HINTS CHANGE IN HOBOKEN STADIUM PLANS

Louis DePascale, secretary of Hoboken school board, hinted that a substantial change in plans for the Hoboken High School stadium was in store.

The board is expected to ask for major revisions since the fifth round of bids for general construction is regarded as above the price budgeted for this work.

DePascale confirmed a report that the last two bids were based on a 300-seat stadium, not on the 5,000-plus seater contained in the original plans.

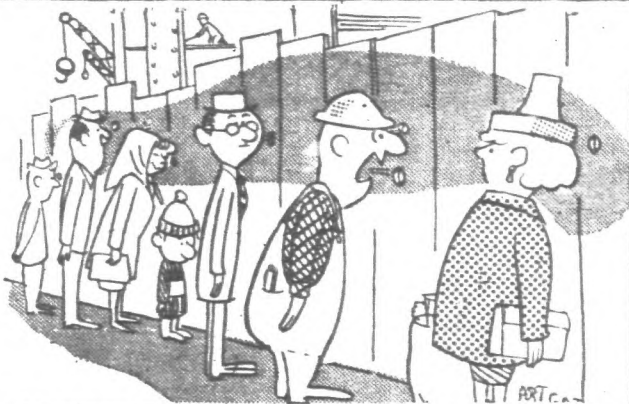

One official estimated as much as 20 per cent of the original plan was dropped. This included substitution of a wire fence for a brick wall, which would have required piling of some 35 feet.

Piling also is required for the stadium proper, which would call for construction with reinforced concrete.

"We're not even getting competitive bids now," said the official. We had one bid Tuesday; two the last time, and three the time before. Contractors must be busy with other work."

The school board has scheduled a special meeting for July 23. The board's decision to accept or reject Tuesday's $445,000 general contracting bid will be announced at that session.

The Board of School Estimate authorized a $495,000 bond issue for the entire cost of the project. Bids for other work have been held in abeyance.

No More Red Tape

A modern supermarket contains as many as 8,000 different items. They come in all colors, shapes and sizes. Each producer of a similar or identical item naturally attempts to make his the most attractive to the shopper.

Inevitably, in such a situation, there have been occasional abuses--incomplete labeling, obscure statements, dubious information. And a result has been the proposal of an additional federal law imposing extremely rigid packaging and labeling regulations.

Various consumer groups and others, with the best intentions, support this movement. But there is more to it than meets the quick eye. According to informed observers, existing laws, properly enforced, can provide the consumer with completely adequate protections. These laws grant very broad powers to the interested government agencies to curb practices that are actually deceptive. Try enforcement instead of more red tape.

Beyond this, there is a danger that we may be underestimating the intelligence and perception of the American housewife. Once she feels she has been "had", she no longer buys that product. This is a corrective of the highest efficiency.

Finally, the proposed bill seems to be based on the philosophy that any and all faults in our system, real or alleged, must be met by federal action. The principal result this philosophy produces is an unbridled bureaucracy. The American consumer and citizen is not nearly so helpless nor so stupid as some people seem to think.

Costliest Drug of All

An ancient saw tells us that figures can't lie, but liars can figure.

One is reminded of this by the continuing charge that sufferers are being robbed by scandalously high profits made by the pharmaceutical industry, and that it's high time and then some that the government did something drastic about it. Instances were offered in evidence to show that some extremely successful and widely used drug has presented its discoverers and producers with very handsome returns.

This is a way of taking facts out of context. Nothing is said of the vast number of research projects which fail--no one can guarantee success when he ventures into the unexplored--leaving their backers with heavy out-of-pocket losses. Nothing is said of the number of available drugs which have an extremely small sale, but which are kept in production on a profitless or even a loss basis in order to help a limited number of sufferers from rare and obscure diseases. Nothing is said of the enormous and costly research programs the industry supports, and must support if new, better and more valuable remedies are to be found, tested and marketed. These programs now cost some $250 million a year--and what they are doing and will do for the minds and bodies of sufferers from disease can never be measured in terms of money.

Finally, it is always implied, if not directly stated, that drug prices soar. The facts: Since 1949 the government's own consumer price index shows a rise in price for all commodities of 29 per cent. But the cost of prescription drugs fell 13 per cent.

A fitting summary is provided by a spokesman for the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association: "The costliest drug is the drug that isn't there at all."

The World In Which We Whirl

The editor of the Germantown, Pennsylvania, Courier tells of a little lesson he was recently given in "How changing is the world in which we whirl....."

He dropped in on a jeweler friend to ask what had happened to the dollar watch--the famous "turnip" of a past age. It was a good watch, too, and it went on ticking away indefinitely so long as over-eager boys didn't take it apart to see what made it work.

Well, the jeweler had the dollar watch. Only now the price tag is $6.50, plus 65 cents federal tax and 26 cents state tax. So the taxes alone total almost as much as the watch used to cost.

As the editor says at the end, "Let's quit this nostalgia right now." And there's no particular moral to be drawn--except that the old and revered dollar watch is an excellent symbol of the inflation that is drowning us.

Couldn't They Call?

The Secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department last year spent $3,500 on telegrams urging support for the Administration's College Aid Bill. Just published Committee hearings reveal the telegrams, each 30 inches long, went to every member of Congress. The HEW building is 2 1/2 blocks from the Capitol. Public Service Company of Colorado.

JULY 20th ECLIPSE CAN CAUSE BLINDNESS

The fascinating sight of a solar eclipse can mean permanent eye damage for those unsuspecting children and adults who stare at the darkened sun through sunglasses, smoked glass or exposed photographic film during North America's next eclipse on July 20, 1963.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness warned here today that there is no safe method of looking directly into the eclipse without risking incurable burns of the retina from infra-red rays of the sun. The voluntary health agency suggested other safer means of observing the phenomenon.

Widespread reports of damaged vision in Western states, especially among school children, after a partial eclipse of the sun three years ago prompted the NSPB warning. The State of Utah alone counted 31 definite cases of eye burns after the September 1960 eclipse; all but five of the victims were youngsters. An estimated 75 children suffered retinal burns in the State of Washington during the same eclipse.

A solar eclipse results when the moon, passing between the earth and the sun, hides all or part of the sun from our view. The July 20th eclipse will bring total darkness along a path through Alaska, Canada and Maine, and a partial covering of the sun in the continental United States, the Caribbean area, most of Mexico and Central America and the remaining parts of Alaska, Canada and Maine, according to the American Museum-Hayden Planetarium in New York City.

Vision damage from the sun is caused when the eye focuses the infra-red rays of the sun on the retina, explained John W. Ferree, M.D., executive director of the National Society. An irreparable burn results, very similar to the way a magnifying glass can be used to burn a hole in a piece of paper with the sun's rays.

"Normally, the sun is much too bright for a person to view comfortably," Dr. Ferree pointed out. "But during an eclipse enough light is blocked out to permit easy observation. This is when the rays do their damage--unnoticed because the retina is not sensitive to pain."

When the burn is serious enough

JOURNEY TO THE STARS

By JAMES P. GRAZIOSO

Since the Russians launched Sputnik 1 on October 4, 1957, many science clubs have sprung up throughout the United States. Many of these organizations are Amateur Rocket Clubs, rocketry being the most glamorous aspect of the tremendous interest in astronautics. However, Amateur Rocketry can be very dangerous unless supervised by a qualified adult and staff.

That experimenting with chemicals and unexploded ordinance items can be dangerous is borne out by a report made recently by the 2705 Airmunitions Wing, assigned to the Ogden Air Material Area (AFLC) at Hill Air Force Base, Utah, which revealed that over 115 accident reports were recorded from various parts of the nation concerning children who were involved in a rocket program. Children can buy dangerous chemicals without knowledge of the associated hazards. Competent technical personnel may be asked to supervise the activities of these rocket enthusiasts, yet there is always a certain amount of risk and when one considers what little, if any, new knowledge can be gained from such a program, then it doesn't appear to be worth the risk.

A recent article in Space World revealed some interesting facts. "Most of the formulations for amateur rocket propellants," the article read, "have been tried and tested by competent professional people long ago. The chances that a youngster will develop a modified propellant of value are therefore very remote."

The rockets themselves are seldom anything but cardboard or metal tubes with very simple nozzle designs. The hazards in preparing the propellants are great because the chemicals required are, of necessity, very reactive. The chances of the finished rocket exploding are great because of the inferior quality of propellants, which are generally poorly prepared and improperly loaded. The structural design of the rocket case is often inadequate, which also contributes to the possibility of explosion.

In view of these considerations which point out the almost total lack of constructive gain from such experiments, it seems hardly necessary to ask the question: are these experiments worth the risk of serious eye damage or loss of sight, extensive burns and loss of fingers and limbs?"

Space World states that youngsters who have a true interest in contributing to the science of rocketry should spend their time studying science, chemistry, physics and mathematics. Clubs organized by such enthusiasts can host lectures, films and discussions on recent developments in the field.

I am proud to say that such an organization is the Junior Astronautical Society which does just that: shows films, presents lectures, discussions on various developments and will soon undergo a complete review of astronomy and astronautics which will take months with certain subjects covered at each meeting. The Junior Astronautical Society is not against any rocket program; it advocates that any such organization be supervised by competent adults. The Society is at present seeking science teachers, engineers or any person who has some knowledge in any field pertaining to space to aid in its expansion program. Any person wanting to help can do so by contacting this paper.

Dr. Ferree advised that the July 20th eclipse can be observed over television wherever possible. An image of the eclipsed sun can be projected through a telescope or binoculars onto a white screen. A simple eclipse viewer can be created from a piece of cardboard: punch a round hole in the sheet of cardboard so the sun's rays are focused through the tiny hole onto another cardboard or similar white surface.

Dr. Ferree called on parents, school personnel and doctors to help alert the public, especially children to the eclipse dangers. "Many adults and many more children paid a dear and needless price in damaged eyesight in past eclipses."

Why did you buy a house?

WHEN YOU decided to buy a house, you were probably thinking primarily of your wife and children.

You wanted to be sure that they would have a nice home to live in. Another concern was for the environment in which your children would grow up. You wanted good schools, play space, nice neighbors.

These are also good reasons for making sure that your family can keep it if something should happen to you.

Metropolitan offers several ways for you to make sure that your family will be left with a deed instead of a debt.

A Metropolitan Mortgage Term Plan is one way. It is designed to cover the usual type of home mortgage, which decreases as payments on the principal are made. The face amount of the insurance also decreases annually, so that the level premium is relatively inexpensive.

Another way, more satisfactory for most younger men, is a Metropolitan Whole Life policy. This is permanent insurance.

In addition to assuring that funds will be available for payment of the mortgage in the event of death, it also builds cash and loan values which furnish a nest egg to help take care of payments in case of illness or other emergency.

And because the face value does not decrease, it can be used for continuing protection or be fitted into your retirement plans after the mortgage is paid off.

Let your Metropolitan Representative help you choose a plan for your family situation and budget. He will be pleased to give you the facts about this insurance. So, why not call him today.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

FINDING something becoming to cover jumbo rollers while your hair is drying is often a problem. One of the prettiest and most practical solutions we know of is to make yourself a Pixie Cap. You make it out of terrycloth and hold it in place with an elastic band.

Here's what you will need to make a cap just like this one for your very own: a half yard of terry, a package each of Boiltex Jumbo Rick Rack, Baby Rick Rack and half-inch Twill Tape. You'll also need 23 inches of elastic, color matched sewing thread, four white pom poms from large size ball fringe and bits of yarn for a large pom pom.

FOR YOUR PATTERN... draw a 16 inch triangle and curve the lower edge. Baste the edge slightly. Pin the pattern on doubled fabric and cut. Baste Jumbo Rick Rack on both slanting sides of one triangle.

Cut Baby Rick Rack in four-inch lengths for leaf design on same triangle. Attach balls (cut from ball fringe) as flowers. Sew triangles together and finish seams. Sew twill tape to right side bottom edge of cap. Turn tape inside and slip stitch, leaving ends open.

Run elastic through tape, adjust for fit and sew ends together. Make big pom pom by looping yarn, tying in center, cutting loops and trimming. Stitch pom pom to peak of cap.

EASY AND ECONOMICAL

In addition to its use in the boudoir, a cap like this one is handy for concealing wet hair or pin curls at the beach. It could prove indispensable on a vacation. In fact, you probably find that you want to make several pixie caps in different colors. Caps like these make wonderful gifts for friends. They're easy to make, economical and, best of all, great fun!

To help your phone service keep pace with New Jersey's remarkable population growth, changes in the way you dial certain out-of-town calls have become necessary.

DIAL 609 TO REACH SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY

For example: To dial 555-2368 in Atlantic City, simply dial 609 first, and then the Atlantic City number.

DIAL 212 TO REACH NEW YORK CITY
Some New Jersey residents have been dialing 11 instead of 212 to reach New York City. Starting July 21, all New Jersey residents should dial the New York City Area Code 212 followed by the New York City number.

These changes will not affect your telephone rates.

MR. SNITCH ..
HE'S HERE .. HE'S THERE
HE'S EVERYWHERE

WATCH for the magazine salesman who tries to sell you a sub. He walks with a limp. He's a spotter for housebreakers and hopes no one will answer the doorbell. It makes his job easier. He's now working in this territory and is an avid reader of the social column to find out who is on vacation.

IT IS WISE to make a will and tell a lawyer how you wish your belongings disposed of. This man lived alone with his pets. Not wanting any harm to come to them, he gave a trusted friend who told him he "loved dogs" a thousand dollars to care for them upon his death. Because there was no legal commitment the pets were destroyed shortly after the funeral and the friends son drives a new sports car bought with the money.

TODAY he heads a large concern in a nearby county. He employs over 300 persons in one of his plants. As a youth, he couldn't get a decent job because he quit grammar school in the sixth grade. So, he took a job as a porter and began the long climb to his present success. He bought books from book stalls and spent all his free time studying. He had a fine, scientific mind and it wasn't long before he was in business for himself. Today he heads a company which produces essential items for the first trip to the moon. He may be hailed as a great inventor.

HE WAS sweating it out every day because he had dipped into the till for the love of a blonde. The other day the plant caught fire and all the records were destroyed. Now that he is in the clear, has he learned a lesson. Not this guy. He's a tyrant, not only at work, but at home where his poor wife is nothing but a housekeeper. And he is back with the blonde even though he knows she is two-timing him.

DIRECT DIALING EASIER

AREA CODES--201 for North Jersey and 609 for South Jersey--will be used on long distance telephone calls between the two sections of the state beginning July 21. New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. maps show the boundary line between the areas; area codes will not be necessary in calls within the same area. In a related dialing change, area codes will replace special codes 1-1 used by many North Jersey residents calling New York City and by Camden County area residents calling Philadelphia. The area code to be dialed on calls to New York City is 212 and to Philadelphia, 215.

Weekly a 'real slow ball,' that is, to straw editors

A SMALL-TOWN weekly is a decided change of pace from the metropolitan daily, a real slow ball that seems to float up big and fat. The sight of it has tempted many a slicker from big-city journalism. The slicker reads a small-town paper and thinks, "I could do that. I would write the paper on Wednesday, count the profits on Thursday. Friday thru the next Wednesday I would fish." I don't know how many city reporters and straw-editors I have known who have dreamed of a soft life on a small-town weekly newspaper. They had to learn the hard way what long hours and hard work really are.

So they try it and blow their bank accounts, because publishing a small-town paper is like baking salt-rising bread; it requires a native talent. There is style in a small-town paper that a slick journalist cannot master. I've known several who tried and failed. They said they couldn't lower their standard, proving they never learned up from down in small-town journalism, not even while they were falling. What they couldn't do was raise their standard.

THEY COULDN'T appreciate the news value of the basic stories in a weekly newspaper. Any weekly has samples of what I mean. I'll give some actual ones from an Illinois weekly. The name of the paper isn't important; the stories are in most weeklies; only the names change. "The sun peaked out a few times Wednesday," it is reported on page 1. A slick journalist would have ruined that story, if he'd had sense enough to run it in the first place, which he probably wouldn't. He would assume everybody knew the sun came out on Wednesday and would not waste space on the obvious. This is his error because the better-known the facts are to the subscribers of a weekly, the more people there are to respect the editor. They have to admit he knows as much as they do.

"MRS.—, who has been visiting in her son's home, reports it has been raining there." The sentence says it has been raining in the son's house. No slick journalist would write that sentence, even if he knew the house was roofless. If he did write it, a slicker editor would fire him on the spot and look around for a new reporter who could not jeopardize the newspaper. There is libel in a sentence that states a son permits rain to fall on a mother visiting his living room.

Neither the slick writer nor the slicker editor would understand that the weekly's subscribers know the last time the roof was fixed, and understand that rain doesn't have the run of the place. A weekly paper has no room for smart-aleck perfectionists writing sentences that keep rain out of the house.

Macoupin County Enquirer
Carlinville, Ill.

5 WEEKLIES, each one an individual paper. The perfect media for your display or classified advertising. The Weekly "habit" dates back to Colonial days. Every weekly remains in the home all week. First, everyone in the family—Mom, Dad, Sis and Brother—looks to see whose picture is in the paper this week. Then Pop reads the columns. The young scientist in the family reads "Journey To The Stars". Mom reads "Mr. Snitch". Yes Sir! there is something of interest in our papers for every member of the family.

WE PRINT large family group pictures. We have four photographers who take pictures covering a wide range of social activities such as birthdays, anniversaries, club installations, etc. These people are known in the area in which our papers circulate. Now, if you feel you would like to subscribe, run a classified ad, or a display ad, just call our office and ask for Mr. Cangl, our advertising manager.

P. S. Last year we printed over 35,000 individual faces in our group pictures. Now, if each one were to show another, and that person were to show yet another, more than 100,000 people will have seen our paper. Then, there is the hidden circulation where a subscriber shows the paper to a neighbor because the picture of a mutual friend is in it. It all adds up to a mighty high potential in bringing whatever it is you have to sell to the greatest number of people in the area where you want to sell it!

MR. SNITCH..

HE'S HERE HE'S THERE

HE'S EVERYWHERE

AN AGED MAN, living in a suburban area, was very lonely. He had sufficient money, stocks, bonds,
etc. to insure him the best of care in his last days. The only one who was aware of his financial condition was a nephew. The nephew suggested the uncle turn everything over to him with power of attorney to act for him in return for old age care and companionship. The man thought it a good idea and agreed. But shortly after the old man moved in with the nephew, the younger man was killed in an accident. The tragedy revealed he had neglected to change a will which left his entire estate to an estranged wife. She put the old man in a home where he is unhappy but with not a cent in his own name there is nothing he can do about it.

IN CERTAIN parts of Europe it is the custom for farmers to send the daughters to the big cities to earn their dowries. This father carried the custom to U. S. shores, turning his daughters loose in New York City in their early teens. One returned to their farm with a baby but no husband. The other choose to stay in the city where she was sharing a penthouse with an old moneybags - sans a wedding ring.
To the daughter with the baby, he moaned, "If only your mother were alive. She would tell you how easy it is to earn a dowry and win a husband. The girl went back to the city, sadder but wiser, and in less than a year returned in a foreign sports car and there was no bulge under her mink coat.

THIS POLITICIAN was quite a Don Juan in his town. Not only does he kiss babies but their moms as well. The other day a voter resented it and headed for the politician's office to bat the guy's head in. But on the way out the office help witnessed a very friendly parting. The men were shaking hands and smiling. One of them quipped, "Heh, there goes another one on the pad! Just to keep him quiet."

Five Hoboken taverns have closed since July 1, and they still have not renewed their licenses.

The Hoboken Board of Alcoholic Beverage Control Wednesday renewed four licenses, giving the city a total of 209 taverns.

Before the June 30th expiration of last year's license, the city had 219 taverns, 34 liquor package stores and 17 clubs with bars. The last liquor store renewed its license Wednesday. Two of the three clubs that had failed to renew did so.

In the past several years, the number of taverns has declined in Hoboken. Last year, three tavern owners failed to renew
