Audubon State Park, Nature Lovers' Paradise . . .

Audubon State Park Museum and flower gardens, Kentucky's newest memorial to the famous naturalist and wildlife painter, John James Audubon.

It is located on U. S. Highway 41 between Henderson, Ky., and Evansville, Ind., just south of the Henderson-Evansville Ohio River Bridge.

It consists of hundred of acres of rolling, timbered land....woods in which Audubon himself actually studied and sketched.

Besides picnic facilities—tables, ovens, rustic shelter houses, auto and foot trails, wildlife lake, there is the beautiful museum, housed in huge stone buildings or provincial French design.

The museum is the only one in existance devoted entirely to collection of Audubon relics and even now houses one of the largest displays of Audobonia in the country.

Beef Cattle and Sheep Tour Planned For Wednesday, July 3

Several Farms Will Be Visited and Herds Inspected. Interested Persons Invited to Make Trip

On Wednesday, July 3rd, a beef cattle and Sheep tour and meeting will be held in Trigg County, at which time several farms having sheep and cattle will be visited.

The tour will begin at the farm of Mack M. Hopson, in the Montgomery Community on U. S. Highway 68, at 9:00 A. M. At Mr. Hopson's farm, will be seen a large number of cattle, which he has on feed and also be able to see a nice flock of northwestern sheep which he purchased last fall. Before leaving Mr. Hopson's farm the group will also inspect some of the bluegrass pastures, which are being produced on this farm. Mr. Hopson has had unusual success in getting bluegrass established in his pastures and the production of good pastures is the most important factor in the growing of livestock.

Leaving this farm, the party will go to the farm of Judge J. L. Blakeley near Cerulean, where they will inspect his herd of cattle, which includes a number of fine Hereford cows.

From here they will visit the farm of Lee C. Hopson, also near Cerulean. Mr. Lee Hopson carries a few cows, from which he raises some calves and he also buys some feeder cattle each year. Also on this farm, they will see a nice flock of Northwestern ewes, which were purchased last fall and added to his livestock program.

After visiting the Lee Hopson farm, the tour will lead to the farm of Smith Broadbent at Wallonia, where dinner will be served at a reasonable cost to all.

After dinner, a program will be heard which will include talks concerning the feeding and management of beef cattle by such men as Prof. E. S. Good, Head of the Animal Industry Department and Mr. Wayland Rhods, Field Agent in Animal Industry, both of the Agriculture Experiment Station, Lexington, Kentucky. Mr. W. D. Meacham, Ass't. Vice President of the First National Bank of Clarksville, Tenn., will be present to discuss the sheep program, which his bank is sponsoring with the farmers of Montgomery County, Tenn. Mr. John Street, President of the Trigg County Farmers Bank, will also appear on the program and give his usual logical and inspirational discussion of farm problems, which is always of such interest and value to those who hear him. Other persons will appear on the program for short talks on various subjects.

All persons interested in a bigger livesctock program for Trigg County are invited by the County Agent to attend this tour and meeting. Don't forget the date, Wednesday, July 3rd, at 9:00 A. M. In order that lunch may be prepared for all, it would be appreciated if all interested, would drop a card to Tom Morgan, Cadiz, telling him that you will be present.

Official Pledges TVA Support In New Defense Program

Authority Director in Address at Nashville Says TVA Can Be Ready Within An Hour After Orders Given

Speaking at a public dinner in Nashville Thursday night Director David E. Lilienthal, of the Tennesee Valley Authority, pledged the support of the TVA in the National defense program.

Mr. Lilienthal briefly stated the TVA's report in four points, namely: first, "munitions plant at Muscle Shoals in ready as soon as the signal is given to be adapted to the production of ammonium nitrate for high explosives. Second, TVA has developed a hugh supply of power that is now of strategic importance to the defense of the nation, a power supply without which the production of airplanes on the scale needed would be impossible; for today TVA power is a principal reliance in America's production of aluminum. Third, the need of power has led the order of the dam construction program to be speeded up in every device. And fourth, the facts about badly needed raw materials essential to the defense program, facts TVA has been developing for seven years, are ready and have been made available to the country's new Defense Commission, and to businessmen upon whom we must rely for a speedy production of essential defense materials."

Mr. Lilienthal further stated that the TVA munitions plant at Muscle Shoals stands as a symbol of the democratic conception of defense. He said that it was built for war, but during the years of peace it had served the basic needs of a peaceful people. In the production of phosphate for lant food, it has been an aid in the restoration of the soil fertility, a source of strength to the land upon which the population of the United States depended for their livlihood. He added that the plant would be capable of supplying the needs of war as well as continue to supply the plant food necessary for agricultural products.

The Authority's director asserted that no surplus of power was being wasted. As fast as plants for the protection of airplanes or explosives were being placed, power from the vast source of the TVA would be made available. In spite of this fact, all the planned expansion of manufacturing will need a like expansion in power, and the TVA is making their plans accordingly. Additional generators are being installed in the majority of the power plants of the dams already completed. Others have been ordered and installation will begin on these shortly. All in all, a complete power program can be under way by 1941. He added that a seasoned construction force of the Authority consisting of 8,000 men were ready for any increase deemed necessary.

Detour for Highways 93

Pouring of concrete on the small portion of the street extending down between the Cadiz Hardware building and the Alexander building was begun last week, and traffic on highway 93 has been detoured.

All traffic has been routed out 68 to the top of the Russell hill, where it branches off the Dover road. It follows the road by what is commonly known as the "Tanyard" place and rejoins highway 93 at the intersection of the Caledonia road. Persons desiring to do so, may drive to the foot of the hill back of town and walk on into town.

Authoritative sources report the street will be closed for about three weeks barring inclement weather which would prevent the pouring of concrete.

License were issued on June 22 for the marriage of Miss Sadie Francis 20, to Mr. Obie Whitman, 23. Miss Francis resides on Cadiz Route 5, and Mr. Whitman gave his residence as Cadiz. Both formerly lived in Tennessee.

Mother of Mrs. John L. Street Dies in Louisville

Funeral services for Mrs. Fannie Miller Atkinson, 83, widow of the late George C. Atkinson, who was president of the St. Bernard Coal Company and former resident of Earlington and Hopkinsville, were held Tuesday morning, June 25th, at Louisville, with burial following in Cave Hill Cemetery, in that city.

Mrs. Atkinson had been in declining health for some time, but her condition was not critical until Sunday morning when Mrs. John L. Street, her daughter, was called to her bedside. Death came Sunday afternoon at 3:38, at her residence, The Commodore Apts.

Mrs. Atkinson was born in Cadiz and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Q. Miller. Mr. Miller was one of the several prominent business men of Cadiz who left here after the War Between the States to become wholesale merchants in the city of Evansville, Ind.

She was a beloved Christian character, greatly admired by all who knew her. She was a frequent visitor to her daughter here and made many friends who regret her passing.

Her survivors are three daughters: Mrs. Frank D. Rash, Louisville; Mrs. Newell Alford, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. John L. Street, of this city; several grandchildren of whom John L. Street, Jr., of this city is one.

Citizens Instructed How to Aid U.S. In Fighting "Fifth Column" Menace

"As a means of coordinating investigations of charges of violation of Federal laws relating to neutrality, espionage, subersive activities and kindred offenses, on September 6, 1939 the President issued the following statement.:

"The Attorney General has been requested by me to instruct the Federal Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice to take charge of investigative work in matters relating to espionage, sabotage, and violations of the neutrality regulations.

"This task must be conducted in a comprehensive effective manner on a national basis, and all information must be carefully sifted out and correlated in order to avoid confusion and irresponsibility.

"To this end I request all police officers, sheriffs, and all other law enforcement officers in the United States promptly to turn over to the nearest representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation any information obtained by them relating to espionage, counter - espionage, sabotage, subversive activities and violations of the neutrality laws."

Since that time there has been considerable agitation in the mind of the general public concerning subversive activities in various parts of the nation. It has become advisable that investigation of these matters be conducted on a national scale by a national agency which will in turn make its report to the proper designated Federal agency.

The agency selected for this service, by the Attorney General, is the Federal Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, which has headquarters in various parts of the United States.

As a means of more closely coordinating these activities in Kentucky and being of greater aid to this agency itself, it is very much desired by our Government that all persons, group and officals who wish to report any matter pertaining to what they consider subversive activities make such report to the Kentucky office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, 633 Federal Building, Sixth and Broadway, Louisville.

These reports should be brief and concise, giving the names, location and activities in order that the Department may be fully advised of the facts and circumstances of each case. All communication, of course, being confidential.

It is well to remember that individual citizens as well as groups and officials can play an important role in these matters. It is also important to keep in mind that constitutional rights of individuals must be protected along with the welfare and interest of the general public.

Help Save A Life!

We are making a personal appeal to every man, woman and child in Trigg County to help do a job that belongs to all of us. This appeal has to do with the saving of lives—the lives of women, children, babies—no less than that. It is a serious matter.

There should be something sublime in the thought of having been able to help save a life. We have that opportunity right now and happily situated as we are we can do it almost without missing what it costs.

It is sad to think how indifferent we the people of Cadiz and Trigg County have been in this matter. Only one in every 500 of those living in the county have made any response whatsoever to the call of these innocent, helpless human beings just like us, appealing to us because there is nobody else but us who can help them.

We promise the people of Trigg County that every cent contributed will be turned over to the American Red Cross. Nothing will be kept back for local expenses. Our quota is $400. To date only about one-fourth of this amount has been contributed. We are appealing to you to help us finish this job. It is safe to say here is a gift you would never regret.

INVINCIBILITY—WHAT IS IT?

The idea that the United States is invincible so long as it holds aloof from European politics and rigidly confines its affairs to this continent, is by no means a new one, but has for years been a cherished fixation in American minds. It is a comfortinng theory—though a cynic might point out that the sand into which he sticks his head doubtless comforts the ostrich too.

During the recent critical days abroad, and even before, there have been dissenters from this viewpoint in the ranks of Americans with long records of intelligent and faithful public service. Some of them have not hesitated to declare that a prospect of invasion is not remote, and that at the present time, this country is not impregnable from the standpoint of purely military defense.

Whether we agree with the latter, or with those who, like Mr. Lindbergh, scoff at the idea that we might ever be invaded, would it not be a good thing to examine the term "invincibility," as applied to our country, in order to be sure just what constitutes it?

There was once a time when to term a nation invincible meant simply that there was not in existance a military force that could conquer it. A little later the economic factor began to rear its head, and nations that hitherto had been impregnable because of military strength or strategic location became vulnerable if unable to produce within their own boundaries those materials needed for self-sufficiency in war or peace.

It was during this latter era that the United States came into its full growth as a nation, and it was then that we first began to assume that we were invincible because we were separated by 3000 miles of ocean from any potentially menacing power, and because our immense territorial scope made us self-sufficient in food and raw materials.

But time brings changes in values; things that once were of vast importance sink into insignificance and others come to the fore. It is possible that, as some claim, we are not vulnerable to a military invasion of men, guns or even planes. But alas! we are now part of a gigantic economic and financial structure that extends far beyond these shores and yet is so sensitive that an upheaval in any part of it is soon felt by the smallest unit contributing to it. It is through this system that we are vulnerable, and it is through a ruthless control of world markets and prices that the totalitarian powers can reach us and throttle our national and economic future. They now control Europe, with the exception of a wounded England. Unless the United States can act quickly to bring the countries of North and South America together into an ironbound economic coalition (and the hatred which some of our Latin American neighbors entertain for us, makes the prospect far from rosy) the totalitarian nations—Germany, Russia and Italy have made a myth of our theory of our own invincibility.

But there are other aspects of this besides the military and economic—There is invincibility of the spirit.

Ages ago the early Christian martyrs were poor economically and weak physically (at least compared with the Emperor's lions who ate them), but their spirit was unquenchable and today their religion lives while that of the Romans is only a legend. During the Revolution, this country was as nothing against the might of England; yet because the spirit of its people could not be conquered, the nation was invincible.

Have we departed so far from the ideals that bulwarked our forefathers that we can no longer summon their spirit as the hour of national crisis approaches? —or will it return and keep us indeed unconquerable? The answer lies in the hearts of Americans.

Twenty Years Ago...

Special front page headline said: "Looks Like McAdoo for President." The Record had received a special communication from the Democratic convention which was being held in San Francisco.

Hon. A. B. Holland, Rockcastle, received a letter from the U. S. Department of Agriculture in reply to his request which stated there was no danger in eating fruit that might contain eggs of locust. The department stated that in no instance did they have a record of any person becoming ill or dying from this.

New speed laws issued by the state were: 15 miles per hour in the business district of a city, twenty miles per hour in a residential section and thirty miles per hour in the country.

Henry Lawrence said editorially:

It is said that Senator Harding appears to best advantage when he has his mouth shut—Senator Harding is doubtless all right as a country editor. However there are a lot of us who will never become president. —For instance. Just suppose Mr. Hoover had known no more about feeding the people in time of war than he did about the popular game of American politics.—Local Bull Moosers like Max Hanberry, Old Brother Garton and Max Mitchell will hardly be expected to tear their shirts for Mr. Harding when they begin to look over the files of his paper for 1912 and read where he referred to Col. Roosevelt as "utterly without conscience, and regard for the truth, and the greatest fakir of all time." And also that Senator Hiram Johnson was "both a fakir and a blackguard."

Mr. T. I. Dixon of the Donaldson section, brought to our office several days ago, a pocket knife that Mr. Henry Fuller found while remodeling the old J. T. Dixon home. Mr. Dixon claims he traded this knife from Mr. Clint Cunningham, deceased, over forty years ago and values it very highly.

Mr. Wesley G. Thomas, while in our office last week, informed us that forty one years ago the third Sunday in June, the Siloam church was dedicated. As Mr. Thomas' memory is rather good along these lines, we are sure this is correct.

The contract for the building of the Federal highway between Cadiz and Tennessee River at Eggner's Ferry, a distance of 17 and 7-10 miles, was let last Friday at Frankfort. The contract price for the work was $306,000 or about $17,000 per mile for the entire distance. Of the cost of this work, the county is to pay the sum of $42,552.

From the local column:

Old Father Time soon starts on the last half of 1920—Miss Dorothy Jefferson fell and sprained her ankle one day last week—Mr. Grundy Minton's horse ran away Tuesday afternoon, tore the buggy up and Mr. Minton was considerably hurt—Three pistol shots ringing out about 2 o'clock Monday morning aroused a number of Cadiz citizens, some anticipating a fire, others a bank robbery, but it proved to be the act of the night police firing at a town cur.—75 barrels of ear corn for sale at $10.00 par barrel. The Worst is Yet to Come...

Your Family History

By Charlotte Lawrence Pulliam

BARTEE FAMILY

Following is an extract from a History of Tennessee published in 1886, which gives some valuable information about early members of the Bartee family of Trigg:

"BARTEE, J. W. was born May 22,1819 in Dickson County, Tennessee and is the son of Jesse and Sarah (Harkleroad) Bartee. Jesse Bartee was born in East Tennessee in 1783, and was engaged in the iron business there for a number of years. He died in Dickson County in 1826. In early life he was married to Miss Sarah Harkleroad to which union were born thirteen children. The only ones now living are: Mary, James, Jesse W. and G. W. Mrs. Sarah Bartee died in 1873 in her 90th year.

"Our subject, J. W. Bartee, was educated in the county school and the first business in which he engaged was farm work; his health failing he went into the mercantile busness at the mouth of the Harpeth River in Dickson County. He remained twelve months. He then went to Charlotte, Tennessee and began the grocery business, but only engaged in that business for a short time. After moving about for sometime he settled at last in the 8th district. He was married February 22, 1852 to Miss Lucy A Bullock. To this union were born six children, three of whom are now alive, respectively: J. B., J. H. and E. L. In politics he is a Democrat, casting his first vote for Martin Van Buren. Mr. Bartee is a member of the F. & A. M., joining that body at the age of twenty-one. He and his wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church and he is one of the well-known citizens of the county (Montgomery).

Of the children of Jesse and Sarah (Harkleroad) Bartee the one who was the direct ancestor of the Bartee family of Trigg county was William Ballard Bartee born around 1802, died 1838. He was one of the early settlers of Stewart county, Tenn. Of the the other children of Jesse Bartee we have the marriages of only a few: Mary married a Hayes; Betsy married McAlister; Lucy married a Walker; Sarah married Thomas Murphy, and Susan married a Phillips. James T. was a Methodist preacher.

William Ballard Bartee was married three times, first to Eliza G. Shelton. His second wife was Mary Walker and his third was Elizabeth G. West. By his second wife, William Ballard Bartee had three sons and no daughters. They were: Andrew Jackson Bartee, born 1833, died 1865; Jasper Brown Bartee and John Hartwell Bartee. Mary S. Walker Bartee, the mother of the above children, was born March 5, 1806.

Andrew Jackson Bartee married Louisa Elliott, daughter of William and Margaret (Brinton) Elliott. She was born Dec. 5, 1831. Their children were:

Martha, who married E. C. Spiceland.

Joe Bailey, who married Cornelia McNichols.

James, who married Delia Willis.

William, who married Nettie W. Spiceland.

Jack who married Katherine Byrd.

Louisa (Lou) who married Willie Sills.

Beulah, who married Dr. Thomas Brome Jefferson.

Bartees in N. C. and Va.

The First Census of North Carolinia gives only three names of this family, and all are spelled Bartie. They were: George, of Rockingham Co., John of Edgecombe county, and Anthony of Chowan. This census was not taken until 1789, and we saw above that Jesse Bartee was already in East Tennessee by 1783, we do not expect to find his name. However, one of these may have been his father, though that is pure speculation. That it was not Anthony, seems fairly certain, for in 1792 he died and his will shows only sons Nathaniel, Thomas and Eli; daughters Dinah and Margaret; and in addition speaks of "my four eldest children," John, William, Elizabeth and Mary.

Beyond this, we have so far been unable to find North Carolina Bartee data. However, in Norfolk county, Virginia, we find the will of Robert Bartee, May 19, 1711. It mentions sons Adrigan, Robert and Samuel, and wife, Mary. It is likely that the Bartees of North Carolina and Tenn. came originally from this part of Virginia, as so many North Carolina families did.

The book, "Roster of North Carolina Soldiers in the Revolution" gives the following Bartee names, but this work is woefully incomplete: John Bartie, enlisted Aug. 5, 1777, served 3 years Moore's Co.

William Bartee (land warrent)

Ensign Reuben Bartee, Hyde Co. Militia.

PITT QUERY

Mr. Hugh Johnston, Jr., of 302 N. Goldsboro St., Wilson, N. C., would very much like to correspond with descendants of the Pitt family who came to Trigg county quite early. He has done a good deal of genealogical research on certain families of N. C., the Pitt family being one of them. We hope that any one who can give any information about the early Pitts in Trigg will communicate either with Mr. Johnston or with this column, care of The Cadiz Record.

Town Talk..

By Edison H. Thomas

In response to a request recently for information of the writer of the poem "Forty Years Ago Dear Tom" several persons sent us a copy of the poem, which was clipped from an old issue of the Record. One came from a lady in Indiana.

To this response, we were very grateful, but this did not fill the request for the information that was wanted. Mr. Allen wanted to know something about the life of the writer, and if he had some certain person in mind when he wrote the poem. Should any member of the family of Dr. Averitt be able to shed any light on the matter it would be greatly appreciated if they would communicate with the Record.

Hollyhocks have been blooming along the road we travel in many of the gardens. Once there was a time when the stately flower reigned in practically all the flower gardens in the country. No garden was considered complete without their rich splash of color, and flower lovers everywhere vied with each other to see who could produce the most beautiful hollyhock garden.

Not so now. They are seldom seen, and when they are, they only grow a few stalks. In spite of that, the now neglected flower still holds up her head in proud colorful beauty, scattering cheer upon those who may look. If you travel west from Cadiz look for some that blossom about three miles from town. These will be found the largest bunch of hollyhocks we've seen this year.

Speaking of half of the world not knowing about the other half, it happens right here in the county. Now it had been perhaps ten years since we had visited Lock E, right here in Trigg county. Having worked on the river for some time, we knew river traffic was on the increase, but little did we realize it was touching so near home.

Sunday afternoon, we witnessed the locking through of 25,000 barrels of gasoline at Lock E, whose destination was Nashville. Mr. Cherry, who is in charge of the locks stated that like quantities passed up the river practically every week.

That the locking through process was quite an interesting item was proven by the fact that perhaps fifty persons were present from different parts of the county to witness it.

THE FORUM

Communications of an acceptable nature, dealing with the public good, will be run in this column, but all such communications MUST be signed with the full name of the writer, which will be published but publication does not imply approval by The Record.

Dear Editor:

The recent decision of the U. S. Supreme Court "that every school child must salute the Flag" has given great satisfaction to all loyal Americans. Justice Stone dissenting, for the reason he stated, "that he thought no child should be denied an education because he did not keep this law." We are dissenting from Justice Stone's decision—"Just what is an education?"—To know God, your Flag, your country.

The history of the Flag is one of the moral, beautiful pages in our history. The heroes who have died for it, will again, when it becomes necessary to save civilization. There will be the new, loyal Americans who will defend their country. The real education for a "5th columnist" is not to know the Flag, or what it stands for. The Kentucky Press Association in session in Paducah, June 7 and 8, brought the distinguished men who crystalize Public Opinion, and in talking with two editors, they welcomed the suggestion that on Friday, June 15th, Flag Day, that every Kentuckian should display the Flag on the lintel of his door post: signifying every home, every store and public building was honoring the flag.

Floating in the wind, the stars and stripes," Kentucky can make a perfect record. In this time of stress and strife, there is no place for a luke warm patriot. Let us strive to interest every attendant at the movie picture houses, to rise when the Flag is displayed and stand at attention. There are some indifferent ones who remain seated; we are giving them the benefit of the doubt. Perhaps they don't know what the Flag means. Let Kentucky go on record at all times as the loyal patriotic state she is.

Josephine Fowler Post

Mrs. Edmund Post, whom the people of Kentucky, and the nation know still better, as Josephine Fowler Post, is ever a leading force in all of which she is convinced will make for a better moral and patriotic outlook. She spent much time in Washington assisting the famous Carrie Chapman Catt in her great struggle for woman suffrage, was with her when suffrage was granted; for a long period served on the State Central Executive Democratic Committee, a delegate several times from Kentucky to the Democratic National Conventions, also an outstanding club woman. We are grateful to her that she has taken the interest in our paper to send us an expression on this question of current interest.

Can't Beat Roosevelt

How can anybody try to fool the people by suggesting that a party discard all political consideration, when he, himself, in his daily writings, never gets above the most groveling political enunciations, always adroitly put but patent to any normal mind?

In The Courier-Journal we see the question about the gold at Fort Knox and its answer, showing that this is the property of the United States. The Government owns between fifteen and thirty billions gold and perhaps a hundred billions in other property. Is not this sufficient to convince us that a forty-five billion debt is not so dangerous as these Republicans would have us believe? If it were the best for the people, taxes could be gathered sufficient to pay it off within a very short time.

If you are against Germany and desire that the Allies win, why commend the great President of the U. S., and then proceed to discredit him by saying that a real case can be made against him for floundering, squandering, maladministration and general incompetency, none of which you can or do believe?

We have no more right to criticise him for feeding the starving millions here than Burton K. Wheeler has for opposing the giving of aid and comfort to the suffering millions in France.

Republicans still trying to keep the Democrats from nominating Roosevelt. What right has a Republican to say whom the Democrats nominate? If it were left to them to pick the nominee they might win. The Republicans believe there would be some chance to win against some other nominee. No chance to win against Roosevelt. That is the reason they oppose his nomination.

CADIZ METHODIST CHURCH

JOHN W. LEWIS, Pastor

The Revival at Cadiz Methodist Church was a real success. The attendance increased constantly, until at the close of the meeting there was a full attendance at some unusually fine preaching at the morning and night services during the past week, and all who attended enjoyed the services very much. In visible results there have been fifteen additions to the church, ten by confession of faith and five by church letter and there are more to follow. The spiritual influence of this meeting, in the lives of the Christian people who attended the services, was very great. All of us are better Christians as a result of this meeting, and we trust we shall continue to improve. The brotherly spirit of Cadiz people was very manifest in the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Keith Again Honored

Mrs Smith Broadbent, Jr., and Mrs. Thomas Baker, were hostesses at a most unusual and attractive lawn party given at the home of Mrs. Baker, at 7 o'clock Friday evening, June 21st, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Keith whose marriage took place early in June.

On their first arrival the guests were made aware of, and pleased, with the nature of this unique party, when they read the sign, "Baker-Broadbent Carnival," posted over the entrance gates of the grounds. Between the large posts of the same gates, strung high above, were many and various colored balloons and the brightest of carnival lights, portraying still more the atmosphere of carnival charm which dominated the spirit of the entire evening.

Over the beautiful old lawn, scene of so many happy parties of other days, was spread a net work of carnival lights and baloons of all descriptions, making for a scene of exceptional beauty.

Under the branches of the old maple trees was placed a "Carnival Stand" from which the guests at all times could refresh themselves with ice cold drinks.

Luncheon was served on the lawn, too, picnic fashion, bearing out the Carnival idea. The table from which the guests were served had for its centerpiece a circle of large red balloons surrounded by smaller balloons, all in vivid colors. At the card tables which dotted the lawn, guests after having been served at the central table, found unique place cards of Carnival favors in such noise making instruments as horns, harps, whistles, etc. After the lunch was served the guests played "Bingo" inside the drawing room. Each guest, who "bingoed," was allowed their choice from an assortment of articles similar to those one would purchase at any Carnival. These gifts were drawn from out a huge basket.

Invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Butzke, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. Cleland White, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hopson, Dr. and Mrs. John Futrell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry White, Mr. and Mrs. Van Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. James Sexton, Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Englishman's Love For His Island

The world is weeping this June morning over the death of so much that is precious to it. A continent under iron heel of a conqueror. Sounds fantastic, like something Poe, or H. G. Wells had dreamed that France, the gay, the brave, the liberty, loving should be in chains. Why even Louis the XI never envisioned such slavery, well as he loved power.

And now Great Britian, "Our Island" these last ditch Britons say so feelingly. It is given to few to understand, even the love an Englishman has for this island.

To them it is indeed "a precious stone set in a silver sea." Hitherto this sea has been its wall. Now alas! walls are no defense nor seas. Now, many an Englishman, hearing this sad sea song of England is maddened and his eyes are wet and blind (as are ours) at the thought of surrendering it to the sword of the conqueror, this, to them, blessed spot, "this earth, this realm. this England."

It is a love we can know nothing of and we love our own land, but this love of England goes down deep, deep, through two thousand years.

When Caesar's legions had to drive them foot by foot, back into Wales and Scotland where old John the Grim, this scribe's forebears broke the wall—that was the beginning of the 2nd fall of Rome.

A love that goes with them through all the world—Some of the loveliest poems in the world have been written about it—Young Brooks who said—that where he fell, and was buried was a spot that would be forever England. Noyes, Browning Tennyson every poet this island has producted has sung his greatest song about his native isle even to the Great Bard's "Jewel set in a silver sea."

Its history has inspired the pen of some of its greatest sons, Haine, Macaulay, Green—from King Alfred on down, Alfred, who was a hunted fugtive in England, but who finally drove the Danish usurpers out. Let us take it as an omen—in this England's last stand against her foe.

Alfred's spirit that animates Winston Churchill to cry to the world. We will fight, in the cities, in the towns in the fields—foot by foot, we will die for our island". (No wonder even nature is weeping today.)

And so this scribe, with all who love liberty, sends up her petition that the world may not lose this grand old citadel of patriotism. As has been said before in this column. We cannot afford its loss, even in the most material sense, far less in the spirit.

For, says one of them, listen,
"There is a song of England that only Heaven can hear,
So gloriously victorious,
It soars above the choral stars that sing the golden year
Till ever the cloudy shadows
That wander o'er her meadows
In silent purple harmonies declare
His glories there
Along the hills of England, the billowy hills of England,
White heaven rolls and ranges
Through all the myriad changes,
That mirror God in music to the mortal eye and ear"

Then with our earnest petitions we shall have an understanding of this love that made William Blake cry out:

"Bring me my bow of burning gold
Bring me my arrows of desire,
Bring me my spear, O clouds unfold;
Bring me my chariot of fire;
I shall not cease from mental strife
Nor shall my sword sleep in my Land

Scuse us— Just had to be said, the pent soul just must be unburdened and to whom so well as to our friends, of such long standing as these dear folk who read the thoughts of their Cerulean scribe. You will echo the thoughts this time of course. Thank you.

It is such a lovely world—out at Cerulean. I wish you might have seen it yesterday, but even as I write, I realize you did, for you, too, gathered at your house of prayer to listen to the man of God and to study your Sunday School lesson together. Of course you did.

But you will love hearing Bro. Jenkins is well again—instead of going to the famed Johns Hopkins for treatment he went to Golden Pond, and held a meeting! and to cap it all he looked as fit as a fiddle and preached a delightful sermon, yes that's the word, on 'A merry heart doeth good like a medicine"—He spoke with conviction. He'd been taking the course.

Out preaching a cheerful gospel to the saints at Golden Pond. Yes, that's what the apostle Paul called his brethren, "The saints at Ephesus," he said, and the Golden Pond saints were so infected with this cheerful gospel that they brought new pews for their chapel—Oh yes, a merry heart doeth good like a medicine.

I do wish there were time and space to talk a minute about King James, the first James of England, who no doubt put that word merry there himself. Oh, yes, he had a hand in translating—the King James version—and he was such a queer mixture of wisdom and foolishness that he was called the wisest fool in Christendom—So of course he said merry instead of cheerful.

And now it is a Monday and the reapers are busy cutting their golden sheaves of wheat, literally fields of gold. Bad as this home garden needs rain we hope it doesn's rain too much on this wheat crop.

And right in the midst of the harvest here must our neighbors, the Smith Broadbents go tramping off to Washington. Some people have all the luck. We hear they are attending to some business with their pleasuring or more likely, the other way round.

And here are our Goodwins back at home for just a piece of the summer, which is sad, but better a little visit than none. And they are so busy as bees, they and their young managers, the Albert Larkins, primping at the old farm that dates back to colonizing days. There's a new porch, numerous gates to be rehinged, oh, a lot of things and all of us to be visited, the last one. They dare not go back, otherwise, even to those great universities. Our Miss Lora to Peabody, and Miss Lucile to the U. of T. at Austin, Tex.

War and all, Cerulean is primping considerably. The Bob Jenkins have their purchase, the Weller house, just shining. Dr. Hatcher and "Miss Anne" have remodeled their place in the popular rural English style. The Camerons are equally spic and span in the Rawls homestead.

And here must come those fine folks the Beechers, from St. Petersburg, Fla., on a sort of angels' visit, but long enough to bring paint for their property here, where "Miss Jennie" Larkins and her children, the C. M. Rascoes live.

But they aren't quite so merry with their paint for Papa Rascoe has gone to help make some more good Kentucky roads, leaving small son, Dabney disconsolate. He was explicit about it. When his Dad began to get ready small son protested, "Don't go talking about leaving us, Papa," he said, we've got used to having you around, and we like it."

And the Lewis Burceit's company, the brother from Detroit has finally come, and there is much visiting—Dear me, their names, the Nello Kenady's

Along with the coming theres some more going, the Rawls folks off on a pilgrimage to Texas to see an old uncle. The partys, M. A. Rawls, one of our rural routers. C. H. this looks odd, I mean Marvin and Cary and Cary's wife, Iva from here and sister Anna, Mrs. J. M. Turner, of Cadiz with Nephew Bill Rawls, of some. The uncle is Mr. Joseph McConnell, of Merkel, Texas.

And there's "Miss Peach", Mrs. Steel, who's in New York visiting, who will be home this week, and our own bairn Lois who is just back from there, where she put in ten days, helping to publicise the American Medical Association, whose President was Dr. Abel, of Louisville. Oh, yes, and attending the fair with the New York bairn, Rachel, and Mr. Bill, her husband, going to parties and the like. These Kentuckians do get around.

Lois reports the Fair, good what there is of it, but many building are shut this terrible war.

Some of our visitors have not had so happy a time, Dr. White's brother, James White from Alabama, is it's came up for a good visit, became very ill and had to be removed to the Jennie Stewart Hospital in Hopkinsville, where he is still seriously sick, so Dr. White reports.

Did we tell you the Sam Roberts' have had company; the Bill's, from Tenn. Seems we did, may be, but they're so nice it is news to tell it again. Aren't our Tennessee neighbors nice. Mr. Hull now a genuine statesman in the tradition of Clay, Hayes, Calhoun, Jackson Wise, calm, fearless. Oh, yes, he's our neighbor too, couldn't you hear it all through that Harvard speech. Proud of him, well, I guess, and of Harvard, too, who honored herself in honoring him.

It is sunset time, a lovely golden glory shining through the park into the kitchen window where I sit. Two dear neighbor girls have been in to share this cheerful view, and Dabney, too, looking westward. There is no cheer in the continest east.

How the heart does ache over poor bleeding France. I don't think she should be scolded for anything she has done in her desparate struggle against a relentless foe.

In our long correspondence together, this scribe has written many an obituary none sadder than the one she will try to write, if you'd like to read it—of this stricken land—her proud bliss broken and trampled in the ground made sodden by the blood of her sons. There is a voice of weeping in Israel. Rachel mourning for her children because they are not.

But the time of reckoning must come. The blood of Abel cries out from the ground to be avenged.

The law-enforcement agencies in a community should be vitally interested in the prevention of automobile or traffic accidents. Traffic accidents cost money. Every community must conclude eventually that more lives are lost, more persons injured, and more property is destroyed by automobile accidents than by all criminal activities—yes, as a matter of fact more than by criminal activities and fires combined.

The amount of money our cities pay to prevent accidents is but a fraction of the amount they expend to fight crime to maintain their fire departments.

Citizens should get behind their police departments to help them enforce the laws on the statute books. Traffic accidents are the most pressing problem of the police today, and our police departments deserve the support of right-driving and right-thinking people.

Procurement Officers Listed in War Dept.

If a firm wishes to have its name placed on the mailing list to receive proposals for purchase made locally by the Navy Department, a request should be filed with the Supply Officer, Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Illinois.

By communicating direct with the Field Procurement office, information will be substantially expedited.

If executives are in doubt, or wish further data, Judge Wood announced that his office at 431 Federal Building, Louisville, will furnish additional information.

A Gathering of the Clan

By Martha Thomas Sumner

On Sunday June 16th, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong was the scene of a pleasant family gathering.

We traveled southward down the Ollie James highway for several mles then left the road and turned to the right. We soon found ourselves driving over a winding road through a woods. When we reached the edge of the woods we caught a glimpse of the house throogh the tall maples. Up the hill and we were there!

As we approached the house from the rear, the first thing we saw was the large well cultivated vegetable garden. But what caught our attention and held it was the flower garden. It runs the entire length of the vegetable garden and is placed between it and the road. Often we have seen long borders of iris and narcissus in bloom in Trigg County, but it was the first time I have seen a garden-length border of madonna lilies in bloom. Between the lilies and the road, and growing several inches lower, was a wide bed of larkspur made up of every color in the rainbow and some deeper shades besides. The effect was beautiful. At that time, as is always the case when I reach one of the houses where I played in childhood, my thoughts turned backward. All these lilies from the small clump that was so carefully tended years ago! Where was the border of tea roses that used to be in the garden? They had been moved. Against the fence which separates the back yard from the vegetable garden they were in full bloom.

Greetings! A look at the new babies in the family and it was noon. Tables were hastily made by placing planks on horses in the side yard beneath the trees. There in sight of the flowers we ate our lunch. There is no use to attempt a description of the dinner except to say it was well prepared, plentiful and thoroughly enjoyed. Everyone who has had the pleasure of eating a basket dinner in the Oak Grove community will know that there was nothing lacking.

I ate my lunch on a stool which was made by Antney Futrell, a slave, who was the chair-maker for the people in the Oak Grove and adjoining communities in the early days of our county. He did his work well. Many of the straight chairs he made are still in use and in good condition today. Some of the carvings on this chair is nearly perfect.

The weather man sent us a little rain while we were at the table, but there was not enough to penetrate the heavy foliage of the maples which were planted seventy years ago (perhaps) by the host's parents.

Old Sol hid himself behind the clouds not deigning to peep out a single time that day. But what did sunshine on the children's faces to make the day bright? And if the sun had shone its brightest could it have kept the shadows from crossing our hearts now and then when we thought of absent faces—the dear ones that are gone?

In the afternoon we looked over the house. First, the dishes in the kitchen. There were the cups and saucers that match the old teapot at home. There were some pieces of ironstone china. Other things that brought back memories were the walnut bedstead and wardrobe, the set of chairs with matching rocker seated with Brussels carpet, and the parlor organ.

There was some splendid piano music and a few secred songs were sung. And so the day passed. We said goodby. Each one of us thinking it had been a day well spent—a happy day.

Would-Be Robber Caught in Attempt

Early Monday morning, Night Police Buddy Hopson caught Richard B. Thompson Jr., 19, in the attempt of removing a slot machine from the local pool room.

Young Thompson, who escaped Mr. Hopson after they had almost reached the county jail, returned Monday afternoon with his father, and gave himself up to the local authorities.

Young Thompson waived examining trial, and furnished bond which was set at $250. His trial will come up at the September term of the Trigg circuit court.

Thompson suffered a bullet wound in the flesh of his right arm when he ran from Mr. Hopson after his arrest.

The Thompsons former residents of Caldwell county, reside near Caledonia.

Long Distance Call From New York

As is stated elsewhere in this issue, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Mason and Mr. and Mrs. Roy McDonald are visiting several points of interest this week, including the New York Fair.

Wednesday morning, Alvis Cunningham received a call from Mr. Mason in New York, who said he had been chosen the lucky person in the Bell Telephone exhibit at the Fair to make a free 3 minute distance call to any place in the United States.

Mr. Mason asked about the condition of Mr. J. N. Holland, in the conversation; reported they were having a grand time; and said they would be back in Trigg county about Sunday.

The manager of the local theater was in receipt of a communication Wednesday stating that the new Federal tax will go on admission tickets beginning July 1. This tax will be used to help finance the defense program authorized by Congress.

The new arrangement taxes admissions from 20 cents up instead of the former 40 cent admission ticket tax.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

NEWS FROM BLUE SPRING
By Iasbelle Jones

Times must be getting hard when a guy has to communicate with his best girl on a post-card. Perhaps that's why a former Trigg County "philosopher" tried to woo his best girl with only two or three lines of poetry. That's about all one could put on a post-card!

In "Siftings From Here and There" of July 21, 1938, Edison Thomas expressed a beautiful and human thought when he said, "It isn't much of a thought, the Mississippi river is called the father of the waters, but it is actually the little rivers that make it what it is. Moral: You never get to be a somebody unless some of the little nobodies give you a shove." Althought Mr. Thomas has changed the title of his his column we still find the same "humaness" and now and then a touch of humor in "Town Talk." We would like to add that we enjoy his columns very much. (By the way, why don't you dig out some of those old Cadiz Records and read them again. We can assure you that its a pleasant past-time.

MASTER JACK

REG. NO. 49333

We have a few spring Duroc Boars and Gilts left, sired by Master Jack, that fine grand-son of Waveline, the great international champion that sold for $3,500. These boars and gilts are out of some of the best blood line in the U. S.

The last seven sows bred to Master Jack have farrowed sixty-nine pigs, with no runts in any of the seven litters.

These boars and gilts are priced right. See these pigs at once.

"Have You?"

Have you ever tried telling your troubles?
To the one who is willing to share.
Have you ever tried leaning your burden,
With the one who is ready to bear;
Have you ever tried seeking protection
From the one to whom night is as day.
Have you ever tried asking for guidance,
From the one who knows all the way;
Have you ever tried praying for courage,
To the one who would help you to live,
Have you ever tried asking for blessings
From the one who is longing to give?
