Construction to start on industrial park road

David Shore, in a report to the Trigg County Fiscal Court, said Tuesday that construction would start on the access road into the new industrial park as soon as weather permits.

Shore said that he had received the plans for the road from Howard K. Bell and bids were taken on the construction of the road among local contractors.

The road will be built by Anthony Fourshee, a Trigg County contractor, for $5,000. His was the only bid for the construction.

Shore told the court that Trigg lost one industry recently because they were misinformed.

Shore said the people representing the industry were told in Hopkinsville that the Cadiz Railroad would close. But Shore remained optimistic.

"I think that in 1983 we're going to get an industry here," he said.

The court also voted to give the West Trigg County Economic Development Commission $1,000 to be used for the upcoming Trigg County Crappie Tournament. Roger Thomas, representing the commission, said the tournament has been budgeted $12,000 by the commission.

Judge Zelner Cossey told the court that a local historical society is interested in saving the Muddy Fork bridge on Adams Mill Road. The bridge was built in 1889.

Cossey said the bridge could not be saved under the present federal bridge-building program but that a member of the historical transportation division of the state highway department is coming down to look at the bridge.

"We may be able to re-route the road and build the new bridge farther up or down stream," Cossey said.

The court also decided to pay an inspection visit to the county jail during the next meeting. The court decided to wait until the next meeting because of a study being done on the jail that will be available at the next meeting.

In other action, the court:

— Voted to appoint Charlie Fitzwater to the industrial committee.

— Voted to help the Resource Conservation and Development to re-seed and fertilize the old landfill.

— Decided to look into the pigeon problem at the courthouse.

— Announced that Project Warmup merchandise may be purchased in the Cadiz area.

City Council accepts bulk gasoline bid

The Cadiz City Council voted Tuesday to accept a bid for the city's bulk gasoline supply from Hopkinsville Oil Company.

Hopkinsville Oil was the lowest of three bidders with a price of $1.06 and nine-tenths a gallon.

The council also voted to deny a request from three courthouse employees for parking spaces next to the courthouse. The council said spaces are available in the municipal parking lot and that no other spaces should be reserved beside the courthouse.

Clerk Jim Lancaster announced there will be a planning commission meeting Jan. 20 to review a request from Elmo Dillard who wants to open a restaurant on North Jefferson.

The area is presently zoned residential and Dillard wants the commission to change the zoning to business.

Lancaster also announced that property taxes are running close to $80,000 so far. He also said the city has paid $1,517.28 to the property valuation office for preparing the city's tax forms. The city still owes about $760 for the forms.

In other action, the council received budget projections and revenue from fine collection, parking meters and costs to the city.

In the news

Fire department answers 28 calls

According to fire chief John Gray, the Cadiz Fire Department responded to 28 alarms during 1982.

Gray said there were 12 residential fires, seven commercial fires, four vehicle fires, three brush fires and two false alarms.

The department answered three mutual aid responses to county fire departments, Gray said.

The fires the department answered in 1982 caused approximately $187,000 in damage. There were five injuries in fires last year, one a fireman who received a minor laceration.

There was also one fatality, Gray said.

Trigg man on 'That's Incredible'

A former Trigg County resident was on ABC TV's "That's Incredible" Monday, January 3. James Steven Rutland was in the feature showing the FLIR (infrared light) helicopter ocean search.

Rutland, who at the time of filming was a helicopter pilot with the U.S. Coast Guard, Los Angeles Station, was shown coming down the stairs and was the pilot on the helicopter using the infrared light for the search. He assisted in a number of rescues while in the Coast Guard, and received the Sikorsky Award for sea rescue, for which "That's Incredible" filmed the re-inactment.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rutland, Cadiz, and his wife, Marcia, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Gray, Trigg County. They now reside in Enterprise, Alabama, where Rutland is a helicopter instrument instructor at Fort Rucker.

The Rutlands and their two daughters, Jennie and Katie, were in Trigg County during the holidays visiting their parents and other relatives.

IRS offers tax help to farmers

The Internal Revenue Service Publication 225, "Farmer's Tax Guide," can assist farmers in complying with federal tax laws and filing requirements. This publication explains how the federal tax laws apply to farming, and offers some typical examples.

If you wish to obtain a copy of Publication 225 you may write the IRS Forms Distribution Center at P.O. Box 636, Florence, Ky. 40142.

Girl Scouts to take cookie orders

From Jan. 1 to Jan. 22, the Girl Scouts will be taking orders for cookies. The cookies available this year are: Samoas, Do Si Dos, Trefoils, Tagalongs, Vanchos, Chocolate Chunk and Thin Mints. They are $1.75 a box.

If you do not know a scout and would like to order some cookies, you may order by contacting the leaders: Janet Edwards, 924-9945, Vickie Fourshee, 522-8642, or Dale Moore, 522-6477. You will be called upon the arrival of the cookies and a time will be set for you to pick up your order. Cookies are expected to arrive about mid-February.

T. C. High School reunion planned

The Trigg County High School class of 1973 is planning a class reunion at the home of Rhonda Hancock at 7 p.m. on Jan. 11.

Anyone interested in helping plan the reunion should attend the meeting.

The Hancock home is the white duplex on Main Street next to Cadiz Florist.

Corrections

Due to misinformation, the story entitled "Homestead Exemption raised to $15,500" is incorrect.

The Homestead Exemption for this year is $15,000.

Due to incorrect information given the paper, the meeting date for the Cadiz Masonic Lodge No. 121 F&AM on January 9 was wrong. The meeting was held on January 4.

Due to a reporting error in the Dec. 30 issue of The Cadiz Record, in the story "Hopkinsville man killed in Trigg," it was stated that Dale Wyatt and Ray Yancey had been feuding for years.

Actually, the two men had known each other for only a short time.

The feud referred to by sheriff Ken Oakley was not between the two men.

Stumbo visits Trigg County

By Jeff Boone

Grady Stumbo, candidate for governor of Kentucky, was in Trigg County Tuesday and Wednesday to gain support from the people of Cadiz and the county.

"I'm from a small town myself," Stumbo said, "I know small towns and their problems."

Stumbo was in Cadiz as part of a first congressional district campaign tour.

The basis of his campaign, he said, is to get to know the people who will be voting for him.

"I'm number three right now so I've got to run a people's campaign. I'm the people's candidate."

Stumbo said he knows the needs of agricultural communities and, as governor, would make a commitment to work with the commissioner of agriculture on a state level.

"The Kentucky state government needs to support the tobacco program," he said.

Stumbo said he would also support government deregulation of the tobacco program in Kentucky.

"I think it's the duty of the government to tell people the harmful effects that tobacco might have," he said. "But I don't think it's their place to tell you whether or not you can (use) it."

Stumbo said he would also support an agricultural bond bill and would support changing the inheritance laws that say family farms must be divided among the family when the head of the family dies.

"This is definitely not in the best interest of the farmer," he said. "You reach a point when the farm is so small it can no longer be run economically."

Stumbo said he would also support giving farmers more protection for farmers who have grain stored in a bin that goes bankrupt.

"Everyone has protection but the farmer," he said.

He also said that support to farm research programs, such as the ones at Murray State University and the University of Kentucky, are very important to farmers and should be supported.

Support to local schools is also an important issue to Stumbo.

"Graduating people who can't read and write has got to stop," he said.

"We need a pride in our schools that goes beyond sports."

He also added that he thinks teachers ought to be paid more than they are presently receiving.

GRADY STUMBO, center, talks informally with local businessmen and politicians at Barkley State Resort Park Tuesday. Flanking Stumbo are Charlie Fitzwater, right, and James Mathis. Stumbo was visiting Cadiz as part of a campaign tour of Western Kentucky.

A.C.T.S. thankful for help given

To the editor,
On behalf of the Active Caring Trigg Samaritans, I would like to publicly thank each individual, church, club or organization who in any way helped our group in our endeavors over the past year. Most recently, at Thanksgiving and our toy drive at Christmas. Many children had a nice Christmas because of your concern for others. Each person's "little" helps a lot when gathered together and shared. God will surely bless in each effort. As we begin a New Year, let me leave this thought with you.

What Will We Do
With This Year
That's So New?

As we start a new year
Untouched and unmarried,
Unblemished and flawless,
Unscratched and unscarred,
May we try to do better
And accomplish much more
And be kinder and wiser
Than in the year gone before —

Let us wipe our slates clean
And start over again,
For God gives this privilege
To all sincere men,
Who will humbly admit
They have failed many ways,
But are willing to try
And improve these "new days"
By asking God's help
In all that they do
And counting on Him,
To refresh and renew
Their courage and faith
When things go wrong
And the way seems dark
And the road rough and long —
What will you do
With this year that's so new???

The choice is yours —
God leaves that to you!

"Choose you this day whom ye will serve." — Joshua 24:15.

Toys for tots campaign sucessful

Citizens of Trigg County,
You responded to our cry for help in securing toys to be distributed by Santa Claus to the boys and girls of Trigg County. Due to your generosity, 87 children were visited by the jolly old gentleman whose bag contained bicycles, tricycles, wagons, high chairs, doll beds, dolls, big wheels, etc.

To those of you who participated in the Toys for Tots Campaign, a hearty thanks from the ambulance crew for making it all possible. Your broken toys were repaired and painted with the help of Mr. White's many cans of paint. Each gift was individually wrapped in paper purchased from your donations, with Mr. Guess's discount and W.O.W.'s assistance.

Special thanks to W.K.D.Z. and The Cadiz Record for their excellent coverage in helping to secure the needed items. We will not attempt to name individuals but would like to say thanks to everyone who dropped by to work or assisted in any way.

Hopkinsville IRS schedule set

The following schedule for taxpayer assistance at the Hopkinsville IRS Office will be observed through April 15, 1983:

Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 3 - Jan. 14, 10 - 12 and 1 - 3:45.

Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Jan. 17 - Jan. 21, 9 - 12 and 1 - 3:45.

Monday through Friday, Jan. 24 - Feb. 4, 8 - 4:45.

Monday through Friday, Feb. 7 - Feb. 18, 10 - 12 and 1 - 3:45.

Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Feb. 21 - March 11, 10 - 12 and 1 - 3:45.

Monday and Tuesday, March 14 - April 8, 9 - 12 and 1 - 3:45.

Monday through Friday, April 11 - April 15, 10 - 12 and 1 - 2:45.

Taxpayers who come to the local office at 218 East Ninth Street, can receive answers to their tax questions and receive guidance in the preparation of their own returns. Tax forms and IRS publications on individual tax topics may also be obtained at the local office.

John J. Jennings, District Director for Kentucky suggested that taxpayers who come to the local IRS office for assistance should bring the tax package they received in the mail, all W-2 forms, interest and dividend statements, and any other information supporting claims for tax credits or adjustments to income.

Jennings also suggested that taxpayers may want to use the IRS toll-free telephone service to get answers to their tax questions or to order tax forms. The number for toll-free service in the Hopkinsville area is 1-800-424-1040, and assistance is available Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. EST.

State accepting mowing bids

The state Transportation Cabinet will accept bids in January for mowing in Caldwell, Livingston, Lyon, McCracken, Marshall and Trigg counties.

The project will include mowing the right of way along the following roads:

—I-24 from the Ohio River bridge in McCracken County to the Christian-Trigg County line.

—U.S. 68, Paducah-Benton Road, in McCracken County from U.S. 62 to I-24.

—Western Kentucky Extension from I-24 in Lyon County to the Caldwell County line.

The right of way will be mowed twice during the growing season. The cabinet will accept bids on the project Jan. 21.

COMMONWEALTH COMMENT

A uniform death penalty would be fair

By Bill Cunningham
Commonwealth Attorney
56th Judicial District

The death penalty has once again been imposed.

Charles Williams in Texas was executed recently by lethal injection.

The execution of Williams, like any imposition of the death penalty these days, has brought the issue back into the minds of the public.

The story of that execution carries with it some interesting ramifications. First of all, the execution of Williams is disturbing in one sense because of the facts surrounding his conviction. He was sentenced to death for murder but his co-defendant was only given 40 years. The evidence never became clear as to who actually pulled the trigger that killed the unfortunate victim. It may have been the culprit still living and serving time.

This disparity of sentencing is what causes a lot of people to have problems with the death penalty. One person commits a heinous crime in one state and receives time in the penitentiary. Another person just across the state line commits a serious, though much less brutal offense, and is given death.

This is exactly why I favor a uniform death penalty statute that would be adopted by each and every state. If we are going to have a death penalty we should strive to make it as just as possible in its application.

Another interesting facet of the latest execution in Texas was the fact that for the first time in this country an injection of a lethal drug was used to cause the death. From all reports, it seems to have done the job without any visible signs of pain or suffering on behalf of the condemned. As a part of any uniform national death penalty provision, lethal injection should be seriously considered as the mode of execution.

After all, our society has constantly sought through the years to provide the most humane method of execution. From the guillotine to hanging to the firing squad, quick and painless death has been pursued. Even the electric chair, as ghastly as it now seems, was thought of in the early 1900's as the most advanced method of merciful and humane execution.

The death penalty law in this country has been on a circuitous route over the past 20 years, apparently leading back now to full legality in those majority of states that have retained it.

Kentucky's death penalty was tailored after Georgia's which was one of the state capital punishment laws that has been upheld by the United States Supreme Court.

It provides first of all for a bifurcated trial. That is, in the first phase only guilt or innocence is considered by the jury. Then if the defendant is guilty, the second stage of the trial considers only evidence related to whether the death penalty should be imposed. Such matters as the defendant's age, criminal background, and character are then examined by the jury.

Phone excise tax is now in effect

South Central Bell reminds all telephone users that the federal excise tax on telephone service increased from one percent to three percent, effective Jan. 1, 1983. The tax will remain at three percent until the end of 1985 when it is scheduled to be eliminated. This change is part of the tax bill passed by Congress in 1982.

According to Bell district manager Marvin Orgill, the federal government has said it will use the tax revenues to pay for the retention of a "targeted job credit," that provides incentives for businesses to hire certain economically disadvantaged people.

Orgill said the telephone tax was imposed by Congress during World War I as a "temporary" measure. It was dropped briefly after the war, it was revived during the depression.

In Kentucky, the death penalty may be imposed in murder cases when certain aggravating circumstances are present. For instance, murder for hire, multiple murders, murder committed in course of the felony of robbery, rape, sodomy, or arson, are some of the situations where the death penalty may be imposed.

Under certain circumstances, it can also be given for kidnapping. For instance, a small child that is kidnapped and released in a dangerous place such as in the middle of a Los Angeles freeway and is killed accidentally by a motorist could be a capital offense.

So the death penalty is very much with us in Kentucky, although there has not been an execution since 1962. There are currently 14 inmates on death row at Eddyville. Their cases are all going through the lengthy route of appeals. The next 18 months to two years will probably tell us if and when there will be any more executions in this state.

KENTUCKY REFLECTIONS

Can governor postpone special session?

By George Street Boone

The roots of the law are deeply embedded in politics. This sometimes seems to be especially true in Kentucky.

The conduct of special sessions of the legislature has provided a fertile field for political confrontation and it appears as if the January 10th special session called by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr., will prove no exception. Running the state like a business seems to many to be an inadequate manner to solve many of the Commonwealth's problems.

The education of the governor continues and Sen. Mike Maloney, D-Lexington, and Rep. Joe Clarke, D-Paris, convinced our chief magistrate that a major revision of Kentucky's tax structure will not be effected in a brief and brilliant revelation. Less than a week after Clarke and Maloney, chairmen respectively of the House and Senate Appropriations and Revenue Committees, requested a delay of the special session, Revenue Secretary Ron Geary conceded that Brown's plan for a 3.65 percent flat rate tax was too low.

A preliminary Legislative Research Commission study said that a flat rate tax about 17 percent higher than the governor proposed might still be insufficient to generate the same state revenue growth as the existing graduated tax structure.

At year's end, as the governor and legislative leadership were agreeing that it would be necessary to delay the special session, a new golden apple of discord was rolled across the stage. A Republican legislative leader questioned whether a governor has the power to postpone a special session once it has been called.

The question evokes memories of the constitutional confrontation when then-Lt. Gov. A. B. Chandler, on February 6, 1935, while Gov. Ruby Laffoon was absent from the state, issued a proclamation convening the General Assembly in extraordinary session at noon on February 8, 1935, "to enact a compulsory primary law for the selection of all parties nominees for all state offices at state-wide primaries." Chandler, as acting governor, issued the proclamation pursuant to the powers granted by section 80 of the constitution.

The proclamation was registered in the office of the Secretary of State pursuant to section 91 of the constitution, and Gov. Laffoon returned to the state on the following morning. He promptly issued another proclamation by which he sought to "revoke, rescind and annul" Chandler's proclamation. The Laffoon faction believed it had control of the party machinery that dominated the nominating procedures. It was dubious of its power to control the nominating process if the candidates were selected by primary election.

Suit was promptly filed in the Franklin Circuit Court and the trial judge ruled that the special session could not be cancelled. The Court of Appeals, by a vote of 4 to 3, upheld the trial court, saying the governor had no power to revoke a call for a special session. Chief Justice William Rogers Clay with Justices Gus Thomas and Wesley Vick Perry dissented but the decision of the court was that Chandler's proclamation was a completed executive act; that no officer, including the governor, had the authority to revoke or retract such a completed action; that the act passed beyond the governor's control and its status became fixed and unalterable when the proclamation was lodged with the Secretary of State.

The earlier case which led to Chandler's first nomination for governor has not been overruled. The legislature may have to meet for the day at an estimated cost of $25,000 only to recess in order to resolve the constitutional issue. Hardly an auspicious beginning for the final year of Gov. Brown's term.

Bank adds weather forecast service

A brand new dimension has been added to the most popular telephone number in town.

Thanks to Bank of Cadiz and Trust Co., area residents may now obtain the current weather forecast along with the time and temperature by dialing just one number, 522-7121.

"Having first brought our community the Time and Temperature Service in 1975, we have witnessed the continuing popularity of a quick call to get the current time and temperature with calls averaging over 112,000 per month," said William Fuller, President of Bank of Cadiz & Trust.

"Because of the tremendous success of the service and since weather is an important factor affecting every citizen, we are quite pleased to offer the addition of a weather forecast to our community, all in one simple phone call," added Fuller.

Located directly on Bank of Cadiz & Trust's premises, the new digitally operated Time-Weather-Temperature system provides the correct time (accurate to the nearest minute), current temperature (accurate to the nearest degree), and the Cadiz area weather forecast.

Weather information is obtained from the National Weather Service and updated twice daily by a staff of meteorologists at the Audichron Company in Atlanta, Ga., manufacturers of the new system. Weather information is put into the system via a series of codes developed by the weather service and Audichron and is then transferred over telephone lines.

In the case of severe weather, the service will be updated as often as necessary and callers will be asked to turn to their local weather channels for more information.

"The degree of accuracy of the service is remarkable," said Fuller. "Time is announced to the nearest minute, but in fact, the equipment is operating to a tolerance of one second per month," Fuller added.

Up-to-the-minute temperatures are possible because a cable links an electronic thermometer on the bank with the recording apparatus. The thermometer sends a signal into the machine, which trips the temperature device putting the recording on the line.

Jane Barbe is the voice of the TWT service. Barbe is one of the three primary professional voices heard by millions throughout the world. She has the honor of having talked to the equivalent of every human being on earth approximately 20 times since she began recording for the Audichron Company nearly 17 years ago.

Barbe is known for her singing and acting and, most recently, her appearance on the television show "Real People" as the Time & Temperature Lady.

Pioneers and inventors of telephone time announcement systems, Audichron also manufactures the system used by the U. S. National Bureau of Standards and the Canadian Dominion Observatory, which broadcast standard time signals and provide the primary audible time reference for the Western Hemisphere.

With over eight years of experience in providing time and temperature, Fuller believes the addition of weather should prove to be a very valuable community service.

"Giving the time, weather, and temperature is just one more way of showing we are proud to be of service to our friends in the Cadiz area," Fuller said.

OVC games to be televised Friday nights

WPSD-TV will be featuring Ohio Valley Conference Basketball games each Friday night beginning Jan. 7 at 10:30 p.m.

Approximately 1.8 million viewing homes in eight states will receive the weekly live games through the three-station network. Stations airing the games include, WPSD-TV in Paducah, WDRB in Louisville and WTVQ in Lexington. The first game on January, 7 features Morehead State at Austin Peay. Murray State University will be playing in three of the five telecasts with the first being Jan. 14 at Tennessee Tech.

Other OVC games include Middle Tennessee at Murray State on January 21st, Morehead State at Tennessee Tech on January 28th, and Murray State at Middle Tennessee on February 18th.

Miss Terrell becomes bride of Mr. Walker

Glenda Terrell and Prentis Wayne Walker were united in marriage Sunday, Dec. 12, 1982, at 2:30 p.m. at the Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Terrell and Mr. and Mrs. Prentis Walker, all of Rt. 5, Cadiz.

The ceremony

Bro. Wade Kennedy officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Clarence King provided the music for the ceremony that was highlighted with red and green decorations, with candles placed in the windows and holly around the candles.

The bride

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long white dress and a veil. She carried a handkerchief that belonged to her grandmother, wore a necklace that was a gift from the groom and carried a bouquet of red roses and white baby's breath.

The attendants

Wanda Freels, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Terrell, best friend of the bride, and Melissa Terrell, niece of the bride. They wore long, red dresses and carried poinsettia corsages. Jodi and Amy Walker, daughters of the groom, kept the guest register.

James Freels II, of Cadiz, served as best man. The groomsmen also escorted the couple's mothers. Marc Terrell escorted Mrs. Terrell and Jason Walker escorted Mrs. Walker.

The reception

The reception was held at the parsonage of Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church at 3 p.m. A candelabra decorated a table that was covered with a red tablecloth with a white lace overlay.

Serving at the reception were Edna Terrell, Linda Walker, Peggy P'Pool, all of Cadiz, and Kathy Terrell, of Madisonville.

Following a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple will reside in Cadiz.

Adult classes to resume Jan. 10

The Adult Basic Education program in Trigg County will resume classes on January 10, 1983. Any new students wishing to enroll may do so during the week of January 10-18, Monday through Thursday, from 5 to 8 p.m. at McUpton School.

Mrs. LaNell Bell and Mr. Arthur Wallace are co-teaching classes. Course offerings include: English, reading, mathematics, science and social studies. The program is designed to help students prepare for the high school equivalency test (GED). It will also benefit anyone wishing to improve basic education skills for the eighth grade equivalency or other educational pursuits.

The program is available to any resident of Trigg County, 16 years or older, who does not have a high school diploma, and who is not now enrolled in the public school system. For further information call the Trigg County Board of Education, 522-6071.

How to care for Christmas plants

The colorful plants that you have enjoyed during the Christmas holidays can be a reminder of the holiday season for many months. Proper care of these plants will make them a welcome addition to your collection of houseplants.

homemaking

home economics

All Christmas plants such as poinsettia, cactus, pepper, Jerusalem cherry and cyclamen require a bright, sunny location in the home. Regular thorough watering whenever the soil is dry is also very important.

Now you need to decide if you want to keep your Christmas plants or discard them. Christmas pepper and Jerusalem cherry should be discarded because they won't flower again. Don't discard poinsettia, holiday cactus or cyclamen until February. They will remain colorful if they are cared for properly. These plants can be kept as houseplants after February if you give them the conditions they require. Poinsettias and cacti are relatively easy to grow — according to gardening enthusiasts — while cyclamen is more difficult.

Hopefully, the major result of the year-long care of a Christmas plant will be a flowering plant for next Christmas. Consistent care throughout the summer and fall is the key to growing a plant for next Christmas.

Since the poinsettia is probably the most common of the Christmas plants, you might be interested in this timetable for the care of one.

January — May: Give plants a sunny location and water when soil is dry.

Mid-March: Prune stems about three-six inches to remove colored bracts. Fertilize with complete houseplant fertilizer.

Early June: Repot the plant into a pot two-three sizes larger. Move the plant outdoors to a location that receives full sun each day for at least six hours.

June — July: Fertilize every two weeks. Water regularly.

August — October: Fertilize every week. Water frequently.

Mid-September: Prune all stems on the plant leaving two-four leaves per stem (two-three inches long) or at a height 15 inches above the pot. Choose a full sun location indoors for the final three months of growth.

October: Selectively remove the smallest new branches. The plant should receive full sun every day and complete darkness during night. (Use the closet or a box for this).

November — December: Fertilize every two weeks. Water regularly.

Mid-November: Stop the flower promotion treatment. The plant can remain in its usual full sun location as the upper leaves turn red, pink or white.

December: Enjoy a beautiful poinsettia.

Some of the ways to do business with us are changing.

But we're still as close as your phone.

The telephone industry is changing—reorganizing. That means more options for you. And some changes in the way you do business with us. If you've done business with us lately, you may have gone to one of our retail outlets. Now, if you need help with phone service, call us first.

Call a South Central Bell service representative if you want to:

- order new phone service.
- change your existing service.
- disconnect your service.
- ask a question about your bill.
- exchange or return sets purchased or leased from South Central Bell. (We cannot exchange or take back sets purchased or leased from other suppliers.)

Call South Central Bell's repair service if you have trouble with your service or with a phone set that is leased from South Central Bell. (For service or repair of phone sets that you own — whether they came from South Central Bell or another supplier — you should follow the warranty instructions or other maintenance arrangement made at the time of purchase.)

You'll find the phone numbers for your service representative and repair service in the front of the South Central Bell phone book. When you call us, in many cases we'll be able to complete your business or solve your problem while you're on the phone. In other cases, we may offer to mail equipment or parts to you. Or you may be referred to a phone company service center to complete your transaction. If so, we'll tell you where the nearest one is and when it's open.

Some things won't change. During 1983 South Central Bell will still provide you with dependable local and long distance phone service. We'll continue to be responsible for phones that residence and business customers now lease from us. And we'll continue to lease telephones (and to sell some selected phones) as long as they're available from inventory. (With regulatory approval, we do plan to offer single-line residence and business customers the option of buying telephones that are now leased from us.)

There'll be more changes in the telephone industry in the coming year or so as South Central Bell and other Bell operating companies are separated from AT&T and reorganized into regional companies. This change in organization, to take place in 1984, will affect significantly how you get and use telecommunications services.

But no matter how things change, South Central Bell is committed to seeing that certain things remain the same. We'll still have good, dependable people and the same goal: providing you with the best, most advanced telephone service at reasonable rates.

We'll keep you informed. But in the meantime, if you have any questions about the changes in the industry or about how to do business with us now, call 1 800 555-5000, toll free, 10 a.m.-11 p.m., Central Time, Monday through Friday. Or write for a free brochure, "Let's Talk About Change."

Let's Talk.

McAtee, Hancock exchange vows

Jo Alyce McAtee and Robert Preston Hancock were united in marriage Dec. 30, 1982, at 7 p.m. at the Cadiz United Methodist Church. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank McAtee, Rt. 5, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Hancock, Rt. 6. The ceremony

Rev. Julius Carter officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The vows were exchanged before a 15-branch arch candelabra decorated with white cushion poms and baby's breath. Two spiral and two seven-branch candelabras were used on each side of the arch. Fern balls accented the altar. The trinity candelabra and kneeling bench were used in the ceremony. The family pews were marked with white velvet bows. The windows of the church were decorated with holly, magnolia leaves and white candles.

Music was provided by Kathy Harper, cousin of the bride, who sang "The Rose," "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face," "The Lord's Prayer," "I Never Knew Love Like This Before" and "Evergreen." Pam Cunningham, organist, played "If," "Truly," "We've Only Just Begun," "The Wedding Song" and the traditional wedding march.

The bride

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace over peau de soie. The gown featured a Queen Ann neckline outlined in pearly Venice lace. The long, slim sleeves were finished at the wrist with Marabou feathers. The skirt fell into a cascade of ruffle tiers in the front and extended to a chapel train. The hemline was finished with Marabou feathers. She wore a finger-tip veil of Chantilly lace edged in organza falling from a Marabou feather Camelot headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and burgundy tiger lilies, burgundy parrot roses and white miniature roses. The bouquet was entwined with ivy.

It was accented with lily-of-the-valley, white and burgundy tulle and angel lace baby's breath. It featured bridal lace ribbon and streamers.

The attendants

Keryl Twiggs of McKenzie, Tenn., served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Teresa Parry, sister of the bride, Houston, Texas; Jill Akemon, Cadiz; Linda Goodwin, cousin of the bride, Cadiz. April Parry, niece of the bride, of Houston, Texas, was the flower girl.

The attendants wore dark green velvet skirts and white blouses. The blouses were made with banded necklines and a lace jabot. The fitted sleeves ended with a wide lace ruffle at the wrist. The bridesmaids carried brandy snifters with lighted candles, holly and burgundy streamers. The flower girl was dressed identically to the bridesmaids and carried a white lace basket with rose petals.

Bill Stevens, Murray, was the best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Jimmy McAtee, brother of the bride, Cadiz; Joe West, Aurora; Lenny Raley, Bowling Green. Todd Hancock, son of the groom, Cadiz, was the ringbearer.

in Accounting. She is now employed by Kentucky Derby Hosiery in Hopkinsville as their cost accountant.

The groom graduated from Murray State University in May, 1978, with a Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Education. He is currently attending M.S.U. completing a Masters Degree in Recreation and is employed by the school as a graduate assistant.

Following a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple will reside in the Allen Subdivision, Rt. 6, Cadiz.

Mr., Mrs. Robert Preston Hancock

personals

LTC and Mrs. Clyde R. Cunningham and sons, Jon and Michael of San Antonio, Texas, spent the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde F. Cunningham of Turner Addition.

LTC and Mrs. Milton E. Turner and sons, Mark and Todd of Dumfries, Va., spent the Christmas holidays visiting with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde F. Cunningham and Mr. and Mrs. Olen Turner, all of Cadiz.

Dave and Sandy Martin and their three children of Collinsville, Ill., previous residents of Cadiz, were New Year's weekend guests of Robert and Rose Walker. They visited from Friday until Sunday.

funeral notice

Mabel Lynn Sexton

Mabel Lynn Sexton, 69, of Cadiz died at 8 a.m. Friday, Dec. 31, 1982, at the Trigg County Hospital following a short illness.

Born in Union County on June 6, 1913, she was the daughter of Dr. James Frank and Martha Ellen Pride Lynn.

A graduate of Morganfield High School and Western Kentucky University, she majored in public and applied music with a minor in English. She was a registered piano teacher with Sherwood School of Piano Music in Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Sexton came to Cadiz in 1935 as the first qualified public school music teacher employed by the school board. Besides teaching in Cadiz, she taught in Florida, at Fort Campbell schools and retired after teaching in the city schools of Hopkinsville for eleven years. Also, while her husband was stationed at Fort Knox, she taught school there and also played the organ at the post chapel.

While teaching at different schools, Mrs. Sexton returned to her home in Cadiz and taught private piano lessons. She accompanied many Trigg band students when they competed at Murray State University in solo and ensemble. She taught piano, voice, violin and cello. She was a member of the Cadiz Christian Church.

She married James M. Sexton Jr.

on Dec. 28, 1936. He was the former ice plant owner and City Clerk. They had one son, James A. Sexton, Downer's Grove, Ill. She had one grandson, Eric, five-years old.

Mrs. Sexton was interested in classical music, reading, Oriental art, antique silver and crafts. One of her wishes concerning education was that "music must never be cut from our school curriculum because music is the universal language and there will never be peace without understanding and communication."

Survivors include her son, James A. Sexton, Naperville, Ill.; two sisters, Miss Justine Lynn, Louisville, and Mrs. R. A. Swartz, Fresno, Calif.; one grandson, John Eric Sexton, Naperville, Ill.

Her husband, James Morris Sexton Jr., preceded her in death on Aug. 10, 1976. Rev. Julius Carter officiated and organ music was provided by Mae Purdue. Burial was in the East End Cemetery.

Active pallbearers were Danny Bozarth, Paul Hocks, Paul Fourshoe, John R. Vinson III, Tony DeName and Ed Headley. Honorary pallbearers were Smith D. Broadbent Jr., Ray MacDonald, Jimmy Tuggle, Keith Venable, Charles Hughes, Johnny DeName and Carl Cain.

good year in '82

T.O.P.S., Take Off Pounds Sensibly, was happy Monday evening when the weight recorders announced that 400 pounds had been lost by the membership in 1982.

In a recent contest, in which leader Jennie Jackson had made a poster showing Pac Man eating up your pounds, there were 18 winners of T.O.P.S. Awards.

There has been some interest expressed by some men about the T.O.P.S. organization. Men are welcome to join this group or if enough men would show interest a men's group can be formed. For information call 522-3839.

Someone Cry for the Children

By Michael and Dick Wilkerson

Perhaps you followed this case in the newspapers. Even after two hundred murder cases, it was the worst thing the Wilkerson brothers, members of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation, had ever seen. Three little girls on the first night of their scout camping trip had been brutally murdered, their bodies left in the path some yards from their tent, two of them still in their sleeping bags.

Thus began the manhunt that was to become the longest and the most costly in the state's history. They had a suspect almost from the start, a fugitive named Gene Leroy Hart who became something of a folk hero. A full-blooded Indian and one-time local football star, he had run afoul of the law. At the time of the murders Hart was an escaped convict hiding in the area. Hart had set the stage for one of the country's most controversial criminal trials.

Some hail the outcome and others condemn it as a flaring example of the basic flaws in the nation's judicial system. "Someone Cry for the Children" is an intimate account of a criminal investigation and prosecution. It is harrowing, shocking, and it is necessary if we are to examine the system by which justice is carried out.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By T. P. Alexander

Luke 10:25-37 Teaching about compassion

The Scriptures given, covering the event of the good Samaritan, is not new to those who attend Sunday School regularly. It has been the subject of study on many occasions. However, at this time, when the economy is something less than normal, the unemployment higher than usual, we see a much higher percentage of people in need. Some in dire need.

It calls for those who are living well to examine themselves and their circumstances to see if they are fulfilling Christ's teaching about compassion and neighborliness. In Luke 10:27-28, the specialist in Jewish laws (lawyer) was replying to Jesus' question about eternal life, stating that the law said this, "Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself." Jesus replied, "Thou has answered right, this do, and thou shalt live."

The question that comes readily to mind, then, is "Who is our neighbor?" It used to be easy to love our neighbors because we knew who they were. Neighbors were the Johnsons who lived nearest, or the Chandlers who lived across the field, or the Orties, who lived a mile away. We knew them, knew even about their private lives, but Jesus' idea of a neighbor is not what we used to picture in our minds, it is much, much broader.

My neighbor is not necessarily someone who lives close by, not necessarily someone in our social structure, not necessarily someone in our church, nor necessarily someone who likes us. A neighbor, as the lesson teaches today, might be a stranger who is in need. The setting for Jesus' parable, the road between Jerusalem and Jericho, a distance of some 20 miles, was a rocky, mountainous section and arduous to travel, not only because of the terrain but, also because thieves lurked there who preyed upon the travelers, particularly those who traveled alone.

Logos Christian Fellowship

Church to charter membership in special service

Logos Christian Fellowship Church will charter membership as part of special services to be held on January 9 at 6 p.m.

Chartering ceremonies will be followed by charter members officially voting on the church's proposed constitution and bylaws. Special music will be presented by various members of Grace Bible Church of Clarksville, Tenn. The Lord's Supper will also be observed.

Logos was organized as Trigg County's first nondenominational church in April of 1982. The church

The Negative Examples (Luke 10:30-32) In replying to the lawyer's inquiry about who his neighbor was, Jesus, first gave two negative examples. The stranger was left lying beside the road, wounded and robbed. A priest approached, saw the man and passed on his way. This was God's man in His temple. He handled the animal sacrifices used in worship. The second man, who approached and passed on, was a Levite, also a man of the temple. Surely these men should have had compassion on the wounded man and given help.

takes it's name from the New Testament Greek word, Logos, found in John 1:1 meaning "the word" or "divine expression" (ie. Christ; eg. "In the beginning was the Logos, and the Logos was with

The Little River Baptist Association will host a youth "lock-in" Friday, Jan. 14. The "lock-in" will be held at the First Baptist Church activities building in Hopkinsville. There will be plenty of activities such as skating, bowling, basket-

The Positive Example (Luke 10:33-35) A third man came along that was a Samaritan, who, upon seeing the man in need, had compassion and stopped and took care of him. There is an added significance in this portrayal. The wounded man evidently was Jewish. The Samaritans and the Jews hated one another, in fact they had nothing to do with each other, but the Samaritan's eyes were open and so were his heart and his hands. After treating the injured man's wounds on the spot, he carried him to an inn and paid for his food and lodging until he recuperated.

The Practical Exhortation (Luke 10:36-37) And now Jesus asked the lawyer, "Which of these three was neighbor unto him?" The lawyer replied, "He that showed mercy on him." Then Jesus said unto him, "Go and do likewise." Sometimes it is not an easy matter to be a good neighbor. Matthew 20:27, "And whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant."

Girls lose, boys win at Ft. Campbell

By Dennis Jones

The Trigg County High School Lady Wildcats suffered their fourth loss in a row Tuesday at the hands of Ft. Campbell, 58-54 in overtime. Despite the loss, head coach George Radford was pleased with the team's performance.

"We really started to come together and play as a team tonight," he said. The Lady Cats were led in scoring by Carolyn Mack with 17 points.

Angie Dillard and Michelle Henderson had 12 points each for the Cats. Radford's Wildcats also got help from the bench from reserve center Patty Taylor.

"She came off the bench and really played a good game for us tonight," he said.

The Varsity Wildcats got back into the win column Tuesday with a 69-55 road victory over Ft. Campbell.

The Wildcats only trailed once, in the first quarter, before pulling away from the Falcons for good.

Trigg coach Ray Maggard said the win Tuesday was a big one for the Cats.

"Elliott Vinson and Joel Humphries got us really fired up and we played with a lot of intensity," Maggard said.

Vinson led all scorers with 25 points. Tony Redd chipped in 18 and led the Cats on the boards pulling down eight.

Humphries had seven assists in the game.

Trigg returns home for their next game with district foe Crittenden County Friday at 7:30.

A Message from the Bible

AMEN

Eugene Springer, Minister
522-8503 522-3095

Schedule:
Sunday:
Worship — 9:30 a.m.
Bible Study — 10:00 a.m.
Lord's Supper — 11:00 a.m.
Evening Worship — 6:00 p.m.
Wednesday Night — 7:00 p.m.

You, probably, have not read an article or heard a sermon on this subject. The word amen is probably the first religious word a child learns. The encyclopedia Britannica says it is the most widely-known word. It used to be the most frequently heard word in worship, but many people do not amen the sermons as they used to do. Amen is the word many people listen for because it is the last word in the service.

Webster's dictionary defines AMEN: to give solemn ratification, sanction, hearty approval. The word AMEN means: so be it, so it is, or so it will be. When the word amen occurs at the first of a statement, it is translated TRULY or VERILY.

We want to study a few examples of how amen is used in the Bible. In the Old Testament, it is used to show public agreement to a sentence or command. In Deuteronomy 27:14-26, the Law of Moses was being read to the people, and they said amen to each commandment. Amen is also used at the closing of books or portions of books. For example: Psalms 41:13; 72:19; 89:52; 106:48.

When you use the word, you adopt another's words as your own. When Ezra the priest read the Law and blessings of God to the people in Nehemiah 8:1-3, the people answered with amen in verse 6.

In the New Testament we find that amen is used to sum up and confirm what was said. When Paul was describing how sinful the Gentiles were and how they needed the gospel in Romans 1:14-25, he used amen in verse 25 to sum up what was said, this is true. It is also interesting to notice that Paul closed all of his letters with amen. All the books in the New Testament, except Acts, James and 3 John end with amen.

Amen is used at the close of prayers to show our agreement with what has been said. 1 Corinthians 14:15-16. It can also be used to show agreement with the sermon.

Christ used amen to show the truth or facts. He used it at the beginning of many statements, and it is translated truly or verily. Matthew 5:17-28. John records the double verily in his record of the gospel. Examples: John 3:3; 5:24-25; 6:53; 14:12.

The word AMEN is used in Revelation 3:14 in reference to Christ. How should we use amen? It should be used to show agreement with the Word of God. It can also be used to show our agreement with other men, their prayers or sermons. We should use amen, but never take it lightly. Sometimes men leave the amen's to others and never take the prayers or thoughts as their own.

Save energy with tillage, N fertilizer

On-farm production of food and fiber uses about three percent of the annual U.S. energy consumption. About one-third of this energy is directly from fossil fuels used in farm tractors and trucks and for crop drying, while about one-fourth is used in manufacturing and transporting fertilizers. Tillage and N fertilizers are the two largest uses of energy in nonirrigated production of crops which are not dried artificially. Thus, the greatest effects of energy conservation can be achieved in these two areas.

Agriculture produces large quantities of chemically combined energy from the sun in the form of agricultural products — food, feed, oil, fiber, wood and wood products and crop residues. In the case of most crops, energy of the products greatly exceeds the cultural energy required in producing the crop. Because of this, the concept of energy conservation should be mainly one of the improving efficiency in the use of energy and not necessarily less energy use. Attempts to save energy which result in decreased crop yields would be self-defeating.

Energy conservation through tillage

A comparison estimating energy requirements for certain inputs and field operations normally associated

extension review

ted with corn production by four tillage systems indicates four important observations. (1) Of the commonly used primary tillage implements, the moldboard plow requires the most energy, the chisel plow is intermediate, and the disk requires the least. (2) As tillage is decreased, requirements of herbicides increase, but the additional energy required for the herbicides is more than offset by the lower fuel requirements due to reduced tillage. (3) Less machinery is needed for reduced tillage systems, especially no-tillage. (4) Energy requirements with reduced no-tillage is lower than with conventional tillage.

Energy efficiency in nitrogen fertilizer management

Production of N fertilizer requires high amounts of energy; therefore, opportunities are good for conserving energy through improved efficiency in its use. About one-sixth gallon diesel fuel equivalent (DFE) is required to manufacture and transport a pound of fertilizer N. If applied at a rate of 150 pounds per acre, N fertilizer alone would account for about 25 gallons per acre DFE energy inputs. This is more than three times the amount of energy inputs required for tillage-related operations and inputs using conventional tillage and more than six times greater than that required with no-tillage.

Research results on four soils in Kentucky showed that energy efficiency of N fertilizer (energy output in yield-energy input in N fertilizer) was greater in no-tillage than conventional tillage corn. The average energy efficiency values with 150 pounds per acre N were 6.7 with no-tillage and 2.3 with conventional tillage.

Generally, N fertilizer is more efficient if applied near the time when the crop begins to take up the N rapidly. For corn, this means that delaying application of all or most of the N until the corn is about four to six weeks of age may improve the efficiency on certain soils. In Kentucky, it is recommended that N fertilizer for corn be decreased by 35 pounds per acre if as much as two-thirds of the N is applied four to six weeks after planting no-tillage corn on moderately well drained soils or conventional tillage corn on moderately well and poorly drained soils. In terms of DFE of energy conserved, this is about 5.8 gallons per acre.

A substantial savings of energy can be gained by using no-tillage and by improving the efficiency of N fertilizers. In terms of the total U.S. energy budget, the savings seem very small, but they may be quite significant for an individual farmer.

4-Hers to begin community projects

Everything is go from the U.S. Tobacco Company for the 1982-83 4-H and FFA Dark Tobacco Show and Sale. Leadership is important to this program, so leaders and interested parents are invited to attend the organizational meeting for the show. The meeting will be Friday, Jan. 14, at 3 p.m. in the office of the U.S. Tobacco Company in Hopkinsville. U.S. Tobacco is located on Highway 41 North.

Before this meeting I need to know how many members that will be participating and approximately how many pounds each member will have. If you have any questions, just call the extension office.

A calendar of upcoming events will be coming out soon, but the major events coming up are club meetings in January and the initial meetings of project clubs.

With the coming year I hope to begin some Community Pride projects. Almost any activity that benefits anyone or anything is community pride. The Pennyrile Extension Area is very strong in community pride with the Silver Spurs of Hopkins County finishing in 4th place in state competition for single clubs. Christian County won the category for a county-wide program. They had every club in the county participating.

I would like to see Trigg County become more involved because everything the 4-Hers do benefits the county. The teen club, Knights of 4-H, have represented us well in area competition. I would like to involve more people and accomplish more for the county. To do this I need ideas and people to help. If you can help with one or the other or both, call me or stop by. This program can be very similar to the United Way — "Because of you it works," but if we don't have you it can't work.

Spring vacation, what should I do? How about attending the American Heritage Conference in Washington, D.C.? The Kentucky American Heritage Conference is a citizenship experience for Kentucky 4-Hers who are freshmen or sophomores in high school.

Some of the objectives of the conference are to make us more knowledgeable of our role as citizens. One can also gain a greater understanding of the function of our national government and an increased understanding of our democracy.

Burley trade revolutionized in 1982

By Bennett Roach

The record high-priced tobacco market and the whopping big crop now being marketed may not show it, but the year 1982 has revolutionized things for burley growers and their trade.

As the old saying goes, it's a new ball game — almost. Drastic changes have taken place, more so than in any year since price supports and production control went into effect in the 1930's.

As year-end summary by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association shows it, a chronology of 1982 records an almost continuous parade of changes — and the end is not yet in sight.

First, it was a stormy year in Congress. Anti-tobacco legislation flourished in Washington like the bumper burley crop thrived in the fields. Some of the storm was a holdover from late 1981, when the price support program narrowly squeaked through in committee hearings. At one time in the House a single vote saved the program — "the closest to extinction since the 1930's," said one tobacco leader.

At the start of 1982, with the 1981 markets ending on a surprisingly encouraging note of strong prices and a minimum of pooling, the year had begun rather hopefully. After three short crops the USDA re-assigned the high marketing quota of the year before — 660 million pounds. It even raised it by 3 per cent, calling for 681 million pounds.

Then came field hearings on the No-Net-Cost Program. These furnished a breathing spell for tobacco forces after their hard-fought series of battles in Congress. Over a period of several weeks hearings were held in every corner of burley country, some under congressional auspices, others growers grower or industry inspired.

A major hearing was at Lexington, Ky., when growers got a preview of sweeping proposals in line with federal cost-cutting. As it turned out, all the major changes asked — assessment fees and the power to lower loan rates — were adopted as Congress passed the No-Net-Cost Program.

Peace might have been expected after this, but controversy continued throughout the spring and summer. There was battling over major and minor points, such as fall leasing of flue-cured, new limits on sale of burley allotments, hiking the fee for grading, marketing of warehouse floor sweepings, and charges for market publications.

Then at mid-year came the lively fight over raising the federal tax on cigarettes to 16 cents a pack, twice the existing rate. The levy was enacted over strong opposition, and it goes into effect January 1, 1983. Tobacco interests are predicting it will reduce consumption 3 per cent to 5 percent, and also adversely affect state revenues from cigarette taxes.

It was a year of dwindling U.S. share of world tobacco exports. This stood at 57 percent of the world market in 1964, but declined 27 per cent by 1980, and then to 22 per cent in 1981. Under lower priced foreign competition the decline continued in 1982.

If the pocketbooks of burley growers were hit by the new 1 cent per pound contribution to build the no-net-cost tobacco fund, they were struck even harder by the change in the formula which permitted the Secretary of Agriculture to set lower support prices. This was done just before the 1982 market opened — a 6 cents per pound slash average across the board, lowering it to $1.75 per pound instead of the $1.81 announced last spring.

Under the new regulations many tobacco leaders are predicting a similar drop to be ordered in next year's support levels, if the Secretary determines the supply-and-use situation and foreign trade conditions justify it.

Also, the growers may almost certainly be required to increase their contributions to next year's no-net-cost fund, due to the record amount of 1982 pooled burley. The amount consigned to the Burley Association under loan reached 106,563,052 pounds before Christmas, and is expected to continue that pace for the 1982 season, bringing vastly increased costs in interest, handling and storage.

One good-news event during the year was the distribution to growers of $8.2 million in gains on 1977, '78 and '79 crops to over 150,000 producers by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association.

This brought to over $32 million the total distributed to growers by the Association in the 41-year operation of the price support program. But it also is the apparent end of such "bonus" earnings, as the no-net-cost fund is to receive any such gains hereafter.

However, the record of such returns stands as tribute to the Burley Association's achievements, and the soundness of the burley growers' sector of the tobacco program.

We would like to take this means to express our appreciation for the many acts of kindness shown during the illness and death of our wife and mother, Elizabeth Stalons. Thanks to the nurses and staff at Trigg County Hospital. A special thanks to Dr. William Anderson for his services and comforting words.
Also a special thanks to Bro. Leonard Young and Bro. Granville Courtney for their messages of comfort and to Goodwin Funeral Home for their kindness.
To our many friends and neighbors, we say thank you for the visits, phone calls, lovely flowers, delicious food, cards and your many prayers.
May God bless each one is our prayer.
— Clinton Stalons, husband, Rev. and Mrs. Marshall Fortner, Karen, Billy and Kimberly, daughter, son-in-law and grandchildren.

January is time to look ahead in 1983

By Keith S. Venable

Every January I try my hand at looking ahead.

January 1982 I thought the future looked bad. It was.

January 1981 "The outlook is indeed dismal. Curing inflation will be slow and painful," said one expert.

voice of venerable

In January 1979 I reported that 1978 had been a boom year in Trigg County for car sales, new houses, and record travel. Everybody who wanted to work could find a job.

But, I added, "The infant year, 1979, comes into a troubled world. Progress in Trigg County may continue but at a slower pace."

Before looking ahead to 1983 and beyond, let us look back at the period just past.

In the 1970's, when PCA would loan us almost any amount of money for our farms, I did not realize we were taking part in a worldwide credit boom.

"A period (the 1970's) of worldwide credit expansion, unparalleled in history, is now over," reported Forbes Magazine. It was quite a party while it lasted, with credit expanding at three times the rate of real growth. The Eurocurrency market grew from $110 billion to $2 trillion."

The U.S. farm debt increased almost four times from $54 billion in 1971 to $194 billion in 1982. Since interest rates doubled during this period farmers find themselves paying eight times as much interest.

Inflation accompanied the easy credit. U.S. prices went up 200 percent, in Mexico 700 percent, while in Argentina they are going up at 800 percent a year.

Latin American countries have piled up a $300 billion debt, and are finding it difficult to pay the interest let alone the principal.

A $12 billion rescue package has been put together, for there is a danger that one of these countries will find it politically impossible to pay and will default, bringing down a number of big banks, and sending shock waves through the world economy.

Thus we continue in a period of economic uncertainty. As individuals and companies find debt undesirable growth will be slow.

Trigg County may fare better than many parts of the country, because: we have a large number of retirement incomes; Trigg industries are industrious and competitive; recreation and tourism will give support, and Trigg farmers are conservative and diversified, so 1983 may not be boom for us but it should not be bust either.

Nicholas Lemann, executive editor of the Texas Monthly, arranged a photographic portfolio of life in the 1940's, which is featured in the January, 1983 Atlantic Monthly, and was discussed on the Accent Page of the Courier-Journal December 16.

These pictures were done for Standard Oil of New Jersey, now Exxon, and are on display at the University of Louisville.

Mr. Lemann is the fiancé of Dominique Browning, niece of Kathleen Bush of Cadiz.

December 24 I stopped to see Mabel Sexton and her sister Justin Lynn. Mabel was in a gay mood.

"Let me call Katherine and ask where you are," she kidded.

This was the last time I saw her at her house.

Maybe we should think joyous thoughts when we lose a friend. In New Orleans they play sorrowful music on the way to the cemetery and happy music as they return.

Two mountaineers were trying to find ways to tell their mules apart. So Mike said, "I'll cut the right ear off my mule."

But when Mike's mule saw the other mule had two ears and he had only one, he bit an ear off the other mule.

Mike looked at the mules and said, "I'll have to cut off my mule's tail."

But when Mike's mule saw the other mule had a tail and he had none, he bit the other mule's tail off.

About this time a neighbor came by and said, "Since one mule is white and the other black, why not use color to tell them apart."

There was a fellow who traded his 40-year-old wife for two 20-year-olds, and then found he was not wired for 220.

Ophelia Turner told our Retired

Federal Workers about the preacher who was trying to get an old sinner to come to church.

"You know Judgment Day is coming," he warned.

"When you find out when it will be let me know," answered the old fellow. "I may not come but my wife likes to attend everything."

Back in 1976 I reported Katherine got a "Six Million Dollar Man" for Christmas and I got a "Bionic Woman." I am sure she has spent her man, and I am still wondering what to do with a "Bionic Woman."

And in 1976 Lyn Bailey brought this story to our Sunday School Class.

A nun was driving through the desert and ran out of gas. She walked until she found a station, only to find they had no can to put gas in. They searched until they found a child's little pot. As she poured gas from the little pot into the car, a truck driver came along to observe.

"Sister, you must have a lot of faith," he said.

Farm Machinery Show scheduled in Louisville

On February 16 - 19, the 1983 National Farm Machinery Show will begin its 18th year as one of the finest agricultural machinery exhibits in the nation. The show will

With Continental Singers

Ms. Pisoni chosen to sing

Pam Pisoni has been chosen to travel with the Continental Singers and Orchestra during their 1983 summer touring season.

Continental Singers annually send over 600 outstanding young musicians across the United States and around the world to proclaim the gospel through contemporary music.

Ms. Pisoni graduated from Murray State University with a B.S. and M.S. in communication disorders. While attending Murray State she was active in the Wesley Foundation and Wesley Choir, as well as the choir at First United Methodist Church in Murray. She is presently employed as a speech pathologist in the Trigg County School System.

again be held at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville and will feature a new theme: "In the Business of Growing."

The tour on which Pam will be traveling is one of sixteen Continental Singers tours that cover the U.S. and several foreign countries. All tours meet in Los Angeles in June for an intensive 10-day rehearsal before beginning their 75-day tour of nightly concert performances. Pam's tour will travel to Germany, France, Denmark and parts of the U.S. In August, all summer tour groups will combine in Los Angeles for a "grand finale" concert.

Persons interested in having a part in the exciting opportunity for ministry can contact Pam at 217 Village Green Dr., Hopkinsville, Ky. 42240, or send offerings directly to The Continental Singers, P.O. Box 1996, Thousand Oaks, Calif. 91360.

"Growing" is what the National Farm Machinery Show is all about. With an expected 520 dealers and suppliers from about 30 states, the range of farm equipment (both new and improved models) is designed to increase the farmer's yield, field efficiency and fuel consumption. That adds up to a better "growing" season at less cost and greater profit.

Equipment on display ranges from giant combines to hub-capped sized sprayer pumps. New and improved devices include solar powered electric fencing, improved one-pass tillage tools, computerized feed controls and many other cost and labor saving implements. Over 13 acres of warm indoor space will be occupied by hundreds of different farm tools displayed by some of the finest manufacturers and dealers of agricultural goods in the nation.

An expected 200,000 visitors from every state in the Union and several foreign countries are expected to attend the 4-day show. Show times are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. It's free except for a $2.00 parking charge per vehicle.

Another main attraction of the National Farm Machinery Show is the annual Championship Tractor Pull. "The Pull" is held at 6:30 p.m. on February 16 - 19 with a matinee at 1 p.m., February 19. Tickets for evening pulls are $9 and $10. Tickets for the matinee are $8 and $9. To obtain tickets write: Tractor Pull Tickets, Kentucky Fair & Exposition Center; P.O. Box 37130; Louisville, Ky. 40233.

Special auxiliary events are also scheduled to coincide with the Farm Show. These include a fashion show, shopping tours, needlework demonstrations and other special features.

Official Tractor Pull classes and the nights they pull are as follows: Wednesday, Feb. 16 - 6:30 p.m. 5,800 lb. 4-Wheel Drive Modified Trucks; 5,000 lb. Modified Tractors; 9,500 lb. Super Stock Tractors.

Thursday, Feb. 17 - 6:30 p.m. 5,500 lb. Super Stock Tractors; 6,200 lb. 4-Wheel Drive Super Modified Trucks; 7,000 lb. Modified Tractors.

Friday, Feb. 18 - 6:30 p.m. 1,600 lb. Mini Rod Tractors; 9,000 lb. Modified Tractors; 12,000 lb. Super Stock Tractors.

Saturday, Feb. 19 - 6:30 p.m. 6,000 lb. 2-Wheel Drive Trucks; 14,000 lb. Super Stock Tractors; 10,000 lb. Farm Stock Tractors.

Saturday Matinee, Feb. 19 - 1 p.m. 1,800 lb. Mini Rod Tractors; 7,500 lb. Super Stock Tractors; 12,000 lb. farm Stock Tractors.
