Co-Captains: Mike Weber, George Noll
Coach: Mr. Paul Garrett

Left: Heading is a vital strategy in the game of soccer. Rigobuerto Cueto challenges Scotch Plains for the ball as Slawek Matlose (21) rushes to his aid.

Above: One would never know Jerry Manganeillo is a natural "lefty" who possesses strong kicking power with both feet.

Tigers have first winning season in six years!

Left: Troy Stradford scores against Cranford in the season opener. He led the Tigers in scoring 7 TD's and 853 yards rushing.

Right: In high school football the coach may visit the huddle when time is called. Coach Martino talks it over with "His Boys".

Right: One of Linden's three seniors, Bryant Daniels practice's his shooting form against Roselle Catholic. Bryant averaged eight points and eight rebounds per game during the season.

With vibrant enthusiasm, the Soccer/Wrestling cheerleaders began the year with new perspective. Under the leadership of Miss Bartiroma, the squad obtained new uniforms, exchanged cheers with other cheerleaders from New Jersey, and attended Farleigh Dickinson Camp. Here they won their first place awards, which they displayed on their banner in the Halloween Parade.

During the soccer season, the girls planned "secret pal bags." Each cheerleader selected a secret pal from the soccer team and presented him with a bag filled with candy. Included was an encouraging note written by the cheerleader.

The Boosterettes worked throughout the entire school year to raise money for the Sports Award Dinner held in honor of the school's athletes.

A tough work schedule confronted every sophomore, junior and senior who made the squad. Members sold fund raisers every A.M. homeroom from September until March. They attended back-to-school nights in junior and senior high schools.

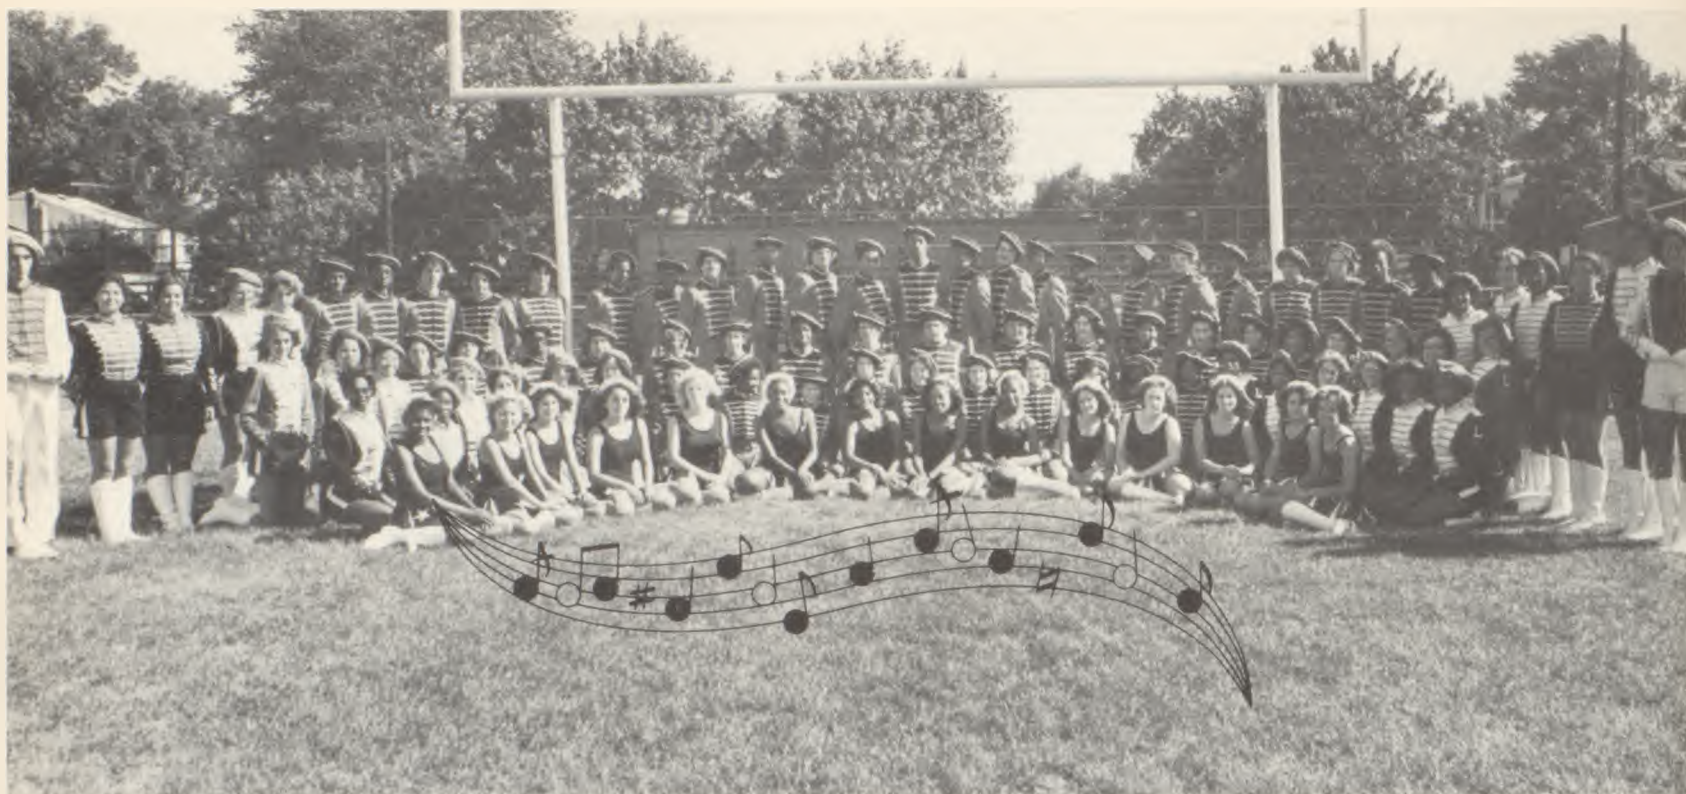

The squad raised money by selling: programs, blankets, seat cushions, hats, scarves, "munchies," Thanksgiving corsages, mugs and T-shirts at football, basketball, soccer, and wrestling events.

For the first time in the squad's history a male Booster was added to the ranks. Co-Captain Kara Hodes viewed it as a possible precedent for years to come: "Hopefully the admittance of a male to the squad will set a trend for years to come."

Summer sweat and a new beat to the big band.

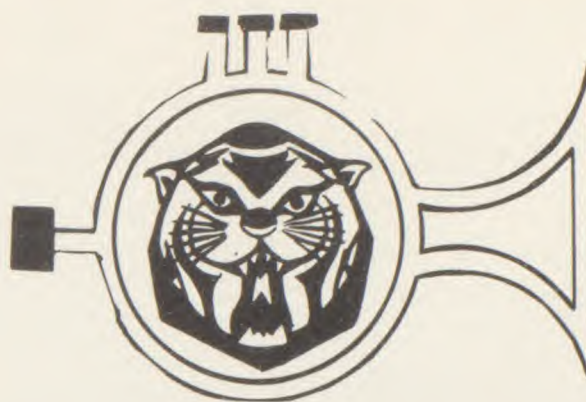

"The band is so good; people now admit they are a part of it. We even have a record sale on band jackets!" boasted the new band director, Mr. Gerard Lorenzetti, who brought changes in the form of new uniforms and a multiple percussion section. One thousand one hundred "man" hours of practice have been mustered over the summer, during school, and in competitions. City Council honored the band for its participation in the Miss America Parade in Atlantic City.

The band-related squad of Color Guards took a third place award in the New Brunswick parade.

A spring-time retreat to the Apple Blossom Festival in Virginia brought the first successful band season to a flicker after a year's display of bright new fireworks.

Active choral groups sing praises of LHS.

Vocal Music remained on key throughout an active year of performances and competitions.

A new vocal addition, the Gospel Choir, conducted and directed by Darlene Singley, came into being. Gospel singers exhibited their choir in churches throughout Union County.

Girls Ensemble, the smallest group, performed at an administrator's luncheon at the Coachman Inn and at a breakfast-prayer in Linden's Reformed Church.

On a high note for the year, all vocal groups entered the Six Flags Choral Festival at Great Adventure held in the spring. Members sold candy to help defray the costs for this competition.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The student council had 31 members, 9 from each grade level, and 4 officers. The student council collected money for the school's treasury by selling Tiger Telegrams. It also attempted to sell Cynosure subscriptions.

The council officers headed the liaison committee which consisted of one representative from each club and sport to sit with Mr. Taranto and Mr. Coplan to discuss any school-related problems.

Mrs. Casale expressed her views on student council. "The main purpose of student council is to improve relations between the students and faculty."

Art Service League sells hand painted ceramics

The Art Service League designed posters and signs for cafeteria, halls, dances and supplied designs for the lobby display case to illustrate a few of their achievements.

The Art Service League sold hand made and hand painted ceramic birds and tigers for art-related field trips. They visited the Whitney Museum, attended various art lectures at local colleges and the annual fashion show at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City.

Mr. Cerillo summed up the purpose of the league: "I believe the Art Service League is part of the school community and provides students with the incentive to achieve professionalism in work by dealing with the faculty, community and peers."

Linden High Chemistry and Biology teams, coached by Mr. Salzer and Mr. Hoffman, respectively, participated in the New Jersey Science League.

Team members met to study each week for monthly meets which took place at different high schools from January until April.

After a ceremonious induction service in the spring of their junior year National Honor Society members burst forth with enthusiasm in the fall to rescue any student mired down in any subject (except typing) with a free tutoring service.

With a car wash held in September, and a successful bake sale held on back-to-school night, the Society was able to round out their year with a trip to New York City to see a Broadway play.

Four selected members participated in a High School Bowl broadcast on Cable TV. Ben Wolf, Darlene Singley, and Ruth Lemansky captured Linden's first win in two years.

"The quality of gym classes tremendously improved"

In the second year of elective physical education programs, new activities, such as self-defense, have been added. The staff found the quality of gym classes "tremendously improved."

Girls' soccer, another new program, was coached by Mr. Frank Taranto. "It is an excellent opportunity for girls to participate in sports. Soccer is the main fall sport for females this year. It is an athletic sport in which we have many qualified female athletes that can and are participating this year," commented Mr. Martino.

"One of the best equipped business departments."

"We are by far, one of the best equipped business departments throughout the schools in Union County," stated Mrs. Specht, department head.

College-bound students can take business courses such as typing, shorthand and accounting.

There is 100% placement among cooperative office education students. Approximately 98% of our business students graduate with a job.

There is also 100% placement in the Distributed Education Department, whose students operate the school store. A dramatic sale increase has taken place in the store since it moved near the cafeteria.

Shakespeare lives — in the English department.

The Board of Education spent approximately $20,000 on grammar books to replace battered and outdated books. A new English review program, held after school for four hours in the spring and fall, helped students prepare for college exams.

Social studies and English departments combined to form a program which interchanged backgrounds in both subjects. Also a totally new sophomore honors English class came into existence.

Senior English teacher Mr. Kolibus teaches an appreciation of "Ode to a Grecian Urn" to his first period vocational class.

What to due?

Finally it's Friday; I think in my chair,
 As I look through my English teacher like he's not really there.
 When all of a sudden I hear him say,
 "Don't forget your term paper's due on Monday."
 I sink in my chair, stricken with grief;
 Where are my Roloids? I need relief!
 I haven't even started, how could I forget?
 I'm turning senile, and I'm not past my prime yet!
 It's to the library I run, after school,
 I tear through the shelves like a mad, crazy fool.
 Where's all the books on the subject I picked?
 I've not yet begun and I'm already licked!
 So I spend Friday night in my big green-striped chair,
 Thinking of ways to end my despair.
 I sit there all Saturday and Sunday night too,
 When suddenly I get a brainstorm out of the blue!
 I'll slip my mother a micky and then she'll write me a note
 Explaining that my paper was sent to the cleaners in a coat.
 Why couldn't it work? Why can't it be done?
 My mother won't remember and I'll have a lot of fun!
 So — into a glass some soda I pour,
 And add vodka to Mom's (some 12 ounces more).
 She's a disgrace on the floor one hour later,
 But with this note finally in my hand, I'll pretend I don't know her.
 It's straight to the teacher, Monday morning, with the note.
 He reads it and strangely stares down at my coat.
 Then he peers suspiciously at me with all his four eyes,
 As if he saw the truth in my note full of lies.
 Which in fact he did — I do not jest,
 For there in my coat pocket — was my term paper — dry-cleaned and pressed!

Science staff praised for its excellence.

There is a new "addition" to the science department this year. No, it's not a teacher, but an adult-sized natural bone skeleton named "Horace," who has taken up residence in Mrs. Meril's Room, 215! A natural bone skeleton has a definite advantage over a plastic one. If a bone had been broken in a natural skeleton, it would have been visible in the healing process, which can also be observed.

Besides Horace, the science department has some other new items. All lab oriented sciences have been lengthened to six periods per week. This extra period allows students more time to complete their experiments. Mr. Salzer's Chemistry II is using a college textbook and Mr. Kaplan's applied science class has brand new books. In Mr. Hoffman's Biology I Honors Class an ecological approach is being taken in that science along with its new textbook. A new lab refrigerator has been purchased, also.

The Independent Study Program in Chemistry has been expanded from two senior students to seven. Mr. Salzer, who recently was awarded the "Metropolitan Regional Award" presented by the American Chemical Society, works with the independent students. Mr. Salzer is working up a series of quantitative analysis experiments with Dr. George Luther, chairman of Chemistry and Physics at Kean College. These experiments will be performed by Independent Studies Students first at Linden High School. The students might then be allowed to verify their data at Kean College's laboratory.

When asked what she thought made science popular with the students, Science Department Chairman, Doris Maslo replied, "It is an excellent staff that makes Science at LHS so attractive to the students. The rapport between students and teachers is wonderful."

Adviser's Colophon

1. The Colophon attempts to make a meaningful and useful account about the creation of the 1981 Cynosure.
2. Our publisher, Taylor Publishing Co. of Dallas, Texas, is a subsidiary of Silco. Its field representative is Mr. Kenneth Bernhard, Warren, N.J. (647-1661). Its job number relative to Cynosure is 07599. An original press run of 450 books was later adjusted by the principal to 575 books at an additional charge of $600.00 to accommodate late sales. The final cost of publication amounted to $11,300.
3. Due to a combination of factors, the page location was reduced from 216 to 184; all hope of using color again had to be abandoned due to cost; purchased pages by merchants, alumni, boosters, and homerooms dropped from 42 to 20; the Cynosure balance, which had been painstakingly accumulated over six years of staff economy ($2,333.00) was completely wiped out and replaced by a deficit of unknown amount at this writing. All this in spite of the fact that the student price per book was raised to $12.00.
4. An early significant advisor decision involved dropping the magazine type of layout due primarily to the lack of writers.
5. New layout styles had to be devised for each of the five sections. "Linden High's first year of the computer" has been the unifying theme of this 61st volume of Cynosure.
6. Beim Studios of Irvington, N.J. (Tel. 375-9000) provided more than 5,000 candids, two new Pentax cameras, a 28mm wide angle lens, and a 150mm telephoto lens, all Kodak chemicals, equipment, and RC paper to operate the yearbook darkroom. Beim also provided free to Cynosure, retouched portraits suitable for publication of all students, secretaries, teachers, and administration.
7. The cover, spine, and title page are the design and work of Kelly DeGregorio, Art Editor. The idea for the dividers belonged to Sue Gorbos, but Kelly did the art work.
8. Having spent $103.00 at Horner Duplicating in Elizabeth for presstype, Mike Frank and Steve Babilya put it to good use in their work on the front and back end sheets.
9. Stacy Mallouh and Dan Brown undertook difficult collages. Stacy's will be found on pages 150-151 while Dan's is located on pages 32-33.

10. Whenever there is no section editor or an editor quits, apathy runs rampant; it is the task of the Managing Staff to pick up the slack. Both Student Life and Professional Section Editors either misreported, or were remiss or went amiss, perhaps? (We do not know which.) Anyway, we missed them. Sue Gorbos, Layout and Design Manager, assumed the responsibility for the Professional section. Kara Hodes, Photography Manager, picked up the Student Life section. The third Manager, Stacy Mallouh, jack-of-all-trades, typist, poet, and free-giver of her time, ran around helping everyone. The Managing Staff of this book really put things together; they have been indispensable.
11. Photography Manager Kara Hodes reached heights of executive brilliance that enabled her to supervise the darkroom, live with a telephone in her car, and oversee the taking of 5,000 candid photos — all with a smile.
12. Layout and Design Manager Sue Gorbos labored endlessly on page after page after page. She took ideas and transformed them in size and proportion to layouts. Sue became the authority on style and content on every page.
13. And then there is Ron Antoniewicz, our dark-room magician and photographer extraordinaire. The traditional quality of Cynosure photography was not only upheld but increased due to his activity and skills. The photography darkroom, which has been a part of our staff for only a year, was really broken in by Ron, who produced literally hundreds of candid photographs.
14. The "sleeper" of the staff supplied the '81 Cynosure with badly needed skill. Michael Weber is a good photographer; he is a good darkroom technician; but most of all, he is a good caption writer. The sports section, especially, is a tribute to his captioning ability as there is no other body copy.
15. Ben Wolf joined the '81 Staff late in the year, but undertook the gargantuan task of compiling the index with a willing heart.
16. Linda Travisano, the smaller half of Mutt and Jeff, made us laugh with her craziness.
17. Co-sports editor, Dan Brown, took an active interest in photography, the darkroom, and his section.
18. As a final note of interest to all parties concerned, there is a hidden cost of Cynosure production that becomes very obvious at the end of the year — the Adviser's weight. It went from 205-225

"Rarely has there ever been such an inconspicuous picture of so few wonderful people to whom so very much was owed by an adviser and a graduating class.
