No Further Hearings For Shopping Center

Despite objections by Irwin Klepper of 15 Stratford drive, the Township Council made it plain that there would be no further local hearings on the current plans for the Livingston Mall shopping center. This was stated Monday evening at the Council meeting when Klepper asked when the Council hearing would be continued.

The Council had held the hearing on the plans in September and had closed the public hearing after a surprisingly small number of persons, including Klepper, had testified. They still have to render their decision on the center.

Priot to Klepper's plea, Iris Zelman of 14 Stratford drive spoke at some length. She stated she had recently driven over to Willowbrook and had been stalled in traffic for an hour trying to get in. Would the same conditions exist in Livingston?

She also stated she had been unable to locate the new Passaic avenue that was supposed to connect the Livingston Mall to the north. She feared that Livingston would experience heavy traffic from the Willowbrook area when the Livingston Mall was finished.

Councilman Cooney replied that Willowbrook was larger than the proposed Livingston Mall, had far fewer parking spaces, and inadequate ingress and egress facilities. He felt that the Livingston Mall would not have the same problems.

The matter of ingress and egress came up for considerable discussion. Both Mrs. Zelman and Klepper wanted to know if all access from Walnut street could be eliminated from the plans. This was held to be doubtful, since the plans should provide for easy traffic flow. The major influx of traffic will be from South Orange avenue and Eisenhower Parkway (the new Passaic avenue) but the plans do show two entrances from Walnut street – one near Hobart Gap road and the other near South Orange avenue. These would be necessary for good planning, and also for public safety access.

A suggestion was made that some streets like Eton road and Creighton drive could be made one way. This was considered doubtful by the Council. One way streets must be approved by the state, and such approval is hard to get.

Councilman Wynne stated that Livingston had considerable testimony from traffic experts that the current plans are good. Klepper said that the Council did not have to rely on such testimony as Wynne had indicated. Klepper said that over 2,000 Livingston people had signed an opposing petition. He though the Council should give these people a break and close access from Walnut street.

Klepper indicated that he could introduce a lot of testimony in support of this when the hearing was continued. It was at this time that the Council informed him that the hearing had been formally closed when no further persons sought to testify in September.

Standard Time Begins on Sunday

Daylight Savings Time ends this weekend, and Eastern Standard Time will be in effect. Rather than get up at 2 a.m. to change the clocks, it is suggested that clocks be set back one hour before retiring on Saturday evening, affording an extra hour of sleep.

ONCE AGAIN WE PRESENT TWO COMPLETE FRONT PAGES

For the second time in a year, the West Essex Tribune has been put in a position where there was so much eligible news for the front page that we decided to print two front pages — on the front and the back of section 1. At that, we didn't get all the news of the government on either of them. Many stories of the Zoning Board of Adjustment meeting are found elsewhere in the paper. In an effort to cover everything, we have added two extra pages to the paper, including the second front page. Even then, we're afraid that numerous stories that can wait will have to be held over!

Approve Expansion of Bank Parking After Angry Planning Board Session

Expansion of the parking facilities behind the Northfield Branch of the Livingston National Bank was approved by the Planning Board after a lengthy discussion on Tuesday evening. The new parking area will be an extension of the present one, to the northwest of the bank building in the direction of the former Food Fair market and nearby stores.

As part of the parking lot expansion program, the bank will close the present entrance off West Northfield road. A new entrance will be created about 120 feet farther from the Northfield Center intersection, an action which was commended by the Planning Board as a safety move.

Bank president Francis V. Ritter attended the meeting to speak on behalf of the application. Asked by Board chairman whether any effort had been made to unite the bank parking with the existing facilities behind the supermarket and professional building, Ritter said that the bank board had decided not to do so.

Ritter said that the bank could not know what company would move into the now vacant Food Fair store, and he said that his bank did not want to be tied to neighbors as yet unidentified.

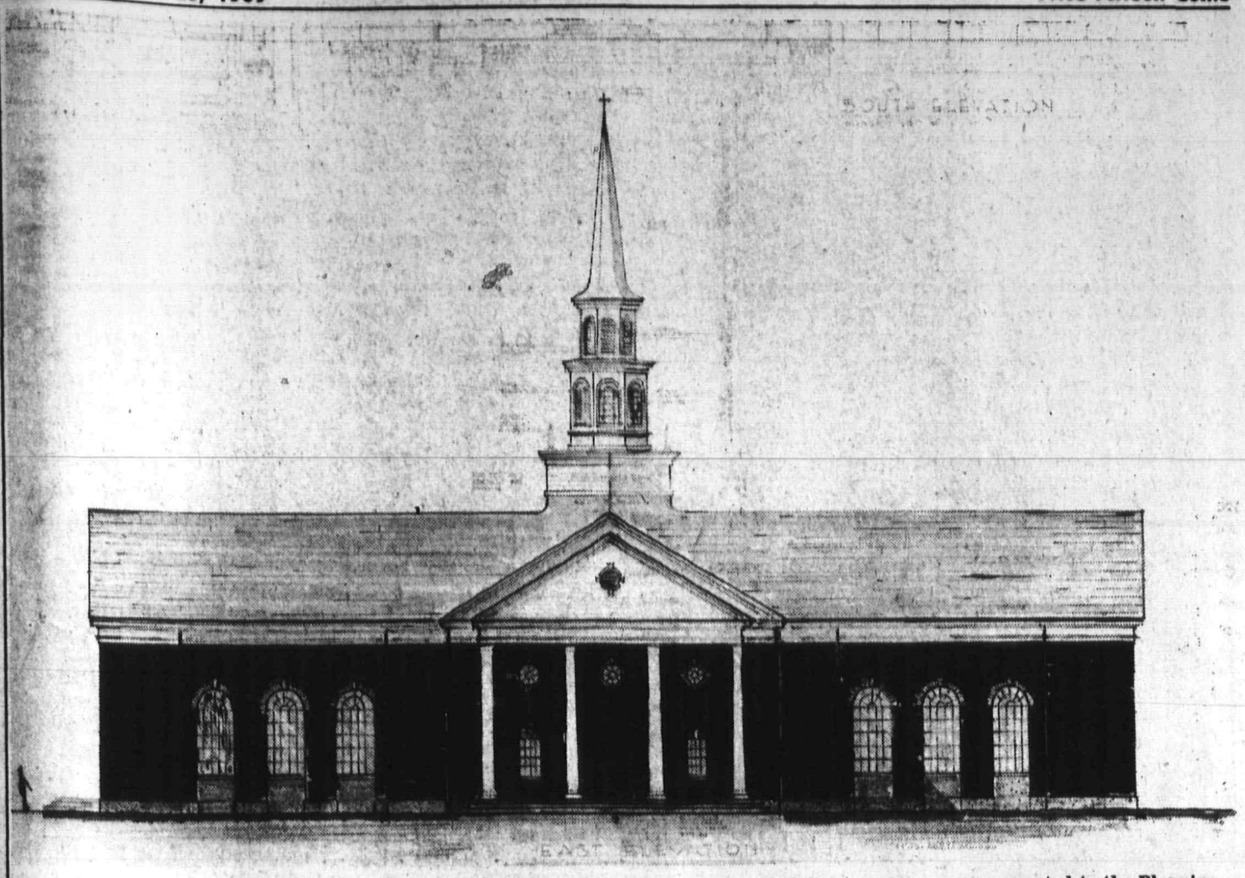

The bank was sharply criticized by township manager Robert H. Harp, who said that he had expected that such an institution would want to take the lead in community development. The continuation of "island" parking facilities – isolated parking for each building – would impede commercial growth of the town, Harp said. Larger parking lots for groups of businesses, on the other hand, could develop the business life of Livingston.

In answer to a question by Board Member Wilmot Marlatt, Ritter said that he would consider future unification of the parking only if it were a condition of the Board's approval.

Another Board member, C. David Geer, noted that the property owner certainly had the legal right to bar the use of his parking facilities by customers of other businesses. He said that the present application was a real opportunity for Livingston to move ahead on the solution of some of its parking problems, however, and that the opportunity was being abandoned. He said he was greatly disappointed to find that the bank had not even made an attempt to create a mutual-use parking lot with nearby businesses.

In reviewing the possibilities, planning director Henry Nycz noted that there was a difference of, at most, two and a half feet in level between the two parking lots. He said that it would not

This architect's plan of the front of the new St. Philomena's Church on South Livingston avenue was presented to the Planning Board on Tuesday evening by architect George Overath.

Plans for New St. Philomena's Church Approved by Planning Board

Plans for a new church building for St. Philomena's Church were unveiled at the meeting of the Planning Board held on Tuesday evening. The building and site plans were approved by the Board, clearing the way for construction to begin.

The church is to be of Georgian Colonial architecture, compatible with the nearby buildings in the municipal center: the library, police station, township hall, high school, etc. In keeping with Roman Catholic tradition, the building will have a floor plan in the shape of a cross, although the four sections will be of roughly equal size rather than in the usual cross pattern.

The new building is to be constructed between the existing rectory and South Livingston avenue. The present parking facilities will be supplemented with a new section located behind the church, to the east of the existing spaces.

Architect George Overath stated that considerable thought had been given to the traffic pattern around the new church. The existing driveway to the south of the church will be doubled in width, he said, but in order to preserve the large trees along the drive a median strip will remain in the center. Traffic will also be able to move in front of the new building, but only in one direction – from south to north.

The use of the front driveway, Overath said, would be largely confined to ceremonial occasions such as weddings and funerals. He said that the church officials anticipated that most of the congregation would enter from the rear of the building, since it is closer to the parking lot.

In response to a question from township engineer N. N. Papandrea, Overath said that the church would definitely consider prohibiting parking along the driveway in front of the building if it presented a traffic problem.

It was noted at the meeting that the parking facilities for the complex will meet zoning ordinance requirements for the church and the buildings of the school, despite the fact that the two would not ordinarily be used at the same time. Overath said that at 11 and 12 o'clock on Sundays the church now conducts a Mass in each of two locations. Attendance at these services, he said, generally fills the parking lot to its limits.

Overath said that two considerations had led him to believe that the proposed parking would be more than adequate. First, he said, the white lines on the existing parking lot are not arranged properly, resulting in a lot of wasted space. When the new church is built the lot will be repainted, resulting in a considerable gain of parking area. Second, Overath noted the addition of 64 more parking stalls in the new section of the parking lot.

No residents of the area attended the public hearing to speak in favor of or in opposition to the application by the church. The building and site plan was approved by the Board, but chairman Frank Adrian, a member of the church, disqualified himself

New Dog Fee Law Passed

The ordinance revising the dog license fees up 50 cents to a total of $4.00 was passed on final reading by the Township Council Monday evening. Of this fee, $3.50 goes to the Township, and 50 cents goes to the state.

Irwin Klepper of 15 Stratford drive was the sole person to speak on the matter. He asked why the fees were being raised. Manager Harp replied that costs were beginning to outrun income. The dog license fees go into a special fund to finance the dog control program, and the cost of this program has risen.

At the same meeting, the ordinance to improve Kearny terrace was passed on final reading without objection.

United Fund Drive Almost Over; Have Only 41% of Local Goal

Of the 7,107 Livingston residents who have been approached for contributions to the United Fund of North Essex either through two mail appeals or a house-to-house volunteer, 41% of the Residential goal had been received.

While the increased response is favorable, William Pfetzing and Thomas Hennigan, co-chairmen, point out that with only a few exceptions the house-to-house campaign is complete. About thirty volunteers have yet to turn in their kits which they may do at the YMCA, 321 North Livingston avenue. All cards should be completed by October 30.

Because of the shortage of volunteers, those cards not covered in the house-to-house campaign were mailed to residents at the time the volunteers began making their calls. Many contributors now are responding and by the end of last week, 102 cards had been mailed directly to the United Fund headquarters.

Both Pfetzing and Hennigan appealed to residents who have received their pledge cards by mail to return them as soon as possible, using the return envelopes provided. It is not necessary to include a check, as bills will be mailed by the United Fund for gifts of $5 and over.

In addition to the Residential Division, the United Fund also seeks funds from other sources. In Livingston, about 60 residents are contacted through the Special Gifts Division where contributors can give more than $100 and larger gifts go over $5,000. Thomas Walsh, a former Livingston town chairman and a member of United Community Services board of trustees, is chairman of the Special Gifts Division.

Livingston industry is part of an areawide industrial campaign headed this year by Everett Dayton, assistant vice president of the Montclair National Bank and Trust Company. Small business is being covered only through the mail appeals.

Local service organizations also contribute to the United Fund campaign in Livingston.

The United Fund of North Essex supports 29 health, counseling and youth agencies which serve the ten communities of Caldwell, Cedar Grove, Essex Fells, Fairfield, Livingston, Montclair, North Caldwell, Roseland, Verona, and West Caldwell. The combined goal in all Divisions is $800,000.

New Northland Recreation Center Officially Opened For Use

The new Northland Park Recreation Center Building was officially dedicated Sunday evening. The building, which encompasses the old bathhouses and offices of the Northland Pool, has provided the community with extra space for the many activities sponsored by the Recreation and Parks Department. Included in the building are new meeting rooms of variable size (with folding doors), a kitchen, work space for the Livingston Little Theater and Musicrafters including scenery storage, and a modern rifle range with electric target returns in the cellar. Pictured below at the dedication are members of the Township Council, Manager Harp, the Recreation Advisory Council, and Joseph Sharpless, director of Recreation and Parks.

Report Leaf Collection Program Now Running Ahead of Schedule

Livingston administrative officials reported this week that the leaf collection program is doing better than had been anticipated. The program got under way last week.

Township engineer N. N. Papandrea said that the absence of a heavy frost may permit municipal crews to exceed the projected work schedules which had been published earlier. "For the first few days of the operation our crews did expand their assigned schedules," he said. "If collection crews appear in areas ahead of schedule, please understand that we are trying to stay ahead of accumulated volumes of leaves."

Township manager Robert H. Harp also reported an encouraging increase in the use of plastic bags for leaf disposal. He reported that as of Saturday nearly 13,000 plastic bags had been distributed at the town hall. They are available in the Department of Public Works office at the rear of town hall from 8:30 to 4:30 weekdays. In addition, bags will be given out from 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday evenings, and on Saturday mornings from 9 a.m. to noon.

Harp pointed out that there are no deliveries of bags. They are made available without cost, and with the assistance of the high school Key Club.

"While we hesitate to repeat our previous suggestions, we do renew our plea for our residents to obtain and use plastic bags for the disposal of leaves," Harp said. "This system has proved to be more effective, more efficient, and certainly faster." Residents on county roads and the state highway (east and west Mount Pleasant avenue) must use plastic bags. The county roads in Livingston are North and South Livingston avenue, Laurel avenue, Shrewsbury drive, East Cedar street, Beaufort avenue, East and West Northfield road, East and West Hobart Gap road, Walnut street, South Orange avenue, Passaic avenue, Old Short Hills road, and old Mount Pleasant avenue. Vacuum leaf collection machines cannot operate effectively or safely on these highways or roads, so there will be no machine collections on these roads or streets. The frequency of bag collections will be as often as collection volumes permit, Harp stated.

"Weather conditions, volumes of leaves, and equipment failures can cause revisions in collection schedules, so we ask for the cooperation and the understanding of our residents," the township engineer added. "Every reasonable effort will be made to meet our schedules and complete this giant task."

To assist in the leaf collection program, Harp asked everyone to follow a few simple rules:

1. Use plastic bags—the service is better.
2. Do not place loose leaves in gutter, until day or two before scheduled pick-up. There are some public safety hazards involved with piles of leaves and we wish to minimize this problem.
3. Consult map published in West Essex Tribune on October 16, 1969, for collection schedules.
4. This service is limited to leaves. Any other items including grass cuttings, branches, and stones will not be collected. Our crews are instructed not to collect the other items.
5. Do not burn leaves.
6. Be patient and understanding with our problem.
7. Telephone calls will not expedite service. All service is based on area schedules and equipment will not be diverted.

No Decision On Ivanhoe Case

Despite a plea by George Handler, representing Ivanhoe Builders, that the Council make its determination "so we can file suit in court," the Livingston Township Council on Monday evening reserved decision on Ivanhoe's application to erect a house with its backyard completely in a high-tension line right of way. This is the second time that the case has been up before the Council.

Earlier this year, the Planning Board had rejected the application as being improper. Involved is the subdivision of an existing lot which would have created this special case. Their earlier report had been remanded back to the Planning Board by the Council for more complete details.

The plea was again rejected by the Planners and was forwarded in detail to the Council, who scheduled Monday night for the hearing. Handler was the sole witness for Ivanhoe, and he merely asked the Council to make an immediate decision.

In response to a Council query, Handler stated that he was certain that the Council had already made up its mind to deny the application, and he wanted to get on with the court case. Councilmen Cooper and Cooney both stated that they were offended by the remarks.

Cooney pointed out that if this had been the case, the Council would have acted the first time the matter came up instead of sending it back to the Planners for more details. He objected strenuously to the suggestion that this was only done because the Council wanted a basis to act on a preconceived decision.

Handler complained that the Planning Board had still not given sufficient information. The only thing that they could hang their hat on was a supposed safety hazard. However, he said, it was not considered hazardous to park cars under high tension lines, and a house a few doors away had the same condition.

Mayor Welch said the case would definitely not be decided that night. Cooper added that the reason for holding a hearing was to allow Ivanhoe to present any additional facts they had. Did Handler have any? Handler said he didn't.

Cooper also objected to a case cited by Handler (West Point Island Association vs Dover Township) which he said had absolutely no bearing on the case at hand. Handler replied that it did have a bearing.

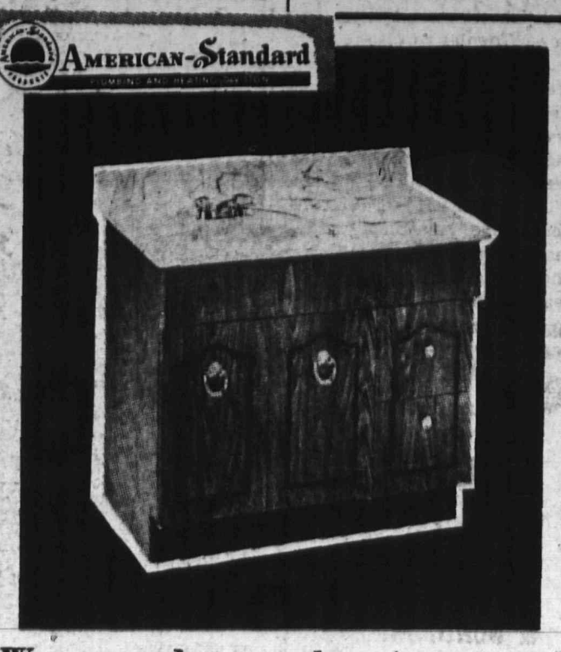

Councilman Dollinger stated that particularly under the circumstances he would not dream of trying to make a decision that night. It would be tantamount to admitting that the contention was true that the Council had already made up its mind.

Charged with Leaving Scene of Collision

A Basking Ridge driver was charged with careless driving and leaving the scene of an accident after a collision on Kennedy parkway on Saturday, October 18.

John T. January of Jersey City told police that his car had been hit from behind while waiting for a traffic light at the South Orange avenue intersection. The car, he said, then went across the intersection, off the pavement and into the woods. Shortly afterward the car backed out of the woods, January stated, and took off toward Millburn.

Livingston police alerted Millburn and Summit of the incident, and issued a teletype alarm for the wanted car. Later the Bernards Township police reported that they had seen the alarm and found the car parked in a driveway in Basking Ridge; the car, they said, was damaged.

It was determined that the driver of the car had been Bernard P. Wojcik. He was brought to Livingston police headquarters by his father, and told police that he had not realized there had been any collision. He said that he thought his car had simply gone out of control into the woods, and therefore he left the scene after he was able to get back onto the pavement.

Police, who measured more than 100 feet of skid marks where Wojcik evidently tried to stop his car before hitting January's, charged him with careless driving and with leaving the scene of an accident.

Mrs. Lipman Speaks At YWCA Meeting

Mrs. Wynona Lipman, Essex County freeholder, spoke at last week's membership meeting of the YWCA of the Oranges on the subject of schools. She covered a range of information including local public schools, vocational schools, and on through the college level — present problems, accomplishments, and future plans. A question-and-answer period followed.

During the social hour the members viewed a series of displays of activities of the YWCA of the Oranges. The Adult Department showed items made in the Pottery and Creative Stitchery classes. The Y-Teens brought handmade creations from their Boutique Shop. Interesting pictures showed the programs of the Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Department. Of special interest were the architect's sketches of the new building, mounted on easels. Information and displays of Camp Lenoloc were also of interest to the members.

George C. Holland of Livingston has recently been elected a member of the Morristown Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

Mt. Pleasant fell short in this high-scoring contest as Harrison scored twice in the second quarter and once each in the third and fourth quarters. Scoring for Harrison were Tom Lombarski, Billy Devlin, Eric Swartzburg and Jeff White.

Harrison 3, Roosevelt 2

Harrison won its second game of the week on two goals by Eric Swartzburg, one in the first and one in the fourth quarter and a goal by Richard Skoller in the third.

Collins 2, Squiertown 1

In a hard-fought game Collins defeated Squiertown on the strength of two goals by Goldberg in the first and second quarter. Squiertown's goal was by Acceturo.

Burnet Hill 1, Mt. Pleasant 0

Dave Lubetkin scored the only goal in the second quarter but it was enough as Burnet Hill upheld its undefeated record.

Riker Hill 2, Hillside 0

Mrs. Peter Campisi, substituting for coach Robert Donlin, steered the Riker Hill boys to shut out victory over a strong Hillside eleven. Eric Allen scored a first-period goal on an assist by David Gardner to put Riker Hill in an early first-quarter lead. In the second quarter Riker Hill tallied its second and final point when Jeff Campisi kicked a goal. The Riker Hillers really played hard for Coach Campisi as she paraded up and down the sidelines guiding the young men. Ricky Karmian, John Mauze, Jeff Campisi and Ken Klipper led the team by playing an outstanding defensive game.

Mayor Proclaims Key Club Week

Livingston mayor Kenneth W. Welch this week proclaimed Key Club Week, to be observed in the township of Livingston from October 26 through November 1. The Key Club is an international organization that exists in about 3,000 high schools in the United States and Canada and is made up of high school boys.

The Livingston Key Club is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Livingston. Dolf Schrader is chairman of the Key Club, and Andrew Carola, a teacher at Livingston High School, serves as faculty advisor for the Key Club. This year the Livingston club was awarded the highest award for achievement at the State Key Club convention held in Atlantic City. The Key Club has approximately 40 members, ready to help in any civic project where they can be of assistance.

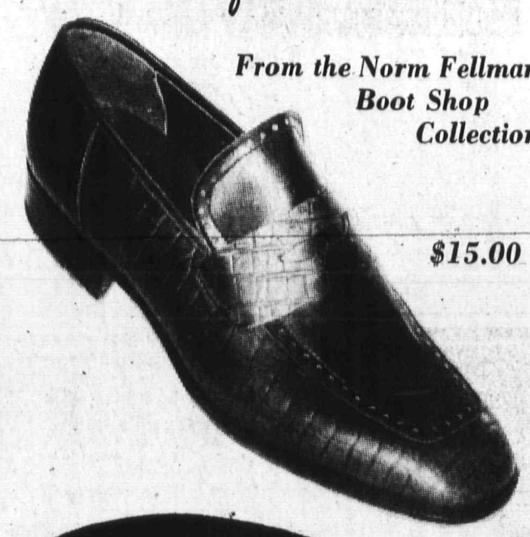

7 on Dean's List

Seven Livingston residents have been named to the most recent dean's list at The Berkeley School, East Orange.

Named are the Misses Joanne Baron, Lynne Evans, Patricia Palmer, Vicki Rose, Lynn O'Connor, Linda Gale Manno, and Cathy Miller. They are all graduates of Livingston High School.

Drainage Problems Block Action On 14 Lots on Edgemere Extension

A large group of Scotland drive and Intervale road residents attended Tuesday evening's meeting of the Planning Board to inquire into the proposed subdivision of land near their homes. The residents all complained of surface water problems in the area, and wanted to know whether the new development would compound existing difficulties.

The application, submitted by Joseph DeDeo, is for a tract of 14 lots. The land is at the rear of lots fronting on Hillside avenue and will complete the connection of Edgemere and South Edgemere roads. The present Chaucer court dead end will also be completed by the development. The land is now owned by the township of Livingston, DeDeo, J. W. Rega and Anthony Hope.

About six of the residents who attended the meeting addressed the Board with their complaints regarding drainage. Typical of the problems expressed was that of Fred Zirl of 7 Scotland drive. Zirl said that the storm sewers in the neighborhood are already inadequate, and that his back yard was often totally submerged. Bernard Hallperin of 4 Scotland drive said that his house was often flooded when water comes down the street, through the driveway and into the house. He said he was concerned that the new construction would add to this problem.

In commenting upon the complaints, township engineer N. N. Papandrea said that his office was asking the developer to put in additional drains to reduce the water problem. DeDeo said that, as a resident of the area, he was fully aware of the difficulty of the drainage problem. He had instructed the engineer of the tract, he said, to take whatever means might be necessary to control the problem. He emphasized that he wanted to be a good neighbor, and that he was willing to work with interested residents of the area toward a solution.

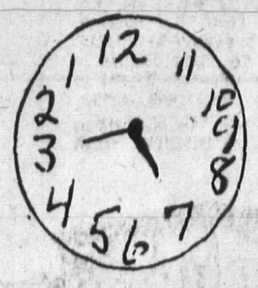

Township councilman Peter B. Cooper, also a member of the Planning Board, pointed out that it was unfair to expect the developer of the new land to cure all the problems of already developed parcels. Elaborating upon this, township manager Robert H. Harp said there had been a great deal of trouble with the developer of the existing homes in the neighborhood. Harp stated that he would like to avoid some of the trouble which he had had with this "very miserable" developer, and expressed the hope that DeDeo would meet with municipal officials to discuss the matter. Noting that he had never had a worse experience with any builder, Harp said that the town would do its best to cooperate with DeDeo in trying to rectify some of the existing difficulties.

The Board moved to close the public hearing, but reserved decision on the matter pending further engineering studies and an inspection of the site by the Board members.

Northfield Baptist Church, Livingston's oldest, was organized in 1786.

The 18 Year-Old Vote

In addition to the two referenda already mentioned, there is a third very important referedum on this year's New Jersey ballot. This one would lower the legal voting age in New Jersey from 21 to 18.

This matter has long been discussed, and most of the political leaders in the state, from both parties, have either come out in favor of it or have indicated acquiescence. We have yet to hear any of them campaign against this.

There is considerable logic to the arguments for the 18 year old vote. It is argued that a person who is old enough to fight and die for his country is old enough to vote in it. Also, it is maintained, many persons below 21 are wage earners and heads of families. They are taxed on their earnings, but do not have a say in the way the money is spent. The old cry, "Taxation without representation", is heard once again.

We confess that we were quite in favor of this movement some years ago. It is only in recent years that we have begun to have some real doubts. The violent activities of many youth groups, like the SDS, in recent years have been most distasteful and alarming to us.

Make no mistake about it. We do not object to legal, orderly objection. For instance, we were quite pleased with the way our local youth (and adults as well) comported themselves during the moratorium last week. They stated their case with conviction, but did it in a perfectly legal manner. There was no trouble — either from the protestors or those who disagreed with them.

However, the excesses like those in Chicago, and at some of our universities, have been quite horrifying. We will add immediately that from what we can make out, the leadership in the great majority of these cases came from groups who were over 21, and therefore would be eligible to vote in any case, at least as far as age is concerned.

Our fear is that the 18 year olds are apt to be blind followers of this type of activity. We really wish that the 18 year old vote could be given a trial period, but this, of course, is out of the question. Once it has been established it will be virtually impossible to repeal it.

On the positive side, we feel that the great majority of American youth are just as disturbed about the violence as we are. Certainly, they have some different ideas than those we hold. We have no objection to this. This is American democracy, and each has his right to his own opinions, up to the point where his opinions and actions violate the fundamental rights of others.

In the final analysis, we are pinning our faith on those whom we consider are the majority of our youth. We believe that the excesses are still caused by a small minority. Perhaps if such excesses lead to disenfranchisement (as happens to convicted criminals) the fact that they now have the vote would be a dampener on illegal acts.

We have stewed over this one for a long time. In the end we have decided that we are voting Yes on this referendum, with the fervent prayer that American youth will not let us down.

Hospital Revises Expansion Plans

Revised building and site plans for the proposed addition to West Essex General Hospital were approved on Tuesday by the Planning Board. The changes in the plans were made when a new architectural firm was employed by the hospital.

In reporting on the change, attorney Allen R. Chesler said that after the Board had approved the original plans last January, the hospital solicited construction bids. When the bids came in, he said, it was evident that the most economical approach to the expansion was not being followed. A new architect was hired to reduce these economic problems.

The shape of the addition is somewhat altered on the new plans, which call for a total of 60,900 square feet in the addition compared to the former plans' 59,300 square feet. It was also noted that revisions in the parking facilities would result in a better balance of parking to interior space: 175 parking stalls for a total of 100 beds in the hospital. On its earlier approval the hospital had accepted a condition that the parking lot be expanded if it were found to be necessary after one year of operation.

Township engineer N.N. Papandrea stated that he wanted to investigate the changes which were indicated in the grading of the area. He noted particularly a ten-foot change in elevation near the Board of Education property, resulting in a large amount of fill.

Pressing for early approval of the plans so that construction could begin as soon as possible, the hospital asked that the Board grant conditional approval. That approval would be subject to the Township Engineering Department's review of the grading and drainage.

Board member C. David Geer noted that conditional approvals were generally avoided by the Board, and that even when used they were given only when both parties understood exactly what was to be done. In the present case, he said, there is no clear understanding of why the grading must be altered so radically, and too many problems remain to be resolved.

The Board voted to close the public hearing, but carried the item to the next meeting's agenda without rendering any decision.

Citizens for Meyner To Meet on Monday

A meeting of Livingston Citizens for Meyner has been scheduled for Monday, October 27, at the Grange Hall on Burnet street at 8 p.m. At this meeting final plans will be made for the coordination of activities aimed at the election of Robert Meyner as governor of New Jersey.

The group is non-partisan, and all persons, regardless of political affiliation, may attend. Chairmen are Edward E. Pack and William Gelfond.

Sheila Higgins Wins JWV Award

Sheila Higgins of 9 Browning drive was this week named the winner of the JWV Sportsmanship Award. The award is presented annually by Post 740, Jewish War Veterans, and will be presented at the annual Sports Dinner to be held on October 28.

Miss Higgins was selected by the Recreation and Parks Department for her outstanding achievements and contributions during the 1969 spring and summer program. She was a member of the town's track and field team that took part in the New Jersey Playground Olympics. She was a participant in the girls' All Star Softball Team that played an inter-community schedule during the summer, and she is a candidate for the Green Streaks, the Livingston women's volleyball team.

In addition to active play, she volunteered 74 hours to the youth track and field program for the spring Junior Olympics competition.

FOOTBALL

The streaking Mountie football team played Vailsburg, Thursday, October 16. The Mounties made it two in a row yesterday, white washing a big Vailsburg eleven, 12-0. The strong Mountie defense anchored by Gregg Adler, Terry Craig, and Bill Fleno, deprived their opponents of any chance to score. With the defense dominating play, the offense finally sustained a touchdown drive after fumbling away two golden opportunities. Scott Bresky scored from 30 yards out on a quarterback keep around left end. The two point conversion failed and Mount Pleasant left the field at half time leading 6-0.

Led by the power running of Bill Fleno and Scott Bresky, the Mounties took the second half kick off and drove 80 yards to pay dirt. Fleno went the final 15 yards, running over tacklers on a fine individual effort. The two point conversion failed, but the Mounties would not be denied their second victory.

The coaches and team would like to thank the student body for a fine turn out at its first home game. We hope you will continue to display this school spirit in future games.

MOUNT PLEASANT SOCCER

The Mounties played Parsippany on Wednesday, October 15. As the game got under way the Mounties held possession of the ball. After a little while of setting up, Russell Blank hit Steve Milone on a direct kick which Steve headed in for the Mounties first goal. No one scored for the rest of the half, which kept the Mounties ahead by a slim lead of 1-0.

In the beginning of the second half Marc Heller set up a Mountie goal when his long shot hit the goal post and Joe Miele was able to squeeze in a goal for the Mountie cause.

After that it was Steve Milone's game as he penetrated deep into Parsippany territory to score the last two goals unassisted.

The Mounties finished their fourth win of the season by the score of 4-0.

by Roger Schwarz

MOUNT PLEASANT SOCCER

The Mounties played Bloomfield South Junior High on Friday, October 10. In the very beginning of the game Steve Milone breaks the ice for the Mounties as he scores the first goal. Then Joe Miele had a shot that was blocked but Steve Milone was there to get the rebound and score the second goal. Near the end of the first quarter Joe Miele sent the ball flying 20 yards to put in his first goal of the season.

Steve Milone put in the Mounties last goal when he caught the goalie off guard and scored on an open goal shot.

Then in the third quarter it was Bloomfield's turn. They slipped by the Mountie backs and scored on a shot that the goalie couldn't block.

The final score was 4-1, the Mounties third win.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council held another meeting October 15. The first issue discussed was the magazine sale, which was a great success. The total profit was $7,000. Eric Zager next selected a boy and a girl representative to address the L.S.D.P. board of directors meeting Monday p.m., October 20. The issue to be discussed will be new programs to increase the number of students participating in the program which meets Saturday mornings.

To the Editor

Backs Republicans

Dear sir:

I would like to add my endorsement for several candidates seeking to represent Livingston.

Tom Kean and Phil Kaltenbacher both have done exemplary jobs in representing Livingston in the State Assembly. They have shown vitality and initiative in sponsoring many laws which are significant and beneficial to our town. At the recent League of Women's Voters Forum at the High School, both men showed that they deserve our vote. Their candor and frankness were outstanding that night.

Hy Mintz likewise has shown fortitude and outstanding ability in his current position as County Freeholder. Essex County would definitely benefit by a man like Hy Mintz bringing new ideas to the office of Register. He has proven his integrity and innovativeness in public office.

Anthony Grasso has learned as a practicing attorney what the requirements are for Surrogate. He will bring both a fresh attitude and practical experience to the job.

We should all support, and vote for, these men on November 4th.

Four Join Legion Post

At the regular membership meeting of Livingston American Legion Post 201 and before a large group of Legionnaires, the names of Rudolph H. Pagano, Louis T. Sferlazzo, Francis J. Treglio, Jr., and Robert F. H. Vance were added to the rolls of Post 201.

One of the highlights of the evening was the celebration of the first "Father and Son" membership in Post 201, with Frank Treglio, Sr., presenting his son with his lapel button and membership card. Francis is a member of the Sons of The American Legion Squadron 201. He graduated to Post 201 membership by his services in Vietnam; after serving a full tour duty he was recently discharged.

The public is invited to attend.

Endorses Simons

Dear sir:

The Assembly is where the laws are introduced and voted upon which can bring better government to New Jersey.

Livingston has the opportunity to elect to the Assembly a man who is truly representative of our people. He is Gerry Simons, a self-made man whose children attend our public schools, and who struggles with the high cost of living like the rest of us. A leader in the field of education, Gerry is genuinely committed to work toward a brighter future for all of us.

The Democratic Party of Livingston is extremely proud to recommend Gerry Simons for election to the New Jersey House of Assembly on November 4th.

Cars Collide At Intersection

Three cars were involved in a collision on East Northfield road Friday afternoon, October 17. Juanita Carter of Vaux Hall told police that she had been trying to make a left turn from East Cedar street when her car was hit in the intersection.

Michael S. Serkies of East Hanover stated that he had been going west on East Northfield road. Suddenly, he said, Mrs. Carter's car came out of the intersection into his path, and he jammed on his brakes to avoid a collision. Virginia A. Kuhn of 40 Concord drive, driving behind Serkies, crashed into the rear of his car, pushing it into Mrs. Carter's vehicle.

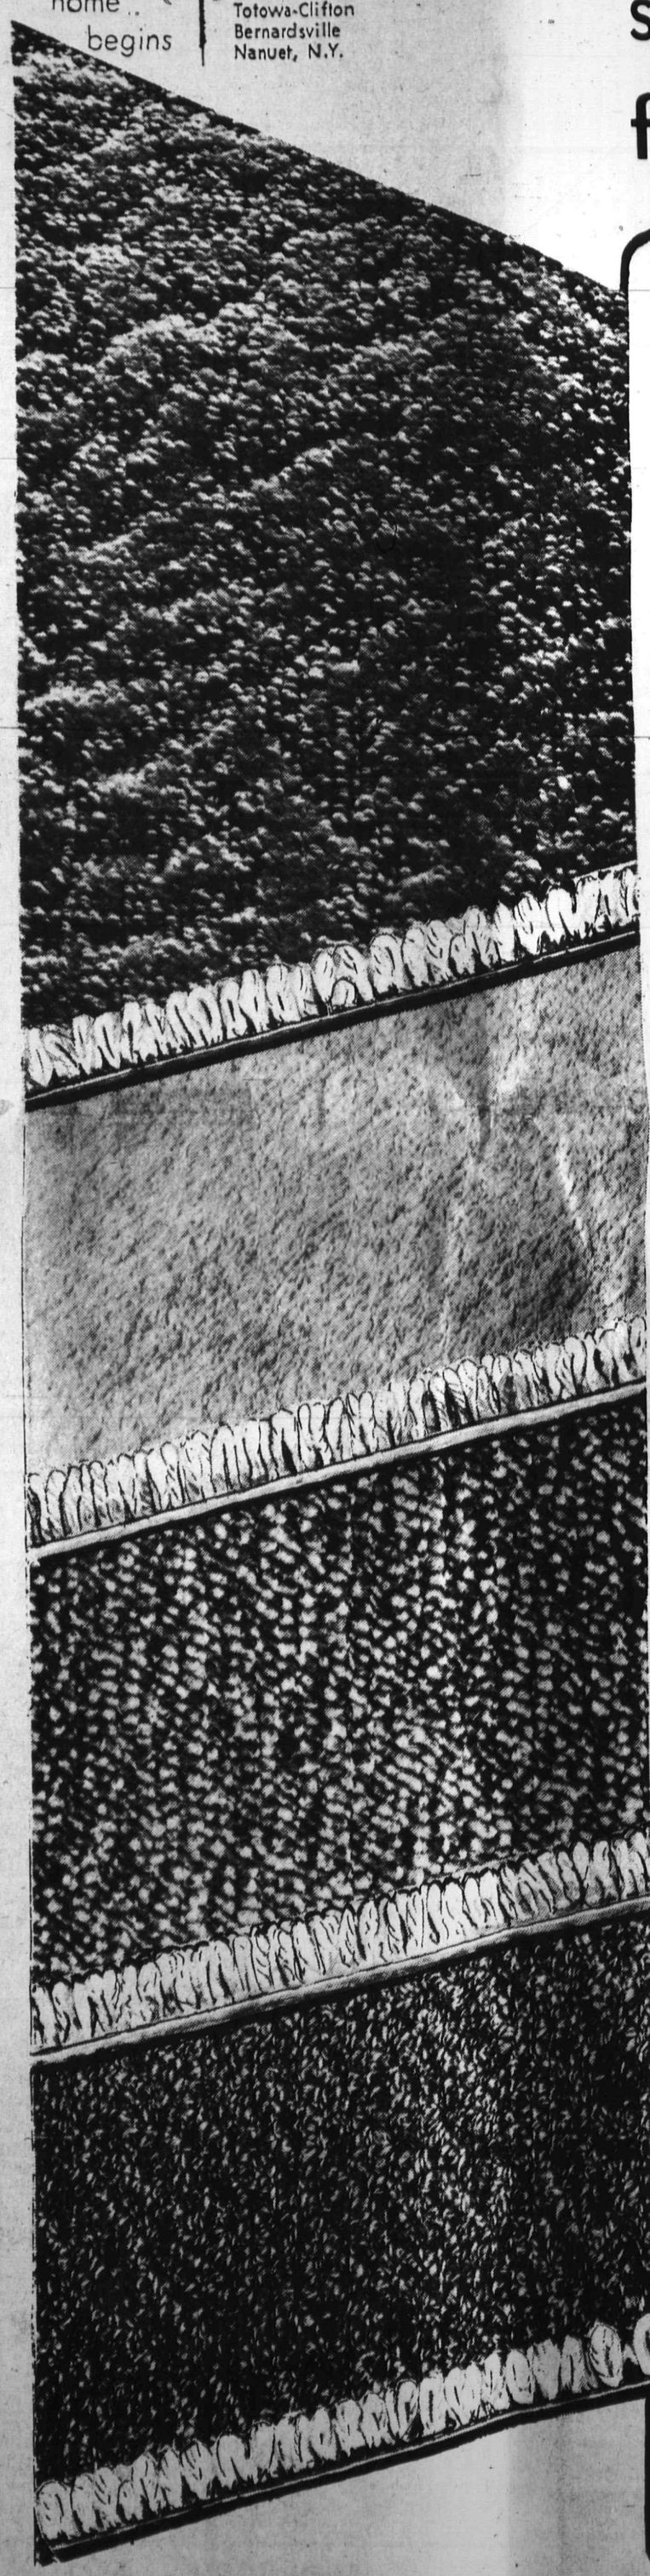

Mrs. Carter was charged with careless driving as a result of the collision.

Jayvees Win 50-0

The Livingston Jayvee football squad, composed of 15 men, completely swamped Parsippany Monday afternoon, winning 50-0. A smart-passing attack, plus sparkling running by Bob Lenihan, made the game a rout.

Art Noel threw two touchdown passes to Doug Peck. Joe Grum, on a halfback pass, tossed another TD to Lenihan, and Lenihan ran for four more touchdowns. Extra points were scored by Noel, Peck, Bob Balella, and Gene Mulvihill.

Fine defensive efforts were turned in by Rick Falcone, John Mulrooney, and Scot Harp

Bob Lenihan (43) breaks into the clear around end on a long gainer.

Parsippany Bombs Stop Lancers 24-14; LHS To Meet Strong Morris Hills Team Here Staurday

It was Parsippany passing against Livingston running, and the passing won. That in a nutshell was the story of last Saturday's football game between the Redskins and the Lancers. The defeat dropped Livingston from the unbeaten ranks and also marked the first ime that Livingston had been scored upon this year.

Except for two long bomb passes in the second quarter that went for touchdowns, Livingston's defense controlled Parsippany's attack quite well – in fact Livingston had the offensive edge during most of the game. However these two touchdowns, with two-point conversions each time, were all that Parsippany needed to win. They scored a third touchdown late in the game, but it was just icing on the cake.

The game had been heralded as being a key one, with the outcome quite possibly deciding the Jersey Hills Conference championship. Parsippany was favored by the experts, but everyone expected a tough battle, and they got what they expected.

The first quarter gave an indication of the type of game it would be. Each team displayed good offense, and each showed excellent defense. Parisppany, in the first series of downs, was forced to punt. Livingston made a first down on three runs by Belfer and Duffy, but were stopped at midfield. Parsippany, with the running of Herrsche and Selimo, got a first down on their own 32, got another on their 45, and then fumbled, with Livingston recovering on the 47.

A pass to Niedhammer got to the 36. The Lancers made six yards in the first two downs. A pass fell incomplete, and a reverse to Belfer ended inches short of a first down on the Parsippany 27.

Parsippany got one first down on a pass interference call which gave them the ball on their 37, but were stopped cold. A short punt to the Lancer 39 gave Livingston the ball as the quarter ended.

Joe Duffy penetrated for a first down on the Parsippany 48, but the Lancers were forced to punt, the ball falling dead on Parsippany's 8. The Redskins kicked back four plays later. Duffy got the ball at midfield and got to the Redskin 40 before he was downed.

Belfer got four through the line, and Duffy broke around end to the Parsippany 30. An offtackle smash got to the 27. On second down, Duffy broke around right end, broke two tackles, and raced into the end zone for the Lancers' first touchdown. Kylis kicked the point, and the Lancers led 7-0.

The lead was short-lived. An onside kick went to Parsippany on their 45. A trick play on a fast line-up backfired with two offsetting penalties. Quinn suddenly caught the Lancers off-guard. He tossed a long bomb to Jim Freeman, running down the right sideline. Freeman caught the ball on a dead run and dashed into the end zone. Herrshe ran for the extra points and made them, putting Parsippany ahead 8-7.

A freak, low kickoff hit a Lancer forward man and bounced into Parsippany's possession on the Livingston 48. Parsippany tried the bomb again on four straight plays, one of which was offset by a 15 yard holding penalty against the Redskins. A roughing-the-kicker penalty gave them another shot, and Duffy intercepted on the Lancer 28.

Livingston completed a pass to Hoerner on the 45, but the ball was fumbled on the tackle and Parsippany got possession on the Lancer 45. Quinn dropped back and again fired a long bomb, this time to Hesse, and Parsippany had its second touchdown. Herrsche again ran for the extra points and Livingston was behind 7-16.

The Lancers, despite one interception by Freeman, came back on the attack as the half ended and had gotten to the Parsippany 48 when they lost the ball on a fumble. George Hill intercepted another long bomb attempt as the half ended.

Any idea that Livingston was out of the game was dispelled in the third quarter. Taking the ball from their own 20, Livingston immediately went on the attack. A third and five pass to Niedhammer went all the way to the Parsippany 37 as he demonstrated some excellent broken field running.

On a third and ten situation, Duffy broke off tackle to the Reskin 20. Belfer and Duffy made eight yards in two plays. On third down, Bob Lenihan, up from the Soph team, displayed fine elusive running as he broke three tackles, getting to the Parsippany four yard line for a first down. Lenihan was caught for a four yard loss, but made it up, plunging to the half-yard line. Two more plunges by Lenihan and Livingston had its second touchdown. Kylis again got the point and the Lancers trailed by two points, 14-16.

Despite an excellent kickoff runback to their own 47, Parsippany could not get moving. They punted to the Lancer 15. Once again, Livingston started driving. Aided by a Parsippany offside penalty, they got a first down on the 28. Two runs by Duffy got another on the 43. Two more, spaced around an incomplete spot pass, and Duffy had the ball on the Redskin 45.

Lenihan took over the running chores and penetrated to the Parsippany 28, only to have the play nullified by a 15 yard clipping penalty. A halfback pass was completed out of bounds, but on third down a pass to Niedhammer got to the 32. The Lancers were set back 15 yards on a holding penalty, and this proved to be the turning point of the second half. Livingston never again regained the necessary momentum. A fourth down pass on the first play of the last quarter was intercepted by Freeman.

The game evolved in a punting duel until midway in the period when Parsippany got a break. Freeman returned a punt to the Lancer 40, fumbled, and another Redskin grabbed the ball going to the Lancer 24.

Freeman carried to a first down on the Lancer 13. Three plays got to the Lancer 3-1/2, just short of a first down. On fourth down, an illegal procedure call against Parsippany was nullified when Duguid got embroiled in a fight. A fumbled handoff on the next play still went far enough forward for a first down. Set back three yards in two plays, Parsippany took to the air. Bessemer ran into the end on a crossover pattern and took a short pass from Quinn for a touchdown. Quinn passed to Freeman for the extra two points.

Livingston attempted to come back. Two passes were completed to Hoerner, but the drive was stopped when Herrsche intercepted on the 40. Parsippany was stopped on three plays and punted. On the last play of the game, King intercepted another Lancer pass.

This week, Livingston plays host to Morris Hills who are rated as a strong Scarlet Knight team. Morris Hills this year does not have its typical hard-running squad. Instead, they sport a fast, passing team, based around their phenomenal quarterback, Jay Sheehan, who is also something of a scatback. Sheehan is almost certain to fill the air with passes as he has two excellent ends in Wiskow and Woldsin, a fast tailback in Colligan, and a hard-running fullback in Lusardi. They have a good, aggressive heavy line.

Butler Receives Eagle Award

Jeff Butler, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul P. Butler, 47 Heron road, became an Eagle Scout recently at ceremonies held by Boy Scout Troop 19 at its meeting place, Trinity Covenant Church. North Mountain District representatives Robert Blackman, advancement chairman, and Frank Hayes, committee member at large, spoke to the gathering of parents and Scouts, and Blackman made the Eagle presentation. Jeff also received a good citizen award from the American Legion.

He joins two other Eagle Scouts in the Troop, Bruce Kohout and Howard Fingerhut. The three are now assistants to the Scout leader William M. Freedman. They are helping to develop programs and are using their leadership abilities to encourage younger boys in the troop to grow through Scouting.

On the way to the Eagle Scout rank each boy must go through the qualifications required for 21 merit badges in camping and scoutcrafts, conservation, sports and fitness, and must also perform a special large scale community service.

For Jeff, this involved organizing a work crew for younger boys to assist the West Essex District Red Cross in its move last spring from the old Caldwell headquarters to the new building on Runnymede road in Essex Fells.

Jeff, who is now a junior at Livingston High School, became a Boy Scout when he was a sixth grader at Collins School. Through his years in Scouting Jeff has been an ardent camper, having attended the Boy Scout Camp Kenetiwa-pec in Sussex County for three years. The next summer he joined 15 other Scouts from the Orange Mountain Council for a trip to New Mexico and Camp Philmont, the national Boy Scout ranch. While there, they took a two week's pack trip through the rugged mountain terrain. Jeff is a member of the Order of the Arrow, a national brotherhood of Scout campers. This honor is bestowed by fellow campers when a boy proves to be an outstanding Scout and a good and unselfish camper.

This past summer, Jeff spent six weeks in Europe with the American Institute of Foreign Study; the tour included England, France and Italy. Students combined mornings spent in classes at local colleges and universities with sightseeing.

Jeff is a member of the Livingston High School football and track teams and belongs to St. Philomena's Church.

Livingston has more than 110 miles of sanitary sewers.

Right to Speak

Dear sir:

In regard to Mrs. Slagle's letter: –

We, the "outspoken minority," who believe our form of government, though far from perfect, is still one of the best yet devised by man, are heartened by the "Demonstrating dissidents." We disapprove of this war, and desire a cease fire, and an early, orderly withdrawal of our troops.

We hate war and believe "national honor" is besmirched when the cause is not a just one. What good is waiting for an "honorable settlement" while an ongoing war results in less money for the poor, a divided country, and the devastating loss of thousands of lives.

We, too, are busy earning a living, supporting families, and paying taxes. We are not attempting to destroy anything. We cherish the right to speak out for what we believe.

MAGAZINES, ANYONE?

During the past few days, people have probably been approached by several smiling Heritage salesmen armed with a stack of pamphlets, folders, and pencils. What has happened to their load of books and gym suits? Why are they touring the neighborhood doorsteps?

Why? It's Heritage's annual magazine campaign which is needed to boost the funds in the Student Council. Thursday, October 9, the students were informed in an assembly as to the details of the campaign. The company will give our school 40% of the total sales. Out of this percentage, prizes are purchased for the students according to the amount of money they made. The remainder is divided into four parts—the Student Council receives 25% of this; then the rest is divided in proportion to the individual classes. This grade-level money will be carried with them through their years at Heritage and the High School.

It is used to finance class activities, such as dances and picnics. In the short time between October 9 and 14, Heritage sold over $11,000 worth of magazine subscriptions.

This year, as an additional incentive, for every $20 made, the student will have a chance to win a portable TV set. On the day of the drawing, will your name be called?

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING HELD

The first Student Council meeting for this year was held on October 7. Gary Noel, president, opened the meeting by welcoming the eighth and ninth grade representatives. He gave the goal "Forward together with progress" for this year's council. There is currently $454.03 in the treasury, as stated in the treasurer's report given by Dawn Clark. The only old business to discuss was the gift from last year's council. It was decided last year that benches would be the gift, but the appropriate type, made of blue or green metal, have not yet been purchased. It was unanimously passed to sell candy and to charge 25¢ admission at a movie to be shown by the council in November. Twenty-five dollars was approved for trophies for this year's Model Car Contest. Tom Roberts, vice-president, asked for ninety dollars for a trip to Princeton University for this year's hall patrols, supply crew, and morning announcers. Representatives wanted to go back to their classes to discuss the matter.

Lucille Del Tufo, secretary, then gave committee reports. The Publicity Committee is now being formed. Members will design the main bulletin board, and will make posters for council activities. Twelve members of the Hostess Committee served as guides at the Seventh Grade Orientation. Each teacher was given a peach as a "welcome back" from the Student Council on the first day of school. The meeting was concluded by reviewing the calendar of activities for the upcoming months.

SECOND GRIDIRON WIN FOR EAGLES

Last Saturday the Heritage Eagles' football team traveled to Parsippany where they defeated a tough Central squad by the score of 6-0. The Eagles, who were plagued by injuries sustained before and during the game, were not depressed by the loss of strength but instead impressed the Central team with the outstanding all-around effort by substitutes Mike Clark, Kevin Sheehan, Pete Heston, and Rick Paretty.

The only score of the game came on a pass from the Eagle quarterback Ole Olson to Ted Zellers late in the second period after a long drive in which Bob Sisbarro and Kevin McCarthy alternately moved the ball from the Eagles' forty down to the Central five-yard line.

Similar to the Eagles' first two games, this also was one of defense in which for the second time in three games Heritage has shut out its opponent. The defense was solid up the middle with Kevin Sheehan's fierce tackling of the quarterback and co-captain Steve Vidal's play at middle linebacker. The ends were impregnable with Jeff Cooper and Mike Clark boxing in the runners, thereby giving outside linebackers Bob Sisbarro and Gary Noel a good shot at the outside tackling. The pass defense for the Eagles went errorless for the day led by free safety Pete Kiessler and halfback Ted Zellers.

The offense was once again led by co-captain Bob Sisbarro who not only ran well from the backfield but also had a 45-yard punt return to his credit.

The team will travel to Morris Hills this Saturday and will attempt to extend its record to 3-1 before their upcoming home stand on Friday, October 31.

FIRST FOOTBALL DEFEAT

On October 11, the Heritage football team was defeated by a strong West Essex team 14-0 in a close game that wasn't decided until the final game-ending whistle.

The first half was a scoreless duel with both teams' defenses executing their tackles and pass coverages with great skill. West Essex, after a fumble recovery, opened the game with a determined drive, which was contained by the Eagles' defense led by Mark Dowd. After the West Essex drive, the ball exchanged hands repeatedly for the rest of the half with neither team threatening.

The third quarter was the turning point of the game. West Essex received the kick-off and proceeded to march down the field for a touchdown which was scored on a quarterback sneak. The extra point was blocked by the Heritage front line. Heritage, however, turned right around, and on the fourth offensive play Bob Sisbarro broke through the West Essex defense and ran 70 yards, but the play was called back to the 30 where he had stepped out of bounds. The Eagles moved to the 21 but was finally halted on a fourth-and-one situation. The game once again became one of defense with Heritage desperately trying to score. On the last play of the game with the score 6-0 in favor of West Essex the Eagles moved into an eleven-man front line in an attempt to steal the ball. West Essex's quarterback rolled around end and ran 40 yards for the touchdown. The 2-point conversion pass was good, and the game ended with the score 14-0.

Once again the sidelines were completely filled with loyal Eagle supporters who cheered the team to the last play and were not dejected by the defeat.

HERITAGE 9
PARSIPPANY 1

A high powered Heritage Eagles' soccer team overwhelmed an inept Parsippany squad on Wednesday, October 8. Heritage's attack was led by Steve Scardena at right wing and Gary Pence at inside left. Each scored two goals. Halfback Rob Scharf lofted a dazzling shot from forty yards for the fifth goal. Warren Ost, Steve Jones, Tom MacNicoll, and Scott Essig scored the remaining points putting the game out of reach.

The Eagles' defense was adequate, allowing but one goal, and that was a "freak" accident. With a 9-0 lead in the fourth quarter, Coach Baubles substituted various players, including the goalie, on a Parsippany throw-in. The referee failed to stop play, and a Parsippany player took advantage of the empty goal box.

EAGLES WIN 1-0

Friday, October 10, the Eagles, for the fourth time in five games, played on the road when they travelled to George Washington Junior High School in Morristown. They barely kept their three year twenty-eight game winning streak alive as they won 1-0. From the opening play, it looked like it would be a high scoring game. Within a two minute period, Gary Pence, at left inside, scored the only goal of the game.

Although in the first half both teams played poorly, in the third and fourth quarters the Heritage defense picked up. No scoring drive could be generated, and the game remained a close one. At one point it appeared that the Eagles would score as the front line had a break away, but a dog ran onto the field and the play was stopped. By the time play resumed, the opponents were back in position.

Brian Rizzolo

EAGLES' SOCCER TEAM WINS 3-0

On Tuesday, October 14, the Eagle Soccer Team defeated Parsippany Brooklawn at the Parsippany field. The score was 3-0. Mike Dempsey scored his first hat trick of the season, scoring all three goals and barely missing a fourth when a head shot from four or five yards hit the bar and ricocheted away.

Except for an inability to talk to each other, the team played extremely well, and Coach Baubles said that "halfbacks Ken Eckhart, Tom Roberts, and Rob Scharf and fullbacks Phil Karp and Brian Rizzolo played a tremendous game."

The next two games will be against West Essex and North Bloomfield, both games being played at the Eagles' home field. They will be confronting their two toughest opponents for the second time. The Eagles played these same teams the first two games of the season, and, in both cases, the final score was 1-1.

KNIT-ONE, PURL TWO

The Needle Craft Club, headed by Mrs. Boyd of our Home Economics Department at Heritage, is due to begin sometime during the week of October the 20th. Possibly it will be open to all grades, and perhaps they will meet on different days. The girls will do some sewing, but the work will mostly be crocheting, knitting, and embroidering. They will work from scratch and try not to use kits; instead, they will make up their own designs.

HERITAGE G.S.A. BEGINS

The Heritage G.S.A. (Girls' Sports Association) began another season last week. This month they will form hockey teams and practice against themselves. Later in the year they will play basketball and volleyball.

The seventh grade will be meeting on Thursdays after school, the eighth grade on Wednesdays, and the ninth grade on Tuesdays. The ninth grade will also play Mt. Pleasant on the twenty-ninth of October, in hockey, at Heritage. On the thirtieth, they will play away.

The G.S.A. advisor is Mrs. Leah Olsson. She and the newly elected officers plan and run the group. These officers are as follows: Co-Presidents Anne Butler and Karen Rogers, Vice-President Beth Andlauer, and Secretary-Treasurer Luanne Peterpaul. The representative of the ninth grade is Jill Paskow; of eighth grade, Kathy Higgins; and of seventh grade, Meryl Camhi.

Students for Peace

Dear sir:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the municipal government of Livingston and Livingston citizens for making our moratorium actions true expressions of free speech and democracy.

We are very grateful to Police Chief Hucker and his men for their help, to Rabbi Rivkin and Rabbi Cohen and others for speaking at our activities, and to Livingston SANE for guidance, and equipment.

We would also like to thank all the people who took time to discuss the war with us, and contributed donations to our cause.

Deep appreciation is also extended to all the students who joined us in the days activities by leafleting and canvassing in town.

At this time, we would like to tell the community that the Oct. 15 activities were a major success and the Nov. 14th and Nov. 15th activities will be even bigger and better (let us hope, though, that the war is over by then and that there will be no need for further demonstrations).

Right to be Heard

Dear sir:

We, "the dissenters," cannot help but comment on the letter appearing in last week's issue written by Mrs. Bernice Slagle.

Contrary to the implications in her letter, one does not dissent out of disloyalty to one's country, but rather in the hope that by questioning its policies, improvements may ensue.

Inasmuch as Mrs. Slagle places much importance in "national honor," it would do well to point out that in the eyes of fellow nations there is no honor in our policy of policing the world. In our estimation, there is no national honor in the deaths of 45,700 American soldiers let alone inestimable destruction and killing of innocent Vietnamese townspeople.

In her letter she referred to "Communist tyranny." Perhaps we should remove our blinders to the realization that the United States, regardless of what guise they are under, are capable of terrorizing as well as the Communists. If in the late 1950's an election had been held, it is estimated that 80% of the population of Vietnam would have elected Communism as their form government. Ironically enough, while we uphold the right of popular choice, if the choice does not coneur with the views of the United States, it does not deserve to be recognized. It is not our right to impose our standards of government upon the rest of the world.

It is worthwhile to note that many of the service men who are "suffering morally and physically from the activities of the dissenters" themselves sported black armbands on Wednesday, October 15.

"Radicals" such as Samuel Adams and John Hancock the Fathers of our country in their time were dissenters. Motivated by an earnest desire to improve conditions, they dared to question the established government. Had they been afraid to dissent there would be no United States of America.

We hope that letters such as Mrs. Slagle's will prompt others into action. The modern world must learn peaceful co-existence and respect for one another's ideas. Those who feel that the war is just, are entitled to an opinion, for the democracy which we love so much guarantees them this freedom. We, however, who do not favor the government's policy in Southeast Asia, have the right to voice our views without being alluded to as treasonists, Viet Cong sympathisers, and leeches.

Respectfully,
Ruth Levy
Randi Goldstein

Green Streaks Lose Tournament Games

The Livingston Green Streaks, women's volleyball team sponsored by the Recreation and Parks Department, travelled to Gloversville, New York, this week to the season's second major women's tournament. Although playing improved ball throughout the day, the Streaks could not manage a win against the stronger competition.

Placed in a strong class "A" bracket, the local team was pitted against the Grand Central YMCA – 1969 Region 2 Champion of the USVBA; Rochester Rogues – Eastern Regional AAU Champion, 1969; Landells V.C. – 1969 "B" Champions; Palestre International of Montreal; and Johnstown (N. Y.) YMCA.

In the day's finale, the underdog Green Streaks had the crowd rooting for them as they battled the Montreal sextet even for six points before bowing 7-15, 8-15 to the superior, more experienced team. The serving of Andy Stroup, the defensive play of Jane Freund, Arlene Stomackin and Nancy Sharpless and the blocking of Jean Signell and Sheila Higgins were encouraging notes for the coming season's play.

League play in the New Jersey Women's League starts next week. The locals are slated to open against South Orange Recreation at Columbua High School next Wednesday night, October 29. Other league members are Lyndhurst Recreation, Springfield Recreation, Parsippany Recreation, N. J. "Kursa," "Sitch" Ukranians, and Rahway Y.M.C.A. Teams will play a home and home schedule with the State tournament scheduled for Saturday, April 4.

TCP Members Present Program

Barry Bearg, Merle Schlesinger and Laurie Kallen, members of Livingston's Teens Concerned about People, will participate in a panel discussion along with John Howell, an A.F.S. student from England. The discussion is being sponsored by the Coalition of Concern on Thursday, October 23, at the Livingston Public Library at 8:15 p.m.

Other panelists will be Nathaniel Potts, director of Volunteer Services for the Newark school system, and John Moses, principal of the Quitman Street School in Newark. The topic of discussion will be "Neighbor Helping Neighbor in the Community."

Each of the teen panelists participated as aides in the Head Start Program at the Camden Street School in Newark and will share his experiences and thoughts with the audience. All those interested in volunteering their services in the neighboring urban area are invited to join the members of the Livingston Coalition of Concern for the program.

Sports Banquet Set for Tuesday

The 34th annual Sports Recognition Banquet of the Recreation and Parks Department is scheduled for next Tuesday, October 28, at the American Legion building. A program of awards, citations and recognition will be highlighted by the films of the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico, "Vive Olympic Vitality."

Dinner is scheduled to begin at 6:45 p.m. Various winners of the 1968-69 leagues and tournaments, sponsored by the Department, will be honored. The 1969 program is being dedicated to the memory of Peter W. Baubles, Sr., who dedicated his life to the youth of Livingston through recreation pursuits.

Bookmobile Fair At Hillside School

Hillside School will hold its annual Bookmobile Fair October 24, 27, 28. Paperback books, hard cover picture books and other educational recommended volumes for young readers will be available. The children will get an opportunity to browse about the Bookmobile with their respective classes on Friday, October 24.

Parents and children will be able to purchase the books from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday, October 24; 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, October 27; and all day on Tuesday, October 28, till 4 p.m.

The PTA is sponsoring this event, with Mrs. T. Curry serving as chairman. The book fair committee invites all students, parents, and visitors to attend. Profits will be used for additions to the school library.

PYMWYMI Marks End of First Year; Supported Aid To Ghetto Relief

PYMWYMI, a Livingston-based organization designed to provide financial aid to worthy projects to overcome the serious conditions in the underprivileged areas of Newark and its environs, has marked the completion of its first year of operation. In their report to their contributors, the trustees stated that they had received $4,760 to use in their work.

Of this amount, $3,125 has been expended in donations to worthy causes; $309 has been spent on operating costs; and $1,326 is on hand for allocations to worthy projects.

The donations have been as follows: Operation Understanding, $150; Coalition of Concern, $200; New Well, $900; NAPA, $900; Hopers, $900; King-Kennedy Academy, $75.

In describing the donations, the Trustees stated:

"Our first project was the Martin Luther King Memorial Day Nursery, to which we pledged $100 per month. They ran into difficulties, primarily with finding an acceptable location, and eventually disbanded after returning, uncashed, three of our monthly checks. They have since re-established themselves under the sponsorship of the Women's Club of Upper Montclair. We have also pledged and have been disbursing $100 per month each to the Newark Area Planning Association (NAPA), to the HOPERS, and to the New Well.

"NAPA is a community organization which operates a store front on South Orange Avenue. It provides a center for meetings, for teenage groups and for community action. It has a twenty-four hour a day manned telephone for members of the community who seek help or advice in dealings with city officials, landlords or merchants. NAPA has helped generate community action opposing a proposed route for Interstate 78 which cuts across an already overcrowded ghetto area.

"The HOPERS operate a building on Belmont Avenue. The structure was presented by the city and refurbished by the HOPERS with community help. It serves as a community meeting place and recreation center. It contains T.V., gym facilities, library and meeting rooms. The HOPERS have also acted as a "cool-it" group at inter-racial sporting events. They have worked constructively with the Newark Fire Department to reduce physical attacks on firemen.

"The New Well is an organization of ex-drug addicts with a place on Belmont Avenue. It is an attempt to rehabilitate addicts. It extends its activities to educational programs and preventive activities in both Newark and the suburbs.

"Smaller lump sum grants have been given to the voter registration drive of Operation Understanding, working out of the Queen of Angels Church on Belmont Avenue; and for sports equipment.

"PYMWYMI is a modest thing. The amounts of money involved are small. It is only a tiny fraction of what needs to be done. Yet, PYMWYMI makes a real contribution. As little as our contribution in money may seem, for these organizations it can be critical. It can and does pay some basic bills. Not one organization receiving PYMWYMI payments has had to close its operations. PYMWYMI's simple existence is evidence that some of us in the suburbs do care about the city. PYMWYMI is another link of communication and an expression of communication between whites and blacks, between city and suburbs."

2-Year-Old Girl Rescued from Roof

An off-duty police sergeant rescued a two-year-old girl from the roof of a home on Walnut street on Sunday, October 19. Sgt. Henry Small telephoned police headquarters to ask for assistance at a neighbor's home, and then climbed a ladder to the roof to rescue Elizabeth Pratt of 39 Walnut street.

The little girl had climbed up the ladder about 20 feet to the roof of a neighbor's home and was unable to get down by herself.

a major engineering problem to join the lots.

Both Harp and Geer stated that they would vote in favor of the application only with great reservations. Geer asked that Ritter convey to his board of directors the displeasure of the Planning Board with the proposal, and his hope that some future action would unite the parking facilities.

Change Date Of Meeting

The Gourmet Club will meet today, Thursday, instead of Friday, October 24, as announced earlier. Any new member in the Newcomers who wishes to join this group may call Marie Carra, 992-0630. This first meeting will be held in Marie Carra's home at 15 Bearbrook lane.

Towners Plan Square Dance

The Livingston Towners will sponsor a square dance on November 8 at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Beaufort avenue. Members of the organization who wish to attend must have money in by Friday, October 24, to Mrs. Charlotte Staubitz, 36 Crestview Hill road.

At the dance, a professional caller will give some instructions. Regular dancing will also be part of the program. A chuck wagon supper will be served by Charlotte Staubitz, Beverly Guldner, MaryJo Harry and Habbi Heymann.

A bicycle, like any other vehicle, is required to travel on the right side of the road and to obey traffic signs and signals.

No More Hearings

Councilman Cooper, noting that Klepper was an attorney, said that he certainly should realize that to reopen the hearing would be tantamount to accepting new testimony without the applicant having a right to defend himself.

Klepper also urged that the construction not be permitted until Eisenhower parkway was completed. This was felt to be unreasonable, since it will take almost two years – the time allocated for construction of the center, to get the road finished. It was agreed that efforts should be made to have construction equipment use South Orange avenue and the course of Eisenhower parkway as access to the tract.

The pending Council decision is merely on the question of whether or not the center plans conform to the local ordinances. The Planning Board has already approved them on this score.

It is illegal to allow any animal to run at large in Livingston.

PRESENTS
PORTRAIT OF AN ASSEMBLYMAN

THOMAS H. KEAN

Citizens of Livingston:

My duties over the past two years in the New Jersey State Assembly have covered a wide range of problems concertning our state. This public service has been a challenging, enlightening and rewarding experience. I enumerate a few of the areas in which I have been interested to assist you in considering me for re-election to the State Assembly on November 4th.

1. As leader of the Essex County Assembly Delegation, I was proud to lead the fight for State assumption of Essex County's welfare costs. As a result of our actions in the Legislature, Essex County saved over $18 million. I will continue to support programs designed to take the tax burden from the property owner.
2. In part, due to my background as a teacher of history and government, I was appointed Chairman of the Education Committee. In this post I was able to successfully sponsor the Education Opportunity Fund, a program which the Governor has referred to as "outstanding" and "historic".
3. As Chairman of the Committee on Ethical Standards, I am one of the authors of the strong conflict of interest bill now awaiting the Governor's signature.
4. I am especially proud of my record in the field of conservation. As long as I am in the Legislature, I will continue to sponsor laws to promote clean air and water and to preserve our public lands from exploitation.
5. I have also sponsored a number of measures designed to relieve the urban crisis and drive organized crime from our state.

In asking for your support I also ask you to vote for Assemblyman Phil Kaltenbacher. He has a truly fine record that merits your favorable consideration. With your help on Election Day, Phil and I hope to continue to serve you as your representative in Trenton for the next two years.

Most Sincerely,
Thomas H. Kean

Teachers Carleton Herer and Mrs. Carol Bertrand review a copy of their new text on metric measurement.

Teachers Write Metric System Text

Two Heritage Junior High School science teachers and a Livingston High School art teacher are celebrating the publication of their secondary school workbook, "Metric Measurement."

The two new authors are Carleton G. Herer, chairman of the Heritage science department, and Mrs. Carol Cortese Bertrand, teacher. Miss Suzanne Casterlin from the high school created the illustrations.

The idea for the workbook was born when Herer and Mrs. Bertrand found they did not have enough source material for teaching the metric system. They began to make their own mimeographed lessons on the history of the system, comparisons with the English measurements and exercises in working problems and puzzles.

When the teachers got their materials together and decided to publish them they asked Miss Casterlin to do the art work.

"I had never done cartooning before," Miss Casterlin said, "mostly oil painting, but we wanted something unique. So I designed metric people with rulers and grams for bodies."

Miss Casterlin and Mrs. Cortese were classmates and graduates of Montclair State College where Mrs. Cortese also earned a master's degree. Herer is a graduate of Rutgers University with a master's degree from Colgate University.

"Learning the metric system is important to anyone who might travel in Europe and to everyone who buys food or drugs measured in grams," Mrs. Cortese said. "And all of our official sports events are measured in meters."

Livingston students will have the advantage of these teachers' ingenuity very soon. Livingston High School has already ordered its first set of "Metric Measurement."

Miss Welsh Engaged To Frederick Feske

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Walsh of 9 Jamros terrace, Saddle Brook, have announced the engagement of their daughter Patricia Mary to Frederick C. Fenske, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fenske of 25 Herbert terrace.

The bride-elect is a 1968 graduate of Saddle Brook High School. She is employed by the New Jersey Bureau of Children's Services in Hackensack as clerk transcriber. Her fiance is a 1965 graduate of Livingston High School, and a 1966 graduate of Bailey Technical Institute. He is employed by Riteway Rentals, Elizabeth, as a mechanic.

An April 19, 1970 wedding is planned.

Peacock Urges Vote for Meyner

Robert R. Peacock, state chairman of the People for Meyner, this week issued the following statement urging the election of Robert Meyner as governor.

"As governor of New Jersey for eight years, Robert Meyner's strongest asset was his integrity. The people saw him as a man of integrity and their belief in him remains. Recognizing this, his opponent, William Cahill, has initiated a campaign of inuendo and insinuation, stating that a man could not divide his loyalties between his friends and clients and his duty as an elected official. Cahill has made this 'conflict of interests' campaign. His charges have brought countercharges and the voters are dismayed.

"We must get back to the main issue of leadership Meyner led New Jersey well, has remained in the mainstream of events, knows well the needs of the entire state and has the executive experience to meet them. In the Congress, his opponent is not considered a leader. He did not fight for medicare, aid to education, model cities, etc. He is a conservative Republican who has represented a southern district of New Jersey. Ask yourself who knows the intricacies of state government, New Jersey's complex industries, vast corporations, crowded cities and expanding suburbs and can best govern them. Robert Mayner is your answer."

The first rehearsal will be held on Saturday, November 1, at which time old members will register with the new members who have been accepted.

FOR SURROGATE ANTHONY E. GRASSO

LIVINGSTON RESIDENT FOR 16 YEARS

CANDIDATE ANTHONY E. GRASSO AND HIS FAMILY, WIFE LUCILLE, DAUGHTERS ROBERTA AND ANDREA AND SON EDMUND.

★ A MESSAGE FROM THE CANDIDATE ★

Fellow Citizens:

Many people have approached me to ask the functions of a Surrogate, the office I am seeking as Republican candidate in November. I welcome this opportunity to describe the Essex County Surrogate's duties:

Primarily, a Surrogate's duties are as follows:

1. Administration of estates of decedents, minors, fiduciaries and incompetents.
2. To determine the legality of deceased persons' Wills.
3. The Surrogate's Court has the power to appoint guardians of the property and person of minors.
4. Process applications for adoption.
5. To audit accountings of executors, administrators fiduciaries and guardians.
6. To appoint executors and administrators (by filing complaint) to handle deceased persons' property.

This is a very brief survey of a Surrogate's activities, but it clearly indicates that a large percentage of citizens of Essex County will at one time or another have occasion to consult with the officials of the Surrogate's Office. I feel that my years of experience as a practicing attorney dealing with a broad spectrum of human problems well qualifies me for this position, and hope that after you study the facts, you will reach this same conclusion.

I ASK FOR YOUR VOTE!

Sincerely yours,
Anthony E. Grasso

Junior Football

The Colts and The Vikings continue to dominate the Middleweight Division of the Department of Recreation and Parks sponsored Junior Football League. Navy is leading the Heavyweight Division, and is the only undefeated team.

HEAVYWEIGHT DIVISION

Army 37, Notre Dame 14

Joey Colabrito scored on a 20 yard pass from Nicky Ventola. Joe DeGeorge ran 35 yards around left end for the second score. Ventola then passed another 30 yard T.D. to Colabrito. Long runs by Joe Kiessler and Colabrita accounted for the final first half touchdowns, and Ventola's third T.D. pass to Colabrita ended the scoring in the final period.

The passing of Nicky Ventola and the running of Joe Colabrito, Joe DeGeorge, George Richlieu and Joey Kiessler helped the win. Outstanding on defense for Army were linemen Chris Slaughter, Greg Schoenfeld, Mark Slane, Jeff Simon and Steve Russo. Glenn Bermingham and Richard Richlieu starred as defensive backs. The Notre Dame scores were set up on passes from Larry Bennett to Steve Craig.

Yale 7, Navy 33

Navy took the opening kick and proceeded to march down the field, only to fumble on the five. The defense held, though, and on fourth down Navy linebacker Ed Oertzen blocked the punt and ran the remaining five yards for the score. In the second quarter Yale fumbled deep in their own territory and Navy converted on a fourth down pass with Alan Finn and Tom Flynn combining for the score. The same duo clicked for the extra point. In the third quarter, Yale began to drive with Jim Dougal leading the way with his hard running. On first down at the Navy five, Bobby Lyons kept the ball on a sneak for the score. Dougal converted for the P.A.T. Going against a fired Yale defense, Navy fumbled and Yale once again had possession. On second down Ed Oertzen saved the day as he intercepted a pass and raced down the sideline 69 yards, thanks to a Cerbone block, and scored. Once again Navy converted with Finn catching a deflected Flynn pass.

The Midshipmen scored twice in the fourth, the first being a 38 scoring strike to wingback Phil DeMuro from Tommy Flynn and for the third time Flynn passed to Finn for the point after. The final score came when fullback Bobby Rizzo capped off a short drive by slashing 12 yards through a hole created by Wells, Drummond and Finn. Another fine defensive game was exhibited by Navy with Oertzen, Miller Schrek, Dowd and Brandt as standouts. Sullivan had an outstanding game at center for Navy, while Dougal played an inspired game in a losing cause for Yale.

Army 12, Yale 7

On the second play from scrimmage, Yale halfback broke between tackle and end on the left side and ran 50 yards for a touchdown. A quick opener to the right side accounted for the extra point.

Nick Ventola's pass intended for Joe Colabrito was batted into the air on the Yale 30 yard line by a defender and picked off by end Joey Kiessler who ran 30 yards for the score. The second touchdown also came from a Ventola pass as he hit Glenn Bermingham on the Yale 20 and he carried it into the end zone.

Jimmy Christiano sparkled for Yale on defense while Russo, Slane and Kasmin did an excellent job playing the line for Army.

MIDDLEWEIGHT DIVISION

Middies 12, Rangers 0

The Middies beat the highly improved Rangers 12-0 behind excellent blocking by the Middies forward wall of J. Cacciavillo, D. McKenna, B. Vitale, M. Grum, J. Gianetti, R. Gabel and R. Calabrese.

The Middies marched 43 yards in the first period with fine running of Bill Grum, George Russomanno, Andy Crincoli, Jay Blotsky and great ball handling by Ken Klipper and Greg Gennaro.

George Russomanno climaxed the drive by skirting right end behind good blocking to make the first score from nine yards out. In the second period Bill Grum moved the ball consistently down to the four yard line and scored the last touchdown.

The Rangers played a good defensive game, holding the Middies scoreless in the last two periods.

Colts 42, Giants 0

The Colts remained undefeated and unscored upon as they scampered to their fourth consecutive victory over the Giants. This sets the stage for a game this Saturday between the Colts and the undefeated Vikings. The Colt defense held the Giants ground game to a minus 16 yards. Rugged defensive guard Mark Caplan blocked a Giant punt which led to a score. Overall it was a real team effort, with every Colt player giving his utmost. The tough defense allowed the Colt offense to run rampant. They gained 155 yards on the ground and four TDs and 114 yards in the air and two TDs for a total of 269 yards and six TDs with four extra points.

Quarterback Greg Campisi completed five out of six passes for 100 yards and two touchdowns, and directed his running mini-backs in an outstanding manner. Scoring was accomplished by Johnnie Sules with two TDs and two extra points, Glenn Rieth with two TDs and one extra point, Jimmie Pizzi with one touchdown and versatile end/halfback Chris Paul with one touchdown. Glenn Rieth was the leading ball carrier, accounting for 144 yards; 67 by running and 77 on pass receptions.

The offensive line blocking was near perfect as they shook the runners loose and gave quarterback Greg Campisi time to throw his passes. The Giants threatened to score with 30 seconds remaining when quarterback Mike Mills completed a pass to Paul McNicoll who raced 65 yards down the side lines before being tackled from behind by Glenn Rieth on the one foot line. On the first play the Giants fumbled and Danny Hope recovered ending the scoring threat.

Bears 14, Lions 0

In the first quarter the Lions received, and after four downs the Bears took over and put together a 60 yard drive. The line of Savia, Simon, Saul, Muoio, Girone, Solomon and Drees opened the holes for the backfield of Godfrey, Howell, Mathesius and Manning. The backfield took turns ripping up yardage, and Howell bulled his way from the eight yard line for the first T.D. A well executed Howell-to-Manning pass was good for the two points. Savia kicked off deep into Lions territory and the defensive unit, led by Girone, Saul, Bove, Manning, Heinz, Simon, Howell, Savia, Godfrey, Mathesius and Drees, held the Lions in check.

In the second quarter Girone broke into the backfield constantly. His hard charges sparked up the entire defensive unit. Girone, Howell and Savia broke into the backfield harrassing the Lions. In the third quarter the Bears received and put together another 60 yard drive. Howell took a pitch-out from Godfrey and on tremendous downfield blocking of Manning and Mathesius he sprung loose and he went 35 yards for the second touchdown. The ball trickled off of Solomon's fingers as he almost made an outstanding catch for the conversion.

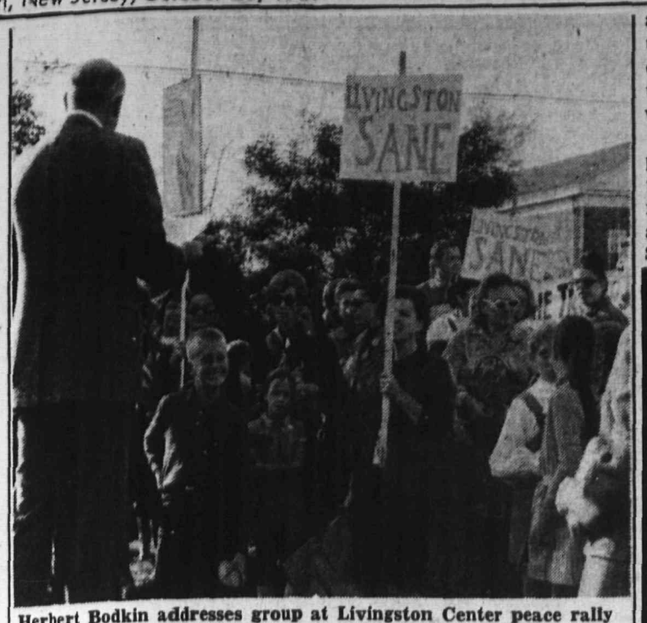

In the fourth quarter the defensive line of Girone, Blumette, Barnum, Manning and Quinn held the Lions in check. Girone, Blumette, Howell and Savia broke into the backfield constantly, keeping the pressure on the Lions. Simon made an outstanding tackle near the end of the game turning back a Lions touchdown threat. Outstanding for the Lions was Garett, Cox, Gisi, Grasso and Chiarella. Short, Sullivan and Conley were unable to play for the Bears because of knee injuries.

LIGHTWEIGHT DIVISION

Jets 16, Hawks 0

The unbeaten and unscored-upon Jets won their third straight game with a 16-0 shutout over the Hawks. The Jets scored late in the first quarter as Bob Brower and Lonny Tabatchnick tackled the Hawks quarterback in the end zone for a two point safety. The Jets scored their first touchdown on a 25 yard reverse play to Bobby Brower who simply outran the defense. With seconds remaining in the first half Bob Oelz took a handoff from Jeff Campisi and skooted around left end eluding five or six potential tackles to score a beautiful 25 yard touchdown run. Jeff Campisi and Lonny Tabatchnick each scored once on extra point conversions.

Even more spectacular than the offense was the Jets potent defensive unit. They all played flawless football and did not allow the Hawks to make a first down all day. Morton, Sibella, Bravakis, Polzer and Tabatchnick were just a few of the boys that kept the Hawks offense in check throughout the game. With this fine win the Jets remain in first place in the Lightweight Division.

SANE Sponsors Peace Rally

Livingston SANE, local chapter of National Citizens for a SANE World, conducted a two hour peace vigil and memorial session from 4 to 6 p.m. in conjunction with the Vietnam Moratorium on October 15. Meeting in Lions Park, some 150 persons gathered to hear speeches and to witness a commemoration and roll call of the New Jersey young men who have died in Vietnam.

Herbert A. Bodkin of 4 Sparrow drive, chairman of the meeting, made the opening address, which concerned itself with the "futility and enormous waste" of the Vietnam war, both in lives and in material resources. Bodkin endorsed the need for America to withdraw all troops from Vietnam by the end of 1970.

The speakers included Dr. Harry Rockberger, Bob Leopold, Frank Witkus and Michael Marucci, all of Livingston. Rabbi Samuel Cohen of Temple Beth Shalom also spoke and praised the youth of America for their "courageous moral stand in opposing what they consider to be an unjust war."

To the Editor

G.O.P. Endorsement

Dear sir:

During the past year, I have taken every opportunity to personally meet with and discuss relevant issues of the day with Congressman William Cahill, the Republican gubernatorial candidate. I would appreciate using your good offices to urge all of my friends and neighbors in Livingston to support Bill Cahill's candidacy for Governor in the forthcoming election.

I am convinced that all of the citizens of Livingston will recognize the tremendous job being done on our behalf by our incumbent Assemblymen Tom Kean and Phil Kaltenbacher and know that they will join with me in re-electing them to office in order that they may continue their good works.

I am equally certain that the people of Livingston have come to appreciate the excellent representation being afforded them at our county level by Hy Mintz, Stu Hausmann and Walter Blasi and I urge them to cast their votes not only for these present incumbents but for their outstanding running-mates Joseph Napolitano, Raymond Stabile, and Anthony Grasso.

I ask that all of the people of Livingston join with me in casting their votes for the entire Republican Cahill team.

Assembly Candidates Speak at League of Women Voters' Forum

(Editor's Note – The Livingston League of Women Voters held a public forum Thursday evening at which the four candidates for State Assembly from this district were the speakers. The assigned topics were two questions:

1–Do you believe that New Jersey has an obligation to give post-high school education to all who can benefit? How?

2–What would you do to lighten the New Jersey property taxes? The following are digests of the replies of the various candidates.)

PHILIP KALTENBACHER
(Republican)

Mr. Kaltenbacher stated that he and his running mate, Thomas Kean, had agreed to split the question – each representing their views on the subject on which they spoke.

Kaltenbacher spoke on the property taxes. He stated that this tax was an outgrowth of the former agrarian society of this nation when a man's worth could best be measured by the property he owned. This has the effect of taxing a man additional money when he adds a room to his house to accommodate a large family.

In Essex County, it means that the suburban property owner, through property taxes (part of which go to the county) helps pay for the problems of the inner core city. This is important, since over 40 percent of the state welfare load is concentrated in Essex which has 14 percent of the population. New Jersey's tax structure is such that 70 percent of the state and local revenues come from the property tax. This compares with a national average of 56 percent.

Kaltenbacher stated that as incumbent assemblyman, he and Kean had helped sell the idea that poverty is the concern of the whole state. To combat the terrific load on the property owner, several laws were passed.

First, a bill was passed increasing state participation in non-federal welfare costs from 50 to 75 percent.

Second, ten percent of the sales tax money was allocated to municipalities on the basis of population.

Third, $25 per pupil more in state aid was granted to local school systems. These three programs amounted to $20 million additional aid to Essex County – money that otherwise would have had to be added to the property tax.

Current pending bills would make county schools eligible for state aid; would have the state take over administration of the county pension fund; would shift the present disproportionate costs of administering the federal food stamp program to the state; would transfer Soho Hospital and the probationary and court costs to the state.

He cited the Bateman Report, a high priority item with bipartisan support. This report showed that state educational aid was low, although a great deal was spent on education. It would increase state aid from 28 percent to 40 percent, and would provide incentives for extra courses. He felt this program would help stabilize local taxes.

THOMAS H. KEAN
(Republican)

Kean stated that the answer to the educational question was Yes. The big question is How? Until recently, there was comparatively little higher education in the state. This was changed, partially, by the 1966 Higher Education Act. Now there are 13 county colleges with 22,000 students.

Essex County College was the first of these to open its doors. Its program is designed either to allow a two-year graduate to transfer to another college or to prepare him for a career. Most transferees go to one of the six present state colleges or will go to one of the two new ones.

At present there are 35 private institutions of higher education in the state in addition to Rutgers, the State University. Rutgers has 22,000 students and the others have 35,000 between them. Some of the other institutions, he noted, were not full.

Even with the new bond issue, by 1975 only 50 percent will be able to attend public colleges in New Jersey. This will be an increase of 29 percent. The only fair way to improve this is a revised expanded state school system.

To solve the financial problems of the students, the state has guaranteed student loans. At the present time, there are 34,000 of these. There are also New Jersey State Scholarships. Under a bill introduced by Kean, an Educational Opportunity Fund has been set up and 2,000 persons have been aided by this. This fund is primarily aimed to aid underprivileged students. The system is well administered, but does not cover nearly what it should. The lower and middle income families suffer the most, since it costs approximately $15,000 to send a student to an out of state college without incurring debt or getting a scholarship.

Kean stated that no student should be denied higher education for financial reasons. The cost should not be the basis of decision. He advocated more programs for special supervision and motivation for the undertrained.

GERARD SIMON
(Democrat)

On education, I spend my time in this field in creative work. Post high school education should not necessarily mean college.

In Essex County there are vocational programs which train high school graduates for technical trades. Not all of these students are college material. There are also evening programs which make post-high school education available to those who are working.

County employers need this program on an expanded scale. Skilled employees are needed, and are hard to find. Proper courses to train such people should be put into the county vocational schools. This is very important he said. Prudential Insurance Company might have to leave Essex County because they cannot get skilled help.

He advocated expansion of the work-school programs where students work in the morning and could attend college in the afternoon, or vice versa. This also could aid industry.

The big problem, he said, is lack of facilities. Also, there will be a problem staffing additional schools with adequate faculties. It is necessary to develop a parallel program to get instructors.

The state has suffered from a teaching college syndrome. Teaching often is not adequate. He questioned whether advanced credits made better teachers. He urged that the county colleges be put on three-year programs instead of two.

On the problem of taxes, he said that a lessening of taxes would be of no consequence if it meant a lessening of services. His hope is to get increased governmental service without a tax increase. The Democrats are pushing for a tax convention to try to solve the muddle. What is really needed is a new source of taxation.

HARVEY SKLAW
(Democrat)

The property tax system is based on an economy which no longer exists. The present legislature has nothing to do with the basic fact that the property tax is an anachronism. The tax should be based instead on ability to pay.

The sales tax is worse than the property tax. It is wholly unrealistic and is a far worse burden on the lower-income groups than the higher. Stating that a new tax system is most necessary, he pointed out that even with the sales tax, property taxes have not gone down. "We must pay taxes, and I am willing to pay them if I get something for them," he said.

He questioned what the two incumbent Republicans had done to relieve the tax situation. The Batement Report was a Republican bill, yet the Republican Legislature turned it down.

A state tax convention is the correct way to tackle the problem. It must lead to a new tax based on the ability to pay. This probably would be an income tax.

On higher education, the answer is definitely yes. The big question is how? He felt that this problem was inextricably linked up with the tax problem.

In the rebuttal period, Kaltenbacher stated that he thought that the federal income tax is sharply graduated, and it would be unfair to put a state income tax on top of it. He did not want to see a state income tax grafted on top of a bad system. The whole system needs revision.

Kean stated that vocational programs are fine, but many students don't want them except in the lower-class areas. Simons, he said, stated a good case, but failed to say how this all could be accomplished. He added that the legislature backed the Bateman report and is currently holding hearings on it.

Simons stated that Newark is blamed for many things, but it still is the economic hub of the area and we owe it financial assistance. He desires to change the city into a cultural and educational center with good housing.

Sklaw stated he did not advocate the income tax. He wants a state tax convention, but hopes they come up with a better idea.

On the Batemah Report, he stated that extensive public hearings are the best way to bury a bill and keep it from passing.

Industrial building has been proposed for Microlab road, in the industrial zone off West Mt. Pleasant avenue. Central courtyard will provide access to various firms within the building.

Industrial Structure to be Built on Microlab Road

Circle Park Associates this week proposed the construction of a new industrial building at 15-17 Microlab road, to the north of West Mt. Pleasant avenue in the industrial zone. The plans were approved by the Planning Board at its session on Tuesday evening.

Livingston resident Martin Mayer, a partner in the firm, said that the building would be built on speculation, with no definite arrangements with tenants yet. For this reason, he said, the floor of the building will not be poured until plumbing and wiring can be planned to suit tenants.

One outstanding feature of the building, Mayer said, is the central courtyard. Designed by architect Lawrence Stern, also a Livingston resident, the courtyard is intended to provide an attractive entrance to as many as six different firms within the building. Noting that the building will look much like a school or office building, the applicants said that there was no reason a factory had to look ugly.

The new building is to be constructed on property opposite the present Sunshine Biscuit Company warehouse. It will contain 35,472 square feet, and can be arranged to accommodate from one to six tenants. The walls of the building will be made of "giant brick," a material which is identical to conventional bricks except in size. Architect Stern noted that generally the high cost of the giant brick would make it too expensive for industrial construction. His plans, however, will use the giant brick for both inside and outside walls, with no covering on the inside of the building. The 12 inch wide brick, he said, will provide both an inside and outside surface with a single course of brick.

With this approach, Stern said, even though the cost was greater than block and a brick veneer, it would be economically possible to use the attractive giant bricks.

In moving toward approval of the proposal, Board chairman referred to the building as being unusually attractive, especially in view of its intended use. The Board voted to close the public hearing, at which no members of the public asked to be heard, and then voted in favor of the application.

Height Variance Request Results In Inquiring into Air Pollution

An extended inquiry was held by the Zoning Board of Adjustment on Thursday evening into the application of the Electrical Products Division of Midland Ross Corporation for an eight foot height variance for an incinerator stack. The zoning ordinance limits height to 28 feet, but the applicants said that in order to be able to install anti-pollution equipment they were requesting a height of 36 feet.

The lengthy questioning session by the Board centered not on the stack height but on the pollution control equipment. Board member Jack Naylor noted that the applicants would be allowed to build the incinerator stack without a variance if they had not proposed the installation of the special equipment.

Robert Rothen, representing the applicant, said that approval for the incinerator had been received from the state and from the Suburban Essex Pollution Control Board.

An environmental health specialist, Michael Lewis, described the equipment which has been proposed for the Midland Ross plant on West Mt. Pleasant avenue. He said that several identical incinerators are in use elsewhere in the state. As an example of the equipment's pollution reduction capacity, he said that the incinerator was frequently demonstrated by burning a tire. This demonstration, he said, produces no smoke, odor or sparks.

Lewis invited the members of the Board to see the incinerator which is to be installed at Midland Ross. The unit is now at Highland Park as a demonstrator, he said, and could be made available for a demonstration at any time.

Lewis noted that for purposes of pollution reduction the maximum possible stack height is desirable. The stack height in the present application, he said, is dictated by the fact that the unit is factory assembled and must pass certain pollution tests. In order to make these tests, stack diameter and height must be in specific proportions to each other. The emission from the units, he said, far exceeds legal requirements for pollution control.

No residents of the area attended the meeting to speak for or against the application. The Board moved to reserve decision on the matter, and expressed interest in seeing a demonstration of the unit.

Exterior view of the Dolly Madison restaurant that has been proposed for a site on South Livingston avenue near Belmont drive. The Planning Board has noted that several features of the building as shown, such as the signs, are in violation of the zoning ordinance.

Board Receives Plans for Proposed Restaurant

Plans for a proposed Dolly Madison Restaurant were presented on Tuesday night to the Planning Board. The restaurant is to be built on now-vacant property to the north of the 7-Eleven store, between Belmont drive and Irving avenue on South Livingston avenue.

The application was one of many in a marathon five-hour session of the Planning Board. When it developed that the stock plans which were being presented by the developers would have to be modified to suit the location, the Board suggested that the public hearing be continued to the first November meeting. That meeting will be held on Tuesday, November 4, despite the election day activities.

Local architect Lawrence Stern informed the Board that he had been retained to do the site plan development work; the actual building plans, he said, were stock plans which had been used for many other similar restaurants. He said that traffic plans had been prepared to minimize the congestion at the corner of Belmont drive and South Livingston avenue. Traffic would enter from South Livingston avenue and park, then leave by way way of the Belmont drive exit behind the 7-Eleven store. The Belmont drive ramp could also be used for entrance, he said, but no exit onto South Livingston avenue will be permitted.

One of the problems brought up by the Board was that of trash disposal. The plans indicated an enclosure of decorative masonry between the 7-Eleven and the new restaurant to contain the debris. Representatives of the restaurant, however, said that a Dumpster unit would be used behind the restaurant.

Another difficulty revealed in the questioning was that of the extension of the 7-Eleven building to the north. When the plans for the 7-Eleven were approved it was thought that future development of a group of stores on the property would continue the lines of the building. For that reason a common wall was anticipated on the north side of the 7-Eleven, and no brick veneer was applied.

The plans for the restaurant, however, indicate that it will not join the 7-Eleven store. The possibility of such a connection was raised, but restaurant agents said that it would not be possible since the stock plans could not be modified to allow a common wall.

Further complications were brought to light when it was noted that the plans indicated plantings all around the restaurant. With a masonry wall to the 7-Eleven and a garbage container at the rear, the Board noted, this would be impossible.

It was also stated that the plans as presented contain violations of the zoning ordinance. The drawings indicate signs which do not conform to ordinance, and for which a Zoning Board of Adjustment variance would have to be sought.

Planning director Henry Nycz suggested that some features of the parking arrangement could be altered in the interest of safety, and added that the present curb opening into the vacant lot should be filled to prevent its use.

Noting that there were many problems to be worked out in the application, the Board voted to continue the public hearing to the November 4 meeting. At that time the applicants will continue their presentation, and any residents of the area may ask to be heard by the Board.

7-Eleven Store To Be Expanded

At Tuesday evening's lengthy meeting of the Planning Board the 7-Eleven Store on South Livingston avenue at Belmont drive received permission to expand its selling area by enclosing the front walkway. The approval came only after extended discussion of the litter problem which Board members attributed, in part, to the 7-Eleven.

The store at 280 South Livingston avenue is to be given a complete face-lifting. The sliding glass doors at the front will be removed, and a store front will be built eight feet farther forward under the existing overhang of the roof. New floor and ceiling tiles will be installed, and the entire interior will be rearranged. The remodeling is part of a pattern over a wide area, and members of the Planning Board were referred to the West Caldwell store as an example of what is to be done.

Township manager Robert H. Harp said that there had been grave administrative problems with the 7-Eleven in the past. He termed the company's record of cooperation with municipal officials the worst in the township, and cited landscaping and litter as outstanding difficulties. Harp accused the store of installing the required landscaping only when it was evident that Planning Board approval would be needed for the new addition. Knowing that they would never get approval until the landscaping for the original store was complete, he said, management officials finally took action on decorating the site.

Township councilman Peter B. Cooper, liaison member of the Planning Board, said that the outstanding problem with the 7-Eleven has been litter. Terming the situation "disgraceful," he said that the municipal administration receives complaints from nearby residents on a nearly daily basis.

Reinforcing this complaint, board member C. David Geer said that he had recently walked through the neighborhood of the 7-Eleven along South Livingston avenue. On that occasion, he said, he had counted between 250 and 300 discarded "Slurpy" containers on the ground. He said that the 7-Eleven constituted the worst litter problem in Livingston – a disadvantage which far outweighs the few favorable remarks he had heard about the store's convenience.

As the meeting continued until well after midnight, Board members agreed that in recent months, following a change in the local franchise owner, the situation had improved a bit. The applicants agreed to consider a contest or other type of promotion to reduce the litter problem, and also agreed to apply a false brick face to the north end of the building. This wall had originally been seen as a common wall between two buildings, but the extension of the building never came about.

After a lengthy review of the application, it was township manager Harp who moved approval of the matter. No residents of the area had attended the meeting to speak on the issue, and the Board voted in favor of the store's expansion.

Carol Ann Nelson, Miss YMCA 1969, Jack Naylor, chairman of the Committee of Management of the West Essex Branch of the YMCA, and Brian Higgins, president of the HI-Y Council, are pictured doing a triple ribbon cutting Sunday afternoon as the local Y was officially opened. A crowd of over 300 was in attendance at the affair, and the building has been toured by hundreds of additional sightseers since as they have held open house. Full details of the new building were published in last week's paper.

Police Urge Safety for Halloween; Warn Against Acts of Vandalism

Livingston police chief William Hucker this week issued a safety caution to young Halloweeners, and a stern warning to those who would spoil the Halloween fun for others. He urged that parents be fully aware of where their children are on Thursday and Friday evenings.

Youngsters going out trick or treating, police Capt. Steven Townley noted, are too often the victims of accidents that could have been prevented. Parents should be sure that children can see out of their costumes, and that drivers will be able to see the children.

Making up a child's face with non-toxic paints rather than using a mask is an excellent way of insuring his vision, Capt. Townley said. When a mask or paper bag is used, it too often provides only very narrow vision, resulting in accidents.

To insure that drivers will see children, a light colored costume is recommended, Chief Hucker advised. For both glamor and extra visibility, strips of reflector tape can be used. Carrying a flashlight or lighted jack-o-lantern is also a good way to alert motorists to the presence of trick or treaters.

Fire is a major hazard to costumed children, it was noted. Flame retardant materials should be used for the costumes, and children should never be allowed to carry lighted candles.

The usual rules of pedestrian safety should apply to young Halloween pedestrians as well, Chief Hucker stated. Parents should remind their children to look for cars before crossing roads, and not to loiter in the road talking with other children.

In addition to these safety cautions, Capt. Townley advised that he was assigning additional men to Halloween patrol duties. "There is no legal distinction" the captain stated, "between Halloween and any other night." He said that his men would be instructed to treat vandalism as a criminal act, in the same way as any other time of the year. Youngsters apprehended by police for Halloween vandalism, he said, would be referred to the Juvenile Court in Newark as has been done in past years.

Noting that even with additional men on duty it would be impossible to be everywhere at once, Chief Hucker asked for the cooperation of Livingston parents. "Parents," he noted, "are directly responsible for the actions of their children." He pointed out that in the event of damage to property, the parents of the child causing the damage would be responsible for making payment for repairs or replacement. The best vandalism insurance, he concluded, is watchful parents.

Approve Land Subdivision For Temple B'nai Abraham

After several closed-door meetings with the Planning Board, Temple B'nai Abraham this week took the first step toward the construction of a new building in Livingston. The proposed temple, about which no details have been released, is to be located on land now being assembled at the intersection of Old Short Hills road and East Northfield road.

The action taken by the Planning Board in approving the Temple's application completed the acquisition of land, It will make possible the subdivision of a section of the large tract owned by Anthony and Patricia Scala for purchase by the Temple. Although the land fronts on Old Short Hills road, the Temple will purchase only a five-acre section at the rear. This is to be added to land formerly owned by F. P. Wille and Alan Sagner on East Northfield road to create a peculiarly shaped parcel for the Temple. The parcel has a large wedge-shaped intrusion at the rear, owned by W. A. Manda, Inc.

Vice president Abraham Barkan of Temple B'nai Abraham presented the application before the Planning Board. He acknowledged that previous meetings had been held between the applicants and the Board, and noted that the plans submitted would make the future extension of Rutgers road possible.

Barkan said that the Scala property would be added to the three lots which the Temple is assembling along East Northfield road. The Wille property has already been purchased, and he noted that the Temple would take title to the two Sagner lots in November.

Planning director Henry Nycz noted that Scala's lot, together with other property under the same ownership, was the subject of a tax lien by the township. The tax collector had conducted a tax lien sale on Monday, it was reported, and the lien on Scala's property was defaulted to the town for taxes.

Barkan said that he was not personally aware of the matter, but expressed confidence in the Temple's attorneys and their title search.

The sole negative vote on the application was cast by township manager Robert H. Harp. In explaining his vote, Harp said that he did not feel that the Temple would be able to develop its land as has been claimed. He said that this was due in part to the odd shape of the lot and the difficult topography of the area.

The Board approved the minor subdivision without further discussion. Temple representatives did not say when they would be prepared to present plans for the development of the land.

Automobile Accident Precipitates Many Charges Against Newark Man

A Newark man faces a long list of charges made by Livingston police after he reportedly took a car and was involved in a collision at Northfield Center on Saturday morning, October 18.

Ptl. John Durish reported finding an abandoned Chevrolet at about 5:20 a.m. at Northfield Center, after it had been involved in an accident. The owner of the car was traced through papers found in the car, but he reported that he had left the car at Wigder Chevrolet for repairs. The damaged car was towed to Wigder, and an employee of the auto agency said that the car had been taken by Duane Green of Newark, who also worked there. When Green reported for work shortly afterward he was taken into custody by Ptl. Durish and Meeker.

Green had in his possession a brown envelope which contained a powder suspected of being marihuana; the powder was sent to a chemical laboratory for analysis. He was also carrying a clip of five rounds of .25 caliber ammunition, which he claimed he had found in Newark.

Following questioning Green was charged with unlawful use of an automobile, driving without a license, careless driving, leaving the scene of an accident, and possession of marihuana. Unable to raise $2250 bail, Green was taken to the Newark Street Jail to await an appearance in Livingston Municipal Court on October 29 to answer the charges.

An additional complaint was lodged by the probation officer, who charged Peck with violation of probation.

Peck was taken to the Newark Street Jail when he was unable to raise bail of $500. He faces action in Livingston Municipal Court on Wednesday evening as the Tribune goes to press.

A Vote for Kean

2 Valley View court

Dear sir:

It is with great pleasure that I endorse for re-election to the State Assembly one of the finest men Livingston could have representing its citizens in Trenton – Tom Kean.

Tom has served in the Assembly for two years and has already compiled an amazing record of leadership instituting reforms in welfare, pollution control, and crime prevention. Tom has also distinguished himself as a fighter against corruption in State government, and for consumer protection on all levels.

The Tom Kean I know is even more than that; a good neighbor and friend, and a man of undisputed integrity in private and public life. Nothing more than his own qualities and accomplishments are needed to recommend him to your readers for re-election to the State Assembly this Election Day.

Mayors' Endorsement

Dear sir:

Once having served in public office there is a natural tendency to follow with interest the process of government at all levels, and evaluate the records of the public officials of all parties.

We have noted the accomplishments of the Essex County Board of Freeholders under the leadership of men of the caliber of Hyman Mintz, C. Stuart Hausmann, and William H. Clark. They have been responsible for a reduction in County taxes; they stand for complete federal takeover of welfare, elimination of fraud and irregularity, more college classrooms, and respect for governmental authority.

We have also noted the impressive qualifications of Livingston's own Anthony Grasso for Surrogate; the excellent records of Freeholder Hymen B. Mintz, now running for Register, and Freeholder C. Stuart Hausmann, candidate for re-election. They have been joined by Supervisor Walter C. Blasi, candidate for re-election, and two carefully selected, well-qualified candidates for Essex County Board of Freeholders; Raymond P. Stabile and Joseph Napolitano.

In our judgment, the record of the incumbents speaks volumes on their behalf and the qualifications of the other candidates make them worthy of your support. We enthusiastically recommend these men to you when you vote on November 4th.

ROBERT W. KEAN of Livingston, a former U. S. Congressman, this week gave his endorsement to register candidate Hymen B. Mintz, surrogate candidate Anthony Grasso, freeholder C. Stuart Hausmann, candidate for re-election, and Assemb lyman Philip Kaltenbacher, candidate for re-election. Kean shown at center, said, "We would be well represented at the county and state level by these responsible and competent men. I believe the people of Livingston and Essex County would be well served by the election of all the candida tes the Republican Party offers this year.

Don't be an audience of one for an obscene caller. Hang up.

The phone rings. You pick it up.

When whoever it is doesn't say anything, or does say something obscene, or doesn't identify himself—just hang up.

This kind of person would like you to talk to him. Don't! Hanging up will usually discourage him from calling again.

Should the calls persist, however, please let your Telephone Business Office know. We have specially trained personnel to deal with obscene callers.

Note: New Jersey laws provide up to 6 months in prison and/or a $500 fine to anyone making profane, lewd, lascivious, indecent, or disgusting remarks on the telephone, or who repeatedly telephones a person for the purpose of molesting or annoying that person.

Funds for TCP

59 Wynnewood road

Dear sir:

As an adult who worked closest with the members of TCP, I must take issue with your response to Mrs. Dubnick's letter in the October 16 issue of the Tribune. Both you and the Town Council have consistently misinterpreted what these young people requested at the Council meeting last Spring. This at a time when adults all over the country are frustrated by their inability to relate and communicate with teenagers. The children, who are TCP, are the children of Livingston who have won the national merit award of Parents Magazine for Youth Achievement, who have in the last month been honored by their Board of Education, their Town Council, and personally by the Govenor of the state. Let us take a look at their history, and at ourselves.

I. Many youngsters from Livingston volunteered to work in headstart and tutoring programs during the summer of 1968. Many youngsters wishing to, could not, because there was no way for them to get to the centers that needed them. The young volunteers, that summer, realized what their experiences had meant to them, and, that talking about them with their peers made this experience even richer. Therefore:

II. On their own initiative, they submitted a proposal to the Recreation Department in October, 1968, explaining that just as Arts and Crafts, Tennis or Swimming are meaningful uses of leisure time for some people, so volunteer work was meaningful to others. They asked the Recreation Department to set up an opportunity for all teens in town, that is, to create a Livingston Volunteer Corps for Teens, using the members of T.C.P. as the beginning members. Although the request was submitted before the recreation budget was decided for the summer of 1969, this proposal was IGNORED. Furthermore, the leaders of T.C.P. never were invited to talk to the Recreation Department until an adult intervened. This was January.

III. After several meetings with the Recreation Department, the teens were asked to prove their earnestness, and share the financial responsibility for such a corps, by earning money. They agreed upon a car wash, and one Saturday T.C.P., 20 strong, came to Memorial Park with all the necessary equipment and energy.

IV. Because the Recreation Department was somehow rankled by T.C.P., and the young people were sadly discouraged, I invited Mr. Sharpless to my home, with some of the young people and their parents. The young people asked their questions, and Mr. Sharpless answered them honestly. He told them that there was money set aside for Teen Programs, specifically dances; that these dances were not held because of the "misbehavior" of the teens, and that such money might be appropriated for the use of a Volunteer Corps. (By this time, the proposal had become more specific, planning to hire a bus three days a week so that the teens would be picked up in Livingston and returned to Livingston at the end of the day, and some official of the Recreation Department would be a counselor to them.) Indeed, Mr. Sharpless seemed pleased to support the concept of the corps as an ideal. However the Town Council had to authorize the transfer of such recreation funds from one activity to another. That is the reason the T.C.P. appeared before the Council. T.C.P. was not asking for money for itself, but for permission for the Recreation Department to move its funds from one designated activity to another so that it might partially pay for this model program in the summer of 1969.

Please note:

1) These teenagers sought experience in the inner city before they proposed a plan for other teens.

2) Their initiative, without adult supervision, took the direction of writing a proposal which was submitted at the proper time to the proper channel.

3) Without adult help they continued to answer the requests for service from the city, between the time they submitted the proposal and the summer of 1969.

4) T.C.P. has conducted itself, always, with orderly discussion, concrete thought and action.

In a time when we are bedeviled by teens who seek self-expression through narcotics, vandalism, and hostility, these People are the answer to the spirit of DEMOCRACY 1969. IDEALISM THROUGH ACTION. Let us tell it like it is!

PROTECTING THE CONSUMER — Representative Florence Dwyer discusses consumer protection bill, sponsored by Assemblymen Philip D. Kaltenbacher (left) and Thomas H. Kean, which will be the subject of a public hearing today, Thursday, in Trenton. The legislation, which has passed the New Jersey Assembly, would protect retail installment buyers and persons who contract for home repairs against unscrupulous financial practices. Representative Dwyer enthusiastically endorsed the re-election of the incumbent assemblymen, citing their concern for the consumer as dovetailing with her own consumer protection activities in Washington.

The evening program will begin at 7:30 with a dramatic presentation entitled "Seventy-five Years" written by Mrs. Joseph Burnett. This drama is based on actual historical events as recorded in the minutes of the Association and preserved by its successive secretaries. Members of the same church in which the scenes to be presented took place originally will enact them: Livingston Baptist Church, Northfield Baptist Church, Livingston, and North Orange Baptist Church, Orange.

Simons Endorses 18 Year Old Vote

Gerard M. Simons, Democratic Assembly candidate, addressed the Livingston Young Democrats and the board of directors of the Essex County Young Democrats last, and stated that he would support giving the vote to 18 year olds.

Simons, in describing his position, stated that "we must provide young people with not only a meaningful avenue of expression in the political activities of this nation, but a sincere basis for complimenting the growing intelligence of the majority of our young adults."

"When we speak of our belief in equality," commented Simons, "we must equate our beliefs with all citizens and that includes the youth of this nation."

"I firmly believe," continued Simons, "that a new voting segment of our population would provide the stimulous in government that will see a greater percentage of our citizens voting then the present national statistic that remains around 65 per cent."

Simons encouraged the Young Democrats to continue their political involvement beyond the November 4th election date and recommended that they begin to attend Township Council meetings and acquire an appreciation for local government as well as State and National formation.

The other candidates attending the meeting were Harvey Sklaw, Ralph De Rose and Philip Keegan.

When the program is completed in 1970, rated capacity will be increased by 80,000 barrels a day for a total of 390,000 barrels daily.

All three units are scheduled for completion late in 1970.

Drug Addiction

49 Oakwood avenue

Dear sir:

After the tragedy which befell the Art Linkletter family, I believe we all realized that it can happen to anyone. A family living happily, doing creative things together felt secure. Can any of us be sure we are safe from the menace of drugs? The "cancel tomorrow for lack of interest" generation, the campus radical, the pusher for dollars, the communist trained in weakening the moral fibre of American youth, be it with sex or with drugs, are all enemies we face in protecting our young from degradation.

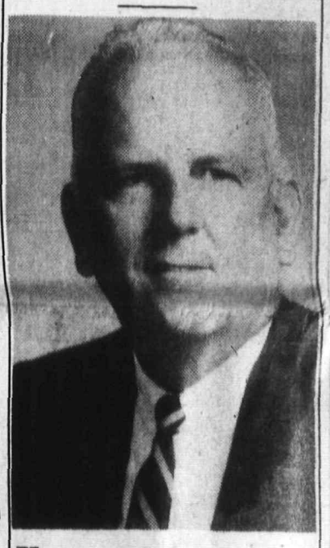

Our schools have failed. With all our stress on visual aids, have the schools ever shown a movie of an addict in a padded cell, vomiting constantly, tearing his own flesh? Have our teen agers seen a baby born of an addict and the suffering that infant must endure? Too gorey? Well so was the body of 19 year old Janet Linkletter when she hit the pavement.

Our government has failed. Millions of dollars worth of drugs are brought into the U.S. via United Nations attache cases, particularly from Cuba. The problem on our Mexican border has been fully reported, but if young people were armed with knowledge, along with strong morals, would the market be so extensive? Some time ago I saw a film with a most important message, a film which tells it like it really is. The audience was varied; long hair, crew cuts, young, old but when the film was over there was complete silence. For seconds not a sound was heard, for everyone was shocked and moved.

This same film "Flip Side" will be shown at the Full Gospel Church, Old Road, Livingston on Thursday evening. Please go and take every young person you know (over 13) with you. You may save your family or someone elses, from the heartbreak of thousand of Linkletters.

Youth needs truth!! There is a cause, a rallying point for energy and ideals. God is the answer, and whether you believe He is dead or alive, aren't you desperate enough to admit that man has failed? Medical science, psychiatry, institutions, are of little use to the disturbed generation. Learn? Earn? Burn? Churn? There is a better way, TURN.

(Mrs.) Bernice Slagle

A Vote for Grasso

18 Concord drive

Dear sir:

Every so often the people of Livingston get the opportunity to endorse a candidate for office who, as a member of their own local community, meets with the necessary integrity, ability and dedication that are required for the position. In the coming election period there exists such a person who reflects those sincere and necessary qualities as a result of his pursuit of a successful career in the field of law, his active community involvement in Livingston, and his concerned actions with many organizational and institutional causes to improve the needs of his society. Such a man is Anthony E. Grasso, candidate for the office of Essex County Surrogate.

As one who has known Mr. Grasso, a highly-respected family man in our community, I am certain that he possesses the very vital and capable attributes that are required for this most significant office, and his professional background stands significantly to his advantage as well. I enthusiastically urge the voters of Livingston to consider Anthony E. Grasso as an excellent choice for Surrogate whether they be Independent, Democrat or Republican in their voting heretofore. The duties of the office of Surrogate certainly transcend any political associations, and the character and ability of Mr. Grasso place him into that consideration as an individual deserving of the support of those voters who seek a man who will truly benefit the position and its responsibilities. I have no doubt that Mr. Grasso would accomplish much that was truly worthwhile and constructive were he given the opportunity to serve as our County Surrogate.

In conclusion, let me state that my wife and I have, at various times in our election status as voters, been both Democratic and Republican registrants as well. However, when the choice of a good candidate presented itself to us, the important thing was to choose the man that we thought would best qualify for the vote in that he could offer the finest service, not whether he ran on one particular party ticket or another. In the coming election we, though we are registered Democrats, support the election of Anthony E. Grasso to the office of surrogate because we feel that Mr. Grasso possesses the superior talents necessary to the position, and he offers to the voters a healthy breath of fresh air so often lacking on the political scene. We sincerely hope that the people of Livingston will join with us to give Anthony E. Grasso the chance to fulfill the position of Surrogate of Essex County which we feel he sincerely deserves.

Unlocked doors and windows are the most common entrances used by burglars while families are away from their homes.

WILLIAM T. CAHILL, Republican candidate for governor this week received the endorsement of Livingston residents David W. Dowd, state senator, and Essex County freeholder William H. Clark. Dowd stated that "as a member of the Senate of New Jersey I know first hand how urgently we need strong leadership from a new voice." Freeholder Clark added: "Sixteen years of Democratic administration in Trenton has done little to help the County of Essex solve the problems which were rightly the responsibility of the state. A progressive Republican governor will join with the Republican Legislature to effectively deal with the problems of Essex County and New Jersey."

Celtics Hold League Lead

The Celtics moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Junior Soccer League with a 7-2 win over the Spartons last Saturday morning. Steve Milone again led Coach Dave Cooney's undefeated Celtics with four goals. Milone now has ten goals in three games. Timmy Mansfield scored two and Phil Rubenfeld one to round out the scoring for the Celtics. Gene McElroy, Emory Stapleton, Mark Seggel, Gene Pence and Brian Rizzolo also turned in fine games for the winners. Gene Cifrodelli scored both goals for the Spartons with assists from Bob Jones and Pete Ilaria.

TOROS 3, UKES 2

The Toros defeated the Ukes, 3-2, after two early breakaway goals by Russ Blank and Paul Milone put the Ukes ahead 2-0. Bob Forbes and Tom MacNicoll put the Ukes back in the game with two tallies. With one minute remaining, Steve Scardena scored the winning goal on a short pass from Warren Ost. Bruce Crowley, Chick Atkins and Tommy Roberts played well for the losers.

SANTOS 1, GENERALS 0

The Santos defeated the Generals, 1-0, last Saturday morning on a third period goal by Eric Zager. Allen Miller, Jerry Droppelt and goalie Mark Traver turned in good games for the Santos while Scott Davis, Steve Denholtz and Steve Jones turned in outstanding performances for the losers.

Information furnished to the West Essex Tribune regarding last week's Generals-Celtics game was in error: the Celtics won the contest, 5-2.

Next Saturday the Santos will meet the Celtics at 9 a.m. on the JV field, and the Generals will meet the Ukes on the varsity field at the same time. At 10:15 on the JV field the Spartons will play the Toros.

Newark Academy Loses to Delbarton

The Newark Academy football team fell victim to the Delbarton School this past Saturday by the score of 51-20. This was NA's first setback of the season against three previous wins.

The Green Wave was led by Gary Milanesi, who ran three yards to paydirt and then led the aerial attack by combining with Bill Turner for four touchdown passes. Terry Reagan also added his talents to the game by scoring a total of 21 points. Reagan kicked six out of seven extra points, one field goal, and scooted seven and 30 yards for two touchdowns.

Newark Academy's first score came in the third quarter as quarterback Kevin Kennedy ran 31 yards into the end zone. Earl Trent at halfback ran 26 yards for one TD and then ran 15 yards for his second. Kevin Kennedy barreled around end for the two point conversion play.

The Delbarton School is presently 3-1, as is Newark Academy. The Minutemen will host Wyoming Seminary this Saturday at Coursen Memorial Field in Livingston.

Zoning Board Denies Application For Expansion of Dry Cleaner

The Zoning Board of Adjustment this week denied a request for a variance which would have permitted the expansion of the North Hills Cleaners building on East Northfield road and Old Short Hills road. The variance would have permitted the existence of two principal buildings on the same lot, which is not permitted under the zoning ordinance.

The case was complicated by the agreement that was prepared at the time that Robert A. Gerber, the proprietor, bought the adjacent lot. The purchase was made with the intent of expanding the cleaning operation, and includes an old home which faces on Old Short Hills road. The agreement permits Annetta Menzel and her heirs the right to repurchase the part of the large residential lot on which their home is located. This would leave the balance of the lot to be used by the cleaner.

The option to permit repurchase will expire in November of 1972. Although Mrs. Menzel has died, her heirs still live in the house.

The decision rendered on Thursday evening by the Zoning Board cited the house as "an eyesore." The building itself, the decision noted, "is very badly in need of painting and repairs. The landscaping and trees on the property have been permitted to get out of hand and are most unsightly." The general appearance was termed "very offensive to the residents in the immediate area, and detracts from the appearance of our Township."

The Board noted in its decision that if the option were to be exercised, it could be said that the Board had in effect granted its approval to subdividing the residential lot. At the time the Planning Board approved the expansion of the shop, it was specifically noted that the Board would not favor such a subdivision. The Zoning Board, however, went one step further: it recommended that Gerber arrange to terminate the option agreement so that the house could be demolished as soon as possible.

Gerber was unable to obtain such an agreement, however, by the October 16 deadline set by the Board. The Board members voted on Thursday to deny the application, but with the note that the denial was without prejudice against a future variance request when the problems have been worked out.

To the Editor

Teenage Example

41 Bryant drive

Dear sir:

Let it first be known that this letter to the editor has no intent of malice, nor is it designed to down-grade the noble efforts of the Teen Concerned about People. It is, in essence, a reply to Mrs. Selma B. Dubnick's outburst of condemnation which appeared in last week's Tribune. If Mrs. Dubnick had made a small effort to learn about the contributions that Livingston teenagers have given, and still are giving, in every capacity to the human race, she would not be so quick to praise the few. It is sad indeed that all Mrs. Dubnick's letter has done was to alienate the many citizens who know; and has caused an evaluation of her opinions of Livingston, of its people, of its teenagers as totally ignorant.

Long before Mrs. Dubnick and her helpers conceived what they feel to be the first great contribution to the human needs of the inner cities; Long before Livingston's churchmen, politicians and its people marched through the ghettoes to show its people – "We care"; Long before awards, recognitions and praise were crowning the glory of the advertised, many of our teenagers were silently at this work with sincerity and with dedication. They rode the buses, they hitched a ride, they went by foot, they drafted the family car and the driver to take them to the places they were assigned. They worked in the schools, they worked in the hospitals, they worked with youth groups and they worked in the social agencies. They gave up their summers and their holidays; They left early in the morning and came home late in the afternoon, and for this! they received no rewards, no editorial recognition, no word of praise from our town fathers. But what they got in return was the sincere thanks and appreciation from those they helped. Here alone was a true relationship of people concerned about people – a giving bound together with a true affection.

And while Mrs. Dubnick heralds the greatness of a few, she should know that many Livingston young people are still very much concerned and still very much unheralded. Even at this moment, many of our youth in many colleges all over this land are still contributing. For what these kids have learned is a dependency on themselves, a dependency on their own talents, a dependency on their own ability to do their own thing. They do it with a little humility, a little honesty and are too proud to beg.

If there is any "honor" given to this town, it has been given by a long list of teenagers over these many years. If there were any "examples" set, let Mrs. Dubnick read the long roster of our accomplished youth in every walk of life. Yes, it is true, they have not won the Parent's Magazine award, but what all the children have won, as individuals, is the pride, affection, appreciation and respect from the hearts of all the people of Livingston.

Board Approves Tulip Ct. Variance

An application by Vincent Miseo for permission to build a home at 2 Tulip court was approved this week by the Zoning Board of Adjustment. The variance which was sought will allow from the street, rather than 50 feet as required in the zoning ordinance.

In its decision, the Board noted that the lot was of irregular shape, and that a brook flows through the rear portion. To build the home the required 50 feet back from the road would place the rear too close to the brook, it was felt.

The Board voted to allow the variance, stating that it was preferable to have the front yard a bit shallower than is normally required than to have the back yard endangered by the brook.

Hadassah Board To Meet Tonight

The Livingston Chapter of Hadassah will hold a board meeting tonight, Thursday, at 8:15 p.m. It will be held at the home of Phyllis Weiner, 9 Rock Hill drive. Mrs. David Erlbaum, president of the chapter, will report on her recent trip to the 55th National Convention of Hadassah in New Orleans, which she attended as the delegate from Livingston.

Board Approves Enclosing Porch

Robert E. Kephart of 226 East Cedar street received permission from the Zoning Board of Adjustment this week to make a family room out of an existing porch on his home. Kephart needed a front yard setback variance to enclose the porch.

Mrs. Beatrice Kephart testified that the porch was in need of repair, and they felt that it would be advisable to build a family room rather than patch the porch. The size, she said, will not be changed.

In approving the enclosure, it was noted that the front door of the house will no longer be at the front, as is required by ordinance. The Board also granted its approval of putting the front door at the side of the building.

McCarthy Retires From Burrelle's

Blaine Allen McCarty, personnel manager for Burrelle's Press Clipping Bureau, Livingston, retired this week after 20 years with the firm.

McCarty is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Lehigh University. He formerly resided on West Lawn road, Livingston, for 11 years. He was active with the Livingston Safety Council prior to moving to Mendham a few years ago. Ther he was chairman of the Mayor's Advisory Committee and served as an elder in the Hilltop Presbyterian Church.

McCarty and his wife, Dot, were honored last week with a surprise party by the employees of Burrelle's. They were showered with many retirement gifts. They will settle in their Holmes Beach, Florida, retirement home.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarty have two married daughters – Mrs. William M. Newport of Naperville, Illinois, who has two daughters Lisa, nine, and Leslie, seven. Also Mrs. Charles D. Bury of Charleston, South Carolina with two sons, Charles, four and Thomas, two.

The LWV Forum

12 Laurel avenue

Dear sir:

Last Thursday, October 16, I attended the candidates debate sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Livingston.

At this debate I had the opportunity to listen to all four Assembly candidates and felt I could draw an opinion about which two candidates would receive my support in the coming election.

Though all candidates are well spoken, one candidate impressed me above the others. That candidate was Gerard Simons.

I felt that Mr. Simons addressed himself to positive programs and not past statistics or petty political statements.

I also noted that Mr. Simons has been the only candidate to date that continually had articles in the Tribune that described his position on current citizen and community requirements.

I must congratulate the League of Women Voters and the Tribune for giving the citizens of this community a realistic opportunity to pick a candidate.

For one thing, he can be extremely useful to you. He's a remarkably well-trained life and health insurance counsellor. And the insurance field, these days, is complex enough to require considerable expertise.
For another, he's low pressure by training and conviction. He's the kind of man who understands there are times when "no" is the only sensible answer.
That's a refreshing combination. Good common sense and an uncommon grasp of what it takes to protect you efficiently. Call him.

Miss Fleming Bride of Joseph Hand

At a Nuptial Mass in Immaculate Conception Church, Montclair, Miss Barbara Anne Fleming, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Fleming of Upper Mountain avenue, Montclair, became the bride of Joseph Francis Hand. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Hand of Ross road, Livingston.

The bride's uncle, Monsignor Edward J. Fleming, acting president of Seton Hall University, officiated.

A reception followed at Mayfair Farms, West Orange.

She wore an ivory silk satin gown designed with scoop neckline with a scalloped lace edge of Alencon. The bodice was fitted to a modified empire waistline with satin sash laced through to center back with bow. Her skirt was a semi-sheath with lace cascading from either side front and terminating at the hem with scalloped lace. The gown had a removable circular train.

Her Camelot cap of matching satin and lace was attached to a bouffant veil of illusion, and she carried a small bouquet of stephanotis.

Mrs. William Rafferty was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. William A. Keegan, Jr., and Mrs. Peter J. O'Connor, also sisters of the bride; Marilyn Fleming, cousin; Andree Brulatour, and Mrs. Mark Warter of Boston. They wore gowns with floor-length sapphire satin skirts, ivory lace bodices and mandarin neckline. Empire lines were emphasized with candy pink sashes. Their headpieces were matching pink bows.

Robert Ronzoni of Port Washington, New York, was best man.

The ushers were Joseph Fleming, Jr., brother of the bride; William Raftery, Edmond Tuton, Daniel Gearon, and Vincent Amabile, Jr.

Rosalind Keegan, daughter of the bride's sister, was the flower girl; and Peter O'Connor, Jr., son of the bride's sister, was ring bearer.

The bride is a graduate of Lacordaire School and Marymount College, Boca Raton, Florida. Mr. Hand, an alumnus of Boston College, is presently serving actively with the U.S. Navy Intelligence, Newport, Rhode Island, where the couple will live when they return from their honeymoon in California. The bridegroom's father is the retired treasurer of Tootsie Roll Industries.

Very Tight Race In Soccer Conference

The Livingston High School soccer team defeated Boonton, 3-0, last Wednesday afternoon on Livingston's turf. The Lancers scored three quick goals in the first period to put the game out of reach. Pete Milone scored two and Roy Vandermark one while sophomore Bill Cece had two assists. Although they failed to score again the Livingston squad control led the game, with Phil Giubardo, Joe Cifrodelli, Bill Hammer, Cece and Milone moving the ball.

Livingston's defense was tight as they registered their fourth shutout performance of the season. Mitchell Jerome and co-captain Jeff Rose shared the duties in the goal, while Ira Cohen, Rich Lombarski, Steve Hall, John Harris and co-captain Marty Recht turned back all Boonton threats.

Livingston is now just two points out of first place, now held jointly by West Essex, Parsippany and Morristown. The Lancers will meet West Essex at North Caldwell as the Tribune goes to press this Wednesday afternoon, Mountain at home Friday, and Morris Hills, also at home, next Wednesday.

JUNIOR VARSITY SOCCER

The Livingston JV soccer squad played Boonton to a 0-0 tie last Wednesday afternoon on Boonton's field. Lee Perkins, goalie Ricky Jordan and Steve Zients turned in creditable performances for the junior Lancers.

Grasso Reviews Proposal Changes

The Republican contender for surrogate, attorney Anthony E. Grasso, presented an outline of changes for improvement in the Essex County Surrogate's office to the East Orange Bar Association at its recent meeting. Grasso is a Livingston resident.

The Republican candidate stated that an immediate survey should be made, utilizing outside experts and employees, to streamline office procedure.

"It is of primary importance," he stated, "that service to the community be quickened as well as improved. Understaffing and lack of sufficent office space are among the obvious wrongs that must be made right."

He added that attorneys will be encouraged to have their forms prepared in advance, and he is planning to institute the use of a fact sheet which lawyers will fill out and mail in advance to his office to speed up the action.

Grasso noted that another problem to be met was one of educating the public to the services of the Surrogate's office. He and his deputies will make a point of attending county civic functions to explain the surrogate's duties and office procedures. He promised to make himself available to all lawyers for consultation at all times.

Among the surrogate's duties outlined by Grasso were administrating estates of decedents, minors, fiduciaries and incompetents; determining the legality of deceased persons' wills; appointing guardians of minors and their property; processing adoption applications; auditing accountings of executors, administrators, fiduciaries and guardians, and appointing executors and administrators to handle deceased persons' property.

Marilyn Horne To Sing at YMHA

The YM-YWHA of Essex County, 760 Northfield avenue, West Orange, will begin its "Dance-Drama-Music-Series" on Saturday, November 1, at 8:30 p.m. in the Maurice Levin Theater, with international operatic celebrity Marilyn Horne.

The outstanding series of events will consist of six evening performances as follows: Marilyn Horne, mezzo-soprano, on November 1; Die Fledermaus, Turnau Opera Co., on November 30; Beveridge Webster, pianist, on March 8; the Alvin Ailey Dance Theater on March 19; Cafe La Mama Troupe on April 12; and "The Tempest," National Shakespeare Company, on May 3.

This first performance precedes the first appearance of Miss Horne with the Metropolitan Opera this season, as well as presenting to Essex County communities a neighboring resident. Miss Horne is married to conductor Henry Lewis of the New Jersey Symphony, and resides with their daughter Angela in Orange.

Marilyn Horne was born in Pennsylvania and grew up in Los Angeles, with her father acting as her first teacher. She attended the University of Southern California where she studied under a scholarship, and majored in singing; thereafter she attended master classes conducted by Lotte Lehmann.

Don Abeles walked away with all the honors this week, putting his name on all three honor rolls for the men and taking two first-place positions for the year. Bowling with the Business Men's League, Don took this week's high game honors with 258. On the high series list, he took the week's honors with 673, and that score is also the best so far in the young season. The same is true in our two-over-210 category, where Don had scores of 258-232 to take both the weekly and yearly honors.

Our yearly scoreboard, of course, changes every week. It might be noted that the 2-over-210 category for the men is based on the best LOW score. Thus games of 234-230 will rank higher than games of 254-226. The intent is to honor those bowlers who produce consistently good scores but don't qualify for the high game honors. The same is true in the three-over-160 category for the ladies.

To continue with this week's outstanding bowlers, Ed Fullaway of the Church League was the only other entry on the men's high game list. He had a 255 game, the new entry in third place on our yearly list of Livingston's best bowlers.

Bill Harriott is a two-time winner, with a 620 score on the high series list and entries of 224-215 for the two-over-210 department. The only other entry on the men's side of the roster is Chuck Koch, with scores of 212-210 in the American League.

Turning to the ladies' side of the roster, we have no entries at all this week on the high game listing. The qualifying score there is 200, and so far Betty Jensen holds the year's record with 226, bowled during the first week of activity with the Livingston Ladies' League.

Ellen Dorn tallied 528 to put the Church Women's League on the high series list.

In the final category for the ladies, three games over 160, four ladies qualified for honors. Carol Feid had scores of 172-167-162 in the Friday Night Quartettes. In the Livingston Ladies' League, sub Ann Petriw had 177-163-161 and Mary Fish had 165-165-160. Dot Giezendanner completed the list with games of 178-171-161 in the Women's League.

HERBERT J. MITSCHELE, left, chairman of the Association of former Livingston Mayors, greets Republican gubernatorial candidate William T. Cahill as Mrs. Mitschele looks on. Former mayor Mitschele, who served in local givernment for 25 years, remarked, "I supported Bill Cahill since he first announced his candidacy because his progressive policies as a congressman are just what we need in Trenton. Sixteen years of one-party rule have left too many problems unsolved."

use of the parking lot, Borks said that many of the workers come in car pools or by bus. The average number of cars in the parking lot during the August-October survey, he said, was 27.

To guard against future problems, Borks said he would be willing to guarantee the construction of additional parking facilities if it was considered necessary by the town's zoning officer. Kruger noted that the company's property was more than adequate for such a contingency.

No residents of the area attended the meeting to address the Board. Following the close of the presentation by the applicants the Board reserved decision on the matter.

Have Demonstation Of Team Handball

The latest sport accepted for the 1972 Olympics was demonstrated for Heritage Junior High School students last Friday. Team handball, now being played on every continent except Australia, is a game that combines the skills of hockey, soccer, basketball and football into one fast moving, aggressive game.

Dr. Peter Buehning, chairman at the U. S. Team Handball Federation of the AAU, and Jeff Duncan, Recreation intern for the Department of Recreation and Parks in Livingston, explained and demonstrated the game to combined physical education and health classes. After the brief instruction period both boys' and girls' teams, composed of students who had never before played the game, performed for the remainder of the class.

Additional instruction will be given and more games will be played this Friday evening from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Heritage Junior High School gymnasium. All junior high students, both boys and girls, are welcome.

Town to Sponsor Halloween Party

A Halloween party for children seven to 11 years old will be given by the Department of Recreation and Parks in cooperation with the Inglemoor Nursing Home on Wednesday, October 29, at 7 p.m.

Games will be played and various prizes will be awarded. Inglemoor patients will serve as judges and present awards for outstanding costumes.

Children should assemble in the Inglemoor Nursing Home lobby at 7 p.m. on October 29 for the start of the program. Costumes should be worn by all children.

Hold Open House At Day Care Center

Mrs. Thomas Duguid and Mr. and Mrs. William Myers, all Livingston residents, will assist with an open house to be held on Sunday, November 2, by the Essex Unit of the New Jersey Association for Retarded Children. The open house will be at the new day care center at 444 Williams street, East Orange, from 3 to 5 p.m.

The day care center is operated by the Association for Retarded Children for the benefit of children ineligible for preschool classes given by the Essex Unit or the trainable classes of the public schools. There is no fee charged, and transportation is provided for the children.

Asks Permission For House Addition

The Zoning Board of Adjustment this week heard an application by Eugene Terry of 26 West drive for permission to build an addition on his house. The addition would include a family room on the first floor and a bedroom and sitting area on the second floor. The Board would have to grant a variance to permit the addition to extend into the required sideyard.

Terry testified that he had planned the addition to make it look like part of the original house, and not like a recent modification.

A neighbor, John Grady, said that he had not seen the final plans, since Terry had made changes in the proposal even after submitting it to the Board. The Board suggested that the matter be recessed so that the changes could be incorporated in the plans, and Grady could examine the result.

Following the recess, Grady said that he had no objection to the plans. The Board voted to reserve decision on the application.

Board Approves Two Variances

Two variances were granted by the Zoning Board of Adjustment at its meeting on Thursday evening, October 16. Zachary Minion of 17 Billingsley drive received permission to build a garage which would encroach upon the required sideyard.

In the meeting it was noted that if Minion's lot were rectangular, instead of wedge shaped, he would not need to have a variance. The front of the lot, however, is narrower than the rear, resulting in the encroachment.

In another case, Nicholas G. Barbaro of 10 Harding place received a variance to permit an addition to his kitchen. The addition will include a lavatory and an extension of the existing kitchen. The plans submitted to the Board indicated the extension of the existing side and rear lines of the house, to which the Board had no objection.

Township Council To Accept Streets

Application for acceptance of the following streets has been received by the Township of Livingston: Tarlton drive, Thurston drive and Tuxedo drive as shown and laid down on a certain map entitled, Map of Cherry Hill, Section Five; drawn by Harold J. Hamilton Associates, Dated 18 December 1962. Also Tulip court, Tanglewood drive and Troy drive as shown and laid down on a certain map entitled, Map of Dogwood Estates, Section 2A, Map of Dogwood Estates Section 2B & Map of Dogwood Estates, Section 1. All drawn by George C. Stewart Assoc. and dated June 19, 1964; Oct. 1, 1964, & March 15, 1963 respectively.

Any complaints, and their nature, should be directed to the Township Manager, Township Hall, 357 South Livingston avenue, on or before November 3, 1969.

The oldest church still standing in the Township is Livingston Baptist Church at the Center.

Firm Asks Cut In Parking Space

The Zoning Board of Adjustment heard testimony last Thursday night on the application of Berliss Bearings, Inc., for permission to reduce the size of projected parking facilities from 92 stalls to 41. The 92 parking spaces would be required in connection with an addition to the plant which has been approved by the Planning Board.

Attorney Andrew B. Crummy, representing the company, said that a survey of parking lot use since August showed a peak of 30 cars, although the plant already has substantially more space than this available.

Crummy noted that the new addition which is being planned will be used largely for warehouse space. Architect Rudolph Kruger added that plans had been presented to the Planning Board indicating how the requirement for 92 cars could be met in the future if needed.

Company secretary Bernard Borks testified that one new machine would be installed in the additional space. This automatic equipment, he said, would require two men to run it. These would be in addition to the company's 60 present employees. Borks said that about 14 of the employees are on a night shift, and five are office employees. Regarding the

THE VIETNAM MORATORIUM
WHAT NEXT?

Last week, in response to a request for my views on the then-approaching Vietnam Moratorium, I replied as follows:

"So long as it remains peaceful, so long as it provides a constructive forum for debate and education and persuasion, so long as it adheres to the American tradition of free expression and assembly, I support the October 15 Vietnam Moratorium.

"An end to the killing and destruction in Vietnam must be our country's primary objective, just as I am certain it is the President's. Whatever our differences concerning the ways and means of ending the war in Vietnam, the American people can be united, and should be united, on the basic goal of peace.

"The war in Vietnam affects us all, and the fruits of peace will benefit us all. We are all involved. As a free people, participating in an open and democratic society, we each have the right and the responsibility to speak out."

This week, just three days after the Moratorium, I believe it is fair to say that the hopes reflected in my statement have been more than confirmed.

Whether Moratorium participants numbered a million or ten million or, as one enthusiast estimated, half our 200-plus million population, and whatever one's views about the war may be, the events of Wednesday, October 15, were a deeply impressive manifestation of convictions about the war which an increasing proportion of our people hold very strongly.

A MEMORABLE EVENT

One gets the impression from press and television that there was much that was memorable about this Moratorium: the dignity and orderliness of most of the demonstrations; the vast variety of means which participants found to express their beliefs (prayer, formal religious services, "teach-ins," speeches, discussions, silent witness by candlelight, and song); the restraint generally shown by demonstrators and counter-demonstrators toward each other: the support it received from the "silent center" which did not march but read the literature, signed petitions and had words of quiet encouragement.

For me, however, the most striking single aspect of October 15 was this: that the two sides commonly called hawk and dove seem now to be closer together than ever before. Even among the counter-demonstrators, there was no call for an expanded war. Everyone spoke, sang, shouted and prayed for peace. Each in his own way. Though Americans still express two opposing views of the war – that it is now and always has been morally indefensible, or that our intervention in Vietnam was legitimate and necessary to prevent communist aggression – we generally agree that the time has come to disengage. Our differences are largely ones of when and how: now or later, immediately or gradually, unilaterally or in concert with the South.

BUT WERE THEY RIGHT?

The question remains, however, whether the Moratorium position was or is the right one. It would not be evasive to reply, "yes and no." They were right to involve our people in this massive dialogue about our common problem. They were right to appeal to the national conscience. They were right to trust to freedom of expression and assembly. They were right in objecting to the killing and destruction.

But to immediate and unconditional and total withdrawal, I must answer "no." Because it wouldn't work! It wouldn't accomplish anything. Phased withdrawal, yes; faster disengagement, yes; an immediate end to the killing, by all means! But even if it were logistically feasible, immediate abandonment of our position in Vietnam would surely remove any remaining hope of stability and peace and independence in a country which has already suffered too greatly.

It is easy, and understandable, to argue that we should never have committed our forces to war in Southeast Asia (and I agree), that the various Saigon governments have been unable to win the support of their own people and hence are undeserving of our own, that corruption is the only thing that has flourished in South Vietnam, and that we should, therefore, get out now. But these arguments, important as they are, do not support this conclusion.

The issue is what is best for us, for the people of Vietnam, and for peace in the world. That issue can only be defined in terms of present circumstances and present possibilities – not the past.

If we can end the war and stop killing – the first priority – without turning the country over to the communists or without unleashing a new and bloodier civil war there (and both consequences would likely follow a too-abrupt U. S. departure), then I believe we have an obligation to do so. I believe this is President Nixon's objective, just as it has been mine for several years. And I believe we can accomplish it.

IMPORTANT PROGRESS

In our natural anxiety to end our tragic entanglement in Vietnam, it is easy to minimize the extend to which this President has brought us back toward peace. He has firmly resisted all pressures to escalate the war. He has continued the halt in the bombing of North Vietnam. He has withdrawn substantial U. S. forces. He has significantly reduced the U. S. offensive in the South (both bombing and search-and-destroy missions). He has increased funds and personnel for the pacification and rebuilding of the country. All this in 9 months and, by all the evidence (including reduced casualty lists), with considerable success.

I am not suggesting we should be satisfied with this rate of progress, encouraging as it is. We have much farther to go and little time left. Every day of unnecessary fighting and killing is a further burden on our national conscience.

This is why, for more than three years now, I have returned again and again to plead for a course of action which, to me, holds the greatest promise of the earliest end to the war – a mutual and enforceable ceasefire.

The ceasefire idea is not a new one, either for me or for many others – and, happily, the numbers of those who see the promise of this course are increasing. The President, himself, after an early repudiation of ceasefire, has recently been alluding more often and more hopefully to this possibility.

But it isn't as simple as it may sound. It's not enough to say we're for it. It won't suffice to ask the Communists to initiate it. And to try to use it as a one-shot ultimatum could be self-defeating.

TO BE CONVINCING

At this stage of the war, above all else we have to be convincing – convincing to ourselves, to the world, and to the enemy. Which is why I have proposed that we take the initiative, that we make the first move – and not just once, but three or four or five times, if necessary.

More specifically, I have proposed that we announce to all concerned that on a date and time certain the U. S. will suspend all offensive military operations in South Vietnam; that we will hold our fire long enough (at least 3 days) for the enemy to respond affirmatively, though remaining prepared to defend ourselves against attack; that we will prolong such an informal ceasefire so long as the other side does the same; and that, even though hostilities resume as a result of communist action, we shall, as of another early and specified date, again cease military action – and again and again.

I do not pretend to be a military strategist. And obviously, the bare outline I have sketched above would require much careful planning. But I have been persuaded for more than 3 years now that something like this plan might work. Though there can be no assurance of success, it would seem well worth trying. For it would be convincing. It would demonstrate dramatically our desire to end the fighting. It would make it increasingly difficult for the North Vietnamese to say no. And it would entail relatively little risk, especially in light of the already lowered level of conflict. We have so little to lose and so much to gain.

If such a plan succeeded, it would encourage more fruitful negotiations in Paris. It would buy time to withdraw our forces in a more orderly fashion and to permit the assumption of greater responsibilities by the South Vietnamese. It would provide greater opportunity for the Saigon government to broaden its political base and attract new and stronger internal support.

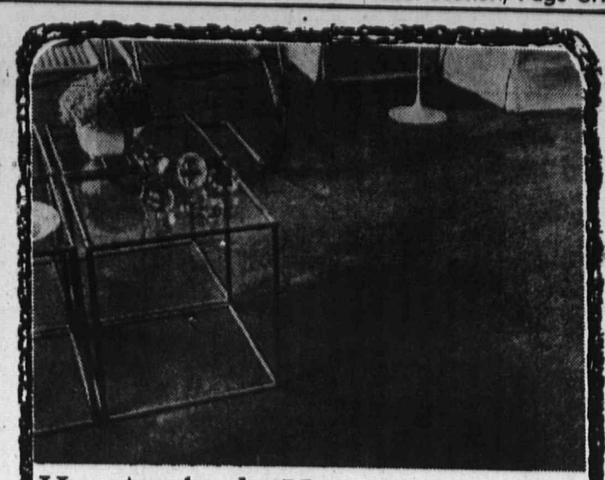

Above all else, it would stop the killing.

Cross to Judge Awards Program

Upsala College professor Donald Cross of Livingston has been appointed a regional judge for the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards program for 1969.

Judging committees, composed of teachers of English from both college and high schools will evaluate the writing skills and literary awareness of more than 7,500 selected high school students. The Achievement Award Program attempts to grant recognition to high school seniors for excellence in English. Finalists are announced in late November and are recommended for scholarship aid to all colleges and universities in the United States.

Professor Cross, who resides at 16 Park drive, received his bachelor of arts degree at Bowdoin College and his master's at Harvard University. He previously taught at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at Dartmouth College.

Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?

Carpets and Rugs by Karastan from $8.95 sq yd.

Not any Kelly green. Our client was looking for a carpet with just the right shade. One of our professional design consultants found the perfect answer in a lush, plush Karaston carpet.

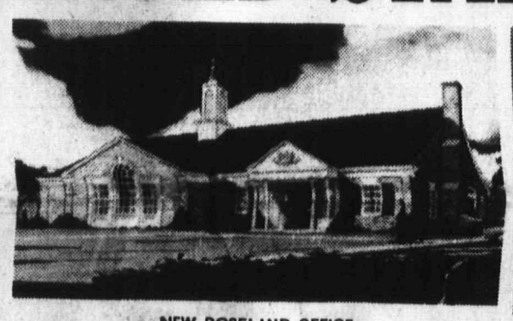

And as an encore he drew a floor plan and helped our lady with her furniture and fabric selections, too. At Rug & Design Fair feats of decorating derring-do are done daily. There is no charge for this talent . . . you pay only for the things you buy. And we have small price tags in matching colors.

WHAT IS A PHARMACIST?
Your pharmacist is an expert on medicines. Formerly, he prepared, stored and compounded most of the medicines in the prescriptions written by the doctor. Alhough your pharmacist today does less compounding, he must know a great deal more about medicines and their ingredients.
Your pharmacist must know how to combine medicines and their effects on the body. His knowledge assures the safety, accuracy and the purity of the prescriptions he dispenses. Your pharmacist is also your family friend. He is interested in your health and wants to help you protect it. We are proud when a family chooses us to be their personal pharmacy.
YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Kean and Kaltenbacher Cite Lowlands Bill Benefits

Assemblymen Thomas H. Kean and Philip D. Kaltenbacher (R-Essex), key supporters of the historic meadowlands development legislation, said this week that the project will have "a tremendous impact on the economy of northeastern New Jersey and the rest of the state." They called the bill creating the Hackensack Meadowland Development Commission "one of the Republican legislature's most important achievements."

New Jersey officials have estimated that up to $300,000 new jobs will eventually be created by development of the 18,000-acre area, which is larger than Manhattan. The development plan will qualify for federal aid totaling $300 million for reclamation of the area.

"The effects of the meadowlands development plan – at last a reality after a century of legislative deadlock – will be felt for decades to come. The plan will serve as a pilot project for other reclamation-development programs throughout the state," Kean and Kaltenbacher said.

The orderly, coordinated plan to develop a modern urban complex from marshland said to be worth at least $1 billion, will constitute the largest reclamation project ever attempted by the Federal government east of the Mississippi River.

Assemblymen Herbert M. Rinaldi, Philip D. Kaltenbacher and Thomas H. Kean check map of the Hackensack River meadowlands prior to making an air inspection of the area. Assemblymen Kean and Kaltenbacher were key supporters of the legislation, which is expected to bring up to 300,000 new jobs to the redeveloped meadowlands area.

"This is truly a first in the kind of social and physical planning we need," Kean and Kaltenbacher said. "Development of the meadowlands will bring job opportunities that much nearer urban areas of poverty and serious unemployment."

Plan Art Auction To Benefit Charities

B'nai B'rith, Livingston Lodge 2143, and the Livingston Scholarship Foundation will hold its second international art show in Livingston on Sunday, November 23. An art auction, featuring oils, drawings, water colors, etchings and lithographs, originals and reproductions, including works by such artists as Chagal, Renoir, Picasso Dali, Goya, Cezanne, etc., will be sold at 2 p.m. at the Livingston Knights of Columbus Hall, 85 Beaufort avenue.

The art work will go on preview at 1 p.m. Sunday, November 23, one hour before the sale begins. At least 150 pieces of work will be on display. Coffee and dessert will be served from 1 p.m.

This joint affair is the second for both the B'nai B'rith Lodge and the Scholarship Foundation, with all monies received pledged to the charitable enterprises of both organizations. B'nai B'rith supports the Leo N. Levi Hospital in Denver, Hillel Foundation on college campuses throughout the country, including Rutgers State College, Essex County Vocational Guidance Department for aptitude testing services, the Anti-Defamation League and many charities.

The Scholarship Foundation provides scholarships to graduating students of Livingston High School with average or better grades who have demonstrated a need for an initial start to further their education, and an indication of willingness to rely on self-help. Scholarships have been given by the Foundation for the past eight years.

Admission to the art auction will be by ticket only. Tickets may be secured from any member of the B'nai B'rith Lodge, Northfield Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women, board of governors of the Livingston Scholarship Foundation, or directly from the auction chairman, Max Klayman, 992-0333 or 992-0482. Tickets may also be secured at the door on a first come basis, and will be limited in number.

Firestone Wins Variance Extension

On the request of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, the Zoning Board of Adjustment this week granted an extension on the variance previously obtained for construction of the company's store on East Mt. Pleasant avenue.

In seeking the extension, Firestone noted that there had been complicated legal problems in clearing the title to the land. The site had previously been occupied by the Livingston Library, and deed restrictions had been numerous and difficult to resolve.

Since the company did not want to begin preparation of exact building plans without knowing whether the land could be used, no progress was made during the legal process of clearing the title. The request was for a six-month extension of the variance, with construction of the new building to begin before the extension expired.

In discussing the matter the Board decided to limit the extension to three months, as is customary in such cases. It was noted, however, that the applicant would be free to seek an additional extension at the end of three months if that was necessary.

The captain, a 1959 graduate of Livingston High School, received his B.S. degree in mechanical engineering from Newark College of Engineering and was commissioned there in 1964 through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program. He has also studied at the University of Oklahoma.

To the Editor

18 Year Old Vote

Dear sir:

Tuesday, November 4, is election day in New Jersey, as well as in America. But in New Jersey, there is a most important referendum on the ballot; that of the 18-year-old vote. This bill will be a platform upon which other states will jump upon if, and only if, that platform is built with a solid foundation. It can be only if the resolution is passed. Because this is the first time that a progressive, liberal, and industrial state, has had a bill of this type before the people, all other states of a similar nature will be looking on with a great deal of interest as to the result of the elections.

We can only urge the voters of Livingston to vote, and just as importantly, vote for the 18 year old. The arguments are just as valid as they are simple: 18 year olds serve their country, work, pay taxes and are legally responsible for their actions, yet they have no practical way of expressing their views within the structure of today's American society. This, to us, does not make much sense. 18 year olds today are, on the whole, mature and quite politically-aware citizens. They not only want the right to vote, they deserve it.

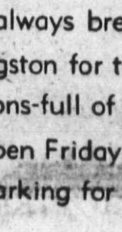

As individuals in the 18-21-year-old bracket, we can say that it is undoubtedly a most frustrating period, politically. Along with our peers, we have strong convictions on most poltical issues, yet have no real media to voice these opinions. We want a media, namely the election booth. Therefore, we have committed ourselves to work for this goal. We sincerely hope that all students reading this will stop and think – think if they want the power of one vote. That one vote is multiplied 350,000 times in New Jersey alone. It means a lot. If you want the vote, then go out and work for it. Talk to people and try to convince them. People listen; it will be proven November 4th.

Sincerely,
Mike Chimes

Simons Proposes Monorail System

Gerard M. Simons, Democratic candidate for the State Assembly in District 11-F has presented a rapid transportation proposal to the State Transportation Department which he feels should be incorporated in the present highway construction program.

Simons, in describing his proposal, said that all new highway construction should consider a parallel rapid transit monorail system that could be constructed in the same phase as the highway program.

"When we witness the vehicle congestion on the county roads leading into the greater metropolitan areas," Simons continued, "then we can truly understand the lost time and inconvenience that those of us that drive to work are experiencing."

Simons stated that the average driver will spend 45 minutes to one hour traveling from the center of Newark to the Livingston area in a frustrating line of stop-and-go traffic.

"When in reality," continued Simons, "the eight-mile journey could be covered by monorail, with passenger stops, in less than ten minutes."

Simons stated he would follow up his proposals and request that the State begin a study in January to incorporate his suggestion with the current highway construction in the Livingston-Essex area.

Miss Oldham Sends Greetings from Chile

Miss Candace Oldham, a resident of Livingston now studying in Linares, Chile, on an American Field Service student exchange program, wrote to the West Essex Tribune this week as her school term comes to an end.

In her letter, Miss Oldham wrote:

"I would like to take this opportunity to once again extend my greetings from my corner of the world and to especially give a very warm welcome (slightly belated) to Marie and John. (Editor's note: Marie and John are the two students now studying at Livingston High School as AFS exchange students from abroad.) I know perhaps better than many how you feel in a strange school and with all those new people, but my main problem right now is just how to say goodbye to everyone here.

"My school year is almost over now, we get out on November 14 and graduate in December. Coming up we have my school's day and a benefit for the school, also election of the queen; therefore I'll be kept quite busy.

"I had forgotten until now, but a very happy Halloween to all!"

Miss Oldham is scheduled to return to this country after a tour of Chile in time to resume her studies at Livingston High School for the second semester of the current academic year.

Legion to Have Halloween Dance

Livingston Post 201, American Legion, will open the 1969 social season with a gala Halloween Dance (costume optional) at its Post Home on Beaufort avenue on Saturday, November 1.

For reservations, members may contact Commander Gabriel Gallo, 992-2853, or John Gamba, 992-9118.

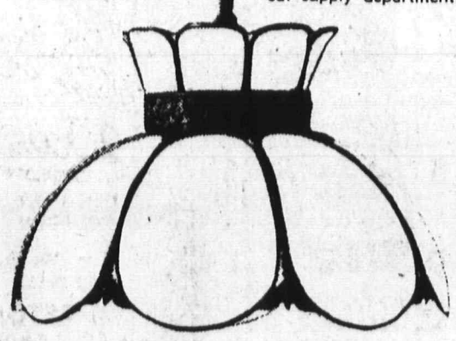

Aid Family Service

Mrs. Joseph C. Wilson, Jr., of Livingston was elected to the board of trustees of the Family Service of West Essex at the 39th annual meeting on October 15.

At the meeting, Mrs. Charles F. Ebsen, also a Livingston resident, was appointed to her third term as president. Dr. Hyman W. Fisher of Livingston was named first vice president.

The Art of Home Decor

by DAVID BROTMAN

Do your building or remodeling plans call for a fireplace? If so, don't settle for the ordinary. The fireplace has come a long way – beginning with a hole in the wall, it now has colors and forms never dreamed of by the man who rubbed two sticks together. The first step is to decide what your fireplace could do besides burn wood. Perhaps you need separation between your living and dining area? There are free-standing room divider fireplaces with convenient table tops! How about a free-standing unit made of glazed ceramic in a bright color for the family room? All these fireplaces can be installed easily!

Again, don't settle for the ordinary! At ORANGE SHADE & FLOOR COVERING CO., 272 Main Street, Orange, 673-4212, we offer a highly personalized and creative decorating service. We custom-make all types of window shades in our own workroom. We carry all types of floor coverings in all styles, shapes and colors.

HELPFUL HINT: Wrap hammer handle with electrician's tape to prevent slipping.

We're sponsoring another student sit-in.
A very exciting and unusual one, too. It's taking place in Chicago right now—at the National Youth Conference on the Atom.
We're extremely proud to sponsor the attendance of seven outstanding high school students from New Jersey. We're proud because they will be demonstrating their positive concern for tomorrow. The concern that is shared by the overwhelming majority of America's youth.
And by us as well.
