"Will he find me changed? Ten years is a long time, and there are some white hairs among the brown. I can see them glisten in the light. And, yes, my eyes lines around my mouth. I am perhaps changed past all recognition; I wish I hada't sent the note; but I wanted to go back to twenty if I could, just for one evening."

"A gentleman in the parlor to see you, ma'am," announced the servant.

Helen descended slowly; but as she entered the room she forgot herself in wonder at the change ten years had wrought in her friend.

She had not remembered that he was over thirty when she last saw him, and that had been so dark were now irongray, and the face had changed from youth to middle age.

He answered as calmly:

"I am only too delighted to renew our me, whatever induced you to return here, and at this bitter season of the all right to go. I will."

tell you the simple truth. How odd it is, isn't it, that we can so seldom be sincere: but must invent and cover over our real feelings until we deceive everybody else and sometimes even succeed in deceiving ourselves? I came here because I had no place to spend Christmas, and I had a longing to return. I say I had no place; of course I was invited to several houses, but no one wanted me particularly, and I remembered-" She broke off suddenly.

"You remembered, perhaps, the last Christmas you spent here? Ah, yes! I remembered that too. I wonder if any other parish in America keeps up the twining of greens and all that oldfashioned church decoration as we do here. They are busy at it still, and I should have been there now if I had not come here."

Three hundred and sixty-three times has "the world revolved from night to day," since our last New Year's greeting. The last issue of the ADVERTISER that will bear the date of 1882, is now before our readers, and it is in this column that we must, according to our annual custom, bid adjeu forever to the year that is almost gone, and heartily wish you the question is, which side is ahead in success and happiness for the one that the transaction? the beginning of another week is about to usher in. After to-morrow this year will be "last year." No doubt all of us have had experiences in '82 that we cannot but look back upon with regret. We past errors and misfortunes, or to remember them only as warnings, with what we have to be thankful for, far outweighs what is to be regretted.

Our city has been mainly prosperous. Nothing has occurred to disturb the peace and tranquility of our existence beyond a little more than the ordinary political disturbances, which are among the warnings. The city has grown somewhat, is uniformly healthy and is in good repute with those of its neighbors, whose opinions are worth something. One great improvement has taken place in the water supply, and before 1883 closes we would like to see the meadow drainage question as satisfactorily disposed of.

The ADVERTISER has enjoyed its full is dying and has also had its share of remodest hope that it has in a measure ing "himself. merited the confidence which its increased circulation proves it to possess. With pardonable pride we may say that its pages have improved, and in so far as we are able to bring it about, they will ontinue to do so. In October it was. It was something to be able to do this, and the conhappy, should outweigh the regret.

With the promise that in 1883 the Ap-VERTISER will endeavor to deserve even more than the good will and very flattering proofs of the esteem in which it is now held by the people of Hoboken, it bids its friends a very happy New Year

BREAKING THE DEAD-LOCK.

The dead-lock in the Common Coun cil, as far as the payment of claims is concerned, was practically broken on Tuesday night, but, while the city's creditors will secure the moneys due them, the means by which the passage of their claims was affected does not leave the matter in much better shape than before. Extensive Improvements to be Effected in the Neighborhood of the Ferry-New Streets and New Buildings.

By the time all the building and improving now going on or projected in the neighborhood of the ferry is completed, our city will present a new and very attractive front, and next spring, anyone who has been away from Hoboken for a year, catching the first sight of it from the river, will think a new city has sprung up on the water front. A Benevolent Enterprise

The Hoboken "Helping Hand," a charitable institution, which is conducted and supported by the voluntary servi es and contributions of the members of several Protestant church congregations in this city, has just came into possession of $1,000, bequeathed to it by the will of the late Louis Stein. At a meeting of officers the project of establishing a "Childrens' Day Nursery," after the plan of similar benevolent enterprises now carried on in other cities, was favorably discussed, and it was decided that negotiations for the purchase of a suitable building should be immediately entered into. The building which will probably be selected is centrally located on Garden street. It is to be fitted up so that the rooms not needed by the Society can be rented and yield an income which will provide for a large share of the expense neces sarily incurred in carrying out the plan.

It is intended to provide for the care of the very young children of poor people, whose mothers are obliged to go out during the day and work and who have no one else at home to take care of them. Suitable persons will be employed by the Society to care for and feed the children during the working hours of the day. They will be assisted in the work by the ladies of the Society who will, by turns, spend certain Lours at the nursery the mothers of the children cared for, which will be but a small part of the expense to the Helping Hand, but enough to satisfy those who would not be disposed to avail themselves of the convenience if it were offered purely as a "charity." Five cents a day for each child will probably be the charge.

While no appeal has been made for outside aid, we are sure that any amount that our readers may feel able to contribute towards so worthy a benevolent enterprise will be thankfully received by the Helping Hand.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

HOBOKEN, Dec. 28, 1882. Editor Advertiser :

DEAR SIR-I shall preface this letter by stating that I sincerely regret the necessity that compels me to solicit the favor of its publication in your paper.

In the summer of 1880, I was employed by the Board of Education to furnish plans and specifications for and also to superintend certain alterations proposed to be made in School House No. 3 of this city. Upon the receipt of several bids, the contract was awarded to the owest bidder, Mr. Clayton. It is not necessary here to enter upon the details of the work called for in that contract. I had the greatest trouble all through the work in keephis specifications, and it is a truth, which can be attested at any time, that the work never was done up to the full intent and meaning of that document. But notwithstanding, at the conclusion of the job, I finally consented an old English inn, probably in the Queen to furnish Mr. Clayton his certificate for payment, with the acknowledged and declared understanding that the original amount of the contract ($1,000) covered in full all claims or demands for the entire completion of the will be carried out by the Hoboken Land and carpenter work. I was particular in having Improvement Company, and next spring will this matter clearly understood with Mr. Clayvitness the completion of all the work laid ton before I gave the certificate, because place, or some suitable location, and the sioned him during the progress of the work, and the truth is I never dreamed when I Among the Gypsies," supported by a full short time before the new street will be faced handed him that paper, but that Mr. Clayton shment when, several months afterwards, I teenth Street Theatre, New York, on Monday had a bill of extras, amounting to $97, prereturned my written declaration in which I requested, months afterward, by the then wagon, in which they cook, eat and sleen Besson asked me for my opinion upon the never-to-be-forgotten claim. My answer to Mr. Besson was similar in purport to that tendered to his predecessor, and to convince bear the signature of Mr. Clayton) the clause which called for the item claimed as an extra and which in the few and direct words relating to the work not only states the materials to be used, but directs how the work shall be done. I referred him to a second clause wherein it states that "the carpenter must see to it and so estimate (I quote the exact words) as to entirely complete all details with out extra charge above the original contract."

But nothing was ever clearer to me than that Mr. Besson, for some reason best known to himself, did not want to be convinced, and and Council fully verifies my declaration. It has been said that it was the opinion of a ported, be converted into a Ladies' Seminary. celebrated European diplomatist "that language was invented to conceal our thoughts.' This is an anachronism I will not discuss: out one thing is certain, it seems to be the logic of Mr. Besson, for where in the name of common sense is the man, from him who sweeps the sidewalks to him who sits in purple over the destinies of an empire, who dare affirm that when a specification says in the plainest and simplest Saxon words, that a certain portion of a building shall be ceiled from the side entrance door up to the new floor, all with narrow ceiling boards, put on as directed, that it means nothing of the kind; and that he who contracted under such language and signed and sealed a contract to House conservatory. do it for a fixed sum ought to be paid twice?

Mr. Editor, comment is useless; this is the position taken by Mr. Besson, and I dare him to alter it. And I add here, fully comprehending the meaning and purport of what I has a high opinion of Lawyer Stephens. write, that either Mr. Besson is too stupid to understand the meaning of the simplest words, or he has a motive other than fair dealing in rendering such a decision as he tendered to the Mayor and Council of this proud city.

One word in conclusion. Ninety-seven dollars is a small sum for the city of Hoboken but there is not only a principle involved but tablished, when this city has crowded out its suburbs to the distant hills, some future extra $97,000 perhaps may come before another Arthur Hornblower; Guide, Carsten Pope; city council, with another colossal dwarf for ability and note, and one whose talents and Chaplain, Walter D. White; Warden, Charles its attorney, and our children, yet unborn, dresses were delivered and joint committees from the two cities were appointrants so signed, and all of them are Past Regent. The regular meeting nights me to pen this letter, I remain. dear sir, yours CHAS. REE. LE, Architect.

Xmas at the Sunday Schools.

Santa Claus did not forget the Hoboker Sunday School children this week, and has made quite a round of visits among them, things with his old-time generosity; or, at for sordidly making and passing counterfeit east, if he was not as generous to some as he has been in former years, they did not think any less of what he bestowed upon them this time. The services at the First M. E. Church Sunday School were held on Wednesday evening, and consisted of an excellent musical entertainment and recitations by the children, including Christmas carols, after which the presents were distributed. An instrumental duet by Misses Edna Gerner and Grace Burr, was especially worthy of the praise it received, and Mr. Valentine Bruckner exhibited great skill and real genius in his beautiful performances on the zither.

At the German Lutheran Church the Sunday School children to the number of over eight hundred had a Christmas tree on Tuesday night, and received many beautiful gifts. There was a good musical programme, which consisted mainly of Christmas carols and hymns. The Superintendent, Mr. Frederick W. Raetz, is to be congratulated on the success of his entertainment and the excellent training of his large school.

The children of the Presbyterian Mission Sunday School, of which Mr. T. C. Dunn is Superintendent, had their merry Xmas affair in the "Helping Hand" building on Washington, near Newark street, last evening. The usual holiday good cheer was dispensed and the children enjoyed the evening hugely. The Mission School was founded in 1873 and is consequently entering upon the tenth year of its career of usefulness. Gus. Mechler, the bill poster, and Joseph Hartmann, who was implicated with him in the attempt to rob Wiedermann's grocery store, were sentenced yesterday to one year each in the State Prison.

J. Trinsynski, a Russian, of 320 First street, was arrested Tuesday, on a warrant issued by Justice Rusch, charged with stealing $105 from the room of Theo. Benning, who resides in the same house. He was remanded for a David Bradbury, of Hoboken, with a crowd of roughs, attacked and stoned Emil Ill, near the elevator, Sunday morning, and he, with Martin Henry, were arrested by a Jersey City officer. Henry was discharged and Bradbury received ninety days.

"Have some oil on your hair, sir?" said Barber Fischer to a customer. "No; I've given it up oil-together." "Oil right," was the artist's fiendish reply. Fischer's razors and shears are always sharp. Drop in at 38 Hudson street, and see him.

A grand musical and literary entertainment, under the auspices of Success Lodge, No. 92, 1. O. G. T., for the benefit of one of the members of the Lodge, will be held in Crane's Hall, 80 and 82 Washington street, on Thurs day evening, January 25th, 1883.

The third annual ball of Washington Lodge, No. 2,257, K. of H., held in Odd Fellows' Hall, Tuesday night, was a very pleasant and successful affair. Eckert furnished the music. Heinrich Engelke was floor manager and ably assisted by August Kaiser and an efficient committee.

Charles Lynch, the Jersey City "fire-bug," who was indicted for murder in the first degree, withdrew his plea of not guilty, and by consent of the Court pleaded guilty of manslaughter on Wednesday. Judge Knapp immediately sentenced him to ten years in the State Prison, at hard labor.

Prof. Wallace's seventeenth annual masquerade ball will take place at Odd Fellows' Hall on the evening of January 15th. This ball is one of the social events of the winter in Hoboken and tickets are always in demand. The one this year will be fully up to its predecessors in point of excellence

Rev. C. L. Newbold, the retiring pastor of St. Paul's Church, will officiate to-morrow morning and evening in the church, Hudson, near Ninth street. His valedictory sermon will be given in the morning. The hours of service are 10:30 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Mr. Newbold will remove to a new charge, on Long Island,

We are informed that the choir of the Park Reformed Church, of Jersey City, assisted by vocalists from New York, is to perform in Hoboken, some time in the latter part of January, Gunod's oratorio, "The Redemption." This will be an opportunity for levers of good music to enjoy a rare treat, of which they will not fail to avail themselves.

Five Jersey City milk dealers were arrested on Wednesday, in this city, and tried before Recorder McDonough, for selling adulterated milk. Dr. Edgar Eberhardt, of the Stevens Institute, County Milk Inspector, made the complaint, and Counsellors Daly, Rowe and Bretzfeld represented the accused milkmen. The Recorder reserved his decision until Jan-

He also has a large saloon at 42 and 44 Washington street, New York, and his business is rapidly increasing This is because he sells the very best goods and advertises judiciously in the paper with the largest circulation.

The Triuity Glee Club is preparing to give an entertainment at Odd Fellows' Hall, on February 6. A well selected programme will be rendered and among the pieces that have been chosen is the "Anvil Chorus," from Il Trovatore, and "Oh! Hail Us Ye Free!" The officers of the Glee Club for the ensuing year are B. Goete, President and Director; P. Daab, Vice President; H. Burhorn, Secretary; W. T. Willig, Treasurer and W. Sherwood, Librarian.

The annual Christmas ball of the Schleswig-Holstinischer-Verein was held at Weber's Winter Garden, on Xmas night. The hall was literally "packed" with the members and their families. The children were there in full force according to custom, and enjoyed the sight of a large tree, and the gifts that it bore on its heavily laden branches. Hours were spent in the usual festivities, and after the little ones had gotten through with their part the older ones indulged in unlimited dancing until an early hour.

To-morrow morning the Rev. Dr. Geo. L Hunt will preach a sermon for the new year in the First Baptist Church, corner Bloomfield and Third streets. In the evening special service of "farewell to 1882." will be held. It will consist of an exposition of the parable of the Prodigal Son, by the pastor, the singing by the congregation of some of the "hymns of the ages," set to the grand old tunes of years ago, and solos commemorative of the closing year, by Mrs. G. D. Finlay. The evening service will commence at There were two would-be suicides this week. On Tuesday, Bismarck Boreo, a twenty-two-year-old slave of rum, wanted to cut his throat, hang or drown himself, he didn't care which. He was locked up and begged off so hard after sobering up, that he was released with a reprimand. On Wednesday, Frank Otto Kaiser, aged thirty-eight, a cigar maker, living at 125 Adams street, attempted to take a large quantity of Paris green. His wife interferred and he only succeeded in covering himself from head to foot with the poison. He was arrested and committed to the County Jail for thirty days, under the disorderly act.

The Rev. Lattier Salvatelli, one of the clergy of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, in Monroe street, has designed and constructed a very artistic model, representing the ancient city of Bethlehem and the surrounding country at the time of the Saviour's birth. Prominent among the features of the miniature city is the manger scene after the birth of Jesus, and the picture is finished with all the accessory figures, etc., as detailed in the story of the Nativity. The figures firm of Spielmann & Brush, who has been in and buildings are carved in cork, and the whole model occupies a space in the church about 20x20 feet. The work is unique and beautifully executed. Visitors may see it by calling at the church between the hours of 3 and 8 o'clock P. M., until January 6.

"What Will You Take ?"

"I'll take tea, please," will be the words of of the young Hobokenite, on New Year's Day, in reply to the question as to whether he will indulge in the beverages known as tea and coffee. It is thought that wines and liquors will be conspicuous by their absence, from the fact that many hints have been thrown out by the clergy and others, to the ladies of Hoboken, that in providing for the reception of their friends on New Year's Day, they should put no wines or strong drink upon their tables, and bear testimony to the fact that in past years this course has been very largely followed in the best social circles.

Captain Oliver N. Brooks, who for thirty one years has kept burning the light on Faulkner's Island, in Long Island Sound, has resigned and left the scene of his faithful labors. The New Haven Palladium, which gives an interesting sketch of the captain's life on the little island, says that the revived Roman Empire. he has assisted over 100 vessels which have been wrecked or grounded on the treacherous reef. About seven years since, the freight propeller E. W. Woodward was stranded on the reef during a terrible winter's storm. The crew were taken off by and drifted to another position; the crew went off and were unable to save her. A gale set in, the men were unable to return, and were in immediate danger of perishing. Captain Brooks then collected all the cordage on the island, and at one time had determined to take down the beds and use the bed cords. Splicing a long line from the different sized cordage, he and his nephew, who very fortunately was on the island, dragged their boat on the ice as far from the shore as possible. Brooks played out the line and allowed the boat to drift down upon the fated vessel, while the nephew boat floated within three feet of the steamer's dropped it into the sea.
