AN ECCENTRIC PARSON.

A Narrative of Some of the Curious Frenks of James Beecher, Pastor and Backwoodsman

FROM A PASTORATE TO AN ASYLUM.

Church, where he was extremely popular up his residence in the back woods of Homœopathic Asylum for the Insane, at that place, a short time ago. His singular freak in abandoning a luxurious a cabin in the wilderness, was to many people, at the time, conclusive evidence that he was not of entirely sound mind; but his family joined him in the wild spot he had chosen, and with them he has been living so quiet and useful a life, devoting himself earnestly to good and charitable work among the rude inhabitants of the region, that the suspicions his strange proceeding was thought chargeable to Beecher eccentricity. His brother, the Rev. Thomas K. Beecher, was not exactly right in his mind. Last week in company with Dr. Lord, of Elmira, he visited the hermit preacher, and finally prevailed on him voluntarily to enter the asylum. It is stated that the move was made simply to enable him to obtain rest and receive treatment at the hands of the asylum physician. During James Beecher's pastorate of the Poughkeepsie Church he was allowed six weeks in each year for recreation. He invariably spent these vacations among the wildest and most isolated and wherever his love of solitude could to recommend to him the region in Sullivan and Ulster Counties, which subsequently became his home. In the summer of 1874 he accompanied these friends to the head-waters of Witlewemoc Creek gentlemen owned a large tract there. home in the wildness. He had found it after a half day's tramp, which carried him high up among the hills, and brought him to the margin of a large lake, encircled by high and wooded peaks. There was no evidence that the foot of man had ever trodden there before. He was so enchanted with the sapot, that he encamped on the shore of the lake, to which he gave the name Beecher Lake, claiming the privilege by right of discovery. He remained there

Recently his eccentricities became so marked that his brother Thomas believed it prudent to have him removed from the scenes of insanity were long ago allayed, and with which he had been surrounded, and to give him a radical change in locality and mode of living. One of the most noted of living preachers-more with an eye to popular applause than the accurate statement of fact—has said that it was always the fault of the clergyman when any of his hearers went to sleep; and that he could not excuse himself, by any process of logic, from blame, if he observed a sleeper in to that man that sleepers are not an element of his congregation. But he is a preacher sui generis, and everything that surrounds him makes it impossible for a man to sleep. Yet, the minister for all offenses of that nature It is true that some preachers are so sound. and their sermons so sound, that the result is in the soundness of the sleep of those who wait on their ministry. But I know that it is not always the dullness of the sermon that causes some men to sleep in church; and why do I know? Because they begin their nap before the minister begins his sermon. The habit of sleeping in church has degenerated into a disease with some men. They will tell you that they cannot keep awake. I once knew a man who purchased a large-sized bagging-needle for his wife to prick him with in order to keep him awake in church. His side presented the appearance of a seamstress' forelinger or the outside surface of a thimble, from the repeated lacerations; and yet he never succeeded in going through an entire service without taking a nap. ELECTIVE, OR APPOINTIVE?

The bill recently introduced into the Lower House of the Legislature by the Hon. Martin Steljes, by request, which provides for the election by the people instead of appointment by the Council, of the men who are to fill the offices of City Clerk, City Physician, Street Commissioner and Corporation Attorney, has awakened some opposition in Hobo-MOYER & LUEHS, Prop'rs. ken. This was shown at the meeting of the Council Tuesday night, when a resolution was introduced by Councilman Timken, requesting Assemblyman Stelies to amend the bill by striking out the words "City Physician, Street Commissioner and Corporation Attorney,' making the bill in effect, simply a repealer of the one passed last year making the City Clerkship an appointive office. This was undoubtedly the primary object of the originators of the bill.

Before Councilman Timken's resoluoffered a substitute, calling upon Assemblyman Dennis McLaughlin to oppose the passage of the bill, and requesting both him and Mr. Steljes to forward copies of such bills as would affect the interests of their constituents to the Mayor and Council immediately upon their introduction in the Legislature. Councilman Kaufmann objected to the substitute on the ground that it was an act of discourtesy to Mr. Steljes to call upon Mr. McLaughlin to oppose the bill. Mr. Steljes ought to be communicated both resolutions were voted on and lost. Councilmen Kenney and Lee wanted

A JERSEY ELECTRICIAN.

In a report made by a committee appointed by the Paris Exposition authorities to make an official test of the relative merits of the different systems of electric lightning, and published in the last issue of the Electrician, we are pleased to see a representative of the State of New Jersey at the head of the list. The party to whom we refer is Mr. Edward Weston, of Newark. The machines and lamps invented by this gentleman have, after being subjected to numerous experiments in conjunction with the Brush, Gramme, Siemens and Burgin systems by this committee, been found superior to either of the other systems, inasmuch as they were able to obtion was voted on, Councilman Valleau tain more light of a purer and steadier quality, with less power by his system, than by that of either of his competitors, thus lessening the cost of the light, which, is one of the principal items. Mr. Weston is connected with the United States Electric Lighting Company, who have control of all his inventions, together with those of Hiram S. Maxim, Prof. Moses G. Farmer and others. This company's works are situated at Newark, where it employs over 500 people and occupies one whole block for its factories. Its offices are located at with in the matter.
