Industrial Authority seeking 60-acre site

By Tommy Newton
Editor

The Trigg County Industrial Authority is working to buy more land in east Cadiz, chairman Ben Cundiff said Monday.

The industrial board plans to buy 60 acres and take an option on another 40 acres near the industrial park that is home to U.S. Tobacco, American National Rubber and Chelsea Industries, Cundiff said. The purchase could be completed by mid-January or mid-February, he said.

The board has enough money to buy the 60-acre site, but may have to borrow money to develop it, he said.

But the board hopes the state will provide some money to help provide roads and utilities at the site, Judge-Executive Berlin Moore Jr. said.

No industries are actively looking at Cadiz and Trigg County, Cundiff said, but the board, which has limited space available in other industrial parks, wants to have a site ready just in case.

Work at the site won't include a "spec" building, Cundiff and Moore said.

"We feel like it's best, after talking to economic development people, that a spec building is not the way to go," Moore said.

"We'll try to develop a nice looking park ... and try to sell the site," Cundiff said.

Developing the site is part of a continuing effort to provide higher-paying jobs in Trigg County, Cundiff and Moore said.

"It's absolutely necessary we get a new park to recruit new industry into the county," Moore said.

Attracting a new industry could be difficult if the company looks at the county's low unemployment and a small labor pool, Cundiff said. But the board will use a sales pitch that many people are working in low-paying jobs and are looking for better opportunities, he said.

"I think we could staff another sizeable plant," he said.

Heath shootings prompt review of school security

By Tommy Newton
Editor

In the wake of Monday's shootings at Heath High School, the Trigg County school board will review the district's security policies at its next meeting.

"All public facilities are susceptible to what happened at Heath today," Superintendent Jim Wallace said during Monday night's board meeting.

The schools, however, face a dilemma of maintaining accessible and inviting facilities and providing a safe and secure atmosphere, Wallace said.

Wallace asked board attorney C.A. Woodall III to gather the school policies on security and have those ready for review at the Dec. 15 meeting.

Board chairman Howell Hopson said the Heath incident "makes you take time to assess what you've been doing."

A 14-year-old Heath freshman is charged with killing three students and wounding five others Monday morning. Security issues aren't a new topic for the Trigg schools. The high school recently made some security changes to curb reports of theft and vandalism.

But Wallace said the board needs to take another look at security and decide if any other changes need to be made.

Wallace also told the board that he had sent email messages to Heath school officials offering the assistance of the Trigg school system's crisis intervention team.

Eighth-graders raise $2,000 for classmate

By Tommy Newton

The best Thanksgiving ever for Ashley Meredith and her family was made even better Nov. 26 by the Trigg County Middle School's eighth-grade class.

Students presented Ashley with a check for $2,074 to help with the cost of her therapy for anorexia.

"It was really nice," Ashley said after a Wednesday morning assembly of eighth-graders.

Ashley, the 13-year-old daughter of Eddie and Betsy Meredith, returned to Cadiz on Nov. 22 after spending 60 days at the Remuda Ranch in Wickenburg, Ariz. The treatment plan cost her family more than $63,000 but the community has responded by helping raise money.

"You know you live in a good community ... but whenever something like this happens you appreciate it much more," her mother said.

The eighth-graders began their fund-raising project as part of Kay Wyatt's Life Skills class, but the project soon spread to all eighth-graders and even sixth- and seventh-graders.

"That was the best part that it became an eighth-grade project," Wyatt said.

The project began with the idea that $2,000 could be raised if each student brought 25 cents a day for six weeks, Wyatt said.

Missing loan officer's car found; bank not planning to file charges

By Tommy Newton
Editor

Trigg County Farmers Bank has completed its investigation of a former loan officer missing for three months and doesn't expect to file any charges, bank president Ben Cundiff said Monday.

But Cadiz police are preparing to file warrants against Jill Holland as part of an investigation into alleged credit card fraud, Chief Hollis Alexander said Monday.

And the 1994 Toyota Camry that Holland was driving when she left Cadiz on Sept. 3 has been found at the airport in Nashville, Tenn., and has been returned to the bank, Cundiff said.

The bank had been looking into the loans and files of Holland, who had been an employee for more than 20 years.

"We have finished that up" and the bank turned over findings to its insurance company, Cundiff said.

The bank's loss — which Cundiff declined to make public — was covered by insurance except for a deductible, he said. The amount was "a relatively small loss as these things go," he said.

The bank charged off the loss in September, Cundiff said.

Since the insurance company covered the loss, any criminal charges in the case would likely be filed by the company, he said.

Holland's whereabouts remain unknown, Cundiff said.

GOOD NEIGHBOR

If you took part in the community Thanksgiving dinner it would be safe to say that the first person to greet you was Brenda Bush. Brenda, this week's Good Neighbor, is one of those special people who puts out the welcome mat as soon as she sees you coming. It doesn't matter if you meet her inside the doors of the Wallonia Baptist Church, in the middle aisle of the grocery store or in a village in Africa, she immediately extends the right hand of friendship. Her friends say that Brenda is a modern day "Lottie Moon," doing whatever it takes to spread the good word. Proof of that is her recent mission to Africa. The Rev. O.D. Boyd, East Cadiz Baptist Church, was delighted with her enthusiasm as she ministered to the native Africans, going from house to house with the gospel. It's true, her heart is in missions, it's also true that she never loses sight of her friends and neighbors in Cadiz.

Saturday's parade heralds holiday season

Santa Claus will be the grand marshal for Saturday night's Cadiz Christmas Parade.

The theme of the parade, which begins at 6 p.m., is "Finding the Perfect Gift."

As of Monday morning 35 groups, including the Trigg County High School Marching Wildcat Band, had entered, according to Carl Woodall, president of the Cadiz/Trigg County Chamber of Commerce.

Entries for the parade will be taken until noon Friday at the Tourist Center downtown.

Parade participants will line up for judging at 5 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot behind the high school. Judging will be done in four categories: small business/civic groups, churches/schools, youth groups and industry.

The parade route is east on Lafayette Street to Midway Street, up Midway to Main Street and west on Main Street to Cadiz park.

Main Street residents are being urged to place luminaries along their sidewalks to light the parade route, Woodall said. The candles and bags can be picked up from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday at the Tourist Center.

Parade watchers also should carry flashlights that night.

For information, contact Kathy Keys at 522-3892.

Holiday House

Another holiday tradition begins this week when Holiday House opens in the lobby of Trigg County Farmers Bank.

Holiday House will be open from Friday through Dec. 27 during regular banking hours. On Saturday, the nine trees will be on display from 4 p.m. until after the parade. Refreshments will be served Saturday.

Penalties, definitions different for theft, robbery, burglary

Question: What is the difference between a robbery, burglary and theft?

Answer: These are three separate and distinct crimes which may or may not intermingle. For instance, for a robbery to be committed, there must be a theft. The crime of robbery is when a person steals something from another through force or threat of force.

Robbery is normally considered a crime against a person, although property is taken in the process. Robbery is normally considered a violent offense inasmuch that if actual force is not used, it is at least threatened; and there always lurks the potential of personal injury or even death. It makes no difference that the offender has no real intention of carrying out the threat. The robbery of a bank teller, for instance, is still a robbery even though the weapon used by the criminal turns out to be a water pistol.

You can have a theft, however, without it being a robbery. Theft is the unlawful taking of property with the intent to deprive the owner thereof. It carries a much lesser penalty than does robbery because it is a property crime and classified as nonviolent. If the property taken is worth more than $300, the person can still be sent to the penitentiary for up to five years.

The crime of burglary is somewhat of a middle ground between robbery and theft. Many people have the conception that a house can be robbed, but only people can be robbed. Houses are burglarized. A burglary occurs when a person unlawfully enters a building to commit a crime therein. Note that there must be intent to commit a crime within a building, and it does not have to be the crime of theft.

A burglary and theft are tied together closely because most break-ins are committed for the purpose of stealing something inside the building. However, a burglary does not require a theft to have actually been committed, nor does it even require that a theft be intended. For example, the unlawful breaking into a house for the purpose of inflicting damage upon the furnishings would be a burglary. The same would be the case if the intention was to commit the much more serious crime of rape.

These three crimes also give a graphic illustration of how the Kentucky Penal Code attempts to impose a sentence in accordance to the degree of danger to life and limb as opposed to property. For instance, it is a much more serious crime and carries a stiffer penalty to burglarize a house as opposed to an unoccupied building. It is even more serious to burglarize a house while armed with a deadly weapon than simply to break in unarmed.

Robbery can carry a penalty in Kentucky from as low as five years up to 20 years, depending upon the circumstances. If a victim is injured during a robbery, or even if the guilty person is armed with a deadly weapon, the penalty range is from 10 to 20 years. The obvious intent of the higher penalty is to deter the infliction of injury upon the robbery victims. Robbery in the second degree, which carries a penalty of five to 10 years in the penitentiary, is committed when the robber only threatens physical force upon the victim, but neither carries out the threat or brandishes a deadly weapon.

Eighth-graders' inspired effort to help Ashley Meredith inspiring

In the past two or three weeks, I've heard several people talk about what a giving and caring community we have in Cadiz and Trigg County.

That was never more evident than last Wednesday morning when Trigg County eighth-graders presented Ashley Meredith with a check for $2,074 to help cover some of the costs of her treatment for anorexia.

As Principal Vernon Hendricks told the students, it's easy for adults to criticize young people and dwell on the negative. But he said the students' fund-raising project was worthy of praise.

All the middle school students and their families should be proud of their efforts to help a classmate.

Students who didn't even know Ashley pitched in, eighth-graders Jennifer Bodine, Kate Steinbeck and Victoria King said.

Students who hadn't worked together before did, they said.

by Tommy Newton
© The Cadiz Record

Students who hadn't been involved got involved, they said.

"Everybody just came together," Steinbeck said.

The students have learned lessons that will last a lifetime. And their giving won't stop with Ashley. They're already thinking about other projects and other needs.

That brought a smile to the face of teacher Kay Wyatt.

The idea for the fund-raiser began after a discussion of citizenship in Wyatt's Life Skills class. When Wyatt learned about Ashley's costly treatment, she told her students that they could raise $2,000 or more by giving 25 cents a day for six weeks.

The students took it from there and the project quickly included the entire eighth-grade class, she said.

Most of the money came from the students because they collected "tons of change" each day, she said. "I knew I was getting that Coke money," Wyatt said.

The students wouldn't stop their effort until they topped the $2,000 mark, either.

When the six-week period ended with $1,950 raised, the students asked for one more day and raised another $124.

They had met the goal and then some. They had learned what citizenship is all about.

They had helped out a friend and classmate who needed help.

And they helped show that young people can make a positive change.

Actions truly speak louder than words.

Real campaign finance reform: Just elect the donors, not the politicians

Today I want to talk about campaign finance reform which is ... WAIT! COME BACK HERE!

Campaign finance reform happens to be a very important issue, which is why for the past year it has been the subject of lengthy and sincere hearings by the House and Senate Joint Committee Of Men Going Blah Blah Blah. Like most Americans, you probably paid no attention to these hearings, so I'm going to explain the major findings here, using simple layperson's terms such as "pickles."

Basically our campaign-finance system works this way: Donors give money to politicians, who then use the government to do favors for the donors. It's exactly like buying a hamburger, except that under our laws, everybody must pretend that nobody is buying anything, and nobody is selling anything. The donors must pretend that they're giving money solely because they support good government; the politicians must pretend that the favors will benefit the entire nation. If Burger King operated this way, a typical transaction would go like this:

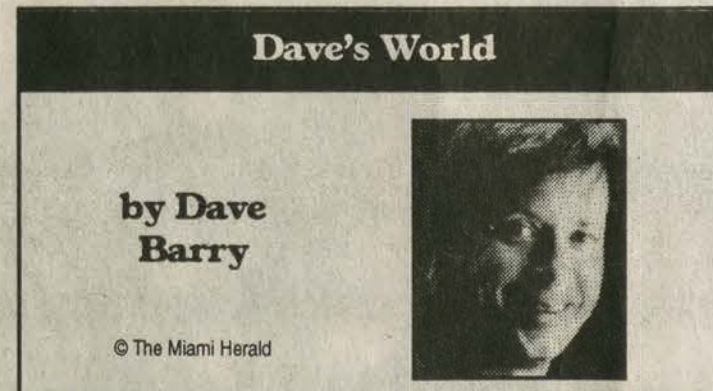

CUSTOMER: Here's some money! But I don't want a burger! I'm just supporting quality fast food!

COUNTER PERSON: Fine! Because we don't sell burgers, here at Burger King! Although there might be a burger there that you can have, for the good of the entire nation!

CUSTOMER: Would it have extra pickles?

COUNTER PERSON: Of course it would! The entire nation needs extra pickles!

If you think this scenario is amusing, you would have enjoyed the campaign-finance hearings, during which the fact that the federal government is basically for sale was largely disregarded in favor of endless nitpicky discussion about exactly how President Clinton and Vice President Gore grubbed for money, and especially whether they grubbed for

by Dave Barry
© The Miami Herald

money ON federal property (Bad!) or OFF (OK!), and whether they grubbed for money from foreign sleazebags (Bad!) or domestic sleazebags (OK!).

The politicians in Congress, who of course have spent the majority of their adult lives grubbing for money, expressed great shock upon learning how campaign financing works. So did President Clinton and Vice President Gore. They had no idea! So now everybody in Washington is fed up with the current system. Democrats and Republicans agree: It's time for REAL reform, damn it! No more messing around! And thus it appears that, after years of stalling, this nation really and truly will have meaningful campaign-finance reform, just as soon as we establish a viable trout farm on Jupiter.

Until then, our elected leaders will continue to grub relentlessly for money. Why do they do this? Is it because they're hypocritical gasbags with the ethical standards of tapeworms?

Yes! I mean: No! It's not their fault! They have no choice! Because in America, the only way you can get elected to high office is to hire expensive consultants, who conduct expensive polls to find out what the voters think, and then, having found out that the voters think that all politicians are slime, make expensive TV commercials wherein you show a hideously unflattering photograph of your opponent and have a snarling announcer say something like: "Harvey Hackensilt would" like you to believe that he has never eaten live human babies. Who's he trying to fool?"

If you don't run this kind of campaign, you can't get elected; and if you don't get elected, you can't realize the idealistic dream that attracted you to politics in the first place: the dream of getting re-elected.

So let's analyze the cash flow: Sleazeballs who want government favors give money to politicians, who give it to consultants, pollsters, advertising agencies and television stations, who get you to elect the politicians, who thus get more money from sleazeballs. Do you see what's morally wrong with this, voters? That's correct: Your government, the government that your Founding Fathers fought and died for, is being sold over and over like a used mobile home, and YOU'RE NOT GETTING A CUT!

I say this stinks. I say we should have a fair, honest and democratic system whereby the money would go directly from the sleazeballs to the voters. That's right: I say we eliminate the politicians altogether, and put the donors directly into office. The way it would work is, you'd go into the voting booth, and there would be a list of donors competing for each office, and next to each donor there would be a number indicating how many dollars the donor was willing to pay for your vote. When you pulled that donor's lever, the dollars would immediately come out of a slot in the voting machine.

If we had a system like this, voter turnout would be WAY higher. Of course another likely result is that we'd elect people who were criminal, or incompetent, or who were being given a congressional seat as a present for their 8th birthday. In other words, it would not be any worse than it is now. So I say we adopt my plan. First we need to amend the Constitution. Assuming it has not been sold.

OPINION

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Defibrillators can save many lives

To the editor:

The sudden onset of a heart attack with resulting abnormal heart-pumping rhythm, also known as myocardial infarction (MI) with ventricular fibrillation (VF) is the leading cause of death (40.57 percent) for people age 55 to 65 years. Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) can be life saving for an MI but not for an MI with VF. The November Readers Digest included an article titled "This Machine Could Save Your Life" and can be ordered by calling 1-800-289-6457 (10 copies for $27) or free from me by calling 522-4230. When you read the article you will learn:

■ Death usually occurs within four to seven minutes of VF and only few people survive after 10 minutes of VF.

■ Life saving fully automatic external defibrillators (AED) are now available for $3,000.

■ Policemen have saved lives with AEDs.

The EMTs in our emergency ambulance do have an AED on board. Can they reach you within four minutes?

Could people in neighborhoods such as Rockcastle, Park View, Canton Shores, Blue Springs, etc. band together, waive legal liabilities and purchase the battery-powdered AED and make arrangements to always have a neighbor available to use it in less than four minutes. Be creative, talk to your neighbors. It's a matter of life or death.

If 15 households band together with each contributing $200, it would prevent needless deaths. When VF is suspected because of sudden collapse and a red or purple face, they will first call 911 then the neighbors with the AED and then give CPR. Time is critical.

It will be best to have the AED in the hands of a trained person such as a physician, EMT or nurse, but the device is fully automatic with voice commands and can be used by a lay person.

We will try to make arrangements in our neighborhood. Should you do the same in your area?

Why did you work on Thanksgiving?

I chose to work today. I wanted the other employees to be home with their families. I also work Christmas. Its nothing new. Sometimes two or three folks will stop by with Thanksgiving or Christmas "fixins." It's not that bad.

We all want to be with our families too. But we wanted to work today so the others could be with their families. My kids are grown, they wanted to cook this year. So when I'm done here I'll go home to Thanksgiving dinner.

I worked last year for Christmas too. I don't mind it. If anyone needs help we all pitch in and help.

If you gotta work, you gotta work. I have a husband and twins waiting for me to get home. They understand its my job to be here today

City's Thanksgiving meal serves up good feelings

By Sandra Myers
Staff writer

For the sixth consecutive year the community joined together in a labor of love, serving 438 Thanksgiving meals with help from more than 100 volunteers.

Rev. Bob Martin, director of missions for the Little River Baptist Association, estimated 133 meals were delivered and 203 meals were served as dine-ins or picked up by individuals or families.

The meals were made possible by donations of community businesses, organizations and churches, Martin said, as well as countless others who donated time and generous offerings of homemade breads, pies, and cakes.

"Considering that the first 39 names on the delivery list were folks normally receiving Meals on Wheels and a large portion of our walk-ins were folks that eat their noon meal at the Senior Citizen Center, it seems we are meeting the needs of the community more and more every year," Martin said.

(Meals on Wheels and the Senior Citizen Center were closed for the holiday).

"When we forget ourselves and get involved with those around us in a positive way, that's when life becomes a meaningful experience," Martin added. "Today has been one of those meaningful experiences!"

The day proved to be a meaningful experience for all the volunteers: Those who cooked, those who prepared, those who served, those who delivered and those who did clean-up duty.

First-time volunteers and friends Michel Zmuda and Michael Buler had plans for turkey dinner but they fell through at the last minute.

Buler was originally stationed at Fort Campbell, but now attends college in Scarborough, Maine. He returned to Cadiz to visit some old friends.

When plans fell through he and Zmuda didn't want to just sit around. They figured they should "do something that counted."

Buler and Zmuda agree that the experience will last a lifetime.

They were touched to the point of tears when they delivered meals to a home where the wife was terminally ill with only a short time predicted to live.

The husband accepted the Thanksgiving meals with a heavy heart, tears in his eyes and thank you on his lips.

"That one experience makes everything worthwhile," Zmuda said. "We could have sat around and done nothing or gone to the movies or something, but we are glad we decided to do this."

A heartwarming story comes from Al Waldschmidt, another helper.

"This is my third dinner, but my first one to volunteer to help," Waldschmidt said. "I felt it was my turn to give back little of what's been given to me. Good deeds often beget good deeds."

Bob Vidmar and Bill Fuller help dish out the community Thanksgiving dinner last Thursday at the Cadiz Baptist Church annex on Main Street.

"I felt it was my turn to give back little of what's been given to me. Good deeds often beget good deeds."

Now you see it.

Now you don't.

Introducing the Beltone Invisa. Beltone has developed an exciting hearing aid called Invisa (pronounced In-VEE-za). Now all the joy of better hearing comes in the tiniest aid Beltone makes. We call Invisa our "hidden hearing aid" because its incredibly small size allows it to hide deeply, yet comfortably inside your ear canal. Out of sight and out of mind.

It's also available with a selection of faceplate colors designed to match the shadow of your ear canal. This natural camouflage can make it virtually impossible for anyone to see Invisa once it's in place.

Invisa also gives you the luxury of totally hands-free operation. Your Beltone specialist will pre-select a volume setting that's right for you, so you'll never have to mess with a volume control.

Of course, the Invisa hearing aid is not appropriate for everyone. The benefits of hearing aids vary by type and degree of hearing loss, noise environment, accuracy of hearing evaluation and proper fit. That's why we feel that a personal evaluation is necessary to determine if the Invisa is right for you.

'Quite an experience' for Merediths

By Tommy Newton
Editor

The holidays came early for Ashley Meredith's family.

"This will be the best Thanksgiving we'll ever have," said Betsy Meredith, the mother of the 13-year-old girl who had been in Arizona for 60 days receiving treatment for anorexia.

"We're thankful to have her home and she's doing so well," Meredith said Nov. 26 after an assembly of eighth-graders at Trigg County Middle School.

Ashley said she was happy to be back in Cadiz after her two months at the Remuda Ranch in Wickenburg, Ariz.

Ashley said she was homesick for the first few days in Arizona but quickly made friends and got accustomed to the daily routine.

That routine included morning

chapel services, sessions on body image and nutrition, meetings with a therapist and afternoon horse riding.

Leaving the facility after two months "was hard," Ashley said. "I had made a lot of friends."

Betsy Meredith said the family was told "you cry when you get there and you cry when you leave."

She and her husband Eddie spent one week at the facility for training, therapy and get-acquainted sessions with parents of other girls there.

"It was quite an experience," Betsy Meredith said.

Dark-colored burley draws premium prices from buyers

By Tommy Newton
Editor

If the first days of burley tobacco sales are an indication, farmers are in for some changes this year, agriculture officials say.

One change is in the type of leaf buyers are looking for, Trigg County Extension agent Jason P'Pool said.

Buyers are paying premium prices of $1.92 to $2.05 a pound for the darker-colored tips and trash, P'Pool said. The brighter-colored leaf that traditionally is better-quality and higher-priced is bringing $1.85 to $1.90 a pound, he said.

That has created another change for farmers: the need to strip burley into two or three grades to "add dollars to their pockets," said Agriculture Commissioner Billy Ray Smith.

"This is certainly a season when buyers are bidding on tobacco, but there are specific qualities and kinds of tobacco that each of the buyers and markets are wanting," Smith said. "Our advice to farmers is to take the time to grade their tobacco."

The market opened last week with prices spread from $2.05 a pound for some tips to $1.76 for one-grade tobacco. Most of the graded burley was in three categories with flyings at $1.92, mid-stalk at $1.80 and tips at $2.05. Last year most grades received a $1.92.

Prices statewide for the first four days of sales averaged nearly $1.91 for more than 80 million pounds.

Both P'Pool and UK agricultural economist Will Snell said prices will be affected by the actual size of this year's burley crop. A wet spring forced many farmers to delay planting their burley.

"Most of the buyers I talked with on opening day have this year's crop pegged at 540 to 575 million pounds, somewhat lower than earlier projected," said Snell, who works with the UK College of Agriculture. "However, if the pounds are out there and the quality of tobacco being presented for sale drops off, we could see some further softening of prices."

Students made posters and fliers, wrote letters and collected money.

"It brought everybody together," student Kate Steinbeck said.

Students stuck with the project even though some adults didn't think they could raise the money, Wyatt said.

On the fund-raiser's final day, $1,950 had been collected, she said. Wyatt said she was ready to stop there just short of the goal, but students wanted to collect for one more day. The next day another $124 was collected.

"I was so proud of that," Wyatt said. "When children put their minds to it, they can do it."

The fund-raising effort brought out a side of students that most people don't see, Steinbeck and student Jennifer Bodine said.

That was the point Principal Vernon Hendricks emphasized in his remarks to open the assembly.

"All too often, adults tend to criticize, complain and put down our young people as being self-centered, irresponsible and disrespectful," he said. "We tend to dwell on the negative instead of recognizing the wonderful accomplishments and achievements made by our young folks on a daily basis.

"What you have accomplished here today demonstrates the qualities of compassion, commitment, dedication, character and perseverance in taking the steps necessary to make a positive difference in another person's life."

Hendricks called the project the students' greatest undertaking ever.

"It's always been said actions speak louder than words and what you have done here today has truly proven it," he said.

Ashley, who surprised her classmates and her mother by attending the ceremony, thanked them for their help, prayers and letters while she was in Arizona.

"I think it meant a lot to her that they did this for her," Betsy Meredith said.

After the assembly, Ashley spent a few minutes hugging classmates and talking with friends she hadn't seen in two months. And after a few weeks at the school district's electronic classroom, Ashley hopes to be back at the middle school by early next semester.

"We're glad Ashley's back," Steinbeck said.

The Five Steps To Health...

There are five steps you must take to reach permanent good health, which is our goal at this center.

STEP ONE...Relief From Pain
This most important step addresses the immediate distress that a person is feeling, which is to find the cause of the pain and, through spinal treatments and/or therapy, achieve relief. Then we can go to Step Two.

STEP TWO...Correcting The Cause
The path toward permanent relief must include finding the actual cause of the pain and distress. Often, the actual cause is not obvious because pain can be located in one part of the body while the cause may be located in other parts of the body. Causes of distress occur from three areas: Trauma, toxicity, and negative thoughts. This means stress from injury, dietary insufficiencies, or emotional reactions that cause negative stress. In all cases, the actual cause of pain and distress must be identified and corrected. Otherwise symptoms can return.

STEP THREE...Living Healthy
Once the cause of distress and pain has been discovered and corrected, changes in the living habits that caused the symptoms in the first place must be addressed. This may involve dietary and physical exercise changes. Then a person can achieve the benefits of a healthy life.

STEP FOUR...Thinking Healthy
Once Step Three is achieved, it is important to address ways to avoid the distress of negative thoughts and learn to think healthy. Our bodies operate as a whole, which means that what affects our physical condition changes our attitudes and feelings. At the same time, the way we feel and think affects our body. When we learn to think healthy as well as live healthy, we address the whole person and this prepares us for Step Five.

STEP FIVE...Staying Healthy
Now that pain has been relieved, the causes corrected, and we have learned how to live and think healthy, we are prepared to stay healthy. However, this does not occur automatically. We must always be alert to the fact that it is easy to go back to old habits and living patterns. But because we have taken the correct steps, we are now ready to stay healthy and achieve the benefits of permanent good health.

Time running out to help 'angels'

Time is getting short, have you adopted your angel yet? If not, please do so immediately as gifts are to be returned no later than Wednesday, Dec. 10.

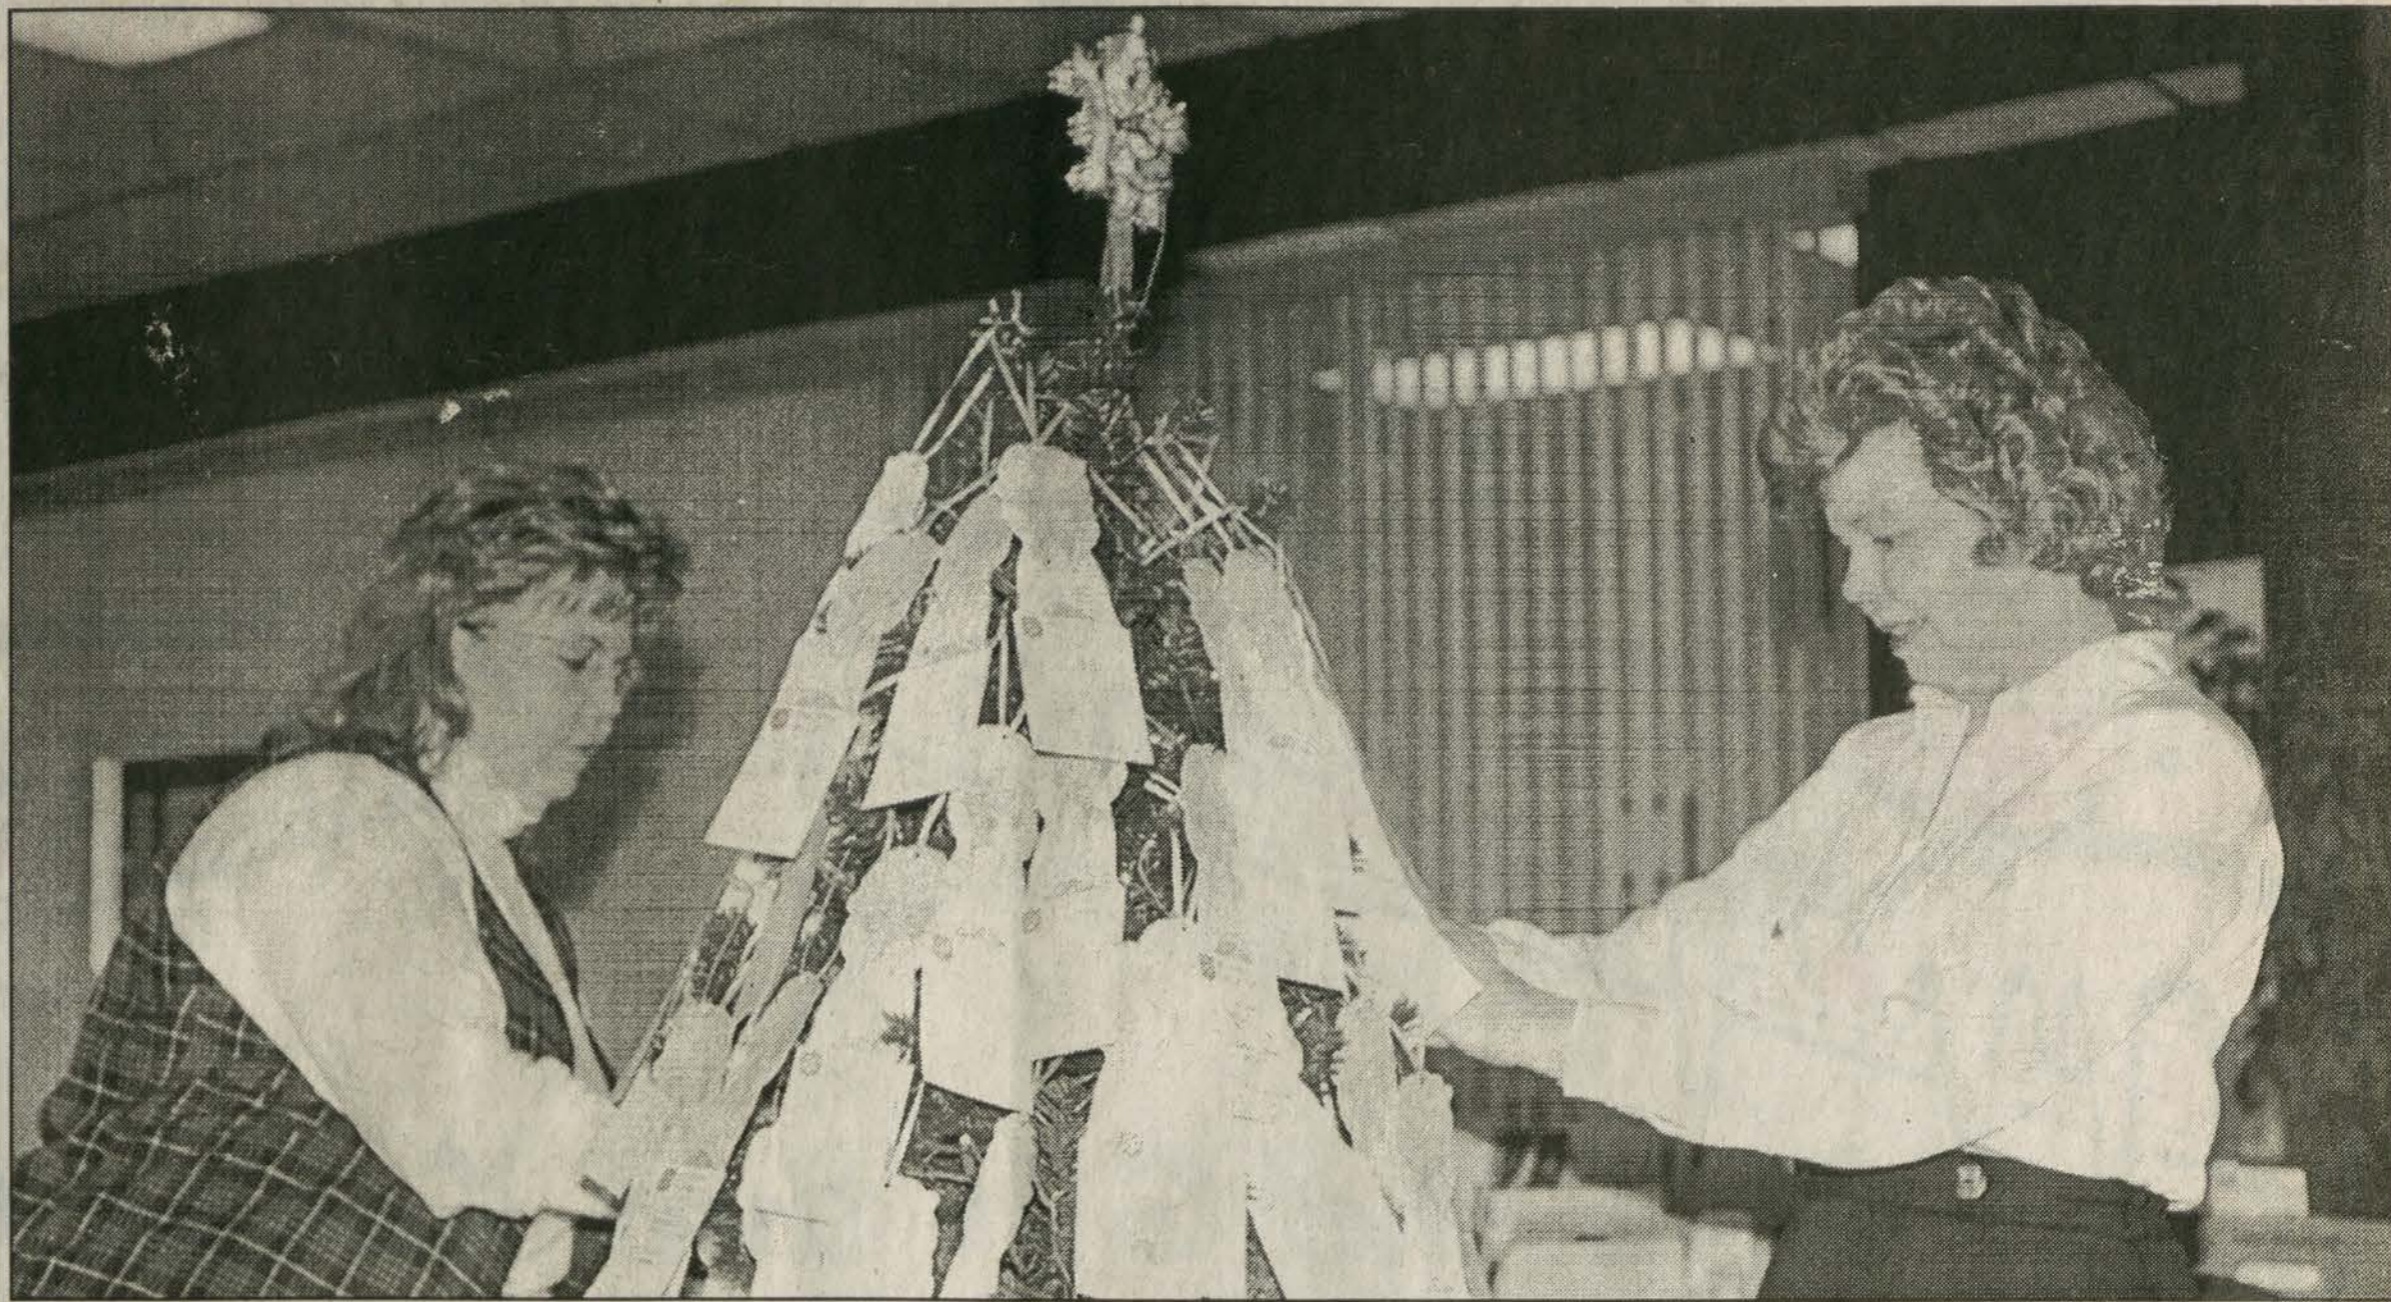

There are angels on the tree at Trigg County Farmers Bank and the Bank of Cadiz. Members of Beta Nu Chapter, ESA, urge Trigg Countians to go to the bank of their choice and pick an angel from the tree, get a checklist and sign the book.

When you shop, please purchase new clothes and toys. Wrap each gift separately with the angel's name and number on each package. Combine packages in a bag or box or tie them together, putting the angel's name, number and the checklist on the outside.

Please be generous, your gifts could be the only ones they get for Christmas. All the angels are from Trigg County.

Susan Holmes, left, of the Bank of Cadiz and Lillie Sue Bostick, president of Beta Nu, work on an Angel Tree last week at the Bank of Cadiz.

Cablevision hosting 'Toys for Kids'

Cablevision, the community's cable provider, is once again hosting their annual Toys for Kids campaign. For the past several years during the holiday season, Cablevision has traditionally made its business available to the community as a way for gathering new toys that are distributed to children throughout the area at Christmas time.

Cablevision has hosted this special Toys for Kids campaign for the past several years. In fact since 1991, the customers of Cablevision's Kentucky Regional office have donated approximately $50,000 in new toys which were then given to the children in areas from which they were donated.

The concept of the Toys for Kids drive is simple. When an individual within Cablevision's service area contacts the company for cable service, they are given the opportunity to have their installation work done free if they donate a new toy valued at $10 or more. Once the toys are collected, they are then given to a local service agency that works to identify and distribute toys to children of less fortunate families.

The special holiday campaign began on Monday, Nov. 18, and will continue on until the end of the year.

Cablevision is the sixth largest cable provider in the country. The Kentucky Region serves as the management and customer service center for 23 cable systems in three states providing service to more than 34,000 customers.

Hospital financially healthy midway through fiscal year

By Sandra Myers
Staff writer

With the first half of the fiscal year behind them, Trigg County Hospital board members heard Danny R. Watter, vice president for corporate finance at Murray-Calloway County Hospital, report the hospital is in good financial health and on budget with less than an a 1 percent variance for the year to date.

He told members that there was a slight increase in inpatient volume over the past year with records indicating patients staying slightly longer than last year. Watters reported significant improvement of 88 percent increased volume in swing-bed use, realizing one of the goals set for the hospital at the beginning of the fiscal year.

Emergency room admissions were up 17 percent over the past year and the rural health clinic showed an increase of 58 percent in revenue.

In other business, administrator Rick Chapman reported that the construction and renovation project continues on schedule with January 1998 firm for drawings to be ready for final bids and sent to the state for approval.

Chapman also said the home health agency continues to be postponed because of President Clinton's moratorium on the approval of any Medicare home health certification. Chapman said he has received correspondence from the Health Care Finance Administration (HCFA) acknowledging the hospital's request for exemption from the moratorium and requesting additional information to substantiate the request.

Chairman Ben Cundiff informed the board that the Health Department request for property to build a new health department building is in an "investigative status" and still requires "a lot of research before any recommendations can be acted on."

"The medical arts, hospital and health department board members along with city and county officials will continue to study available options to find the one that will best serve the needs of the county," Cundiff said.

Stuart Poston, administrator of Murray-Calloway County Hospital, told members that MCCH was looking into the possibility of acquiring dialysis equipment and necessary specialists to perform medical procedures.

If MCCH is successful in this effort it will look at the feasibility of setting up a service in Trigg County. Currently 11 dialysis patients countywide travel to Hopkinsville on a regular basis for treatment.

The next scheduled meeting of the hospital board will be held at 7 p.m. Jan. 5.

Administrator Rick Chapman reported that the construction and renovation project is on schedule with January 1998 firm for drawings to be ready for final bids and sent to the state for approval.

Middle school construction project on 'tight time frame'

By Tommy Newton
Editor

The Trigg County Middle School construction project should be ready for bids in February, architect Larry Savage told the school board Monday night.

Once contracts are awarded, construction should take 14 to 16 months, Savage said. "I know you're anxious to get something going," he said.

With enrollments increasing in Trigg schools, "we are crying for space," Superintendent Jim Wallace said.

The board's goal is to have the $7.6 million facility open for the 1999-2000 school year, Wallace said.

"We're talking about a tight time frame" to meet that goal if work begins next spring, Wallace said.

But Savage told the board that architects and engineers designing the plans want to identify any potential problems at the site before work begins.

One concern is the size of storm water drainage pipes on the property, Savage told the board. Architects want to make sure the drainage system can handle runoff without causing problems, he said.

The board also heard from electrical engineer Ray Allen who outlined the plans for heating and air conditioning systems at the facility.

Other school board action

■ The board will explore a healthy hands/healthy kids hygiene program for the elementary school.

Wallace told the board he's been talking with a company about a hand cleaner that doesn't require water. The product could help slow the spread of illnesses in the school, he said.

Wallace said he will investigate further and report to the board on costs of using the product.

■ Wallace said the state will release KIRIS test results Thursday morning.

■ Wallace updated the board on the work of the 14-member district consolidated planning committee.

■ The board amended the elementary school calendar to be six hours and five minutes per day. That's what the school is doing now, Assistant Superintendent Skip Pisa said, but the school calendar had listed just six hours per day.

■ The board approved the superintendent's personnel actions.

But finding the car could provide a clue, Alexander said.

Police are awaiting information from the airport to learn if Holland flew out of Nashville and where she was going, Alexander said.

Cadiz police were notified after Holland's car was found Nov. 21, he said. Airport records indicate the car had been parked there since Oct. 3, he said.

The airport does a nightly check of parking areas and noticed the car had been parked there for several weeks, Alexander said.

Cadiz police are still looking into credit cards that Holland may have obtained by fraudulent methods and have delayed plans to present evidence to a Trigg grand jury next week, he said.

Police will probably wait until Holland is located and returned to Cadiz before going to the grand jury, he said.

Students help train bank employees

Trigg County High School student Jessica Allen, right, helps Bank of Cadiz employee Linda Joyce Choate during a training session Nov. 20 at the vocational building. Members of the Future Business Leaders of America and Distributive Education Clubs of America were helping bank employees learn how to use Windows 95. The Nov. 20 session was the second of three planned by the bank, which is upgrading its computer system from a DOS-based system to Windows, according to Dan Dickerson. The FBLA/DECA students are assisting as part of a service learning project that will be entered in state competition next year, teacher Dean Duncan said. "It's been really enjoyable working with the adults," Duncan said. The project gives students the chance to apply what they've learned in the classroom to the real world, she said. Other students participating include Amanda Hunter, Brad Taylor, Bridger DeName, Joanna Futrell, Ross Goodwin, Katie Redd and Callie Ginn.

Police charge Cadiz man with possession of cocaine, marijuana

A Cadiz man faces felony and misdemeanor drug charges after his arrest Friday night.

Charles Brad Stewart, 32, was charged with possession of a controlled substance, first degree (cocaine); possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia, according to a report from officers Tom Moore and Roger Knight.

Stewart was arrested at 10:50 p.m. in the parking lot of the Goodnite Motel, the report said.

According to police, officers had received information that Stewart would be carrying illegal narcotics to the motel. The officers confronted Stewart, who attempted to swallow a rock of crack cocaine, the report said.

Stewart also had a small amount of marijuana, a pipe and crack, the report said.

He was lodged in the Trigg County Jail.

Cadiz police are investigating three thefts.

On Nov. 28, a Nunn Boulevard resident told police that someone had entered her basement in the past month and had stolen a set of golf clubs, golf balls and accessories and a bench vice. The items were valued at approximately $700.

On Nov. 27, a Cunningham Avenue resident reported that someone took two car ramps from his driveway between 10 and 11 p.m. that night. The ramps were valued at $50.

On Nov. 23, a Main Street resident told police that the house was broken into between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Jewelry and other items valued at more than $1,300 were taken.

Fowler, Hampton joined in marriage on Sept. 27

Andrea Lynn and Scotty Lee Hampton

Andrea Lynn Fowler and Scotty Lee Hampton, both of Cadiz, were married at 3:30 p.m. on Sept. 27, 1997, at Oak Grove Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Earl M. Fowler Jr. and Linda C. Fowler of Cadiz. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Cunningham and Alpha Fowler, all of Cadiz, and the late E. Millard Fowler Sr.

The groom is the son of Ronnie Hampton and Connie Hampton of Cadiz. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Huddleston of Cadiz and the late Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hampton.

The double-ring ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Hal Shipley. Nuptial music was provided by soloist, Becky Waldrup, guitarist and soloist, Russ Stallons, and pianist, Jan Oakley. Selections included "Canon in D," "The Theme from Ice Castles," "Sunrise, Sunset," "You're the Inspiration," "Household of Faith," "The Wedding Song," "The Rose," "I Cross My Heart," and "Always." "Keeper of the Stars" was sung during the lighting of the unity candle. After the wedding party exited the church, "I Swear" was sung before the guests were dismissed.

Stephanie Harris presided over the guest register. As the guests entered the sanctuary of the church they were given key rings designed with the bride's and groom's names and wedding date by Andrea Litchfield. Laura Gayle King also distributed programs, designed by Jessica Siegmund. The guest register table was decorated with a picture frame, a gift to the couple, showing the bride and groom as children in their baseball uniforms and as adults in their engagement picture. A potpourri vase holding an arrangement of three navy roses, honoring the deceased grandparents of the couple, and two burgundy roses, honoring two special friends, Craig Patric Perry II and Jamie Leigh Carneyhan, was also on the table.

The altar was enhanced with two entwined heart candelabras and an archway of greenery, accented with an assortment of navy, white and burgundy flowers. Two flower arrangements of white stargazer lilies, and white roses, larkspur, alstroemeria and ivy were located on each side of the altar. The unity candle featured an insert of a girl and boy on a fence in western wear. The suspended window decorations were roses, larkspur and ivy with candlelight white streamers. The family pews were decorated with ivy and candlelight white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted down the aisle by her father, wore a white satin and lace gown, designed and restyled from her mother's gown. Pearls and sequins enhanced the re-embroidered lace motif, accenting the Queen Anne Alencon lace portrait neckline, cutaway and pearl-draped back, long bishop sleeves with veed wrist and Basque waistline. The full satin skirt fell to floor length with a sweep train and front motif styled from her mother's gown and Alencon lace. The detachable train of layered Chantilly lace, from her mother's gown, extended to chapel length. A chapel-length veil of bridal illusion extended the headpiece that was accented with pearls. She also wore diamond and pearl earrings that belonged to her great-aunt, the late Dorothy Tosh.

The bride's cascading bouquet was of cream roses, accented with ivy, pearls and ribbon.

The bride chose Lynn Ethridge Harris of Cadiz to be her matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Sarah Beth Hampton, sister of the groom, and Kelli Jo Fowler, sister-in-law of the bride.

The attendants wore embossed navy ankle-length gowns, featuring wrist-length sleeves, a scalloped scooped neckline and dropped waist. They carried handheld bouquets of cream roses, with touches of navy and burgundy forget-me-nots, ivy and streamers.

Abby Noland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Noland of Cadiz and cousin of the groom, was the flower girl. Her tea-length dress was styled similar to the senior attendants and featured three tiers of ruffles accenting the back. She carried a cream colored lace basket, adorned with rose petals with brass western accents on the streamers, adorned with rose petals.

Mr. and Mrs. Huell Merrick celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Nov. 29, 1997. A reception was held at the Second Baptist Church in Princeton. Family and friends enjoyed celebrating with the couple.

Wedding

The bridegroom chose his father, Ronnie Hampton, to be his best man. Groomsmen were Donnie Hampton, uncle of the groom, and Brandon Fowler, brother of the bride. Ushers were Mike Lane and Todd Hampton, cousins of the groom. Hunter Earl Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brandon Fowler and nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Stephanie Perry served as the coordinator of the wedding. Jim Wallace and Paul Miller served as videographers. Floral arrangements were designed by Susan Kyle.

The bride's mother, Linda Fowler, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Cunningham, served as hosts of the reception at the Cunningham home. A white tent on the lawn served as the setting for the uniquely decorated guest tables. The opening of the tent featured antique wagon wheels with ivy and potted mums. Miniature bales of hay with ivy and streamers decorated each table completing the theme. The bride's table held the four-tiered wedding cake designed by Darlene Butts which featured miniature Stetson hats and ivy. The cake was topped with a kissing country couple on a bridge. The table was complemented by a crystal punch bowl and wedding bell mints, prepared by the bride's mother and co-workers. Crystal goblets, engraved with a country theme were used for the wedding toast. The crystal-han-

You Never Really Cared

Don't send me cards and letters to say how much you care. For I just don't believe it. My life you haven't shared. You never came to see me when I was sick in bed. You had rather ask someone how I was doing when you could have asked me instead. But that's all right when I'm at home and I am all alone. I've finally come to realize I can make it on my own. You said that if I needed you All I had to do was call. But if I have to ask you I'd rather not hear from you at all. So not send me roses. Don't knock up on my door. When the times we could have spoken are gone forever more.

— Jerry Wayne Choate

Take My Hand

I look into your eyes and see the hurt and pain. Just tell me what to do and I'll take it all away. I ask you what has happened. Yet you say nothing's wrong, But Baby that's a lie because I've been with you too long. From the beginning you said you would be real I'm here for you always so tell me how you feel. I try and try to help you cope, and understand. So please close your eyes trust and take my hand.

Winter provides much-needed rest for gardeners

Under the snow of each December

GOOD GARDENING

by Ronella Stagner

final turning over with a fork so as to mix in the latest additions and hasten their decomposition.

All of the ashes from open fires this winter should be saved for garden use in the spring. They are a good source of potash, an essential plant food. Store them in watertight containers over the winter and keep them dry so their strength doesn't leach away.

If you plan to secure any landscape service this year, do it now as the person you select will have more time to give you now than later in the season and while your grounds are bare he can get a better idea of your problems.

Feeding winter birds is an interesting, useful and humane habit. Don't start if you don't intend to keep it up, as they learn to depend upon it. One of their main needs is water so keep water for them in pans that can be brought inside and thawed out.

There are some interesting ways to feed birds. My mother used to pour all the fat from hamburgers into a small can such as a tuna can and put it out for the birds.

Another way is to use mesh bags such as the kind oranges and other produce come in. Fill them with leftover cornbread, bread heels, pancakes, biscuits, etc. Twist the top of the bag and hang it over a clothesline or branch and secure it with a twist-tie. A little suet added will give them a special treat.

If you are looking for a special gift for a shut-in, a bird feeder outside a window is a wonderful gift. Just remember that someone will have to fill the feeder. I had a friend in a nursing home who had one just outside her window and the maintenance people filled it for her and it gave her great pleasure. Then there are the many kinds of feeders which you can buy already filled with seed.

This is the time we start thinking of gifts to buy for that special person for whom a unique gift is hard to find. I would like to make a few suggestions. For the bird lovers there are some great gifts. I always admired a friend's feeder which was outside a kitchen window with a one-way mirror. If the cat sat inside and longed for the birds, the birds were unaware of it and many kinds of birds lined the feeder all winter long. Of course, for the cats, this is cruelty of the first degree and one of the funniest things I ever saw. You cat lovers — I am one, too — please forgive me.

The elderly flower lover might enjoy an indoor plant if you are able to water it at least weekly. If that special person is able to water the plants, then there are many beautiful plants to consider.

It's important to fit the plant to the person you want to please. I have always loved gardenias and once when I saw a beautiful gardenia in bloom, I immediately thought of my mother and thought what a nice special gift for her. Now, Mama didn't particularly want a gardenia and, though I took her special directions for caring for it, it lived a very short life. She just didn't care to spend time on that plant.

A terrarium was a wonderful gift for my mother. She didn't have to feed it, water it, walk it and it didn't bark.

There are many plants which are very easy to care for and very forgiving of mistreatment, though gardenias are not in that list. Some very pretty plants which anyone can grow are philodendron, ivies, a plant commonly known as "mother-in-law's tongue", the India-rubber plant and schleffera. There are many, more colorful plants but this is a short list of easy-to-grow plants. These are good for that person who is not especially knowledgeable in plant lore.

Last but not least among gift ideas are the tools. I made a visit to the stores in Cadiz this past week and am able to report that there are many gardening tools in a wide range of prices. Any gardener would love another tool. Just check over the tools in the garden shed and you will come up with a great idea. It's best to look at the many tools available, then check the garden shed for ideas and then go buy.

While thinking of tools, I'm reminded of the new axe with the great red bow which my father gave Mama as a gag gift. I can still see the look she gave him and he was lucky to live to race to get the "real" gift. It would be hard to maintain a sense of humor with an axe as a gift for Christmas.

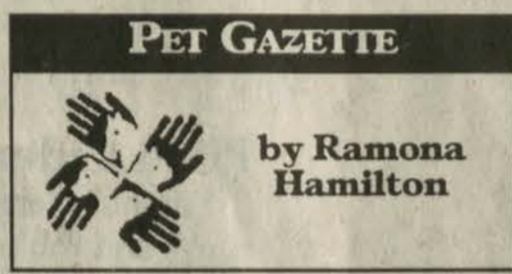

My word to the wise is to know the recipient really well to give him or her a garden tool.

It's up to owners to make sure dogs get proper food, exercise, care

What is your dog? Basically, your dog is a civilized wolf. The "experts" think the wolf adopted man after realizing they could share man's food bounty if they did.

No matter how much breeding man puts into changing animals, the dog is still a pack animal.

They can be trained to chase game, herd animals, pull carts and sleds, rescue lost people, search out contraband and protect their owners and the family property. However you must

by Ramona Hamilton

understand that in order to establish a relationship, you should learn to understand your animal.

Your dog doesn't always know what's best. It is up to you to care for it like you would a child. For instance, "people food" is to dogs what snacks are to humans. They need a complete balanced diet, not cereal you get from "cheap" brands.

Then there is dental care. As well as annual dental checkups with the veterinarian, have your vet teach you how to care for your pet's teeth at home. This will probably include dog bones (not table scrap bones.)

Animals (dogs, cats, cows, horses, etc.) are as dependent on water as man is. Make sure there is water for your pets at all times.

Also like you, your dog is susceptible to a number of diseases. Annual checkups and vaccinations should be adhered to. This will keep your pet healthy and happy.

Your animal also need exercise. Some dogs are "high maintenance" animals and require more attention than others in this department. For instance, a German shepherd needs more exercise than a poodle.

Obedience training is very helpful. Your dog should at least know the commands "no" and "come." If they can respond to those, all other socially unacceptable behavior can be simple to stop.

And as with any pet spaying/neutering should be high on your agenda. Believe it or not, there are 10,000 cats and dogs born every hour.

HOME COOKIN'

Old-fashioned candy makes for great homemade gift

By Sandra Myers
Staff writer

It seems we are always searching for just the right something to offer as a holiday remembrance for a thoughtful neighbor, understanding teacher or special friend. If you're like me you like presents reminiscent of long-ago Christmases when everyone made something special from a recipe that had been in the family for years. The kind of gifts that were treasured all the more for the time taken to prepare them. With that thought in mind we wanted to offer a collection of cherished recipes dating back to 1850. The recipes are from a collection belonging to Sue Mathis who we met at The Homeplace-1850 a few weeks ago as she prepared authentic candy recipes over a hot wood burning stove.

As she explained that day, "folks living on the 1850 farm celebrated Christmas much differently than we do today. Commercialism as it is today did not exist. Gifts were usually small bags of homemade candy or cake, perhaps a choice apple taken from a basket stored in the fruit cellar. Times and gifts were much simpler back then."

Since 1994 Sue has limited her demonstrations to special events such as the Christmas Candy Making. But when she began her career in 1986 as a historic interpreter her charter was to present an authentic day in the life of 19th century families. She did this through daily demonstrations of activities surrounding the work, play and customs of the times. She dressed in the cumbersome costumes of the period as she demonstrated skills of the past. Skills such as butter churning, spinning, gardening and tasks associated with preparation of meals and caring for a rural 19th century family.

Sue says, "After working in the authentic at-phere of the Homeplace I really appreciate the conveniences we have today. The only way to preserve food in those days was to place it in crocks or the fruit cellar. Mason canning jars were not introduced until 1858. One thing I miss the most when I'm conducting a cooking demonstration is paper towels. Can you imagine not having paper towels in your kitchen today?"

"I think everyone would have a better appreciation of what we have today if they spent one day at the Homeplace. No running water, no way to regulate cook stove temperatures or for that matter room temperatures. In the summer it was "so hot" working the wood burning stove and in the winter, no matter how I huddled 'round that old stove it was so cold I would think I was going to freeze. Some of what I did was fun and some of it was plain old-fashioned inconvenience and hard work."

Even though we've used a couple of modern-day conveniences to prepare the recipes, each is presented with an old-fashioned wish for good eating and a very special sentiment that says time has been taken to personalize Christmas.

Why not start with the cream candy and give some to friends who drop in during the holidays or mail some in old-fashioned tins.

Cream Candy

- 3 c. sugar
- 1/2 pint whipping cream
- 1/2 c. water
- 1 t. salt (scant)

Mix all ingredients in a heavy 4-quart saucepan. Butter sides and bottom. Cook without stirring until candy reads hard ball stage (254 degrees on candy thermometer). Pour on buttered marble slab and cool. When cool enough to pull, pick up and pull until gloss leaves it. Twist candy in long pieces and cut with scissors. Lay on wax paper and set out until it creams. If you want vanilla flavoring, put it on the buttered marble slab.

Fudge

- 2 c. sugar
- 1/2 c. milk
- 1/2 c. cream
- 2 T. cocoa (heaping)
- 1 t. vanilla
- pinch of salt

Mix sugar, cocoa and salt. Add milk and cream. Stir well. Cook over medium heat until candy dropped in cold water forms a firm ball. Add vanilla and nuts then beat until it begins to thicken. Pour in buttered dish.

Divinity Candy

- 2 1/2 c. sugar

- 1/2 c. light corn syrup
- 1/2 c. water
- 1/4 t. salt
- 2 large egg whites
- 1 t. vanilla
- 1 c. coarsely, chopped walnuts or pecans

In a 2-quart saucepan stir together the sugar, corn syrup, water and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Reduce heat. Cook stirring until temperature reaches 265 degrees on candy thermometer. Beat egg whites in a large mixing bowl until stiff peaks form when beater is raised. Beating constantly at high speed with an electric mixer, slowly pour hot syrup over egg whites. Continue beating until mixture begins to lose its gloss and a small amount holds a soft peak when dropped from a spoon. Stir in vanilla and nuts. Drop by teaspoon onto waxed paper.

Taffy Candy

(Vinegar & White Sugar)

- 2 c. sugar
- 1/2 c. water
- 1/2 c. vinegar

Combine ingredients. Cook slowly until dissolved, then cook more rapidly until it forms the hard-ball stage in cold water. It should crack when hit on edge of a cup. Add a few drops of flavorings. Pour onto a buttered plate as soon as possible, begin to work the cooled edges into the center with buttered fingers long before it's cool enough to pick up. Use all available time to work air in and out. Use fingertips as much as possible. Don't stir after cooking sets in. Never scrape granules down from pan edges. Don't scrape pan when pouring.

Plain Cider Cake

Sift into a large pan a pound and a half of flour (6 cups), and rub into it half a pound of butter. Mix in three-quarters of a pound of powdered white sugar (2-5/8 cups), melt a small teaspoon of salaratus or pearl ash (soda) in a pint of the best cider. Pour the cider into the other ingredients while it is foaming, and stir the whole thing very hard. Have ready a buttered pan, pour in the mixture, and set it immediately in a rather brisk oven. Bake an hour or more, according to its thickness. This is a tea cake and should be eaten fresh. Cut into squares, split and butter.

Debunking popular myths about Social Security

Clearing up common, but inaccurate, beliefs about the program

By Irvin Mull

Social Security Manager, Hopkinsville

A program as broad and as important as Social Security is bound to generate many different perspectives. These perspectives have resulted in myths and misleading beliefs about the program. Below are five of the most common myths about Social Security.

"Social Security won't be there when I need it!"

First you must ask yourself, "When will you need it?" Social Security is more than retirement benefits. It's there for you today if you become disabled or if you die leaving a young family. It will be there for you tomorrow when you retire.

The real question isn't "Will it be there when I need it?" but instead "What kind of Social Security program will be there?" Steps will assuredly be taken within the next five to 10 years to change Social Security. In one form or another, Social Security will always be there when needed.

"Social Security is only a retirement program."

Of the 44 million beneficiaries, only 27 million receive retirement benefits. The other 17 million receive disability, survivor or dependents benefits.

Nonretirement benefits are critical because today's 20 year old has a three in 10 chance of becoming disabled and a two in 10 chance of dying before reaching retirement.

"Social Security funds are nothing but worthless IOUs!"

By law, all Social Security money is invested in treasury bonds, similar to bonds purchased by millions of other investors.

People who hold treasury bonds in their portfolios generally consider them among the safest of their investments. It's odd that similar bonds held by Social Security are considered "worthless."

It is true that when Social Security has to redeem the bulk of its bond holdings in the next century to help meet anticipated expenses, the government will have to somehow raise the money to make good on its obligations to the trust funds.

But if we reach that point (assuming no changes are made to Social Security by then ... which is an unlikely assumption), Social Security's trust funds will be holding roughly 20 percent of all the government's debt. In other words, in the highly unlikely event that the government defaults on its obligations, the nonpayment of Social Security benefits will be only one part of a much larger economic calamity.

"As a personal investment plan, Social Security is a raw deal!"

Social Security isn't really about deals and personal investment schemes. The word "social" in Social Security means something. It means that social objectives, such as raising the standard of living for lower income workers and keeping the elderly out of poverty are important elements of Social Security.

And one of the reasons Social Security has remained popular is because it combines these social goals with a degree of individual equity. The benefit you get is based on the money you pay in, the more you pay in, the higher your benefit will be.

As one example, a baby-boomer born in 1949 who has average wages will pay about $58,000 in Social Security taxes before retirement. He or she will collect $1,900 per month beginning at age 66 and will recover all taxes paid in about 30 months. Factoring in interest that could have been earned on the taxes paid, the "investment" is recovered in about 13 years with a life expectancy of two to four years beyond that point.

"Social Security is poorly managed!"

Out of every dollar collected in Social Security taxes less than two pennies is used to cover administrative expenses. All the rest is directed into benefit payments or into the reserve trust funds.

Christmas gifts

OK, it's time to get with it! It's time to put on those walking shoes, gas up the car, take out a loan at the bank, and go Christmas shopping for the kids. We always had a big Christmas around our house. I still remember having to wait in the kitchen with my siblings until mom and dad made sure that Santa had come. Christmas is still a big time at our house. Only now, the excitement for me is playing Santa for one anxious little boy.

It's easy to see why giving gifts to children at Christmas is so popular. What loving parent doesn't want to make his or her children happy. Yet (you knew this was coming), I suspect this tradition of gift giving is not all that it's made out to be. Exhibit No. 1: Most older members of our society grew up in a period when finding a little fruit, a homemade toy and/or a pair of shoes under the tree was considered a great treat. Rather than hurt them, however, they turned out to be a generation of hard working, decent people. Exhibit No. 2: Just how long will those toys last before they are broken, discarded and forgotten?

If you really want to give your children something of value this season, something that will really make them happy, then give them something that can't be put under the tree. Give them love - the only thing that abides (1 Cor. 13:13). Give them time - the most valuable commodity you have and the gift they'll remember the most. Give them a sense of responsibility, a good work ethic, a respect for other people, and a love of country. Give them faith in others, faith in themselves and especially faith in God. Give them the truth that will set them free (John 8:32). And above all, give them an example to follow as they seek their own way in life. Anyone can give these gifts, anytime during the year, and best of all, your children will be blessed by them throughout life.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL)-- A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis," and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis, relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis, is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new roll-on liquid form. Arthur Itis, is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Here are some tips to help keep your 4-H poinsettia alive

The poinsettias have arrived and if you haven't picked yours up, please do as soon as possible. By purchasing a poinsettia, you show your support for the Trigg County 4-H fund-raiser. The money from the sales of these plants will be used toward 4-H trips, programs and activities for our 4-Hers. The Council appreciates your support.

We wanted to give you some pointers on the care of your poinsettia.

■ They will thrive in bright daylight, six hours or more a day. Place in a sunny window but not direct light because that will cause the bright colors to fade.

■ When the temperature is very cold, you may want to move your plant out of the window. They like temperatures between 65 to 70 degrees.

■ Keep the soil moist. So water thoroughly when the soil feels dry to the touch. (The thumb test is best). Allow the water to flow through the soil and pour out excess water from the saucer. Remember to use lukewarm water when watering any plant.

■ A balanced fertilizer will help to maintain green foliage longer and promote new growth. After the colorful bracts wither you can enjoy a green plant until the next blooming season.

■ In early spring cut the plant to about eight inches tall, shaping as you cut.

■ When warm weather permits transplant the poinsettia to a

4-H NEWS

by Janeen Tramble

for 4-H Youth Development larger pot, approximately two to four inches bigger.

■ Use a soil mix with organic matter such as peat moss, leaf mold or compost.

■ You may want to transplant your poinsettia outdoors after temperatures reach 50 degrees.

■ If you want your poinsettia to bloom again, you will need to bring it back indoors by Oct. 1. Keep your plant in complete darkness for 14 continuous hours each night with six to eight hours of bright sunlight each day with temperatures between 60 to 70 degrees for eight to 10 weeks. A box over your plant is a good way to keep it in darkness for the 14 hours required.

If this seems like too much trouble! You can always buy another poinsettia from a Trigg County 4-H member.

Educational programs of the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Avoiding Holiday Debt

Don't let too many bills pile up along with holiday gifts

Don't let this holiday season be memorable for the mountain of money spent on gifts for family and friends or the months it took to get out from under this debt.

"People often do more impulse buying as the holiday season approaches often because they fail to establish financial priorities before going shopping," said Sue Badenhop, Extension family resource management specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"To keep from spending too much money on holiday gifts, do a little planning before going shopping," she said. "Set a budget that won't put you in a tight squeeze financially. Make a prioritized list of the people for whom you want to buy gifts with an estimated dollar amount for each person. Then see if the total expenditure falls within your holiday shopping budget. Take the list when you go shopping. And keep track of what you spend on each person as well as a total amount spent on gifts.

"While gifts are an obvious holiday expense, don't forget to include other incidentals associated with the season in your budget, such as food for entertaining, holiday outfits, decorations, cards, postage and wrapping paper and travel. It all adds up."

Badenhop said too much credit card debt can put the squeeze on shoppers long after the holidays, especially if they only pay part of the total monthly. She gave an example.

It would take 179 months to pay off a $2,500 debt, assuming a 21 percent interest rate and monthly payments of $45. Interest on this debt would be about $6,100. By increasing the monthly payment to $50 a month, the person would have to make only 114 payments and could reduce the interest paid by almost half to $3,422.

"Ideally, pay credit card charges off the month the bill arrives," Badenhop said. "If not, pay as much per month as possible to reduce the interest costs."

She gave these holiday budget-saving ideas.

■ If the estimated shopping costs exceed your budget, consider adjusting the amount of money allocated for people or think twice about including someone on the gift list.

■ Think of creative non-cash gifts. For example give someone with small children a gift certificate for a free night of baby-sitting. If you're "handy" around the house, offer to do some minor home repairs. Buy some bulbs and put them in a pot so they'll bloom during the holidays. Give a gift from the kitchen, especially if you're widely known for a certain dish.

■ To reduce costs, shop for very young children at yard sales or used book or toy stores.

■ Take elderly friends shopping and to lunch or offer to run errands for them.

■ Magazines often have holiday gift specials. Consider giving a subscription related to a friend's hobby or interest.

■ Invite some friends over to make batches of cookies or other baked goods each of you can give as a holiday gift. Alternatively, make large quantities of soup, chili, stew or the like and freeze to give as a holiday gift.

■ Give a gift certificate that can be stretched at post-holiday sales. Consider giving children gift certificates specifically for use later on in the year.

■ Thinking ahead to next year, shop throughout the year so you don't have to pay for everything in one or two months.

Anytime is a good time to subscribe.

Don't get stumped: Several new mysteries added to library shelf

"By the pricking of my thumbs something wicked this way comes."

— Shakespeare, MacBeth III.
You guessed it, it's mystery and suspense week. The library has some really "wicked" books to tell you about.

What do you get when you combine an English style inn, a group of snowbound guests and a dead body in the library? While this sounds like the ingredients for an Agatha Christie mystery, it's actually Lawrence Block's wickedly funny, wonderfully suspenseful new Bernie Rhodenbarr caper, "The Burglar in the Library."

For fans hungry for more of Diane Mott Davidson. Her cordon bleu series is a mystery to savor. This time Goldy Schulz finds herself drawn into a world where revenge is sweet and oh so deadly in "The Grilling Season."

Ruth Rendell is this year's winner of the Mystery Writers of America Grand Master Award. Her new book, "Road Rage," is the 17th in the Chief Inspector Wexford series.

"Back to School Murder," a Lucy Stone mystery by Leslie Meier. Lucy Stone finds going back to school can be murder when there's a bomb found in the school!

"On this Rockne" is the first in the new Notre Dame mystery series by Ralph McInerney. In this book, you will meet the Knight brothers, Philip, a private eye, and Roger, the brilliant Notre Dame philosophy professor, who set out to find the killer of a wealthy Notre Dame trustee. This is the kind of wonderful suspense novel McInerney is known for.

"Witness to Evil" is the fifth book in the Jeri Howard mystery series by Janet Dawson. Jeri Howard can't believe someone is paying her to go to Paris, if only to return a runaway teen-ager. Darcy, 18, has gone to Paris to find the people who sheltered her grandmother as a girl from the Nazis. Darcy is in danger as she finds out too much about the Nazis. Can Jeri help her?

"No Place to Hide" is another irresistible Tamara Hayle mystery by Valerie Wilson Wesley.

New Christian fiction: "Only the River Runs Free" by Bodie & Brock Thoene, "The Stand" by Ellen Vaughn and "The Scarlet Thread" by Francine Rivers.

New Large-Type Books: "The Letter" by Richard Paul Evans, "Missing Pieces" by Joy Fielding and "Likely to Die" by Linda Fairstein.

HOMEMAKERS' HIGHLIGHTS

Welcome, December! Where have the other 11 months of the year gone. I want to wish all of you a very Merry Christmas and hope you have a good Christmas with your family and friends. Hope you have all your shopping done. I don't have all of mine done yet, but I will be ready before Christmas. We are having Christmas early at my house. Our son, David, and his family are moving to Maine and are leaving before Christmas, so Santa will be early at my house for the little ones. This is the first year in three years that he has been home around the holidays, so we will make the best of it. But first of all, remember the true meaning of Christmas and remember the birth of Jesus.

The Christmas Holiday House with the Christmas trees will not be at the Chamber of Commerce Tourist Center this year. The trees will be in the lobby of Trigg County Farmers Bank and will be decorated by various Homemakers' clubs. Be sure and stop and see the trees while they are on display.

Another event taking place is the preschool gifts that are due at the Extension office on Dec. 8. This is for 3-and 4-year-old children. They want every child to have approximately three gifts to take home.

The month of December is very slow for Trigg County Homemakers as it is Christmas and there will be no lesson just a Christmas dinner with our club members. Be sure and be in attendance.

Some tell me it is time for a few recipes as I have not put any in for a few months. These are some of the requests I have had plus a few others. Hope you get all your baking done before the holidays.

Freeman, Terrell serve as Trigg Circuit Court pages

Kim Freeman, the daughter of Ann F Andrews, and LeNell Terrell, the daughter of James and Judy Terrell, both of Cadiz, served as Page of the Trigg Circuit Court under Circuit Judge Bill Cunningham on Nov. 13.

The Student Page Program was introduced by Judge Cunningham more than four years ago in an effort to make the community, especially our youth, more familiar with the day-to-day workings of the judicial system.

Pages are selected by their high school guidance counselor and serve for one-day terms on Rule Days, which are held each month in each of the four counties of the 56th Judicial Circuit. The pages assist the clerk, attorneys who have matters before the court and Judge Cunningham.

Freeman had this to say about her experience, "Many students and even many adults are not aware of how our court systems operate. This is a wonderful opportunity for students to see firsthand how civil and criminal cases work. I was especially surprised at the divorce proceedings. I didn't expect them to occur so quickly. This is the first hearing I have witnessed and I found it very interesting. I really enjoyed taking to the judge about rulings. Thanks for the experience!"

Terrell commented, "This was a great experience. I got the opportunity to see court rulings and talk to the judge. I was really surprised at how down-to-earth he was. He answered any questions we had. The day was filled with variety. It ranged from child support, divorces, custody arguments, sentencing and reviews. This has been a day that I will remember for a long time. From now on I will be able to understand our court and judicial system better than I ever thought I could."

Student-operated bank provides dollars and sense

By Todd Turner
Staff writer

Hands-on experience is often just what students need.

Trigg County High School is banking on it.

In partnership with Trigg County Farmers Bank, the school opened a student-operated bank Monday that will allow students to borrow lunch money — with interest, of course — or begin saving for college tuition.

Bank and school officials believe the benefits of the innovative arrangement will let everyone cash in.

From the school's point of view, 20 TCHS bank and finance students will get much more than book learning about banks, while student customers may face real-life consequences of failing to repay a loan.

From the bank's point of view, a generation of Trigg teens may get lessons that could make them better bank customers by the time they take out a loan to buy their first Chevrolet, and an experienced pool of future bank employees will also be cultivated.

"We're hoping to teach the kids more responsibilities about saving money, and (that) when they take out a loan they have to pay it back," said Sherry Allen, a trust officer at Trigg County Farmers Bank who helped train the students in Joyce Dalton's fourth and fifth period bank and finance classes.

Trigg County Farmers Bank provided $500 seed money for transactions to begin Monday. Business started slowly, but students soon began to trickle toward the windows to ask questions or fill out paperwork.

Wildcats meet Rockets in early-season district tangle

By Todd Turner
Sports editor

Trigg County and Crittenden County aren't easing into the race for Fifth District boys' basketball title. The Wildcats and Rockets, the projected district favorites, battle in Cadiz Friday night in a game that may go a long way toward deciding who will capture the top seed when the five-team district tournament rolls around Feb. 23. The top-seeded team gets a bye in the tournament's opening round and needs just two wins instead of three to win the tournament. While the postseason seems like a long way from the season's first week, Trigg County coach Mike Wright sees Friday's game as an important matchup. "It's us and them picked in the district right now, and I think this will be a big early-season district game for us," said Wright, whose Wildcats beat Crittenden County three times last season, including by an 83-61 score in the district tournament. "Crittenden County feels like, I think, that this is their year They're picked as high as us in a lot of polls," Wright said. "They've got practically everybody back (and) they're very strong physically." Leading the way for the Rockets, who finished last season 10-11, are a pair of 6-3 sophomores who played varsity basketball last season: center Josh Cozart and power forward Justin Hill. "They've got a lot of talent and they're a veteran ballclub and they're hungry," Wright said. Entering Friday's 6 p.m. girl-boy doubleheader, Trigg County will be coming off its Tuesday opener against Owensboro Majesty, while Crittenden County will be taking the court for the first time. "It's a very important game, and I'll tell you what, we need a big crowd there, and that's a factor I want to stress," Wright said. "Because our crowd is a big factor for us, and I'd like to stress the need we have to get a big crowd there early in the season for that game."

Returning to Action

Once-injured Radford eager to provide boost for Wildcats

By Todd Turner
Sports editor

If there was ever a basketball season not to miss, it was last year's dream season at Trigg County High School. But one of the Wildcats' best players missed every game. Instead of playing small forward, Lamar Radford played spectator. While the Wildcats racked up 26 victories and advanced to the State Tournament, Radford could only watch while his friends led the state in scoring and created a flurry of excitement. Watching was all Radford was allowed to do. A neck injury midway through the 1995 football season forced him to miss his sophomore and junior years of his favorite sport, basketball. Sitting in the bleachers during Trigg County's best basketball season in 27 years was hard to swallow. Now, playing varsity basketball for the first time, Radford is ready to make up for lost time.

"I knew I was supposed to be out there helping them play the game," the senior said of last season. "Now I got my final chance to do it before I graduate, and that's what I plan to do, I plan to help the team pick up where they left off last year."

Coach Mike Wright plans on giving the 6-foot, 160-pound Radford every chance to help the Wildcats.

"It was just good to see him have a chance to play. Really good after being off so long," Wright said after Trigg County's opening scrimmage. "I thought he jumped in and, if you hadn't have known it, nobody would've known he'd been out two years."

And Wright believes that high-leaping Radford, an aggressive defender and accurate free-throw shooter, may serve as a "secret weapon." "I hope so. A lot of people won't be looking for him, won't be expecting a lot out of him," Wright said. "And it's kinda, at other schools, he's probably kind of a forgotten name. He hasn't played any on the varsity level yet. I think he'll really do some big things."

Radford was expected to do big things in high school basketball and football. Following the footsteps of his father and brother, Radford was a solid football player, starting at defensive back as a sophomore. And he was a projected basketball starter for the 1995 season, too.

But in the sixth game of his sophomore football season, everything changed. He injured his neck while tackling a Calloway County ballcarrier.

"I went to tackle ... and I struck him low as he was running the ball, and it jarred my neck," Radford said. He then had a feeling "like needles in my fingers. I had sharp pains going down both of my hands and fingers I was scared at first, then I got up on my feet, and walked to the sidelines."

When the neck soreness lingered, assistant coach and trainer Gary Siegmund took Radford to Vanderbilt Hospital in Nashville, Tenn., two days later. Doctors found a broken vertebra in Radford's neck, and he ended up wearing a collar to support his neck for a few weeks. Radford's injury didn't require surgery, but the doctors' advice hurt: The threat of reinjury wouldn't allow him to play high school contact sports.

"That was like a downfall part of my life," Radford said. "Because I was looking forward to playing (basketball) my sophomore season. I went to camp that summer and played with the guys, and had a groove of the game. But me being out, my feelings were hurt. Like everything I wanted to do was gone. I kept lifting weights, watching varsity play off and on when they had games at home"

It wasn't until nearly the end of last school year that he was given the OK to play sports in school again.

Although Radford missed two seasons, Wright knew that he hadn't strayed far from the basketball courts.

"Lamar never quit playing basketball, that's the thing," Wright said. "He just wasn't allowed to play it in school. He played on the courts all the time, where it can get marked-ly rougher than it is here."

Radford tries not to let the thought of reinjury bother him.

"Sometimes, when I take a charge" he thinks about it, Radford said, "But not all the time. It don't get in my way I do stuff like normal people would do, and it don't even affect me anymore. I try not to let it affect me, anyway."

In two preseason scrimmages, Radford didn't appear to be bothered in the least. Besides aggressive play and quick hands on defense, he knifed to the basket on offense, often hanging in the air to draw contact from defenders before launching his shot.

The only tingling Radford feels in his fingers now is when he's got the hot hand.

"He's going to get a lot of tough baskets for us," Wright said. "By tough baskets, I mean just hard-work baskets. Rebounding baskets inside, post-up moves inside. As much as anybody on our team, he has the ability to score from anywhere on the court, whether it's inside or out."

Lady Cats focusing on passing Guards need to get ball into shooters' hands

By Todd Turner
Sports editor

The Trigg County Lady Wildcats know what they need to do with the basketball. But getting the ball into the right hands — especially those of leading scorer Cathy Foster — has been a problem, said TCHS head coach Buddy Sivills.

While Sivills has been pleased with the progress of his young team, passing the basketball to open players near the basket has been a trouble spot for the Lady Wildcats.

"We have a problem reading the defenses," Sivills said, and often guards Jacquetta Wilson and Sandy Grubbs have made ill-advised passes to covered players, or have missed their chances to thread the needle to an open player.

The problem was evident in the Lady Wildcats' 60-51 loss at Paducah Tilghman in their final preseason scrimmage on Nov. 25, and Sivills has placed focus on the problem of getting the ball in the right places.

That means stressing patience for the whole team in the half-court offense. Unless a player is wide open for a layup, Sivills wants to see passes made in the team's "continuity offenses" until the Lady Wildcats can find the best shot possible.

That hasn't happened enough for a team that's making too many turnovers, Sivills said.

"I just tell 'em if they're not open, hold the ball," Sivills said. "When they get it it's like a hot potato. They either pass it or shoot it."

If the Lady Wildcats can be patient and solve their problems of finding open players, "that'd be a great big chunk" toward improving, Sivills said.

Sivills has been pleased with his team's rebounding, pressing and especially free-throw shooting; the Lady Wildcats hit 15 of 20 attempts against Tilghman.

Lady Wildcat tidbits

Although there was consideration to putting junior varsity games on hold because of so many inexperienced players, Sivills said the Lady Wildcats plan on playing the J.V. schedule Crystal Wiggins had 31 points for Tilghman in last week's scrimmage Foster led the way for Trigg County with 24 points, followed by Katie Redd (15), Callie Ginn (5), Sandy Grubbs (4) and Jacquetta Wilson (3).

Opener postponed

Because of funeral services for a Hopkinsville High School counselor and student, Monday's Trigg County-Hopkinsville girls' basketball opener was postponed until Feb. 20.

WKC All-Star defenses dominate Trigg County's Grubbs held to 19 rushing yards

By Todd Turner
Sports editor

HOPKINSVILLE — Trigg County High School running back Kelvin Grubbs didn't get much chance to strut his stuff at Saturday's WKC East-West All-Star Football game at the Stadium of Champions.

In a defense-dominated game, Grubbs was held to just 19 yards on 10 carries as his East team fell to the West 10-3 in the third annual battle among senior players on Western Kentucky Conference schools.

Offensive-line breakdowns for both teams gave quarterbacks little time to throw and opened few holes for running backs, and Grubbs — who ran for nearly 1,500 yards this season and ended his career as the Wildcats' third leading all-time ground gainer — never broke loose. Grubbs' long carry of seven yards came in the second quarter.

Trigg County's Curtis Baker also played on the offensive and defensive lines for the East.

The East scored first on a field goal by Fort Campbell's Brian Schultz early in the second quarter, and the East held a 3-0 lead at halftime as both teams combined for just 78 yards in total offense.

The West got on the board late in the third quarter when Paducah Tilghman quarterback Josh Blackmon connected with Calloway County receiver Justin Morton for a 10-yard score, and Heath Mosgrove of Marshall County kicked the extra point to make it 7-0.

After an East fumble on the ensuing series, the West added a Mosgrove field goal early in the fourth quarter for a 10-3 lead, and the East never threatened again.

Trigg County running back Kelvin Grubb watches the action Saturday in the second half of the WKC East-West All-Star football game at the Stadium of Champions in Hopkinsville. Grubbs ran the ball 10 times for 19 yards.

Lay off Nike ... you're messing with UK's economy

It is a season for Grinch and Scrooge and somebody has to do it. I suppose I qualify.

Last week when some sports writers were bellowing righteously about the new NBC/NBA $4.6 billion contract, a decline of sportsmanship, Mickey Mantle's last lover selling off the late Yankee's things, including a lock of hair, and preaching about Wayne Huizenga's fire sale of the Florida Marlins, I was wondering why nobody in Kentucky paid much attention to what America's television nosy networks were up to.

(With tongue firmly in cheek), I'm thinking, hey, ABC and the other American television networks ought to keep their cameras facing Gulfward on Saddam Hussein, and stop sniffing around and making noise in Japan about Nike Corp. twisting arms to keep its shoe prices high in Tokyo. And the networks should stop with the exposes on Nike sweat shops and slave wages in Southeast Asia too. Be quiet! You're meddling with Kentucky's economy here.

A lot of that Nike loot is coming home to the good old USA ... and, after Michael gets his cut, some is going into UK athletic department bank accounts. So, all you network wonks, stuff a sock in it and pick on another Fortune 500 business.

If Nike isn't left alone to get its declining numbers back up, then how can we expect UK's economy to remain solvent? Unless Nike numbers start to improve soon we could see another trickle down to tuition hike at UK which could eliminate one more layer of wannabe UK students whose families can barely afford to send their kids to the state's flagship university as it is.

This national media scrutiny ... let's all hope Saddam makes another palace off limits to inspectors or maybe George Steinbrenner buys Mexico City so these network guys will have something to put on the tube besides the price of shoes in Tokyo?

Right, C.M.?

'Growing up'

Whoever set UK's basketball schedule, thanks for a kamikaze December: Arizona, Missouri, Clemson, Purdue, Indiana, Georgia Tech and Louisville.

It's going to be a fast month of growing up for Tubby Smith's team that got a rude dose of Hawaii-flavored castor oil, and a slice of humble pie from the get-go against Arizona in Maui. UK not only lost its opener to but looked bad doing it. (Morehead was a scrimmage and a bad one)

Bad shooting, poor transition, sloppy play and a coach who just sat there. All to the shock and dismay of Kentucky fans who still bleed Pitino blue.

Defending NCAA champion Arizona? For reasons known only to basketball gods, Kentucky brings out the very best in Lute Olson's team. Maybe it is the curse of Jeff Brassow. More important, UK coaches and fans got a look at a team with much to do before it is as good as Rick Pitino promised (remember him?).

Observations

■ Scouting report on UK's Scott Padgett: Make him shoot off the dribble every time.

■ Ole Miss?

■ For those who have played basketball, do you get the idea no matter where the game or at what time, Arizona's Mike Bibby simply "lights up" against Kentucky?

■ We know Mike Krzyzewski knows he has something special when, after Duke whacked Arizona last week, the Blue Devils coach said: "We still need to work on things, like bringing the ball upcourt against pressure and late (game) free throw shooting."

■ Marques Maybin, Louisville. Hottest newcomer to college hoops with neat name to match?

■ With former Arizona State basketball players being indicted for point shaving, wonder if ex-players at other schools are running for cover?

■ Wish I could say honestly, "Ralph Hacker is getting better." But ... can you?

■ Meanwhile, everything considered, Tom Leach doing UK football was an A, and misses an A-plus only because he screams a bit too often.

■ Leading candidate for the Pout & Quit Award: UCLA.

■ Whatever happened to Eric Manuel?

UK football review

From the rearview mirror, some observations:

■ Who would have thought someone would say, "Only 352 days until football season?"

■ Even at 5-6, yes, Kentucky fans, that was a football season. And with a finale for the ages.

■ Best quote after Tennessee game: "We're going to work hard in the offseason. Get my guys out there and work and get ready for next season." — Tim Couch

■ The person who composed the cover for UK's 1997 football press guide please stand up ... and take a bow, pass Go and collect $200. "It's A whole new BALL-GAME" it shouted above stop-action photos of Tim Couch.

■ Anybody think the UK-Tennessee rivalry has lost its luster? There were 61,076 refutations to that notion Saturday at Commonwealth Stadium.

■ No, Hal Mumme should not be nominated for sainthood. And UK's coach did not always practice good judgment. But wasn't it fun? Rick Pitino said, "I like him because he takes responsibility for his mistakes."

■ Yes, Hal Mumme made mistakes. But wasn't it a charming departure to hear a coach say things like, "I blew it" and "My bad"?

■ Will all those (UK fans) who said Peyton Manning blundered by staying in college another year please stand up, and take note what UT's quarterback means to Tim Couch. And then consider what Manning told Couch after the UK-UT game. "You're good for college football. Enjoy it."

■ Yes, game officials do "take care" of Peyton Manning, give him the benefit of any doubt. Mumme must campaign for like treatment for Couch next season.

■ First name on my Heisman ballot was never in pencil. Now it's underlined.

■ Jeff Van Note (UK Network) and Dave Rowe (Jeff-Pilot) agree on one thing: "UK's Derek Homer is going to be great running back."

■ Message to Derek Homer: North and south! North and south!

■ Message to Tim Couch: Stop officiating. Stick to your business.

■ I love Jeff Snedegar's style, but his ejection from the Tennessee game is as bad as teammate Mike Webster spitting in a student's face. Snedegar's heave-ho hurts his team, forces him to sit out the next one, at U of L in August.

■ From the "College sports is about money Department", did you know UK's loss to Tennessee lets the Lexington school in on what will be likely be an $8-plus million payoff for UT and the SEC from bowl game revenues? If the Wildcats had beaten Tennessee, UK's share would be substantially less.

Heisman ballot

Peyton Manning, still. And a note to those hyping Michigan's Charles Woodson: Show us his academic numbers. Show us his football numbers from seasons past. Surely Jimmy Heisman had in mind the award would go to a student-athlete and not necessarily the next best flamboyant NFL prospect.

And, if Heisman voters have been itching for years to vote for a non-quarterback, as one member of the media herd insinuated last week, then why didn't Ohio State lineman Orlando Pace win in a landslide a year ago?

Baloney.

Dis 'N Data

■ High school football in Kentucky will miss the likes of Owen Hauck, Boone County's football coach who retired this week after 45 years in the profession. Does anyone stay in any job that long anymore?

■ Through games played Nov. 21, if the 26 coaching victories Owen Hauck posted at Mount Healthy, Ohio, were added to his Kentucky total ... and if 20 coaching victories Mojo Hollowell had at John Marshall High in Indiana were added to his, then state leader Joe Jagers of North Hardin, Hauck of Boone County and Hollowell at Owensboro Catholic would all have a Bluegrass State best, 284.

■ Gabe Stone. Perfect name for a quarterback, of formerly unbeaten Northern Kentucky High.

■ Ever wonder why snappy NBA advertisements never mention ticket prices?

Parting shot

Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski on four-quarter experiment in college basketball this preseason: "We already have a great game, and I don't think the motivation was to make the game better. I think it was to get another timeout."

And so it goes.

Calves sold well at first CPH sale

By the time you read this, both of the Hopkinsville CPH sales will be history. However, I wanted to share some initial results and then summarize after the sale at Guthrie on Tuesday, Dec. 9.

The first CPH sale at Hopkinsville was only heifers, no steers. Even though the turnout was less than expected (397) head, the calves sold well. Angus calves, 500-595 pounds, brought $73 per hundred weight. A pen of Charolais cross calves, 500-595 pounds, sold for $74.50 per hundred weight. Simmental cross calves, 500-595 pounds, brought $70 per hundred weight. Black baldie, Hereford X Angus calves,

Trigg County Extension Agent for Agriculture

500-595 pounds, sold for $75.75 per hundred weight. Also a pen of crossbred calves, 500-595 pounds, brought $75.75 per hundred weight. These pens were all classified as USDA medium and large frame number 1 calves.

When compared to feeder calf sales around the state, the CPH sale sold higher than the top prices. The Kentucky Department of Agriculture report states, for sales on Friday, Nov. 21, and Saturday, Nov. 22, that prices for feeder heifers weighing 500-600 pounds ranged from 60.50 to 74.00 per hundred weight.

Soil compaction

Now that nearly all of the soybeans are harvested, many farmers are beginning to rip fields before planting corn next spring. If compaction is present, ripping fields will probably increase yield and profit in corn fields next fall.

However, if compaction is not present, ripping will be a waste of labor, fuel and horsepower. Ultimately, ripping fields will cost money, instead of making money. The only way to know if compaction is a problem is to test for it with a soil penetrometer. A soil penetrometer is available at the Extension office for your use, or I will come to your farm and check for soil compaction. Farmers wouldn't apply fertilizer without a soil test, so why rip fields without testing for compaction.

Education programs of the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Worms can help recycle food scraps

Caring about the environment can lead a person to do things the hostess of the neighborhood Tupperware party never dreamed of. Consider the Breathitt County Extension agent who keeps a can of worms in her kitchen.

"Actually, it's a plastic box of worms," Extension home economics agent Martha Yount said. "The broad, shallow shape promotes decomposition of food scraps and provides a comfortable environment for red wigglers."

The process is called vermicomposting. In return for their comfy home, the worms' end of the bargain is to recycle Yount's apple cores, orange peels, lettuce leaves, coffee grounds and other vegetative leftovers into humus for her garden. Bacteria, fungi and other natural organisms help decompose the scraps while the worms munch away and keep the mixture turning.

Composting is a controlled, natural biological process that can save money and protect the environment, Yount said. "We produce an enormous amount of garbage every day that has to be trucked to landfills and buried. Disposal costs for yard waste and kitchen scraps can run as high as $60 per ton of trash. Composting is one way to reduce the amount of trash and convert it into something that is good for the environment."

The keys to successful vermicomposting are setting up the bed correctly, stocking it with the right kind of worms and supplying them with plenty of food and moisture. It's a much neater proposition than one might expect. Although there is a slight odor, Yount described it as similar to freshly turned soil.

Along with vegetative throw-aways such as potato peels and last night's leftover peas, items suitable for composting include grits, coffee grounds, tea bags, pizza crusts and cookies. "Cereal is fine too, as long as it's dry, but kitchen worms should never be given any kind of dairy foods, meat products or oil," she said.

Red wigglers are very neat and nonadventurous by nature, which is why Yount stresses they're the only kind of worms to use. "If it stays moist and there's enough food, red wigglers like to stay put and eat. The ones you dig out of the garden have a tendency to climb out the ventilation holes and go adventuring."

Even with the decorous red wiggler, Yount said there can be "a little bit of fallout" from ventilation holes.

"If you're squeamish, you can line the container with fiberglass window screen suspended from the sides and bottom. Air and water can get through the holes but the worms stay in the screen."

Vermicomposting

Here are instructions and tips on composting with worms from Martha Yount, Breathitt County Extension agent for home economics:

- Select a container at least six inches but no greater than 12 inches deep. Since worms prefer dark conditions, lidded plastic containers are ideal.

- Wash the container thoroughly in warm, soapy water. Then drill ventilation and drainage holes in sides, bottom and lid. "A half-inch is the maximum diameter," Yount said.

- The next step is to shred newspaper for bedding. Mix in a cupful of potting soil to keep the worms' gizzards working properly and moisten with a mist sprayer. The bedding should be kept damp but not wet.

- Red wigglers can be purchased from a garden supply store or bait shop. Buy two pounds of worms for seven square feet of surface area.

- All vegetable scraps are suitable for vermicomposting. Stale cereal, grits, oatmeal, cookies, pizza crust, coffee grounds and tea bags are also acceptable. No meat or dairy products should be placed in the vermicomposter.

- The list of unsuitable worm food includes oil, grease and any kind of cheese.

HOROSCOPES

For The Week Of Nov. 30-Dec. 6

ARIES March 21-April 20

Feeling bored? It could be time for a change of venue. Something that seems intrusive and-unfair could turn out for the best. When put to the test later this week, you'll really shine. Be careful of a close friend's feelings—your words could cause deep wounds.

TAURUS April 21-May 21

You have two choices this week—listen to reason, or listen to your heart. Before making a decision, try to discover a way to reconcile the two. If that's possible, the outcome will be better than you ever dreamed. Tickle a friend's fancy with an enticing offer.

GEMINI May 22-June 21

Looking to cure the busy-busy blues? Try simplifying. You may not be able to accomplish everything on your list, but you're certainly capable of the things that are most necessary.

CANCER June 22-July 22

The urge for something new spurs you on this week. However, there's no need to go overboard. Whether you're drawn to the mall, the library or someplace else, don't blow your budget all at once. A nice change of pace will do you good.

LEO July 23-August 23

You seem to be specializing in sticky situations this week. Although you've been blessed with more than your share recently, don't sweat it. You're due for a respite soon. Besides, you're doing a smashing job! Ask a friend for support during a particularly trying episode.

VIRGO August 24-September 22

Beware your impulsives this week. The best thing you can do is to delay making important decisions. The second best thing you can do is to get an expert opinion. This weekend, keep your time unstructured—the more flexible you are, the more amazing the possibilities.

LIBRA September 23-October 23

Examine your motives before speaking out about something or someone. If you're angry, hold your tongue. If not, then think twice and speak once. Above all, pay attention to details. Something small that escapes your notice could have disastrous results.

SCORPIO October 24-November 22

Looking for romance? It's hidden under a rock. Not literally, but it might be closer than you think. Invite a close friend to do something adventurous with you. This weekend, catch up on loose ends, even if it means missing out on something fun.

SAGITTARIUS November 23-December 21

Someone you haven't heard from in awhile gives you a call. If you're in the right place at the right time, you'll get the nod for an important assignment. Shoulder it as best you can, and you'll do just fine. Don't let yourself be limited by low expectations.

CAPRICORN December 22-January 20

Gearing up for the holidays could be causing you stress. Treating yourself will take the edge off the tension. To organize things further, list what needs to be done, and then prioritize. Even if the list is long, it's more manageable than you think.

AQUARIUS January 21-February 18

A milestone approaches, making this a good time to take stock. Are you where you want to be? Do your goals feel worthwhile? If not, you're in the perfect position to make changes. Put your talents to the test, and you'll surprise everyone, including yourself.

PISCES February 19-March 20

Buckling down for the winter means completing some long-neglected chores. The sooner you finish them, the sooner you'll be able to start enjoying a fun activity that someone has planned for you. Look to a child for some unexpected wisdom.

SAMUEL CLEMENS

He was a Mississippi riverboat pilot, gold prospector, silver mine laborer, newspaper reporter and editor, South Seas traveler and a lecturer. Oh, and yes, he is one of the most famous American authors, Mark Twain.

Born Samuel Clemens on November 30, 1835, Twain's works include The Innocents Abroad, A Connecticut Yankee In King Arthur's Court, Huckleberry Finn, The Celebrated Jumping Frog Of Calaveras County and The Adventures Of Tom Sawyer.

He was reared in Hannibal, Missouri, which is on the Mississippi River; and he lived and worked in many cities around the world—including New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis.

In 1895, to help with growing financial problems, Twain started on a world lecture tour. Twain was very famous for his sayings. He has been quoted everywhere; and excerpts from his books, speeches and articles are used by many.

environmental EPA protection agency

What Does The EPA Do?

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) was founded December 2, 1970, to protect public health and to safeguard and improve the natural environment—air, water and land.

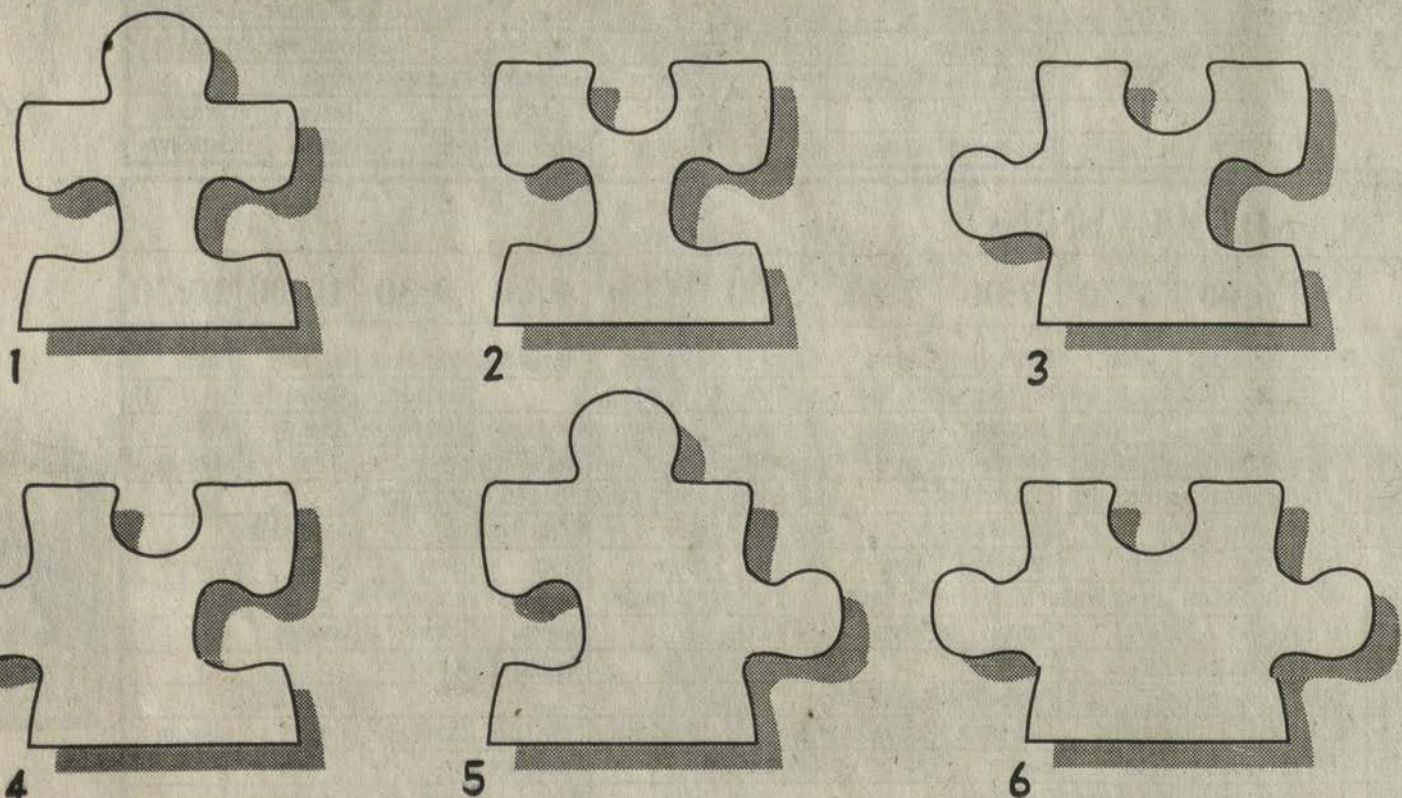

The EPA makes sure that:

- Federal environmental laws are followed.
- Environmental protection is considered in policies concerning economic growth, energy, transportation, agriculture, industry, international trade and natural resources.
- The best available scientific information is used to help reduce environmental risks.
- Businesses, the government, communities and citizens have the information they need so they can help in preventing pollution and protecting the environment.

In addition, the EPA continues to work toward improving the environment. You can help protect our environment by remembering not to litter and to recycle. Are there other ways you can help?

Mama's happy Christmas Tree...

One of my very earliest memories is of Christmas. I couldn't have been more than three years old. When I whimpered one day, as children do, Mama said something I never forgot. With a finger to her mouth and her eyes opened widely, she half whispered, "Shush, it's Christmas Eve."

I had no idea what that was but knew it was surely something wonderful; I could tell by the wonder in her voice. It impressed me then and still does; that memory goes back about sixty-five years.

Christmas was always a happy time for Mama never-mind there was never money enough to make it a generous one. My brother and I spent our childhood during the Great Depression of the early 1930s. Dad was the manager of "The West Side Kroger Store" in W. Frankfort, Ill and his salary was $25 a week. This figure was constant for several years with no raise in pay. We were all grateful he had a job at all.

So, there wasn't much for Christmas but we always had a tree and Mama made sure it was a happy one. She always put it place with a good white bulb, we turned off the lights in the room and "plugged in the tree."

This was such a special time! The lights were red, green, blue, white and reflected in the window. Neighbors could see the Roses had the "Christmas spirit." On Christmas morning, there was never very much under the tree, but somehow, in those days, we never lost our sense of love and wonder at Christmas.

It is important to know that money and resources were not necessary to experience the love and wonder of Christmas. It was something beautiful we did together, a family thing.

We've probably lost the simplicity that Christmas was in those days. We have been influenced wrongly by our affluence.

Could I encourage you, to take part in another loving thing? "ANGEL TREES" are now available in local banks. Share your abundance with someone not as well off as you are. Drop by the bank and get your "Angel" early. It's not what you get for Christmas that makes it a happy one, it's what you give... It's a simple thing.

up the day after Thanksgiving and took it down the day after New Years.

Usually it was even a "store bought" tree. The Kroger store sold them and Dad would buy one and bring it home for "decoration." This was a family affair and we delighted in hanging "icicles" and brightly colored bulbs saved from year to year (the bulbs, not the icicles).

A white sheet went around the base and we were ready for the "lights." These were the old-fashioned, big bulbs with cords always hopelessly tangled in the paper grocery bag. After unsnarling the cords and replacing the burned out bulbs, we draped them, as evenly as possible, around the tree.

The star on top was the final touch and when it was in
