

Foreword

1849 will always stand for the search for a rare and precious metal—gold.

This year's graduating class sincerely hopes that 1949 may become the symbol of a search ended. For, you see, the rare and precious element we seek is a lasting peace!

"Forth we went, a gallant band—
Youth, Love, Gold and Pleasure."

One hundred one years ago gold was discovered in the Sacramento valley of California. The news spread across the country and by 1849 men of every walk of life, traveling by land and sea, were seeking the new gold field and riches. They went hoping that something not then possessed could be quickly obtained. The long, dangerous journey meant sacrifice and perhaps loss of life, but gaining possible riches seemed to justify the danger and effort.

Today no radio announcer is saying, "Flash! Gold has been discovered in California" to make us hope for material wealth from that source. Nevertheless, we as your teachers have failed if we have not aroused within each of you something for which to hope. It may be for the realization of an ambition, the strengthening of a friendship, or the feeling of being better prepared to encounter life. The spirit of '49ers is the spirit of hope.

As members of the class of '49 you have, like the "Forty-niners" of a century ago, set out upon a quest—this time not a quest for gold but a quest for peace.

Even to contribute toward bringing about a lasting peace in a world so filled with trouble spots will be a difficult task, but it will also be a challenging one. I believe such a peace can be achieved only by the elimination of selfishness and greed in the individual. If each individual would live honestly, have a proper regard for the welfare of his neighbors, and work to improve his own community, our nation could move forward to real leadership in a chaotic world.

My wish for you, Members of the Class of '49 of Linden High School, is that you may take seriously your individual responsibilities and in the words of the prophet Micah "do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with your God."

The Junior Class holds its meeting every other Friday in the auditorium. This year Joseph Brazzatti presided over the class, John Hudak was Vice-President, Amelia Pittinger, Secretary, and William Krauss, Treasurer. The meetings were turned over to Mr. Nagl, who led the class in singing after all business was discussed. Mr. Nagl is preparing the members for their Senior year and finally their graduation singing. Miss Edith McCormack is the Chairman of the Junior Class advisers. We all agree that the very festive Christmas decorations on the main floor added the final touch of Yuletide spirit to Linden High School this Christmas. The Junior Class has charge of the decorations in the corridor every year, with Miss Noddin in charge. The grand event of the year was the Junior Prom. The Juniors chose as their theme a Southern plantation, and the decorations were arranged beautifully. The Prom was a huge success and everyone had a wonderful time. Linden High School has always been proud of its interesting Junior Class meetings, which have provided the classes with diversified entertainment.

Classes of '51 and '52

The Sophomore and Freshman classes are not divided up into sections alphabetically the same as the upper classes. Instead, they are placed in their homerooms according to sections. Each homeroom has its own president and officers who conduct various meetings and programs during the homeroom period. The presidents of the Sophomore class who presided over these meetings this year were: Eleanor Daly, Stanton Friedman, Robert Post, Richard Ferguson, Mary Pivarnik, Gloria Dobos, Elizabeth Tracey, Larry Curtin, Henry Armstead, Mike Konchak, and Eugene Leskanic.

The Freshmen also had their presiding officers, who were: Martin Mayer, Elaine Malme, Louis Reuter, Christopher Malo, Ruth Jeremko, Ann Malinchok, Dorothy Delicot, Richard Guzzo, Joseph Harvanik, Fred Lazo, Virginia Curtin, Alex Zlata, Harriet Armstead, and William Penn.

The Sophomores and Freshmen do not participate in a class project or sponsor any class functions as do the upperclassmen. The only program they work on as a whole is their annual talent show. This year the two programs were presented in the assemblies with a great deal of success. The display of talent left no doubt in the minds of the upperclassmen that the freshmen and sophomores were well equipped with skill and able to carry on.

This year Mr. Gelfond introduced group guidance to the classes. This guidance helps the Sophomores to decide their curricula, to decide what vocations they'd like to enter, and to consider what colleges they might like to attend. A different type of program is given to the Freshmen. They are familiarized with High School life, taught tolerance, and taught the right attitudes toward their fellow students. These first two years are very important years of High School life, as they form the basis for the type of school life, attitudes, and character that person is going to have during the rest of his school life.

Ah! That glorious day when the Chronicle appears. The rushing and grabbing is unbelievable, but it is worth it! This year Joan Fuchs and Barbara Reinfurt have done a beautiful job as editor-in-chief and news editor. The "Four Years" column always causes a great deal of excitement, as this tells of all the romances, parties and top news in season. The "Fashion Fancies" has great appeal for the girls.

The editorials inform us of the goings on in school, such as the plays, P.T.A. meetings, conferences, and assembly programs. Everyone reads "Spotlight," as this column interviews the most prominent members of the senior class. We all enjoy the sports page, which usually gives a summary of the games played and their scores. All in all, we're very proud of our Chronicle, and it will be something long remembered.

Student Council

We are fortunate to have in our school an organization which is recognized as contributing much to all sides of a student's life. In an annual election, the Student Council prepares us for later years by offering us a chance to elect those who will head one of the more important groups. The council's adviser, Miss Evelyn Smith, is constantly showing the students new avenues of improvement. Through her we are learning how to choose suitable people for office, which is very important to the council, for without them, it cannot function properly. The council, which at first had upper class members only, is now composed of one representative from each homeroom. These representatives also comprise the various special committees of the organization. For instance, the Assembly Committee plans all assembly programs with Miss Tuttle; the Athletic Committee assists at the football games. The Student Council usually sponsors the welfare campaigns in the school, such as the annual March of Dimes and the recent "stamps for vets" drive; it serves the students by selling candy at the football games; it encourages clubs and considers the formation of those that request such consideration. Towering above every accomplishment and activity, however, is the main purpose of the Student Council: to keep a harmonious spirit in the school.

Latin Club

The members of the Latin Club, under the supervision of Miss MacConkey, learn at their meetings of Roman life.

Two major social events are the Christmas program and the initiation party. For the Christmas program the members sing many carols in Latin, thus supplementing their Latin knowledge and widening their scope of the language.

Many interesting activities are planned and carried out by the officers of the association, such as the club's trip to the ballet.

This club gives the student a better opportunity to widen his knowledge of the German language and German customs. Reports are given from time to time concerning various topics of interest, such as habits, dress, history, and industries of the Germans. Mr. Moldaschl is the adviser of the club.

The Spanish Club has always been an interesting one in Linden High School. Mrs. Ramage, the adviser, has been very helpful in making the club period interesting and educational. Of course, we all remember the play the Spanish Club presented in Assembly on April 14. As it was Pan-American Day, the program stressed the good inter-relations between North and South America. The club members learned various Spanish dances and songs for the occasion.

Dance Band

The Dance Band assembles every Monday morning under the able supervision of Mr. Gelfond and Mr. Mopsick. The main event of the year was their very entertaining program in assembly on March 17. There were no afternoon dances for which the band could play this year, but since all the members are so intent on music they gathered together and had quite a jam session at every meeting.

If you have walked through the halls of Linden High on Tuesdays after school you heard the girls practicing their "do, re, mi's;" or perhaps you've heard the boys on Tuesday mornings using their vocal chords.

The Girls' Glee Club is the largest club in existence in school. It consists of ninety-eight femmes. The Boys' Glee Club has sixty-three boys.

The glee clubs, under the direction of Mr. Nagl, are kept busy at all times. They give the annual Christmas program. A picked group from the boys' and girls' glee clubs entertained at an assembly program. They also entertained for the P. T. A. The music department gives an annual formal concert.

A Guild Membership to the Metropolitan Opera, which is attended once a year, is held by the Music Department. A trip to Radio City to see a show from backstage was taken.

The boys formed Barber Shop Quartets, a contest was held and the best one entered the contest of the Society for Preservation of National Barber Shop Quartets.

Without our wonderful band, under the direction of Mr. Warren Malpas, our football games would be very quiet indeed. We are proud to watch them marching down the field in their beautiful black and orange uniforms. The band not only played for the games, presented an assembly program in January, gave a concert in March, but also played for P.T.A. meetings and memorial services in front of the city hall. This year the offices were held by Joseph Pickney, Raymond Tomaszewski, co-captains; Ralph Leporiere, Eugene Leskanic, lieutenants; Thomas Evans, sergeant; Carol Aber, librarian; Mary Ann Castoral, Elaine Ramage, assistant librarians.

To the strains of lovely music the curtain was raised on another stage success, and it was the orchestra of L.H.S. that provided that music. Every Wednesday morning the budding musicians were seen scraping away on their violins and cellos and tooting their trumpets. The serious work of these musicians was shown to everyone at their annual spring concert. The officers this year were Richard Ostarticki, manager; Edward Klawunn, Walter Kozak, assistant managers; Lida Pennacchini, secretary; Mae Plunkett, librarian; Frances Galbraith, Lorraine Haskell, assistant librarians.

Another group that is popular in the school is the twirlers. They strut behind the band in their adorable bell-boy uniforms with batons flashing in the sunlight. Miss Siegman has charge of the girls and trains them until they are ready to march with the band.

A Cappella Choir

Hear those lovely voices resound! Yes, it's Monday afternoon and the A Cappella Choir is rehearsing for one of its varied performances. The choir consists of the 60 best voices chosen from 250 students in the regular chorus. These select people are able to sing by sight and without an accompaniment. They have already done some radio work. All pupils who do solos in the Assembly programs are chosen from the choir.

The choir gave a very impressive and enjoyable performance in the Christmas assembly program. The Parent Teacher Association also enjoyed hearing them at one of their meetings in March.

Choral Club

Each Tuesday during Activity period the Choral group meets in Mrs. Bell's room. If we stopped in to listen, we should find Joseph Daniels presiding or in his absence William Barge, the vice-president. Mildred Wactor would be reading the minutes and Merlin Starke collecting dues. During their meetings the members sing, have discussions, plan short skits, or consider ways of bettering relations among people. In February, the club presented an assembly program entitled "Double Trouble", an original humorous skit.

"The Play's the Thing."

One of the most active organizations in Linden High School is the Senior Dramatic Club, under the supervision of Mrs. Nogi. It is always pleasant on a Tuesday morning to hear our president, Virginia Turano, say, "The meeting will please come to order." She is assisted by the other officers: first vice-president, Frances Galbraith; second vice-president, Robert Hagelin; secretary, Olga Lehotzky, and treasurer, Mae Plunkett.

The most important activity is the fall production. This is a chance for all the future actors and actresses to show their ability. Anyone in the school may try out for a part. This year the Broadway comedy "Arsenic and Old Lace" was given with great success. The other main project is the one-act play presented in assembly in the spring.

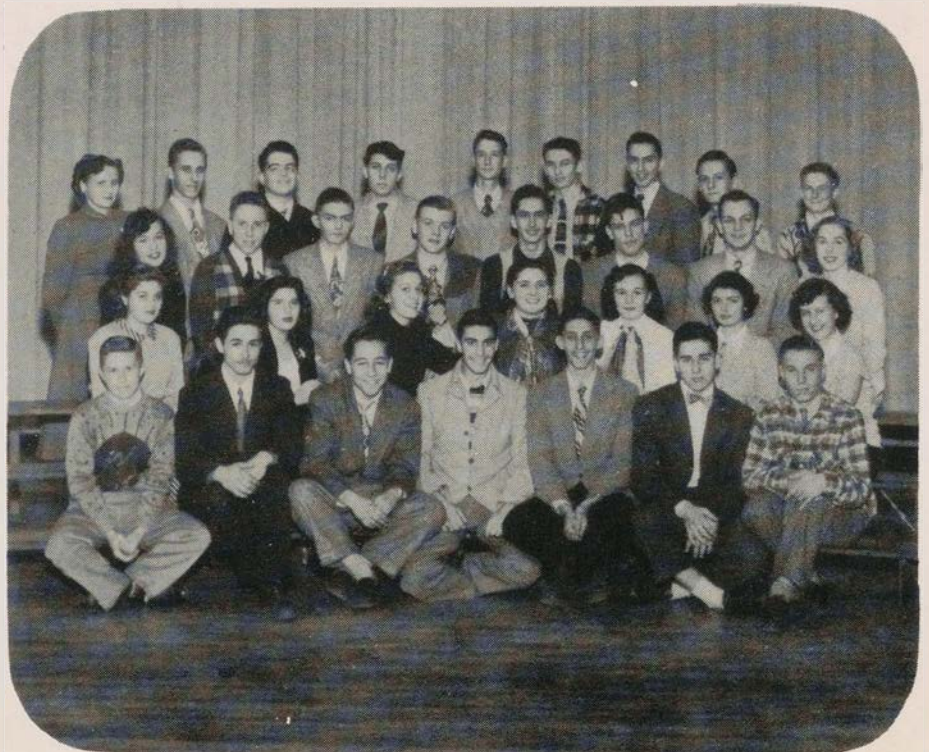

Senior Dramatic Club

The club members are always kept busy working on play committees and other activities. Tickets, properties, publicity, and costumes are examples of the wide fields of activity offered in committee work. There is always room for one more on any of the committees. Speech training, making stage sets, play reading, and making reports on current Broadway hits are some of the other activities.

Of course, it isn't all work and no play. During the year the club takes trips into New York City to see Broadway first-hand. The proceeds from the fall production pay for these trips. After the fall production a party is given by the club to the homeroom that sells the most tickets for the play.

On Gift Day the club presents a gift to the school and a medal to the outstanding senior actor and actress who contributed the most to the club and the school.

Make-up Club

The girls in the Make-Up Club are proud of the activities in which they participate throughout the year. The members put make-up on for all the dramatic productions, including "Arsenic and Old Lace" and the Senior Play, "Dear Ruth." Their techniques are developed by practicing the art of make-up on themselves and on other club members.

Junior Dramatic Club

The Junior Dramatic Club, which meets in Room 112 Wednesday activity period, has forty-six members. If you should pass the room at this hour, you would be sure to hear the buzzing of forty-six diaphragms exhaling air. If you should pause to look in the window, you would see ninety-two waving arms raised to the sky. They are truly aspiring young Thespians! The club had a successful Christmas party and presented a play in the assembly during the Spring.

The Boys' Photography Club, with Mr. Clark as their adviser, has completed many projects of interest this year. They printed Christmas cards made from their own negatives, and took portraits of their own club members.

They planned contests, in which the main objective was to learn more about printing, developing, enlarging, and composition in photography. The club has gotten many prints from leading photographers, and has viewed many movies on slides concerning the study of photography.

This year, the Chemistry Club has a new adviser, Mr. Yeisley. The purpose of the club is to promote interest in science, to keep the members abreast of all new scientific developments, and to share common knowledge among themselves. Every week, various programs are given which include discussions on physics, electronics, and the uses of scientific apparatus. There are demonstrations, experiments, and lectures by various members. The club also studies the lives and works of famous scientists.

Girls' Photography Club

Both the Senior Girls' and the Girls' Photography Clubs have a sole purpose—to learn the art of taking a good picture. In the Senior Girls' Club are learned all the many ways in which to take a good picture, whereas the Girls' Photography Club devotes its time to judging the pictures taken by the average girl and holding an annual "Best Picture" contest.

The main purpose of the Forensic Club is to train young people to stand up and talk with confidence. In club meetings, which are every Wednesday activity with Miss Lang, are held round table discussions on international, national, and local topics of interest. The Forensic Club is a member of the New Jersey Forensic League, which sponsors dramatic interpretation, extemporaneous speaking, humorous declamation, and poetry reading contests. The club also sponsors radio programs over WAAT, WNJR, and WQXR; there is a Forensic Forum annually in assembly; and it co-sponsors the New Jersey International Relations Forum.

Miss Waterman, with Miss McIntyre's assistance, conducts the meetings of the Library Squad. Since the group contains eighty-four students, the Squad is divided into two groups; the new members, with a few of the old, come on Tuesday, and the remainder of the old members come on Wednesday. These student volunteers work during their club meeting and also give up their activity periods, study halls, and any other free time to keep the library in order. Besides learning how to slip books, shelve books, and read shelves, the students enjoy lectures given by Miss Waterman, which are usually on special subjects that deal with library work.

Our Library Squad is a member of the State Library Council, and members take an active part in all meetings. This year they are acting as advisers to the president.

Crochet Club

In 1945, a group of girls went to Mrs. Crawford with the ambitious idea of forming a club in which they would be able to learn or increase their skill in handwork. Mrs. Crawford, always willing to assist young people in worthy projects, agreed to sponsor the organization which we know as the Crochet Club. The eager young ladies, now numbering twenty, are fulfilling the object of the club, to learn to crochet and in every way possible to make things for themselves and for people more unfortunate than they. The group completed a quilt begun last year, and are now working on two afghans, one crocheted, the other knitted. The quilt was sent to an orphanage, picked impartially, and the afghans are going to be presented to veteran hospitals.

In a fairly remote section of the bottom floor—a place that Freshmen find intriguing—we find the room which houses the printing club and its varied fascinating equipment.

The purpose of the club is to help students become better acquainted with printing and its phases. It also gives an idea of what commercial printing is like. Each year the members, accompanied by Mr. St. Andrassy, make a trip to a printing company. There they see in operation various processes, such as paper, book, and color printing, which they study, along with the history of printing. The printing club is indispensable to the school. They print all programs, tickets, and posters for the senior play; Athletic Association tickets; all official office forms; Parent-Teacher Association programs; and the Linden Teachers' Association Constitution.

Art Club

If you're interested in art, you can join our well-organized Art Club. Here one may not only sketch and paint, but may also get a considerable knowledge of the background of the history of art and of important artists. One may also learn to distinguish famous paintings and sculptures. The officers this year are President, Carol Balding; Vice-President, Audrey Cucual; Secretary, Olga Goydic; and Treasurer, Karin Hislop. Mrs. Oldach Smith is the Faculty Adviser.

Fish & Game Club

Do you enjoy fishing or hunting? If you do, we have a Fish and Game Club here in Linden High. Our sportsmen have numerous programs concerning such topics as hunting ducks in the fall and deer in December. To keep them busy during the off season, January to March, they repair rods, make tackle, and discuss different fish and game laws which concern them. They also show movies during club period concerning hunting and fishing. The President of the club is John Backes; Vice-President, Edward Miller; Secretary, Edwin Maslankoski; and Treasurer, Leroy Meland. Mr. Schott is the Faculty Adviser.

Future Homemakers of America

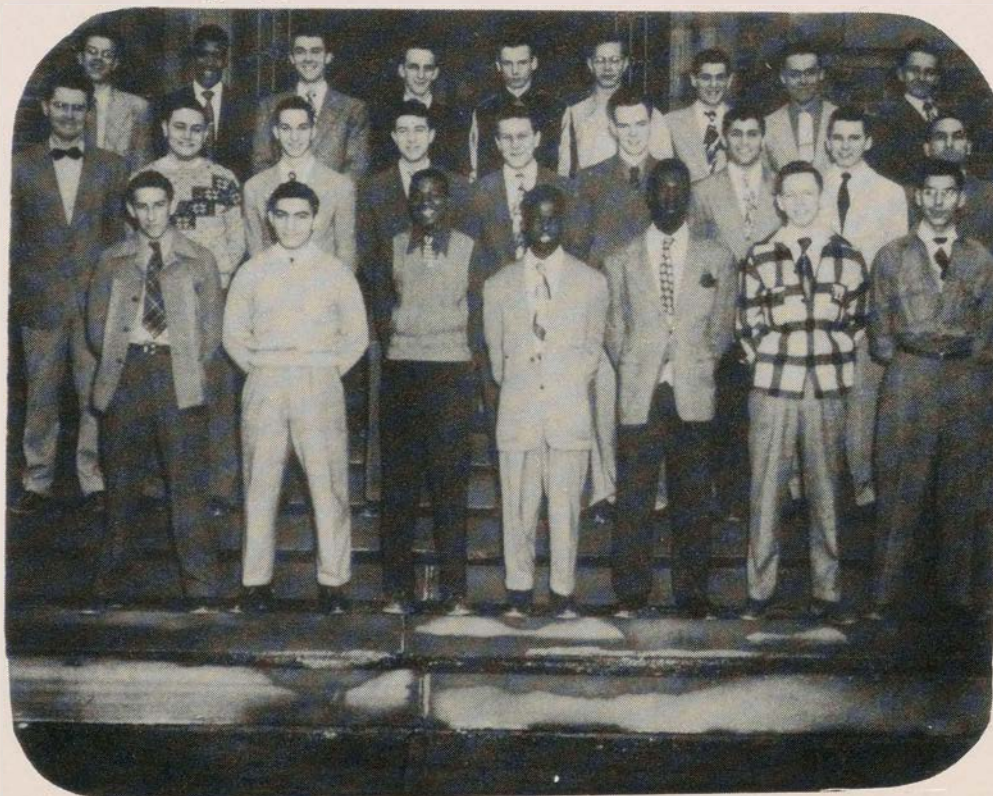

This organization, which is national, has a three part project in order to promote international good will. First is the world Christmas Festival, when boxes are sent to children overseas. Second are Friendship Boxes, where each member encloses a letter in her box along with shoelaces and other necessities. Third, a home economics class in Europe is adopted and is sent many badly needed articles, such as needles, pins, and thread. During F. H. A. week there was a field trip to Pratt Institute. The Future Homemakers of America sponsored two Bam-Belle Fashion Shows, one in the fall and one in the spring. Members also broadcasted from WNJR on a home economics program.

Cafeteria Corps

Membership in the corps is voluntary, but a new idea—to elect fifteen new sophomores to the corps each year to be corp members in their junior and senior years—has been introduced. The job of the corps is to maintain order in the cafeteria, to teach and enforce habits of cleanliness, to insure second, third, and fourth lunch periods a clean place to eat, and to stop the running in hallways at lunch time. The methods employed by the corps to enforce its aims are to work in a polite manner, seeking cooperation from the students, and to have definite sections over which they are responsible. Student response has been excellent, for the Cafeteria Corps is one of the most well-functioning and respected organizations in school.

BALL

This year the Tigers under the auspices of Mr. Nogi and the Assistant Coaches had a very depressing football season, winning but four out of nine appearances on the gridiron. The squad was a bit too light for the standard Linden High competition, but had the boys taken advantage of the breaks in their favor, they would have had a good season.

A few statistics reveal that seventy-six points were scored against Linden while she was scoring only fifty-five. Linden participated in seven six-point games. This verifies the fact that although the team was light and small, its speed and drive came when the chips were down.

To cite one outstanding player of the squad would be impossible, because all of the boys gave their time, effort, and spirit to every respective position in which they played.

The biggest upset scored was Linden's victory over Woodbridge. A most unorthodox play occurred when all the eligible pass receivers shifted to one side of the field, leaving no interference, and little protection for the quarterback to complete the play. P.S. It worked.

This year Mr. Jakucs had a very difficult task, for he tried to build a winning team from small men. It is a well known fact that today's standard of basketball favors the tall, brawny boy who has a good eye for making baskets. The outlook of having a squad with only one man six feet tall seemed very depressing, but with much deliberation and able coaching the task was set.

Those on the starting team were Ed Burke, "Red" Sojka, "Mickey" Callander, Bert Spader, and Ted Kondracki. The boys had to sacrifice height, but they had speed, and this proved to be the beneficial factor in the winning of five games out of a rough seventeen-game schedule. Callander was high scorer for the team, having well over 200 points at the end of the regular season. Next year the most likely to play varsity ball will be Bill Krauss, Jim Salinger, Pete Kinsella, and Ronney Mack.

Although the team had a bad record of games won in regular play, the Little Tigers proved triumphant when they outscored Westfield 40 to 39 in their first game of the state tournament. This feat was accomplished by holding the great scoring threat, Sam Mitchell, down to eight points.

The second game, against Edison, was won only to have "Big Ed" Burke sustain an injury in his leg, prohibiting his play in the Group III Section II finals. With the team under heavy pressure, knowing Burke could not play, the Tigers took a drubbing from Hillside 70 to 38, ending their hopes of championship.

Let's turn the clock of time back to "1849". At that time, sports were very different from today. The most strenuous of sports was a lively game of lawn-polo or croquet. Tennis or horseback riding was considered very daring.

Now let's return to "1949", to Linden High School! A terrific game of servus ball is progressing. It is the final game between the Senior and Junior classes. We expect the Seniors to win, as usual, but the Juniors surprise us by defeating them. Oh, well! they'll be the seniors of 1950. Foul shooting comes next on the list. We really have some sharp-shooters in Linden. The object of this is to show how many baskets out of 75 one can score. The winners of all these contests receive a certain number of points. No! no prize money is given, but if you're lucky enough or sport-minded enough to gather 300 points, you receive a letter; 200 points, a numeral. In order to receive 100 points, a girl has to come in first in a contest. If she comes in second she receives 75; and third, 50.

Now turning the clock further on, we see the girls doing rhythmic exercises. It really is a lot of fun, but oh! do muscles ache afterwards. Basketball is also in progress. The girls form different teams and compete against each other. The Junior and Senior teams will play other High Schools. That about sums up "1949" Girls' Sports news, so we'll pack our clock away till the new year, 1950.

Under—thru—and out.

The Linden High School Track Team had some tough luck last season, ending the year with three victories out of six meets. We beat Carteret, Edison, and Rahway only to lose heavily to Cranford, Westfield, and Regional.

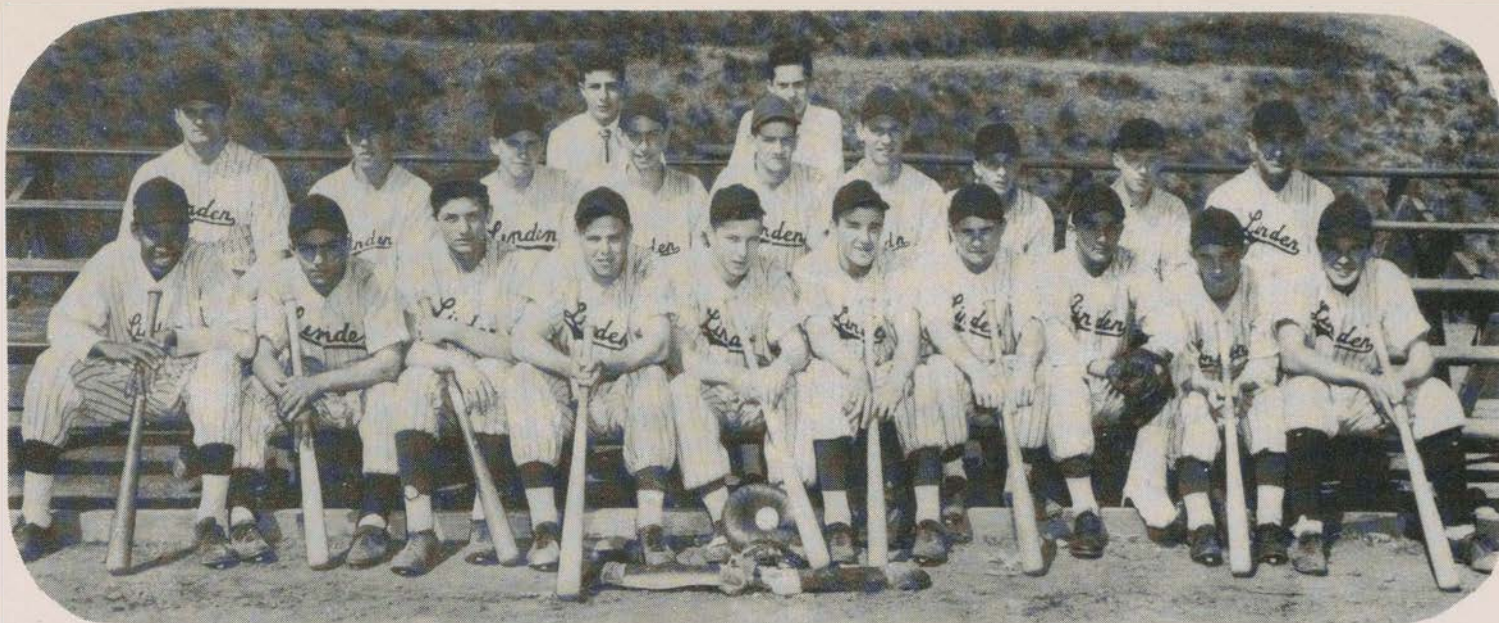

In the county meet Linden finished fourth, but more important was the fact that Wayne Barge won the county championship in the Pole Vault event. William Barge tied for second place in the High Jump at this meet; he also was high scorer, ending the year with 80 points, an average of better than 13 points per meet.

Coach Nogi, with his able assistants, Mr. Schott and Mr. Mele, has more experienced material to work with this year. He has "Big" Ed Kozac, only a sophomore, Rudy Putz, and Bob Bade working with the weights and discus; "Whitey" Chichura and Mike Modrak are the pole vaulters; Joe Daniels, Red Cation, Pete Wojtowicz, John Humcke and Leroy Meland are distance runners; and Major Aulston and Jerry Catz are sprinters. The greatest handicap is the lack of a good high jumper; nevertheless, the boys have more experience to pull through those hard-to-get winning points.

The Linden High Baseball Squad of last year experienced a fair season, salvaging ten wins out of a rough eighteen-game schedule and finishing fourth in County Conference play only two games behind the winner. The success of the team can be credited to the able coaching of Mr. Mopsick, who kept plugging for the boys to win even when things weren't bright. The pitching of John Mahar and Bill Brightwell plus the outstanding hitting of Ed Kasko, Joe Breidt, and Mike Galayda made the Orange and Black the hardest-driving team in the county. Only a few bad breaks prevented them from taking the championship.

If we could select an all-American on the squad it would probably be Ed Kasko, who not only played almost errorless ball at shortstop, but also led the team in batting with an outstanding average of .362.

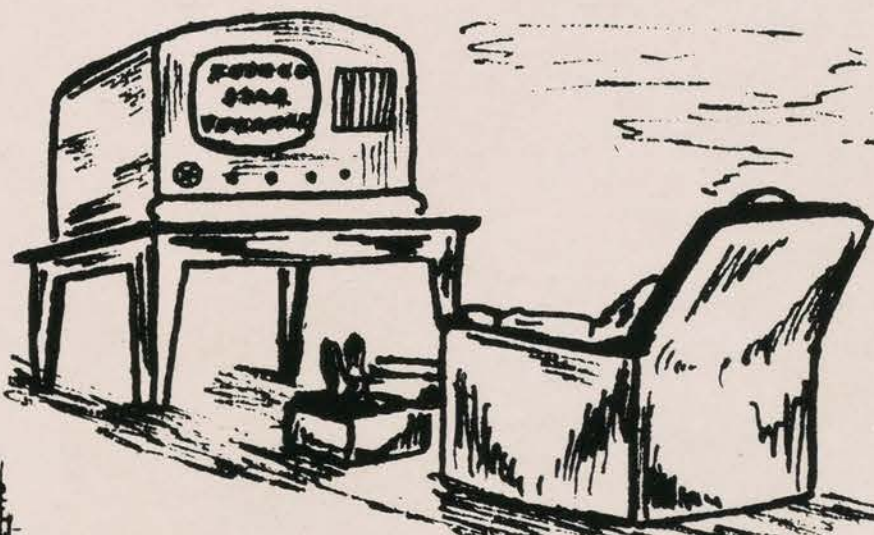

Linden was a hot and cold team this year, starting off the season with two wins over Edison and Roselle before dropping a doubleheader to New Brunswick. We then won two and lost three. Among these losses was the no-hitter against Westfield, pitched by Brightwell. Then there were four consecutive wins and two losses before we whitewashed Cranford and outslugged Woodbridge. We ended the season dropping our last two games. With Linden facing a tough season, Coach Mopsick has only three letter-men back from last year. He has built the team around Mike Galayda, Bill Brightwell, and Tony Venditto.

Congratulations . . .

For the effort shown by you in completing your high school education!

Now some of you will continue your education while others will accept positions immediately after being graduated.

GREENBERG'S recommend that you do not choose a position which pays the most; choose a position where there is opportunity to learn and earn. Whatever you choose at this time will probably become your career. In order to seek advancement, you should work diligently and conscientiously. If you can improve your work by making a change, contact your supervisor and make your suggestions. If accepted, fine; if not, at least you have tried and will try again. Advancement will follow if you will be honest with yourself and your employer . . . Don't be governed by the clock! An executive is not born; he works hard and reaches his goal.
