High school unlocks the future.

High school holds the key to many doors of present and future opportunities. Great emphasis has been placed upon secondary schooling because of President Reagan's new economic policies, state legislation, and local mandates. In his quest to restructure present-day economy, President Reagan had developed a new budget that included a large reduction of funding to colleges and universities, which might possibly effect many students who plan to attend college. State legislation and our Board of Education developed stricter attendance and graduation policies. These factors intensified the importance of secondary schooling.

Those students who cannot or do not choose to seek further education after graduation must rely almost totally upon their high school training. Others, who continue their studies, will also use their secondary schooling as a foundation upon which to build. High school undoubtedly holds the key to an unlimited world in the future.

PROFESSIONALS PROFESS

Yes, I write verses now and then,
But blunt and flacid is my pen,
No longer talked of by young men
As rather clever:
In the last quarter are my eyes,
You see it by their form and size,
Is it not time then, to be wise?

Cynthia Weber
Secretary

Nancy Hreha
Treasurer

The senior council was under the supervision of Mrs. Wargo, and officers consisted of the following students: Jeffrey Gutkowski, President; Joseph Coletta, Vice President; Cynthia Weber, Secretary; and Nancy Hreha, Treasurer. They raised money to defray the cost of the senior prom, banquet, and other activities. A candy sale was held, then chocolate Santas, cheese, jellies and sausage were sold during the Christmas season. Chocolate bunnies were also sold. In an attempt to activate more students into the fund raising programs, an incentive of a free prom bid went to the student selling the most of merchandise.

Denise

Our special friend is now so far away.
Nothing could be done or said.
It hurt us so much; it made us upset,
We're crying so hard we'll never forget.
It messed up our brains,
We can't take the pain,
Nothing could ever be the same.
Now that he's gone, our hearts yearn,
Wishing someday he could return, and
Again the fire will burn.
We keep a prayer in our heart,
So deep that we'll never part.
He was so different from the rest,
He will always be the best.
When we picture us together,
We know we would have been friends forever.
For our faith will always stay,
Cause he's still the friend we'll love
each day.

Eric,
I'll catch you later.
Steve

rded and relayed the "Key".

Colophon

1. This is a useful account about the creation of the 1982 CYNOSURE.
2. Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas was not considered as a candidate for publisher after a three year association due to their submission of a late bid.
3. Josten American Yearbook Company, instead, is the publisher. Their office is located in Owatonna, Minnesota while their factory is in Topeka, Kansas, with Anita Burney as our publications consultant there.
4. Joe Verniero (746-1506) is the field representative.
5. The production job number with Josten is 16727.
6. With 192 pages for each book, and a press run of 625 books, the total cost for the 1982 CYNOSURE is $11,145.
7. Student price per book was raised from $12.00 to $15.00, and, even at this writing, we are not sure of having met the total cost. The publishing bill for this yearbook is the highest in CYNOSURE history.
8. Mr. Hagensen with his senior staff hosted a Taylor Publishing Company Yearbook Training Session at Linden High for his junior staff as well as for other schools in the area.
9. Biem Studios of Irvington, N.J. (375-9000) printed more than 7,000 pictures for the yearbook staff. Biem also sent a professional photographer to take candid shots of each varsity sport.
10. Many, many thanks to Mr. Bob Dahlinger for relieving Mr. Hagensen of a class right in the heat of a deadline. Many more thanks to all the teachers who released CYNOSURE staff members to work during deadlines. Finally, appreciation is extended to Mr. Coplan for allowing staff to be excused from classes for one day of each major deadline. Truly, "deadline" is inconceivably more than just a word.
11. For the first time in a decade not one outside-of-school production meeting was held. Staff performed much "homework" which was co-related and finalized in school. Even "Back to School Night" became a demonstrable opportunity for staff to find more time to work a deadline.
12. Originally, the staff did not intend to give up the magazine style of layout as had been done by the previous year's staff. However, circumstances and time dictated the format had to be supplanted again and a more pictorial style devised.
13. A yearbook is such a huge, varied, and voluntary undertaking, one might think it difficult to single out essential individuals. Not at all: Ann Kruger, Angela Valente, and Jackie Intili labored with such love and devotion that this yearbook could not have been born without them.
14. "High School Holds the Key" is the chosen theme of this book. It is manifested: on the cover and dividers, in the opening theme, "The Key Gang" collage on page 34, in various headlines, and constantly conditioned the picture selectivity throughout.
15. John Fritz created the collage on page 34.
