PRICE THREE CENTS

A PROMINENT MERCHANT

An Interesting Review of the Career of One of our Most Successful and Energetic Business Men.

HOW HE CAME "TO THE FRONT.

Valuable Hints to Housekeepers, with Points on Domestic Economy not Understood to any Extent.

THE REWARD OF INDUSTRY.

After an intermission of one issue, we are again in a position to call attention to one of our local commercial successes and at the same time add another sketch to our proposed list. As frequently stated heretofore, our city affords ample opportunities to gainsay many false impressions which have gone abroad concerning our morals, industry, enterprises, successes, etc., and we are glad to be the originators of this scheme, intended specially to vindicate the good standing of our community and the healthy and prosperous condition of Hoboken. We seriously regret, however, that many of our co-journalists both in this county and in New York have labored strenuously to paint this section as the most God-forsaken, so to speak, on the face of the globe; void of morals, of enterprise, reeking in disease, lacking business tact, without facilities, and, in fact, such a spot as people only would rest in who could not find space elsewhere.

In defending our city, we naturally took up the most serious of these charges -our immorality. Instead of employing the indelicate language and subterfuge of our accusers, we sought the very opposite of the subject, and proved, by a continued history of our church work, extending over fourteen editions, that, in proportion to the population, Hoboken was second to no city in America as regards its facilities and labor to develop morality.

In counteracting points advanced against our business qualifications or facilities, it is necessary to pursue a similar course, for instance, introducing same time I would be just as well off. frequently as space will permit a faithful report of some one or other of Mr. Drescher? our more extensive enterprises. We therefore propose to tell, in this issue, precisely what our representative learned of the tea, sugar, coffee, butter, etc., trade through the medium of a long branch, Mr. F.J. Drescher, corner Washington and Fourth streets.

The duty of approaching a very busy man for the purpose of interviewing him is a far more delicate undertaking than many outsiders imagine. Our reporter, however, from the large amount of polish and artificial grace obtained from contact with church folks, possesses the faculty of soothing the feelings of the disturbed almost as quickly as they become ruffled.

A call at the store was met with the announcement from a very lively and polite young man that "Mr. Drescher had just gone to his house to take a nap." Our scribe is opposed to napping, and consequently started at double quick time for 202 Hudson street.

A pull at the bell brought forth a charming little maiden, far more interesting even than the young man at the store, who gracefully received my card and disappeared. Through the hall door, which stood ajar, I was startled with "Great guns!

No rest this day, sure. Show him in." Not having heard the word "club," I aforesaid charmer, and, to my surprise, found my victim reclining on a lounge. He raised to receive me, and smilingly remarked that "he was delighted with my call," all of which, under the circumstances, I was forced to doubt. Mr. Drescher-To what may I attrib ute the honor of this visit, Mr. Editor ? Reporter—Well, sir; we want to inform our readers in regard to the grocery trade, just as we did on coal and lumber, and, if you are not busy, I would like to talk with you a few hours on the R.-Well, Mr. Drescher, I am a sort of self-constituted one-horse miniature moderation society, and, if you refuse my association the desired information, the public will construe that the grocery trade is conducted on the adulteration or some other questionable plan, and will give up using tea, coffee, sugar,

D.—That's a fact; I never thought of that. Ask me what you please. R.—How long are you in business, Mr. Drescher?

D.-Oh, lands! Let me see; you were not of much account when I first went the sash factory were among the most to work as junior clerk in a tonsorial establishment on Nassau street, New York. R.—Well, I ain't of much account now, as far as that is concerned; so to figure from the date I was originally of no account, I should calculate you have been in business about thirty years.

D.-That's about the time I was quite a little "shaver." I recollect very well when I took an insane notion of shaving others.

R.-How did you succeed?

D.-Very poorly. My ambition was such that I was anxious to shave, or rather "skin" customers, the first month I was in the business. The proprietor objected to sacrificing his patrons even to so laudable an ambition on the part of his apprentice, and the said apprentice forthwith discharged himself. or, in plain English, I quit.

R.-Did you come across Mr. Barney Bayer, who, I believe, kept a barber shop in Hamburg about that date?

D.-Heavens! no. I was located on Nassau street, New York. How could I meet a man engaged in the same business in Germany?

R.-That's a fact. I had forgotten that the telephone was not in operation in those days. What followed this change?

D.-I entered a ladies' furnishing store on Broadway, where I spentsix months. R.—Was this business distasteful

D.-Well, yes; particularly the department that I had charge of, such as carrying bundles from morning until night; ofttimes waiting until ladies would fit articles at their homes, and frequently being kept out until all

R.—Were these the only objections? D.-No. I was obliged to do all my business on foot. There were no Rowells or O'Learys in those days, and consequently I had no desire to be a pedestrian; besides, I found that at $2 per week I was liable to get behind with my shoemaker, or, to be more explicit, I used up more leather than my extravagant income would warrant; so I decided if I stopped working and walking at the

R.-What was your next experience

D.-Very sad, indeed. I still retain unpleasant recollections and a broken molar as a reminder of my "third round" in the battle of life. I hired out to a gold beater on Union Hill, and and pleasant talk with the leader in this about the first thing I became an adept to was knocking out my own teeth with a heavy hammer. You will admit I had good reasons for resigning in this instance, particularly since the compensation was by no means commensurate with the pain inflicted and loss incurred. R.-To what did you turn your attention next? D.-Oh! many things before reaching my present business. It is a pretty long story in detail; but, if you wish, I will give you a synopsis. R.-Certainly, sir; I would be glad to hear a career which, I am inclined to believe, if not romantic was decidedly eventful and interesting.

D,-After leaving my bench and my tooth at the gold beater's, I worked for Joseph Hall, father of Tom Hall of Between the Acts" cigarette fame. I was with Mr. Hall only one year as a sort of general utility man, or rather boy. I was well treated, boarding in my employer's family, on Hudson street, and only changed because I thought I would do better with Curtis & Co., who "ran" a large distillery. This proved a mistake, however, and I next mustered up courage and followed the found myself bound to Decker & Mandeville, proprietors of a large sash and blind factory in New York.

R.-How did you take to this trade, Mr. Drescher?

D.-Well, evidently I had not struck the right thing yet, though I remained for about three years with this house. R.-What were the particular objections? D.—Rather serious, I assure you; in the first place I was nearly a year cleaning horses, shoveling out the dirt, carrying water up four flights of stairs, and, grocery trade. I should think that was in fact, doing any and everything but D.—Oh, indeed (smiling sarcastically); making saches and blinds. I was finally D.—Yes, I should say so at first; but deputized to hang blinds on tenement my friends frequently asked for certain why don't you make it a few days, or a deputized to hang blinds on tehement my friends frequently asked for certain few meeks, for that matter. I am rushed houses, often from the fourth and fifth articles in that line, and I determined to from about 5 A. M. till all hours at night; stories, and also in laying glass floors; yet would not refuse you a chat of a few months, if you deem it necessary, besides telling all I know about my business.

Stories, and also in laying glass noors, accommodate them, and did so promptly.

R.—How did you manage to conduct fancy to me, assigned the delightful your affairs successfully on both sides to puttying up on the underneath.

R .- Did you next embrace the grocery

D.-Oh, no, not for some years; worked for a short time at a butter stand in Center Market.

R.-How did you make out? D.-First rate; worked up a nice trade and was offered a party ership, which I declined. R.—What followed?

D.-Well, our late war was just breaking out about this period and everybody was going to fight and die for his country. Several of my old shop-mates in enthusiastic, and it was quite natural that I should become imbued with the ame martial spirit.

R.—Did you go to the front?

D.-No: though I tried hard, my parents strenuously objected, my father particularly offering me a bounty to renain home.

R.-This was quite an inducement considering that others were receiving a onus to enlist, was it not?

D.-Yes, and it proved very effective. proposed if a stand was purchased for ne in Washington Market, New York, and stocked, I would remain and attend to business.

Judson Bischof, the man who defies the law in the matter of importing disease-breeding and filthy bedding into this city, was again before the Recorder last Monday, who imposed the full fine. The punishment for this offence cannot be too severe, and it would be a good idea to lock up every individual engaged in the business.

The latest medical bulletins issued from Elberon regarding the President's condition indicate that the sufferer continues to steadily, although slowly, progress towards convalescence. Improvement marks every change in the illustrious invalid's condition, the garbled and distorted reports of the Stalwort organs to the contrary notwithstanding.

Many of the accidents to ferryboats and other smaller craft are occasioned by the indifference, or, rather, chances which the pilots or commanders of heavier vessels are in the habit of taking. The principal is about the same as the driver of a heavy truck who runs into a of satisfaction to us to be able to anlight buggy; he knows the latter is nounce for the information of the atbound to get the worst of it. The law is too loose on this subject.

In spite of numerous attempts at "crookedness" and foul play on the part of a number of "sharp" English turfites, the American horse, Iroquois carried off the honors and emoluments of the far-famed English course, St. Leger. Parole's victory some time ago at the Derby and Iroquois' triumph on Wednesday last, will, perhaps, inoculate the Dragon Slayers with a proper appreciation of American horseflesh.

In private life "hard cheek" sometimes stands in good stead when a poor devil is in a "fix." But the out-Heroding of Herod has been reached by the Republicans when they claim that the Democrats should show their patriotism by waving the advantage they possess in the Senate, and not take advantage of the death of General Burnside and the resignation of Senators Conkling and "Me Too." Should the Democrats allow themselves to pe hoodwinked into this bit of sentimentalism, they should be scouted by the people as mere lickspittles unworthy of the ballots of intelligent voters.

"In the multitude of counselors there is safety," says the sacred writing of Well, then, accordingly in the multitude of physicians there should be such a sense of security as to make a patient at the very point of death believe that he must recover, even had he one feet in Charon's boat and just waiting to be wafted across the mythological Styx. Now, let facts speak for themselves. Six doctors (leaving out the female physician) were, from the beginning, employed to attend on the President during the illness resulting from the bullet of the miscreant Guiteau. Three of the M. D.'s were lately relieved from duty, and the remaining three agreed to allow the patient to satisfy his own mind by taking a rest in "his easy chair." Short, indeed, the time before the too-much-doctored President expressed his sense of the benefit of the ge by his never-to-be-forgotten exression: "Aye, and this should have een done three weeks ago." Further comment is unnecessary.

So many blunders have been made in selecting the public servants in Hudson County, that it would be a good idea for the citizens to first decide what kind of six prizes since the organization, the preser a man they want to fill an office and however, being the most unique, if not the the way business men do in their enter- an enamelled miniature target suspende prises. After they have clearly defined from his mouth. The ground work and sup what they want done, they try to find a port comprise a pair of crossed rifles and a man who can do it. The voters of Hudson County will soon be called upon to elect a proper man to fill the office of sheriff-a very prominent and responsible post.

What kind of a man should we have to fill it?

First of all, he should be a man who commands the respect of the community. His duties are always disagreeable, and the parties with whom he has to do generally feel aggrieved. If the officer is a man universally respected, it will help greatly to do away with this feeling. Unconsciously they will think it must be right if such a man will consent to do it, and irritation will be allayed.

While officers are nominated and elected by parties they will always be politicians; but a sheriff should be, as little as possible, a partisan. By this we do not mean that he should not be warmly attached to his party; but he should not let the measures of his party take the place of the rule of right and wrong. We once heard a very good Presbyterian quote the "Shorter Catelaw and gospel. A sheriff should see clearer and farther than this.

He should be a man of the strictest integrity. His bondsmen are good to protect the city, but forty or fifty years of an upright, honest life will protect the office from disrespect in the minds of men, and make it easier to fulfill the many and great, and the incumbent needs to be fortified by all that a lifelong integrity will bring. "Above reproach, above suspicion," is the only safe rule.

He should be a man of great "tact. This is a difficult word to define but every one feels its meaning. It is an the only speech indulged in by the host. ability to do just the fitting thing at the proper time, and in a way that will irritate or hurt least. It was said of a noted South Carolina family in olden times. that those who were refused favors by them felt more pleasantly than when they had been granted favors by others. They "could say 'No' with such a gre cious tact and tenderness."

Besides such qualifications, the sheriff should be a man of moral and physical courage. He must have the will and the pluck to do his duty, no matter what the sacrifice. Such men we have in the Democratic party of Hudson County, and such a one should be chosen. We want no corner politician for sheriff.

JERSEY JUSTICE AREAD.

Gladly as we hall the brightening prospects of the President's complete re covery from the effects of Guiteau's attempt on his life, it is a further source tempted assassin's defenders-legal and political—that the crutch upon which they leaned to save the miscreant's life in case of the President's death, will prove but a "bruised reed," and pierce the hand of all who depend on it for supsection 78, completely provides for and covers the case of an assassin who may deal the death-producing blow in one Commonwealth and the victim's death taking place in another. Guiteau's defenders were euchered by the forsight of our little State's legislators years ago. We feel proud of New Jersey in this respect; and, revised statutes or no such statutes, should the President's demise take place at his present place of retreat, we would not answer for Guiteau's safety for twentyfriends send him on here for trial, and they will have but a very short time to remain in suspense as to his fate. 'Jersey Justice" will vindicate itself promptly and triumphantly.

SELF-INTERESTED SYMPATHY.

Ignoring all intention of diminishing the responsibility devolving upon our citizens with regard to the sympathy and more solid material aid to be contributed toward the alleviation of the sufferings of the victims of our terrible forest fires, we would wish to impress upon our most loud-mouthed croakers that American citizens never die of starvation. The United States has been feeding Europe for years back; why then should there be any apprehension of our being able to offset the accidental privations of those of our "own household?" We believe there is a "hatchet to grind" in the case of many of these croakers; and we now advise them that, should they continue their dismal howlings many of their friends on "the other side of the water" will begin to see "short crops" in the distance, and die of anticipated starvation even before they become actually hungry.

This little "Said to be true" proved no ex ception to the nature of the contents of that column generally, or, in other words, it turned out a falsehood and a good joke on the supposed fortunate speculator.

The facts in the case, as gleaned from the nost reliable, yet unwilling sources, are as chism" for the Bible; and a great many follows: Ex-Congressman Nick Muller, of men, blinded by party prejudice, are New York, and William Utz bought a joint Revs. W. H. Parmley, D. D., of Jersey City willing to take party measures for their lottery ticket. The former gentleman was shortly afterward notified that the ticket did not draw. A bogus message, however, was 'cooked up" by some wag and ferwarded. or displayed to Utz, who immediately beame excited. He could hardly restrain him self until six P. M., "to take the boys out" (a weakness with which he is not usually afflicted, however). As he gloated over his good fortune his latent generosity developed law. The temptations of the office are to such a degree that "beer and lunch" was not half good enough for "de boys," and nothing short of a wine supper would fittingy celebrate his good fortune. Friends wer invited from all sections to meet at the old Washington Hotel, near the Battery, and men who never drank wine before figurative y swam in the costly liquor. "Mo' vine Mo' vine. > The expense of "de raget," as the guests termed it, must have reached about $150. And yet, in the language of the poet, "Willie was happy." The bill was presented, and we hope, paid.

It has since dawned upon Utz's brillian intellect that the telegram was a huge hoax and he the victim. Inquiries come from all sections of the Eric Railroad about those 40.000 marks (less $150 for celebrating purposes) and the poor deluded fellow's blond locks are getting loose.

It was a cruel joke, and enough to make man "carve his own abdomen." It is a good lesson, however, and will teach Willie that he shoul' ot "count his chickens before they are hached."

Past Sailing.

The Bremen steamer Main, Captain Barre which arrived at this port yesterday, has proved herself a "fast 'un," and no mistake having made the run from Southampton in side of ninedays. In a quiet way we understand there is a slight rivalry between th Main and the new steamer Elbe. The latter though requiring over fifty men in excess of the other and using over sixty tons of coal per day, has only beaten the "old timer' about twelve hours. Captain Barre and Chief Engineer Crawford, of the Main, are among the most experienced and trusted officers of the line, and are naturally proud of their staunch and beautiful vessel. leulty in Sinking the Caisson

The large caisson in the working shaft of the Hudson River Tunnel, at the foot of Morton street, on the New York side, having been sunk 16 feet, has been stopped by the tide water breaking through under the iron shoes and flooding the chamber to the depth of six feet. The break under the caisson is due to the nature of the earth in which the men have to work and to the nearness of the shaft to the river. Although the caisson weighs 400 tons, it is not near heavy enough to pass through the earth, and 100 tons of railroad ircn will be placed on the top to force it down. The calsson is the largest working chamber for underground work ever built, and after four hours at the hands of outraged the air-lock has been put in and the railroad loyal New Jerseymen. INSTALLATION SERVICES.

The Grand Ceremony of Recognition as Colobrated at the Piret Baptist Church.

The First Baptist Church was comfortably illed, Thursday evening, with an apprecia tive assemblage, including many outside riends and several clergymen, who had in ome cases traveled long distances to be resent at the installation of the Rev. George L. Hunt. D. D., who has been officiating a this church for the past two months. The programme arranged for the occasion was nade both select and entertaining, and in ciuded addresses by visiting ministers, in erspersed with music, both vocal and instru nental, by a corps of thoroughly trained

The services were inaugurated by a grand organ solo, volunteered by Mr. T. H. Ward The double quartette, comprising G. D. Finlay and John Ackerman, tenors; Mrs. G. D Finlay and Mrs. A. W. Barkelew, sopranos; Misses Annie Thomas and Ina Finlay, altos and John R. Wiggins and Frank Barkel w bassos, were next heard to good advantage in an exquisite anthem. The Rev. Mr. Str ng of the Presbyterian Church of this city, de livered the Invocation, while the Re . G W Nicholson, of Jersey City, gave several tural selections.

An installation hymn tollowed, when the Rev. F. E. Osborne, of West Hoboken offered the Prayer of Recognition in a most solemn and impressive manner. The Righ Hand of Fellowship was a well-choser ject, which the Rev. W. D. Hedden, D. D., of Orange, forcibly expatiated on for some minutes. Another anthem, and addresses by the W. W. Everts, D. D., of Bergen, and Thoma Rambaut, D. D., L. L. D., when the services were brought to a fitting close by the choice and audience singing the beautiful and touch ing hymn "Nearer, My God, to Thee." A more appropriate selection could not be made such gatherings indeed tending to bring the mortal nearer to God.

The ceremonies all through were arrange and conducted in a masterly manner, and reflect much credit on the promoters. The pulpit was made a perfect floral stand. The Rev. H. D. Miller, D. D., of Greenpoint, presided with dignity. Mr. D. B. Maul, the regular organist, furnished his part in the way of ccompaniments to the choir selections.

After benediction by the pastor, the visiting clergymen and outside friends were furnished another evidence of the proverbia hospitality of the Ladies' Aid Society, connected with the church, who had prepared a amptuous repast in the basement of the building, which was thoroughly enjoyed by their guests.

Yorktown Centennial Motes

The New Jersey Provisional Batallion ha elected Voss' band to accompany it to Yorktown and furnish its martial music.

Brevet Brigadier General E. Burd Grubb, colonel Sixth Regiment, is relieved from duty with his regiment, and will at once assum command of the New Jersey Battalion.

Company C, Third Regiment, has filled its quota for Yorktown, sixty men and their fleers, all of its own comma De Hart will be justly proud of the company

Company D, of New Brunswick, takes forty-six men and three officers of its own ommand to Yorktown and will have details from other companies of the Third Regiment to recruit to the maximum. Gov. Jerome, of Michigan, will attend the Yorktown celebration with ten members of his military staff and an escort of six com nanies of infantry, under command of Col Israel C. Smith, of Grand Rapids.

A meeting of the officers of the Yorktown regiment was held at Trenton last week. The rank and file will be furnished with the new regulation dark blue helmet, and the officer will wear a similar one. There appears to be quite a demand for the privilege of shouldering a musket in these ranks, and every company will fill up to the maximum.

A substantial contribution to the coming entennial celebration at Yorktown is Mr. H. P. Johnston's volume, "The Yorktown Campaign," just published by Harper & Brothers The book is copiously illustrated with many and fine engravings from famous historical paintings by Trumbull, Sir Joshua Reynolds Gilbert Stuart, and others. It is no little compliment to Mr. Johnston's accuracy that he has been consulted in locating the camp ing grounds of the militia from the variou States, which it is designed to make identical with the camping grounds of the troops from their respective States a century ago.

The United States steamer Tennessee (firs rate), flagship of the North Atlantic station Rear Admiral R. H. Wyman, United States Navy, commander-in-chief, anchored last week in the North River, foot of Twenty third street, New York, together with the United States steamers Vandalia, Kearsarge Yantic, Saratoga, Constitution and St. Mary's She had participated in the Groton center celebration and has now returned after cruise to the eastward for coal and supplie The Yantic and Vandalia have already arrived here, and the Kearsarge is now on her way to Philadelphia. On the 25th inst. all the vessels are to rendezvous in Hampton Roads for prelin inary drills and exercis and will then proceed to Yorktown to assist in the centennial ceremonies.

The programme for the celebration as finally agreed upon includes four days, the 18th, 19th, 20th and 21st of next October. first day addresses of welcome will be de-livered by Governor Holliday, of Virginia. The corner-stone of the monument will be laid with Masonic ceremonies. Ex-Governor Winthrop, of Massachusetts, will be the orator of the day; Col. Hope, of Norfork, will be the poet, and Paul H. Hayne, of South Carolina, will conduct the rendition of the National Ode. On the 19th inst. President Garfield had promised to deliver an address, but will hardly be able. On the 20th a grand display of United States troops and militia of the different States will take place. On the 21st the naval display. There will be at least 20,000 militia present from the different States, and over 5,000 Masons. The Governors and staffs of all the States will be present, and a representation of the French Government will be honored guests.

The following report of the Committee on Finance and Salaries was presented and read:

To the Council of the City of Hoboken:

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Finance and Salaries, to whom were referred various petitions for rebates of taxes and assessments on lots in that portion of the city known as the Coster Estate, or the meadows, beg leave to submit their report thereon as follows:

The various petitions presented to the Council have been allowed to remain upon the files of the committee for several months, because your committee desired to act with great caution, and for the best interests of the tax-payers of the city:

The objections made to any compromise or ad-

the best interests of the tax-payers of the city:

The objections made to any compromise or adjustment of these clair is have been fully considered by your committee, but the increasing amount of arrears on the loz in question, and the present deficiency in the tax appropriations, and the annual increase of such dediciency show beyond any question that a remedy should be applied now, before the evil grows so large as to seriously inconvenience our muncipal finances.

the tuttre taxes prompay. Funds opinion war-rants such a course and financial wisdom justifies it. If it be not done, Hoboken in a few years will find itself in the position now occupied by Jersey City, with enormous arrears of uncollectable taxes and assessments, and a tax rate which will be al-roost unbearable.

Actuated by these considerations your committee have considered the whole matter, examining into the present and prospective value of the lots in question, the amount of taxes and assessments now in arrears, and the proportion thereof which should be paid for a release, and have reached the following general conclusions and recommendations:

ions:

First—The principal of all taxes and water rents more than four years in arrears should be paid, the nterest and costs being released.

Becond—All other taxes and water rents in arrears should be paid, with interest and costs of devertising sale, if sold.

Fourth—That in the particular cases prese to which the forgoing recommendations do no ply, rebates should be allowed as follows:

on in each case.

The proposition of John H. Bonn, to pay $5,500, on his eleven lots, and the proposition of Samuel Hall, to pay fitty per cent of all assessments on lots 14-21, in block 109, and lots 9-12, in block 49, should be accepted as made.

should be accepted as made.

Fifth—As a condition to the above, the lots should be filled in with wholesome filling: said filling to be done under the direction of the Street Commissioner and certified to by a City Surveyor.

Sixth—The propositions to be carried into effect by January ist, 1882, as to the payment of money, and within six months as to filling.

In addition thereto your Commistee deem it their duty to recall to your attention the fact that from time to time city bonds have been issued to take up certificates issued for the different improvements for which the above mentioned assessments were levied, and that any moneys received should be devoted to the following purposes:

First—The payment of arrears of water rents due from the city to the Water Commissioners.

Second—From the taxes and assessments less

Second—From the taxes and assessments less than four years in arrears, any deficiency due the Water Board or in the appropriations should be paid, and the balance placed in the Contingent Fund.

Third—All taxes and assessments more than four years in arrears should be placed in the Sink-ing Fund for the payment of principal and interest in the bonded debt of the city.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
