A Look Back

Here are a few of the stories that made the news in 1995:

January 4, 1995

On January 2, the Trigg County School Board implemented a more stringent policy eliminating the use of tobacco products inside all buildings owned and operated by the school district.

January 11, 1995

Six city policemen were awarded back-pay totalling more than $2,500 for overtime worked during parts of 1992 and '93. The issue stemmed from a policy implemented by former police Chief Robert Dollar requiring all officers to clock in and be on duty 15 to 20 minutes before their scheduled shifts started.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reorganization plan resulted in the renaming of the former Soil Conservation Service to the Natural Resources Conservation Service and the former Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service to the Consolidated Farm Service Agency.

...

The city formed the first Cadiz Board of Ethics to enforce the city's new code of ethics which went into effect January 1, 1995. The code established guidelines regarding the conduct of the city's elected and appointed officials.

The City Council gave final approval to annex four commercial properties on U.S. 68 near I-24 - Lakeway Motel, Y'all's Shell, the Cadiz/Trigg County Tourist Information Center and Max Arnold's Texaco.

...

Trigg County Wildcats finally broke their six-year, 12-game losing streak to Lyon County when they beat the Lyons 75-68.

January 18, 1995

Trigg County Hospital bought a fourth ambulance.

Ten miles of I-24 in Trigg County closed on January 20 for 12 hours after a tanker truck was involved in an accident and spilled a small amount of benzoic acid.

...

Trigg County Fiscal Court voted unanimously to pass a resolution calling for support of reinstatement of prayer in schools.

LBL revealed plans for a 700-acre wildlife viewing area and ten or more rustic camper cabins located at existing campgrounds. The plan was later postponed until a new public use plan could be developed.

...

A high-speed car chase through six western Kentucky counties ended on I-24 in Trigg County on January 29 when Kentucky State Police Trooper Tonya Sims Clark stopped the chase by hitting the driver's side door with her car.

February 8, 1995

KIRIS test results found Elementary and Middle schools with scores which passed goals set for '92-'94. The high school was slightly below its initial baseline mark - well below the school's goal.

GOOD NEIGHBOR

Nell Tyler

When a friend of Nell Tyler gets sick, they can almost be certain a hummingbird is going to visit their bedside.

That visitor is not a bird, but one of Tyler's famous "Hummingbird" cakes, which is a special spice cake.

"I like to visit the sick, but now that I'm getting older, I'm not getting out like I used to," said Tyler.

The group that gets Tyler's focused attention the most is her five great-grandchildren.

Tyler is active with one neighbor -- the East Cadiz Baptist Church, located only a few steps away.

Mayor Jim Ricks takes a look at the future

SCOTT BURNSIDE
Staff Writer

When Cadiz mayor Jim Ricks looks ahead to the new year he has one trouble -- finding negative items concerning the city.

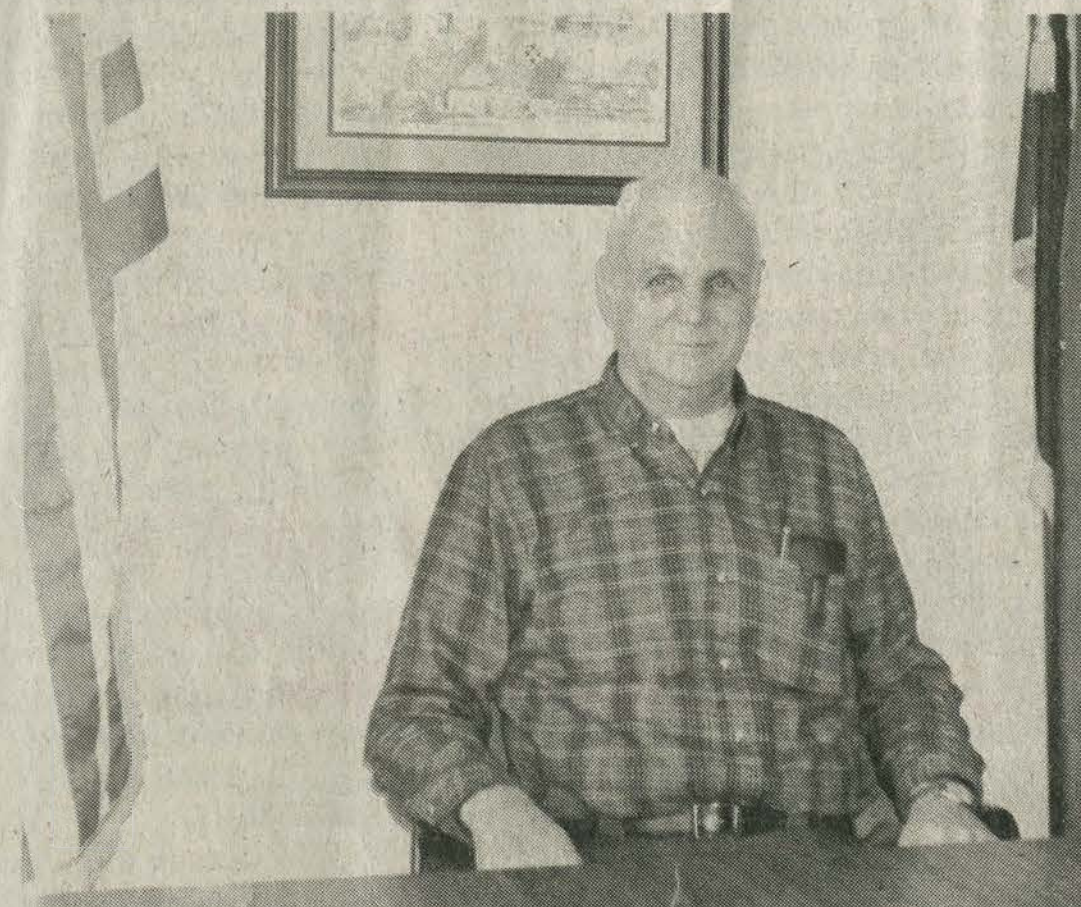

"I don't know any negatives about the city. Everything is all right. There's a lot of good, not a lot of bad," said Ricks who is in the second year of his five-year term.

Last year, the city finished an annexation move which deposited the boundaries of Cadiz upon the shoulder of Interstate-24.

When Ricks looks down that narrow corridor of Bypass 68 to I-24 he sees new businesses, new developments and new opportunities for Cadiz.

Some of that might start next year, explains Ricks, the 14th mayor in Cadiz history.

"I haven't had anybody say anything to me about it, but when businesses starts on that road (the Bypass), some people are going to go back in those fields and build houses," said Ricks.

Mayor Jim Ricks is looking forward to 1996 which will see many positive changes for Cadiz.

see a population boost. Early next year the city will add the Arrowhead Development area, which runs from Lakoda Drive from Business 68 over to the bypass.

With developments coming into existence and more down the road, Ricks says the biggest project this year could be an upgrading of the city's water department.

"What we're looking at now is the upgrading of the water and sewer, make it bigger and better, so it can accommodate growth," explained Ricks.

Ricks said this water project would cost $1 million. He's hoping a grant can be received to pay for the project. Currently, the city water department can pump up to 700,000 gallons of water a day. The city's daily average for last year was 475,000 gallons.

Ex-resident's letter recalls ole' memories

As Claude Riggan might once have written in his column: Mrs. Charles Hooks had as her dinner guests Bro. and Mrs. Harry Lewis; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Rawls; Mrs. Joyce Banister; and Mrs. May Bell Collins.

"EAST CADIZ

Nom de Plume"

But, the night before, I had burned a bit of midnight oil, as I stared through the gloom toward the lights of the Trigg County Hospital.

From my observatory, my thoughts could see a myriad of visions of the past that are not presently visible to human eyes.

My hindsight picked up Shelby Street's apple orchard and the home of his youth — plus his peach orchard, that extended to the official east limits of Cadiz. The north side of Main Street ended on the east side of "East End Cemetery." Me' an' Charlie Hooks 'useta' run past the cemetery at night, unless we were accompanied by grown-ups — to keep spooks from bothering us. Ah-ha! We later lost our fear and have even been known to court girls on the rock wall that was later built by TCHS FFA boys.

Maybe you are wondering what all of this has to do with Martha Gray-Hooks' dinner party. Well, it's like this: just the other day I got a letter from John Garret Ladd of Garden Grove, Calif. John wrote of readig my column in The Cadiz Record about Cadiz, Ohio and Cadiz, Spain. John has been gone from Cadiz AND the Cerulean community since the WWII era, and now is unfamiliar with most of the names of 'young 'uns and/or adults who are now mentioned in his hometown newspaper. AND, he has discovered a Cadiz, Calif., out there, along old "Route 66." He thought that Cadiz consisted only of a service station.

To John, I am offering some things that he can still relate to.

John, try these things on for size...

The Cadiz Independent ball team once played behind Lonnie Morris' home — where Cunningham Ave. is now. The outfielders had to run uphill if they played too deep. Hermit Mitchell was a honey of a first-baseman. Some of the other players were "Buster" Ross, George "Goat" Ryan, and practically all sorts of Bush boys. "Newt" Holland (not Gingrich) was their manager. The team uniforms had the big names of their business sponsors on them. "Bugs" and "Dee" Bruce sold popcorn at the cow pasture gate.

But John will remember most the games we played at Cerulean on the shady church lot across the street from my Aunt Ivy's house. One team leader would pitch a bat to another, and then the two would alternate going hand-over-hand up the bat to see which one could throw it farther with what was left of the handle. That decided which team would get first turn at bat. Maybe "Son" Turner or E.F. Goodwin made the toss.

Oh yeah, John, do you by chance remember "Dizzy Dean"? Ask Carl "Denny" Turner.

Or maybe you saved baseball cards, too.

I can't help it if YOU are getting old. So am I.

20 YEARS AGO

The state of Kentucky began issuing decals to attach to 1975 license plates instead of replacing the plates with new ones. The decal's cost $12.50.

Amber Dawn Siegmund and Jessica and Gary Siegmund announced the birth of a sister and daughter, Ashley Anne.

Two couples had wedding announcements in The Cadiz Record, Janice Morris and Norman Lampley and Susan Michelle Thompson and Dennis Wayne Chaney.

Thad Wharton was the Little Folks Shop Model of the Month. He modeled an outfit which was available in 9-, 12-, or 18 month sizes.

A bag of 60 disposable diapers was on sale at Dimeco Variety for $3.77.

Ground beef was on sale for 59 cents per pound at Cadiz IGA Foodliner.

Tammy Litchfield was selected to represent Trigg County in the 1976 Kentucky Junior Miss Pageant.

Wheel alignment was available at Wilbur F. Boggess Chevrolet for $9.95.

PERSPECTIVE

Starting the new year without resolutions

The new year always brings about the topic of New Year's Resolutions.

I don't make them. Ever. For me, they're a waste of time. I would only end up breaking them anyway. The whole idea of starting the new year by turning over a new leaf and making dramatic changes is a noble one. But I would only use New Year's Resolutions as an excuse to procrastinate.

If I failed to come up with a resolution until January 2, I'd probably convince myself I'd have to wait until the next year to make the change.

One of the most common resolutions is always about weight. People vow that this will be the year they'll lose those extra pounds. Those with more will-power than I'll ever have will do just that.

After I graduated from college and got a job in the "real world," that place where you sit at a desk all day and have access to the office stash of snacks, I began to put on weight.

Over a period of several years, that extra weight totaled almost 20 pounds. I would never have made a resolution to lose weight. I wished it away, but that just didn't seem to do the trick.

I would never have joined one of those diet programs advertised on TV or in magazines.

Fad diets wouldn't work either, because

Classic Guy Logic

Today we're going to explore the mysterious topic of How Guys Think, which has baffled women in general, and the editors of Cosmopolitan magazine in particular, for thousands of years.

The big question, of course, is: How come guys never call? After successful dates, I mean. You single women out there know what I'm talking about. You go out with a guy, and you have a great time, and he seems to have a great time, and at the end of the evening he says, quote, "Can I call you?" And you, interpreting this to mean, "Can I call you?" answer: "Sure!"

The instant you say this, the guy's body starts to dematerialize. Within a few seconds you can stick a tire iron right through him and wave it around, in a few more seconds he has vanished entirely, gone into the mysterious Guy Bermuda Triangle, where whole squadrons of your dates have disappeared over the years, never to be heard from again.

Eventually you start to wonder if there's something wrong with you, some kind of emotional hang-up or personality defect that your dates are detecting. Or possibly foot odor. You start having long, searching discussions with your women friends in which you say things like: "He really seemed to like me" and "I didn't feel as though I was putting pressure on him" and "Would you mind, strictly as a friend, smelling my feet?"

This is silly. There's nothing wrong with you. In fact, you should interpret the behavior of your dates as a kind of guy compliment to you. Because when the guy asks you if he can call you, what he's really asking you, in Guy Code, is will you marry him. Yes. See, your basic guy is into a straight-ahead, bottom-line kind of thought process that does not work nearly as well with the infinitely subtle complexities of human relationships as it does with calculating how much gravel is needed to cover a given driveway. So here's what the guy is thinking: If he calls you, you'll go out again, and you'll probably have another great time, so you'll probably go out again and have another great time, and so on until the only possible option will be to get married. This is Classic Guy Logic.

So when you say "Sure!" in a bright and cheery voice, you may think you're simply indicating a willingness to go out again, but as far as he's concerned you're endorsing a lifetime commitment that he is quite frankly not ready to make after only one date, so he naturally decides he can never see you again. From that day forward, if he spots you on the street, he'll sprint in the opposite direction to avoid the grave risk that the two of you might meet, which would mean he'd have to ask you if you wanted to get a cup of coffee, and you might say yes, and pretty soon you'd be enjoying each other's company again, and suddenly a clergyman would appear at your table and YOU'D HAVE TO GET MARRIED. AIEEEEEEE.

(You women think this is crazy, right? Whereas you guys out there are nodding your heads.)

So my advice for single women is that if

I don't like things like tuna fish, celery and cottage cheese.

For me, help came in the form of First Place, a diet program we did at church. My mother led the program and my husband and I both joined. Between us, we lost almost 60 pounds. I weighed less than I had when I got married.

Hallelujah!

Now, I've gained it all back, thanks to the impending arrival of a son in April, but I know I'll get it off again.

The program has been sweeping across the county like wildfire. For a little taste of what it's like, see the related story on B-3.

I just want to say thanks to the ladies who had the initiative to bring First Place to Trigg County and undertake the overwhelming task of teaching the program.

you're on a date with a guy you like, and he asks whether he can call you. You should give him a nonthreatening answer, such as:

"No."

Or:

"I guess so, but bear in mind that I'm a nun."

This will make him comfortable about seeing you again, each time gaining the courage to approach you more closely, in the manner of a timid, easily startled woodland creature such as a chipmunk. In a few years, if the two of you really do have common interests and compatible personalities, you may reach the point where he'll be willing to take the Big Step, namely, eating granola directly from your hand.

No matter how close you become, however, remember this rule: Do not pressure the guy to share his most sensitive innermost thoughts and feelings with you. Guys hate this, and I'll tell you why: If you were to probe inside the guy psyche, beneath that macho exterior and the endless droning about things like the 1978 World Series, you would find, deep down inside, a passionate, heartfelt interest in: the 1978 World Series. Yes. The truth is, guys don't have any sensitive innermost thoughts and feelings. It's time you women knew! All these years you've been agonizing about how to make the relationship work, wondering how come he never talks to you, worrying about all the anguished emotion he must have bottled up inside, meanwhile he's fretting about how maybe he needs longer golf spikes. I'm sorry to have to tell you this. Maybe you should become a nun.

Thanks to everyone who contributed to the Angel Trees

Editor's Note: It is the policy of The Cadiz Record to accept letters to the editor only if those letters have been signed. The following letter is an exception to this policy because we believe our readers will benefit from its contents. It is a letter to the good citizens of Trigg County.

To the editor:
There is no way you can know how I felt as I parked in the old Ford Motor Co. parking lot. I walked through the doors that use to lead to the garage. I had walked through the doors many times before, but this time was different.

I wasn't there to get my car fixed. I was there to pick up gifts from the Angel Tree. I was greeted with a smile and a lot of joyful folks. These were people who care, people who give what they have — their time and money — to children they don't know or may never see.

There were tears in my eyes, but joy filled my heart as I received the many gifts for my three grandchildren. They were able to have a Merry Christmas thanks to the efforts of the Angels and their Angel Tree. They surely know the real meaning of Christmas.

My grandchildren are too young to know or understand yet. As they grow, I hope and pray they will have and experience the same love these people have shown — the love of Christ and fellow man. I pray that it will be instilled in their hearts.

I thank the Angel Tree volunteers — for all the children and for how it touched me. Thanks to all who helped.

Sincerely,
A joyful grandparent

P.S.
My New Year's Resolution is to help the Angel Tree effort any way I can.

KSA seeks legislation

To the Editor:
Many sheriffs' offices throughout Kentucky are facing a critical shortage of funds for the operation of their office. In an effort to alleviate a part of this shortage of funds, the Kentucky Sheriffs' Association will be seeking the passage of two bills in the 1996 state legislature.

If passed, these two bills will give the sheriff's office a flat 4 percent commission for the collection of school taxes and 5-1/4 percent for the collection of state and county taxes; increase the fees for service of papers; and raise the salary of court bailiffs to $8.00 per hour instead of the minimum wage they now earn.

A recent survey of other states indicates Kentucky sheriffs receive far less for serving papers (Illinois receives $15.00 and Georgia and Arkansas receive $25.00). Salaries for Kentucky sheriffs are lower than all our surrounding states. Other states mandate a minimum and maximum based on the population of the county with additional salary negotiated by local county government. In Mississippi the minimum is $37,600 and the maximum is $53,200.00 and in Tennessee the minimum is $32,340.00 and the maximum is $88,673.00.

Forty to fifty of Kentucky's sheriffs do not make the maximum salary. Many receive less than $30,000.00 a year and some are lucky if they get $10 - $15,000.00.

It has been twelve years since sheriffs have had legislation passed that is meaningful to their office. I would like to urge our state legislators and citizens to support the efforts brought forth in the 1996 legislature by the sheriffs in Kentucky so that we can move more progressively into the next century. Kentucky sheriffs have earned it; they deserve it.

Sincerely,
Ray Stoess
Executive Director

Life Insurance the EZ Way

If you think your age or health makes it difficult to get life insurance protection, it's time to re-think your situation.

Commonwealth's Easy Acceptance Plan makes it easy to receive up to $15,000 of insurance protection.

EZ can fill the gap between your ability to qualify for standard insurance rates, and your need to:

- take care of burial and other final expenses
- provide protection for your family

EZ provides lifetime protection for persons 18 to 80 years of age. The plan provides:

- premiums that don't increase
- benefits that don't decrease
- that your policy will not be canceled as long as premiums are paid
- that the policy is paid up in 20 years

The EZ policy has a graded death benefit for the first two policy years.

No medical exam is required. By answering these three simple questions, you may be accepted automatically:

1. Have you been treated for or had any indication of cancer in the last 5 years?
2. Have you been medically diagnosed as having Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) or Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome Related Complex (ARC)?
3. Are you currently confined in a hospital, rest home, nursing home or convalescent home?

State's unemployment rate remains steady

For the 45th month in a row, Kentucky's unemployment rate was lower than the national rate.

Kentucky's unemployment rate remained steady at 5 percent even though nearly 14,000 more Kentuckians were working in November than in October.

The nation's jobless rate for November was up to 5.3 percent from an October rate of 5.2 percent.

Kentucky's unemployment rate has remained around 5 percent since March of this year.

Carlos Cracraft, chief labor market analyst for the Department for Employment Services, says that November's jobless rate is traditionally among the year's lowest.

"November is typically one of the better months for Kentucky's economy," he said. "Schools are at full employment, the weather isn't extreme and the holiday shopping season is moving into full swing."

The estimated number of unemployed Kentuckians for November 1995 was 92,399, down slightly from the 92,703 estimated unemployed in October 1995. However, the estimate was up 4,338 from the 88,061 Kentuckians estimated unemployed in November 1994.

The estimated number of Kentuckians in the civilian labor force for November was 1,855,231, up 13,686 from the 1,841,545 recorded for October 1995, and up 3,098 from the 1,852,133 recorded for November 1994. The civilian labor force includes non-military workers and unemployed Kentuckians who are actively seeking work. It does not include the unemployed who have not looked for employment within the past four weeks.

AFDC/Food Stamps to Kentuckians not affected by federal shut-down

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Dec. 28, 1995) -- The current partial shut-down of federal services will not have an immediate effect on Kentucky's families who depend on the federally-funded food stamp and Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) programs.

The state will cover benefits due to be issued Jan. 1, if necessary, said John Clayton, commissioner of the Department for Social Insurance.

DSI administers AFDC and food stamp programs in Kentucky. Clayton said those programs also continued without interruption in the state during November's federal shut-down.

"We will do everything possible to avoid any hardship for our citizens who depend on these benefits," Clayton said.

Crisis benefits from HEAP available

Applications for crisis aid from the Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) will be taken at the Trigg County Courthouse beginning Jan. 8 and will continue through April 30, or until the funds are exhausted.

The federally funded HEAP program provides heating subsidies and crisis assistance to low-income households.

Applications for heating subsidies were taken in November and all eligible households which applied will receive a benefit, said John Clayton, commissioner of the Department for Social Insurance. DSI oversees the state's HEAP program.

To be eligible for crisis assistance, a household must meet the same guidelines required for eligibility for a subsidy, which includes income and liquid asset limits.

The household applying for crisis assistance must either be totally without its primary heating fuel, or within 48 hours of running out of propane or fuel oil, or within 48 hours of having the home's primary heating source disconnected. Each eligible household at or above 28 percent of the poverty level will also be required to make a co-payment to the fuel vendor toward relieving the crisis.

No HEAP payments will be made directly to applicants.

Crisis benefits may take the form of fuel delivery, service reconnection, blankets or sleeping bags, loaned space heaters or emergency shelter. Subsidies will be in the form of vouchers payable to the heating fuel vendor.

Timely Reidland bombs beat Trigg in tournament

SCOTT BURNSIDE

Sports Editor

Reidland's closing and opening runs were too timely, and too tough, as the Greyhounds defeated Trigg County High School boys' team 79-62 in the consolation game of the Trigg County Invitational.

In the championship game of the inaugural tournament Owensboro Catholic didn't look like a team who had played four games in four nights as the Aces (6-5) beat Providence 78-47.

Trigg County's team was still shell-shocked after the walk-out of starting guard Anthony Mayes in the Wildcats' first tournament game.

Wildcat head coach Mike Wright said that emotional departure while the game was going on cost Mayes his place on the team.

Speaking from a prepared statement Friday, Wright said "Anthony Mayes is a talented athlete, but he's no longer with the basketball team."

"Now we're focusing 100 percent with the guys left on the team so we can be the best team we can be," said Wright.

Wright is still hopeful of putting his team back on track, pointing out "that when this happened we were 1-5, so its not like we were 5-1 when it happened."

Still, it was an unemotional

Wildcats need fans, not empty seats

SCOTT BURNSIDE

Sports Editor

Coach Mike Wright and his Trigg County High School boys team are discovering the downside of sports life.

After just about everybody was beating the publicity drums over the Wildcats in pre-season talk, injuries and discipline problems have struck the Trigg basketball team with serious blows.

The Wildcats lost Lamar Radford to a football injury even before the season started. During the first game 6-foot-6 center Kevin Thomas, a legitimate college prospect, was injured. He had knee surgery and is back with the team, but not at full status.

Kelvin Grubbs, a defensive specialist and a valuable player off the bench, is out with a shoulder injury. He may, or may not, be back this season.

Football star Carlos Acree was late in returning because of all-star commitments.

That's enough grief, but in the first game of the Trigg County Invitational, starting guard Anthony Mayes staged a walkout, leaving the game in process and throwing his uniform top on the stage.

Wright has since stated Mayes is not longer with the team, an understandable and wise decision.

With all of this going on, it's understandable, but not pleasant, to note the Wildcats' 1-6 records.

Trigg County team that took the floor against Reidland in the consolation game without their second leading scorer.

Reidland took advantage as Steve Green began the game

What's sad to spot is that a sizeable number of fans have started to bail out. It was easy to count the sparse number of home fans Friday night during the consolation game with Reidland.

Shots by Scott

There's still talent on this team, there's still hope for this team, but they really need some support. The support would be there is the team was 6-1 and soaring along.

These are still relatives, friends, classmates, neighbors and just good plain kids wearing the Trigg County uniform.

We need to revive that community spirit, that high school spirit which would have cheered for these players, just because they were local youngsters and friends.

High school classmates are worse than anybody at this. It seems to be no longer cool to show up at games and cheer on friends. Life is better at the parking lot of the Minit Mart.

This drop in spirit occurred somewhat in football. The football Wildcats went through a tough, losing streak and attendance suffered. There weren't as many fans shaking those plastic jugs filled with rocks, yelling in support.

Does it always have to be strictly about losing and winning?

I certainly hope not.

hit 3-pointers at appropriate times.

They opened the first quarter, the second quarter and the third quarter with 3-point efforts. Additionally, they closed out the first quarter and the third quarter the same way.

Still, the Wildcats rolled out to a 6-5 lead. However, Reidland forged back with the first of two 8-0 runs in the first half. Reidland led by 10 after the first quarter (16-6) and by 12 (54-42) at halftime.

Reidland's shooting was on solid ground the whole night. The Greyhounds made 52 percent (28 of 54) of its field goal attempts, while Trigg County shooters made only 35 percent (20 of 58).

The Greyhounds had five players over eight points, paced by 19 points from David Wall.

Chris Sparks topped the Trigg lineup once again with 23 points, but he was the only player over 10 points. Sparks had been averaging close to 30 points a game.

The Wildcats made their best bid in the third quarter. Sparks scored 14 points in this frame as the Wildcats fought back to within seven points with two minutes left in the third quarter.

However, that's when Reidland solved Trigg County's pesky full-court defense, scoring on several layups as they beat the Wildcat press. The Greyhounds scored five straight points to end the third quarter and six straight in the fourth to run away.

"We started pressing and we caught them a little bit, but we couldn't get over the top," said Wright following the game.

Trigg County began the new year this week with a Tuesday game against Lyon County. The Wildcats journey to Crittenden County Friday.

Different tactics needed for grass bed

Nothing in bass fishing is set in stone, or for that matter, in grass. Sometimes different tactics are needed, even when fishing vegetation.

"Normally, a plastic lizard on a Carolina rig will catch bass in underwater vegetation," explains professional tournament angler David Wharton, "but there are times when you just can't catch them that way so you have to try something different."

Wharton, a member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff and a former guide on Sam Rayburn Lake in Texas, knows about grass. Sam Rayburn Lake contains tens of thousands of acres of underwater greenery, and over the past two decades Wharton has fished most of it.

"When bass are down in the grass, a Carolina rig is certainly one of the best of all techniques to use," he explains. "You can let the heavy sinker fall to the bottom and swim your lure through the vegetation.

"Sometimes, however, the bass hold right on top of the grass, even though they may still be six to eight feet deep. Then a spinnerbait or a Texas rig worm may be a better choice."

Several years ago Wharton won a national tournament on South Carolina's Lake Murray fishing a Texas rig plastic worm over submerged vegetation like this. The water was clear and calm and the bass were positioned along the edge of the grass.

"The Texas rig allowed me to make long but accurate casts that a Carolina rig would not, and I was able to keep the worm swimming on top of the grass easier," explains the Johnson pro.

"It's a technique that works when the bass may be a little spooky. By making long casts I was able to keep my boat away from the bass. In fact, they often hit as the lure was falling the first time."

Wharton's second lure choice for fishing submerged vegetation is a spinnerbait, especially if the vegetation is closer to the surface.

"The key is letting your spinnerbait fall just down to the top of the grass, not into it," he explains. "You'll have to develop a feel for this, because you want to retrieve your lure. The depth of the water you're fishing will usually determine your spinnerbait weight, but it will normally range from 1/2 ounce to 3/4 ounce, and have both Colorado and willow leaf blades for flash and vibration."

Still another lure Wharton occasionally uses to fish over submerged vegetation is a lipless crankbait. He tries this when the bass are over the vegetation and fairly active; it's a good lure choice in both fall and spring.

"Grass usually attracts and holds bass on any lake, so it's always worth fishing," concludes Wharton. "The important thing to remember is that there are always several lures and techniques you can use to catch those fish, depending on the conditions."

Fishermen running a lot of electronic equipment on their boats might consider installing a voltmeter gauge, advise the experts at OMC. One of the easiest instruments for the do-it-yourselfer to install, a voltmeter monitors battery voltage, the operation of the alternator on the motor and the function of the voltage regulator. OMC's Tech Series voltmeter is available from most Johnson and Evinrude dealers.

Jigging spoons perfect for winter

If it's winter, it's time for jigging spoons.

That's the opinion of veteran bass tournament angler David Wharton of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff. Wharton, a former guide on Lake Sam Rayburn, uses spoons throughout the year but prefers them now when the water begins to turn colder.

"The advantage of a jigging spoon is that you can put it right in front of bass in deep water and keep it there," explains Wharton. "You locate the bass on your electronic depthfinder, and then you can actually watch your spoon on the depthfinder, too."

When bass move to deep water during the winter months, says Wharton, they tend to suspend in large schools which makes them show up well on depthfinders. He looks for the fish in deep channels and bays or off deeper points. Frequently, bass will use the same structure year after year, and stay there for a week or longer.

"I believe the best way to fish a jigging spoon is vertically right under the boat," continues Wharton. "Once I have the lure at the depth I want it, either by counting it down or by dropping it to the bottom and reeling it up a certain distance, I start jigging it vertically."

"I like to work a spoon with a quick snap of my wrists so the spoon does not jump upward very far," he says. "Some fishermen really jerk their rods hard so the spoon jumps four or five feet, but I think bass generally prefer a more subtle presentation."

BEFORE LUNG TRANSPLANT

TWO YEARS AFTER LUNG TRANSPLANT

While Robert "Bud" Phelps was waiting for a lung transplant in Lexington, he was receiving excellent care from local pulmonologist Dr. Manoj Majmudar.

"He can do anything a pulmonologist in a big city can do," said Phelps. "I am so fortunate to have Dr. Majmudar caring for me. If I had to choose between Dr. Majmudar and another pulmonologist in Lexington, I would choose Dr. Majmudar."

Dr. Majmudar cared for Phelps before and after his transplant. He kept him alive until a donor lung could be found, and later worked through his recovery. Dr. Majmudar supervised Phelps as he completed physical therapy and all his medications.

"I am alive today because of Dr. Majmudar's dedication to his patients. He is truly a professional. We are very fortunate in Hopkinsville to have a doctor like Dr. Majmudar. Without Dr. Majmudar, I probably would not be here."

Grocery still offers 'Mor For Less'

ROBIN STEVENS
Editor

Beginning January 4 when Save-A-Lot shoppers want to shop for their favorite grocery bargains, they'll find themselves at a different store.

Well, the store will be the same. Only the name will change.

On January 4 and 5, Save-A-Lot will become Hancock's Mor For Less. Since the name change was announced, rumors have flown about the possible repercussions, namely price changes.

But to ease the minds of loyal customers, and to stop those rumors mid-flight, the name-change will result in the same if not lower prices.

"Change is a scary thing, but this is the best thing we can do for our customers," said Mallory Hancock Lawrence, manager of the grocery. "I'm really excited about it."

The new supplier will be Roundy's, a company with a program called Mor For Less which is similar to the Save-A-Lot program. The company, which was established more

"...Our customers have gotten used to what they can get at our store. We've become a one-stop grocery, and we want to stay that way."

—Mallory Lawrence, Manager

than 100 years ago, will replace Save-A-Lot products with their own.

Management made the decision to go with the new company after demands were made by Save-A-Lot to make some unwanted changes.

"They wanted most of the national brand products out," Lawrence said. "And we felt that eventually it might come down to making a decision between drink companies."

"We feel that our customers have gotten used to what they can get at our store. We've become a one-stop grocery, and we want to stay that way."

"The products are as good as or better than Save-A-Lot products," Lawrence said.

"Some are even those Save-A-Lot has carried before."

"We will also be able to add more of a variety to the national brand name products we now carry."

Lawrence said the search for a new company led to Roundy's because their products, as well as their prices, were comparable to those of Save-A-Lot.

"They've really worked with us to keep the prices the same," Lawrence said. "Some will probably be even lower."

Lawrence was quick to make the assurance that their meat and produce counters and their dairy case will remain the same.

"The only change will be that Save-A-Lot products will be gone. Mor-For-Less will be in their place."

As to other rumors about changes in management, Hancock's Mor For Less will employ the same employees, the same managers and has the same owners.

And it will still be the grocery "where fast and friendly service comes naturally."

Spoons

After snapping his wrists to make the spoon jump up, the Johnson pro lowers his rod quickly so the spoon falls back naturally. This is when the majority of strikes occur.

"I believe one of the most common mistakes I see anglers make when fishing spoons is letting them fall on tight lines rather than slack lines," says Wharton. "I think a jigging spoon imitates an injured or dying minnow, and for it to do that properly, you have to let it fall naturally."

"It doesn't just drop straight down. It rolls on its side, or slides off in one direction or another, and it never does the same thing the same way twice as you're jigging it. That's what makes the jigging spoon so effective."

Depending on the depth of water he's fishing, Wharton will use 1/2 or 3/4 ounce spoons, and he doesn't hesitate to drop them into underwater brush and cover.

"If you stop your upward jigging and give the lure slack line the moment you feel it hit brush, the weight of the spoon will often free it again," he explains.

"You don't often mistake a bass strike for brush, either, because when bass hit a spoon they usually hit it hard."

Another reason Wharton likes to use jigging spoons this time of year is because where he catches one bass he often catches several more without ever having to move the boat.

To keep your outboard running smoothly, OMC recommends the use of Johnson® and Evinrude® TC-W3 oil, the most advanced lubricant in the industry for two-cycle engines. Featuring the highest level of detergency and lubricity available on the market, Johnson and Evinrude's TC-W3 minimizes carbon build-up and reduces deposits on pistons, allowing the engine to run cleaner for better performance.

Mayor

Another area Ricks sees as an expansion area is near the Tollgate Plaza. That's located where the bypass joins the city on the east side.

"We've got room to expand," says Ricks. "We could put everybody in the county into the city and still have a small city."

When Ricks views the Cadiz downtown area there not the problem with decay other small towns have suffered. He noted that a couple of restaurants have either been started last year or been rejuvenated in that area.

Most of downtown is occupied by antique malls, which Ricks says "puts a lot of cars on the street." The city will also probably gain another antique mall this year.

"And I understand the old Cee Bee, at the other end of town, will have a wallpaper and paint store move in there," Ricks said.

Ricks doesn't have any complaints about the city government, especially the police department, the largest city agency with seven police officers.

"Our police force is very good. We've got young people on the force and they are local," pointed out Ricks. The city employs 24 persons with an annual payroll of $460,444.

According to Ricks, people can come into Cadiz, leave their keys in the truck and not worry about their vehicle.

On his dream wish list, Ricks has a few items.

Ricks would like to see some new businesses aimed at the young people of Cadiz, and he believes there is a crying need for additional apartment housing, not to mention entertainment businesses, possibly aimed at youth.

"We need some chain restaurant like McDonalds to come in," added Ricks.

Parker Ford Lincoln Mercury, Inc.

When Hafford Parker went into business in 1928, he knew how to offer the kind of customer service people wanted. But he might not have known that would result in such a long-running and successful business.

Going into their 68th year of service, Parker Ford Lincoln Mercury, Inc., is still providing service the kind of which Hafford would be proud. With his three sons — Joe, John and the late James Parker — Hafford began a tradition which has led to the highest award Ford bestows upon its car dealers, the Chairman's Award.

"We've been fortunate enough to win nine consecutive Chairman's Awards," said Joe Rowland of Parker Ford. "Only six dealers in all of the United States have done that, and that's out of 5,400 dealers."

The award is distributed based on customer satisfaction, and Parker Ford's complete dealership definitely offers its customers what they want.

"We want to thank our customers for the honor they've bestowed upon us," Rowland said. "The people of Cadiz are important to us, and we're here to service them any way we can."

James' son David has joined the team at Parker Ford and will help insure that the long-standing tradition of quality service will continue.

Parker Ford is located at 701 Main Street in Murray. They are open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday. They offer complete automotive services, including parts, sales, service, a body shop and a wrecker service. Cadiz customers can reach them at 522-5273.

SOCIETY

JANUARY 3, 1996

Martin, P'Pool wed in double-ring ceremony

Lisa Cay Martin and Michael Daniel P'Pool were united in marriage at the First Presbyterian Church in Kirkwood, Mo., on Nov. 25, 1995.

The bride is the daughter of Charles and Linda Martin and the granddaughter of Dr. Ernest and Myrtle Schapper of St. Louis, Mo., and the late Helen and Paul Martin.

The bridegroom is the son of Charles and Vicky P'Pool and the grandson of Vic and Donna Mitchell, of Cadiz, and the late Carl "Pat" and Lena P'Pool and Johnnie P'Pool of Cadiz.

The Ceremony

The Reverend Robert Slater officiated the double-ring ceremony. The organist was Paul Laubengayer. Steven Schapper, uncle of the bride from Milwaukie, Ore., was the vocalist. Music was provided by string instrumentalists.

The Bride

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a full-length candlelight gown that was embossed with pearls and lace. She wore a veil that had been passed on to her by her mother. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, roses and lilies.

The bride chose Erin Schyck of Murray as her matron of honor. The other bridesmaids were Kim Henley, sister of the groom, Baton Rouge, La.; April Ramey, Murray; Shannon Jackson, Louisville; and Wendy Helmer, Rockford, Ill.

The flowergirl was Heather Jackson, daughter of Shannon and Dale Jackson. The girls all wore tea-length burgundy dresses and carried bouquets of lilies and roses.

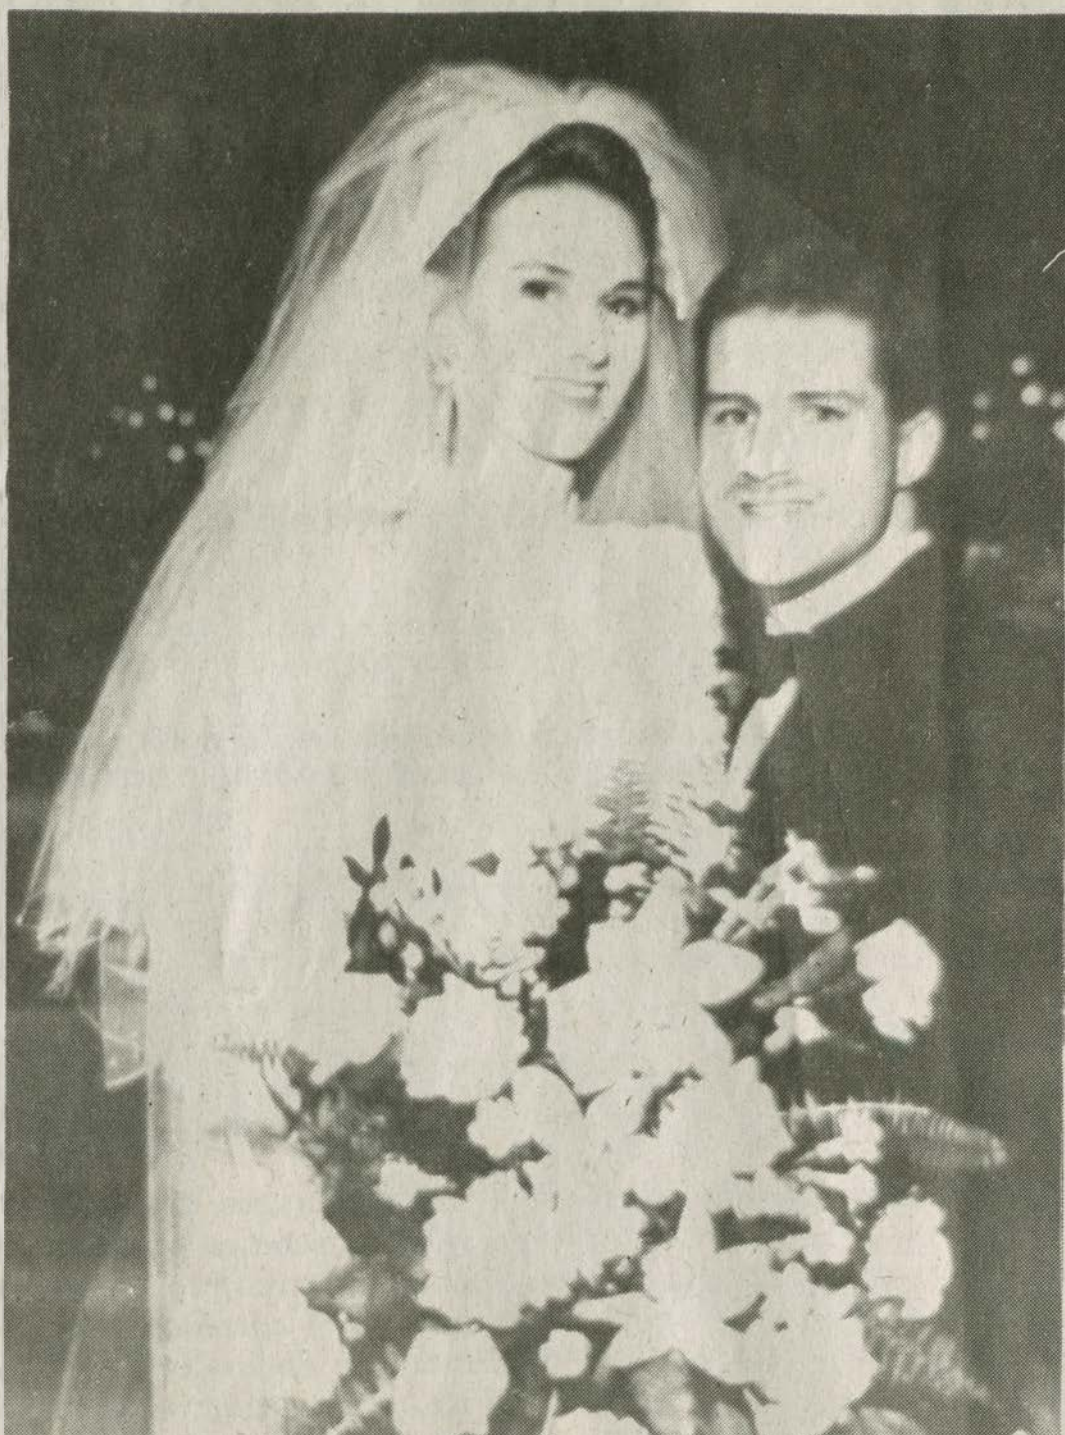

The Groom

The groom chose Brian Richardson of Cadiz as his best man. Other groomsmen were Greg Oliver, Campbellsville; Robert Bynum, Asheville, N.C.; Chris Oliver and Brian Oliver, both of Cadiz. The ringbearer was Eric Schapper, son of David and Betsy Schapper of St. Louis. The ushers were Adam Schapper, Desoto, Mo.; Dale Jackson, Louisville; and Michael Schyck, Murray.

The Reception

The bride's parents hosted a dinner/dance reception at the Creve Couer Country Club in Creve Couer, Mo. The guest registry and programs were kept by Sara and Megan Schapper, daughters of David and Betsy Schapper, and Katie Schapper, daughter of Richard and Virginia Schapper of Desoto, Mo.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Viking Restaurant in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Daniel P'Pool

Following a honeymoon trip to the Bahamas, the couple will return to their home in St. Louis.

ANNIVERSARIES

Mr. and Mrs. D.T. Porter

Couple celebrates anniversary

Mr. & Mrs. D.T. Porter of Gracey celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary on Dec. 20 with a dinner party for family and friends. Mr. Porter and the former Angie Moore were married on Dec. 20, 1930, by the Rev. L.E. Martin in Hopkinsville.

The dinner, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Porter and Dr. and Mrs. Tommy Porter, was held at WesLyn. Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Holloway of Gracey who were celebrating their 32nd anniversary on Dec. 20.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Carter, Gracey; Mrs. Virginia Porter, Hopkinsville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Porter, Pembroke; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hite and Lydia Margaret Hite, all of Cadiz. The Porters have four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Poetry contest offers $500 prize

Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum is offering a grand prize of $500 in its new "Awards of Poetic Excellence" poetry contest. Thirty-four other cash awards are also being offered. The contest is free to enter. Anthology purchase may be required to ensure publication, but is not required to enter or win the contest.

Poets may enter one poem only, 20 lines or less, on any subject, in any poetic style. Contest closes March 31, 1996, but poets are encouraged to submit their work as soon as possible, since poems entered in the contest also will be considered for publication in Poetic Voices of America, a hardcover anthology. Prize winners will be announced May 31, 1996.

"Our contest is especially for new and unpublished poets seeking a forum that enables them to share their work," says Jerome P. Welch, Publisher. "We are looking for sincerity and originality in a wide variety of styles and themes. You do not have to be an experienced poet to enter or win."

Poems should be sent to Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum, Inc., Dept. C, 203 Diamond St., Sistersville, WV 26175.

ANOTHER LOOK

Innovative weight loss the First Place way

A new weight loss program leads to success for local residents

ROBIN STEVENS
Editor

At the Little River Baptist Association's annual "M" Night meeting in November, the total was announced. Eight Trigg Countians had completely vanished from the face of the earth.

The announcement sent applause and a smattering of cheers across the crowded auditorium at Rocky Ridge Baptist Church.

The celebrating came, not because eight people were actually missing, but because the equivalent weight of those people was gone.

As of November, the Little River Baptist Association had lost more than 1,100 pounds thanks to a nationally acclaimed program called First Place.

First Place began in the fall of 1979 at First Baptist Church of Houston, Texas.

"The First Place program is the result of a godly desire placed in the hearts of a group of Christian people. This desire was to establish a Christ-centered weight control program. The basic question that initiated the search for such a program was, 'Since God has saved us from our sins and given us an abundant life, why can't we, as Christians, use that same power in the area of weight control?'"

The opening paragraph of the First Place literature says it best.

And now the weight control program which has been sweeping across the nation has left its mark on Trigg County.

Valerie Cottrell of Liberty Point Baptist Church was the first to begin a First Place program in Trigg County. She first heard of the program at the Southern Baptist Convention in Florida several years ago.

"When I started the program here, we had just moved here from Tennessee," Valerie said. "I was in First Place at our church there. I was having a lot of success with it, and I wanted to continue."

Valerie thought the program would be good for the people at Liberty Point for several reasons.

"There were several of us who wanted to control our weight," she said. "I also thought it would be a good way for me to get to know the ladies of the church.

"I had no idea how it would spread."

Since Valerie began First Place at Liberty Point, at least six Trigg County churches have joined the program including Cadiz Baptist, Canton Baptist, Donaldson Creek, East Cadiz Baptist, Hurricane Baptist, and Linton United Methodist.

The First Place program is similar to many other weight-loss or weight-control programs which have been widely used throughout the country. The diet plan is one used by the American Diabetic Association which strives to provide a good balance of meats, breads, vegetables, fruits, milks and fats.

"One of the good things about the program is that it's not just for overweight people. It could also be used by underweight people or people who just want to learn to eat healthy," Valerie said.

Stephanie Bruce, a "graduate" of the program, is currently leading her second First Place group at East Cadiz Baptist Church.

"I've learned how to eat correctly," Stephanie said. "I've learned the things I should eat and how to prepare them."

Although Stephanie never dieted before joining First Place, she thinks that one of the good things about the program is that it teaches participants how to prepare their own foods, not foods you buy through the program.

"You eat real food, and because of that, it's a real lifestyle change."

Stephanie's reaction to her first week of First Place was similar to many who find the program successful.

"I didn't think I would have lost anything that fast," she said. "I was so excited when I found out I'd lost five pounds!"

"I thought it would be harder than it was to lose weight. Every week I was amazed to find two or three more pounds gone."

Although the most obvious benefit of First Place is weight loss, the other most common benefit cited is spiritual growth.

In addition to a diet plan and exercise, the program includes Bible study and prayer time. A weekly Bible study group and a telephone support system emphasize all aspects of First Place.

"The Bible study really helped me realize Christ should be first place in all areas of my life, even my eating habits," Valerie said.

"Our bodies are temples. You hear that all your life, but until you really center on it, it doesn't sink in."

"First Place helped me learn that."

Stephanie agreed that the program really emphasized her need to give God control of all aspects of her life, "not just the ones I choose to turn over to Him."

Stephanie recited a favorite verse from a First Place lesson on excuses: "You know my folly, O God; my guilt is not hidden from you," Psalms 69:5.

First Place Victory

One woman triumphs over her weight

On June 17, 1989, John and I were married. My wedding dress was a size 6. Most people gain weight after they get married. I was no exception.

After we had been married for two years, I decided I needed to lose some weight. So, I went to Nutrisystem.

When I started Nutrisystem, I weighed 129 pounds. They measured my wrists and said, "You should weigh 104 pounds."

I thought they were crazy! I set my goal for 115.

In Nutrisystem, they give you something they call an achievement diary. In your diary, you record what you eat each day and your exercise. It's very similar to First Place.

One of the drawbacks is that you eat Nutrisystem's food, which costs $50 to $60 each week. You have to buy your own fruits and vegetables to add to that.

You also attend a behavior break-through class once a week.

After 10 weeks, I had lost 12 pounds, but in December of that same year, I found out I was pregnant with my son, Zachary. At my first doctor's visit, I weighed 128 pounds.

I had already gained back the weight I lost with Nutrisystem.

When I was 32 weeks pregnant, I found out that I had toxemia, a condition in which the body basically poisons itself.

I had to quit work and spend four weeks in bed. During that time, do you know what all the wonderful ladies at church did?

They brought food to us so John wouldn't have to cook.

All I did for a month was eat, sleep and gain weight. The week before Zachary was born, I weighed 164 pounds. I had gained 36 pounds.

But the Lord had taken care of me during this time, and He brought Zachary safely into this world.

Before I had Zach, I wore a size eight. After he was born, I wore a size 12. I once again thought I needed to lose weight.

I saw an ad in a magazine that tells about a woman who lost so much weight that she was arrested because the police didn't recognize her on her driver's license.

When I saw that, I thought, "I'll try this."

So, I ordered it — The Doctor's Clinic 30 Program.

Basically, it tells you how many servings of breads, meats, fruits and vegetables to eat according to your caloric intake. It also tells you what amount of each food makes one serving.

All of this is also part of First Place.

I tried it, but it didn't last long.

In May, 1995, we started First Place here at church. The other two diets I mentioned were similar to First Place as far as eating and exercise, but the one thing they didn't have was Jesus.

When I started First Place in May, I weighed 152 pounds. So far, I have lost almost 28 pounds. I could not have done it without Jesus.

In our first week of First Place, we had to recite our favorite verse of scripture. I chose Philippians 4:13, "I can do all things through Christ which strengthens me."

If you give Christ control of your eating habits and give Him first place in your life, you can lose weight.

— Debbie Fuller

The lesson included the definition of an excuse: "An excuse is a lie disguised as a reason."

"I can make excuses all day long to myself and to others about my weight."

"The truth is, He knows my body is a temple and I should treat it that way."

"Until we make up our minds that we're going to give God control, we'll never be able to lose the weight we need to lose and get in shape."

First Place programs at many of the local churches are open to people outside of church membership.

"It has been a great outreach for our church," Stephanie said of East Cadiz. "My current class has 16 members. More than half of those don't even go to our church."

Those interested in getting more information about First Place could call one of the churches listed or the Little River Baptist Association.

Healthy, delicious recipes from the First Place Favorites cookbook

The following are some First Place food tips:

1. Add beef bouillon to fresh or canned green beans for flavoring instead of fattening meat.
2. Use ground chuck or ground round (with the least amount of fat) in place of ground beef.
3. Rinse cooked ground meat under hot water after it has been drained.
4. Ground turkey works well in recipes calling for ground beef, especially casseroles.
5. Substitute fat-free and sugar-free ingredients in recipes (some examples are gelatin, cheeses including cream cheese, pudding, etc.).
6. Saccharin can be used in recipes calling for sugar. (Use aspartame only in recipes after cooking or in uncooked dishes.)
7. Use unsweetened apple sauce as a natural sweetener instead

Turkey Pot Pie

HOME COOKIN'

Mom's cookin' receives daughter's approval

KELLY HOLDER
Staff Writer

Somewhere in between the loads of laundry, the never-ending hum of a vacuum and the last thread of sanity, I found this week's featured cook.

Mom.

My mom, that is. Sandy Kaye Holder- mother, wife, house-keeper, peacekeeper, and of course, cook.

Raise a family, balance a career and have supper on the table by 6 p.m.? No small feat, but she accomplishes it day after day.

An Evansville native, Mom moved to Cadiz with her family in the hopes that life could take on a slower pace for us all. But, as moms everywhere know, a mother is a mother is a mother, no matter where you go.

So, I would like to say "thanks" to my own mother, as well as all of the terrific moms that give day after day without asking for anything in return.

Enjoy these recipes, from our loving home to yours!

Broccoli-Raisin Salad

- 1 large bunch Broccoli (cut into pieces)
 - 1 cup Chopped onion
 - 1 bag Sunflower kernels
 - 1/2 cup Raisins
 - 1/2 cup Cooked, crumbled bacon
- Dressing
- 1 cup Mayonnaise
 - 2 tsp. Vinegar
 - 1/2 cup Sugar

Combine all ingredients. Stir in dressing thoroughly and refrigerate.

Dill Dip

- 1 pint Hellman's mayonnaise
- 1 pint Sour cream
- 1 large pkg. Cream cheese
- 5 TBS. Minced, dry onions
- 2 TBS. Minced parsley
- 3 tsp. Dill weed
- 3 tsp. Beau Monde seasoning

Combine all ingredients and refrigerate over night. Serve with fresh vegetables.

Sandy and Kelly Holder

Old-Fashioned Soft Sugar Cookies

- 1/2 cup Butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 cups Sugar
- 2 Eggs
- 1 tsp. Vanilla
- 3 cups Flour
- 1 tsp. Salt
- 1/2 tsp. Baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. Sour cream
- 1 cup Cinnamon sugar

Cream butter and add sugar gradually. While continuing to cream, add eggs one at a time. Add vanilla and beat until light and fluffy. Mix and sift flour, salt, baking powder and soda. Add to creamed mixture, alternately with sour cream, beginning and ending with dry ingredients.

For three inch cookies, drop by heaping tsp. on well greased cookie sheet, well apart. With spatula, flatten into two inch circles. Sprinkle with cinnamon sugar. Bake in hot 400 degree oven 10-19 minutes. Makes about 3 dozen cookies.

Broccoli-Mushroom Chowder

- 1 lb. Broccoli, fresh
 - 8 oz. Mushrooms, fresh
 - 8 oz. Butter
 - 1 cup Flour, sifted
 - 1 quart *Chicken Stock
 - 1 quart Half and Half
 - 1 tsp. Salt
 - 1/4 tsp. White Pepper
 - 1/4 tsp. Tarragon Leaves, crushed
- Clean and cut broccoli into 1/2 inch pieces. Steam in 1/2 cup of water until tender. Do not drain. Set aside
- Wash and slice mushrooms.
- Melt butter in large sauce pan over medium heat. Add flour to make a roux. Cook for 2-4 minutes. Add chicken stock, stirring with a wire whip and bring to a boil. Turn heat to low. Add broccoli, mushrooms, half and half and spices. Heat, but do not boil.
- *Chicken Stock: use homemade, canned or 4 bouillon cubes dissolved in 1 quart of water.

Beef Bologna

- 2 lbs. Lean ground chuck
- 2 TBS. Tender curing salt
- 1 tsp. Garlic salt
- 1 tsp. Onion salt
- 1 tsp. Liquid smoke
- 1 tsp. Coarse pepper
- 1 cup Water

Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Shape into three rolls. Wrap each roll in plastic wrap and refrigerate for 24 hours. Unwrap and cook on broiler pan 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 hours at 300 degrees. Leave on rack to cool. Can be frozen.

Brunch Casserole

- 1 pkg. Crescent dinner rolls
- 6-8 Eggs
- 1 cup Milk
- 1 lb. Sausage (cooked)
- 8 oz. Monterey Jack Cheese (shredded)

Preheat oven on 350 degrees.

Press crescent dinner rolls into a greased 9 x 9 baking dish.

Beat eggs with a whisk. Add milk, salt and pepper to eggs. Pour over dinner roll dough. Add cooked sausage and top with shredded Monterey Jack Cheese. Cook for approximately 40 minutes. Let stand out of oven for few minutes before serving.

Area's police arrest five on DUI charges

Both the Cadiz Police and the Trigg County Sheriff's Department arrested five suspected drunk drivers over the past holiday period.

On New Year's Day, near midnight Cadiz Police Officer Richard Martin arrested Michelle L. Beebe, 27, of Canton for her first DUI.

Martin's report alleges that Beebe was seen coming off the grassy side of U.S. 68 while driving down the road. Beebe allegedly failed six field sobriety tests. She blew a .166 on the breathalyzer.

On Dec. 29, Dickie R. Armstrong, 53, of Roaring Springs Road, was arrested at the Trigg County Hospital for his second DUI charge in five years.

Police Sgt. Duncan Wiggins said Armstrong was at the hospital getting treated for a head injury. His car was allegedly found in the hospital parking lot with full and empty beer cans in the vehicle.

Wiggins' report said Armstrong told police he had driven to the hospital. He allegedly refused to take field sobriety tests. Armstrong was also charged with using a DUI suspended license, improper registration and not having liability insurance.

On Dec. 29, Sheriff's Deputy Kenneth E. Butts arrested Venus R. Juecher, 34, of 330 Cumberland Shores for her first DUI and not having a driver's license in her possession.

Butts arrested Juecher after he answered a domestic call from her ex-husband. Juecher was seen driving in the subdivision. Butts' report said she was very unsteady and couldn't take any field sobriety test.

In another incident on Dec. 24, Moore arrested Nathan O.

Leonard, 20, of Jacksonville, Fla., on Business 68.

A report had been filed with radio dispatchers that Leonard was allegedly throwing beer cans out the window of his car on Interstate 24. When Leonard was spotted in Cadiz, he had pulled over into a ditch.

Moore's report said Leonard failed six field sobriety tests.

Wiggins also arrested Cecil J. Bridges, 70 on Dec. 22 and charged him with speeding and driving under the influence after he allegedly failed six field sobriety tests.

In other police business:

•Wiggins arrested Edward Dean Collinsworth, 44, of Dover, Tenn., for improper registration, no insurance, attempting to elude police and theft under $300.

Collingsworth was stopped after he allegedly left Ashland Gas Station and failed to pay for gas.

•Anthony K. Hale, 30, of Hopkinsville was arrested for non-payment of fines by Trigg County Sheriff Randy Clark.

•Arrest warrants of second-degree burglary and knowingly receiving stolen property under $300 were added to previous charges levied against Donald Richard Atwell, 20 of Toledo, Ohio.

•Robert R. Reason, 47, of Tennessee Ridge, Tenn., was brought back to Trigg County by the sheriff's department to face flagrant non-support charges.

Drivers hurt in one-car accidents

A pair of one-vehicle accidents sent the driver from each incident to the Trigg County Hospital over the weekend.

Injured in an Dec. 30 accident on Kentucky 525 was Vanessa P. Cox, 40, of Cerulean, according to a report by Trigg County Sheriff's Deputy Kenneth E. Butts.

Butts' report said Cox was traveling north on Kentucky 525 shortly after noon when she met a yellow and white pickup traveling on her side of the road.

Cox ran off the road to avoid hitting the pickup. She lost control and went back across the south-bound lane and hitting a tree on the other side.

The presence of the other pickup was confirmed by another driver on the road.

Cox was taken to the hospital by the Trigg County Ambulance Service.

In the other accident, Marilyn R. West, 41, was injured Dec. 29 when she attempted to avoid hitting a deer that ran across the Parkview Shores Road.

Butts' report said West's car hit a tree after running off the road. She was taken to the hospital by a friend.

Pennyroyal slates divorce sessions

The Pennyroyal Center will present "The Breaking of a Relationship," a divorce adjustment workshop beginning January 3 from 5:00 to 6:30 p.m. Four consecutive Wednesday afternoon sessions are scheduled from January 3 through January 24. All meetings will be at the Community Services Building, behind the Center's main clinic at 735 North Drive in Hopkinsville.

According to Cissy Hadley-Atkins, LCSW and workshop leader, the series is for persons who are separated, divorcing or who have divorced and continue to deal with unfinished pain or issues. The workshop will help persons to understand the process and will provide information and support for coping with the pain which accompanies the breaking of a relationship.

The cost of the workshop is $48 per person, or $12 per session, payable in advance or at the first session. To register or get more information phone the Pennyroyal Center at 886-7178.

EDUCATION

Financial aid available for higher education

Kentucky seniors who have not received a free copy of Getting In 1995-96 should request one from their high school counselor.

Getting In is published by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA), a state agency, and provides important information about Kentucky colleges and vocational-technical schools including facts on admission, costs, and financial aid.

Completion of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is required to apply for financial assistance from several major federal and state aid programs which are described in Getting In. Students may obtain the form from their high school guidance counselor or the financial aid officer of the institution where they plan to attend. For the 1996-97 academie year, the FAFSA should be filed as soon as possible after January 1 and before March 15, 1996, to assure the best chance of receiving all aid for which the student is eligible.

Students who are interested in other sources of financial aid can also consult Affording Higher Education. This KHEAA publication lists hundreds of financial aid programs for Kentucky students and can be found at high school guidance counselor offices and public libraries throughout Kentucky.

Fanny Mae Fudge

1/2 cup Butter
3 1/2 cups Sugar
1 1/2 cups Brown Sugar
1 TBS. Vanilla
1-13 oz. Evaporated milk
1/2-2 cups Pecans
13 oz. Hershey milk chocolate bar
2 oz. Unsweetened chocolate pieces
12 oz. Semi-sweet chocolate chips
32 Large marshmallows

Combine butter, sugars and milk in large pan on stove and stir until dissolved. Continue to stir until mixture comes to a boil. Cover and let boil five minutes-without stirring.

Remove from heat. Add marshmallows and stir until dissolved. Add chocolate (as listed) one at a time until melted. Add vanilla and pecans.

Pour into a lightly buttered 10 x 15 broiler pan. Chill. Cut and keep well refrigerated, tightly covered.

Banana Cake

1 cup Butter
2 1/4 cups Sugar
4 Eggs (reserve whites)
1 cup Nuts (black walnuts or pecans)
2 cups Banana pulp
3 cups Flour
1 1/2 tsp. Soda
1/4 tsp. Salt
6 TBS. Buttermilk
1 tsp. Vanilla

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and Flour 2-9" round cake pans, 3-8" round cake pans or 1-9 x 13" pan.

Sift flour. Add salt and soda. Cream butter, then add sugar and vanilla and beat until light. Add egg yolks and beat.

Add flour mixture, buttermilk and bananas alternately.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Gently fold beaten egg whites into cake batter. Bake approximately 45 minutes.

Bulldogs spoil Trigg's party in tourney liftoff

SCOTT BURNSIDE
Sports Editor

The Bulldogs of Providence are still undefeated against Fifth District opponents to the dismay of Trigg County's boys' basketball team.

Providence threw a wet cloth on everybody's plan as they defeated Trigg County, 85-74 Dec. 28 in the first round of the first annual Trigg County Invitational.

In their first meeting the Bulldogs (6-3) edged Trigg County 95-91 in the opening game of the season, a road meeting for the Wildcats.

Providence has defeated Fifth District teams Lyon County, Livingston Central and Trigg County twice.

During the first game of the tournament's opening night, Owensboro Catholic (5-5) enjoyed a lead for the majority of the game, defeating Reidland (2-4) 73-59.

Those games established a finals night slate of Trigg County (1-5) against Reidland in the 6 p.m. consolation contest, while the Aces of Owensboro Catholic met Providence.

Pacing the Bulldogs, who blitzed Trigg County's usually wicked full-court press in the second half, was forward Rashidian Allen. He made 30 points and controlled the scoring on the front line.

Teammate Derek Tackett tallied 15, while J.R. Hathaway and Steven Gaither each added 13.

Trigg County was led once again by its powerful guard combination of Chris Sparks and Anthony Mayes. Sparks tallied 23, while Mayes accumulated 19 in what may be his last game of the season.

Sat down once this season for disciplinary reasons, Mayes was taken out of the game in the fourth quarter. Angry at his departure, Mayes argued with head coach Mike Wright.

WAITING TO GET back in action during the opening night of the Trigg County Invitational was Wildcat center Kevin Thomas, as he rested during practice with Levar Alexander.

Mayes then took off his uniform top and walked off the court while the game was going on. Nearing the stage, Mayes threw his uniform top on the stage and left the gymnasium floor area.

That was the end of the game for Mayes, but the end for Trigg County started in the third quarter.

The Wildcats were ahead 44-31 at halftime, but Providence's 'Dogs bit a big hole in the Wildcats' press. The Bulldogs outscored Trigg County 11-2 early in the third quarter to get back solidly in the game.

Thanks to a 3-point shot by Mayes at the close of the quarter, Trigg owned a slim 58-56 lead entering the final frame.

Providence began the quarter with eight straight, unanswered points to pass by the Wildcats. Trigg County could only draw within six points for the remainder of the game.

The only other Wildcat in double figures for the game was Kevin Thomas with 13. The 6-foot-6 center was injured in the first game against Providence and has sat out since.

Thomas had knee surgery and wore a knee brace for the game. He didn't start, and is not back in game shape, but his presence was a help to the beleaguered Wildcats.

Ezell making presence known on Quakers' team

SCOTT BURNSIDE
Sports Editor

Former Lady Wildcat center Christina Ezell was impressed with the new Trigg County gymnasium look.

"Why did they wait to do this when we were gone," she asked another graduate standing nearby as they watched Trigg County's boys team work out last week.

Ezell is getting used to her own new surroundings at Earlham College, a Quaker-run school in Richmond, Ind., located east of Indianapolis.

So far the new combination has been working well for the 1995 graduate of Trigg County.

As a freshman Ezell wasn't expecting too much, but she's started two games out of the 10 games the Hustling Quakers have played.

"I've been coming off the bench at the center position," said the 6-foot-1 Ezell, who has been playing more the past few games.

When Ezell started playing more, the Quakers began winning. They started off the season at a woeful 0-4 clip, but they've been 4-2 in the last six contests.

In one game during that victory streak Ezell grabbed 12 rebounds and scored eight points. Last week she scored 22 points during one contest.

The Quakers' coach Jill Butcher gave Ezell a good clue she'd be paying more. During a team meeting she told Ezell she would also expect more of the Kentucky ballplayer.

Ezell probably had to wait her turn because there were two senior players in the post position.

"The other post players are really good at getting open. No matter how you turn they can always get open to get the pass," said Ezell.

"Everyone's a good player up there," explained Ezell.

"I'm playing on a team where everybody can play. Depth-wise, we're better than anybody in the conference," explained Ezell.

The experience of just being away from home has been tough. Ezell said she went through her spell of being homesick, even though her parents have been able to see some games.

There was one stretch in which the school was out for six weeks. Everybody went home except the basketball players, who were into their season.

Being the only Kentuckian on the team has brought on waves of kidding by Indiana teammates.

"They're always making fun of my accent," said Ezell with a smile.

That accent might bring some smiles, but her performance is bringing pain for opponents.

EARLHAM UP-AND-COMER -- Trigg County graduate Christina Ezell is beginning to shine as a freshman for Earlham College in Indiana.

Lady Cats mended

SCOTT BURNSIDE
Sports Editor

After a 2-2 start on the season, head girls' basketball coach Buddy Sivills believes he's got his team on the right track.

"We've been working on our free throws and our pass offense," said Sivills, whose team hasn't played a game since Dec. 15.

That's when the Lady Wildcats lost a 61-40 game to visiting Madisonville. That defeat gives Sivills and the girls' a two-game losing streak.

"We needed the break," said Sivills, who thinks his team and the coaching staff are now working together.

"We've lost two in a row, but we've been playing some good teams," pointed out Sivills.

There were some complaints directed from some of the girls that Sivills and his staff were too tough on them. However, Sivills thinks that may have

Trigg predictions favorable for '96

SCOTT BURNSIDE
Sports Editor

If even half of Trigg County Athletic Director Taylor Sparks' predictions for 1996 come true, the trophy case at the high school will be crowded.

Looking at some loaded returning squads, not to mention the chances for both basketball teams and the up-and-coming weightlifting season, Sparks sees success.

"I predict we'll have a possibility of competing for the district title in every sport at Trigg County," said Sparks as he prepared for a boys' basketball practice last week.

"We've got one of the best overall coaching staffs in the state of Kentucky," said Sparks, who has been in the AD chair for 18 months.

Last year's teams captured a state title in track, a state title in weightlifting and district crowns in both boys' basketball and football.

"The main thing I admire is generally they're interested in the student/athlete, as well as winning and losing," explained Sparks.

"I predict that Taylor Sparks as AD will stay out of the way of the coaches in doing their job because they know how to do it better than anybody," said Sparks.

Also Getting in the prediction business was boys' basketball coach Mike Wright.

Wright was bubbling over with joy at seeing his 6-foot-6 center Kevin Thomas on the court. Thomas injured his knee in the first game and has been out for four games.

"I predict that Carlos Acree will set a pick that will be mistaken for a lunar eclipse. He will pick off five guys at one time," said Wright.

Wright is hoping his team will rebound from their 1-4 start, something nobody anticipated.

"We've got a lot of basketball left and we'll have our wins and losses. I just hope we have more wins than we do

Sports In Ky. New Year's Resolution? Fans, media will let Tim Couch be piece of a puzzle.

Ever notice how a New Year's resolution is a promise made to stop you doing something you enjoy?

One of them, at least for those reading this space, is speculating on University of Kentucky football and basketball things. Coaches' contracts, players' performances, and most of all, new blood, recruiting prospects.

This week I have a New Year's resolution for consideration—Kentucky fans and media herd members should resolve to cool it, get a life, where Tim Couch is concerned.

Now that America's Kid has announced he will do the right thing, attend college and play sports in his home state, the media and fans ought to heed Couch's not so cryptic plea, "I'm not a savior, I'm just a piece in the puzzle."

Step back and let the kid breath some 18-year-old air.

Unless the sky falls, Couch will sign with Kentucky Feb. 7 and very likely rev up again the talkology about how his Bunyan-esque skills will carry him to an NFL contract.

Reality arrives in eight months when Couch checks in at Shively Sports Center in late summer. The 6-4, 205-pounder from Leslie County will discover:

Being part of the bustle of campus life is a dizzying experience.

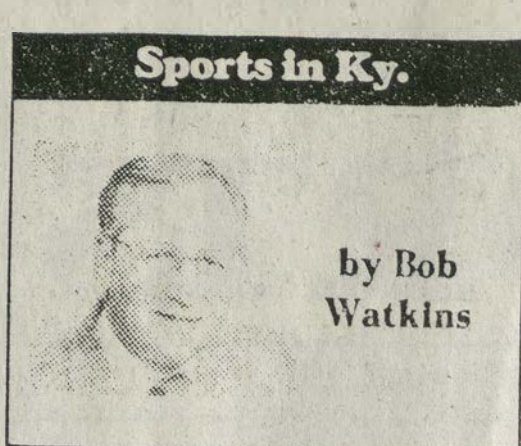

Feel the sting of homesickness (in the dead of night when a siren-blasting ambulance makes a run to Chandler Medical Center).

That peculiar emptiness from the absence of Mom's home cooking.

Being perplexed about living in a tiny room in a noisy dormitory.

Worry about finding the way to an 8 a.m. class and knowing what to do with a 25-page syllabus.

And, finding out Billy Jack

Sports in Ky.

by Bob Watkins

Haskins is The Man.

Not as glamorous nor guaranteed it is, as radio talk-show regulars and fickle ticket buyers would like to believe?

At Shively Sports Center Couch will take his place at the back of the line of probably three quarterbacks—Haskins, Greg Hergott and one of the two Jeffs, Speedy and Snedegar (the latter has indicated he will probably transfer).

Haskins is the man. The game little Paducah native was UK's most promising surprise of '95 and showed every indication he will be better next season. Which is the best news possible for Hergott and Couch.

A red-shirt freshman, Hergott has earned and will get his chance at No. 2 on the depth chart. While Haskins and Hergott skirmish for the 1-2 spots, Couch can use it as a buffer zone behind which he can listen and learn and discover that college football "ain't like Friday night football in the mountains, boyz."

And, as a college recruiter whispered a few months ago, "these kids can be mature and say all the right things - how they know full well that college ball is totally different from high school. But being there, taking that first hit, seeing how quick everybody is, it's still a big old surprise. A big adjustment."

What can fans (and media) do? Simple. Leave America's Kid alone to find his way, to learn, to fit in, to be a piece of a puzzle.

COUCH CRUSH

It was a comical scene at Rupp Arena Dec. 23. Sandy Bell UK's charge d'affairs for keeping athletic programs in compliance with NCAA rules, trying to baby-sit Tim Couch. Bell was like a mother hen shoo-ing away reporters and photographers from the youngster who was sitting in the end zone area for the UK-UofL game moments after announcing he will sign with Kentucky.

Bell had already dealt with one crisis. Moments after Couch announced for UK, C.M. Newton was caught in a camera lens hugging the youngster by an Associated Press photographer.

The scene, considered with Bill Curry's remark about Couch two months ago, prompted one writer (blush) to wonder, "is somebody at UK going to find a way to screw this up before the kid can sign the papers?"

Footnote: Tennessee, Florida State, Florida, Ohio State ... Tim Couch was headed to Kentucky all along. No surprise. A family member who lives in Elizabethtown had it on good authority months ago that America's Kid would sign with Kentucky.

'95 HIGHS & LOWS

The year just ended had its highs and lows. Top of the heap—Northwestern's football success story.

Closer to home:

Highs for Kentucky: Moe Williams at South Carolina.... Ray McLaurin against LSU.... Mike Schlagel at Indiana. ... Billy Jack Haskins against Tennessee.

DIS 'N DATA

UK will play in the inaugural Rock & Roll Shootout in Cleveland Dec. 28. Rick Pitino's team faces Ohio State, the Wildcats first game against the Buckeyes since the Maui Classic in 1993 when UK beat an OSU team led by Derek Anderson, 100-88....

losses," said Wright, whose team last year went to first place after claiming last place the year before.

"Physically, I hope we have a healthier year for the team," said Wright, whose team has been racked with injuries.

Finishing his practice just before the boys was girls' coach Buddy Sivills. His team, which at one time had only seven players, has started its year at 2-2.

"I think in the next stretch of games we can win four or five of those games if we do what we've been working on," said Sivills.

Baseball coach Steve Smith, who is the conditioning coach for boys' basketball, has high hopes for 1996.

"Our infield is going to be solid," said Smith, who is anticipating the return of several veterans. Also figuring into his outlook are several members of the 15-and-under Babe Ruth team, who were district winners and went to the state tournament.

Several of them were on a junior varsity team that finished 3-1, while the varsity won only four games.

"Our defense and offense is going to be a lot stronger than last year. Pitching is going to be the big question," said Smith.

Lady 'Cats

changed.

"We're on the same page now and they know what we're doing and thinking," said Sivills as he finished up a practice session last week.

Sivills admitted he and his coaches would get vocal at practices, but they didn't use any bad language.

"We're just demanding on what we want. We've told them that it's not personal. We're just trying to be constructive," explained Sivills.

One of the problems addressed during this long holiday break (the Lady Wildcats didn't play until Jan. 2 when they hosted Lyon County) was poor free-throw shooting.

"We're averaging 40 percent at the free-throw line and that's bad," said Sivills.

In addition, the Lady Wildcats have been fine-tuning their zone offense. With 6-foot center Marlo Thomas in the middle, a lot of teams have been playing sagging zones.

"I've given Cathy (Foster), Brianna (Heffington) and Melony (Lindsey) the green light so they'll shoot more from the outside," explained Sivills.

Sivills also feels this long break will give Thomas a chance to fully heal her injured shoulder

Hog futures high, producers may not benefit Nutrient management planning...It's in the future

Hog futures prices are now high enough to nearly guarantee profits for Kentucky producers, provided they can take advantage of the futures markets.

"Producers who maintain control of production basically can guarantee profits, even with feed prices high, if they have sufficient volume to forward price now," said Lee Meyer, Extension livestock marketing specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Hog futures, the process by which buyers and sellers agree on a hog price for specified future date, are high. But for the bulk of Kentucky's hog producers, contracts that could lock in prices for their hogs the next year are not easily available.

Why?

"The problem for many Kentucky producers is volume. A single contract calls for 40,000 pounds of live hogs -- about 150 to 175 head of hogs -- to be contracted for delivery. Most Kentucky producers don't have that many hogs ready for market at the same time," said Lee Meyer, Extension livestock marketing specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Meyer said that small producers may participate in the process, regardless of their scale of production, but it would take a serious reorganization of their sales efforts.

"Small producers could work together to pool their production to reach the 40,000 pound mark required for future contract sales," he said.

By doing that, they could take advantage of the currently strong futures market prices, he said.

In early December, the average futures market price for all of the seven Chicago Mercantile Exchange 1996 contracts averaged about $51 per hundredweight, with October 1996 contracts trading at nearly $48 and July 1996 contracts at just over $54 per hundredweight.

"These future prices could be very lucrative for hog producers who can take advantage of them," Meyer said.

The drop in hog numbers earlier this year, along with the belief that pork production will continue to decline because of current high feed costs, has led to expectations of higher 1996 hog prices. In addition, continued strength of exports further bolsters the notion that high prices will result in 1996.

Meyer suggested that the current futures prices may not forecast actual cash prices when the maturity dates arrive, especially if current high futures prices spur production.

"In that case, live market prices would decline and those who didn't price their future production now using the futures market could suffer," he said.

It's a new term for many Kentucky farmers, but it's one they're going to be hearing a lot about in the near future.

"It's called 'Nutrient Management Planning,' and it's going to be a part of Kentucky farming in the future," said Monroe Rasnake, Extension agronomist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"It should be considered an opportunity and a challenge for better management that will result in improved income for farmers and cleaner water for everyone," he said.

The concept is an outgrowth of increasing public concern about pollution that may be coming from agricultural lands, Rasnake said. Several states have already passed regulations requiring nutrient management planning.

"Kentucky is in the process of developing guidelines for water quality protection plans that will contain nutrient management planning provisions," he said. "Those guidelines should be completed next summer; then farmers will have a certain amount of time to develop their own plans."

Farmers don't need to be overly concerned about this. For many of them, it will be no more complicated than what many good farmers already do -- taking soil samples and following fertilizer recommendations provided by the county Extension agriculture agent. These recommendations take into account needs of the crops, nutrients supplied from sources such as manures and prior crops, and fertilizer nutrients that should be added to produce a profitable yield.

"Records of this kind of planning can serve as a kind of protection for farmers by showing that they are trying to do a good job," Rasnake said.

"If a water pollution problem is found on a farm, the farmer will be given a chance to correct it rather than being fined," he added. "Punitive action will be used only when a farmer fails to correct the problem. Instead, different agencies will be involved in helping farmers develop plans and correct problems as needed."

Kentucky farm land values up 10 percent in '95

Kentucky farm land values have increased an average of 10 percent during the last year, due largely to good crops and good prices during 1994.

"The value of land and buildings in Kentucky increased from an average of $1,136 per acre in 1994 to $1,250 per acre in 1995," said Dick Trimble, Extension agricultural economist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

All seven states surrounding Kentucky had significant increases in land values, with Ohio leading the pack, with an increase of 13 percent. Kentucky, Illinois and Indiana each showed a 10 percent increase. Virginia and West Virginia both experienced a little over 4.5 percent increase, while Tennessee and Missouri posted 6.9 percent and 6.7 percent respectively.

Trimble pointed out, however, that the percentage gains represent averages: some land appreciated more than the average and some less than the average.

"Whether land prices will continue to appreciate depends a great deal on farm-related legislation to be enacted into law in Washington in the next few weeks, as well as crop conditions and prices during 1996. Livestock prices also will have an important influence on land prices," he said.

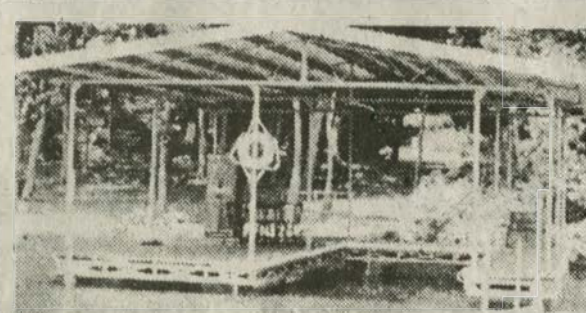

Another factor, he noted, was that many farmers whose operations were stressed in the 1980s "bailed" themselves out by refinancing, using a balloon payment, due at the end of 10 to 15 years. Those balloon payments are now coming due and some farmers may not be in a position to pay them.

"In fact, some may be in no better financial shape than they were in the mid-1980s, when they refinanced their operations," he said.

SENIOR

Elderly face special hazards in winter: cold weather presents many risks

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Almost by definition, home is where you feel safe and warm. That's not the case for many elderly people, especially during very harsh winter weather, said Peggy Wallace, commissioner of Kentucky's Department for Social Services.

Cold, icy weather can bring about heart attacks, frostbite, asthma, broken bones, hypothermia, and the risk of house fires, for people of any age, but can be especially deadly for the elderly, Wallace said.

Many elderly Kentuckians live alone and may be unable to seek help if they fall or become ill. While shut in, they risk running out of such necessities as food, medications or heating fuel.

"Elderly people may even become disoriented when very cold," said Anne Flynn, R.N., nurse consultant with DSS. "They may be too confused to recognize a serious problem and seek help. Outdoors, they may even become lost or lock themselves out of the house."

It's especially important for the elderly to stay warm because they're so susceptible to hypothermia, Flynn said.

Hypothermia is a drop in body temperature that can result in death if not promptly recognized and treated. It can be triggered in some by even mildly cool temperatures of 60 to 65 degrees Fahrenheit according to health officials.

Flynn said many elderly have less of a cushion against getting into trouble with the cold because they already have a lowered ability to adapt to changes in temperature. She also said many medications interfere with the way heat and cold are perceived.

"For example, many who take blood pressure medications never feel warm," Flynn said. "Their extremities, hands and feet, are always uncomfortable."

Flynn recommends staying warm indoors and out by dressing in "lots of layers," not one heavy layer, so clothing can easily be removed or added as needed. She also recommends always wearing a hat outdoors since most body heat is lost through the head.

Special precautions to prevent fires should be taken by those who use fireplaces, wood stoves or space heaters to heat their homes, said Reg White, family protection specialist with DSS.

House fires can be caused by dirty chimneys, flammable fluids or stacks of papers stored near a heat source, or the improper use of space heaters.

Fires can also be caused by cooking appliances. When used as a heat source, the appliances can overheat and start a fire, while any open flame, such as gas stove-top burners, can easily catch clothing on fire.

White advises the elderly to not only take precautions to avoid fire, but to prepare and rehearse an exit plan in the event there is a fire.

He also urges everyone to check on their elderly friends, neighbors and family members frequently during cold weather, either in person or by phone.

Check immediately, White said, if there's any sign of trouble, such as mail not being picked up, no lights, or lights left on all night. Call a local service agency or law enforcement officials for help, if necessary.

"Everyone should become familiar with local services and agencies, such as senior centers of community ministries, before finding themselves, a neighbor or a family member in a weather-related crisis," Flynn said.

For information and referrals, call the local DSS office. Local Community Action Agencies also make referrals and most can supply heaters in an emergency. Their toll-free number is 1-800-456-3452.

The Association of Older Kentuckians also offers help and referrals through its A-OK Helpline, 1-800-200-3633.

Make the best of tax breaks

Since the Tax Reform Act of 1986, few tax advantages have been available to Americans. The key is to make the best use of those that remain. Here are four to consider.

Strategy 1: Go for Capital Gains

In 1992, the U.S. government added two new tax brackets (36% and 39.6%). If most of your earnings come from interest and dividends and you're in one of these new brackets, consider investing in growth stocks or related investments. The top rate on capital gains from these investments is 28%.

Strategy 2: Invest in a Qualified Retirement Plan

If your employer has a 401(k) plan or similar program, contribute as much as possible to it.

You'll lower your taxable income by the amount you contribute. You may be able to contribute as much as 15% of your salary, up to approximately $9,240.

If you work for yourself, consider setting up a Simplified Employee Pension Plan (SEP). You may be able to contribute up to 15% of your salary, to a maximum of $22,500.

Strategy 3: Add Municipal Bonds to Your Portfolio

Municipal bonds generate tax-free income, which means you don't have to share income you earn with Uncle Sam and local and state governments (in many cases). If the cost of diversifying your portfolio with indi-

Go to college for free... if you're 65 or older

PADUCAH, Ky., December 18 — Attend Paducah Community College for free if you are 65 years of age or older.

The Donovan Scholars Program allows students to earn credits toward a degree or to audit classes that interest them.

"Learning is a lifelong process - you are never too old to learn," said Dr. Barbara Veazey, dean of academic affairs. "The Donovan Scholars Program encourages our older citizens to become an active part of the college community."

The Donovan Scholars Program, established in 1964, provides free college tuition for any student 65 years of age or older attending the University of Kentucky or any of UK's community colleges.

The program, part of the Sanders-Brown Center on Aging, was established as a result of a mandate issued to the Council on Aging "to develop educational programs for older persons."

Named for the late Herman L. Donovan, UK's fifth president, the program was one of the first of its kind in the nation, officials said.

Twenty-six students enrolled the first year.

More than 500 scholars are enrolled on the Lexington campus, as well as in the 14 community colleges.

"I know that we have had some people take advantage of it for several years, but we have not had large numbers," Veazey said. "Usually, we have had adults taking courses that they wanted to take during their lives but couldn't take while working on other degrees."

Courses in art, literature, music and computer skills have been popular among the few Donovan Scholars, Veazey said.

"We want to try to get the word out that PCC welcomes Donovan Scholars and that we have courses that could suit their interests in life," she said.

Card of Thanks
But He knoweth the way that I take: when He hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold. (Job. 23:10)
Words cannot express our gratitude to all of you that came by to be with us, hold our hand, pray with us, cry with us, offer your homes to us to sleep in, clothe us, feed us, and offer words of comfort.
Although to many December 13, 1995 was just another day, that was the day we lost all of our material possessions, but it was also the day we found out how the love of Trigg County comes right to you. We can never replace all the hard work, memories, pictures, and our precious pet, Mercedes. But, by the grace of God we still have each other and many good friends.
This Christmas as we try to begin making new memories, we will know the true gift of love. We can never express our appreciation to all of you who gave of your hearts. We will always remember the true meaning of caring for one another through you - our friends.

BAKING SODA — My husband accidentally left a package of hot-dog buns on top of the toaster oven and then turned it on. Of course, when I discovered what had happened, I thought the oven was ruined. I used a wet cloth and baking soda and some elbow grease. Now it looks as good as new — no marring or scratching. Wanda G., Vero Beach, Fla.

CLEAN COUNTERTOPS — When doing large quantities of baking or cooking, I use an old tablecloth to cover my ceramic-tile kitchen counters. I place it under the mixer, bowls and ingredients, and when I'm finished, I just shake the tablecloth and wash it. Presto! I have nice, clean counters and very little to clean up. Lily W., Rural Hall, N.C.

JOT IT DOWN — Hang a small, decorative gift bag on the inside handle of your front door, or on the handle of a coat closet nearby.

Use the bag to keep a pad of self-stick notes and a pen to put notes on the door for deliveries, kids, etc. Pat L., Baltimore, Md.

BEDTIME TIMER — I set an oven timer to go off 15 minutes before the children's bedtime. When the kids hear the alarm, it reminds them that they have to finish whatever they're doing, get their water (they each have their own colored cup and toothbrush) and brush their teeth.

Then, 15 minutes later, when the timer goes off again, they troop off to bed, hear bedtime stories, then say their prayers with either their dad or me.

Guests are amazed to see them go so quietly and cheerfully! Emma N., Dale City, Va.

Q. Dear Rhonda: Is it true that my favorite performer, Doug Supernaw, is a professional golfer? Amy L., Orlando, Fla.

A. Amy, you're close! Doug began writing songs at the young age of 8. However, he opted for a scholarship at the University of St. Thomas because of his passion for golf. He tried out for a while for the pro-tour, but his drive for writing music changed his direction in life — and aren't we lucky for that?

Doug's new album, titled "You Still Got," is his best effort to date — BUY IT NOW!

FORT WORTH FOLLIES — Steve Sanders, who has been an Oak Ridge Boy for the past eight years, abruptly left the group just a short time before the gang was going to appear on stage in Fort Worth. However, the show DID GO ON. Apparently, according to my sources, Steve's absence was due to personal and legal problems with his ex-wife ... WHITE MAN'S BURDEN

There's no doubt about it. John Travolta is sizzling hot these days after his triumphant career resurrection in "Pulp Fiction." Given his choice of roles, it's easy to see that he's mostly making the right ones. This film, though, is an exception.

In this highly-original film, racial roles as we know them are reversed. The movie takes place in the Los Angeles of today. However, it is blacks who are in the majority and who hold all the power. Whites are in the minority and make up the underclass of society — the unemployed or underemployed, the disenfranchised, the poor, the menial laborers.

Travolta's character is a man named Louis, a hard-working factory employee living in a humble home in South Central L.A. with his wife and son. Struggling to meet the mortgage payments, Louis falls behind and is faced with eviction. His employer, the wealthy factory owner, Thaddeus, (Harry Belafonte) provides the counterpoint. He lives in posh Beverly Hills in a mansion, has a socially correct wife who is active in charity work (helping out poor white kids), and wants for nothing. What he doesn't know is that his son is dating a white girl. His wife worries about his reaction when he discovers what's going on.

Sent on an errand to the boss' house, Louis accidentally catches a glimpse of the boss' wife in her underwear. Thaddeus catches him and goes ballistic. All his racial hatred and stereotypical thinking bubble over. Lambasted by the boss, the supervisor who went Louis out on the errand summarily dismisses him.

Frustrated beyond belief, Louis goes back to the mansion and kidnaps Thaddeus. The remainder of the film focuses on the interaction between the two men as they drive around aimlessly.

The premise of this movie is unbeatable. However, despite the heroic struggle by both lead actors to make this work, it just doesn't quite get there. I think if the director, Desmond Nakano, had broadened his scope a bit, he would have come away with a more successful offering. As it is, what we have are two brilliant performers by actors who were not served well by the material. My rating: **

Soap Updates

ALL MY CHILDREN: Despite Mateo's attempts to reassure Hayley he doesn't care what his parents think of her, she told him their relationship was over. Upset about Michael's homosexuality, Hector and Isabelle talked to Palmer and Opal about removing him from the faculty. Claiming to love only Julia, Noah rejected Taylor's bid to run away with her. Jason tossed a mushy note to Dixie in the trash where Liza found it. Dr. Kinder comforted Erica after she got upsetting news from Dimitri. After Taylor gave Derek her version of events leading to Louie's death, he had Noah arrested as he and Julia were saying their I Dos. Wait To See: Janet reacts to Adam's play.

ANOTHER WORLD: Grant shocked Rachel with a comment about the night of Ryan's death. Although briefly reunited after delivering a baby, Gary refused to rekindle his romance with Josie. Andrew's rage seethed over Courtney and Morgan's friendship. Nick and Sofia grew closer. Later, Nick was surprised to see his old friend, Rafael. Sharlene ordered John to leave after he confessed his affair with Felicia. Rita was upset when John announced plans to reclaim his Chief of Staff position. Cecile fretted over Maggie's disappearance, while Maggie realized she'd been kidnapped. Wait To See: Carl's behavior takes another curious turn.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Jeremy revealed his scholarship for boarding school. Mark and Mike tried to share a peaceful Christmas together. Cal told Lily that Connor didn't want children. Emily foiled Kirk and Sam's honeymoon plans. Later, she blurted out to Jeff that Allison's her daughter, not her sister. Lucinda fumed over news that John and Lisa took Adam and Casey on a trip. Damian was confronted by more evidence of the Kingsley corruption. Connor and Mark were shaken by their New Year's kiss. Wait To See: Lily begins to worry about Damian.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Lauren told Eric, Stephanie and James she planned to buy a gun to protect her against Sheila. Sheila agreed to continue therapy with James as a condition of her parole. Rick turned down Ridge's bid to be his best man when he marries Brooke. Lauren modeled her sexy lingerie in an effort to seduce Ridge. Brooke agreed to have coffee with Sheila, who said memories of their friendship helped her survive prison. Wait To See: Eric's relationship with Taylor takes a surprising turn.

THE CITY: Cooper said goodbye to Steffi. Jocelyn was shaken by Malcolm's gift. After learning Tess hired Alex to investigate her, Sydney threatened to frame Tess for Gwyn's death. Richard told Nick about Sydney's stillborn baby. Tess later broke into Sydney's loft where she found Jared's urn, and overheard Sydney tell Nick the baby she lost was his. Angie told Frankie she planned to become Kayla's foster mother. Wait To See: Jocelyn faces a new threat from Malcolm.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Stefano realized John would always come between him and Marlena. Marlena heard Stefano unknowingly repeat a part of his past. Later, Stefano had a flashback to when the Lady in White refused his gift and love — and history began to repeat when Marlena rejected the identical gift. Sami fell ill, forcing Carrie and Austin to cancel their party. Wait To See: Stefano plans to get John out of the way.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Damian rented Dr. Dorman's lakehouse. Meanwhile, Mac and Katherine realized Kevin and Lucy were staying at the same Isla Patito resort. Sonny gave Stone's ashes to Robin. Keesha told Jason she'd kept A.J.'s drinking a secret. After Alan told A.J. to get drunk, or get out, he drove off furiously and crashed. Jason was severely injured. Ned told the police he was driving when the accident occurred. Sonny asked Rivera about the attack on Damian. Wait To See: Brenda makes a decision about Sonny.

GUIDING LIGHT: Blake warned Hart about Roger. Later, Hart invited Bridget to the New Year's Masquerade Ball. Josh got an order barring Reva from seeing Marah and Shayne. Roger was shaken when Hart said they could never be anything but enemies. Frank and Nell urged Levy to keep on Marian's case. Meanwhile, Marian (Brent) panicked when he heard Alan-Michael say Susan would soon come out of her coma and identify her assailant. Brent snuck into the Ball in disguise. Frank found a body near the docks. Wait To See: Reva makes an important decision.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Dylan warned Patrick to keep Marty away

David Forsyth,
"John,"
"Another World"

from Bass. However, at that moment, Marty was talking to Bass, but while she didn't reveal anything about the sheet music, she confirmed Quilligan was part of the Special Branch. Bo's doubts about Bass made him delay Patrick's extradition. Dorian gently told Joey their love was in the past. Patrick escaped and got Maggie to help him. Blair ran photos of Marty and Patrick in The Sun calling them killers. Cord and Tina were matched as computer mates. Wait To See: Bass maneuvers to kill Patrick.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Chris told Danny to stop trying to get her to change her mind about marrying Paul and marry him instead. Nikki learned Nick gave Sharon permission to visit him in jail. Overwrought by Blade's death and Rick's deception, Ashley decided to leave Genoa City and take a job in Paris. Malcolm was furious when Keesha told him of her affair with Nathan. Drake told Chris and Paul that Amy might have information about Matt's shooting. Anxious to know the truth, Amy agreed to go to Matt's apartment to help jog her memory. Meanwhile, Warton continued his threatening behavior with Nick. Wait To See: Amy faces an unexpected problem.

January 4, 1980, President Carter announced punitive measures against the U.S.S.R., including an embargo on the sale of grain and high technology, in retaliation for the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan ... January 5, 1987, President Reagan produced the country's first trillion-dollar budget ... January 6, 1989, the Labor Department reported that unemployment was 5.3 percent in December, 1988, the lowest since Nov. 1974.

Ask Your Doctor by Dr. E.R. Allen

Besides exercise, what are some guidelines for Weight Control?

Remember that a diet is not a temporary measure. The maintenance phase is lifelong. These tips will help you stay on track.

- * Set realistic goals. Determine your ideal weight by your age and body type - not some models.
- Resist fats and sweets. These are a diet's biggest enemies.
- Monitor what you eat. Keeping a food diary will help you spot problems.
- Plan meals. Spur of the moment splurges can derail anyone.
- Don't do it alone. Enlist help from family, friends or support groups.
- Tell loved ones not to tempt you with treats.

PACK-FUN Just Kidding

Kids in the KITCHEN

Chocolate Pizza

GET READY...

- 1 tube of chocolate or chocolate chip refrigerator cookie dough
- 1 tub of ready-made frosting (vanilla or chocolate)
- Assorted colorful chocolate candies, sprinkles, etc.

GET SET...

- Preheat oven to 350.° Have an adult help you with the oven so you don't get burned.

GO!

Take cookie dough from refrigerator. On a greased cookie sheet or metal pizza pan, press cookie dough out until it is about 1/4" thick. You can trim the edges so it is round, or make it any shape you like. Bake the big cookie for 12-15 minutes or until done. Let cool on a wire rack.

When the cookie is cool, spread a thin layer of frosting on top. Decorate it with assorted candies, sprinkles, etc.

Eat a slice with a big glass of milk!

Fun Fact

Poetry is a special kind of writing that uses words in a special way to help people think or feel. Some poems rhyme, but some do not—they have a beat.

Quiz

Who was Paul Revere?

Answer: Born on January first, Paul Revere was a silversmith in Boston before the Revolutionary War. His nighttime ride to alert colonial forces to arms was immortalized in a poem by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow called "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere."

With the start of the new year, it is good to look back and review where you have been and the growth each family member has achieved physically and emotionally over the past year. Make a big bowl of popcorn or prepare another favorite family treat. Set one night aside and watch old family movies or go back through the family photo albums and update those you have gotten behind on. Let family members take turns sharing memories as you review the photos. (It's amazing how many different memories accompany each photo!)

In our last adventure, the Winklesneezers moved to the north woods. In their new house they discovered steps that went "Squeak" and clocks that went "Squawk." They learned that Tom Tickle-Twister, who lived down the road, had built the house and filled it with surprises that had to do with the number eleven.

Wake up, Barry!" yelled Jack Bunny.

"We've been weft home awone!"

(Jack couldn't pronounce his Ls.)

"That's because everybody else went to town," Barry said with a yawn.

"Does that mean that we can do whatever we want today?" asked Jack.

"Andrew said to stay out of trouble!"

"Troub-o," said Jack. "How could we get into troub-o?"

They hopped out of bed, bounced down the stairs ("Squeak! Squeak!") and darted into the kitchen. "We'll make a proper breakfast," declared Barry. "I'll fry some eggs. You make the toast."

"I wike my eggs sunny-side up," smiled Jack.

"O.K.," replied Barry as he cracked open four eggs and dropped each one into the frying pan. "Jack, wouldn't you rather have scrambled eggs?" Barry muttered as he looked at the mess he had made. "I'll make some oatmeal, too," he said.

In a very short time, the oatmeal was boiling down the sides of the pot and all over the hot stove. The eggs had burned to the inside of the frying pan. The toast was stuck and smoke poured out of the toaster. Smoke filled the kitchen.

Suddenly, the smoke alarm went "Beep! Beep! Beep!"

Barry and Jack turned off the stove, unplugged the toaster and opened the windows. "I guess we're not very good cooks," Jack said as he poured some cold cereal into a bowl. "We'd better cwean up this mess!"

"Nah, we can do it later," replied Barry. "Let's go out and play!"

Out bounded bear and bunny. It was late morning, and the warm spring air felt so good after the long, cold winter. Barry and Jack had often played outside with Andrew and Mandy in the winter. They had zoomed down the sliding hill they called "The Mountain." They had spent hours in the playhouse . . . but they had always kept the Winklesneezers' house in sight.

"No one's around. Let's go exploring," Barry said bravely.

"I don't want to get wost," worried Jack.

"We'll keep our back to the sun. When it's time to return, we'll walk toward the sun," said Barry. "We won't be gone long."

"Well, O.K.," Jack agreed, "but I don't wike it very much."

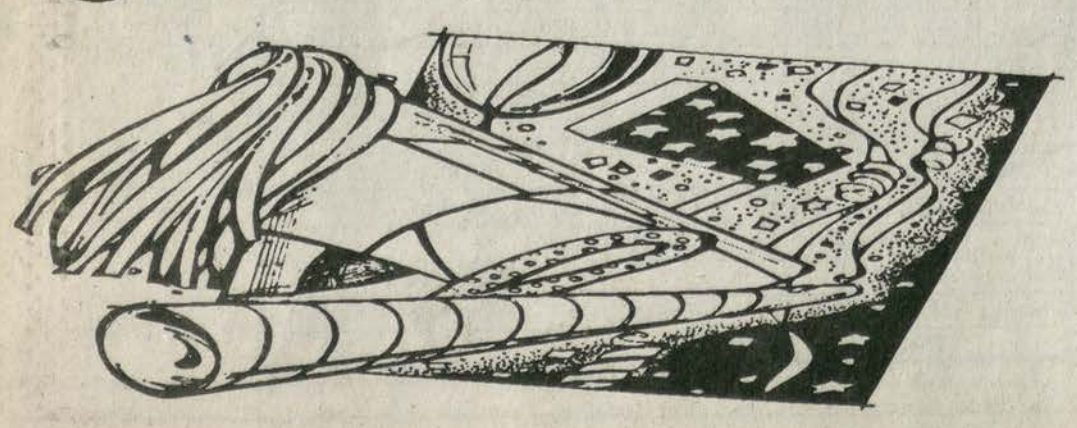

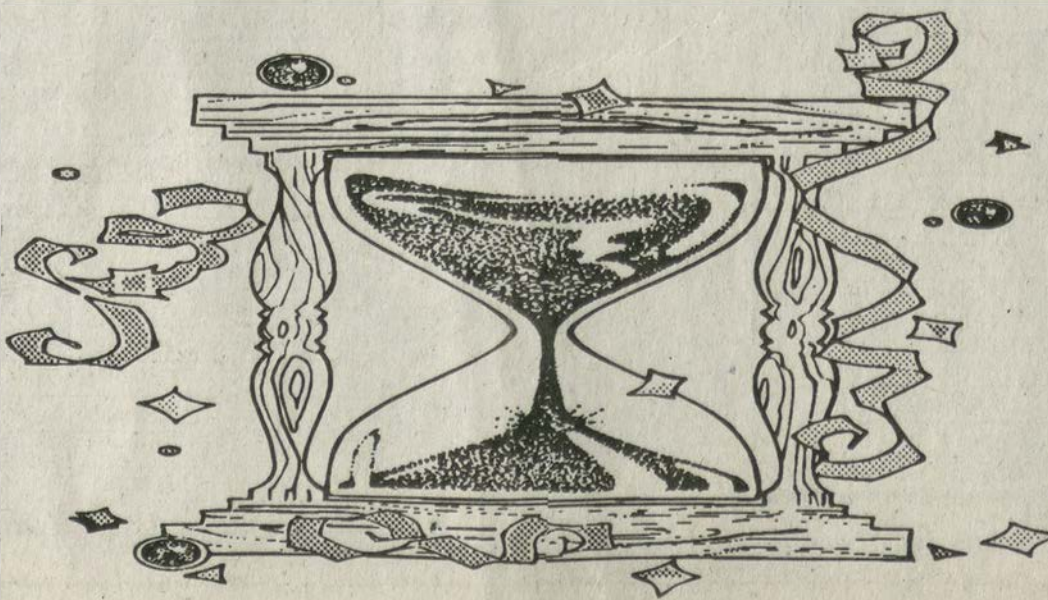

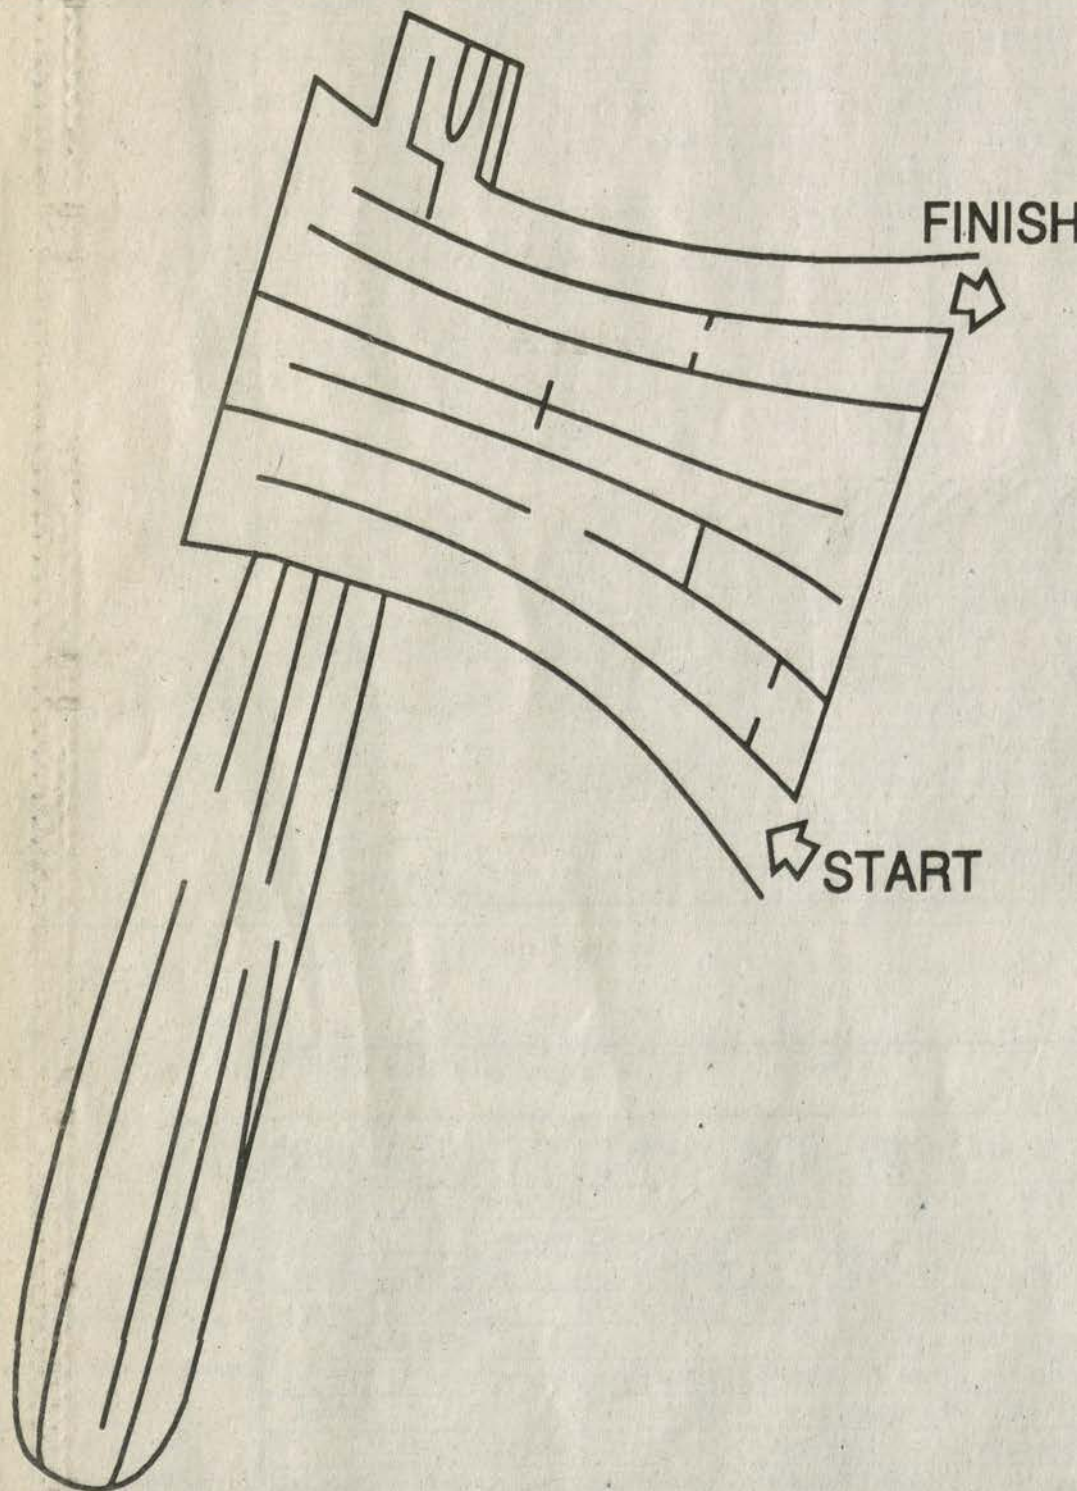

Barry and Jack headed away from the sun. As they went deeper into the woods, huge evergreen trees towered above them and blocked the sunlight.

"I think we should go back," Jack said nervously.

"A little farther!" exclaimed Barry.

They came to a stream that lazily flowed through the giant trees. Barry suddenly realized that the sun was covered by clouds. He no longer knew which way to go.

Losing weight and living longer.

The latest news on diet and exercise is this: If you are going to do one or the other, the best is diet. A new study by Dr. Leslie Katzel of the University of Maryland suggests that the healthiest exercise we can do is pushing away from the "dinner table." This will be easier now that we don't have to cope with Thanksgiving over-indulgence, Christmas dinners, fudgy snacks and other excesses. It was fun but broadening.

The U. M. study involved 111 sedentary, overweight men, ages 46 to 80. They were divided into three groups. One dieted, another exercised, and the third did neither.

The winners were the dieters. (They surely didn't expect any incredible results from the third group.) The dieters enjoyed an improvement of their measure of "good" cholesterol, a lowering of blood pressure and blood sugar readings. All of these significantly.

As good as is this news, researchers still believe that the heart smartest thing to do is both. A bulging belly blunts the good effects of exercise by affecting blood sugar and metabolism. So, you can do to increase your for your heart's sake, adopt a low-fat, smaller-portion habit of eating and then exercise for 20 minutes at least three times a week. The findings are that your days may be longer on the earth as well as healthier and happier.

Exercise is becoming easier in our modern day. Jean and I gave each other one of those new work-out gadgets for Christmas. It's designed to remove the flab around the middle as well as other places and it didn't cost an arm and a leg. The regimen is less boring than sit-ups and something I don't really mind doing three or four times a week and, what do you know... it's working, kinda.

There are other things you can do to increase your longevity. I remember reading about a secular study claiming that people with a regular prayer habit lived longer.

There's this about that!

"So, for your heart's sake, adopt a low-fat, smaller portion habit of eating and then exercise for 20 minutes at least three times a week. The findings are that your days may be longer on the earth as well as healthier and happier."

Prayer is only one good aspect of the Christian experience. Christians in public worship are benefited by association with other believers. The songs and sermons are helpful in reducing stress and improving attitudes.

No matter how healthy your lifestyle, or cholesterol, blood-pressure and sugar levels, the time comes for the final bell. We benefit by our Christian activity on the earth, but the icing on this cake is the retirement plan.

There is a wonderful world awaiting because "God so loved the world he gave his only begotten Son..." (John 3:16)

Dairy producers improve profit by cutting costs

The loss of more than half of Kentucky's dairy operations attributed in part to low profitability. In many cases, that low profitability was due to high costs, rather than lower production.

Many dairy producers can enhance their profit margins by cutting costs, while maintaining their current level of milk production," said Darwin Folly, extension agricultural economist with the university of Kentucky college of agriculture.

An economic study of 48 Kentucky dairies showed that during 1994 non-feed costs increased $77 per cow, although feed costs dropped by about $14 per animal, Folly said.

"The most profitable third of the dairies studied netted about $308 per cow in 1994, while the least profitable third of the 48 dairies lost $301 per animal. Of that difference between the best third and the least profitable third of dairies, some $312 of the difference was on the production side and $297 was on the cost side," Folly said.

Because dairy producers often have little control over milk price and more control over costs, they have a greater ability to improve profits by cutting costs, provided they don't sacrifice production, Folly said.

Even though the most profitable third had higher production per cow, they also had lower costs per cow.

"In short, they were producing more with less. And that means more profits," Folly said.

And while feed costs accounted for a significant expense for dairy producers, it was the difference in non-feed costs that made the greatest impact on profitability, he said.

"Producers who want maximize profits need to look for ways to cut expenses in their operation. Sometimes that means spending more at first to realize real savings later. Sometimes it means just paying greater attention to the business aspects of dairying," he said.

Producers can ask their county extension agent for management advice on how to cut costs, while not sacrificing production, Folly said.

Complete results of the study will be available from county extension agents in January.

All credit classes offered at PCC are available to Donovan Scholars. There are no restrictions on place of residence or previous educational experience, and there is no limit on the number of semesters a person may enroll.

Anyone interested in taking a course this fall through the Donovan Scholar program needs to sign up during spring registration beginning Jan. 6. Advisers will be available to help students select the classes they want to take.

For additional information, phone the college at 554-9200.

Taxes

vidual bonds is prohibitive, consider tax-free mutual funds or unit trusts.

Strategy 4: Consider Tax-Deferred Annuities

Like qualified retirement plans, annuities generate tax-deferred earnings, enabling your assets to grow much faster than if they were taxed every year. You pay taxes once you withdraw those earnings, usually after age 59-1/2. Unlike qualified plans, there's generally no limit on contributions.

There are basically two types of annuities, fixed and variable. Fixed annuities guarantee a set interest rate for a certain length of time. With the variable annuity, assets are invested in portfolios that you select, and the values of these portfolios change with market conditions, thereby creating a variable return.

Whichever strategy you decide to employ, confer with your tax adviser before taking any action. Also, don't make any moves for tax purposes alone. You should only implement a tax strategy if it complements your overall financial plan.

Getting a 'charge' out of your fence

Improved solid state technology and developments in wire for fences create new possibilities for animal and pasture management using intensive or controlled grazing.

The secret of the newer solid-state chargers is their ability to produce high voltage and amperage during extremely short bursts or pulses, said Larry W. Turner, Extension agricultural engineer with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"This high voltage and amperage is accompanied by low impedance (resistance, capacitance and inductance) in the unit," Turner said. "Older solid state energizers had a fairly high impedance which caused the 'on' time for the pulse charge to be at least about 1/1,000 of a second or longer.

The newer "New Zealand" type low-impedance chargers (introduced in the U.S. in the 80s) create pulses lasting only 1/10,000 of a second."

What does that mean for the farmer?

"These pulses, which are created at the rate of 45 to 65 per minute, give the effect of shocking the animals without emitting a dangerous level of average total amperage (current).

Turner pointed out that amperage, or current flow, is the real danger of electric shock, not voltage level. For example, humans can detect one milliamp of current; 10 milliamperes can cause severe muscular contractions and 100 milliamperes may cause third degree burns, heart stoppage or blockage of the respiratory center.

"While energizers often exceed those levels for short pulses," he said, "there is no danger unless the continuous average amperage is too high."

That's the big advantage for the New Zealand type energizers. They produce the shock necessary to contain the animals without developing the high continuous average amperage.

Farmers need to know that the longer the fence, the more power "bleed-off" they will get due to weeds and poor insulators. They need to get an energizer rated for the length of fence which influences resistance and bleed-off. Until the American Society of Agricultural Engineers develop a uniform rating system for fence energizers, farmers should look for a UL certified energizer with the low-impedance design.

"Consider the length of fence and weed growth when purchasing an energizer and be sure to allow for extra future capacity," Turner said. "Choose a knowledgeable supplier who will be available for service and questions after the sale."

He added, "Above all, do everything possible to have a safe installation, including proper grounding and the posting of warning signs."

Additional information about electric fence installation is available from the Cooperative Extension Farm Planning Service of UK's Department of Biosystems and Agricultural Engineering through the local county Extension office.
