A Tale of Love in the Lowlands.

BY MOLLY CECIL STRAW.

. * Lo here I phophesy Sorrow on love, hereafter shall attend.

Venus and Adonis. Thou hast outrun the constable at last. Hudibras.

From peak to peak, the rattling crags among Leaps the live thunder. Childe Harold.

There was a take-all-you-can-get-andmore-if-you-get-a-chance ring to her voice as she thanked him with "you're a daisy cop! Of course I would like it,

As she hesitated, a grusome feeling raced down his spinal column and despair took a three-ply grip on his soul.

A happy thought struck him, not hard enough to hurt, and he decided to invent a little yarn, by way of procrastination. He had a faint idea that the maiden was presuming too much on their short betrothal and intended to work him for a trip to Snake Hill, or something that would involve a rather more lavish expenditure of greenbacks than an evening at the theatre.

"Idalia," he said, " there is one thing I must tell you, and knowing your extreme nervous temperament, I intended to break it to you as gently as I would the shell of an egg, about the age of which there is a certain uncertainty; but

The old man almost forgot to proceed, he was so pleased at having made a hit. He was about to continue, when a terrific noise rent the air. It sounded like the explosion of a fifty-horse-power boiler, or a canal boat load of dynamite. The chateau (I think I mentioned before that Idalia dwelt in a chateau, did I not?) was shaken to its very foundation, which was built on piles. A mighty rushing sound followed, and as the terrorstricken trio looked out of the south window they saw a vast mountain of water rushing down upon them like a Democratic tidal-wave.

consumers of gas to the fact that a good burner increases the light without increasing the cost: "The gas companies of this city annually collect $3,523,348, for which the public receive no return in the shape of light. The assertion is made on the authority of the 'Gas Referees' of London, who have reported that only one half of the gas paid for in that city is utilized in the shape of light. The sum named is one half the total estimated cost of gas to the consumers of New York. For once the gas companies are not at fault, nor yet the meters. The consumers have it in their power to double their supply of light without adding a cent to their bills, by simply using good burners. So long as the only alternative-which was practically no alternative-was between gas and oil, the companies did not care what use was made of the gas they sold. But now that comparison is beginning to be made between gas and electricity, they are earnest that their customers shall get the most for their money, and accordingly they are teaching them to use gas. This is even more noticeable abroad than at home, for it is an erroneous idea that the electric light is making the most rapid progress in the United States. One of the signs of this is the introduction in London of street lights fairly rivaling the arc light in power and

"You see," said the shameless wretch without a blush, "after I was 'broken' by the Commissioners, and bounced from the force, I invested all my savings, the accumulation of six years of patrol duty and club swinging, amounting to some dollars, in Jersey City bonds, and the credit of that city became so bad that I was obliged to sell out for almost nothing. What was left I used to back a paper, The Honest-man's Character Detractor, and the dividends are too light at present to warrant my spending more than $1 a week. Sugg also thinks that the power of consuming gas to produce ventilation by securing currents of heated air far overbalances the complaint that gas vitiates the atmosphere by the evolution of the products of combustion. is in round numbers $90,000,000. The competent man, he had better give up $15,000,000. Hence Hoboken pays about tions that he knows will not be conexpenditures. Our Corporation Attorney, Samuel A.

Besson, has called the attention of the Council to the matter, and in very vigorous language indicated a remedy. We cannot see that the Council has as yet acted upon his suggestion. Hoboken has enough to do in paying her own taxes without being compelled to pay a portion of Jersey City's also. If it were facts and figures in relation to this matonly the question of one year's interest, it might not be worth contention, but these bonds are to run twenty years, thus requiring from this city $100,000 towards the interest. Besides this we may be required to pay a portion of the newspapers to the contrary notwithprincipal, and if we can lawfully be made to stand the present imposition. may not Jersey City just as readily evade paying any county taxes whatever?

Something should be done to arouse the citizens of Hoboken and of the whole county to a sense of the wrong that is being practiced upon them. The burden of bearing part of Jersey City's debts is an outrageous injustice and those that reason for the inaction of the authoriare paying the tax ought not submit to it without a struggle. If the tax-payers at large cannot be waked up to resistance, we hope that the Hoboken Land children and their tax-paying parents and Improvement Company, the corporation that pays one third of Hoboken's taxes, and from which in consequence one third of this excess must come, will take the matter in hand and endeavor to rid Hoboken of the burden. by 25,000 votes. The validity of the sale of the Stevens Battery has been called into question in a suit now pending in the United States courts. The suit is brought by the children of Maria Sands, a deceased sister of the late Robert L Stevens. These heirs allege that the sale of the battery was invalid, as by act of Congress, passed in 1862, the battery was re leased to the heirs of the Stevens estate, and belonged to them. They claim one-seventh of the $75,000 paid for the battery at the publie sale and of the $500,000 advanced by Robert Stevens to the Government to complete the battery and a share of the amount it brought when sold as old material.

At the argument in the United States Supreme Court, in Washington, the Hon. Leon Abbett, who appeared for the State of New Jersey, argued that the Stevens estate and its heirs lost all interest in the battery when it was turned over to the State of New Jersey. F. W. Stevens, of Newark and W. L. Clarkson, of New York, appeared for the heirs. Decision reserved.

There will be preaching to-morrow at the Free Tabernacle M. E. Church, Rev. R. B. Collins, pastor, at 10:30 A. M. The pastor will be assisted in the revival service at 7:45 P. M. by Mrs. Wood, the Evangelist.

Thomas S. Fields offers to do the mason work of the proposed engine house on Hud-son street, for Engine Company No. 1, as per plans and specifications, for the sum of $4,600. The bid of Timothy Foley was $5,120.

Tuesday was the eighth anniversary of the establishment of the elevator of the North Hadson County Railway, and the flags were flying on the elevator building all that day in honor of the event. Only one serious accident has occurred on the elevator during these eight years. The long delayed opening of the Werra Sample Room, at 76 River street, will com-mence to-day and continue through Monday.

The proprietor is ex-Sergeant Henry Ringe. A fine lunch will be served, to which the ex-sergeant has invited all his friends. He will keep "open house" for the three days.

HE AND HIS PA IN CHICAGO.

What is this I hear about your pa's being arrested in Chicago," said the grocery man to the bad boy, as he came in with a can for kerosene and a jug for vinegar.

Well, it was true, but the police let him go after they hit him a few licks and took him to the station," says the boy, as he got the vinegar into the kerosene can and the kerosene in the jug. "You see, pa and me went down there to stay over night, and have fun. Ma said she druther we would be away than not when they were cleaning house, and pa thought it would do me good to travel, and sort of get tone, and thought maybe I'd be better, and not play jokes, but I guess it is born in me. Do you know I actually think of mean things to do when I am in the most solemn places. They took me to a funeral once, and I got to thinking what a stampede there would be if the corpse would come to life and sit up in the coffin, and I snickered right out, and pa took me out doors and kicked my pants. I don't think he orter kicked me for it, cause I didn't think of it on purpose. Such things have occurred, and I have read about them, and a poor boy ought to be allowed

Never mind the funeral," said the grocery, We went down on the cars, and pa had a headache, because he had been out all night electioneering for the prohibition ticket, and he was cross, and scolded me, and once he pulled my ear cause I asked him if he knew the girl he was winking at in a seat across the aisle. I didn't enjoy myself much, and some men were talking about kidnapping children, and it gave me an idea, and just before I got to Chicago I went after a drink of water at the tother end of the car, and I saw a man who looked as though he wouldn't stand any fooling, and I whispered to him and told him that the bald-headed man I was sitting with was taking me away from my home in Milwaukee, and I mistrusted he was going to make a thief or a pickpocket of me. I said 's-h-h,' and told him not to say anything or the man would maul me. Then I went back to the seat and asked pa to buy me a gold watch, and he looked mad and cuffed me on the ear. The man that I whispered to got to talking with some other men, and when we got off the cars at Chicago a policeman came up to pa and took him by the neck and said, 'Mr. Kidnapper, I guess we will run you in.' Pa was mad and tried to jerk away, and the cop choked him, and another cop came along and helped, and the passengers crowded around and wanted N. B.-Agents for Bewig's Celebrated B to lynch pa, and pa wanted to know what they meant, and they asked him where he stole the kid, and he said I was his kid, and asked me if I wasn't, and I looked scared. as though I was afraid to say no, and I said, 'Y-e-s, s-i-r, I guess so.' Then the police said the poor boy was scart, and they would take us both to the station, and they made pa walk spry, and when he held back they jerked him along. He was offul mad, and said he would make somebody smart for this, and I hoped it wouldn't be me. At the station they charged pa with kidnapping a boy from Milwaukee, and he said it was a lie, and I was his boy, and I said of course I was, and the boss asked who told the cops pa was a kidnapper, and they said damfino. and then the boss told pa he could go, but not to let it occur again, and pa and me went away. I looked so sorry for pa that he never tumbled to me, that I was to blame. We walked around town all day, and went to the stores, and at night pa was offul tired, and he put me to bed in the he went out to walk around and get rested. I was not tired, and I walked all around the hotel. I thought pa had gone to a theatre, and that made me mad, and I thought I would play a joke on him, Our room was 210 and the next room was 212, and there was a old maid with a Scotch terrier occapied 212. I saw her twice and she called me names, cause she thought I wanted to steal her dog. That made me mad at her, and so I took my jack knife and drew the tacks out of the tin thing that the numbers were painted on, and put the old maid's number on our door and our number on her door, and then I went to bed. I tried to keep awake, so as to help pa if he had any difficulty, but I guess I got sleep, but woke up when the dog barked If the dog had not woke me up the woman's scream would, and if that hadn't, pa would You see, pa came home from the theatre about 'leven, and he had been drinking. He says everybody drinks when they go to Chicago, even the minister. Pa looked at the numbers on the doors all along the hall till he found 210, and walked right in and pulled off his coat and threw it on the lounge where the dog was. The old maid was asleep, but the dog barked, and pa said, 'That cussed boy has bought a dog!' and he kloked the dog, and then the old maid woke up and said, 'What is the matter, pet.' Pa laffed and said, 'Nothin' the mazzer with me, pet,' and then you ought to have heard the yelling. The old maid covered her head and kicked and yelled, and the dog snarled and bit pa on the pants and pa had his vest off and his suspenders unbuttoned, and he got scared and took his coat and vest and went out in the hall, and I opened our door and told pa he was in the wrong room, and he said he guessed he knowed it, and he came in our room and I locked the door, and then the bell boy, and he said I might keep the change if I would not mention it when I got home, and I got him one for ten shillings and we took the eight o'clock train in the morning and came home, and I spose the Chicago detectives are trying to fit pa's hat onto a burglar. Pa seemed offully relieved when we got across the State line into Wisconsin. But you'd s dide to see him come out of that old lady's room with his coat and vest on his arm, and his suspenders hanging down, lookin' scart.
