VOL. VIII. NO. 30.

HOBOKEN, N. J., SATURDAY, AUGUST 26, 1882.

PRICE THREE CENTS.

A Talk to the Girls. A father, talking to his careless daughter, said: "I want to speak to you of your mother. It may be that you have noticed a careworn look upon her face Of course it has not been brought there by any act of yours, still it is your duty to chase it away. I want Stuhr, you to get up to-morrow morning and get breakfast; and when your mother comes and begins to express her surprise, go right up to her and kiss her in the You can't imagine how it will brighten up her dear face. Besides, you owe her a kiss or two. Away back when you were a little girl she kissed you when no one else was tempted by your fever-tainted breath and swollen face. You were not as attractive then as you are now. And through those years of childish sunshine and shadows she was always ready to cure by the magic of a mother's kiss, the little, dirty, chubby hands whenever they were injured in those skirmishes with the rough old world. And then the midnight kisses with which she routed so many bad dreams as she leaned about your restless pillow, have all been on interest these long, long years. Of course she is not so pretty and so kissable as you are but if you had done your share of the work during the last ten years the contrast would not have been so marked. Her face has more wrinkles than yours far more, and yet if you were sick that face would appear to you more beautiful than an angel's as it hovered over you, watching every opportunity to minister to your comfort, and every one of those wrinkles would seem to be bright wavelets of sunshine chasing each other over the dear face. She will leave you one of these days. These burdens, if not lifted from her shoulders, will break her down. Those rough, hard hands that have done so many necessary things for you will be crossed upon her lifeless breast. Those baby kiss will be forever closed, and those sad, tired eyes will have opened in eternity, and then you will appreciate your mother; but it will be too late."-

DISEASE is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this printerly working that ciple. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and, by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and Main from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distrassing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of imposters, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

Spielmann & Brush, CITY SURVEYORS. CIVIL ENGINEERS AND ARCHITECTS. 13 NEWARK STREET, HOBOKES:

To David Lamb.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersev, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Otto Schuitz is complainant and you are defendant, you are required to appear and plead, answer or demur to the said complainant's bill of complaint on or before the twenty-third day of August next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to strictly foreclose a mortgage given by Auguste Frezard to Marie J. Bottler on lands situate in the township of West Hoboken, in the county of Hudson and State of New Jersey, dated the first of June, 1870, and you, David Lamb, are made defendant because you hold a subsequent mortgage on the same premises, made by Jean B. DuBols and wife to Francis P. Durando, dated the twenty-first day of December, 1876, and by said Francis P. Durando assigned to you, and the said bill prays that you be decreed to pay the amount due to the said complainant within a certain time or that you be foreclosed of all equity of redemption of in and to said mortgaged premises.

> The Jersey City Journal gives the following description of the new abattoirs and cattle yards at Weehawken: "Chicago, which has the largest abattoirs and cattle yards in the world, will have to look to her laurels, or else Weehawken will steal a march on her. The twenty-acre market farm which bloomed this time last year, at this place, with all kinds of 'garden sass,' is now covered with long streets of cattle pens and other buildings. Six streets run east and west and three north and south and each one is thirty feet wide, and all are to be paved with Belgian blocks. The street operations in cattle on a large scale will be inaugurated by the middle of September.

Under the ridge of the sheds the cribs are arranged and the cattle placed head to head on the opposite side; the cribs are made to fold back when the cattle are fed so as to give more room. In the centre of the yards there is an attractive-looking elevated building, having four wings in the form of a cross. This is to be the Exchange, and will contain the various offices and a bar and lunch room. A golden bull on top of this building shows which way the wind blows. A siding brings the cattle trains directly into the yards, where they are landed on a platform, floored with pitchpine planks, 900 feet long and 30 feet wide. Almost Another Hudson River Tunnel Disaster.

What might have been a duplicate of the tunnel horror of 1880 occurred Sunday. A force of sixteen men, including Engineer Clift, vere in the heading of the tunnel at the foot of Morton street. New York, at about 5 o'clock P. M., when the water from the river overhead burst into the heading and filled it from the further end to the air-lock fifteen feet back, but all escaped without injury. The section of the tunnel in which the blow-out occurred is the last one undergoing construc tion. All the men were in the cylinder working by the glare of an electric light, when a hissing sound announced their danger. The strong pressure of air which is kept up in the incompleted portions of the tunnel had found a vent through the sand of the river bed. An order of retreat was given, and in quick time all made their way into the great iron vessel whose doors closed automatically behind them as the water made its way in and the air pressure was spent. But three minutes clapsed after the first signal of danger befor the bulkhead plates gave way and the earth was blown out, admitting the body of water that, when it came, filled theiron shell of the heading in a second. Engineer Clift and his men had only been out of harm's way a minute and a half before this took place. The way back to the caisson through the completed part of the tunnel was clear and dry behind them.

One thing is pretty certain, if some one had not killed Lahey, he would have killed some one himself, for he was wild with drink and was armed with a knife, which he was flourishing.

If Warren did kill Lahey, it is not certain that he did not do it in self-defense and while in the performance of his duty, and if this should be shown to be the case, the killing was justifiable, and he should receive a prompt vindication by the Bergen County authorities.

on that day. She is a beauty. The last of those frame houses that stood in the way of opening River street has been slid down to Bloomfield street.

Active preparations are being made for the annual moonlight excursion of the City Club up the Hudson on the 30th inst.

There will be preaching in the M. E. Free Tabernacle, Park avenue, to-morrow, morning and evening, by Dr. Manaton.

The railroad companies terminating in or near this city will be the best customers of the Hackensack Water Company.

The district lying above the cave on the river walk and back of it towards Weehawken, is rarely if ever patroled by our police, and as a natural consequence it has becom a resort for low characters.

Since the removal of all those old rookeries at the foot of Newark street, the place wears a more cheerful aspect. When River street is cut through and those warehouses are erected it will look better yet. That talked-of "knocking out" contest between a well-known saloon keeper of the Fourth Ward and an able-bodied ex-policeman has been declared off for the present on account of the illness of the latter. The heavy fall of rain on Wednesday morning was received by the people of this section with all due than fulness. The preceding drought had parched the earth, withered the > Fires during seasons of drought are always dreaded, and this city has been fortunate in this respect this season. There were only three alarms of fire this week, and in neither case was serious damage done. One was at a house on Willow street, between First and Second, and was caused by the exolosion of a lamp in a kerosene stove. Smoky chimneys caused alarms to be sounded from Court street, between Newark and Ferry, and from the corner of Second and Willow, In each case our "fire laddies" answered promptly.

What Kind of Reform is This?

The story told by Frank Baur, aged fifteen whose parents reside on Jefferson steect, this city, and who was arrested on Monday by order of Recorder McDonough on the com plaint of the boy's neighbors, who said he was a runaway from the Jamesburg Reform School, is one that needs investigation. If such abuses as the child alleges, really exist at that reformatory institution, the management of the concern should have thorough overhauling.

The boy said that after he had been at the school about three years he was hired out to farmer and snuff manufacturer named Fishlin, at Spottswood. This man and his family treated him cruelly. While at work in a field one day his master knocked him down because he said he was hungry, and the same day he beat him with an iron stove poker over the head and legs. The boy showed a lacerated wound on his leg in corroboration of this portion of his statement The wife of the farmer made him stand at the wash-tub while his wound was still painful, services.

The first chance he got he ran away and came back to Hoboken. He walked all the way, and when he got here he was hungry Seeing a baker's wagon on the street, he abstracted two rolls, for which he was arrested Attempted Assassination at Union Hill.

At one time Bartholomew Haas was a respected member of society at Union Hill. It was during this period that he accumulated considerable property. In an evil hour for him, he started a liquor saloon. He rapidly degenerated and for some time past has been known as a common drunkard. On Wednes day his wife Felicia had him arrested on the charge of being an habitual drunkard and with having beaten her. When Recorder Sleichert sentenced the old man to ninety days at Snake Hill, the prisoner suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and fired point blank at the Recorder's head. Officer Reilly, who saw the motion, with rare presence of mind, sprang forward and by a quick blow of his club struck the pistol and diverted the course of the The leaden missile whizzed past Recorder Sleichert's head and buried itself in the ceiling.
