New York International Chess Masters Congress

OPENING JANUARY 8, 1912

Invitation Tournament Open to Nine European and Three American Experts.

PROSPECTUS

May 15, 1911.

Managing Directors; Hartwig Cassel and Hermann Helms

Prospectus of International Cournament.

Announcement is made herewith that an International Chess Masters' Congress will be held in New York City, beginning on January 8, 1912. Twelve of the world's leading experts, nine European and three American, will be invited to take part and play in twenty-two rounds. Twelve of the rounds have been scheduled at the Cafe Boulevard; the balance will be allotted to subscribing clubs. To insure the participation of the best talent from abroad, liberal cash prizes must be provided, in addition to expenses for transportation and lodgings throughout the duration of the tournament, which will extend over nearly six weeks. For this purpose a sum approximating $8,000 will be required, and it is planned to raise it by means of popular subscriptions from clubs and patrons, gate receipts, and through individual subscribers to the printed bulletin of the results and games which the management will issue daily while the play lasts.

The congress will be under the personal management of Messrs. Hartwig Cassel and Hermann Helms of New York, who have undertaken the responsibility on the strength of several assurances of substantial support made by certain well known patrons of the game.

In addition to the three Americans, who will be J. R. Capablanca, F. J. Marshall, and one other, nine Europeans will be selected from the best available talent in the following list of noted masters:

HISTORICAL

Whereas yearly and even more frequent gatherings of the masters are the rule in Europe, here in America they are indeed the exception. The clubs, who under ordinary conditions would be apt to take the first step in such a matter, are burdened with heavy rental expenses and for the want of a national organization, the absence of which is much felt in this country, the initiative in this instance falls once more upon the proprietors of the American Chess Bulletin, who, because of their intimate relationship with the American chess community at large, their past experience in the management of important affairs, as well as the office and press facilities at their disposal, appear to be properly qualified for the work.

Excepting an impromptu contest, eighteen years ago, New York City has not had an international chess masters' tournament since 1889. In the interim, however, we have had the notable gathering at Cambridge Springs, Pa., which proved to be the crowning point in the career of Frank J. Marshall, the international cable matches and a number of minor events, all of which served their purpose at the time. Across the water the devotees have not permitted a year to pass without arranging one or more meetings of the world's leading experts, and in this respect Europe is far ahead of America. The last of these and one of the most noteworthy on record was that at San Sebastian which gave the world a new hero in the person of Jose R. Capablanca. His remarkable success has ushered in a new era and the beneficial effects of what he has done are everywhere apparent. All signs point to a revival of interest, the natural outgrowth of which is an International Congress here. New York is pre-eminently the scene of action and the American Chess Bulletin the logical channel through which the friends of the game may voice their approval.

Having assumed the responsibility upon the assurance from certain quarters that a substantial start would be given the project, this appeal is directed to the chess fraternity in general, not necessarily limited to the confines of North America, to rally to the support of those who are shouldering the heavy burden of management.

SCOPE AND INFLUENCE

What an exposition is to the locality where it is held, an international chess masters' tournament is to the game in the country enterprising enough to bring one about. But, owing to the cosmopolitan character of the pastime, the influence of such a congress extends far beyond the limits of any one land. The news and games are distributed over the whole world and translated into every tongue, giving lasting pleasure to innumerable devotees at Caissa's shrine.

Is it all worth while? This is the question now squarely put to the friends of chess and more particularly to those whose home is in the Western Hemisphere. The consensus of opinion of those who have taken the trouble to familiarize themselves with the situation provides an affirmative answer thereto. A substantial and prompt response to the appeal now going out will enable the promoters to work along the lines herein indicated and eventually bring about a realization of the dream all surely must hope will come true.

TREASURER OF THE CONGRESS

The congress is exceptionally fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. Victor F. Ridder, treasurer of the N. Y. Staats-Zeitung, for the responsible post of treasurer of the congress. Mr. Ridder is a son of Herman Ridder, president of the influential Staats-Zeitung corporation, who acted as treasurer of the Cambridge Springs Congress of 1904. It was in the old Staats-Zeitung Building, one of the former landmarks of Newspaper Row and the first home of the American Chess Bulletin, since razed to make room for New York's new Municipal Building now in course of erection, that the entire work of arranging the Cambridge Springs congress was carried out.

All subscriptions and Remittances should be addressed to:

All other communications relating to the congress may be addressed to

A DAILY BULLETIN

As at Cambridge Springs, the managers will print and issue a daily bulletin, containing the results of each round, with a brief and appropriate review of the play, as well as a complete and correct set of the games. Though without notes, the twenty-two copies of this bulletin, when bound, will be the equivalent of a book of the congress, as a score table will be printed in the last number. All subscribing a minimum amount of Two DOLLARS to the congress fund will receive the daily reports by mail.

Subscribers of the minimum amount of FIVE DOLLARS will be entitled to the daily bulletin and five tickets of admission.

Subscribers of the minimum amount of TEN DOLLARS will be entitled to the daily bulletin and a season ticket, covering admission to the twenty-two rounds.

Chess editors, who desire to reprint the games published in the daily bulletin, can do so by subscribing FIVE DOLLARS. They will also be entitled to season tickets.

The final issue of the daily bulletin will contain a complete list of the names of subscribers and patrons.

On pages 6 and 7 of this prospectus will be found an exact reproduction of the report of the last day's play in the Cambridge Springs tournament, as printed in the daily bulletin of that congress, and will give intending subscribers an idea of what they may expect in the daily bulletin of the New York Congress.

CO-OPERATE NOW

It is essential, we might say imperative, if the arrangements are to be completed within the time left, that all, who are willing to take hold and help, make it known now and signify to the treasurer their intention to co-operate. There remain only seven months in which to cope with the undertaking, and every day will count in raising so large a sum as is required to make the congress a complete success. It will be a mistake to believe that the fund can be realized by a few large contributions. The well known patrons will do their share as in the past. But it is the great body of chess players to whom the congress must look for the support that will make it a glorious reality.

It is desirable that actual cash contributions are made now and without ceasing until the end of the year, but it is not the prime requisite. It is most important that the recording of the support and pledges of players and friends of the game be started immediately. To this end we counsel prompt response and action.

Subscribers and solicitors should bear in mind that, while they get their full money's worth in the issues of the daily bulletin of the games and results, at the same time they are lending their aid in a good cause. Whereas a few hundred will barely pay the expense incurred in the printing, a great number will contribute handsomely to the fund from which the prizes and other heavy expenses must be paid out.

HOW TO HELP

From now on every chess editor should constitute himself a special press agent in his locality for the New York International Chess Congress of 1912. It will mean much if the secretaries and other officials of each club throughout the country henceforth avail themselves of every opportunity to espouse the cause of the great tournament and to "boost" it with steadfast enthusiasm and persistency.

As a slight incentive to their efforts and those of others, the managers are prepared to offer three prizes for the best work accomplished in increasing the congress fund by January I, as follows: First, a set of Jaques' famous Staunton chessmen, No. 2, largest club size; second, a set of the same, No. 1½, small club size; third, a set of the same, No. 0, listed at $10.00. Chess books of the value of one dollar each will be sent to the twenty-five editors, secretaries or agents making the next best showing in the work of obtaining contributions.

The official programme giving the list of participants and patrons, schedule, rules of play, and other information, will be issued in the early winter.

Brooklyn Eagle's Offer to Chess Players

It will interest all chess players to know that a weekly chess department devoted to the game appears in the Eagle every Thursday afternoon. It is edited by Hermann Helms.

Ample space is given to the latest chess news, and scores of the best games, with reliable annotations written in an entertaining style, are a special attraction. Up to date analysis is also featured.

For the devotees of the "poetry of chess", problems and end-game studies are printed regularly. A continuous solving tourney, with monthly and semi-annual prizes, is in progress.

Correspondence tournaments and problem composing competitions will also be introduced. Pictures of persons prominent in the sphere of chess will illustrate the department from time to time.

The price of subscription of the Thursday Eagle, containing the chess department, is $1.00 a year.

lyn, N. Y., also of Montreal, Canada, and Bradford, England, (born in New York City, August 21, 1877), accomplished the unprecedented feat of winning the first prize of $1,000 and the championship of Cambridge Springs without the loss of a single game!

Thus again, after many trials and vicissitudes, during which the flash of genius frequently shone forth with dazzling brightness, has Yankee pluck and determination to succeed achieved merited reward.

It need only here be added that Americans owe a deep debt of gratitude to the youthful master, whose indomitable courage has brought the Stars and Stripes once more to the front.

The decisive contest between Dr. Emanuel Lasker and David Janowski, on which hinged the possession of the second prize of $600, was worthy of these great players. A draw would have sufficed the French champion, but it was win or lose for him and the sacrifice he made with this end in view turned out to the > Georg Marco and Jackson W. Showalter drew with their respective opponents, the former taking fourth prize, $200, and the latter fifth, $165. Both deserve the highest praise for the exceptional work accomplished by them. Carl Schlechter and M. Tschigorin, after a long uphill struggle, managed to join the ranks of the prize winners at the last moment and shared the sixth prize, $135, together with a proportionate share of the consolation money.

LIVESEY'S COLLAPSIBLE CHESS BOARD.

This invention gives chess players the opportunity of using one of the most convenient boards ever introduced. When open the board can be placed on a table, rested on the knee, or held in the hand, and the pieces are so firmly fixed that the jolting of a train cannot disarrange them. Either for play while travelling, or for regular home use, this collapsible board will be a great boon. It folds up like a portfolio, and, unlike any other design of collapsible or folding board, the men are miniature Staunton Chessmen, and assume an upright position on the board being opened. The men can be retained in the board while it is closed, allowing an unfinished game to be resumed at any time. Price:—$5.00.

FOR many years the Cafe Boulevard has been a well known resort for Metropolitan chess players and visitors to New York. The first tournament promoted by the proprietor, Mr. Rosenfeld, some seventeen years ago, served to introduce so eminent a player as Julius Finn to the chess world. In due course of time it became the headquarters of the now famous Rice Chess Club. In 1904 the dinner given by Professor Rice in honor of the visiting masclub. In 1904 the Cambridge Springs Congress was held in the great Banquet Hall. As recently as December, 1910, the Cafe Boulevard was the scene of the National Masters' Tournament, which promises to be an annual event. It will thus be seen that the Cafe Boulevard has been more closely identified with the progress of the game than most other resorts in America. It is an ideal place, moreover, for those who loiter at the chess table, for the reason that a first class cuisine with very moderate prices is at their beck and call.

Cafe Boulevard was started in a humble way to meet the wishes of discerning but homesick foreigners who yearned for an old-time touch of true Boheminism. The Cafe was in every sense of the word as foreign as anything could well be. Everything was done to suggest home to the patrons—the cooking—the wines—the music—the surroundings—all had the flavor of importation. The idea caught on. The foreigners brought their American friends to give them a touch of the "real thing." These friends brought their friends; to them it was doubly charming, odd and refreshing. The Cafe grew. To-day it has accommodations for 850 guests. The foreigners still frequent it; the same old patrons come nightly to feel at home, and Americans come to feel abroad. To suit the tastes of English-speaking people, many things have been added for their better comfort and convenience, but not sufficiently in any way to detract from the air of Bohemianism, which is the Cafe's chief attraction.

Etiquette, in the conventional sense, has no place in Bohemian life. But the reader must not confound the Cafe Boulevard with the noisy, vulgar air of the so-called Bohemian cafes. There is nothing here to offend the most fastidious. There is freedom, but not license. Formality is absent, but politeness takes its place. And that is the truest etiquette. All classes meet here. Evening dress rubs elbows with the office coat. Wealth is seated at one table with all that wealth commands, impecunious poets sit at the other revelling in the atmosphere. Everything is select, refined. It is the ideal place for ladies.

HOW TO GET THERE

Located only two blocks east of Broadway, the Cafe Boulevard is most accessible. Transfers may be obtained from Broadway at Eighth Street. From Eighth Street and Second Avenue the distance is one block. Second Avenue cars pass the door. Transfers to these cars may be obtained from nearly all of the crosstown lines, including 23d, 34th, 42d, and 59th Streets. It is accessible also by means of the Subway, Astor Place Station, and the Third Avenue "L", Ninth Street Station.

NEWARK, N. J., JULY, 1922

DEAR BROTHER CHECKERIST:

We wish to call your attention to the fact that the Fifth American Checker Tourney will be held at Boston in October, and promises to be the greatest checker event in American checker history. At that time the foremost experts of the United States will compete and meet across board to see who shall be the new champion of America, to succeed John F. Horr, who won the title in 1920, and is present champion.

From all parts of the country will gather players, problemists, critics, analysts, simultaneous performers, bibliographers and other ardent enthusiasts of the "grand old game," and the occasion will give all attending one of the most pleasant times of their lives.

The last tourney, the fourth, took place at Cedar Point, O., and John F. Horr of Buffalo, N. Y., won the contest for championship of America. Among the noted experts to compete in the Fifth American Tourney will be Newell W. Banks, Louis C. Ginsberg, Alfred Jordan, H. B. Reynolds, Andred Dossett, P. H. Ketchum, L. Lewis, Charles Lawson, Jesse B. Hanson, Victor Townsend, W. E. Davis, E. C. Waterhouse, Asa Long, John F. Horr, H. O. Newcomb, J. L. Bradley, C. P. Hamilton, C. W. Yeomans, Thomas J. Harrigan, J. H. Scott, John Daugherty, Saul Weslow, John Howe Jr., John T. Bradford, R. D. Banks, Hugh McKean, Willis G. Hill, F. E. Johnson, and other players of prominence.

To provide a suitable fund to finance this gigantic undertaking and to give out necessary prizes, the checker playing fraternity of the United States has taken upon itself the task of contributing $2,000.

This State has several players entered, and we look to them to possibly capture a share of the prizes. Checker activity in this State the past year has been very pronounced, and we want to keep the ball rolling and make checkers the popular game it deserves to be.

Fill out the enclosed card and mail it to the undersigned. It is a pledge, and you have from now to October to pay it. You will be given full recognition by the checker world, and your name published each week in checker columns and every month in the American Checker Monthly. If you feel that you can pledge $10.00, you will receive the Fifth American Checker Tourney Book free, which will be printed after the tourney. This book would otherwise cost from $5.00 to $10.00.

Now then, Brother Checkerist, if you love checkers, and have its advancement at heart, help us out and give us a boost by contributing at least $1.00 for the "grand old game."

To such players or fans in this State as wish to attend the tourney, either as participants or spectators, there is being arranged special railroad rates by the American Checker Association, so that the trip can be made as economically as possible.

A week's vacation, spent at Boston, would be a wonderful recreation for the checker fan, and a good time is assured to all who attend.

In conclusion, we urge you to give all you possibly can afford to boost this event, and make this State be known as a "thorough checker State." Help us to spread a love for old "Dameh," the homeliest and most loved of all games of science. We will look forward to an early reply from you.

Make up your mind right now to donate as much as you can. Send us your pledge for as much as you can afford to give, and if you care to attend the tourney we promise you the best time of your life, and you will be treated right.

Awaiting your early reply, we remain sincerely and fraternally yours,

Campaign to Raise Funds for Sixth American Tourney

To Be Held at City Club, Cleveland, Ohio, Easter Week, 1924

DEAR BROTHER CHECKERIST:

We wish to call your attention to the fact that the Sixth American Checker Tourney will be held at Cleveland, O., Easter week, 1924, and promises to be the greatest checker event in American checker history. At that time the foremost experts of the United States will compete and meet across board to see who shall be the new champion of America, to succeed Asa Long, who won the title in 1922, and is present champion.

From all parts of the country will gather players, problemists, critics, analysts, simultaneous performers, bibliographers and other ardent enthusiasts of the "grand old game," and the occasion will give all attending one of the most pleasant times of their lives.

The last tourney, the Fifth, took place at Boston, Mass., and Asa Long of Toledo, O., won the contest for championship of America. Among the noted experts to compete in the Sixth American Tourney will be Newell W. Banks, Louis C. Ginsberg, Alfred Jordan, H. B. Reynolds, Andrew Dossett, P. H. Ketchum, L. M. Lewis, Charles Lawson, Jesse B. Hanson, Victor Townsend, W. E. Davis, E. C. Waterhouse, Asa Long, John F. Horr, H. O. Newcomb, J. L. Bradley, C. P. Hamilton, C. W. Yeomans, Thomas J. Harrigan, J. H. Raymond, Sam Levine, and other players of prominence.

To provide a suitable fund to finance this gigantic undertaking and to give out necessary prizes, the checker fraternity of the United States has taken upon itself the task of contributing $4,000, the largest amount ever raised for a tourney in the history of checkers.

This Zone has several players entered, and we look to them to possibly capture a share of the prizes. Checker activity in this Zone the past year has been very pronounced, and we want to keep the ball rolling and make checkers the popular game it deserves to be.

Fill out the enclosed card and mail it to the undersigned. It is a pledge, and you have from now to January to pay it. You will be given full recognition by the checker world, and your name published each week in checker columns and every month in the American Checker Monthly.

Now then, Brother Checkerist, if you love checkers, and have its advancement at heart, help us out and give us a boost by contributing at least $1.00 for the "grand old game."

The $1.00 makes you a member of the American Checker Association and entitles you to credit of being a contributor.

Motion pictures of the tourney will be taken and, all in all, it will be the greatest tourney ever staged in the history of the game. Efforts will be made to have ALL the best players in America entered.

A week's vacation, spent at Cleveland, would be a wonderful recreation for the checker fan, and a good time is assured to all who attend.

In conclusion, we urge you to give all you possibly can afford to boost this event, and make this Zone be known as a "thorough checker Zone." Help us to spread a love for old "Dameh," the homeliest and most loved of all games of science. We will look forward to an early reply from you.
