Democratic Primaries.

The primaries in this District last Monday evening passed off very quietly in spite of there being a number of tickets in the field. It is a foregone conclusion that the Hon. Serious Sport.

A Frenchman named Boucher, residing on Jackson street, is known as a professional sportsman, and most of his time is passed in fishing and hunting. Game was probably scarce in his neighborhood of late, and, so as to "keep his hand in," he declared a miniature Franco-Prussian war last Saturday night, and opened fire with a shot-gun on two inoffensive Germans, who happened to be passing his stoop at the time. Such was the charges of Christian and William Rehder, who comprised the Prussian army on this occasion, and who claim to contain about a keg of buckshot each as the result of Boucher's pastime. The latter was arrested by officer Joe Steuben in spite of considerable opposition, consisting of the prisoner, his wife and several vicious-looking dogs. He gave bonds to appear, and seems perfectly indifferent over the whole transaction, evidently only regretting the waste of buckshot.

Of a recent visit to Albany, N. Y., the Daily Journal of that city has this to say of the stupendous London Circus, which is to exhibit here on Saturday, October, 2d:

"The great London Circus has come and gone, and at least calculations eighteen thousand people improved the opportunity to see the most complete ring show, and one of the best displays of animals, ever exhibited here. The prior announcements made by the managers were fully carried out at both the afternoon and evening performance.

"In the big tent were arranged two rings, in which two distinct circus companies gave a succession of brilliant displays of equestrianism and acrobatic skill, together with examples of intelligence shown by animals. While the trained oxen were forming pyramids of themselves in one ring, the six trained elephants showed what they could do in the other. Miss Louise La Blanc walked a wire next, while a Japanese prince executed some wonderful juggling. James Murray and Fred Runnels each did their great tumbling act in separate rings at the same time. So it was with the riding, the feats of strength, and the trapeze performers. Specialists in each line of the profession performed at the same time in separate rings, giving an entertainment that certainly was never before equalled in its line in this city. The principal features were the displays on the trapeze by the French family Davene and the pretty and graceful Lawrence Sisters, each of whom excelled any previous female performers in their line. The Lawrence Sisters, especially, executed some feats that a male gymnast would hesitate at attempting. The brother acts of the Leotard and Snow Brothers were also very fine. The graceful riding of Linda Jeal, and the famous fire hoop act which terminates her appearance, captured the immense audiences and won hearty applause. The ballouette leaping was also superior to anything yet shown here in point of number of performers, twelve of the twenty-four executing a double somersault in rapid succession. The menagerie tent was also a very attractive feature, and, taken all in all, the show deserved the commendation it has elicited both here and elsewhere."

FOR GOVERNOR,
GEORGE C. LUDLOW, OF MIDDLESEX.

OUR CANDIDATES—WHAT THEY SHOULD BE—A WORD TO DELEGATES.

This afternoon and next Tuesday the several delegates from this county will assemble and decide who shall be our standard-bearers for Congressman, State Senator and Surrogate in the approaching election. The importance of the duty or the responsibility devolving upon said delegates cannot be over-rated. They have directly the success or failure of their party in their keeping, and on this occasion it becomes a most important, in fact sacred, trust. What we want is the success of the entire Democratic ticket, and not the advancement of any individual candidate. This can only be accomplished by entirely waving all sectional strifes and placing such men in nomination as will, from their past principles and records, be sure to win—such men as will add strength to the ticket and who are recognized as popular, able leaders and thorough old-time Democrats. Claims on the party for past services or claims on delegates for personal reasons, etc., should be entirely ignored, and the latter would be justified, under the circumstances, in opposing his own brother if he entertained the slightest idea that the nomination of the latter would jeopardize the progress of the party or in any way be antagonistic to a Democratic success. In this connection we cannot close our eyes to the uniform strength of the Republican nominations throughout the State from Governor down. Neither can we question the high standing and prosperity of each individual candidate. We must, therefore, meet them with the same material if we would succeed, and put up only men who are equally popular, respectable and irreproachable, and such virtues, backed by a sound Democratic record, will do away with all objections on the part of the masses and lead to victory. We have somewhat of an advantage in the fact of the Republicans preceding us in their nominations. We know just the strength of their candidates; and if delegates make any mistake, it will appear intentional, the result of undue influence, or maybe something more unprincipled. The unanimous renomination of the Hon. Lewis A. Brigham for Congress, by the Republican party, plainly indicates that he is a strong man, at least amongst his own party, and the fact of his beating a supposed popular Democrat two years ago in a Democratic district should serve as sufficient warning. It is understood that the Hon. A. A. Hardenbergh is an available candidate, and a decidedly strong one also, who would tend to give tone to the ticket and carry his district as if by storm, and just the class of man to cross swords and vanquish Lewis A. Brigham.

The next important office is that of State Senator. The Republican party have also practiced care in this selection, and put forth one of their strongest and most reliable men—Gilbert Collins, Esq.—one, however, whom it will be easy to defeat, providing we are nearly as cautious in our choice. Hoboken has been accorded the honor of filling this responsible trust for some time past, but never profited much outside of the honor of the thing. She has been made to feel keenly not only Mr. Rabe's negligence, but his decided opposition (under a cloak, of course) to many measures introduced for her benefit. We need only cite the Primary School and the City Hall bills as instances. The former, which, though put through the Assembly by the Hon. James Curran, was held back in the Senate Chamber, and the latter was only passed when it was pretty well understood that the people would tolerate no further trifling, and particularly owing to the near expiration of the gentleman's term and his anxiety for re-election. Mr. Rabe is not considered a strong or popular candidate by any means, and his administration has not been very beneficial to this city.

As the nomination of a Surrogate will be made this afternoon, the present is deemed an opportune time to say a few words on the subject. Our rivals have been equally judicious in this as in their other selections, and put their "best foot forward," so to speak. B. W. Throckmorton is their candidate, and he is described as a "good 'un" and will make a very hard fight. As we before mentioned, this is not the time or will the occasion admit of recognizing any claims for party services, etc., unless the claimant is an experienced, popular, conscientious and uncompromising partisan, and one pretty certain of drawing out every Democratic voter in the county, besides catching the many disgusted Republicans who have been soured by the Garfield-Arthur deal, and there are many such right in our midst. Is Mr. McAvoy, of Jersey City, who is the most prominent opponent of the present incumbent, such a person? Does he possess half the necessary qualifications? Is he popular enough to be successful? Would he secure a full Democratic vote? What are his claims, outside of what he professes to have done for the party—meaning, of course, assistance furnished his own friends and relatives—in the past? Does the latter entitle him to the consideration of the people? We answer, "No!—a great big no!"—to every question just propounded. We know that he is not qualified for the reason that no position in the county requires as much experience and delicacy in the administration of its affairs as the office of Surrogate. We also know that he is not popular and would not poll a full vote, because we have heard many Democrats, both of this and Jersey City state that they would rather vote for a Republican any time than for little "Billie" McAvoy. We know he has no claim on the voters whatever, excepting such as are recognized by office-holders whom he has supported in the past, and who are thrusting him before the people simply as a reward for services rendered, and who are so unprincipled as to take chances on sacrificing their party in the endeavor to cancel this debt. Mr. McAvoy, from what we can learn, belongs to that category who are Democrats and work for the party not on principle, but a reward; or, in other words, employees of the Democracy who are faithful for a consideration. Such gentlemen should be entirely ignored by conventions, as they generally are by voters. Jersey City, from appearances, is likely to get the next Congressman and State Senatorship, and Hoboken certainly expects some recognition. Through the votes of the delegation which goes from this district solid for Robert McCague, Jr., for Surrogate, we will express our desires louder than words. He is a competent, courteous and efficient gentleman, against whom not a complaint has ever been recorded. He has discharged the duties of a responsible and delicate position in a manner which makes his claim to a renomination paramount to all others. He is, and always has been, a straight, out-and-out, reliable Democrat, ever in the breach, and is, besides, so popular as to be more than a match for any Republican, and will win, beyond peradventure, if placed in nomination. There is no good excuse why any mistakes should be made this campaign, and if there are they will be undoubtedly willful, and the perpetrators will be remembered.

The Assembly Convention takes place on Wednesday, and it is generally conceded that the Hon. James Curran will receive a renomination, owing to a majority of the delegates elected being among his personal friends. We are aware of certain opposition to this gentleman owing to supposed interference in certain local matters, but this should not be advanced at such a time, and if he secures the nomination will, we trust, for the present at least, be forgotten. His career in the Assembly was all that could be desired, and this alone should be considered. We do not know who the Republicans will present, but are none the less satisfied on one point, and that is, Mr. Curran will be victorious if the Democrats of Hoboken are only united, stick to their party and its candidates, and abide by its principles at all hazards.

LACONICS.

—A large number of soldiers and sailors of the late war met at Odd Fellows' Hall last night and formed a Veteran's Hancock and English Campaign Club.

—Work on the new City Hall is progressing very rapidly. Mr. Meystre, who has the contract for the carpenter work, commenced laying the ground cross-beams on Thursday.

—The papers of Thursday evening contained the account of the withdrawal of ex-Sheriff Laverty as a Congressional candidate. His decision is considered judicious for his own as well as the party's sake.

—The congregation of the M. E. Free Tabernacle will worship with the German M. E. Church to-morrow morning. In the evening the pastor, Rev. D. B. F. Randolph, will preach on "The Dance of Modern Society."

—Frank Forwig, a 'longshoreman, residing corner Second and Hudson streets, with an invalid wife, attempted suicide Monday morning by cutting the arteries in his left arm. The man was despondent because his step-daughter, who kept house for him, had run away. He was removed to St. Mary's Hospital.

—Willie Edouin's "Sparks," entitled "Dreams; or, Fun in a Photograph Gallery," now being produced at the Bijou Opera House, Broadway, between 30th and 31st street, New York, is well worth a visit. All the people are clever, the play funny, and the rendering of the music more than good.

—George Grengel, of 332 Bloomfield street, had a decayed tooth extracted last week and immediately afterward began bleeding, which continued, during short intervals, for over twenty-four hours, the patient being also in convulsions during most of that time. Physicians were summoned, who decided on his removal to a New York Hospital.

—Lulu Wentworth, May Arnott and Devere and Williams were the new faces at Weber's Germania Garden this week. The two former excel in their different lines, and Devere and Williams are old time New York favorites, and need no comment. The Millers and Ida Wollney are still retained, and the present company is among the strongest playing at this house the present season.

—Meno Jansen, a young and prosperous merchant, was expected home from an extended European tour, and as it was known he would arrive by the Bremen steamer Mosel, a large number of friends had congregated on the dock. Judge of their surprise and sorrow when informed that their friend had plunged into the sea and was drowned the Wednesday previous. From what could be learned, the deceased was subject to fits of temporary aberration.

—The remains of Charles Helms, a member of Engine Company No. 1, who was killed by the cars last week, were carried from the engine house on Sunday to the M. E. Church, where a most impressive sermon was preached by the Rev. D. R. Lowrie. The casket was then returned to the engine house from whence it was taken the following day to Middletown, N. Y., for interment. The floral gifts were numerous and of exquisite design, particularly a large pillow bearing the word "Rest," from Miss Mary Nichols, to whom the deceased was engaged and was shortly to be married. The remains were accompanied to Middletown by Foreman I. D. Applegate and eight members of One Engine.

—The regular weekly meeting of the Hancock and English Campaign Club at Odd Fellows' Hall Thursday evening was made interesting by the presence of the Hon. A. A. Hardenbergh, Hon. Thos. S. Henry and other distinguished Jersey orators. Mr. Hardenbergh made a brilliant address in which he plainly exposed the intentions of the Republican party to centralize the Government and abolish State rights. He also explained that the views of Alexander Hamilton and the Federalists of his time, who favored electing a President for life, were being revived, and had the Grantites won this was their intention. The Hon. Thomas S. Henry plainly exposed the course of Fred. S. Potts in favor of the prison labor bill, and showed how his every action was antagonistic to the workingmen. Mayor O'Neill presided with grace and came in for a good share of the applause tendered the speakers. The hall was crowded in spite of the great parade over the river.

A Cowardly Wretch.

James McCarroll, a dissipated and worthless loafer, residing in the meadows near the foot of the Hill, has for years been in the habit of abusing his wife and family. The cowardly ruffian when in liquor seems to thirst for blood, and if he cannot practice on his better half, does not hesitate to perform the most brutal and wanton acts on the animals about the premises. A short time ago he killed a hog, and last Sunday, while in his "tantrums," cut and backed a valuable milch cow in a frightful manner. Considering that the animal thus injured was the only support of the poor woman and her children, who are entirely neglected by this brute, hanging would be too good for him. He has been committed to jail on three separate charges.

A very exciting race took place last Saturday afternoon between the Atlantic and Valencia boat clubs, both of this city, which was won by the former. The course was from a stake boat off the Elysian Fields to Dey's Point and return, a distance of three miles, and the prize was a handsome flag. The winners' time was 23 m., 10 sec.

A very "fresh" youth, named Vogelsang, imagined he was a full-grown man. And last Friday night, while spoiling for fight, He visited "Weber's" to "clean out" the gang.

He was wild after two drinks of beer. Swore the house he intended to clear; His papa stepped up, crying, "You snoozer, dry up."

And marched him straight-home by the ear.

That day has just gone by a week, Yet no one has heard the lad speak. We presume that he'll never—or will swear "hardly ever"— Again be so free with his cheek.

Incredulous drill and military maneuvers, equalling the intelligence of the horse.

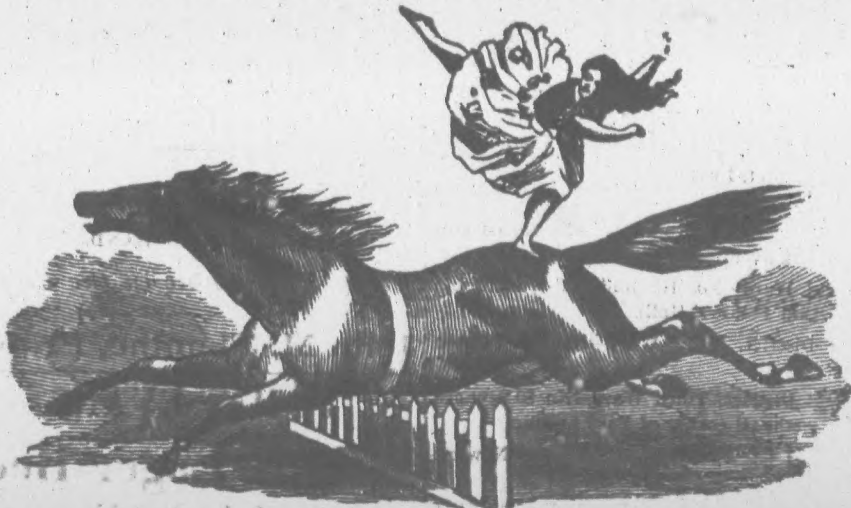

Thirty Champion Leapers and Athletes,

In the most extraordinary double somersault and leaping act over Elephants ever witnessed. Only herd of 15 Elephants. Drilling right and left flank, marching in solid platoon and performing pedestal pyramid 40 feet high.

Four performing dens of wild beasts—Tigers, Hyenas, Panthers and Jaguars. Lesson taught by brave men and women.

Tremendous pair of Hudson's Bay Moose; which leaps eight horses, and trots a mile in three minutes, and 50 dens of rare animals, Birds, Monkeys and Reptiles. No old traps. No repaired wardrobes and wagons—all fresh and new as the breath of springtime. 20 brand new Chariots and 30 trained horses, just imported. Every novelty rosy with freshness, and no old trash exhibited half a dozen times.

200 Champion Circus Performers.

In two monster ring entertainments, headed by C. W. Fish, Mlle. Adelaide Cordona, French Davene Troupe, Lawrence Sisters, W. H. Bacheller, Linda Jeal and her fire horse. Twelve great Clowns and all the really great artists of the arenic world, supplemented and strengthened with the woman who makes a dive of 65 feet the air, entitled the "Latour Leap for Life."

Messrs. Cooper and Bailey will wager $50,000 that no management ever produced a combination of half such magnitude, and that the circus is two-fold stronger in talent and more perfect than any other show on earth.

Excursion trains are arranged for at reduced rates on all railroads. Two performances daily—at 2 and 8 P. M. Doors open one hour earlier. Admission 50 cents, children under 9 years 25c. PATERSON, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1st.
