A labor of love

This is the first in a two-part series on Tommy and Linda Winn, the love for God and each other and the product of that love.

ROBIN STEVENS

Editor

It was 1960. Tommy Winn sat next to his grandfather on the front pew of the church his grandparents built in Columbia, Tenn.

Without a word, his grandfather stood and walked to the casket at the front of the church. He took two roses from the arrangement on top of the casket.

He carefully placed one in Tommy's grandmother's right hand. He pressed the other between the pages of his Bible.

"Daddy Mack," Tommy said, "watcha gonna' do with that rose?"

"Scamp, when I get to heaven, I'm gonna' give that rose to your grandma."

Time passed and the rose was forgotten. Years later, after Tommy's grandfather went on to be with the Lord and his wife, Tommy inherited the family Bible.

It was then that Tommy found that same rose still pressed between its pages.

That inspired him to write a song, "I Found a Rose in Grampa's Bible."

Nine years later, Tommy and his wife Linda of Cadiz have recorded that song as the title track on their first album.

The country gospel album includes 12 original songs. They both describe the album as a dream come true.

Linda began singing on stage before she was three years old. At three, she stood in a chair to sing back-up for her brother, Waymon Dunning.

Tommy had a similar musical background. His mother is musically inclined and still sings with the couple on occasion. His grandmother was also a musician and was very influential in Tommy's life.

Tracy Lawrence coming to Cadiz

Athletic director announced concert will be Nov. 23. A limited number of tickets will be available.

DAVID B. SNOW

Staff Writer

It's set. Country music star Tracy Lawrence is coming to Cadiz Nov. 23.

Trigg County Schools athletic director Taylor Sparks and Trigg County Farmers Bank president Ben Cundiff told the Trigg County Board of Education at its Aug. 5 meeting that the agreement had been made for the singer to perform at Wildcat Gym the Saturday before Thanksgiving.

"The concert itself is a go," Sparks told the board.

The fire marshal ruled that the gymnasium could not hold the 3,400 hoped for by Sparks, so the crowd will be limited to the gym's 2,800 capacity.

Because of the resulting loss from those 600 tickets, the cost to see Lawrence will be $25 each.

"We're going to offer Trigg County Farmers Bank employees and (school) staff a chance to purchase the tickets first," Sparks said, "then they will go on sale to the general public on Aug. 22."

Tickets will be available to students, bank employees and school staff on Aug. 19.

Cundiff said the bank has set up a toll-free number for ticket requests, 1-800-795-2563. He requests that the number be used only after Aug. 22 since it is the banks business number.

Sparks said that they found that they were entitled to 15 percent of the merchandise profits instead of the 10 percent they had been told earlier.

The surprises didn't end there. Sparks told the board that local entertainer Becky Freeman would open the concert. Freeman has opened for Eddie Rabbitt.

"We want to do something that will be looked on with pride and something we can do year after year," Sparks said.

The board acknowledged the following actions made by Superintendent Jim Wallace:

Accepted the resignations of Gail Lock as middle school guidance counselor, Angela Thomas as middle school teacher, Kathy Cummins as high school teacher, Lori Harper as middle school teacher and Sharon Oliver as school bus driver and instructional assistant.

Approved the employment of Scott Sivills as middle school

TCH Board agrees to sign orthopedic group

The Trigg County Hospital's Board of Trustees called their monthly meeting to order on Aug. 5 at 7 p.m.

After making an introduction and voting to approve last meeting's minutes, Danny Watters gave a very thorough financial report. Total patient revenue is down by 9 percent from what was budgeted for June, but down only 1 percent from the year-to-date's budget. Due to careful management and cutting of costs, the hospital was able to earn 365 percent more than they were anticipating for June.

After some debate, the hospital's annual meeting was agreed to be moved to the second Monday of September, instead of the first. The committee also discussed the signing of an orthopedic group contract.

Rick Chapman gave an administrator's report. Some highlights of his report include the moving in of Mariner Physical Therapy to the hospital, Dr. Anderson's moving to another office, the purchasing of a new portable x-ray on trial free for 30 days. He also mentioned the possibility of getting Trigg County an echocardiogram program. After a surprise state inspection on the hospital laboratory, the hospital passed, also scoring a 98 on its dietary inspection.

Other topics of discussion included the provider panel for Trigg county businesses' health plans; a medical report from Dr. Pavon; a report from Murray-Calloway County Hospital administrator, Stuart Poston; and a report from the hospital attorney, James Miller.

A final discussion pertained to the problems of obesity and diabetes, a tentative decision (with-

Canadian star to headline at Ham Festival

ROBIN STEVENS

Editor

People come to the Trigg County Country Ham Festival for as many reasons as there are things to do. There's great food, handmade crafts, contests, carnival rides and quality entertainment.

Entertainment is why Patricia Conroy will be coming to this year's festival.

Conroy, a native of Montreal, has been popular in Canada since 1990. Her first album was Blue Angel, for Warner Music Canada. Two years after her debut, she released Bad Day for Trains, which featured two number one hits, "What Do You Care" and the title track, as well as a Canadian top 10 hit "My Baby Loves Me."

In 1994, she was named the Canadian Country Music Association's "Female Vocalist of the Year."

Conroy's music has an interesting variety of influence,

"I consider my early years singing with my family, my church and singing a cappella as the time when I really got to know my voice."
— Patricia Conroy

including the French culture of her native Quebec as well as her Irish heritage, which is still evident in her accent. Fond memories include the Celtic music with which she was raised.

"I consider my early years singing with my family, my church and singing a cappella as the time when I really got to know my voice," she said.

It was during those years that she took piano lessons and vocal training. She also discovered the music of Emmy Lou Harris.

Making a newspaper 'Ben' Franklin style

A group of people were seeking information about the first days of The Cadiz Record and what came before it. I volunteered that The Kentucky Telephone was here until it burned and was replaced under the current name by new owners.

Just the other day

by Billy Rawls

My mind then burdened me with the unbelievable changes that have occurred since those days. They are so numerous that I 'da'st' not enumerate them. Shall we leave it be with the assumption that the first Cadiz paper was, likely, a 'two-pager' which was printed on one side and then the other—"Ben" Franklin style—back when stepping stones spanned Main Street.

My wife, Charline, has a letter, somewhere, which tells of a new press being delivered to The Cadiz Record. Both of us have worked with it. That dude could print four pages on one side and then the other—each sheet was hand-fed, just as the folder was. The folder could fold the eight pages into a section—to be augmented by other sections, if the Lawrence boys could find news to fill them.

Things are a mite different today—if we think in terms of "old Ben" hooking up God's lightning to his press and throwing the switch. 'Press the button Ben!' In nothing flat, a heap of work would be done.

Just the other day, 'me'an' Charline got a newer car. Since then, we've been driven crazy testing the works of button-gadgets. Should we retire to the car's bedroom or check the calendar that greets us with its specified morning or night salutation?

Here is where my proposed subject for last week's column comes in—i.e. "Hold My Hand. I'm a Stranger in Paradise." It is a paradise where old folks feel stymied by progress, and the young marvel at the power they can hold in one hand or their head. Somewhere I heard or read that there is a possibility of computers being hooked on-line with the human brain to enhance its or their combined knowledge. I only pray for divine power to be in control of the buttons.

It was a Sunday or so ago that our S.S. class got briefly on the subject of wishing. I told that me'an Charley Hooks 'useta' wish we had someone's car, and he had a wart. Then I commented that, for all we knew, that car owner may have already had a wart. Who knows? Maybe he was like King Midas or Rumpelstiltskin with a hankering for warts or gold.

Do you remember the big thick catalogues children once scanned to dream of things they might be able to have when they grew up? I could spend hours wishing I had all of the finest things. Today, every thing that has ever been dreamed of is shown on TV all day and all night—forever. Can there be any wonder that so many children feel deprived in our paradise?

PERSPECTIVE

Human nature rears its ugly head

Did you make a trip to Atlanta for the '96 Summer Games? If so, we'd like to know about it. Call or write us about your experience.

There's something about the Olympics that make me wish I'd been an athlete. The spirit of the games. The thrill of competition. Maybe it's just the gold they give away.

Whatever it is, I'm always excited about the Olympics. Once upon a time, my favorite sport was gymnastics. Then diving joined the fun. One by one I've added more and more Olympic sports to my list of favorites until I can honestly say I can't think of a sport I don't like — at least for 17 days.

Actually, that's probably why I like the Olympics so much. It only happens every four years, and then it only lasts for two and a half weeks.

Thanks to our VCR, I watched quite a few of the most memorable moments of the Atlanta games. Who will ever forget the moment when Kerri Strug landed the very last vault of the team competition on a sprained ankle to win the gold?

And what about the American heavy-weight Greco-Roman wrestler who won the silver medal but cried when he saw his flag from the medal stand because he didn't hear his national anthem?

And then there was the way Amy Van Dyken reacted when she realized she had won yet another gold medal, the one that made her the owner of the most golds won by a woman in a single Olympics.

There are so many things that come to mind, those moments that make each Olympic competition unique. I guess it's the human interest that really captures my interest.

Unfortunately human nature isn't far beneath the surface in a competition which forces so many emotions out into the open.

The bomb that exploded in Centennial Park during the Olympics symbolizes the dark side of human nature.

There's greed, hate, prejudice, all of the things that make so many people what they really are. All of those emotions are too easy to feel, too easy to act upon.

Some of those emotions were expressed by some of our own athletes on a smaller scale.

One of the few moments during the Olympics I missed was the gold medal game of the men's basketball team, the Dream Team.

Before the games began, they boasted of winning every game by more than 50 points.

They didn't win a single game by that many. Not that I wanted them to. There's nothing exciting about watching a competition in which one team is blown away by the other. As a matter of fact, there is no competition.

The only time the basketball games were the least bit interesting was when the American team was in danger of losing.

The Americans brought home the gold, but in doing so, their attitudes during the games were embarrassing. I watched Shaquille O'Neal elbow an opposing player in the face, an obvious foul missed by the officials. The elbow wasn't necessary. The Americans were even winning at the time.

As an American on American soil, O'Neal should have been a better sport. He should have acted the part of host to those other teams instead of playing dirty. It doesn't matter if that's how he always plays. Maybe it's time he grew up.

Now that the American Dream Team has won the gold, have you heard their latest complaint? NBC didn't air enough of their games. These men who make millions and millions of dollars each year, have their faces plastered all over our billboards, televisions, magazines, cereal boxes and clothing all year long are whining because some other sport beat them out for air time.

It's not enough that they won a gold medal for their country.

It's not about that anymore.

I guess that's just human nature.

A spit in time saves lives

Dave's World

by Dave Barry

© The Miami Herald

Some people - and when I say "some people," I mean "women" - complain that guys spit too much. A guy will be in a public place such as a city street or baseball game or wedding reception, and he'll suddenly rear back and launch what the medical profession refers to as a "loogie," and some people will say: "EWWWW! Gross!"

Well, perhaps "some people" would sing a different tune if they were aware of an incident reported under a banner headline in the May 11, 1996, issue of the Jackson (Miss.) Clarion-Ledger. As you may recall, the Clarion-Ledger is the same newspaper that broke the story about the consumer menace posed by the Rollerblade Barbie doll. This is a Barbie model no longer manufactured by the Mattel Corp. that has little pink booties with flint wheels, which spark when they roll. Scientific experiments conducted in my driveway have shown that if you inadvertently spray hair spray on a pair of underpants, then inadvertently roll Rollerblade Barbie over them, her bootie sparks will ignite the hair spray, and the underpants will catch on fire. So you should never do this without a good reason.

Anyway, this recent Clarion-Ledger story, which was sent in by alert reader Lee Miller and which I swear I am not making up, states that on the night of May 2, Elizabeth Mayes and her six children went to bed "while the TV show 'Baywatch' was airing." Several hours later, Mayes' neighbor, Ernest "Bud" Thompson, woke up. The reason he woke up, he later told Mayes, was that - note this quotation carefully - "something told him to go outside and spit."

Many individuals would not have heeded that "something." Many individuals would have said, "I'm tired! I'll spit in the morning." Fortunately, Ernest "Bud" Thompson is not many individuals. He went outside, and, while spitting, he noticed that Mayes' house was burning. (For the record, this fire turned out to be electrical; it was not Barbie-related.) Thompson ran over, kicked open the front door, and awakened Mayes and her six children, all of whom escaped unharmed.

What conclusions should we draw from this incident? The obvious one, of course, is that "Baywatch" causes electrical fires. But we can also conclude that spitting saves lives. As Elizabeth Mayes told the Clarion-Ledger: "Every time I come to this house, I think about what could have happened if he had not come outside to spit."

I hope "some people" are paying attention. I hope "some people" are waking up to the possibility that when guys engage in allegedly gross or pointless behavior spitting, burping, rooting around in their private regions as though they have misplaced their car keys in there, etc. - these guys may actually be obeying a crucial survival instinct that places them in a position to notice stuff that could benefit humanity in general.

Let me give you a hypothetical situation. Suppose there had been a guy on board the fateful maiden voyage of the Titanic. And suppose that, on the fateful night of April 14, 1912, just before the fateful time of 11:40 p.m., "something" had told this guy to go out on deck to spit. And suppose that, while spitting, he happened to peer into the fog-filled night, and suddenly - in a shocking moment of soul-freezing horror he realized that it would be a bad idea to put sparking booties on a doll. That guy, if he had survived the ship's sinking and gone on to become an executive of the Mattel Corp., could very well have prevented a potentially dangerous toy concept from being marketed!

Yes, that is the kind of potential benefit that humanity receives every day, thanks to guys. And what do guys get in return? I'll tell you what they get: a buttocks wound. I refer here to a news item from The Richmond Times-Dispatch, alertly sent in by Carol Hollenbeck, concerning a South Richmond man who was wounded in his buttocks when somebody threw a pair of scissors at him. The police report states that "his attacker was someone he knew who was angry over the constant changing of the TV channels." We need not be nuclear physicists to figure out that the "someone" who threw the scissors is a woman. Women constantly complain about guys changing channels, as though guys do this for no reason. In fact, a guy clicking a remote control is obeying an ancient "hunter-gatherer" instinct - an instinct that has compelled guys ever since the Stone Age to keep searching, searching, searching, in a ceaseless quest to benefit the tribal unit by locating a mastodon, which could be used for food, or by monitoring the show "Baywatch," which causes electrical fires.

Fine, women. Go ahead and criticize us guys. Go ahead and use the scissors of your sarcasm to stab us in the tender buttocks of our self-esteem. We'll keep protecting you anyway, staying true to our instincts, remaining ever vigilant and strong, always on alert, always ready at a moment's notice to drop everything and ... Excuse me.

Dispatchers do the best they can

To the Editor:
I would like to respond to the statement of last week in reference to dispatchers not getting calls to the correct people.

I have a great group of dispatchers who are very professional and dependable. I can assure you every call is given to the appropriate department in a timely manner.

We do prioritize, and the most serious calls are dispatched first. Sometimes we get three or four calls at the same time that may cause a delay in responding to the least emergency calls. However, all calls do get answered, but maybe not as fast as one would like. This cannot be helped. The officer can only be in one place at a time. It is not the fault of the dispatcher, nor is it the fault of the officer. It is a manpower shortage for the amount of calls we receive.

I can assure you I have the upmost faith in my dispatchers to follow procedure to the letter. They have a stressful, low paying job to do, with very little praise. I am very proud of them all.

We keep a written log and all calls are recorded. If you have a legitimate complaint, bring a written statement with date and time the call was made with no response, to me at the dispatch office, and I assure you it will be investigated.

Sincerely,
Virginia DeWeese

Stop logging on public lands; protect the land and the wildlife

To the Editor:
Now is the time for the majority of people (74.2 percent) that oppose logging on public lands to use their democratic right to express their ideas for the new Forest Plan for the Daniel Boone National Forest.

All destructive forces need to be stopped on the Daniel Boone. In addition to logging, there is road building, ORV use, mining, oil drilling and the use of chemicals, such as herbicides. Mismanagement of the Daniel Boone has caused the near extinction of the red-cockaded woodpecker and the decline of songbirds, bats and other species as well as the destruction of watershed, erosion, siltation of water, compaction of soil and fragmentation of the forest.

Let's turn the Daniel Boone National Forest back to God's natural plan as a place for recreation and education, and then it will be economically much more feasible, also. Act now while we have the chance. Please write to the U.S. Forest Service, 1700 Bypass Road, Winchester, Ky. 40391, Attn: Forest Plan

Sincerely,
Barbara H. Warner

Culture of death: Is this the birth of a Godless America

To the Editor:
I believe America is crucifying itself upon a cross of secular amorality that has become increasingly hostile to religious morality. I know of no other way to explain, among other behaviors, the pro-abortion movement where the lives of 1.5 million unborn babies are destroyed each year

The rationale to legalize abortion appeared to have modest and well-intentioned beginnings. Today, it has degenerated into abortion on demand and the odious practice of late-term partial birth abortions.

And, now, euthanasia! The rationale for doctors assisting suicide appears to be humane. It claims to end the pain and suffering of our terminally ill. Not surprisingly, an overwhelming number of Americans support humane assisted suicide. But just like Pandora's Abortion Box, there exists a body of evidence to suggest euthanasia will also reach far beyond its original intent.

In her article, "Culture of Death," a phrase coined by Pope John Paul II, Linda Chavez describes the practice of euthanasia that is endorsed in the Netherlands.

After 25 years of experience, a Dutch commission conducted a survey which found that 11,800 patients were euthanized in 1990 of which 5,941 of these were performed without the patient's consent.

The survey found that 65% of Dutch doctors believe that physicians may propose active euthanasia to patients who do not ask for it.

And hear this! It also found the Dutch didn't start out to practice euthanasia so widely. Sound familiar?

Crucified: Is America nailed to a cross

physician wrote in the journal "Issues in Law and Medicine," "Euthanasia is not just changing medicine; it is replacing medicine."

As a corollary to Dr. Fenigsen's observation, abortion is not just changing a would-be mother's lifestyle, it is replacing life with death.

Linda Chavez writes that the Dutch experience with euthanasia could easily repeat itself here in America.

I agree; so I ask, "How firmly is America nailed to the cross of secular amorality, and is our "Culture of Death" heralding the death of our culture and the birth of a godless American?" I wonder.

Sincerely,
Ed Svestka

LOCAL

Road name changes will take effect soon

ROBIN STEVENS
Editor

It's official. Following months of controversy, confusion and waiting, some of Trigg County's road names will finally be changed.

The changes have been necessary to implement the E-911 system in the county. 911 coordinator Kathy DeCoursey has been working with local officials and post office personnel for months to make as few changes as possible.

The final step in making the changes will not come for another week when residents are notified to begin using new addresses, but a major hurdle has been passed.

According to DeCoursey, she has finally heard from Jeff Jackson at the U.S. Post Office in Evansville, Ind.

"He has gone over the data I sent him," she said. "Now he's sent that to the individual post offices which will be affected for further varification."

Six post offices will have to make changes, including Eddyville, Princeton, Hopkinsville, Gracey, Cerulean and Cadiz.

After those post offices have varified the changes, individual residents will begin receiving notification of their address changes.

"We will use several forms of notification — postcards, door

"I've got 800 postcards," DeCoursey said. "My parents helped me put stamps on them. Now I've started addressing them."

notification, the newspaper and radio," DeCoursey said. "We are planning to mail postcards on Aug. 15."

Upon notification residents should begin using their new addresses immediately. Residents are responsible for notifying others of the change.

DeCoursey said the postal service will also be sending a letter to notify residents of changes.

"We want to be sure everyone is notified," she said. She also pointed out that the post office is no longer in the addressing business.

Anyone needing a change of address should see DeCoursey in her office on the third floor of the courthouse. Anyone with questions or problems with a new address should contact DeCoursey at 522-7445 or see her at the courthouse.

See next week's paper for a complete list of affected roads.

Fiscal Court approves separate bids in special session on Aug. 1

DAVID B. SNOW
Staff Writer

The Trigg County Fiscal Court met in special session on Aug. 1 at the Trigg County Courthouse to approve the bid of a hauling truck and adding dirt to the county landfill.

The board approved the bid of $29,810 for a 1996 GMC truck from Volunteer Truck Equipment.

The court voted for that truck over a 1997 Ford priced $2,200 lower because of the GMC truck's availability and sturdier frame.

"The court decided that in this business, we needed a heavier frame," said Trigg County Judge Executive Berlin Moore. "We're replacing a truck we declared surplus, worn out.

"The court decided two years ago to try to buy one truck a year to keep a safe fleet of vehicles. Some were 20 years old at the time, and we felt like we needed a little safer vehicle."

The board also approved the bid of $2.25 per yard from Burks Land Improvement for removal of dirt from one part of the landfill to an area needing more dirt. Ronnie Henry Custom Dozer also bid on the project at a cost of $2.44 per cubic yard.

"We have to have so much dirt to cover our garbage," said Moore. "Once this is done, we will approve closure on the fill."

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Trigg County Fiscal Court is Aug. 20.

Seatbelts save passengers from injury in minor accidents

A two-car accident that involved a third car took place on Ky. Highway 272 at Dyers Hill Road on Aug. 3, sending two people to Trigg County Hospital, where they were treated and released.

At 3:43 p.m., Clayton E. Flood, 66, of Oak Grove Road in Cadiz was driving his 1987 Ford pickup truck westbound on Ky. 272 and had stopped to turn left onto Dyers Hill Road when he was struck from behind by a 1989 Toyota GT driven by Jamie L. Fuller, 19, of Will Jackson Road in Cadiz.

Fuller told investigating officer Lance Holeman of the Trigg County Sheriff's Department that she looked down to turn her air conditioner down and only saw Flood's car when she looked back up.

The impact of the accident sent

Flood's vehicle into the east-bound lane, where he narrowly missed the 1984 Chevrolet Caprice driven by Joseph E. White, 28, of Rocky Ridge Road in Cadiz. White swerved to avoid Flood's vehicle and went off the roadway into a ditch. White's wife and son were in the car with him at the time of the accident.

Fuller complained of a head injury and Flood complained of an arm injury. Both were treated at Trigg County Hospital and released. All drivers and passengers were wearing seat belts.

Severe damage was caused to the front of Fuller's vehicle and to the rear of Flood's vehicle. Moderate damage was caused to the right side of White's vehicle.

Other Trigg County accidents reported last week include:

•On Aug. 1 at 7:20 a.m.,

Kermit R. Burke, 61, of Cunningham Lane in Cadiz was driving a 1986 International truck for Noel Concrete northbound on Ky. Highway 124 in a heavy fog when he went to turn left onto Ky. Highway 276 five miles north of Cadiz.

He did not see the 1993 Toyota Corolla driven by Tammy S. Workman, 33, of Cerulean-Sinking Fork Road in Cerulean, who was southbound on Ky. 124, because of the fog. Burke swerved to avoid an accident, but could not avoid contact, hitting her left, front side.

Severe damage was caused to the left front portion of Workman's vehicle, while minor damage was caused to the left front of the truck. Workman complained of an injury to her arm, but Burke and a 3-year-old passenger in Workman's car were uninjured. Burke was not wearing a seat belt, but Workman and her passenger were.

The accident was investigated by Trigg County Sheriff Randy Clark.

•On Aug. 2 at 7 a.m., James C. Lancaster, 17, of Cadiz Road in Bumpus Mills, Tenn., was driving his 1996 Chevrolet Camry northbound on Ky. Highway 139 11 miles south of Cadiz when he met a white pickup truck on his side of the roadway, running him off the road and into a concrete culvert.

Severe damage was caused to the right front portion of Lancaster's car. Lancaster was uninjured.

He had been wearing his seat belt. The accident was investigated by Trigg County Sheriff Randy Clark.

POLICE BEAT

A Cadiz woman was arrested on charges of unlawful transaction with a minor (third degree) and disorderly conduct following an apparent party at her Barkley Lodge Apartments residence.

Donna F. Palmer, 28, was arrested on Aug. 2 at 1:30 a.m. by Cadiz Police Officer John P. Moore after complaints were made about loud music and juveniles drinking at her building.

Moore was checking the apartment complex when he saw five males run to Palmer's building. According to the arrest report, he also noticed 20 to 30 other people at another building on the stairwell and in the hallway.

He talked to the people at the other building, and they told him that there was a party at one of the apartments in Palmer's building and that there had been a fight earlier that night.

As Moore walked toward Palmer's building, he saw two of the males he saw running earlier hiding in the bushes and behind a wall. He chased them around the building and saw them run into Palmer's apartment.

According to the report, Moore had to knock on the door with his flashlight because of the loudness of the music. A juvenile answered the door. Moore asked the juvenile where the two males went and said that he needed to talk to an adult. The juvenile went to the back bedroom followed by Moore, and found the two males hiding.

Moore talked to the two males and then to Palmer about drinking with juveniles and having loud music. Palmer said no one had been drinking except her.

According to the arrest report, both males and the juvenile who answered the door smelled strongly of alcohol. Both males were given a sobriety test, failed and were placed in the police car.

When Moore returned to the apartment, he talked to the juvenile and asked to get the rest of the people out of hiding.

Palmer was in the bathroom and told Moore through the door that she was taking a shower and could not come out. Moore then explained to Palmer about the violations she was committing, and Palmer opened the door, saying there was no one else in the apartment.

The juvenile asked Palmer to tell Moore where the others were, and Palmer pointed to the shower.

Moore pulled the curtain back and found two males hiding in the shower and another in another bedroom. He recognized them as some of the males who had run when he arrived at the apartment complex. All five were given sobriety tests and three failed. Two juveniles and one adult were arrested for alcohol intoxication (first offense).

Moore called in Officer Chris Cox. When Cox arrived, Moore talked to the two juveniles, who signed statements that Palmer had given them all beer in her apartment.

Palmer was arrested and transported to the Christian County Jail. The juveniles were released to their parents. The adult was lodged in the Trigg County Jail.

Other arrests made last week by City of Cadiz and Trigg County officers included:

•Michael J. Incata, 19, of Marietta Drive in Hopkinsville was arrested by CPD Officer Richard Martin on Aug. 4 at 7:52

p.m. on the charges of speeding and operating a vehicle on a suspended license. The arrest took place on U.S. Highway 68 in front of Johnson Controls. According to the arrest report, Incata was clocked at 73 miles per hour in the 55-mph zone.

•Kevin T. Washer, 39, of 124th Avenue in Kirkland, Wash., was arrested by CPD Officer John P. Moore on Aug. 3 at 12:52 a.m. on the charge of driving under the influence (first offense). The arrest took place at the intersection of Ky. Highway 124 and West End Road, where the Cadiz Police Department was doing a checkpoint for license, insurance and registration when Washer drove past the first officer and stopped at the second officer. An intoxilizer test returned a breath alcohol level of 0.096 grams.

Free concert to be at Ham Festival

 "Emmy Lou was the first country artist that could rock yet bear sincerity and soul in her music," Conroy said of her biggest musical inspiration.

With this realization, Conroy joined her first band as a background singer. The group, Homemade Stew, was a country bluegrass band. In 1985, she left the group to form her own band to make her dreams of being a lead singer a reality.

"It was my destiny," she said. "I felt I had a gift and I wanted to share it."

Conroy will perform a free concert during the Ham Festival on Saturday, Oct. 12, at 6 p.m. in front of the Trigg County Courthouse.

Sponsored by Coca-Cola, WKDZ and Minute Mart.

Understanding the court's jury system

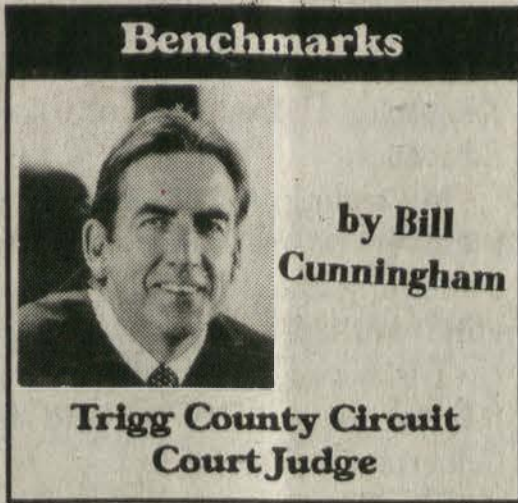

My friend in Trigg County, Murrell Trimble has asked me to address the jury system. More especially, he is interested in knowing whether a jury can be composed of less than twelve people and whether a decision in a criminal case can be less than a unanimous verdict.

There has been much sentiment in recent years that the jury system has become so cumbersome and expensive that it is no longer workable. Some people argue that if we reduce the number of people required for a jury, we would not only make it less expensive, but we would make it more efficient.

First of all, both the United States Constitution and the Kentucky Constitution assure the right to a trial by jury of one's peers. The Kentucky Constitution states, "The ancient mode of trial by jury shall be held sacred, and the right thereof remain inviolate, subject to such modifications as may be authorized by this Constitution."

In Kentucky, the law designates a twelve person jury in all cases tried in Circuit Court. However, in District Court—where misdemeanor crimes and civil cases under $4,000 are tried—six member juries are authorized. Even in Circuit Court, a six member jury is allowed if all sides and the court agree.

Who says the magic number is twelve or six? Basically, the legislature does. There is nothing in the United States Constitution nor the Kentucky Constitution that requires a twelve person jury or any number jury, as far as that goes. However, the United States Supreme Court has held that a jury of less than six persons basically deprives the accused the right of a trial guaranteed by the Sixth and Fourteenth Amendment. The court said that the Sixth Amendment mandated a jury of sufficient size to "promote group deliberation, to insulate members from outside intimidation, and to provide a representative cross section of the community." Therefore, it would seem that states can establish any number they prefer for the makeup of juries as long as it does not go to less than six.

Benchmarks

Trigg County Circuit Court Judge

What about the number of jurors required to convict in a criminal case?

Kentucky, as does most all states, requires by statute a unanimous verdict—all twelve members on felony cases and all six members in misdemeanor cases—in order to convict in criminal cases. Interestingly enough, the Supreme Court of the United States in 1972 stated that the Sixth Amendment right to a jury trial did not require a unanimous verdict. This in spite of the fact that when the Sixth Amendment was first introduced in the United States Senate by James Madison, it included the term "impartial jury of freeholders of the vicinage, with the requisite of unanimity for conviction."

Significantly however, the unanimous part was deleted and did not become a part of the Sixth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution.

However, the Supreme Court has said that where there is a six member jury, there must be a unanimous verdict.

In summary, in Kentucky, there must be a unanimous verdict in all criminal cases. However, there is nothing in our Federal or State Constitution that would prohibit Kentucky from changing the law in this regard. While the law can be changed to require less than twelve jurors in criminal cases, there cannot be less than six. Also, verdicts would not have to be unanimous as long as there were seven or more jurors. If there were only six jurors, the verdict would have to be unanimous.

There is very little interest at this time in changing either the composition of juries in Kentucky nor the voting requirement.

Mr. Trimble has passed away since this column was written. Judge Cunningham wishes to dedicate this column to his memory and his family.

BONNIE THOMAS

Staff Writer

This week's poems for Poetry Moments have been contributed by Dr. Clyde Flanigan. Dr. Flanigan, who has his Ph.D in microbiology with minors in chemistry and pathology, retired last year as head of the lab at Jennie Stuart Medical Center. His retirement comes after 27 years on the job.

He began writing poetry for his wife when they were first married. As his family grew, so did his poetry collection.

He wrote "Vagabond Soul" for his grandson to try to encourage him to develop an interest in reading. Dr Flanigan says he feels it has helped.

Dr. Flanigan has written over 200 poems which he plans to put into a book of poetry. He already has an interested publisher. Here are a few samples of his poetry.

Instead of Seventy

Some great birthdays with chagrin,
But I've figured out a way to win-
B'lieve I'll just be sixty nine again!
It feels so good, this way to celebrate,
(psychologically, at any rate)
Next year, I plan to be just sixty eight.
Then I'm heading toward sixty seven-
The feelin's just like heaven!
Now it's on to sixty six-
Ain't this the kicks?
And that day will finally arrive
When I'll be sixty five,
T'would be nice to be as I was before
I'll see when I get to sixty four!
As this continues though, I must beware or the arm of the law will come to bear-
Oh my God-there goes my medicare.

Audit report released for '94 tax settlement

State Auditor Ed Hatchett has released his audit of the 1994 tax settlement of the Trigg Sheriff. As Auditor of Public Accounts, Hatchett is responsible for auditing the accounts and financial transactions of Kentucky's county governments and state agencies. State law requires annual audits of sheriffs' tax settlements.

The sheriff is responsible for collecting taxes related to real estate, personal property, bank stock, fire protection and public service corporation property on behalf of the state, county, schools and special taxing districts.

The audit found that the sheriff's financial statements fairly present the taxes charged, credited and paid in conformity with the prescribed cash basis of accounting. The report further states that the Sheriff's financial statements, with respect to the items tested, comply with applicable laws and regulations. It also contains a comment concerning the need for adequate segregation of duties.

Segregation of duties is necessary to ensure proper security in the receipt and disbursement of official funds.

Mathis, Carr on election board

The State Board of Elections has appointed James E. Mathis and Ann Carr to the Trigg County Board of Elections. The County Board consist of the county clerk, the sheriff and the two members appointed by the State Board.

Secretary of State John Y. Brown III, who serves as chairman of the state board, said the appointees will serve a four-year term.

State law requires each county board of elections, which shall, at the direction and under the supervision of the State Board of Elections, administer the election laws and the registration and purgation of voters within the county.

Brown explained that local board of elections meet monthly and are in constant session on election day dealing with such matters as the qualifications of voters and the final tabulation of votes cast.

Beyond the Snow
These are said, by some, to be the gray, dead days of winter. Be not dismayed by what is "said to be" but look and feel beyond and enter, if only in your mind, that bright and varicolored world that lies just beyond, -just around, - or just behind each twig and sleeping bud - as winter swiftly flies.

Vagabond Soul
I have flown on spirit winds on lengthy voyages of the mind; And seen the visions that send my soul to heights to find adventure as my inner self pretends to follow heroes of many kinds. I credit printed words that bend to knowledge all that goes behind, for what we read will always blend to form what we call "the mind." We learn that imagination will transcend pages sown. So come sail with me on seas of pages that we might glean from all of history's ages.

Living' Poker
We're always playin' poker
Tho few of us ever know.
We get our stack
From God's own Pack
and play 'em best we can
But we're still a'playin' poker
And our lives are in the pot.
Five cards a day—
The standard way—
And we play 'em best we can.
That's the way it is in poker
Good and Bad hands are drawn.
Complain? Complain to whom?
Just watch the other players in the room
And Play 'em best you can.
Since we're in this game of poker
And we know who has the deal
Just take your hand
And let it stand
Then play 'em best you can.
For so it goes in playin' poker
The cards are never known

Local couple announce the release of an original album on cassette

Tommy spent six years in the Marines, which included two full tours in Vietnam (he was wounded during his third tour of duty). He also served as a police officer in Dallas for 21 years.
None of this deterred him from pursuing his love of music. In fact, his experiences enhanced his ability to write heart-felt lyrics.
In 1980, while waiting for a bus, he wrote his first song dedicated to police officers. The song, about an officer who had recently been killed in the line of duty, led to a string of coincidences that can only be called the will of God.
A collection of songs for police officers was soon produced by Calibre Press Inc. on an album called Warriors in Blue.
"To my amazement, I started having success through Calibre Press," Tommy said.
Police Training Facility, a primate business owned by Dr. Charles Remberg, discovered Tommy's album.

"He sent me a ticket to a seminar in Atlanta in 1981 and said 'Bring all the tapes you can fit on the plane.'"
Tommy took 380 tapes and sold them all.

Remberg bought 1500 more tapes before the seminar was over.
That success inspired Tommy to write more songs, and in 1988 he released We Are the Police.
In 1991, Tommy sang to 20,000 police officers at the police memorial in Washington, D.C. The Law Enforcement Television Network made a video for one of his songs, "The Vest," and it still airs at Christmas.
"The police tapes are really incredible," Tommy said. "They've literally sold in every state, and they're still selling."
Tommy has 10 more songs he plans to record in the future, but right now he and Linda are happy playing country, bluegrass and gospel music.
"We've done a lot of gospel singings," he said. "You ought to see people's reactions. We'll be singing and people will be crying — you can rejoice with tears."
"People can relate to our music. It makes us feel wonderful. That's why we're excited about this tape. We want people to enjoy it."

"There's a little piece of us in this," Linda said. "All the words are from us to them."
The album is dedicated to Tommy's grandparents, Thelma and Daddy Mack Parrish; Linda's brother, Waymon who died of cancer three years ago; and a close friend, Bobbie Guier who has also passed away.
The 12 original songs on the album are "I'm Not Afraid If Jesus Calls Me Home," "His Last Words," "Shoes on My Feet," "Grandma's Gospel Songs," "I Found a Rose in Grandpa's Bible," "Walk With Dad Again," "Old Fashioned Altar," "Not Rusty Nails," "We'll Be a Family Again," "Heaven's My Reward," "Watch Over Mama" and "A New Star in Heaven."
Watch next week's paper for more of Tommy and Linda's story.

Skinner and Darnall wed in evening, candlelight ceremony

A candlelight ceremony at East Cadiz Baptist Church on Friday, July 12, 1996 at 7 p.m. was the setting for the marriage of Sherry Lawana Darnall and Roger Terry Skinner.

The bride is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Irvin C. Darnall of Cadiz. She is the granddaughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Joseph N. Darnall and the late Mr. and Mrs. John G. Carr, all of Trigg County.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lacey Skinner of Hopkinsville. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Skinner and the late Mr. and Mrs. John Williams.

The bride's father officiated the double-ring ceremony. He was assisted by the Rev. Greg Giltner, Hopkinsville, and Chaplain Ken Kerr of Clarksville, Tenn. Nuptial music was provided by Bettye Wilson of Clarksville, Tenn, pianist; Tracy Sadler of Jackson, Tenn., flute; and Ben Bruce, Cadiz, trumpet. Vocal selections were sung by Joy Allen Stallons, Cadiz, and Leon Wilson, Clarksville.

Musical selections included "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," by Bach, "In This Very Room" by Harris, "Household of Faith" by Lamb, "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte, "Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell, "Bridal Chorus" by Wagner and "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn. A congregational hymn, "Holy Ground" by Davis, was sung at the beginning of the ceremony.

The focal point of the altar was a 15-branch brass candelabrum flanked by two spiral candelabra, each decorated with white wisteria and pink roses. A unity candle, decorated with English ivy and a white satin bow, was also used during the ceremony. Two large pots of white hydrangeas, white wisteria and fern were used in front of the organ and piano, accented by garlands of baby's breath.

The mother's pews were marked with bouquets of pink roses and English ivy.

In the vestibule the guest register table was draped with a white Egyptian lace tablecloth. A bouquet of a dozen long-stem, pink roses accented the table with a photograph of both the bride and groom as small children and then as adults. A Barbie doll dressed like the bridesmaids was designed and given to the bride by her aunt, Jackie Taylor of Cadiz.

The guest register was kept by Diane Smith of Fort Campbell and Debbie Cortner of Cadiz.

The bride, escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, chose a white gown of silk shantung. The fitted bodice and gathered sleeves were overlaid with alencon lace fully encrusted with clear sequins and pearls. The lace sleeves were edged with lace scallops and pearls. A sabrina neckline which swept into a scoop back featured buttons covered in silk shantung extending down the back. The basque waist was trimmed in a scalloped silk shantung band and accented at the back with a silk and lace rosette enhanced with pearls. Beneath the silk band the full skirt gracefully draped into a semi-cathedral train.

The bride's two-tiered fingertip length veil of bridal illusion was scattered with tiny pearls secured to a band of silk flowers and pearl sprays. A gathered pouf of bridal illusion completed the veil.

She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias, pink roses, stephanotis with a light touch of calacenia and accented with English ivy. A white organza ribbon adorned the flowers. Attached to the bouquet was a tatted white cross handmade by the bride's grandmother, the late Mrs. Nella Noel Carr.

The bride chose Donna Jackson Kerr of Clarksville, Tenn., as her matron of honor. Janet Wadlington of Benton served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Debbie Felker Darnall of Fort Leavenworth, Kan., sister-in-law of the bride, and Teresa Skinner Smith, of Hopkinsville, sister of the groom. Junior bridesmaid was Sharaya Darnall, of Winamac, Ind., daughter of Layton Darnall and niece of the bride.

Each attendant wore a tea-length dress of pink brocade fabric fashioned and handmade by the bride's aunts, Jackie Taylor and Louise Fuller, both of Cadiz. The junior bridesmaid's dress was similar to that of the bridesmaids.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Terry Skinner

The bridesmaids carried arm bouquets of calla lilies, pink roses, and plumosa bound with white silk organza ribbon. The junior bridesmaid carried a small bouquet of pink roses, pixies and stephanotis.

The flower girls were Lindsey Darnall, niece of the bride, daughter of Lt. C. and Mrs. Steve Darnall of Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and Lacy Smith, niece of the groom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Smith of Hopkinsville.

Both girls wore dresses of pink chintz which featured a sweetheart neckline with ivory petticoats. They each carried a spray of long-stem pink roses that were given to guests as each girl proceeded down the aisle. The last pink rose was given to the mothers of the bride and groom.

The groom chose Hal Butler of Nashville to be his best man. Groomsmen were Glen Cottrell, Scott Pendleton, and Billy Walls, all of Hopkinsville, and Layton Darnall, the bride's brother of Winamac, Ind.

The junior groomsmen were Bradley Darnall, nephew of the bride, son of Lt. C. and Mrs. Steve Darnall of Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and Reed Kerr, son of Chaplain and Mrs. Ken Kerr of Clarksville, Tenn.

The ring bearer was Jordan Darnall, nephew of the bride, son of Layton Darnall of Winamac, Ind.

The bride's brothers, Layton Darnall of Winamac, Ind., Lt. C. Steve Darnall of Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and Stacy Darnall of Madisonville served as ushers.

The wedding was accented by Donna Jackson Kerr of Clarksville, Tenn.; Louise Carr Fuller, aunt of the bride; and Andrea C. Dunn, both of Cadiz.

The reception was hosted by the bride's parents in the fellowship hall of the church immediately following the ceremony.

Guests entered the fellowship hall through a lit arch of fresh greenery that led directly to the receiving line.

A four-tiered, free-standing, spiral, basketweave cake highlighted with crystal stands was decorated with fresh flowers and accented with calacenia and English ivy. It created the focal point. In the center of the table was an antique candelabrum holding white tapers. Beneath this was a precious moments' bride and groom, a gift to the bride from the groom.

The groom's table was also centered with an antique candelabrum holding white tapers. His cake was a two-tiered chocolate basketweave cake with frosted grapes. A picture of the groom playing golf added the final touch to his table.

White tulle, pink rose garlands, white satin bows and hurricane lamps were used at various places throughout the fellowship hall, creating a romantic, southern atmosphere. Disposable cameras were passed among the guest tables, encouraging guests to snap photos of each table as a gift to the bride and groom.

Assisting at the reception were Louise Fuller and Jackie Taylor, aunts of the bride of Cadiz; Debbie Taylor Audas, cousin of the bride, of Houston, Texas; Kathy Futrell Haley of Madison, Wis.; Melissa Cherry Anthony and Sharon Finley, both of Cadiz; Rachel Kerr of Clarksville, Tenn., and Diane Smith of Fort Campbell.

Birdseed bags were distributed by the flower girls, Lindsey Darnall and Lacey Smith. Small spoons with chocolate kisses covered with white tulle were given to the guests as favors, made by the bride's fifth-grade students at Barkley Elementary School.

Pre-nuptial events included the following: a flatware and recipe shower hosted by Bettye Quirrin at the Ponderosa for the staff of Barkley Elementary School; a tabletop shower hosted by the Sunday school class of Hillcrest Baptist Church; a gift reception given by Donna Kerr, Janet Wadlington, and Joy Stallons at the Bank of Cadiz Community Room; a luncheon hosted by Debbie Cortner, Sharon Finley and Pat Carr at Lake Barkley State Resort; a household shower hosted by the ladies of Maple Grove Baptist Church; a bridal luncheon hosted by the groom's sister, Teresa Smith, at Bartholomew's in Hopkinsville; a rehearsal dinner hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Lacey Skinner, parents of the groom, at the Kentucky Smokehouse in Cadiz.

Following a trip to Hawaii, the couple is residing in Cadiz. The bride is employed by the Fort Campbell Dependent School systems as an elementary teacher. The groom is the assistant manager of Walgreens in Hopkinsville.

If you think you have to go to a big city hospital for the right care, just come to JSMC and tape this to your window.

There is a common belief that when it comes to healthcare, bigger is better. The bigger the city, the better the care.

In reality, all a big city guarantees you is lots of traffic, not better healthcare. At Jennie Stuart Medical Center, we have over 100 physicians of various specialties on our staff to meet your healthcare needs. And we have the healthcare professionals, modern technology and advanced equipment you want when you're ill or injured.

You see, going to JENNIE STUART MEDICAL CENTER a big city for healthcare doesn't guarantee you better care. It does, however, guarantee you the hassel of having to drive to get there.

It's moving time at almost any time for some plants

One of the questions I hear a lot is when should you move plants? There are several answers. Daylilies and iris can be moved any time. Peonies can be moved only in the fall. Someone once said that peonies must be moved on Sept. 15 at 9 a.m.

Perennials can be moved in the fall or in the spring, but I prefer fall because that gives the plant a chance to settle in and start new roots. An important reason is that other plants are as large as they will get so you can see where you have empty spaces.

Moving plants requires the same care as planting new plants. You will need to move plants around for several reasons.

Sometimes you have a plant that does not do well for some unknown reason. When moved to a different location, sometimes they get a new growth. Most plants need to be divided every two or three years. If you don't want the divisions, I'm sure a friend would appreciate them.

It's a good idea to mark all your plants now because when spring comes, it's just a great puzzle of plants and weeds. You can buy markers or make your own. Tongue depressors work well. Also the scrap lumber pile at the lumber yard will have strips that work well. Be sure to use a permanent marker, and you might spray the marker with varnish.

Another good idea in late summer is to mark the areas that are bare and need a plant. Spray the tip of a stake some particular color that will stand out next spring.

Strange things come up in my flower beds. A daisy showed up

GOOD GARDENING

by Ronella Stagner

this spring. I have no idea where it came from. Also a strange looking plant came up, and I took good care of it until one day I realized it was a weed. But it was a handsome weed!

If you make pictures of your garden in August, you'll see what colors you need to add and where there is room for them when you're buying next spring.

I know an old lady who had a beautiful front yard where everything was always in bloom. She moved plants to the back yard when they quit blooming and moved a blooming one to the front. She moved them anytime.

It took me years to realize that she kept the root system short and compact so the plant didn't go into shock. At the time, I thought she was some kind of plant genius.

I was working in a flower bed this week and found a Praying Mantis. It's the first one I have ever seen in my garden. I could only find one but what a special big fellow.

I also saw many ladybugs and thanks to my grandchildren, I have toads in all sizes. All these critters are busy catching unwanted bugs. Wouldn't you know there would be a snake in my garden of Eden! But then nothing's perfect.

Good gardening!

The three-tier anniversary cake was made by Nancy Ann Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ward

Storytime scheduled to start soon

If you weren't able to attend the Library's Summer Reading Silly Olympics, you certainly missed a great time. Storytime will be starting again soon. Be sure to watch the paper for a definite date or watch for signs in the library about the start date. Cause of Death by Patricia Cornwell

Yes, it's finally here, and there is already a waiting list started for this book. If you are interested in putting your name on the list call or come by, and we will be happy to add your name.

New Year's Eve and the final murder scene of Virginia's bloodiest year since the Civil War takes Scarpetta 30 feet below the Elizabeth River's icy surface. A scuba diver Ted Eddings is dead, an investigative reporter who was a favorite at the medical examiner's office. Was Eddings probing the frigid depths of the inactive ship yard for a story, or simply diving for sunken trinkets? And why did Scarpetta receive a phone call from someone reporting the death before the police were notified?

This is another wonderful and exciting book by Patricia Cornwell. We also have this book in audio format.

Edward's good side and breed children, thus bringing strong new blood to the line to keep Oxborough powerful.

And so it comes about that two strangers are joined in marriage. Severin is a warrior, strong and vigorous. Hastings is a healer, independent and loyal. He believes she should be malleable and obedient; she believes he should be less cold blooded, less merciless. He inspires fear. But then again, how can Hastings fear a man whose pet marten appears over the top of his tunic and waves a paw at her?

This new romance by Catherine Coulter is another excellent story that lovers of romance novels will love.

Also new in the library: "The Choice," by Bob Woodward, "Sundancer," by David London, "Critical Judgment," by Michael Palmer and "Gods and Generals," by Jeff Shaara.

I hope these sound interesting. Remember if you want to put your name on a waiting list, you need to call or come in soon so your name is as close to the top as possible.

HOME COOKIN'

Travels abroad and early training made this lady's cooking the 'best that it can be'

BONNIE THOMAS
Staff Writer

This week's good cook is Sandy Myers. After serving for 20 years of active duty in the U. S. Army, she retired in August of 1994. She has traveled all over the world, but it was on a visit to friends in Trigg County that she fell in love with the area and decided to retire here. Because of her love of the outdoors and after 20 years of assignments in which someone else chose her work and living area, Sandy feels she has found a home here. She feels Trigg County is the perfect place to retire.

Growing up, Sandy was raised in a children's home. She learned to cook when she was a young girl from the woman who owned the home. Sandy became her right-hand girl. They cooked for 15 to 30 children, and because Sandy was only nine years old, she would use a footstool to reach the stove to help stir the meal.

It was probably this childhood experience that sparked her love of cooking. Out of the 20 years she spent in the Army, more than 10 years were spent overseas. Her hobby became collecting cookbooks and trying new foods from each place she traveled. At one time her cookbook collection grew to 300 cookbooks. Over the years, she has given most of them away to friends. Her collection now consists of only her favorite cookbooks, many editions are from the late 1930-40s. Of all the foods and recipes Sandy has sampled, German food became her favorite, and she shares several authentic German recipes with us.

During her years in the Army, Sandy dreamed of a time when she could pursue her hobby, cooking, and her passion, gardening. She says gardening and cooking fulfills the "wanna-be" artist in her. She says she considers her rocky hillside a canvas and her garden tools her paint brushes.

Retirement is great, but if you're a people-person you miss people contact. Sandy now has a nice balance in her life. She works part time at Fourshee Building Supply and now has time to cook and do her gardening. She loves her job, and says it has opened up an avenue to meeting new people.

We would like to thank Sandy for "enlisting" us to share her recipes.

Sauerbraten

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| 4 lbs lean cut of choice beef | 1 c. red wine vinegar |
| 2 - 3 whole cloves | 1 c. water |
| 2 bay leaves | 1/2 t. pepper corns |
| 1 large onion cut into thick slices | 1/4 lb. bacon (optional) |
| 2 T. flour | 1/4 c. cooking oil |

Marinade: Bring to boil, stirring vinegar, water, cloves, bay leaf, peppercorns. Let cool. Put meat in enamel or glass pan/bowl. Pour marinade over and let sit in refrigerator 2 -4 days—turn daily. Remove meat from Marinade, strain, reserve liquid.

To prepare: Dry meat, pepper lightly and brown in 1/4 cup oil. Stay with it and turn and brown each side. Cover meat with bacon strips, then add some water and some marinade liquid, and the onion. Cover, cook over low heat 1 hour to 1 1/2 hour. Add more liquid as needed. If you want a true sauerbraten use marinade as liquid, if you want a less sour gravy use water. Keep an inch or two of liquid in pot while cooking. When done, remove meat and thicken gravy with flour. Cook a few minutes and serve with hot buttered* noodles.

*NOTE: 4 T. of sour cream can be added to gravy if you desire.

1996 Kentucky Senior Games

The race for the gold is just beginning

The Senior Games have more importance than just winning the gold medal. The Games are about life and happiness in the golden years.

ROBIN STEVENS
Editor

The Olympic flame has been extinguished in Atlanta, but come September, the spirit of the games will continue with the 1996 Kentucky Senior Games.

The Pennyrile Regional Senior Games will be held in Hopkinsville, Sept. 3 and 4. The Kentucky Senior Games, which will be held Sept. 26 through 29 in Elizabethtown, have been a tradition since 1985. The mission of the games remains the same as it did more than a decade ago: to provide physical activities for senior adults, ages 50 and older, through a wide range of competitive events.

The goals of these games are to provide health benefits to Kentucky's older adults, to create an arena for "competitive athletic recreational and creative experience," stress the necessity of regular exercise and give senior adults an opportunity to meet and have fun with other seniors.

Official sports will be archery, badminton, basketball, bowling, field events, golf, horseshoes, race run/walk, swimming, tennis, track and cycling.

To qualify for the state golf and bowling competitions, participants must place first, second or third in those events. Those who qualify at the state level will go on to nationals in Tucson, Ariz., in May 1997.

A-OK: Trigg County Manor receives superior rating

On May 15, 1996, the annual Licensure and Regulation Survey was conducted for Trigg County Manor.

Irene Ferguson and the staff report that the facility received a superior rating.

Ferguson began her duties as the new administrator at Trigg County Manor in the middle of April with little time to prepare for the survey.

She credits her staff for working as a team to pull everything together.

"We are excited about the future for Trigg County Manor as we strive to grow and meet the needs of a growing community," Ferguson said. "Our goal is to provide as much of a homelike atmosphere as possible while providing for the care needs of each resident."

Ferguson encourages Trigg County residents to stop by and visit the residents of Trigg County Manor.

"Now that I wear Beltone Invisas everyone wonders what happened to my hearing aids and why I'm not wearing them anymore."

INVISAS DALE HUGGINS from Wexford, Pennsylvania, wears a Beltone Invisa in each ear. The incredibly tiny size allows Invisa to hide deeply, yet comfortably, inside the ear canal. So unnoticeable, it's as if Dale's hearing aids have disappeared. Hey, with Invisa, it's fun to keep 'em guessing.

INVISAS IS NO BIGGER AROUND THAN A SOFT CONTACT LENS.

Individual experiences may vary. Invisa is not appropriate for everyone. A personal evaluation is necessary to determine if Invisa is right for you. Benefits of hearing aids vary by type and degree of hearing loss, noise environment, accuracy of hearing evaluation, and proper fit.

Mosquitoes And Such

Mosquitoes, flies, and snakes; cold weather; loud, "in your face," obnoxious people; for the car to die at a busy intersection, when it's raining, and I'm late; stumping my toe while climbing back into bed at 2:00 a.m.; liver, olives, partially cooked chicken; phone calls from sales persons, phone calls from sales persons that are automated, phone calls after 11:00 p.m.; a head cold, the flu, diarrhea; loud rap music ("music" is a questionable term); for the electricity to go off just about the time I've finished typing an article, on the computer, which I forgot to save...

...these "are (not) a few of my favorite things."

No doubt you also have a list of things you strongly dislike. Even the Lord has His list: "These six things the Lords hates, Yes seven are an abomination to Him: A proud look, A lying tongue, Hands that shed innocent blood, A heart that devises wicked plans, Feet that are swift in running to evil, A false witness who speaks lies, And one who sows discord among brethren" (Prov. 6:16-19).

You may not agree with some of the choices on my list. After all, it is just a matter of personal opinion. The Lord's list however, is not debatable. Actually, it is the only one that really matters. Should I be guilty of the things on His list, I face much more than the momentary discomforts of this life. On the other hand, those who enter Heaven's gate, can tear up that list of things they hate.

Future Business Leaders of America

1996 FBLA National Leadership Conference

Three local FBLA members spent four days in the nation's capital during mid-July for an FBLA leadership training conference.

July 6 through 12, 197 FBLA competitors, advisers, delegates and guests from Kentucky attended the 1996 National Leadership Conference in Washington, D.C. Attending the Conference from Trigg County High School was Amanda Cook; delegate, Bridger DeName, FBLA state vice-president; and Stephanie Garrett, Region One FBLA secretary and delegate.

prepared to enjoy every second of campaigning, competition, workshops and most importantly creating new friendships. The general sessions and awards program took place at the Convention Center Arena.

When members were not attending general sessions, workshops, visiting the election booths, delegate meetings or caucusing sessions, local FBLA members were able to tour some of the sights of Washington, D.C.

AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

To the People of Kentucky
Honorable Paul E. Patton, Governor
Mr. John P. McCarty, Secretary
Finance and Administration Cabinet
Ms Margaret Handmaker, Secretary, Revenue Cabinet
Honorable Berlin Moore, County Judge/Executive
Members of the Trigg County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the Trigg County Sheriff's Settlement - 1994 Taxes as of July 18, 1995. This tax settlement is the responsibility of the Trigg County Sheriff. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards and the Audit Guide for Sheriff's Tax Settlements issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. These standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The Sheriff prepares his financial statement on a prescribed basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the cash basis and laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the Trigg County Sheriff's taxes charged, credited, and paid as of July 18, 1995, in conformity with the basis of accounting described in the preceding paragraph.

In accordance with government auditing standards, we have also issued a report dated March 14, 1996, on our consideration of Trigg County Sheriff's internal control structure and a report dated March 14, 1996, on its compliance with laws and regulations.

COMMENT AND RECOMMENDATION

Based on the results of our audit, we make the following comment and recommendation. Pledge Of Securities Should Be Approved By The Bank's Board Of Directors
During our testing, we found that deposits of $1,402,563 were not properly collateralized. The pledge of collateralization had not been individually approved by the Board of Directors. Under the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989 (FIRREA), Section 1823(e) a security agreement, including a pledge of collateral for a deposit is not valid against the FDIC unless it satisfies certain requirements. One of these requirements is that it must be approved by the depositing institution's board of directors or loan committee, and that this approval must be reflected in the minutes of the board or committee. Since this requirement is not met these pledges are not legally enforceable. Therefore, we recommend the current pledge be approved by the Board.

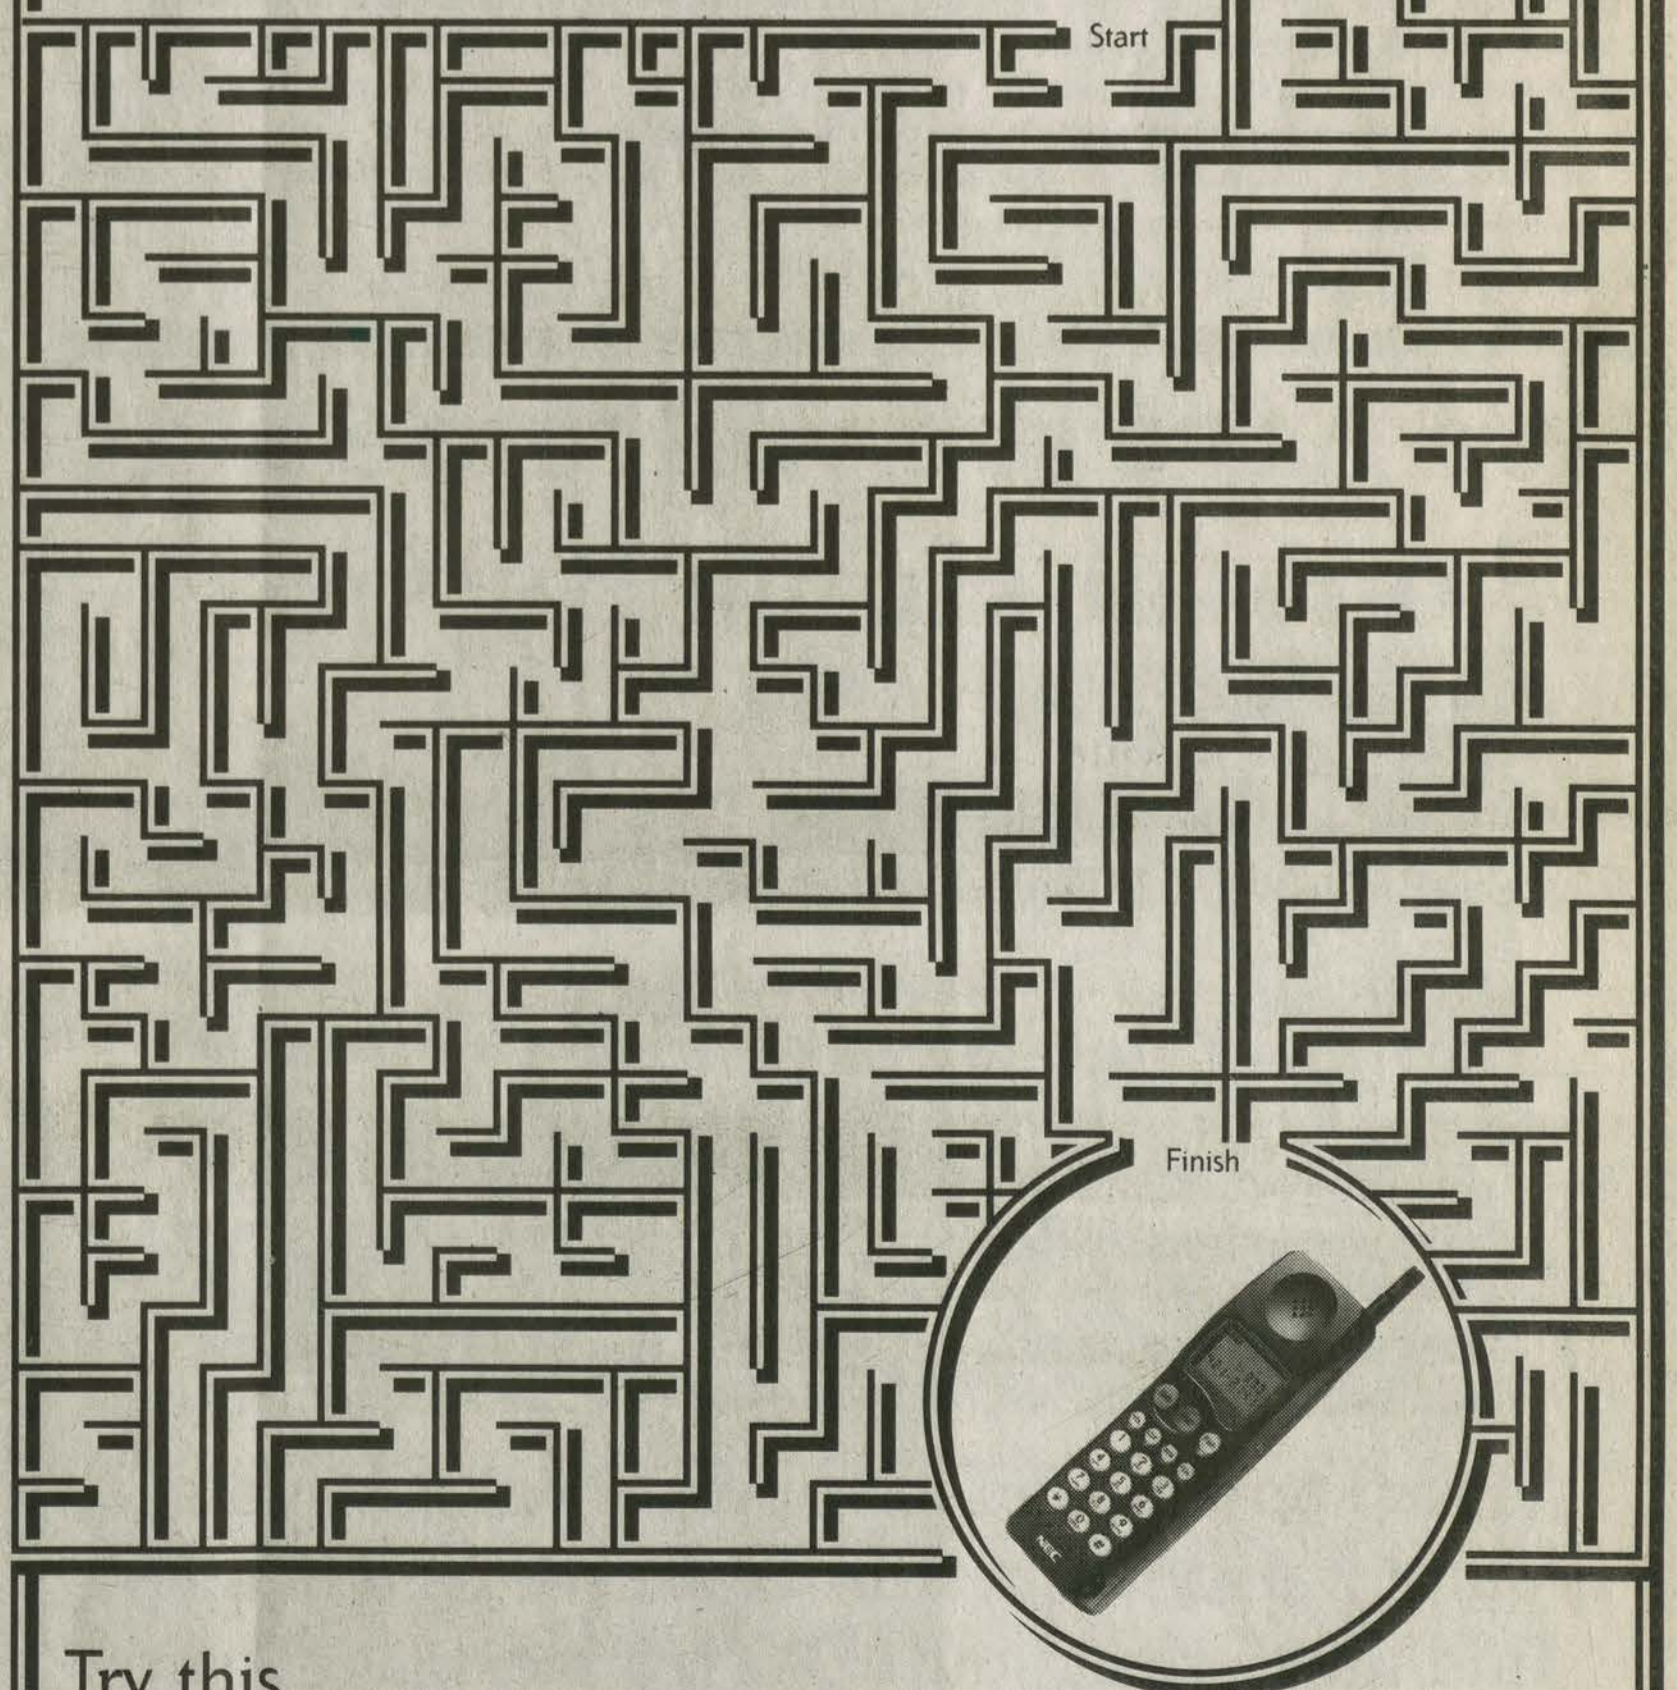

Respectfully submitted,

Ed Hatchett

Trigg Countians bring home one of each

Gardener, Fowler earn medals at Bluegrass Games

DAVID B. SNOW
Sports Editor

Two Trigg Countians combined to bring home a gold, a silver and a bronze medal from the 1996 Bluegrass State Games, held in Lexington July 26-28.

Dennis Gardener won the gold medal in skeet shooting, hitting 49 out of a possible 50 targets, and the silver medal in trap shooting, while Tiffany Fowler was a member of the Bluegrass Bombers softball team that won the bronze medal in 14-and-under girls' slow-pitch softball.

Gardener went to the Bluegrass State Games on a whim to get together with his brothers and see how they could do.

"We've shot all our lives, but we never competed," Gardener said. "We just got together and said, 'Let's go up and see what we can do — sort of a family reunion deal.'"

Together, Gardener, his brothers Steve and John and nephew Steve Gardener Jr. combined for 10 of the 24 medals offered in shooting.

"This was about the fifth round of skeet I'd ever shot in my life," Gardener said. "We went to try to get Steve Jr. to compete. He just turned 16, but he's really good."

"There were some very good shooters up there. I guess we got lucky."

During the skeet competition, Gardener and his brothers would line up at the five positions side-by-side. When John was through shooting, he'd hand his gun to Dennis to shoot with.

"That was the gun I used to use when I was shooting," Gardener said.

When Dennis got to the end of the line and John was at the far end, he would use the gun that Steve Sr. had used.

"People would look at us and say, 'Look at that man; he hasn't even got his own gun!'" Gardener said.

Fowler, the 14-year-old daughter of M.H. and Cheryl Fowler, played first base for the Bluegrass Bombers softball team of Madisonville. She has become something of a collector from the Bluegrass State Games; the team earned the gold in 1994 and the bronze medals in 1995 and 1996.

"They're neat," Fowler said of the medals. "I think they're more valuable than a trophy."

The Bombers won a medal the hard way, losing the opening-round game and fighting its way back up through the losers' bracket to earn the bronze.

The team played five games on July 27 and three on July 28. On top of that schedule, the team battled its way through a 15-inning affair against the B.J. Bears of Owensboro to a 9-8 win on July 27.

There were 26 teams competing in the 14-and-under softball event.

Fowler, who will be a freshman at Trigg County High School this year, already has three varsity seasons under her belt, having pitched the Lady 'Cats to the 1994 district title when she was in sixth grade, playing first base for the 'Cats the next year and third base last season.

"I like first base best," she said. She also played third base for the Lake Barkley Continuous Gutting team in the Trigg County Coed Softball League. Apparently, the diamond is this girl's best friend.

Wildcats don the pads; it's that time of year again

Players go through defensive drills during a practice session at Trigg County High School. The season opens Aug. 30 at home against Logan County.

The pads are in place, the whistles are blowing and in the air, there's the feeling of mild autumn nights and games yet to come.

The Trigg County High School football squad took its first outdoor practice last week, its first venture outside of the weight room and the three-times-a-week conditioning. The team worked on offensive and defensive plays and workouts as the first game draws near.

The Wildcats — District 2 champions last season — advanced to the second round of the KHSAA playoffs last year and hope for a return to the post-season with an even better outcome.

Trigg County opens its 1996 season at home against Logan County on Aug. 30. The Wildcats then hit the road for back-to-back away games at Hillsboro of Nashville, Tenn. (Sept. 6), and Fort Campbell (Sept. 13).

TCHS then returns home for a matchup with border rival Caldwell County on Sept. 20 before traveling to regional rival Murray on Sept. 27.

The Wildcats return home to battle Calloway County on Oct. 4, then open their district slate at Todd County Central on Oct. 11.

Trigg County returns home to face district foe Crittenden County on Oct. 18 before closing its Trigg County is taking part in a four-team camp in Dawson Springs this week. Picture Day will be Aug. 9, followed by twice-a-day practices Aug. 12-14. The team will then begin once-a-day practices through the end of the pre-season.

Fast-pitch team completes first season

Lady Wildcats split twinbills to end summer

Trigg County's Lady Wildcat fast-pitch softball team rallied for four runs in the top half of the final inning and hung on to salvage a double-header split with Caldwell County by a score of 14-12 on July 22.

Trigg County lost the opening game of the twinbill in Princeton 10-9.

Trigg County center fielder Lori Keller led off the final inning with a walk, stole second and third bases and scored on a line drive home run by pitcher Amanda Imbush to put the 'Cats on top to stay 12-11.

After a walk to second baseman Toni Merrick, catcher Kristin Heckmann delivered her second double of the game to score Merrick. First baseman Roseleen Johnson completed the Lady Cats' scoring with an RBI triple to score Heckmann and make the score 14-11.

Caldwell County came up with a run in the bottom of the inning, but was shut down by the defensive play of Merrick and Johnson.

The winning pitcher was Imbush (3-5), who benefitted from solid relief pitching from Carla Heckmann and Merrick.

Hitting stars for the double-header were Kristin Heckmann, with three doubles and a triple; Imbush, with a home run and two singles; Allison Birdsong, with three singles and five stolen bases; Merrick, with three singles; Ann Grant, with a triple, a single and four stolen bases; and Jennifer Birdsong, with five walks. Heather Carneyhan also had two walks for the Lady 'Cats.

Trigg County concluded its first summer season with a record of 5-7.

The Trigg County fast-pitch softball team was comprised of girls from the high school varsity and junior varsity teams for the purpose of improving their skills for the next school year.

Members of the team were Allison Birdsong, Jennifer Birdsong, Heather Carneyhan, Ann Grant, Carla Heckmann, Kristin Heckmann, Amanda Imbush, Roseleen Johnson, Lori Keller and Toni Merrick. The team was coached by Carl Heckmann.

Trigg County split a double-header with the Paducah Wildcats on July 2 at the Trigg Recreation Complex, losing the first game 8-1 and winning the second game 3-2, scoring all three runs in the bottom of the last inning.

The last-inning rally of the second game began with walks to Jennifer Birdsong and Allison Birdsong, who scored on singles by Lori Keller and Amanda Imbush to tie the score at 2-2.

After a walk to Toni Merrick to load the bases, losing pitcher Deanna Baker hit Roseleen Johnson to force in the winning run.

7 Friends Tourney slated for Aug. 17

The third annual Knight & Hale Seven Friends Bass Tournament will be held on Saturday, Aug. 17, at Lake Barkley State Resort Park Marina.

A guaranteed first-place prize of $1,500 and awards to 10 percent of the field are featured in the tournament, which will also have a big bass pot and many door prizes.

The buddy tournament will begin at safe light and will continue to 3 p.m. All contestants must have a valid Kentucky fishing license. Only seven fish per boat may be presented for weigh-in.

The tournament was established in 1994 following the Dec. 15, 1993, traffic deaths of seven teen-age friends who worked at Knight & Hale Game Calls.

The purpose of the annual tournament is to increase the existing memorial funds. Several yearly scholarships are awarded and contributions are made to help meet individual and group needs of youth in the community.

Trigg County baseball players post big numbers for Post 116

Three Trigg Countians took part on the Princeton American Legion Post 116 team this season, helping the team to a 22-10 record and a second-place finish in District 1.

Trigg County natives Gary Breckel, Tim Bush and Jonathan Gray helped Princeton Post 116 to its second straight 20-win season.

The team lost in the championship round of the district tournament to Paducah Post 31.

Princeton had a team batting average of .320 with a team earned-run average of 3.86. The team spent a large portion of its schedule on the road, with a record of 19-8 away, with a 3-2 mark at home.

Tin Can Bird Feeders

Get ready for the birds and spring by recycling all those old coffee tins and other cans and bottles with this week's project. This is a great grouping of projects for mom and dad to make with their little ones. Teach your kids about recycling and feeding the birds at the same time. Shown is one variation of a bird feeder that can be quickly made from scrap lumber and an old coffee can. I made this project from leftover deck materials. I figure that I have less than $1.00 in cost. This is one variation of four patterns that use leftover two-liter soda bottles, juice bottles and other kinds of tin cans (not shown). I used a brand of pressure-treated lumber that is semi-waterproof-and very stable and not likely to crack or twist or bend in the sun. Painting the project with nice designs also perks up the yard or deck and makes a nice addition to anyone's yard.

You can copy this design or request plans to make it and the others by specifying Project No. BF138 and sending $4.95 plus $2.00 postage and handling to:

UK coach burdened by press

Curry considered an easy target at Media Day

Bill Curry's burden 'n things. If it is true that the Almighty puts no more burden on our backs than we can carry, then the Man upstairs spends a lot of time on University of Kentucky football coach Bill Curry.

In three seasons coaching Alabama (1987-89), Curry coached the Crimson Tide to an SEC championship and three bowl games (Hall of Fame, Sun and Sugar), but was scorned by fans and talk-radio callers and branded the poorest coach in the league by a Birmingham newspaper columnist.

Three seasons ago at UK, Curry's wife received death threats, and his coaching style was labeled unimaginative by the media herd (as was Jerry Claiborne before him).

Last year, the media herd predicted a loss to Louisville and/or a losing season would cue Curry's ouster. Some writers called for his dismissal.

This preseason, a prime question for Kentucky's coach during the SEC media meeting last week was not about the Wildcats' season prospects — even prize recruit Tim Couch — but how he felt about Oct. 5, the day Curry takes his team to Tuscaloosa to play Alabama.

The nature of the inquiry is mean-spirited, of course, predicated on the idea Curry was "run out of Tuscaloosa" and, therefore, must quake at the idea of going back.

Media-types might have made newsworthy inquiries, say, ask more than a fistful of SEC coaches why and how it is their programs are on NCAA probation or being investigated. But Curry is an easier target.

Still others, like Lexington Herald-Leader writers, take an easier course still, simply quote another writer — a Birmingham columnist who annually brands Curry the SEC's worst coach.

Why does Curry always seem

Sports in Ky.

by Bob Watkins

to face what amounts to career crossroads questions instead of ones that examine the finer points of how and why UK fans will enjoy the coming season?

Because fire-breathers — Steve Spurrier, Danny Ford — can be tough hombres to interview. Meanwhile, men of high standards and soft speech are easier for humorless men looking for a top-of-the-age story.

JIM BUNNING

Kentuckian Jim Bunning was inducted into Baseball's Hall of Fame Sunday. The Southgate native who had a no-hitter in each league, one 20-win season, four 19-win seasons and three others with 17, made the "state of the game" pan of his acceptance speech at Cooperstown.

Beforehand, Bunning made a telling remark that is all too apparent to baseball fans everywhere. "Players just don't have fun, and I don't understand it," he told USA Today.

Easy. So much money at stake and pressure to succeed have eclipsed "love for the game" as prime driving forces in professional sports today.

While superstars make headlines with inflated salaries, a far larger majority of marginal stars' (like Kentuckians Terry Shumpert of the Chicago Cubs, Chris Snopce of the White Sox, pitchers Kevin Jarvis of the Reds and Mark Thompson of the Rockies) stay in the Big Leagues is dependent on what they do in the next at-bat or next pitching assignment.

Footnote: Shumpert, who had two game-winning hits during two weeks in July with the Cubs, is back in the minors again.

Q's & A's

Questions I've been asked lately:

Q. UK football prospects in '96?

A. Looks break-even at best again. I cannot recall a season when a Kentucky roster looked thinner depth-wise than this one.

Q. Bill Curry has mentioned using Tim Couch as UK's punt-er this season.

A. Excellent. Curry recognizes the more ways he can have Couch on the field, the better Kentucky's chances are. Not because of his kicking so much as his natural instincts, leadership qualities and threat to make something good happen.

Q. If UK is to have a winning season, who are some individuals who must have a banner season?

A. The defense, (injury-free), principally ends Kurt Supe and Chris Ward, linebackers Mike Schellenberger and Lamont Smith. But the change that could be most intriguing is junior strong safety Deli Ali's move to outside linebacker.

Q. Will UK ever have a black head basketball coach? And if so, who today would be the most likely candidate?

A. Orlando "Tubby" Smith.

Q. A year ago, you predicted the key to UK's season would be Anthony Epps. Your idea on the "most likely to surprise?"

A. Jeff Sheppard. Performance-wise and leadership-wise, if he stays healthy, the senior guard will, I think, be vital to whatever success UK has next winter. Surprise contributor? A hunch says Oliver Simmons.

BURGESS & UK REPUTATION

Chris Burgess of Irvine, Calif., is 6-11 and the No. 1-rated high school basketball player in the U.S.

Lamar Odom is a 6-8 New York native who will spend his senior year at Main Central Prep. He is rated a shade behind Burgess.

Perhaps No. 3 is 6-8 Shane Battier, a lightning-quick forward at Detroit Country Day.

Interestingly, neither Burgess, Odom nor Battier has Kentucky at or near the top of his list of colleges he is considering. Burgess looks to be headed to Brigham Young (he's a Mormon) or Duke. Odom, who has been courted by Rick Pitino, reportedly has UNLV, St. John's and Fresno State at the top of his list. And Battier, who Pitino would dearly love to sign, speaks of Michigan and Duke.

Why isn't UK mentioned with the top players again?

Even with a national championship and extended television exposure last winter, rival recruiters still manage to sell Big Blue basketball as a limited playing time, mostly free-lance three-point system tailored for big guards and swing forwards.

Walter McCarty and Mark Pope are cast as role players who carried suitcases for All-Americans Tony Delk and Antoine Walker.

And there is Pitino's iffy status as coach at Kentucky.

Players coming into college today are more specialty oriented. Burgess lists BYU because of his faith, but Duke because of Coach Mike Krzyzewski's reputation for developing big men for the NBA.

With Walker gone and Jared Prickett finishing his eligibility next spring, Odom and Battier may still take a serious look at signing with Kentucky. But each will have to run the gauntlet of recruiters who disparage Kentucky's system.

JUSTICE DEPT.

Former University of Louisville All-American and currently GM for the Washington Bullets Wes Unseld on newly acquired Rod Strickland, who refused a physical and demanded a new contract: "We would all love happy campers. We would all love choir boys. This is pro basketball, so we understand that we aren't going to have those things."

The University of Massachusetts is facing sanctions if Marcus Camby is found guilty by the NCAA of receiving money and gifts during his sophomore and junior seasons at the school in Amherst.

UMass should not be punished. If justice is done, then ex-coach John Calipari, who was responsible for Camby the student-athlete, should reimburse the school for all lost revenues. If necessary, the school should file a lawsuit against Calipari.

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

On whether or not UK will (one day) have an on-campus basketball arena pre-empting its contract with Rupp Arena:

Paul Gambrell of Corbin: "I'm for an on-campus arena. Let Rick Pitino pay for it. Also, let the (NBA) pros stay home and count their money and send a real Dream Team of college kids to the Olympics."

DIS 'N DATA

The Kentucky-Florida game Sept. 28 in Gainesville will be aired by CBS Television. Kickoff time will be 3:30. . . Two native Kentuckians were involved in Major League heave-hos last week. In Chicago, NL umpire Charlie Reliford of Ashland thumbed Giants shortstop Shawon Dunston for arguing a call at first base in a game against the Cubs. In Cincinnati, umpire Tom Hallion of Louisville ejected Chris Sabo after the Reds' third baseman was discovered to have cork in his bat. . . Earth to Earvin "No Longer Magic" Johnson: Repeat after me: "I must grow up. It's time to move on."

PARTING SHOT

Earl Weaver, who managed the Baltimore Orioles for 17 years was inducted into Baseball's Hall of Fame Sunday. An umpire baiter of epic proportions who was ejected from 91 games, Weaver said last week, "I'll bet they made 20,000 calls on my teams and only got 91 wrong."

And so it goes.

AGRICULTURE

'96 Wheat Report

The crop year began with a dry, cool fall that resulted in spotty stands and little top growth going into the winter. November temperatures were much lower than normal and relatively little fall tillering occurred. At least three times during the winter, the temperatures moderated into the 60's, only to drop suddenly to near zero. This extreme variation was hard on the wheat crop, and is reflected in the variability observed in the 1996 variety trials. Little foliar disease pressure was observed, despite an extremely wet spring. The wet weather during flowering resulted in some head scab and glume blotch.

This year's data requires careful evaluation. Only varieties with excellent winter hardiness performed well in this year's trials. Some of the top yielding varieties from the past few years such as FFR555, Jackson and Foster were definitely hurt by the cold winter, and their yields reflect this. The final progress report should be out within a month.

Research project identifies cause of poor alfalfa stand establishment

Kentucky farmers will have fewer problems with spring-seeded alfalfa following University of Kentucky research identifying the cause of poor stand establishment in wet soils.

"Failed stand establishment has been a continual problem when alfalfa was spring seeded into wet soils; but we couldn't find positive proof of the cause in lab or field research," said Paul Vincelli, plant pathologist for the UK College of Agriculture.

After more than six years, Vincelli has positive proof that aphanomyces, a fungus present in the soil, causes stands to fail when alfalfa is spring seeded followed by several weeks of wet soil conditions. The project was a joint effort with UK agronomists in variety trials conducted throughout the state.

"For years, we thought aphanomyces could be the case," he said. "One reason for our uncertainty was that seed marketed as 'aphanomyces-resistant' sometimes had stand problems on farms."

Vincelli found proof that aphanomyces causes failed stands this year in variety trials at Eden Shade research facility.

"Agronomists planted 20 varieties ranging from highly susceptible to highly resistant," he said. "While all plots had some stand decline, varieties differed in severity of the problem; the more healthy varieties were aphanomyces resistant. We also confirmed this in lab research."

"The resistant varieties did better, but they're not as resistant as they need to be under high disease pressure. Since we've identified aphanomyces as the cause, commercial seed companies can intensify breeding for resistance to this fungus."

Over the long term, developing an aphanomyces-specific seed treatment fungicide could complement breeding work, according to Vincelli. Since aphanomyces causes stand problems, a seed treatment could be targeted toward this specific fungus.

Aphanomyces is quite common in the 300,000 acres of alfalfa grown in Kentucky.

"We've found it in about two-thirds of the soils sampled," Vincelli said. "There's no pattern of where aphanomyces occurs or not. We've found it in a soil that hasn't been in alfalfa for 35 years. What it's doing there, I don't know."

Wet weather contributed to aphanomyces-caused stand problems this year, said Vincelli.

"Growers who seeded in April had problems with stunted or dead plants because wet weather in May and June favored aphanomyces activity," he said. "By the time most farmers realized there was a problem, it was too late to reseed alfalfa; so they had to reseed with something else and lost a year's growth."

Using aphanomyces-resistant varieties helps reduce failed stand problems, according to Vincelli.

"We definitely see a value to using aphanomyces-resistant varieties—even if they don't entirely prevent problems," he said.

"Our research shows that these varieties could be the difference between getting a stand in a wet spring and not having any alfalfa to harvest. They save farmers time and money."

Find out what causes trees to become sick

When landscape trees look sickly, people tend to think a disease or insect is at the root of the problem. However, environmental stresses often cause brown leaves, dying branches, or an overall unhealthy appearance.

"Most landscape tree problems are not caused by fungi, bacteria or nematodes," said John Hartman, plant pathologist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "Furthermore, when leaves turn yellow or have dead areas and branches die back in tree tops, the problem usually originated in the soil, roots or tree trunk."

Hartman said a number of environmental stresses can make a tree sick. They can include improper location, weather conditions and chemical damage.

"It's important to plant a tree in the right location for that particular species," he said. "White pines and pin oaks won't do well in neutral to alkaline soils; neither will hemlocks or beaches prosper in a dry location. Most trees won't do well in extremely wet sites."

Location also can affect the health of trees planted near a septic tank, surrounded by pavements or buildings, or in an area with poor drainage or excess moisture. Strong chemicals sometimes used in septic tanks can escape into surrounding soil and injure trees. In urban areas, trees are exposed to higher tem-

Pointers For Parents

What Every Parent Should Know About Ear Infections

(NAPS)—What's wrong with your youngster? He frequently pulls, rubs or scratches his ear. He's irritable, cranky, inattentive, and has no appetite. He doesn't seem to understand directions, and he plays the TV or radio louder than usual.

Displaying one or more of these symptoms may be an indication of otitis media, also known as middle ear infection, the most commonly treated illness in children under five years of age. Medical researchers report that by age three, 83 percent of children will experience at least one episode of otitis media, and nearly 50 percent will have three or more episodes.

The peak season for middle ear infection is late winter and early spring. "The illness develops when bacteria or viruses, usually associated with a cold or sore throat, infect the passageway between the ear and the back of the nose," explains Dr. Richard J. Perrotta, pediatric ear, nose and throat specialist at Columbia HCA Medical Center in West Palm Beach, Florida. "When fluids build up against the eardrum, the middle ear becomes painfully swollen and inflamed. An undiagnosed case can result in impaired hearing which, in turn, can lead to speech, language and learning disabilities."

The National Institute on Deafness and Other Communication Disorders warns that children at greatest risk of developing middle ear infections are usually:

- Male
- Aged six months to five years
- Bottle rather than breast fed
- In close contact with siblings with a history of recurring middle ear infections

- Participants in daycare
- Exposed to second-hand smoke

If the condition exists, Cedax®, a new antibiotic, may be prescribed.

Cedax offers both kids and parents "child friendly benefits"—such as a pleasant, cherry-flavored taste that many kids like—which can make giving medicine a bit easier. Its once-a-day dosing schedule enables parents to medicate their child at home—before or after school/day-care—instead of relying on school nurses or day care providers to administer multiple doses. In addition, clinical studies show that Cedax has a low incidence of side effects, such as diarrhea, and it's dye-free, so it won't stain clothing if it spills.

"Cedax is an ideal prescription medication for children with otitis media," says Dr. Perrotta. "Because it tastes good and doesn't have to be given two or three times a day like many antibiotics, it makes the proper treatment of children's middle ear infections much easier."

For more information about Cedax or middle ear infection, contact your family doctor or pediatrician.

Pointers On Pets

Protecting Pets From Pesky Parasites

(NAPS)—Time is ticking away for ticks since scientists discovered a chemical that not only kills the bothersome critters that can spread disease to your dog, but detaches them from your pet's body before they can harm it.

A new tick collar can help protect your pet from the blood-sucking parasites that can transmit life-threatening diseases.

Here are some facts about ticks and how you can protect your pet from them:

- Ticks are parasites that often carry disease germs in their bodies which they pass on to other animals when they bite them.
- No matter where you live, ticks and tick disease are a threat to your dog.
- Studies show that once a tick begins feeding, it takes approximately three days before it can transmit Lyme disease.
- Ticks are also associated with other diseases and conditions such as Canine Ehrlichiosis, Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever and Tick Paralysis.

One way to fight ticks is to use Tick Arrest, an affordable tick collar that contains a powerful compound called Amitraz (which stops ticks from feeding on your dog).

Once in contact with Amitraz, a tick's barbed mouth is paralyzed and cannot be used to pierce the dog's skin for attachment. The chemical also works to detach ticks that have already attached themselves to your dog. For your pet's safety, a tick must be detached as well as killed.

ANGELFISH

Angelfish are best known for their beautiful colors and unique shapes. There are many different types of angelfish. The most beautiful angelfish is the rock beauty, which is half black and half yellow, with bright yellow and red spots on its fins. However, angelfish can be any color of the rainbow. Most angelfish are about eight inches long, but they can be up to two feet long.

Angelfish live in shallow waters around reefs, rocks and coral in the ocean. The shape of their bodies is similar to an arrowhead. They have a small mouth with many small teeth and a long snout. Angelfish are very curious fish, and when approached by people or other fish, they do not swim away quickly like other fish do. They move very slowly and tilt their bodies to get a closer look!

It must be "fin" to be a fish!

I'd say it's "fin"tastic!

Happy Birthday, Mr. President

HERBERT HOOVER

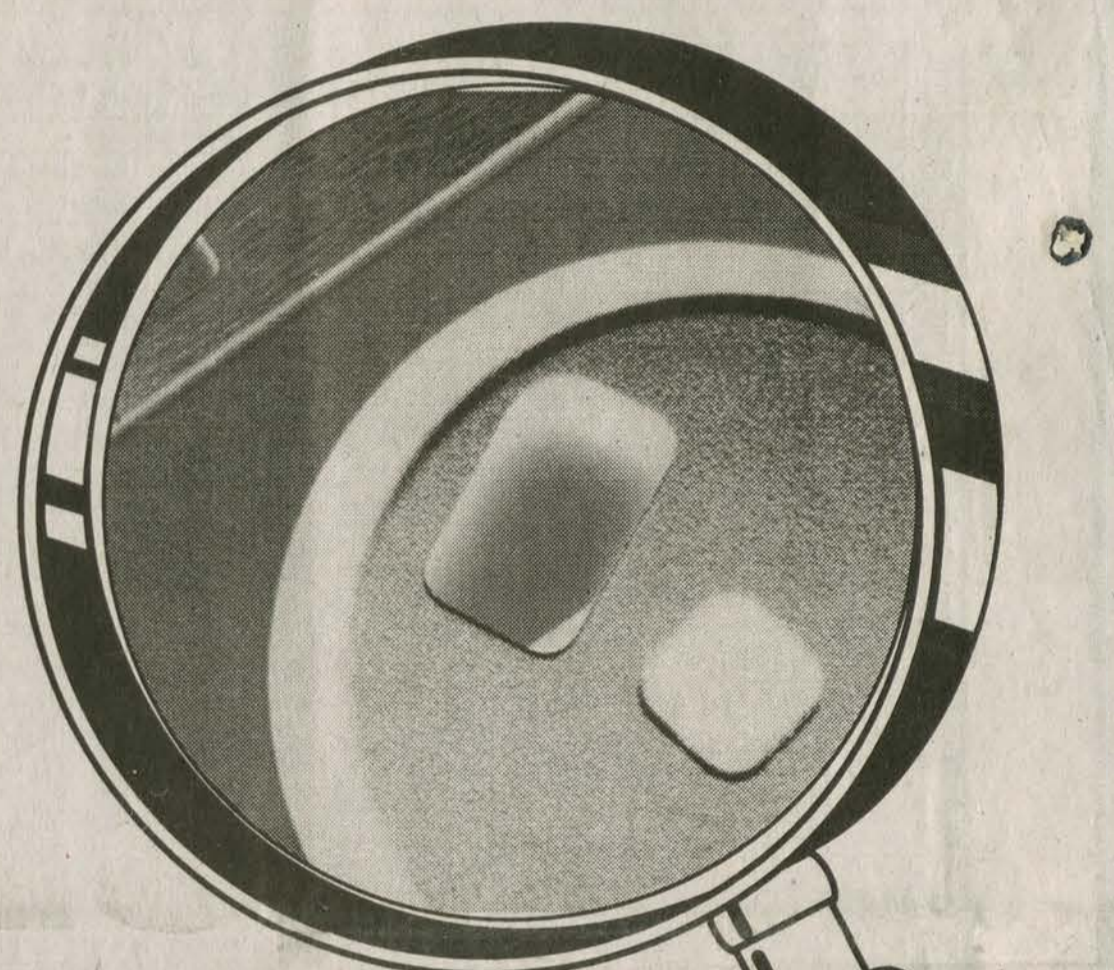

Herbert Clark Hoover was the thirty-first president of the United States. He served from 1929 to 1933. He was known for being a good businessman and organizer who cared very much for people.

Herbert Hoover was born in Iowa on August 10, 1874. He was always a very good student, and he went to college to study engineering and geology, the study of the earth. He got married when he was 25, and he and his wife traveled around the world for many years. Hoover worked as an engineering consultant in countries like China, Australia, Russia and Italy. When World War I began, the Hoovers were in London, and they helped about 150,000 stranded Americans get food and transportation back to the U.S. Hoover soon became the Food Administrator in the United States during the war. He sent millions of tons of food to Europe.

Hoover was elected president in 1928. This was a very difficult time for the United States. The country was suffering from financial problems. He set up government organizations and programs to improve economic conditions, but many people felt he didn't do enough. He ran for reelection in 1933 and was defeated by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Worship in Russia.

The church building will one day be a monumental testimony to their faith. At present, it has walls, roof, finished basement which serves as a multi-purpose area, and a half completed bell-tower.

The upstairs sanctuary is stacked with lumber and about ankle deep in sawdust. Windows are ten feet tall gothic openings in 20 inch walls of red brick and white stone.

The access to the upper level, five stories above, is a series of ladders. The building, under construction for two years, is perhaps three years away from completion.

We arrived for worship at 9 a.m. For 15 minutes the Russian church leaders met with the Americans in a little room next to the temporary sanctuary. We settled such issues as who would preach and who would offer testimony? How many songs would be sung, and who would sing them?

The assembled congregation waited quietly until preparations were complete. Babuskas (grandmothers) sat on hard benches without backs, patiently waiting. On the other side of the room, the choir of about 60, (more than a third of those present) waited also. They were teen-agers to middle-agers, all eager for worship to begin. There was a feeling of expectation and reverence.

Begin it did about 9:20 and lasted for more than two hours. Gregori, exuberant and skilled, directed the choir, led their singing, played a cornet in the brass band and sang in the 5 person male ensemble. There were trumpets, french horns, a tuba and trombones. The instruments were involved in every song.

There were three sermons, two personal testimonies, a poetry recitation and about ten musical events. There were two American preachers and a Russian one.

It was a victorious feast of Christian praise, a joyful celebration of their freedom to worship in public. There are an estimated 1,100 churches under construction in Russia today, all with an ardor for God.

I have a soft place in my heart for the Seltzo project. It is Baptist, but is primarily evangelical Christian. A large plaque above the pulpit says,

"...ВСЯЛИИ КТО ПРИЗОВЕТ ИМЯ ГОСПОДНЕ СПАСЕТЯ"

Or - "Anyone who calls on the name of the Lord, saved."

Please pray for them. Labor is volunteer; the church pays no salaries. All money received buys building materials. We are sending some cash on August 21. If you wish, you may send money to our church designated, "Seltzo Building Fund."

Meanwhile, "In Christ there is no east or west, in Him no south or north, but one great fellowship of love, throughout the whole wide earth." Hallelujah!

This is one of the finest collections of antiques and new furniture that I have seen. Many items to be sold on Friday night came from the old store so antique dealers and collectors need to look at these items. Many old Texaco and Wynn products. Mr. Casteel's parents, Roy and Alma, ran the store that was located on Hwy 109 between Dawson Springs and Pennyrite State Park. It closed in the 1970's.

Also for sale privately are an electric hospital bed, an electric cart, a wheel chair, an electric lift chair and other items related to home health care.

available to demonstrate drills or techniques each coach may choose to illustrate."

A tuition fee is required. Lunch will be served at the clinic site, and is included in the tuition fee. For more information or to register, contact Sergeant at (502) 585-7141 or (502) 585-7142.

ing in the BGSJ next year, since the next age level is planning to move to fast-pitch softball in '97. "I like slow-pitch a lot better," she said. "It's not as boring."

Both competitors enjoyed taking part in the Bluegrass State Games.

"It was neat; it felt a lot like the Olympics," Gardener said, and Fowler echoed that sentiment.

Many Trigg Countians watched the Olympics on television, but two of them got the chance to become a part of a broad competition with athletes from several varied venues in pursuit of a medal.

In earning that medal, they have shown that they are among the best in the state in their chosen fields, and are true Trigg County champions.

Sick trees: what causes problems

peratures and often don't receive enough water to grow well. These trees also might suffer from mechanical injury and exposure to de-icing salt. Poor soil drainage or excessive watering can drown roots and cause a tree to decline.

Even trees in good condition can take several years to recuperate from transplant shock. Mature trees growing in new developments often suffer from "bulldozer blight" and new trees in such sites suffer when planted in compacted subsoils.

Changing the soil grade adjacent to the root zone can have an adverse effect on trees in the landscape, said Hartman.

"Mature trees can't tolerate adding or removing even a few inches of soil in the root zone area," he said.

"The root zone area is well beyond the drip line and usually extends out a distance equal to the tree's height."

Drought conditions make landscape trees more attractive to canker diseases or borers.

"Although this summer has been cooler than last year, some areas just recently received the first significant rainfall in over a month," Hartman said. "This kind of drought stress makes trees more susceptible to diseases and insects that contribute to tree decline. In areas where thunderstorms have been prevalent, lightning can strike and kill trees."

Quota deer hunt draw to be at Birdsville

Squirrel season opens Aug. 17

Though temperatures across the commonwealth are still reaching the 90-degree mark, it's already time to start thinking about a traditional fall pastime: squirrel hunting. Because they are so plentiful and widespread, squirrels have been a popular pursuit for hunters since pioneer days, and the forecast looks good for this year.

"High mast production should translate into a good population of squirrels," said upland game coordinator Jeff Sole. "Populations should be as high or higher than last year."

The 1996 statewide squirrel season opens the third Saturday in August (Aug. 17) and runs through Dec. 31, except during a county's main gun deer season. The daily limit is six, and the possession limit is 12.

Shooting hours for squirrel season are 30 minutes before sunrise until 30 minutes after sunset. However, hunters may be in the field before and after shooting hours.

Those hunting on private land should get the landowner's permission first and conduct themselves as invited guests. Those failing to obtain permission are subject to arrest and prosecution.

Check other regulations in the 1996-97 Kentucky Deer and Small Game Hunting and Trapping Guide, available from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife by calling (502) 564-4336 weekdays from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

■ Squirrel hunting season at the Tennessee Valley Authority's Land Between the Lakes will reopen on Saturday, Aug. 17.

"We're expecting the best squirrel season in a long time," said LBL wildlife biologist Marc Cope. "Hunters had a good season last year, and squirrel populations are up this year due to good mast crops for three consecutive years."

All hunters must have an LBL Hunter Use Permit and appropriate state license. To purchase a hunting permit or pick up a copy of LBL hunting regulations, stop by any LBL facility or welcome station. Permits and regulations are also available at selected local merchants.

Hunters are permitted to use tick repellent during early squirrel season.

For more information, call (502) 924-2065 or write to TVA-LBL, 100 Van Morgan Dr., Golden Pond, Ky. 42211-9901.

■ Sept. 21 is the date of the quota deer hunt drawing for the Birdsville Island part of the Ohio River Island Wildlife Management Agency. The drawing will be held at 10 a.m. at the Birdsville boat ramp in Livingston County, seven miles east of Smithland on Ky. Highway 137. There is no predate application. Each person must be present to enter the drawing.

The hunt will be an either-sex hunt on Oct. 26 and 27. There will be 25 people drawn for the hunt.

Local students return to the classroom Monday, August 19

Trigg County students will begin the 1996-97 school year on Monday, Aug. 19, with a full day of classes.

Any students entering Trigg County Schools for the first time must have proof of immunization. They must also have completed a form stating that they have a medical examination no longer than six months prior to the opening of school and no later than one month after school begins. Proof of having had tuberculin skin test prior to entering school or within 30 days of the beginning of school is also required.

A certified copy of the student's birth certificate or other reliable proof of identity and age must also be presented with 30 days of the beginning of school, according to a state law passed by the General Assembly in 1986. If the documentation is not provided within the 30 day-period, the school is required to notify the person enrolling the student that they have 10 days to comply with the law or the case will be referred to the Kentucky State Police and local law enforcement officials for a missing person investigation.

Also, children entering kindergarten for the first time must be five years old by Oct. 1, 1996. Children must be six years old by the same date have successfully completed kindergarten in order to be admitted to the first grade. Those entering kindergarten must have an immunization certificate, a medical examination, a tuberculin test and a copy of the child's birth certificate. Parents who have children entering kindergarten for the first time and have not contacted the school should do so before classes begin on Monday.

Kindergarten will have all day sessions this year with the exception of students who prefer to come for half a day. If a student attends all day, there will be a fee for the expense of the teacher which is not paid by the state. If there are questions about the kindergarten program, contact Dr. Martha Davis, elementary principal, at 522-2220.

Parents will need to be aware of the traffic problem on the first day. If at all possible send the older children by bus.

The traffic is very hectic the first day, but it works itself out in a few days.

The state requires that we have four emergency bus evacuation drills each year. The drills will be conducted by the bus drivers on the school campus before they leave school in the afternoon. On these days the students will arrive home 10 to 20 minutes later than usual. The drills are scheduled for the following days: Aug. 20, 1996, Nov. 12, 1996, Jan. 7, 1997, and April 15, 1997.

School entry requires proof of shots, exams

Immunization certificates needed for enrollment

As parents prepare their children for the coming school year, health officials are reminding them to include up-to-date immunization certificates and medical exams on their check list.

School entry is the first opportunity Kentucky officials have to make sure that children have the shots required by state law. But children should have had most of the shots before their second birthday.

"Parents should remember that school need the certificate at first school entry, but children need most of these shots while they are still toddlers," said Clarson Palmer, M.D., communicable disease branch manager in the Department for Health Services.

Kentucky state law requires students entering schools for the first time, including preschool, to have immunizations against diphtheria, tetanus, polio, measles and rubella. Upon enrolling their children in school, parents must present a certificate confirming the shots.

First-time students entering primary grades and up must also present a certificate proving that they have had a tuberculosis test within one year prior to enrollment.

Incoming sixth graders must have had two measles/rubella shots and a physical examination.

Parents needing shots, TB skin tests or physical exams for their children should contact their private physician or the health department in their community. These health officials can also provide parents with the certificates necessary for school enrollment.

Windows to the World

A trip to Spain was just one of the wondrous locales Trigg County Elementary School students visited during their annual Windows to the World last year.

Middle school provides students with educational opportunities

The middle school faculty and staff look forward to welcoming all of our students on Aug. 19 for the first full day of the 1996-97 school year. It is our goal to provide our students with the best possible educational opportunities and experiences during their stay at T.C.M.S.

The middle school PTO will host an Open House on Thursday, Aug. 15, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. There will be a brief orientation meeting beginning at 6 p.m. in the Little Theater for all incoming sixth graders, new students and their parents. Afterwards, they will be dismissed to visit their homerooms to obtain their enrollment packets. Teachers on the seventh and eighth grade teams will be hosting an Open House for all returning seventh and eighth grade students and their parents between 6 and 7:30 p.m. Enrollment packets may be picked up in each student's homeroom.

Students will receive their schedules, MIDCAT handbooks, enrollment forms, test results and other information during the orientation. We encourage parents to review the contents of the student-parent handbook with their children in order to become familiar with our programs, policies and schedules. School fees may also be paid the night of orientation. The middle school PVO (Parent Volunteer Organization) will be conducting their membership drive. Parents are encouraged to join and participate in the middle school PVO program this year for a membership fee of $2 per person or $3 for a family. The 1996-97 officers of the middle school P.T.O. include the following: president Mitzi Noel; vice president Vicki Bryan and sec./ treas. Sybil Long.

Students who do not attend the orientations will receive their schedules and all other enrollment information during homeroom on the first day of school.

All students who are entering the sixth grade for the first time are required by state law to present a new physical examination certificate upon entry to school. All immunization should be up-to-date, also.

Parents of middle school students should expect to receive report cards of their child's progress every nine weeks.

Progress reports are sent out for all students at the mid-point of each nine weeks.

Parents are encouraged to request conferences with teachers or the guidance counselor by calling the middle school office to set up an appointment at 522-2210.

All middle school students will have a $3 computer fee.
