TALKING ABOUT BULL RUN. How Henry J. Raymond and Dr. Rus-sell Rode Like Mad for Washington-Humors of the Occasion.

Probably the best description of the wild stampede which followed the battle of Bull Run ever printed, appeared in the Pittsburg Dispatch recently. The historian is Mr. Kennedy Marshall, of Butler, Pa., a prominent lawyer, and brother to Thomas Marshall, the Pennsylvania Stalwart who some weeks ago declined a nomination on Cameron's State ticket. Mr. Marshall, at the date of the battle, was a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, and with hundreds of persons had followed the Army to see the Rebels crushed by McDowell. Mr. Marshall was accompanied by Henry J. Raymond, editor of the New York Times, and Dr. Russell, the famous war correspondent of the London Times.

"Raymond, Russell and I," began Mr. Marshall, "were seated on the roadside taking lunch, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. While we were talking together we heard locomotives whistling over on the Manasses Railroad. The train stopped in a cut out is sight. Pretty soon out marched a lot of soldiers in gray, with a stand of brigade colors, and came at a double quick across the field. It was Kirby Smith with the last installment of Johnson's army from Winchester, which had eluded Patterson. The panic which had seized our troops when these fresh fighters hurled themselves at the Union lines, already tottering with exhaustion, was wilder than anything in military history since three Austrian soldiers, coming out of the woods to surrender after the battle of Solferino, put the whole French army to rout for a time. Regiments that had stood up to their work bravely since 9 o'clock in the morning melted away in a few minutes at the sight of the gray charging columns. There was no knowing what force was behind Smith, and Hunter's men didn't wait to see. They took the road toward Centreville, pellmell, every man for himself. The infantry charged their own batteries, cut the horses loose, jumped on their backs and went to the rear at a gallop. Russell disappeared on the tide at the top of his speed. Raymond drifted away from me, and I didn't let many pass me in the race myself. It was the further the faster, and after covering what seemed to me about five miles, I dropped exhausted beside the road to rest.

"By-and-bye Raymond came along. He had found his barouche and he took me in. We whirled along in the crush of ambulances, artillery horses, privates, officers and camp-followers on foot, ladies and politicians in carriages and as I could, while the gray-haired old 200 or 300 steers, all making the best of martinet eyed me sternly, 'I saw whole ladies and politicians in carriages and as I could, while the gray-haired old their way to Washington. A drove of regiments throw down their guns and cattle had been driven out behind the Army to be slaughtered after the battle. They were stampeded with the rest and added to the confusion. There were officers, men, Congressmen and Texas many amusing incidents. Earlier in the steers running neck and neck down the day I had noticed L. L. McGuffin, of New Castle, since Judge in this Judicial District, now dead. He was carrying water to one of the field hospitals. He had been one of the 'On to Richmond' crowd, had come down to stiffen up the President's spine, and was loud in advocating a vigorous prosecution of the "He was a large man and wore a long linen duster. When the rush to the rear began he ran with the rest. He was fat and as the crowd gradually swept past him he at last began to think the rebels must be almost within grasp of his flying duster tails. Blind with sweat and dust, he tripped on a log and fell flat on his stomach, or as flat as he could fall on such a round stomach. A zouave, who was hard at his heels, came down with emphasis on top. Mr. McGuffin was certain that the Philistines were upon him, and with a weak endeavor to roll his eyes around, that he might see his foreman's face, exclaimed: 'Great God, gentlemen, can't this thing be compromised? "Before Raymond and I had driven far an ordinance wagon crashed into our barouche and demolished it. I mounted one of the carriage horses. Raymond was in despair.

"'Get on the other horse,' I cried.

"'But I can't stick on.' "'Then good evening; I'm going to "'Hold on; I can ride behind the nigger,' exclaimed the distinguished editor, and he was about to clamber up behind the colored driver, when a carriage drove past with some Congressmen whom he knew and he got in with them.

"I galloped away, but before I had gone far I saw a regiment drawn up in stopping the fugitives. I took to the fields, executed a flank movement and got past with a few others. When I came to the little field telegraph flice, near Fairfax Court House, I was riding ahead of my party. A wire had been laid out thus far and dispatches from line across the road, with fixed bayonets

I showed the sentinel the name of Scott, told him it was General Winfield Scott, the Commander-in-Chief, and he passed me through. I got over don't think you really mean it." the Long Bridge at Washington at 9 o'clock, just as the countersign was being given out for the night. I rode up to Willard's Hotel, through streets lay your head right down, and I'll tell thronged with people, wild with excitement over the favorable telegrams that had come in from the front. The brass was making a rousing 'On to Richmond' speech from the balcony of the hotel. I walked into the office, under the sound of his inspiring words, knowing how it; "at the next station I'll get you a cup soon those cheers would be hushed to of tea, and when we arrive at our destiwhispers of afright. "'Good evening,' I replied, and walked out of the door. The crowd had got the news by this time from Chadwick, and I was almost pulled to pieces. Somebody noticed that I was wearing a gray suit, and shouted: 'He's a rebel.' There were several suggestions that I be lynched for attempting to stimulate a rising of the rebel element in the city. General Mansfield hurried off to the War Department, and pretty soon a Sergeant and a squad of soldiers came for me and took me to the Department. President Lincoln and his entire Cabinet were there, with old General Scott, anxiously waiting for news from the front. Simon Cameron had known me as a member of the Legislature and vouched for my loyalty. There was very little said while I told my story briefly.

"The President sat with his head bent down upon his hand, and was evidently very much depressed. Simon Cameron, then Secretary of War, was the coolest head in the Cabinet. He immediately consulted with Scott as to hurrying reinforcements across the Potomac, and orders were issued to stop all fugitives at Long Bridge. They asked me very few questions, but after I had told my story and was dismissed the newspaper correspondents nearly devoured me. Just as I came out of the War Department I met one of General McDowell's aids bringing in the report of his com-mander's defeat."

"WHAT A PARE WAS THERE MY COUNTRYMEN!"

What a terrible humiliation, a big come-down, it must have been to Barney Bayer, the proud owner of such an "old" paper as the Democrat (Rep.), when he decided to "compete with a concern" which, although "scarcely known to exist," nevertheless had so badly "damaged his good name, fame, character and reputation." He must have decided on this compromising step on rather short notice, and the necessity must have been very pressing, for it is only a short time since he declared many things not exactly consistent with that decision. Nothing could ever persuade him that he did not own the per-centrious by mail must be prepaid, and petual monopoly of the official printing; hacriptions will not be considered unless snade him that he did not own the perhe would never allow that the ADVER-TISER could be recognized by the authorities: he would never do the printing for less than the legal rate; throwing it open to competition would only "compel" him to again certiorari the case, and so on, to the end of the chapter.

And yet, he has abandoned the ground FIFTH YEAR NO. 29 upon which he bases his suit, by bidding against the ADVERTISEB, for by so doing he has acknowledged that the ADVER-TISER has a right to compete.

His bid was irregular, was not on the regular form and was not accompanied by the proper bond. It was prefaced by a lot of rigmarole, to the effect that although the Democrat (Rep.) was alone eligible, he nevertheless deemed it "advisable," &c., and offered to do the work for the price agreed upon by the ADVER-TISER last year, offering as an extra inducement to continue to print a "full zation of our forces sometimes win the fight. synopsis" of the proceedings in the A United States Senator is to be elected this German Journal, without "compensa-

Where are the rights, the "charter provisions," the law points, that "any one possessed of the slightest legal mind" can see? Has he at last awakened to the fact that with all his falsehoods he couldn't make fools of the Councilmen? He had exactly the same ground for a suit this year that he had last, and by bidding he has given it up.

The Corporation Attorney has reported to the Mayor and Council that the Market Square suits are in such a shape that it will be impossible to take an apthe Philadelphia Bulletin, "has had his peal. There seems to be a disposition Niven, and the present Corporation Attorney Besson, for losing the cases for the city. Whether either or both of these lawyers have made any mistake in conducting the cases can make but little difference as they must have inevitably zone against the city, even had they been appealed.

The fatal error was made at the very outset by the city authorities, and con- of the baggage car, Mr. Livingston placed sisted in the illegality of the evictions. No matter how long a notice was given the two came together, and stoped to drop the tenants of the Market Square property, the city had no right to take forcible possession without an order from the Court, and having done so, was liable in damages for trespass.

The jury having assessed the total damages at $3,168.86 the city is bound to his home, 88 Park avenue, where Mrs. Living pay this amount. There is in addition ston, who had been spending the summer in to this $191.62 for costs and Sheriff's fees, making a total of $3,360,48, which the physician has discovered no internal incity must pay. Hoboken is fortunate in getting off so easily, and the money had better be paid without more ado. The city alone is to blame. If the evictions had been properly managed this $3,360.-48 would not have to be paid.

THREE NOTHINGS.

The Mayor tried to make up for lost time by sending in three vetoes this week, as he had just skipped a week an objection to a perfectly proper action cleaning and repairing work; another was a little bit of spite against a man whom the Council had appointed an inspector on some city work. The other was simply an echo of the Corporation Attorney's advice to the Council in the Board adjourned. matter of the Newark street dock. The Council knew exactly what the Corporation Attorney thought a week before his Honor sent in the objection, and, to use a pet phrase of his own, "it was a work vetorial" phrases, "it were time a halt be called." More Boy Criminals.

Hoboken is going to get up a reputation record. She has sent several burglars ranging from ten to seventeen years of age to the Court House for trial within a few months, and the past week has added three to the list of juvinile thieves, whose united ages do not amount to thirty-three years. The first case was reported Monday. A boy who had given his name as Charles Wilson, and his age as twelve years, was some time ago befriended by John Brede, a blacksmith, comfortable home and work, for which he was well paid. On Monday he ran away money and articles valued at as much more. The police have no clue of his whereabouts.

On Tuesday two other youngsters were arstore of School Trustee Anderson, on Washseven years, both residing in Grand street. The elder boy acknowledged that he had at tempted to rob the store and that he had suc coaxed the little fellow to go with him. The atter hadn't stolen anything. Recorder McDonough considered that the best place for the child was his home and he was sent to his parents. Gannon was held for trial.

Mr. Livingston's Pall.

Mr. W. J. Livingston, the well-known tenor, met with an accident Monday night which will lay him up for some time with broken bones, but his injuries are not of the serious nature described in the exaggerated accounts of the accident in the daily papers. Livingston is a baggage master on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad. At the time of the accident the train to which his car was attached had switched off on a trestlework at Boonton, N. J., used principally for coal cars.

The train was backing up to take on another car, and standing on the rear platform one foot on the platform of the other car as the "pin" in the coupling. Just at this mo ment the cars parted suddenly and losing his balance he fell through the trestlework to the ground, a distance of about twenty-five feet. His leg was broken below the knee, a shoulder was dislocated and he had sustained a slight scalp-wound. He was brought to the country, joined him on Tuesday. His juries. His leg and shoulder have been se and he is doing as well as can be expected.

The Police Board.

One of those fortnightly farces, called by courtesy, a meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners, took place on Monday evenng. The "man from New Durham." who s few weeks ago preferred charges against Officer Eagan for neglect of duty, sent in a communication formaily withdrawing those charges. However, this was not enough for the Board. Charges had been made against Eagan, and although they had never been sworn to, were withdrawn, and no one appeared to prosecute them or attempt to in regard to paying the laborers on street prove them, the officer was placed on trial He made a general denial of the charges and produced three reputable witnesses who testifled in his behalf. No "decision" reached, the case being referred to "Star Chamber" session and then laid over two weeks. After a little routine business, the

TAKING A FRESH START. Astonishing Improvements Along the Water Front.

The New York Herald of a recent date, con tained the following flattering notice of our city and the improvements now being made on our water front:

"One who now enters 'the harbor of Hobo-forced to marvel at its unusual aspect. The water front of that venerable neighbor appears to have undergone a sudden reawaken Congress on the question of the passage of ing. Where before were creaking piers, sheds the River and Harbor bill over the veto is as hoary with years of service and a settled appearance of things generally, are now an acre or so of new piling, many men and machines Hardenbergh, Dem., and Jones, Rep., paired. at work and a block cleared of its old frame Senator Sewell paired, Senator McPherson buildings just back of the piers. When our reporter went over there to see what it all meant almost the last old frame building referred to was wending its way slowly up Newark street ready for new duty in a less conspicuous sphere of life. The piers, which are to be finished about the 1st of October are the property of the Hamburg American Packet Comaany, and their construction is the majority. But before that will is progressing under the direction of Lederle & duly reached and promulgated it is your Co., of this city. The water front of 450 feet was originally purchased from the Stevens estate by the New York Dry Dock Company The old pier at the foot of First street was uccessively occupied by a number of steamship companies, and now the entire property is in the hands of the Hamburg American Packet Company, which also owns the land as far back as the long-talked-of River street improvement.

"The Eagle Steamship Company first had dockage there, then the Red Star line, then the Wilson line, the White Cross line, the London steamers of the National line, and then the Wilson line again. The First street pier was burned on the 6th of last November, and this may have expedited the reconstruct tion of this part of the river front. The new pier is fifty feet in width, adjoining on the south side the old pier of the Hoboken Land and Improvement Company, which is twentyfive feet wide. The length of the new pier is 689 feet. North of it 177 feet is the second new pier, now building, north of the foot of First street. This is 80 feet wide and 708 feet long. The bulkhead connecting the two piers is 10 feet wide, and the whole will be shedded to gether, making accommodations that ought to be sufficient for the largest of steamship companies. North of the First street pier is another, which has not yet been touched by for producing the youngest criminals on the wand of improvement, and is also owned by the same company. Half its flooring is torn away at the present time, and the remainder is used only by pedestrians, and used with care at that. "The Newark street pier extends twenty five feet over the line of the street, and, as the latter belongs to the city, a claim has been made that it also owns such portion of the pier. No interference with the work has been made, however. The asking of an injunction Corporation Attorney Besson advised them against it. Suits are now pending concern from his benefactor, taking with him $30 in ing the ownership of the water front and the Corporation Attorney opined that if they were decided in favor of the city then the city would own the piers; if not, then he rested for attempting to tap the till at the thought it would be unwise to have inter fered with a valuable improvement. The ington street. They were John Gannon, aged land leading to the piers has been cleared so fourteen years, and Henry Koehnen, aged as to give an excellent idea of where the River street improvement was or is to be. It was intended to cut it through from the Stevens estate to Newark street, affording ceeded in similar attempts before. He had more room for traffic on the water front, the need of which is now keenly felt. The re pair shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at the foot of Second street have been and are still the insurmountable impediment to the undertaking. That portion of the mythical River street, between New ark and First streets will now, however, be partly graded for the use of the steamship company. Strange to say the Hoboken Land and Improvement Company (a corporate name for the Stevens estate), which pays about three-fourths of the city's taxes, has no hand in these important improvements. Mr. Macy, of that company, said they were only interested in so far as the improvements would benefit the city generally. "When all has been accomplished Hoboken will have reason to feel proud of this the most frequented portion of its water front. already has a handsome ferry house; the new piers are sure of a fine appearance; the land next to them is to be filled up with presentable buildings for the use of the steamship company, and behind all are the handsome shops of the Hoboken Land and Improvement Company, which have been recently erected. Every citizen whom the reporter approached with reference to these changes could hardly speak of them with calmness, but chuckled as he talked of the new prosperity which had befallen the

Two Attempted Suicides.

Wm. A. Lee, an old man who only lacked one year of four score, and who has knocked around Hoboken for a long time—sort of good-for-nothing," as the police call himwas apparently tired of life and attempted to commit suicide Wednesday, by taking Paris green. He took a mouthful of the dry powder, which choked him so that he couldn't swollow it and had to spit it out. He was taken in hand by the police and the City Physician administered an emetic to guard against the effect of any of the poison that might have found its way into the man's stomach, and the Recorder sent him to Snake Hill for a three month's recuperation. Another attempt to commit suicide oc curred Thursday morning at about 11 o'clock. A man jumped from the "bridge" at the ferry house into the water. Thomas Bedell, a ferryman, saw him jump and saved his life by fishing him out with a boat-hook as soon as he rose to the surface. Special Officer Brown and Patrolman Murray brought the man to the station house. He was apparently on the verge of delirium tremens. He said that some people were trying to shoot him and he would rather be drowned than shot. He gave his name as Jacob Nagel, single, aged twenty-eight, of Orchard street Jersey City Heights, was born in Germany and is by trade a baker. The Recorder sent him to Snake Hill for ninety days.

Laying the Pipes.

On Monday morning the contractor for the Ou Monday morning the contractor for the laying of the new water mains from Hoboken to the reservoir of the Hackensack Water Company on the Heights, broke ground at Willow and Tenth streets, and commenced laying the pipes. About a block and a haif of pipe has been laid, the work having now progressed to a point about half way between Eleventh and Twelfth streets on Wil-mpleted by October 1st, the contr feiting $25 per day for every day beyon that time that the work shall remain incom plete. Regist ar Murphy says that it can and probs ly will be done in about five ceks from i e time it was com water works has been done thoroughly expeditiously, and when the city shall have enced the use of the Hackensack water ext November the affair will stand as a shining example of a "city contract" being completed within the specified time. This is mething that too rarely happens and the water company is entitled to some credit for its promptness in keeping faith with the

There will be no Council meeting next week an adjournment having been taken on Tuesday night to the 29th inst. Some of the men bers will take advantage of this short vacation to take a run into the country for a little rest and fresh air. Chairman Miller will join some of his family at Lexington, N. Y., near the Catskills. Councilman Timken will remain at home and look after his business, only joining his family at Schooley's Mountain on Sundays. Councilman Kenney says he will go up to Weehawken for a couple of nours, get a glass of beer, and spend the rest of the vacation at 75 Washington street. Councilman Stein will run down to Asbury Park and Ocean Beach. Councilman Kaufmann will take a trip to Whitehall on Lake Champlain. Councilman Lee will go to the sea shore "off and on." Councilman Valleau will probably go to the mountains, and Councilman Grassmann is yet to be

An A 1 Excursion.

Among the many excursions around New York, none are more pleasant than the trip to Long Branch on the palace steamer City of Richmond commanded by Captain J. C. Kastendick. The steamer leaves Sixth street dock at 8:20 every morning arriving at the Iron Pier at about 11 o'clock, and leaves again at 5:30 thus enabling passengers to enjoy a splendid surf bath, a good dinner, and visit the many objects of interest at Long Branch. The arrangements of the steamer are first-class in every particular. A fine quartet club accompanies the boat and also an excellent hand of music: the refreshments both "dry" and "wet goods" are under the personal supervision of Captain Kastendick, which is a sufficient guarantee that every thing is all "O. K." This grand excursion only costs sixty cents. Try it.

Found Drowned.

At 1:30 P. M. yesterday the body of an unnown man was found floating in the river at the foot of Newark street, between the new dock and the ferry slip. He was apparently fifty years of age and wore the clothing of a vorking man in comfortable circumstances The body was conveyed to Crane's morgue and the County Physician notified. It bore no marks of violence and had probably been in the water forty-eight hours. Nothing was found in the clothing that gave the slightest clew to the identity of the drowned man.

The following communication from his Hono Mayor Besson was presented, read and, on motion of Councilman Timizen, received and referred to the Committee on Streets and Assessments:

I return without approval claims of "Edward Stack, Acting Street Commissioner," $54.50, $42.50, $3.00, pay rolls for cleaning streets, repairing streets, and cleaning receiving basins, respectively, as ordered paid 1st instant.

streets, and cleaning receiving basins, respectively, as ordered paid ist instant.

I know no such person as "Edward Stack, Acting Street Commissioner," We have a Street Commissioner, a duly appointed and bonded city officer as an Acting Street Commissioner. There is no provision made even for an Assistant Street Commissioner. No one can perform the duties of the office but the Street Commissioner himself. If vacancy occur, the duties lie dormant until the office be filled. However, no vacancy exists; Michael Heffernan's right to the office is undisputed, and although he has been incapacitated for some time back by reason of sickness from attending to the duties of his office, it has been the custom in such case for your Committees on Streets and Assessments and Sewers to assume charge in the cleaning and repairing of the streets and receiving basins and thus save the city any inconvenience or expense that might otherwise be occasioned by the unavoidable absence of the Street Commissioner. Understand me, I do not deny the right of the Council to appoint by resolution a superintendent for such work when the Street Commissioner be incapacitated from duty, but no such action has been taken by your body, and Edward Stack in no capacity has any right to receive the city's money to pay the workmen in the city's employ, and the Council has no right to order it to be paid to him.

E. V. S. BESSON,

The following communication from his Honor Mayor Besson was presented, read and, on motion of Councilman Timken, received and referred to the Committee on Streets and Assessments:

I return without approval resolution of ist instant, appointing Michael McHale as inspector on the improvement of Clinton street, between Fourth and Sixth streets, at a compensation of two dollars and a half per working day.

In the first place, the contract for the improvement has not yet been awarded, and consequently there be no haste in the appointment of the inspector. In the second place, your appointee is totally unfit for so responsible a position. I do not think there be a member of your body who would give him private employment of such a nature at any price. I am sure I would not. Property owners on the line have called upon me saying they would prefer paying that he have nothing to do with the work; which evinces that they know him or have heard of him, too.

Mr. Yorrath, owning one hundred fast on the or nave nearu of nim, too.

Mr. Vorrath, owning one hundred feet on the line, is the choice of many of the property owners for the position. He is willing to serve gratuitously, he is deeply interested in the improvement, he has plenty of spare time, he would undoubtedly attend to the duties, he is fully capable and reliable, and I do not think a better selection could be made.

I return without approval resolution of 1st in-stant, directing the Corporation Attorney to pro-cure an injunction against the further building of the dock at the foot of Newark street.

the dock it the foot of Newark street.

In the opinion of the Corporation Attorney, it be impolitic to interfere in this matter, pending the lecision of the United States Circuit Court in the city's suit lately tried for the possession of the terminus of Newark street.

If the decision be in our favor, the dock will urs, without cost. If against us, we will have a ved a valuable private improvement.
