, thereby insulting him and the people of the Second Ward who sent him to the Council to represent them.

"It was just Mr. Timken's great experience that killed him in my estimation," continued the excited Chairman. "I glanced over the record and found these very facts which I hold in my hand. Can they be disputed? Does that style of representation suit the people of any ward? If so, it did not suit me, and hence my course, which I consider is fully vindicated.

"Mr. Chairman, I have one more quotation to make from the specially lying column of this sheet which is headed, 'Said to be True' It runs thusly:

That Councilman Timken can very well afford to get along without "paying committees."

(As Mr. Buckley used the words "paying committees," Councilman Crissy, who all along tried to appear indifferent to the eloquence of his colleague, turned pale and a nervous twitching was observable about the lips. He was evidently very much affected by those magic words. What terrible meaning did they convey to the ex-Chairman? or did they produce some unpleasant memories? He was evidently expecting some startling revelation, when the orator continued):

"Mr. Chairman, the only deduction that can be drawn from these lines is that our Committees are tainted with venality. Here it is where they utter a damnable lie and bring disgrace not only on the members of this Council, but the people of Hoboken who sent us here as their choice. I am not aware of any remuneration being attached to any committee of this Board. Might it not be construed that this lying, hired scribbler Hoffman and that profligate censor of public morality, his master, intend to transform some one of the said committees into paying institutions? It would not surprise me. No course is too low or contemptible for this pair.

"Mr. Chairman, I now call on you to enforce the resolution which was passed by this body May 25th last, and order the Sergeant-at-arms to remove from within this enclosure the proprietor of the Hudson County Democrat (?), Bernhard Bayer, who is guilty of doing the members of this Board so great an injustice."

As Mr. Buckley closed his lengthy speech the applause was at its height, and acting Chairman Mehan was about enforcing the resolution, when Councilman Crissy arose and objected. He wanted the resolution read. This measure was opposed, and a vote being taken, Bayer was ordered to leave, Messrs. Buckley, Quirk, Mehan and Kaufman voting in the affirmative, Crissy, Plunkett and Timken against, and Curtin declining to vote.

Councilman Crissy next moved that the representative of this paper, who was also present, be requested to withdraw. The question was put to a vote, which resulted in 5 against and 3 in favor. The acting Chairman declared the motion lost. Crissy insisted that it required the unanimous consent of the members, and again insisted on the resolution being produced, which was indeed found to be very sweeping, and ran as follows:

Resolved, That no person be allowed within the enclosure of this Council without the unanimous consent of the members of this body.

This settled the question, and our man, gathering up his traps, quietly withdrew to the lobby.

Mr. Crissy had stated no objections whatever to our reporter, and seemed to consider it a pretty good joke to have a man expelled from where he had a right to be without assigning any cause. He evidently did not have fun enough, and so moved that the Sergeant-at-arms eject himself. Chairman Mehan, at this stage of the farce, put a quietus on Comic Sam, by ordering him to sit down.

A Painful Accident.

We regret to announce that a young son of Councilman Curtin met with a painful accident at the Hoboken Bath last Saturday, and are surprised that such occurrences are not more frequent. The lad, in company with an elder brother, was standing on the edge of the interior platform, when his foot slipped through an aperture between the latter and the bath proper, causing a fracture of the leg below the knee. He was removed to his home and a physician promptly summoned. The bath proper and the platforms and dressing-rooms surrounding are separate, and this opening, which has caused several minor accidents, is only necessary until the bath is placed in position, and all through the season should have been covered. Mr. Coffin's attention has been frequently called to the matter, but without any good result. He probably thinks it all right, and if his patrons will stand getting their limbs broken, without making some person pay the cost, that he can.
