It will pay intending buyers to call and examine my extensive stock of FALL DRESS GOODS, Plaids, Flannels,

BLANKETS, MILLINERY, &c., before purchasing elsewhere, and see the value I am offering.

I think I can truthfully say that the stock is better selected, larger, and more varied, than any other season hitherto.

I have an astonishing line of Colored Almeas at 10c, same as I sold last year at 15c.; at 90, double widths at 16c., worth 20 to 25c. Als. 2 a wonderful line of Whit Blankets at $1.50 per Pair.

Parfect Goods. I would also announce to my I cruerous patrons and he lends that I have received a splendid stock of Present—Trustees Anderson, Benson, Blackburn, Brown, Harksen, Havens, Kerr, Mu nson, Reid, Ingleson, McCulloch and President Grif ten.

There were only three vetoes this week. Three "little ones for a cent."

Be sure that your vote on Tuesday will help to prevent the election of a Republi-

Look out for that Democratic tidal wave on Tuesday. Have the Republicans any ark of safety to fly to?

A careful canvass of the votes in the Ninth District, gives a clear Democratic majority of 78, on a strict party issue.

It is highly encouraging to note the excellent work that is being done by Democrats throughout the city and county. The mass meeting at Odd Fellows' Hall, Monday night, was a decided success. The people there were told some wholesome truths, and the issues involved in the present campaign were fully explained. So plain and forcible were the arguments that had there been any "doubting Thomases" present they must have been convinced that the occasion was not one for indifference, that no mere local issues were at stake, bu. .hat a more important Congressional and Assembly contest had never taken place in this county than the one to be decided at the polls on Tuesday.

The party issues are important. It would never do to permit the Demos<sub>1 50</sub> cratic stronghold of Democratic Jersey to be represented in Congress by a Re-**J. SUBSCRIPTIONS By mail must be prepaid, and publican. If we are to believe the signs of the times, the Democratic tidal wave of the times, the Democratic tidal wave many of his political enemies, who will is under way and will inevitably sweep give him their votes for the office as it the country. Our next Congress will be not a political one. Democratic, at least in the Lower House, and there Hudson County should be (Experts at the Pest Office at Hoboken, N. J., as represented by the candidate of the people-the Democratic candidate. In the Senate the strength of the two parties FIFTH YEAR...... NO. 40. may be so evenly divided that a single vote may decide an important national issue. Therefore, it is of the greatest consequence that New Jersey's Democratic United States Senator, whose term of office expires next March, should be succeeded by a Democrat. Recollect that a Republican United States Senator already represents Democratic Jersey in Washington, and that another one there means another railroad vote in the highest legislative body in the country. These railroad votes are cast in the name of New Jersey-in your name.

The Democratic party in New Jersey is the people of New Jersey, and the people of New Jersey cannot be properly represented in Washington by Republican votes. The United States Senator who is to succeed John R. McPherson will be elected by the next Legislature of the State on joint ballot. Remember how close the vote is in the State Legislature now. On joint ballot the Republicans have the advantage, and Democratic success depends largely upon the vote of Hudson County for Assemblymen. On our own district, the Ninth, in fact, may hinge the selection of a United States Senator. The district is a new one, and is considered doubtful. It was carried last year by the Hon. Robert McCague, Jr., against E. V. S. Besson, our present Mayor. The vote was hardly a test of party strength, Besson not being a straight-out Republican. He opinion upon this much-mooted queswas beaten principally by his own record. This year the case is different and the vote is likely to be a strictly party vote, as far as Republicans and Democrats are concerned.

Now let us examine the candidates and their chances. For Congress we have Hon. William McAdoo-plain "Billy McAdoo of Donegal," if you will. Who he is and what he is every voter in Hudson County knows. The record he made in the Assembly last winter, battling valiantly and successfully against the powers of corruption and corporations and in behalf of public interests, is also familiar to all and needs no further mention. There is not one single valid objection to him as a candidate. He is lacking in no necessary qualification. He is honest, upright, thoroughly capable. His opponent, who is reputed popular, is politically a nonenity. He is the man who is not in the race, is not willing the front of the City Hall. to run, but will take the seat in Congress if elected to it by the small circle of supporters who forced him on the ticket because they could get nobody else. face they will stick to the party. In the Seventh District, of which the Fourth Ward of Hoboken is part, Hon. Denis McLaughlin has almost a walkover, and is sure of re-election, but our Democratic friends in the Seventh must not neglect their duty, or let up a whit in their work because the result is assured. Denis' majority will be large, but you can't make it too large. Come out and work for him and at the same time roll up McAdoo's majority.

Both candidates for Coroner are popular and working hard. Hughes is a good Democrat, and the chances are in his favor, his Jersey City friends include

Played Out.

Voting for personal sympathy in a campaign when National issues are at stake, is played out. Democrats at heart and principle are not so gullible.

MEADOW DRAINAGE.

Voters in Hoboken must bear in mind that in addition to voting for the candidates for office, they are to give expression to their views by ballot on the question of the drainage of the lowlands. The vote will be upon "pumping" or "filling." The question as to the best method of reclaiming these sunken and inundated lots has been the subject of discussion, a bone of "contention," for years. Arguments that if tions and recriminations were the keyprinted would fill volumes, have been advanced in favor of various plans and participants. The sequel, however, is all sides of the question are, or ought to be by this time, familiar to all the voters of the city, and they should now be able to vote intelligently upon the issue.

The majority of votes cast on eithe side will not adopt either plan, but will only be an expression of the opinion of the citizens upon the merits of either, a delegate, but obtained the credentials but may decide which plan is to be adopted at some future day.

It is important that a decision should be reached in the matter so that the authorities may be guided in their future action. Therefore, no citizen should fail to cast his ballet on one side or other of the question. Let there be a full vote cast so that the expression of public tion may be as complete as possible.

Proud of Him.

The Germans have reason to feel proud that they have such a representative man as Mr Steljes to vote for. The fact that Mr. Steljes is popular with people of his own nationality, is a sufficient guarantee that he is a man of unblemished character, honest and always faithful to all trusts reposed in him. It is really a pleasure to vote for a man of such excellent qualities.

THE MASS MEETING.

Democrats of the Ninth District As sembling to Batify the Party Nominations - Distinguished Speakers Listened to With Interest and Greeted With Enthusiasm.

THREE CHEERS FOR THE TICKET

One of the largest, most enthusiastic and at the same time orderly mass meetings ever held in this city took place at Odd Fellows' Hall, on Monday night. Fully two thousand people were in the hall throughout the evening and the speeches were listened to with an attention and interest that was good to see, and the hearty applause that greeted them was so genuine and enthusiastic that it was plain that the speakers carried the vast audience with them. A little after 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order by ex-Mayor McGavisk and ex-Senator Rabe was elected presiding officer. Edward Offerman was elected permanent secretary and the following gentlemen chosen to represent the three wards in the Ninth District. First Ward-Vice Presidents, Hon. Joseph Russell, Jas. Kennedy, Edward Gritten, Daniel Quirk, Wm. N. Parslow, Philip Hexamer, Carston Sierck, Louis Ettinger; Secretaries, Lewis R. McCulloch, W. N. Chapman. Second Ward-Vice Presidents, Carl Moeller, S. S. Edmonston, Charles F. Matlage, Wm. Stuhr, Wm. H. Dilworth, Geo. P. Schinzel, Charles Kaegebehn, B. N. Crane; Secretaries, R. A. Anderson, Charles W. Kaufman. Third Ward-Vice Presidents, Fritz Raab, Thos. Callahan, Philip Hecker, Charles Benson, Hon. Robert McCague, Jr., August Bente, John McDermott, Wm. H. Havens, Wm. Meehan; Secretaries, Martin V. McDermott, Anthony McHale. Most of the gentlemen named took their seats on the platform, where were seated the speakers and Hon. Wm.McAdoo, our candidate for Congress, and Martin Steljes, candidate for Assembly. Secretary Offerman then read the following letter from Col. Frederick A. Conkling, which vas greeted with applause:

NEW YORK, Oct. 28, 1882. GENTLEMEN—I find that an imperative business engagement will deprive me of the opportunity to address the ever true and faithful Democracy of Hoboken on next Monday evening. You will accordingly, I trust, permit me to suggest a few reasons which ought to impel our friends to use every honorable effort to elect their candidates at the approaching election. roaching election. Living as I do in another State, I have only Droaching election.

Living as I do in another State, I have only a partial acquaintance with your candidates for local offices; but so far as the Democratic nominees for the Assembly and for Coroner are concerned, I have reason to believe that they will be elected and that they will prove themselves capable and faithful officers.

It is not too much to say that the choice of your representative in Congress concerns the city of New York hardly less deeply than it does your own immediate district. As regards nearly all the measures which properly belong to the national legislature, Hoboken and Jersey City, Brooklyn and New York, are and must always continue to be one and indivisable. So long as the port of New York shall continue to be the outpost and portal of the New World, the centre and focus of the capital and commerce of this whole hemisphere, all of them must flourish or languish together.

capital and commerce of this whole nemisphere, all of them must flourish or languish together.

For these reasons, in common with my fellow citizens generally, I feel a very warm interest in the election of the Honorable Wm. McAdoo. His course during the last session of the Legislature of New Jersey, the courage, fidelity and ability with which he resisted the attempt of an overgrown and rapacious corporation to sleze your water front, in defiance of the wishes and rights of the people, in short, his entire bearing as the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee mark him as a maneminently fitted for a seat at this juncture in the Congress of the United States.

Among the most important subjects which will engage the attention of the Democratic majority in the next House of Representatives, are the revision of the inequalities and abuses of the present tariff. The restoration of American commerce to its former supremacy on the high seas, is chiefly dependent upon the success of these measures. I hazard nothing in saying that they will find an eloquent and efficient advocate in William McAdoo. The first duty of the voters of the Seventh District is to roll up for him a majority which has had no precedent in Hudson County.

Seventh District is to roll up for him a majority which has had no precedent in Hudson County.

Thank God! the career of the Republican party is rapidly drawing to a close. In this State it everywhere exhibits the indisputable evidences of disintegration and final destruction. Its old and trusted leaders are one after another withdrawing from the front and another withdrawing from the front and yielding up their positions to weak and despicable men. Its warring factions are more yielding up their positions to weak and despleable men. Its warring factions are more eager for each other's overthrow than for a Republican victory. The long possession of power has rendered it at once insolent, profligate and incapable of reformation. Its great aim is to retain the emoluments and patronage of office. Hence it is fearful of any change, and resists with dogged determination every attempt to lighten the public burdens, to do away with oppressive and tyranical taxation, or in any other way to promote the welfare of the whole people. It exists solely to obey the behests of corporate monopolies and combinations, to court the favor of capitalists and to make the rich still richer by partial legislation. The present Congress has squandered the people's money with a prodigality which has had no parallel in our previous history, while it spurned with contempt the feeble veto of the accidental President. Cemented together only by sordid ent. Cemented together only by sordid upidity and personal ambition, it is a cause or devout thankfulness that it is destined to

Faithfully yours,
F. A. CONKLING. To the Democratic County Committee. Just before it was finished, the Hon. S. S

Cox entered the hall amid prolonged cheers and a deafening "tiger!" from the band in the gallery. Upon being introduced to the assembly as the first speaker, the eloquent Congressman commenced an address the like of which is eldom heard in Hoboken. He spoke on the general issues before the country, showing up the corruption in the party that has misruled us for twenty years. He produced fac's and a startling array of figures to prove his assertions and explained very clearly the cause of the heavy taxation with which the country is burdened. He showed up the frauds and jobbery, river and hart or steals. railroad bills; he spoke as one who had been in Congress and fought the corrupt measures for years only can speak. He declared that the Interpal Revenue should be abolished, that the Tariff should be so revised that, while & merican industry would be protected, the l'acome of the Government would be sufficient to maintain the Government. As long as there was an overflowing treasury, there would be dishonest politicians to catch that overflow. He showed a clear knowledge of local politics as well National and made an able argument in favor of Mc-Adoo and Steljes. His speech was abounding in anecdote and full of wit and humor. The Hon. A. A. Hardenbergh, our prese

Representative in Congress, followed with an eloquent address. He paid a glowing tribute to the personal character and ability of both candidates and urged upon his constituents the importance of returning Mr. McAdoo to Congress as his successor and Mr. Steljes to Trenton to vote for a Democratic United States Senator and fight his district's battlers The time for the payment of assessment No. 107, Knights of Honor, expires to-day.

The Executive Council of the Land League of Hudson County met in Humbolt Hall, will vote for Steljes, McAdoo and victory!

The time for the payment of assessment No. Court House and City Hall mines, will be against monopolies. He spoke of Hobokeu's play ed a week from to-day, probably on the Shipping interests which were imperilled by a bill in Congress last year, a bill which he was mainly instrumental in defeating. Other topies of importance were touched upon in his clear-headed and forcible style, and he was applauded to the echo. The Hon. Leon Abbett was the next speaker. His address was remarkable for clearness and vigor. He went over the ground of the campaign in New Jersey, talked of the importance of the local issues in this county and said that on the result in Hudson County would depend not only the complexion of the State Legislature, but that even the next United States Senate might be either Demoeratic or Republican according to the vote in the Ninth District.

He was followed by our next Congressman William McAdoo, who in a brief speech told his future constituents what he would try to do in Washington if elected. He gave his views on the questions of the day to show the people where he stood, and the applause from the audience showed that his views met with approval. He closed with a strong appeal to the voters to do their utmost to elect Mr. Steljes, saying that William McAdoo had etter be left at home than Martin Steljes.

Mr. Steljes, in a few words, expressed his appreciation of the honor the people had forced upon him in nominating him against his will for the office, and pledged his best efforts for the success of the ticket and for the interests of the Ninth District, if elected. District Attorney McGill and Hon. Edward F. McDonald both spoke briefly and well.

Mr. McGill said that as soon as Martin Stelies spoke he recognized in him the proper man for the Assembly. "He is no politician," said Mr. McGill, "and that's the kind of a man to represent you in Trenton." Mr. Mo-Donald made an earnest and powerful speech, calling for the support of McAdoo and Steljes from every honest voter. His address will have more weight from the fact that he was one of Alien McDermott's strongest advocates before the nomination, and exercises a large influence in the county.

Resolutions ratifying the nominations and thanking the speakers were adopted and, after three cheers for the ticket, the meeting djourned at nearly eleven o'clock.

J., October 31, 1882. To the Honorable the Mayor and Council of the City of Hoboken :

GENTLEMEN—When it is considered that the GENTLEMEN—When it is considered that the city of Hobo' n is annually paying about $5,000 of interest on the indebtedness of Jersey City, through the reprehensible management of the financial affaits of the county of Hudson, it becomes evident that immediate action in the matter is demanded from your Honorable Body. Since the facts concerning this matter first came to my knowledge, it has been my constant study how best and most effectually to remedy this evil and afford relief and protection to the property owners and tax payers of Hoboken.

I can at present think of no better method the this, that your Honorable Body should employ to city Accountant or some competent accountant make an examination of the minutes of the Boa of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Hudson? of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Hudson for as many years past as may be necessary, and such other books of the county officials as may be requisite, and ascertain the exact amount of interest we are to pay this year on the debt which Jersey City and other municipalities owe to the county. When this amount is ascertained, my advice is that you direct the treasurer of the city to deduct this amount from the entire levy made on the city of Hoboken for county purposes and retain it. This course will compel the county to enter into a contest with Hoboken to compel the payment of the illegal interest money for the benefit of Jersey City. We will then see whether or not the law of the land will tolerate such robbery.

OUR PHILADELPHIA LETTER.

PHILADELPHIA, October 28, 1882. According to promise, I send you an account of what I saw in the "City of Brotherly Love," during the four days' celebration last week, though what with the efforts of my brother correspondents on the dailies, and the late day on which you will be able to publish this, there is very little left to tell that your readers are not already familiar with. However, that's "none of my funeral," I will keep my promise and you can do as you please

Tuesday morning opened fair and pleasant and gave us a chance to "enthuse" to our heart's content over the opening of the Bi-centennial. Two eautiful triumphal arches spanned ciple. It realizes that

Chestnut street, flags and bunting were displayed, many of the buildings on Chestnut street, especially the newspaper buildings, were lavish in decoration and the streets were thronged.

William Penn (F. M. Van Horn), on the Danish bark Welcome, sailed from League Island at 8 o'clock, and 150 barges and other vessels followed in his train. As Penn stepped ashore at Dock street, the original landing place, bells were rung, steam whistles blown, guns fired, and the multitude cheered. Eighty Swedes, Dutch and Indians welcomed him, and the procession started with him, and the procession started with Penn and his Quakers at the head. Following the footsteps of the original Penn, they refreshed themselves at the Blue Anchor Inn in Dock street, in front of which stood Jersey's tasteful contribution in the shape of a handsome column of flowers, fruits and vegetables, about forty feet in height, surmounted by a bust of William Penn. It attracted a great deal of attention and was much admired.

The great parade then formed and contained eleven divisions, and in the line were Gen. W. S. Hancock, with troops from Governor's Island; Rear Admiral G. H. Cooper, with sailors and marines; a tableau of military accoutrements of 1776, Indian children from the United States Training School, the Fire and Police Departments of the city, five divisions of the Order of Red Men, many German societies, 5,000 country Pennsylvanians, 1,200 butchers, 4,000 members of the T. A. B. Societies and a great many other organizations. In the evening public and private buildings were illuminated, and over 100,000 people witnessed the elaborate fireworks in the East Park. At the pyrotechnic display the sad accident which caused loss of life occurred. This has been so widely published that the details are familiar Wednesday was "Trades Day." The special feature of the day was the mammoth street parade, the greatest thing of the kind ever witnessed here, not excepting the great parade in '76. The procession was headed by 1,500 workmen from the Pennsylvania Railroad shops in Altoona and Jersey City. They were divided in sections representing the various trades, handsomely uniformed and marched like veterans. These men were lustily cheered over the entire route and were a fitting representation of that great road. The Baldwin Locomotive Works had 2,000 men in line and many other trades and industries were largely represented. As a whole, the demonstra tion was unique and interesting, particularly in the numerous contrasts that were shown between the primitive methods or products of trade in this city from thirty to one hundred years ago es and results of trade i the present day.

Thursday, "Festival Day," was de voted to the Knight Templar's parade, bicycle races, archery contests and the Welsh musical festival in the Bi-centennial Music Hall, listened to by an audience of 10,000 people; the unveiling of a monument to Morton McMichael, near the Lincoln monument, in Fairmount

Friday, the last day, was "National Guard and G. A. R. Day." The procession presented a magnificent appearance as the troops with their handsome uni forms and martial bearing marched along the gaily decorated streets, and was viewed by over 300,000 spectators. It was reviewed by President Arthur. Secretary Lincoln, Governor Hoyt and staff and other distinguished guests from the grand stand on North Broad street.

The old city has never had such a holi day turnout before, and the festivities were apparently of more interest, locally than the great National Centennial

I must not forget in closing, to say that the success of the affair is due largely to the Pennsylvania Railroad. From the grandest of all railroad depots in the very heart of the city, poured the countless thousands of visitors. Only the most perfect system and man agement could have conducted the ingress and egress of these vast crowds that came as spectators or participators during the week. The facilities for such immense travel are possessed by the late Tom Scott's railroad in a remarkable degree. In everyday traffic this company is ahead of all others, but with the tremendous rush of this week, everything went on with the usual regularity and precision of clockwork, and without accident or delay. With perfect comfort and convenience, thousands of visitors were set down in the centre of the city and carried away when they had seen enough. The certainty that the Pennsylvania Railroad could be depended upon in this respect and the fact that a special reduction in rates was made for the week, brought large crowds to us that otherwise would have staid at home and let Penn land in the presence of a much smaller multitude. Let credit be given where credit
