Volleyball Team Defeats Three Opponents; Team's Winning Streak Stretches to 17-0

The girls' volleyball team defeated three SEC opponents this past week to improve its record to 17-0. Nutley, Mt. St. Dominic and Montclair Kimberly Academy have become the latest to fall to the Lady Lancers.

Not only did the varsity defeat Mt. St. Dominic, 25-19, 25-14, in two games at home, but the Pink Event held at the same time raised more than $1,300 for the Susan G. Komen/North Jersey Affiliate. The fund-raising activities included decorating a cupcake, a luminary dedication, raffles and a serving contest. The event was packed with not only Livingston fans but supporters from Mt. St. Dominic as well.

In the Nutley match, the Lancers won by scores of 25-13, 25-19. Strong setting by Gayle Edelstein allowed for the strong hitting of outside hitters Christine Lee and Julie Kane, who kept the Nutley defense off guard. Middles Tory Fogg and Sasha Libson used timely kills and a strong block to turn back Nutley's offense. Opposite Autumn Wickstrom kept the Lancers' offense balanced with her attacking and blocking. In the back court defensive specialists Julia Viggiano and Rachel Cherny along with Libero Mallory Russo did an outstanding job digging and serving.

On Monday, the Lancers travelled to MKA and won in an exciting 25-20, 25-23 match bringing their record to 17-0.

The Lancers are currently ranked eighth in the state and first in Essex County.

This week the Lancers will play Verona on Wednesday in the annual senior game. This year the three senior captains, Hanna Anderson, Christine Lee and Autumn Wickstrom, will be honored at this event. On Friday, the Lancers will be host to the fourth-ranked team in the state, North Hunterdon.

School Board Candidates Discuss District's Weaknesses

In an effort to help the community compare the two candidates, Buddy August and Barry Funt, for the one full term on the Board of Education, which will be decided in the November 4 election, the West Essex Tribune, with the help of the League of Women Voters, has posed a series of four questions to the candidates. A one year term and a two year term will be filled by Ronnie Konner and Ron Spring, respectively. Both are running unopposed and will make statements in the week before the election.

The League of Women Voters of Livingston, a non-partisan organization, has emphasized that its goal is the promotion of political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government. The League does not support or oppose any candidate and has formulated these questions in an effort to help educate the voters.

The candidates have been allocated 300 words per week to answer the questions or to present views on other topics. In the last edition before the election, the candidates will be asked to make a summary of their campaigns. This week the candidates were asked, "What do you think are the top three weaknesses of the Livingston education system that need to be addressed? What would you do to improve them?

One of the most important decisions that's before the school district is our future superintendent. We need more careful criteria so as not to repeat recent unsuccessful choices, and we need to start an immediate search so we can fill this important leadership role as soon as possible. Some people argue that we should wait until the salary cap set by the state sunsets in two years, but most school districts will pay whatever the cap is to keep a good superintendent. So if we wait, we'll likely still be in the same situation we're in now, but with two years wasted. Instead, we should focus our search outside the box, on great principals and assistant superintendents who are prepared for the next step.

Another important problem we need to tackle head on, and one I hear from parents and staff about the most, is technology. We must be sure we buy or lease the right equipment at the right price. And there has to be proper supervision and training so that each grade level is in sync throughout the system. It's especially important that the elementary school curriculum is consistent throughout the district so that when our children enter middle school they're equally prepared.

The third problem with the current system is "soft borders." When you buy a home in town you expect your children to go to their neighborhood school, not one across town. We must make sure we have enough classrooms to accommodate the neighborhood children. And when the hundreds of new housing units are completed at Squiretown and Dubrow's we need to have space for those children in their neighborhood schools too.

Since I have been elected to the Board of Education, delivering the best educational experience for our close to 5,800 students has been our focus. We achieve this by listening carefully to the voices of parents, administrators, teachers and students, and supporting, encouraging and challenging the administration as necessary. I am aware that many in the community feel that the review of the collapse of CP-1 and CP-2 remains incomplete. It is a priority for the BOE, and we have confidence that Mr. O'Neill, our interim superintendent, will be able to present to us a thorough and unbiased view of the merits of the practice and make any requisite recommendations.

During my tenure, the BOE has urged the adoption of more technology to enrich the curriculum so that our children can not only have a more robust learning experience, but also will be better prepared for the new PARCC testing that the state requires our students to take electronically. More important than the investments in broadband and the purchases of Chromebooks and laptops, one of the more significant developments has been the increased focus on professional development so that our teachers can incorporate technology into their every day delivery of curriculum. On October 13, LPS experienced a comprehensive day of hands-on training, which will be followed up by classroom sessions in each school building throughout the year.

Last week during the candidate forum, my opponent admitted that "he had no idea" why the district purchased Chromebooks and demonstrated a lack of understanding of both the applicability and the educational

Police Apprehend Man Suspected Of Breaking into Cars to Steal Purses

A 45 year old Pennsylvania man is in custody, facing multiple charges in connection with several motor vehicle break-ins and the theft of women's handbags.

Beginning in mid-September, Livingston police received reports of car windows being smashed and women's purses being stolen from KinderCare on Old Short Hills Road, the West Essex YMCA on South Livingston Avenue and TutorTime on South Orange Avenue.

A surveillance video showed an African-American man with a shaved head get out of a light blue Lexus RX with Pennsylvania license plates and commit one of the thefts. Unfortunately, the license plate was illegible.

Police recovered a purse stolen from a car parked at TutorTime behind KinderCare and a handbag taken from a car at KinderCare behind a McDonald's restaurant on Northfield Avenue in West Orange. Surveillance footage at that location revealed additional information.

On Wednesday, October 8, Livingston Police Detective Chris Reinhardt set up surveillance in the parking lot of TutorTime and observed the light blue Lexus driving around the parking lot. When the driver realized he was being watched, he pulled out of the lot. Det. Reinhardt recognized the driver as the man seen in the surveillance tapes and arrested him. A knife and a pry bar were found in the center console of the Lexus.

The suspect was identified as Garett

Burglars Enter Notch Hill Dr. Home

Several expensive watches were taken by burglars who entered a residence on Notch Hill Drive sometime between October 7 and 8.

Hyh-Ming Jiaa called police at about 11:30 a.m. on October 8 to report that intruders had entered his home and ransacked the bedrooms and office. He told police that the home had been unoccupied since 7 p.m. the previous evening.

Responding officers found a window screen on the ground and a first floor window open. Pending a further inventory, the family reports that two Rolex watches as well as a Seiko and a Citizen watch were missing.

FCWalk Adds Virtual Elements

Last fall 2,000 people turned out for the annual Friendship Circle Walk to raise money for programs and after-school activities for children and teens who have special needs. Organizers plan to increase that number on Sunday, October 26, when this year's walk is held at the Friendship Circle in Livingston.

Participants are already busy organizing their friends and family into teams for the 5K run and one-mile walk. This year, some of those teams will include out-of-town friends and family thanks to a virtual walk-along component being added to the event.

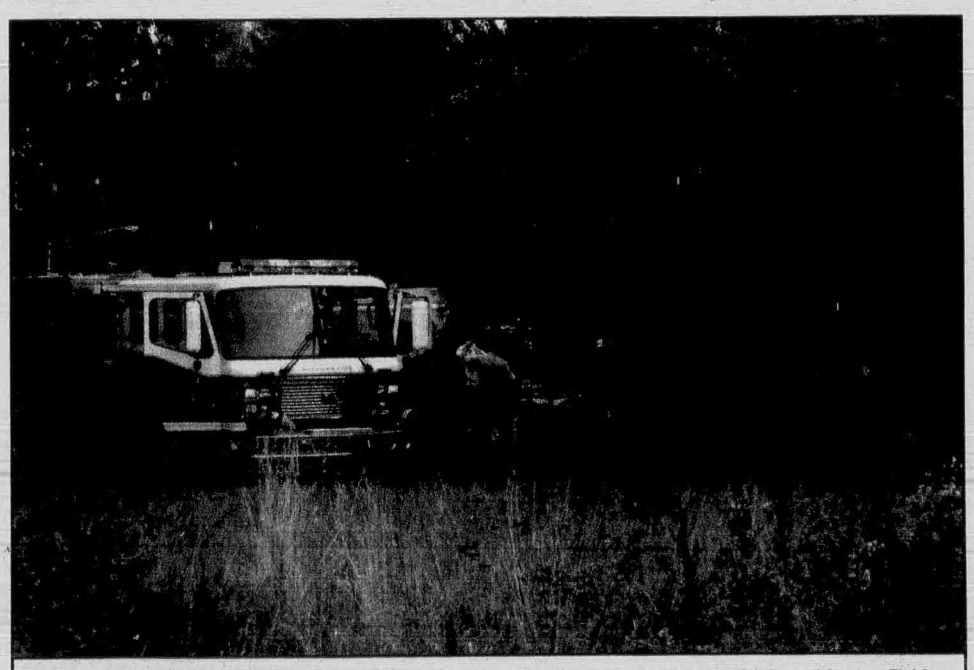

Utilizing the Web and various social media, walk participants around the world will post photos of themselves walking using a common hashtag – #FCWalk and @fcnj – enabling their efforts to combine with walkers in Livingston.

"The response from out-of-town alumni and supporters to the walk has been heartwarming," says FCwalk organizer Levi Grossbaum. "We knew we had to do something to bring them along with us during the walk, so this global addition is being added. Participants in Israel and Florida have already registered to be a part of this special day. It's really an amazing thing."

That, however, is not the only virtual element to this year's walk.

There will be Tweeting, Facebook-

SUMMONSES WERE ISSUED to one of the drivers involved in a two-car motor vehicle accident on Friday, October 10, at the Route 10 traffic circle. According to the police report, Geoffrey J. Varga of Randolph, driving a 2014 Acura, was traveling northbound on Eisenhower Parkway along the inside lane of the traffic circle and attempted to make an illegal left hand turn. His car collided with a 2011 Infiniti driven by Angela Morrison of Summit, who was traveling southbound on Eisenhower Parkway. As a result of the collision, Morrison's vehicle went off the roadway and came to rest in some shrubbery. Morrison was trapped in her car and had to be extricated by Livingston Fire Department members. She was taken to Morristown Medical Center for treatment of arm and back injuries. Police issued two summonses to Varga, one for making an improper turn and one for obstructing the passage of other vehicles. MB Photo

Lancer Boys' Cross Country Team Records Fast Times in Conference Championships

The American Division High School Championship Cross Country race was held Tuesday, October 7, in Branch Brook Park in Newark, with the Livingston High School boys' cross country team competing. The boys of Livingston turned in their best race of the season, recording the team's fastest team average (18:09) for the year. The team took seventh place overall behind Millburn, Columbia, Seton Hall Prep, Montclair, Montclair Kimberley Academy (MKA) and West Orange, while picking up wins over Caldwell, Newark Academy and Bloomfield. Coach Jim Memory noted, "The race was nothing but exciting to watch, with state-ranked Millburn High battling Columbia for the team trophy, a close race up front for the individual title, and a lot of close finishes."

The festivities started with the boys' two-mile race. "The freshman team was eager to run their last race at Branch Brook Park for the year," said the coach. The team was led once again by freshman stand-out Eric Mooney, who finished in eighth place out of 92 freshman boys in the race. Mooney finished the race in a season's best time of 12:02, which was 14 seconds faster than his previous best time.

Mathew Feresten was second for the Lancer boys with his 12:56 finishing time, which landed him in 25th place. Recording a personal best time as well was Steven Arnold, who improved his time by 18 seconds, finishing in 13:23. Rounding out the top five for the freshman team were Evan Tong and Varun Maheshwari, who helped the team finish the race with a total of 119 points for a fifth place team finish. Also running well in the freshman race were Ross Coleman, Sam Krull, and Lucas Rosenblum.

The second race of the day for the boys was the combined junior varsity race. The boys were led that day by sophomore Brendan Lindsey, who recorded his best time on the course by running the five kilometer trail in 20:17. He was followed two seconds later by his teammate, Hoi Kwan. The third Lancer to cross the line was Kevin Sweeny. "Sweeny has been improving nicely throughout the season and closed hard over the last mile, picking up a couple of places along the way," commented the coach. Eric Leff, Jeff Chen, Alex Lee, Eric Schneider, and Germano Tsihlas also ran well. The junior varsity squad finished the day in ninth place out of 13 teams.

Varsity Competition

"With some exciting early races out of the way, the Lancer varsity squad eagerly toed the line at 3:40 waiting for the start of their race," recounted coach Memory. "Seniors Matt Scavetta and Pat Tonero were focused on the race ahead, but in the back of their mind they knew it was their last time running the course and they wanted to finish on top."

Tonero was the first Lancer to finish, crossing the line in 17:06 to earn tenth place and a medal to take home. Scavetta recorded his best time on the course, finishing in 18:39. Sophomore stand-out Max Shapiro ran the best race of his young career, joining Tonero and T.J. Herman as the only Lancers to finish sub-18 on the course this season. Shapiro started the race in the back of the pack but worked his way toward the front, passing several runners in the final 800 meters on his way to recording a time of 17:57.

Captain T.J. Herman also had a solid day of running, with a 17:26 finishing time. The Lancers' fifth through seventh runners, Mike Ciccone, Ranvir Bhatia and Ben Bergamasco, ran most of the race in pack formation, each contributing to the team's success. "The three will be working hard together to close the time gap between runners one through five in the line-up in future meets," explained the coach.

Greystone Invitational

Later in the week, the boys were back in action at the Greystone Invitational, at which the team posted an average time of 17:49. The race got out to a very fast time with all 78 varsity runners running through the mile marker in less than six minutes. Pat Tonero was out with the leaders at the mile marker, flying by in 5:02 and not slowing down. He put together a 5:28 second mile followed, by a strong finish. His total time of 16:39 was the fastest time recorded by a Lancer in school history. His performance landed him in eighth place overall and earned him a medal.

T. J. Herman also ran well, passing a few athletes in the final mile to finish 23rd in the race with a time of 17:14. Matt Scavetta had a big day for Lancer green, running arguably the strongest race of his career at 18:09. Max Shapiro, Ranvir Bhatia, Ben Bergamasco, and Mike Ciccone also ran well in the race. Bhatia's time of 18:59 was his first sub-19 minute time recorded in a Lancer uniform.

Overall, the team finished in seventh place right behind Sparta. The two teams were tied but Sparta picked up sixth place by winning the tie-breaker.

The freshman team of Eric Mooney, Ross Coleman, Mathew Feresten, Steven Arnold, Evan Tong, and Lucas Rosenblum finished third as a team out of nine, the boys' best finish this year.

At the junior varsity level, the Lancers had some great performances, especially from sophomores Brendan Lindsey (19:29) and Kevin Sweeny (19:35). This race marked the first time the boys went sub-20 minutes this season. Germano Tsihlas had a great day, as did Eric Schneider, who ran a 20:39.

Livingston will be host to the Lancer Invitational this Friday, October 17. The first race will start at 4 p.m.

Resident Is Fined For Not Cutting Grass

A Livingston resident was fined in Livingston Municipal Court this week for a property maintenance violation.

Robert Metz of 17 Coventry Road pled not guilty to violating a property maintenance ordinance requiring that grass be cut. Metz was fined $250 and court costs of $33.

BANDS TEAM UP: VH1 and Republic Records "Make A Band Famous" winner Fancy Reagan is teaming with finalist Pastele, which features Brittany Dippold of Livingston, to play at Mexicali Live in Teaneck on Saturday, October 25. The two bands met on the show in June. Both Pastele and Fancy have been working in the studio and the two groups decided it was time to join forces back on stage. Tickets are available on-line at Cityofpastele.com/tour. Among the thousands of bands that originally applied, Dippold's band, Pastele, landed in the top five on VH1's "Make A Band Famous" with the help of celebrity mentors such as Travie McCoy, Bonnie McKee and Chris Daughtry. The event was streamed on VH1.com for 24 hours so people could vote while each band worked on daily challenges.

Livingston Resident Joins Dream Team

Coat Drive Launched; Immediate Need Served By Pre-Kick-Off Donations

The fourth annual Livingston Coat Drive officially kicked-off yesterday, Wednesday, October 15. In partnership with the West Essex Tribune, Livingston resident Jeff "The Coat Guy" Friedman and his Coat Drive "Dream Team" of volunteers will be collecting gently used and new winter coats, gloves, scarves and hats for distribution to the needy.

For the fourth year, the coat drive will deliver these badly-needed items to a variety of distribution partners in Newark and East Orange. According to Friedman, "Each distribution partner has the mission of helping the very poor and homeless. Some are social service agencies, others are church-affiliated and many feed the hungry in their soup kitchens every day." He continued, "These partnerships are key to the coat drive fulfilling its mission of providing warmth to the poor, homeless and disenfranchised."

On Monday, October 13, Friedman received a call from a Newark service organization with an immediate need for coats and accessories. The Jamaica Organization of New Jersey (JONG) is helping student-athletes who are visiting Essex County College in Newark and came here unaware of the need for coats, hats and gloves. This Saturday, October 18, JONG will distribute these items along with toiletries to the needy athletes at the college. "For those reading the Tribune on Thursday or Friday," said Friedman, "we are delivering what we have for the student-athletes late on Friday or on Saturday morning. I urge folks with coats and accessories to drop them at the Tribune office or e-mail me at jftv1@verizon.net for immediate private pick-up."

Friedman has also announced that another Livingston resident has joined the Coat Drive Dream Team this week. In response to an article in the Tribune, Candi Samansky will be assisting with pick-up, short-term storage and distribution deliveries. She joins Livingston residents Bob Gebroe and Adam Slavitt, Caldwell resident Rick Levin, and another new Dream Team member, Friedman's sister-in-law, Joyce Friedman of Montclair.

Jeff Friedman concluded, "the coat drive blasted-off last year, collecting 1,500 coats and hundreds of accessories. From early indications, I'm thinking that we'll visit hyper-space this season. Please donate now!"

Drop-off locations for this year's Livingston Coat Drive include the West Essex Tribune, 495 South Livingston Avenue, Livingston; and Village Laundry Center, 213 Bellevue Avenue, Upper Montclair.

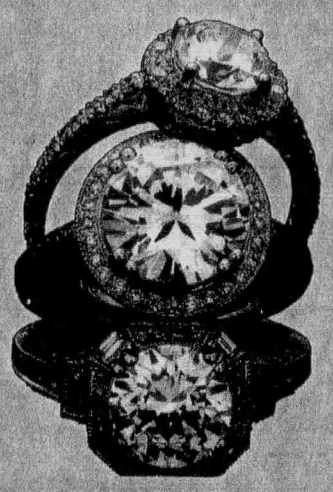

For private pick-up in Livingston, e-mail Jeff Friedman at jftv1@verizon.net; and in Montclair, e-mail Joyce Friedman at aquinnah98@aol.com.

Football Team Sees Record Slip To 2-3 After Loss to Chiefs

by Bob Towey

The Livingston varsity football team suffered its third straight loss this week when it fell to the Caldwell Chiefs, 25-14, at home on Friday, October 10.

Livingston started the game with a touchdown on its first drive of the game. On Caldwell's six-yard line, quarterback Matt Gibbon passed the ball to wide receiver Greg Glassman. After a completed extra point from Mark Silvestri, Livingston took an early 7-0 lead.

However, when Caldwell took the ball next, they tied the game up, 7-7, with a 30-yard rushing touchdown and a completed point after. The Lancers and Chiefs played evenly for the rest of the quarter, with neither team scoring any more points.

In the second quarter, Caldwell extended its lead on a 47-yard receiving touchdown play that saw them take the lead, 13-7. After allowing that touchdown, the Lancers' defense held fast, and stopped the Chiefs from scoring again for the rest of the quarter. Both teams played evenly in the second quarter, and Livingston remained down by a touchdown heading into halftime.

The Chiefs built on their lead in the third quarter, scoring another touchdown. This time, the score came on an 82-yard passing play, which gave Caldwell a 19-7 lead. However, Livingston would not be silenced in spite of the growing deficit. When the Lancers took the ball on their own 18-yard line after giving up the last touchdown, Gibbon threw a short pass to halfback Jonny Schreiber. Schreiber then ran 80 yards for the touchdown. After another extra point from Mark Silvestri, the score was 19-14.

After Livingston's touchdown, Caldwell took possession, and moved the ball from the Lancers' 44-yard line all the way to the four-yard line. A strong defensive effort from Livingston prevented the Chiefs from bringing the ball into the end-zone, and Caldwell settled for a 24-yard field goal. Entering the fourth quarter, the Chiefs led, 22-14.

The game continued to stay close in the fourth, with both teams playing very even football. However, Caldwell dealt the final blow to Livingston with a late 28-yard field goal that gave the Chiefs a 25-14 lead and handed the Lancers a tough loss at home.

Several of Livingston's players performed very well on Friday in spite of the loss. On defense, Zach Marini recorded nine tackles, Chris Mattia, Mark Silvestri, and Justin Stevens each had eight tackles, and Ian Bambrick had six. Offensively, Jonny Schreiber led the Lancers in rushing yards with 41. Schreiber also had a team-leading 122 receiving yards, with Mark Silvestri and Jarrett Birnbaum recording 39 and 38 receiving yards respectively. Quarterback Matt Gibbon went 18-for-30, rushed 13 yards, threw 254 yards and two interceptions as well as two touchdowns, the first to Greg Glassman and the other to Jonny Schreiber.

Commenting on the defeat, head coach Barry Kostibos said he thought that the Lancers "played very well in spots... but lacked consistency on both sides of the ball, which affected us negatively throughout the game."

Now that the team has lost three straight games to conference rivals, Kostibos knows his team has to "be productive on offense, capitalize on situations that come our way, and get stops and turnovers on defense. If we put those things together, we're going to be in a good situation moving forward." Heading into their game at Nutley on October 18, coach Kostibos says that the Lancers "will win if we continue striving for consistency and overcome the mistakes and penalties that we've encountered over the last three weeks."

Livingston is named in honor of William Livingston, the first governor of New Jersey, who served from 1776 to 1790.

Marion Toffic

Summer Memorial For Marion Toffic

Marion Toffic, long-time resident of Livingston, passed away peacefully on Tuesday, September 23, with her family at her side.

Born in Philadelphia on October 7, 1917, she spent her childhood in Duxbury MA, and Bergenfield, NJ, before marrying and settling in Livingston.

Throughout her life, Marion spent many wonderful summers at the family cottage on Mascoma Lake in Enfield, New Hampshire, which her family was lucky enough to enjoy with her and her husband, Leo, well into their golden years.

She was active in various local organizations in the Livingston area including the Presbyterian Church, Saint Peter's Thrift Store, Eastern Star and the Force House gardens to name a few. Marion was an avid gardener. She spent many hours in the Historical Society gardens as well as her own, doing what she loved; often sharing both her expertise and plants with many friends and family.

As she also loved to knit and sew, she frequently donated her work to civic organizations so it could be enjoyed by countless others. After moving from her home in Livingston, Marion decided to move to Washington State to be closer to her family. They have enjoyed her company there for the last four years.

Marion was preceded in death by her husband of 55 years, Dr. Leo Toffic. She is survived by brothers Steve Smith of Camden, ME, and Dick Smith of Waukesha, WI; sons Gregory Toffic and his wife Sally, and Jeffrey Toffic and Karen Ruel of Everett, WA, Christopher Toffic of Dover, NH, as well as five grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren, all of whom will miss her deeply.

There will be a celebration of her life this summer in New Hampshire, a place very close to her heart.

Opinion

Each Person Can Make a Difference

Each month of the year has a number of celebrations and observances attached to it. Some are quite serious and some are just plain silly. For example October is Apple Jack Month, Cookie Month, Eat Country Ham Month, International Drum Month, International Dinosaur Month, National Pizza Month, National Vegetarian Month, National Popcorn Popping Month, Sarcastic Month and Seafood Month. In addition, October's observances include Adopt a Shelter Dog, American Pharmacists, Clergy Appreciation, and Computer Learning. On a much more serious note, it's also been designated as a month to increase awareness of diabetes, domestic violence, lupus, and breast cancer.

While many of these so-called observances are frivolous and unnecessary, several of them are very worthwhile. But, it seems our community has really adopted October as Breast Cancer Awareness Month and there have been a large number of activities in the community to support this observance. The nurses of the Livingston Health Department have issued educational materials to help residents become aware of the symptoms of breast cancer. They have also tied pink ribbons around the columns at town hall to call attention to this disease. If just one woman is reminded to get a mammogram because she sees the ribbons, the efforts will be worthwhile.

The Livingston Mall is holding a "Paint the Mall Pink" event, tying retailers to the effort to raise awareness of breast cancer and, of course, Saint Barnabas Medical Center has a plethora of programs to help both men and women who have been stricken with this disease.

But what is most touching, we think, is the number of fund raisers being held by our youngest residents. Several of the athletic teams at Livingston High School have held – or are holding – special events to raise money to fight breast cancer. More than $1,300 was raised by the volleyball team for the Susan G. Komen/North Jersey Affiliate. The fund raising activities included decorating a cupcake, a luminary dedication, raffles and a volleyball serving contest. Not only were the Livingston girls involved, but the girls on the opposition team from Mt. St. Dominic Academy joined in and helped make the event successful. The field hockey team, too, is holding what they call Play4theCure to raise funds to fight breast cancer. That event will be held on Tuesday evening, October 21, and we hope the community will support it as they did the volleyball team's efforts.

Our children must be getting a good message about the importance of helping others. Not only are they raising funds for breast cancer awareness, they are raising funds for many other charities and not all the fund-raising is directly organized by the schools. Many little girls opt to cut off their long hair and donate it to programs which provide wigs to those suffering from medical hair loss. Many others have signed up for Cycle for Survival, the indoor cycling fund-raiser started by Livingston native Jennifer Goodman Linn to fund research into orphan cancers.

A Riker Hill family organizes a fund-raising Halloween party every year and donates the proceeds to a charity. This year the children raised almost $1,000 for the Comfort Project 360, which was founded by Livingston residents Hyla Weiss and Suzanne Unger. The program enhances the aesthetics, provides "simple comforts" and offers wellness programs for cancer patients and their families at Saint Barnabas Medical Center.

Not all of our children's fund-raising efforts go to cancer-related efforts. Another youngster was touched by the needs of nearby residents who need help putting food on their tables. This eight year old Mt. Pleasant Elementary student donated food to the Community Hunger Outreach Warehouse (CHOW) for her birthday and challenged both her brother and several of her friends to do the same. She – along with many other children in our community – is also gathering food for the town's Stuff the Bus collection which will be held later this month.

Still others raise money to help children with special needs. This edition of the newspaper contains a report of an effort by a team of youngsters to pull a Boeing airplane weighing some 93,000 pounds to raise funds for the Special Olympics and next week the annual Friendship Circle Walk will be held to raise money for programs and after-school activities for children and teens who have special needs.

And the list goes on. There are so many of our residents – like Jeff Friedman who saw a need for cold weather clothing by folks in nearby towns and began a coat collection which provided more than 1,500 coats to those without them last winter – who have seen a need and taken action. These folks have provided the very best role model for our children and the young people seem to be noticing.

Regardless of how big the problems of the world may seem, our kids are learning that each person can make a difference simply by taking the time to show kindness to the people around them. What a wonderful lesson they are learning – Let's hope the adults can learn it too.

Nancy's Notebook

By Nancy B. Dinar

It seems like a lifetime ago – and in reality, I guess, it was – that I was a working mom with a full-time job and three kids in the house. Fortunately, my husband, Richard, was – and still is – absolutely wonderful with kids.

I remember that 5 p.m. was always the "witching" hour when everyone was tired, cranky, and hungry – including me. Getting dinner ready, keeping the peace, and keeping my sanity were always difficult at best. Somehow, I miraculously managed not to kill any of my children and my marriage stayed intact despite the craziness.

I recently found myself back in that boat when I was suddenly called upon to pick up my three grandchildren from day care and watch them for a few days. The call came early in the afternoon and I spent the remainder of the day running around preparing for the kids' arrival. By the time I got to the day care center to collect them, it was nearly that awful witching hour of 5 p.m. and I was already exhausted.

When my kids were little, we didn't have the elaborate child restraint systems that they have today for cars and I found getting the three of them into their respective seats a little daunting. The six year old's booster seat was the easiest and she needed little help in buckling herself in. The almost-four year old was insistent that she could buckle herself in, but needed a great deal of help untwisting the four-point restraints to get them on straight. The eight month old began to scream the minute I put him in his "bucket" and attempted to fasten his restraints.

He normally sleeps all the way from day care in East Hanover to his home in Sparta, so once the car began to move, little Chase calmed down and dropped off to sleep. Unfortunately, my home in Livingston is a much shorter drive than to Sparta and he awoke the minute I brought him into the house. He began to howl as his sisters started to demand attention. Kayla, the older one, needed to change her clothes while her younger sister, Brooke, needed food. All three began to cry at once.

Then the phone rang. I hoisted Chase onto one hip as I attempted to answer the phone, which I could barely hear over the three crying youngsters. On the other end was my husband, wondering what we were going to do for dinner. "Dinner?" I shrieked. "I don't think I'll last that long."

In his calm, soothing manner, he managed to get me down from my suicide watch and we decided that cooking dinner was out of the question, opting for pizza as the easiest, most kid-friendly solution. One of the nicest thing about grandparenting is that you can spoil the kids with unhealthy food that they like. It makes staying over at Amma and Beeba's (that's us!) house a big treat.

Rich agreed to pick up the pizza on the way home and I began to attempt quieting the children.

Fortunately, I had all the makings of a bottle for the squalling baby. By this time, he had the hiccups from crying so hard. He was tired and hungry but had worked himself into such a state that he almost couldn't take the bottle. I wanted to cry myself but I still had to deal with the girls and their problems.

"Relax," I kept telling myself. "You've done this before and everyone seems to have survived okay." I took a deep breath and started directing the older two, sending Kayla upstairs to find something else to wear and hauling down a snack bag of Goldfish for Brooke. I found the Cartoon Network on the television and a most welcome quiet gently descended on the house.

In the few minutes of quiet that ensued, I wondered how I survived the 5 p.m. horrors all those years ago. Then the answer dawned on me: It was "all those years" ago and I was considerably younger then.

Join Veterans' Groups

Dear Editor:

Membership in the American Legion or the Veterans of Foreign Wars or the Jewish War Veterans is: "A veteran's opportunity to maintain that presence in the community, to remind everyone who served before and those who serve today. It's a way to bring us all together in a shared experience" – Joan Huffstutter, American Legion Magazine, August 2013 issue.

These organizations have supported veterans and veterans' interests for time immemorial, so why not join? The first year's dues are $0.00 as an inducement to enlist new members. What is the purpose of the VFW? Section 230102 of the Congressional Charter says it all: "The purpose of this corporation shall be fraternal, patriotic, charitable, and educational. To preserve and strengthen comradeship among its members, to assist worthy comrades, to perpetuate the memory and history of our dead and to assist their widows and orphans. To maintain true allegiance to the government of the United States of America, and fidelity to its Constitution and laws. To foster true patriotism to maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom, and defend the United States from all her enemies."

With Veterans' Day coming up November 11, 2014, if you are a vet, why not make it a goal to join a fraternal organization and enjoy the benefits of membership?

To the Editor:

An Enshrined Right

Dear Editor:

This is one of those times I have held off on responding to an issue to see if anyone else had the fortitude to do so, and again people remain silent.

On June 25, Brendan Tevlin was mortally wounded while sitting at a traffic light in West Orange. On July 18, the vermin was arrested. On August 4, the Essex County prosecutor announced the arrests of three more vermin and released additional information including involvement in other murders in Washington, assault, theft of a weapon, etc.

On August 7, I was disturbed because the Tribune used the tragedy for political purposes. An Editorial demanded that New Jersey, which has the third toughest gun laws in the nation, needed even stricter laws. And it's noteworthy to see how the Democratic members of the U.S. Senate are moving toward removing the First Amendment as an enshrined right. The two go hand-in-hand and to have an opinion is one thing but to be uninformed is quite another. The Tribune has stated publicly that the Constitutional right to bear arms does not "seem to bear merit" and refers to Militia as being the National Guard, which since the end of the Civil War is not. So who exactly is "The Militia?" Militiamen are not paid professional soldiers.

Militia, as defined in various Militia Acts, is made up of "all able bodied men between the ages of 17 and 45." That pretty much includes everyone except for a small group of politicians. Militiamen provide their own firearms and ammunition because if the government gives you a gun, they can take it away. Militia is a two-edged sword. It comes to the aid of the government during an invasion or a rebellion to maintain civil order, but then again is the force that ensures that the government itself does not become tyrannical. People who commit crimes are not Militiamen. They are criminals. It's disturbing to me that the Tribune is apparently pro taking of one enshrined right but, as I stated, if one right goes, so do others.

On August 18, it was reported that the vermin admitted in a July 21 confession to investigators that Brendan was murdered not in the name of guns but in the name of Jihad and the Islamic faith. To this day the Tribune has not reported this fact and remains silent. Where's the call for stricter Qur'an Control Laws? Or for the banning of the religion of peace that primarily focuses on death, destruction and bloodshed? Where is that passion that tells us that we must reject Islam?

Let's be consistent now. I know that not all Muslims are wicked Jihadists and we are always reminded that "we should not judge everyone in a group by the insane acts of a few." Well, not all gun owners are killers, so why isn't that same standard or admonition of "not judging everyone in a group by the insane acts of a few" not equally applicable to them?

How Long Have You Been Reading the Tribune?

Sabatino Costanzo, 43 Years

Sabatino Costanzo grew up in West Orange, and moved to Livingston in 1971. He recalls, "When we moved in, we got a Welcome Wagon package which included a copy of the West Essex Tribune. That's how we found out about it, and I've been subscribing ever since."

What is his favorite part of the paper? "I pretty much read the entire thing, want ads and all!" Costanzo laughs. "I always read the front page, and I like reading the editorials and the letters to the editor." Another don't-miss section, he says, is the "Livingston People" business news column. "I like to see what everybody's up to." In addition, "I look for articles about the organizations I belong to." These include the American Legion, UNICO, and the Old Guard.

Has he himself ever been featured? Through his membership in the American Legion, and as an officer in UNICO, he's been in the paper a few times. The only other time he or his family has been featured in the Tribune was for a very sad reason: his wife, Jane T. Costanzo, died in November of 2012, and her obituary appeared in the newspaper the following week.

Has he ever known anyone who worked for the Tribune? Costanzo recalls that he met then-editor and publisher Kit Cone as a result of an article in the paper. "The article noted that Kit was going to Africa, and needed storage containers to pack up donated supplies," he explains. "At the time, I worked for Hahne's department store, and they had just gotten a shipment of china in these big barrels. These cylindrical containers were about three or four feet high, and had tops that you could clamp on. We gave him three of them. It was a win-win situation – we were looking to get rid of them, and they were exactly what he was looking for!"

What would he like to see more of in the Tribune? Costanzo enjoys the special health sections the Tribune runs each month, and would like to see more informational articles advising people on health and financial matters.

In the meantime, he also really enjoys the Celebrate Livingston History sections that run twice a year. "They bring back a lot of memories, since I grew up just one town over." Costanzo recalls going to the Colony Theater to see movies with his sister and his future brother-in-law. "At that time, there were no stores across from the theater," he says. "We had to park across the street on what was basically on a dirt road!"

Although he lived close by, he says that, growing up, he rarely ventured up Mt. Pleasant Avenue into Livingston. "I remember that there was some kind of weird turn – I don't know if it was because of the brook, or some other geographical feature – that prevented the roadway from going straight through. This was back in the '50s. I'd love to see a map from that time period, because I can't exactly recall why the road had that odd turn in it."

Cancer Awareness At Livingston Mall

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month and Livingston Mall is marking the occasion with "Paint the Mall Pink," a community-based grassroots program featuring educational displays, health fairs, retailer offerings, special events and other activities that promote women's health.

On Saturday, October 18, from 1 to 4 p.m. in Center Court, the Livingston Mall is teaming up with Susan G. Komen to promote breast cancer awareness as well as help raise funds for the organization through a variety of "Paint the Mall Pink" activities. That day, and for the remainder of October, shoppers are invited to write a message of inspiration, hope or tribute and post it on the Pink Tree of Hope at Simon Guest Services.

RSVP volunteers Tessie Schpiro, Sarah Moskowitz, Ruth Palen, Arline Rubin, and Marilyn Goldberg meet at the Jewish Federation Plaza.

JFS to Operate Senior Volunteer Program

Jewish Family Service of MetroWest, which has an office in Livingston, has announced that it will operate the new Retired & Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) Center of Essex and Hudson Counties, through a three year federal grant. The Retired and Senior Volunteer Program Center of Essex and Hudson Counties will match volunteers with many local causes. It is a program of the Corporation of National and Community Service, a federal agency that engages more than four million Americans of all ages and backgrounds in service each year through its Senior Corps, AmeriCorps, Social Innovation Fund programs and President Obama's call to service, United We Serve.

RSVP is America's largest volunteer network for people 55 and older. Volunteers choose where to serve, how much time to give, and whether they will share skills they already have or develop new ones. Some examples of where volunteers may lend their expertise include, but are not limited to, helping seniors get access to the healthcare they need, providing critical disaster assistance, visiting home bound adults, assisting in classrooms or becoming a mentor to local youth, and serving veterans and military families.

To manage this new program, Jewish Family Service of MetroWest has hired two new staff members. Stephanie Grove, a licensed social worker, is the new director. She previously worked as a social work specialist for Bloomfield Township and as the volunteer coordinator for Neighbor to Neighbor Network (NTNN), a nonprofit which connects Bloomfield and Glen Ridge older adults in need to volunteers.

The new Hudson County program manager, Alexandra Nagy, LSW is bilingual and will be working from the United Way offices in Jersey City.

For more information on how to get involved, call Stephanie Grove at 973-637-1766 or send her an e-mail at sgrove@jfsmetrowest.org.

Press releases may be submitted to the West Essex Tribune by mail at P.O. Box 65 in Livingston; by fax at 973-992-7015; and by e-mail at TribuneEditorial@verizon.net.

County Clerk To Visit Livingston

The Essex County clerk's office will visit Livingston twice in November as part of its monthly "Outreach" to local municipalities.

Staff members from the clerk's office will be at the Livingston Public Library on Robert Harp Drive on Saturday, November 8, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and at Township Hall on Monday, November 17, from 2 to 7:30 p.m. The clerk's staff will be available to process passport applications, veterans' and physicians' licenses, and notary public oaths. Residents are asked to arrive at least one-half hour before closing.

Passports

All applicants must appear in person unless eligible to renew their passports by mail. (To be eligible, passports cannot be expired for more than five years after expiration date). The clerk's office does not process passport renewals. Residents may renew their passports by mail, if they already have a passport that is not damaged; received it within the past 15 years; were over age 16 when it was issued; and still have the same name as in passport (or you can legally document your name change). Full requirements and instructions are available at the US Passport Services Website.

Those who do not meet these requirements must follow the procedures for a new applicant, and apply in person.

Residents should allow four to six weeks for passport processing, and two to three weeks for expedited processing, for which a higher fee is charged.

Applicants 16 to 18 years of age may appear with only one parent unless they have a permanent driver's license.

Identification such as driver's licenses, government ID cards or previous U.S. passports may not be more than 15 years past date of issuance. Copies should be made of driver's licenses (or resident cards if non-citizens), front and back.

Residents must also provide two identical two inch by two inch, full faced light background passport photos. School photos are unacceptable. Photographs may be taken on site for a fee.

For more information on passport renewals, visit the Essex County clerk's website at www.essexclerk.com.

Council Candidates Discuss Public Works Garage

In an effort to help the community compare the seven candidates for the three seats on the Township Council, which will be decided in the November 4 election, the West Essex Tribune, with the help of the League of Women Voters, has posed a series of five questions to the candidates.

The League of Women Voters of Livingston, a non-partisan organization, has emphasized that its goal is the promotion of political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government. The League does not support or oppose any candidate and has formulated these questions in an effort to help educate the voters.

Each candidate has been allocated 300 words per week to answer the questions or to present views on other topics. In the last edition before the election, the candidates will be asked to make a summary of their campaigns. This week the candidates were asked, "What plans do you have for the public works maintenance complex on South Livingston Avenue?"

Rudy Fernandez
Democratic Candidate

There is a considerable amount of work to be done before any decision can be made about the township garage, and it would be irresponsible to give a definitive answer to this question without having complete financial answers to a multitude of possible scenarios.

Do we do nothing? Do we make necessary repairs to the current site? Do we rebuild at the current location or do we move it from its present location? Do we partner with another town or the Board of Education and build a joint facility? What are the long term costs, if any, of doing nothing and continuing to defer repairs and maintenance? What might we save by stopping the premature wear and decay of equipment if we were to enclose the current location? What, if anything, would we receive from a sale and from increased property tax revenue if the current location was sold for commercial development, and would this revenue offset the cost of moving the facility? What are the cost savings, if any, of consolidating the equipment and workers currently scattered in various sites throughout the town into one location? There are many issues that require careful and thoughtful analysis.

During my six years on the Council, it has never been my approach to give political sound bites to questions, but instead to offer well researched answers, based on projected costs or long term savings of actual studies of each possibility. It's easy to say let's not do anything, but what are the long term financial consequences of that decision? Before reaching a decision, I would require an analysis of the financial impact of each alternative, and carefully analyze and consider the current and long term impact to the taxpayers and to future budgets of each option.

Peter Boockvar
Republican Candidate

The decision on what to do with the current DPW site is made more difficult because a fully stacked Democratic party run Town Council decided to spend almost $50 mm on a new town hall and library that has left the town burdened with $100 mm in debt. Both buildings are crucial to the town but it's tough to argue that it couldn't have been done at a dramatically lower price. Unlike our federal government, local towns can't just print money to spend and can't rely always on the generosity of the capital markets to borrow money. We simply have to focus on spending only what we have in revenue.

After the previous spending sprees when Town Council was solely one party rule, I was amazed to learn how eager some were to spend another $12 mm to both purchase land and build another costly township facility. Luckily with a balanced Town Council as of 2010, another blank check was canceled.

I acknowledge the issues with the current site but instead of spending money we don't have on something brand new, I want to work within our existing budget, which means prioritizing spending, and work on improving the existing site that has served a similar sized population for many decades.

The only way I'll agree to a new facility is if it's done on currently owned Livingston property where we don't have to buy new land and the cost to build on it will be fully offset by a repurposing and sale of the existing site. Money doesn't grow on trees and Mike Rieber, Ken Merber and I will first look to utilize our existing resources rather than spending more money that we don't have.

Deborah Shapiro
Independent Candidate

The first thing that is absolutely necessary is to actually have a plan regarding the DPW – not to attempt to float a $2 million bond issue to purchase land that was already in negotiation for a new business in town. [The idea floated was that the township can sell the current DPW site for millions; but I don't agree that the town should engage in speculative ventures with taxpayer dollars (and each real estate venture I have seen on the Council has lost us money!)] This plan should provide for the least cost that will cover the necessary items needed for the complex – not to start with a Taj McGarage plan from which we might be able to 'back off' elements. I also think that there should have been a liaison from the Town Council when the initial plan was being developed to ensure that the needs of the DPW and the financial impact on the taxpayers are balanced.

The Council has been told that one of the reasons that we need a new DPW is that the current facility violates many OSHA regulations. It is unconscionable that the facility has not been maintained to standards, as it is our obligation as both a township and a Council to ensure the safety and welfare of our township employees as well as comply with governmental standards. If it is true that we are currently non-compliant, then I think that we must take steps immediately to correct those items. Yes – this will cost money in the short term that some may say should be saved to spend on a total rebuild. But, to do anything else is a dereliction of the Council's duty and a violation of the township trust.

By fixing what we have in the 'short term,' we can also give the taxpayers some breathing space before significant additional debt is added to the tax burden. And, I think that we should go back to the drawing board to see what is actually needed.

Dr. Shawn Klein
Democratic Candidate

There are several possible options for the Department of Public Works site:

1. Leave the site as is and do nothing for now.
2. Renovate the existing facility.
3. Erect a new building on the current site.
4. Purchase land and erect a building on a new site while finding a new use for the current site.

The first three options have some significant drawbacks: It has been determined that a six acre site is required to consolidate all of the DPW sites and the current site is too small, which leads to losses in work efficiencies such as manpower allocation.

Also, we do not have enough storage for expensive equipment. After 25 years, our fire trucks, which are kept inside, are in great condition. But we have even more expensive pieces of equipment which are left exposed to the elements which have to be constantly be repaired and replaced. Besides these issues, the current site is on prime town property and it may be possible to put it to better use.

There are several new sites which could be considered including township properties near the East Orange water reserve (if that is an option) or near the firehouse on the circle. Alternatively, the town has had discussions with an owner of a site on Industrial Parkway which could be possibly purchased and utilized. The price of such a purchase could be offset in part by both the sale of the current site and the new ratables created there.

As a Councilman, I will ensure that each of these possibilities are thoroughly vetted to see which will provide the best use and which is the most cost-efficient, keeping in mind that, it may be possible that leaving the current building as is may be the best option.

Kenneth S. Merber
Republican Candidate

The Livingston Public Works maintenance complex epitomizes the failed leadership of the past and underscores why we need to change politics as usual. It has come to my attention that Rudy Fernandez injected himself into a private property deal to block a resident's attempts to bring a sports complex to Livingston, opting instead to use his influence to try to purchase the property for the Department of Public Works. The private sale and planned project would have brought substantial revenue to Livingston as a result of the contemplated construction and the desperately needed tax revenues that would have been generated from the sports complex after the project was completed. Livingston would have generated real dollars from this endeavor. The sports facility would have been a creator of new jobs in our town. It would have rid the municipality of a dilapidated structure while bringing outsiders to our community where they would have shopped in our stores, eaten in our restaurants and utilized our facilities. The inexplicable meddling of our elected official resulted in the deal's collapse.

We, as a town, are now confronted with the reality of owning a structure that requires substantial renovation and the expenditure of taxpayer money to modernize or move the DPW. We must work diligently to either renovate the current site within the reasonable constraints of our budget or identify and sell the site to a prospective new purchaser. The latter option is obviously more difficult. Consequently, Livingston can no longer afford the policies of old under one party dominance.

I pledge that if elected and Livingston is compelled to move the DPW facility, I will not vote to relocate it to one of our residential neighborhoods.

Ed Meinhardt
Democratic Candidate

The current site of the Public Works Maintenance Complex (DPW), is a significant facility, that has operational deficiencies which directly impacts the budget in a variety of ways. However, before any decisions on what to do with this complex can be made, several questions must be asked. It is imperative and essential to determine financial implications on the following questions: Do nothing? Rehab the existing location? Options for changing the foot print at the current location? Can we relocate the facility off site? Is there a suitable partner, either a local town or the Board of Education to combine a new location together?

What is obvious with the current location is: The insufficient garage space for the current equipment has led to an accelerated rate of depreciation of the trucks and machines. This has led to an increase in repair costs year after year. By having the DPW in different locations throughout the town, it becomes increasingly difficult to redeploy employees to different locations where needed on a daily basis.

Before making any decisions on the current location of the DPW complex, a complete cost/savings analysis must be done on the above. This analysis must include the short and long term effect on the budget, and how it would affect each tax payer in town.

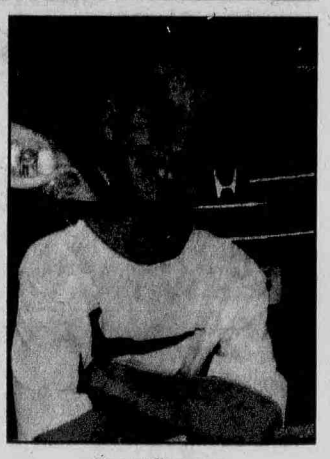

Dr. Michael Rieber
Republican Candidate

Part of the Council's obligation is to ensure that our streets are safe and drivable, our parks are maintained, the snow is cleared and the infrastructure sound. Our tremendous DPW does that and much more. They have been the backbone of the town and using the current DPW site for over 40 years. Unfortunately, past Councils, when deciding to bury us in $100 million of debt with the community center, library and the current $35 million municipal building, they overlooked the DPW.

Last year the Council was presented an opportunity to purchase property. From there we could build a $9 million DPW site. Cost was therefore well over $10 million. That plan was dead on arrival by almost everyone on the Council because of cost and after many other unsavory information was learned.

Instead of buying property, we must look to utilize the land our town already owns, which would save taxpayers millions. One Council member actually wanted to explore property in the middle of residential areas. That was squashed and those properties will never be looked at while I'm around. If feasible, we need to explore a DPW site with everything they need (not want) while ensuring we don't repeat the mistakes of the past and waste millions of dollars on a bloated government project. We will make sure residents have the final say on major projects by putting those projects up for a public vote.

This is not a Republican or Democrat, right or wrong question. We all live and want nicer, newer, bigger and better. My children want lots of things, but my job as a responsible adult is to sometimes say no. It's just common sense and along with Peter Boockvar and Ken Merber, we will develop a long-range financial plan and continue to fight for taxpayers.

Drew Gassman

Hold Fund-Raiser For Local Child

"Keep calm and fight on" is the rallying expression of a "fun" raiser on November 1 for Team Drew at the Sports Universe in Livingston.

Drew Gassman, a student at Harrison School, was diagnosed in late August with acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL). He spent a month at the Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital at Columbia Presbyterian "where he received the best care round the clock," said his mother, Apryl. "Fortunately so far, he has reacted very well to the chemotherapy and has been feeling great. We have a long road ahead of us, but the outpouring of love and support from family, friends, and the community has been so incredible and has truly carried us through. Feeling grateful and blessed during such a challenging and difficult time are certainly not feelings we anticipated, but are happy that we have."

The fund-raiser on Saturday, November 1, will feature sports, games and refreshments for children ages five through seven between 5 and 7 p.m., and events for children ages eight through 11 between 7:15 and 9:15 p.m. A fee will be charged and the proceeds will benefit Team Drew.

Participants are asked to register by Saturday, October 25; forms may be downloaded from the West Essex Tribune website at westessextribune.net. The PDF registration form can be found on the right hand side of the website's homepage.

SKILLMAN DOORS: WINTER IS ON THE WAY! Remember last year's long, cold, snowy winter? Skillman recommends preparing for bad weather before it arrives this year. There's nothing worse than getting home at the end of a long day, when it's cold and dark, to find that your garage door won't open; or being cold and uncomfortable in the room next to your attached garage. Servicing your garage door now, or replacing the weather stripping, can help avoid these problems later in the season. If your garage door warrants replacement, insulated doors with high R-Factors can save money and help keep the rooms above or next to the garage warmer during cold winter months. Manually operated doors tend to be left open for longer periods. An automatic garage door opener can insure that your garage door will always be closed upon departure – reducing heat loss and heating expenses. Don't let your garage door keep you cold this winter. Call Skillman Doors, 973-748-1110, or visit skillmandoors.com. Then sit back and relax while Skillman's expert technicians take care of the rest!

The Best Time to Plan a New Kitchen

The experts often say that if you purchase new kitchen cabinetry between October and December you'll most likely get the best end of year pricing before the manufacturers' first quarter price increases.

We suggest you plan your kitchen remodel based upon the events in your life. For example, if you are having Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners then you might put a deposit on the project to hold this year's pricing and start your remodel in January.

Calculate that it should take between 4-8 weeks for the entire process to be completed because you'll need demolition, plumbing, electrical work, installation, tile work, etc., all to be coordinated in the most efficient time schedule possible.

With that said, stop by our showroom to take advantage of our spectacular Fall Sales going on right now through November 17th.

The sale will be held on Thursday, October 23, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; on Friday and Saturday, October 24 and 25, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and on Sunday, October 27, from 1 to 4 p.m, when the organization will again hold a "bag sale."

Members of Friends of the Library will have pre-public access to the sale on Wednesday, October 22, from 2:30 to 8:30 p.m.

BookFEST will feature some 12,000 items, said Board treasurer Teresa Allard. "Over the years, patrons have come to look forward to BookFEST as a source for wonderful books at greatly reduced prices," she commented.

Books, many in mint condition, have been sorted into categories, so browsers can easily find their areas of interest. In the children's and teens' section, there are hardbound picture books for the very young, beginning reader books, books for middle schoolers, and various teen series as well as graphic novels. The adult fiction sections feature science fiction/fantasy, mystery/thrillers, romances, classics including poetry, plays, and short stories, and general adult fiction.

There are hundreds of volumes of non-fiction including cookbooks, self-help/parenting, biography, and history/culture. There are separate groupings for crafts/hobbies, the arts, sports, religion, Judaica, science, business, humor, travel, and reference.

Allard noted that the sale will have a large foreign language section including books in Chinese, Russian, Hebrew, and other languages.

First Editions Offered

This year BookFEST is introducing a small section devoted to specially-priced editions. "Since this is our first foray into first edition selling at BookFEST, we are still deciding which books among our first edition collection we will be offering at this time," explained Allard. Under consideration are fiction and non-fiction books by authors such as Sinclair Lewis, W. H. Hudson, Sir Walter Scott, and Charles Darwin.

Also featured are a wide selection of DVDs for adults and children, including some full seasons of TV shows along with recent movies, a selection of audio books, and music CDs. Hundreds of Playbill Magazines, including some from plays and shows from the 1950s and 1960s will also be available, as will a selection of games, puzzles, and table-top toys.

The sale will offer several slightly used "my sibling" dolls, said Allard. "We are very excited about this because the dolls come with a special message – one of understanding for children who learn and grow differently," she explained.

Allard noted that the sale offers great prices. On Sunday, the last day of the sale, patrons will have two purchasing options. They can buy individual books at BookFEST sale prices or they can purchase bags and fill them to the brim. The specially priced first edition books are not included in the bag sale.

Allard reminds readers, "For those of you who cannot wait until BookFEST, the Friends Ongoing Sale features three book cases of print and non-print media with some 1,200 items. It is open during all library hours. "The stock which we sort by category is replenished semi-weekly, so we hope patrons will come in and browse," she said.

Allard added that Friends is looking for adult volunteers to help staff BookFEST.

Friends of the Livingston Public Library is a non-profit 501c(3)entity, and proceeds of the sale are for the sole benefit of the library. Friends sponsors the Children and Teens Summer Reading Program and several series of library programs such as Music Matters, Think Theater, and Literary Liaisons. Friends also funds the popular Museum Pass Program and the E-Reader Experience which allows patrons to borrow e-readers with pre-loaded books as well as the purchase of hundreds of books yearly and the subscription to Book Page.

Make Halloween Crafts At Livingston Library

The Livingston Public Library will offer "not too creepy" crafts just in time to decorate for Halloween, said Anna Coats, head of children's services.

These drop-in crafts, including three dimensional paper pumpkins, and candy corn and pumpkin "stained glass" out of tissue paper, can entertain the whole family.

The Halloween crafts event will take place on Thursday, October 30, between 8 and 9 p.m. Registration is not necessary. All are welcome as long as supplies last.

YMCA Holds Healthy Food Day

A smoothie contest, food demonstrations and parent/children play time are just some of the ways the Metropolitan YMCA of the Oranges will celebrate Healthy U/Food Day this month.

"Our goal is to inspire families to eat healthy and exercise through these fun-filled events that culminate on Food Day," a nationwide celebration of healthy, affordable and sustainable food on October 24, said Elizabeth Youngstein, the Metro Y's director of healthy living.

The Ys, including the West Essex YMCA in Livingston, are supporting Healthy U, a program created in 2008 by the New Jersey YMCA State Alliance and the Horizon Foundation for New Jersey to combat childhood obesity through nutrition education, physical education and family involvement. "The celebrations on October 24 and the week leading up to it kick off a commitment to a healthy lifestyle that will benefit children throughout their lives," Youngstein said.

At the West Essex Y, the school age childcare program is participating in its inaugural Healthy Smoothie Contest, with kids experimenting to create a recipe that is both healthy and delicious. The top three recipes, chosen by ShopRite dietician Christine Patorniti, will compete for the top honor at the Y's Fall Family Fun Festival on Sunday, October 19.

Recipes will be posted at www.facebook.com/LivingstonFoodDay

The Y, in partnership with the Livingston Food Day committee, has already held a food-themed film screening, a quinoa and chili cook-off, and a Stuff the Bus food drive, among other events.

Kwok Breaks 20 Minute Mark:

Cross Country Team Battles at Branch Brook

The Livingston High School girls' varsity cross country team competed in the Super Essex Conference American Division Championship Cross Country race, held in Branch Brook Park in Newark on Tuesday, October 7.

"Although their dual meet record of 2-7 had the Lady Lancers ranked ninth of the ten teams competing, the girls knew that they had worked hard to this point in preparation and that they were strong and ready to run well," recounted coach Dave Czeizinger. "With plans and tactics having been discussed, warm ups, stretches and the huddle complete, there was nothing left but to get to it. The squad toed the line with the other competitors and awaited the starting report. The race went out very fast and was to be full of surprises. The competition was nothing but exciting to watch with Millburn and Montclair battling it out for the team trophy and a historic race up front with three girls going under 19 minutes and five under 20. The old course record time stood, though a new second, third, and fifth fastest of all-time were set."

Coach Czeizinger noted that Kristi Kwok had finished no lower than third in the previous four weeks of competition. He said, "She believed that she could run with the lead girls. She had been getting faster and was flirting with that 20 minute barrier. She had a goal to finally break it." Kwok went out hard and hung on to become one of the five to break 20 minute barrier, clocking a personal best time of 19:47, which was the third fastest time for a Lady Lancer on this course.

With three girls going under 19 minutes, "the rest of the race behind them ran fast to keep up," said coach Czeizinger. "Junior Payton Mendez was under a lot of pressure as she was designated by the coaching staff as the pacer for a duo of freshman runners and a third newcomer to the sport. She shouldered the load in grand style, with a personal best time on this course of 21:54, finishing in 20th place and second for the Lancers. The other three girls rose to the occasion, feeding off the excitement of the day, and all ran personal bests."

The third finisher for LHS was freshman Amanda Clark (22:15; 23rd), who was closely followed by newcomer Kari DiTonno (22:27; 28th) and freshman Shannon Altman (22:47; 35th) posting a huge personal best time. Running well and rounding out the top seven varsity girls were Dana Weiss (23:06; 47th) and Toni Pauwels (24:09; 59th).

Behind the powerhouses of Montclair and Millburn, coach Czeizinger said the Lancers were in the thick of another battle. "The girls of Livingston definitely turned it up a notch," he said, "running their fastest team average (21:50) on the course this season. A scan of the next two spots showed two teams both with a score of 111 points, and one of them was LHS."

With five girls scoring, LHS had tied Nutley for third place. The rules then take it to a sixth place tie-breaker, which Nutley won by two points. The Lancers took fourth place overall behind Montclair, Millburn, and Nutley while avenging earlier seasons losses to West Orange, Columbia, Newark Academy, Verona, and Mount Saint Dominic. The Livingston girls had come inches away from edging out Nutley and avenging a regular season defeat against the Raiders as well.

Non-Varsity Competition

In non-varsity competition, Jessica Porcelli set a personal best in the two-mile freshman race with a time of 17:39, showing, said coach Czeizinger, "great signs of improvement from earlier this season."

In the junior varsity race over the five kilometer distance, the following runners set personal best times in a race that saw 107 finishers: Tammy Vu (25:06; 18th); Caroline Snyder (25:41; 30th); Mikaili Anderson (25:53; 39th); Judlynn Julceus (26:35; 45th); Judanicka Julceus (26:37; 46th); Ervanna Scotland (26:58; 50th); Diana Altman (27:14; 54th); Bern Callaghan (28:02; 68th); and Jeri Walkow (30:14; 83rd). Many were running this distance for the first time.

Greystone Invitational

Later in the week, the girls were back in action at the Greystone Invitational. The team ran six varsity runners and was also represented in the freshman 2,600 meter race and the junior varsity race. Of the ten girls competing that day, eight also recorded their seasons' and/or personal bests.

Kwok continued her stellar week, finishing the invitational in seventh place with a time of 20:20 as state ranked #2 Randolph grabbed the top five spots. She was followed by teammate Mendez (21:33), who ran her fastest race of the year, finishing in 28th place. DiTonno grabbed 29th with a 21:34 clocking, a personal best. Following these three was teammate Shannon Altman (22:11), also posting her personal best. Next in was Amanda Clark, clocking 23:12 and Toni Pauwels with a personal best time of 23:34.

Coming off the Super Essex Conference championship meet, the girls continued running well, lowering their top five average to a season's best of 21:46. In a highly competitive field, the girls finished seventh of the 11 teams competing.

In junior varsity action, all three Lancer girls competing posted season's or personal best time for the day. Tammy Vu (24:30) was one spot in front of newcomer Caroline Snyder (24:35) and they were followed closely by Mikaili Anderson (25:38), who has improved her times every week this season.

Coach Czeizinger concluded, "The Lady Lancers of Livingston are showing no signs of slowing down. With many girls recording personal best times this past week, it appears the Lancers are going to peak at the ideal time." This Friday, October 17, Livingston will be host to the Lancer Invitational, with the first race starting at 4 p.m.

DOOR TO DOOR CAMPAIGN: Mayor Mike Rieber and Peter Boockvar, Republican candidates for Livingston Township Council, spent the weekend going door to door visiting residents and letting voters around town know about their bi-partisan vision to provide property tax relief through shared services, as well as their plan to let the public vote on large projects and any new debt. They also advocate developing a long-range plan with community input.

Quiet Week For Firefighters

This past week was a quiet one for the Livingston Fire Department, with most of its 16 calls turning out to be false alarms.

Fire officials responded to an odor of natural gas reported on Tuesday, October 7, on the north side of the municipal building at 357 South Livingston Avenue. The Department's gas meter registered a 10% reading coming from an area with vent pipes. Public Service Electric and Gas (PSE&G) was advised of the issue.

The following day, Wednesday, October 8, firefighters investigated a report of smoke in the area of 127 South Livingston Avenue. The smoke was traced to a meat smoker being used by the homeowner.

Later that day, Fire Department volunteers assisted the homeowner at 13 Crossbrook Place, whose furnace would not shut off. They notified PSE&G of the problem.

On Friday, October 10, a carbon monoxide (CO) alarm took firefighters to 9 Stonehenge Terrace. They registered a CO reading of 18 parts per million near a water heater flue pipe in the home's basement, and traced the problem to an overheated pool heating unit. They shut down the pool heater, the home's water heater, and the furnace, notifying PSE&G of the issue.

Firefighters also responded to the scene of a two car motor vehicle accident at Route 10 and Eisenhower Parkway on Friday, helping to extricate one of the drivers.

The Fire Department's remaining calls were all false alarms.

A call on Wednesday from a homeowner at 92 Ridge Road who was locked out of the house was cancelled prior to fire officials' arrival. Burned food set off a false fire alarm the same day at 40 East Drive. A false CO alarm took place at 18 Cedar Gate Drive when the homeowner tested a the detector.

On Friday, a CO alarm was activated at 41 Winchester Road, but firefighters registered no reading on the department's CO meter.

Three false fire alarms took place on Saturday, October 11, at 9 Alpine Way; at the West Essex YMCA, 321 South Livingston Avenue, set off by humid conditions; and at 290 West Mt. Pleasant Avenue, set off by smoke from cooking.

A low battery was the culprit in a false CO alarm transmission from 20 Heron Road on Sunday, October 12. An unknown alarm noise reported the following day at the Westminster hotel on Route 10 was traced to a malfunctioning cell phone.

Jr. Lancers B Varsity Football Team Defeats Fairfield for a 4-1-1 Record

The Jr. Lancers B varsity football team traveled to Fairfield on Saturday night and defeated the Falcons, 13-0.

The Lancers' first scoring drive was sparked by a 33 yard reception from quarterback Nick Conforti to Nick Guido. Two plays later, Guido scored a touchdown on a 35 yard reception. With a successful PAT (point after touchdown) reception from Conforti to Jack Schreiber, the Lancers led 7-0 at the end of the second quarter.

On the Lancers' first possession of the second half, Jack Larsen gained 69 yards on a pass from Conforti. On the next play, Quinn Devlin scored on a nine yard touchdown run. With an unsuccessful PAT attempt, the score was 13-0. The defense continued to frustrate the Falcons, including an interception by Devlin, and a "heads up" play by Guido, who recovered a botched Fairfield lateral. The defense held Fairfield scoreless, resulting in a final score of 13-0.

Many of the Lancers gave strong performances. They had over 200 yards of total offense, with Conforti passing for 188. The O-line of Rich Carnevale, Sam Danchak, Thomas Gangi, Vincent Militello, and Connor Wood provided the pass protection that made the aerial attack possible. Larsen had a team-leading 120 receiving yards, and Guido had 68. Devlin led the team in rushing, followed by Conforti.

The formidable defense registered its fourth shut-out of the season. Schreiber had a monster day with a team-leading nine tackles, followed by Carnevale, Danchak, Gangi, and Devlin. The defensive line, comprised of A.J. Graziano, Carnevale, Gangi, Larsen, Militello, and Wood, disrupted the Fairfield offense. The defensive backs, Danchak, Schreiber, Gullace, Conforti, Hauser, Guido, and Devlin, allowed Fairfield to complete only four receptions in their ten attempts. Also notable were the special team performances by Michael Lillo and Chris Zippieri.

The victory over Fairfield brings the Lancers' record to 4-1-1. They will travel to Caldwell this Saturday to take on the Chiefs.

The Lady in Number 6: Music Saved My Life: As the world's oldest pianist and Holocaust survivor, 109 year-old Alice Herz Sommer shares her views on how to live a long and happy life. The film features photographs and rare film footage that truly brings Alice's extraordinary story to life.

Wherever You Go: Years after cutting herself off from her Orthodox family, Zohara, 30, decides to show up at her younger sister's wedding. On her way to the wedding, she meets Neriman, a young Bedouin woman who is escaping an arranged wedding. Zohara finds herself becoming an unintentional accomplice in Neriman's escape.

The Livingston Education Foundation (LEF) honored four Livingston High School graduates on October 10, Charles Bendit ('71), Dr. V.A. Shiva Ayyadurai ('81), and Dr. Suzanne Steinbaum ('86), (not shown) Larry Fieber ('68). The LEF also presented Leadership in Educational Achievement and Dedication awards to Jim Ransegnola, a teacher of social studies, and Don Schwartz, the voice of the Lancers.

LEF Honors Alumni and Teachers

The inventor of email was at Livingston High School on Friday, October 10, a rock star to tech-savvy students. Dr. V.A. Shiva Ayyadurai shared the limelight with other LHS alummi who have made their marks on the world, and were honored this week by the Livingston Education Foundation (LEF).

"It seems every graduating class from Livingston High School has at least one alumnus who becomes someone famous," said Heidi Cislo, LEF president. "It's become the gift of the LEF to honor these esteemed grads: this year Dr. V.A. Shiva Ayyadurai ('81), Charles Bendit ('71), Larry Fieber ('68), and Dr. Suzanne Steinbaum ('86).

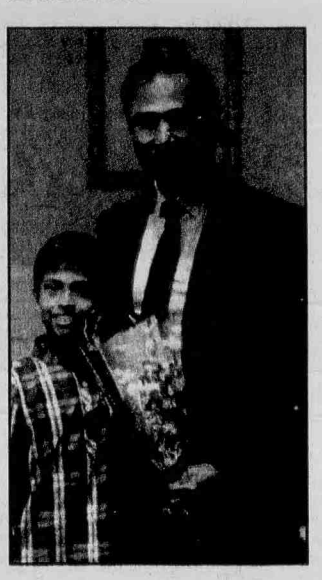

During the evening gala, the Livingston Education Foundation also presented Leadership in Educational Achievement and Dedication awards to Jim Ransegnola, a teacher of social studies, and Don Schwartz, a retired photography teacher and the voice of the Lancers.

"Bringing these respected teachers and alums back to LHS helps the LEF support innovations in teaching at Livingston Public Schools, with funds raised over the past five years improving technology in classrooms," Cislo explained.

Those being honored also were able to speak to the current LHS students about their fields.

Dara Chesley Borsellino, Jaimie Chesley and Renee Chesley enjoy Spencer Kreitzer's smiles with his grandfather Fred Steinbaum as his mother, Dr. Suzanne Steinbaum (LHS '86), addresses him from the podium during her induction into the LHS Hall of Fame at the LEF reception at the Wilshire Caterers in West Orange.

Revant Maridi, a Livingston student, presents flowers to Dr. V.A. Shiva Ayyadurai (LHS '81) at the LEF Hall of Fame reception held at Wilshire Caterers in West Orange on October 10. The youngster accompanied his mother, Chitra Maridi, as a representative of Sanskriti of NJ.

Dr. Steinbaum, who has devoted her career to the treatment of heart disease through early detection, education, and prevention, led a discussion in physiology. The science talk took a inspiring turn when she returned to the LHS stage where she performed as a student, joining the choir in rehearsal.

"You never need to be stereotyped," the former Lancer cheerleader said. "Find out exactly who you are by stepping out of the box."

In the Intro to Business class, Charles Bendit, a real estate developer, talked about the opportunities and "pathways that get you where you want to go." He has been helping New York City youth open their eyes to their dreams and the skills they will need by matching students with internships and corporate dollars to improve schools.

Education has been the life work of Larry Fieber, who is widely recognized as an educational leader who embraces change and challenge.

Each credited their educations in Livingston for his or her success. "Coming home reminds me of how much Livingston has prepared me for life. It gave me a wonderful foundation," said Fieber at the evening's award reception.

Talking with students at LHS, Dr. Ayyadurai said he was "motivated to excel because I felt the opportunities I had were very significant." He was just 14 when he designed an email system for the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey and later went on to earn four degrees from MIT.

"LHS gave me the fundamentals," he concluded, "and freedom."

LISA Talks Real Estate
Presented by
Lisa Lang, Sales Associate
Top Agent, Livingston Township 2013

Reasons Not To Go It Alone

While it may be tempting to sell your house on your own, there are good reasons why For Sale By Owners (FSBOs) do not necessarily fare well. To begin with, FSBOs are shut out from the "multiple listing service" (MLS), which is open only to licensed real estate brokers and agents. By missing out on the MLS and other important search engines such as Realtor.com, Trulia and Zillow, FSBOs do not receive nearly as much attention as homes sold by professionals do. If you are looking for the Highest Price in the Shortest Time with the Least Inconvenience then you should choose a local realtor to represent you.

Contact me today! I will determine your property's worth in today's market, while customizing a marketing plan to sell your property quickly, efficiently and at the highest price utilizing all the latest tools and infomation at my disposal. Local Artist Collaborates On Large Art Project

Livingston resident and artist Ellen Hanauer recently collaborated on a large-scale art project called Chairs of Inclusion (www.chairsofinclusion.org). This project celebrates the tenth anniversary of Jewish Service for the Developmentally Disabled (JSDD) Wae (Wellness, Art, Enrichment) Center, a program for adults with developmental disabilities in West Orange.

Her works, entitled "Love Seat" and "Ascend," will be sold in a silent auction at the Wae Center's Anniversary Celebration on November 2, at Temple B'nai Abraham in Livingston. On November 9, the chairs will be exhibited at a Meet the Artists Reception at the Gaelen Gallery East in West Orange.

Jewish Service for the Developmentally Disabled of MetroWest, Inc. (www.jsdmetrowest.org) is a multipurpose agency dedicated to providing an integrated program of community education, advocacy and services for individuals with developmental disabilities and their families.

Hanauer was one of ten professional artists commissioned by the Wae Center to create a full-scale chair based on the theme of inclusion. "To me, inclusion means breaking down barriers of fear so that we may all be able to flourish together," she says. She brought an idea of what she wanted to create and worked with the Center member-artists to bring that idea to life.

"Given the challenge of working with a few of the Wae members, I asked if I could work with all of them. The moment I heard the word 'yes', the image of the completed chair (Love Seat) came to me. The same was true of the paper chair (Ascend). And as soon as I proposed my artists' group for a commission, I immediately thought of a ladder back chair made entirely of paper. This made sense, since we all met in a paper-making class almost 20 years ago and this group has always inspired me," says Hanauer, who has a BFA from Syracuse University in advertising design and studied the human body in cadaver labs/lectures at UMDNJ to prepare her as a sculptor.

She adds, "My concept for the chair did not change at all. The thing that evolved as I worked with the Center's artists was that my heart opened a bit wider."

Love Seat is a collaboration with all 62 members of the Wae Center. Each component of this chair is a self portrait that conveys community and what is possible when people come together with a purpose.

Eleven years after working as an art director in print and television, Hanauer changed careers and became a self-taught sculptor. She studied the human body in the cadaver labs and within a few years, her work was selected for the acclaimed exhibition, In Three Dimensions: Women Sculptors of the 90's.

She has exhibited nationally in museums, universities and galleries and was awarded multiple commissions throughout the northeast, including those installed at Rockefeller Center and Riverside Park. Her work is in the permanent collections of the Noyes Museum of Art, NJ; Montclair Art Museum Education Collection, NJ; Ivan Karp, OK Harris Gallery, NY; the Princeton Review, NY; Organon, NJ; Lynda Zycherman, Chief Conservator of Sculpture, MoMA, NY; Kevah Konner Bus Company, NJ; and National Museum of Women in the Arts, Washington, DC. Many of her local commissions are on permanent display in West Orange, including the murals on exterior wall of the public library and on the town's commuter bus.

Hanauer maintains a studio in Verona, and teaches sculpture to adults and children.

Carin Hochman, 71, Dies in North Carolina

Carin (Struminger) Hochman, 71, died on Saturday, October 11, in Linville, North Carolina.

Born in New York City, Mrs. Hochman grew up in the Bronx, New York, and lived in Livingston for many years before moving to Florida, Georgia and North Carolina.

Mrs. Hochman was an avid volunteer, who worked with children at the Kessler Institute, nursed baby animals back to health, and volunteered at the local hospital.

Vascular Screenings For High-Risk Patients

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, vascular disease can lead to stroke, aneurysms and disabilities. To help those at high risk, Barnabas Health Ambulatory Care Center (ACC) of Livingston will presents "Vascular Screenings for High-Risk Patients" on Mondays, October 20 and 27, and Fridays, October 17, 24 and 31, from 7 a.m. to noon at the ACC building. There is a charge for these screenings.

These 20-minute, non-invasive screenings include an ultrasound examination for aortic aneurysms and carotid artery disease, as well as a test that measures blood flow in the legs. While most individuals are aware of the consequences of blocked blood vessels in their heart, the potential risks of blockages in blood vessels in other parts of their body, such as the legs, often go unnoticed.

Many risk factors are associated with vascular disease that may not show symptoms. For early prevention, those who are considered "high-risk" should be regularly screened. Patients considered high-risk are over 55, have high blood pressure or cholesterol, lack exercise, have diabetes, smoke and have a family history of vascular disease and previous heart or lung treatments.

These screenings will take place at the Barnabas Health Ambulatory Care Center. No prescription is necessary, but registration is required by calling 973-322-7888. For more information visit barnabashealth.org/acc or call 973-322-7000.

Lancers Shut Out Pequannock, 3-0

The Lancer boys' soccer team played Pequannock and came away with a 3-0 victory on Saturday.

Jack Wasserman opened up the scoring for the home team in the first half and Cole Charney tallied his third goal of the season to give Livingston a 2-0 half-time lead. Dan Kaltman served a corner kick that found Jacob Haaker on the back post, and Haaker headed home his fourth goal of the year. Garrett Meinhardt and Josh Sampson combined for the shutout in goal.

Zach Hirschberger, Brandon Lang, Mike Meadow, Chris Hartin and Simon Yakum all played well as they helped to limit the shots faced by the Lancer keepers. Austin Siegel and Mel Miller worked hard on the outside wings while Daejaun Northover harassed the Pequannock defense with his quickness and hustle.

The team faces Caldwell on Tuesday at home for senior night and then will play Glen Ridge, also at home, on Thursday afternoon. Results were not available as the Tribune went to press.

SYLS Offers Variety of Programs

The Senior Youth and Leisure Services (SYLS) department will hold a variety of classes in the coming weeks.

SYLS and the Livingston Public Library, will offer free tutoring on iPad, iPhone and other smart tablet devices for active older adults ages 62 and older on Friday, October 17 from 3 to 4 p.m. in the public library's program room. The instruction will be provided by Livingston High School's "Techie Teen Tutors club" led by sophomore teen volunteer, Ben Boxer.

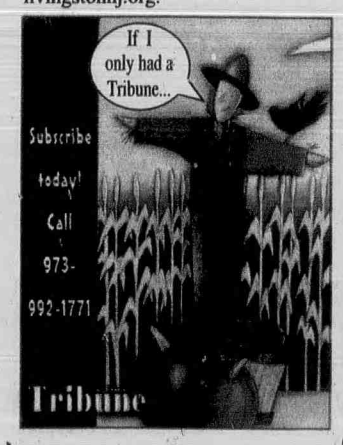

The tutoring will be offered on the third Friday of the month right after the library's "Senior Happening." The next classes will be held on Friday November 21 and December 19. Participants will be accommodated on a first come, first served basis and must take their own smart devices.

The Poetry Aficionados club, led by volunteer Lilian Ostrin, will meet for the first time on Thursday, October 23, from 1 to 2 p.m. in the Hillside Avenue community center's library room. Participants are encouraged to take their own poems to read and discuss. Light refreshments will be provided.

A Getting Finally Organized workshop will be presented by Ellen Palestine on Tuesday, October 21, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the community center. Pre-registration is required at SYLS office or on-line at www.livingstonsyls.org.

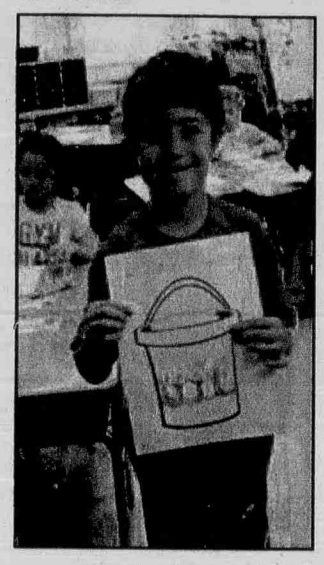

A seminar, "Getting Back to Work in a Down Economy," will be held on Monday, October 20, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. A second seminar, "Successful Interviewing," will be held on Monday, October 27, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Both programs will presented by Linda Zamer, M.A., a professional career counselor and former director of Career Services for JVS. Pre-registration is required and may be made at the SYLS office or on-line at www.livingstonsyls.org.

Burnet Hill School's summer readers were one page short of their 250,000 page goal, but 249,999 pages were still reason for a celebration. The school marked the occasion with balloons and a school-wide reading of that final page to hit their magic number. Shown above in Wendy Weiner's first grade classroom, Josephine Pritsiolas keeps Burnet Hill School's "big read" going by selecting a book of her own.

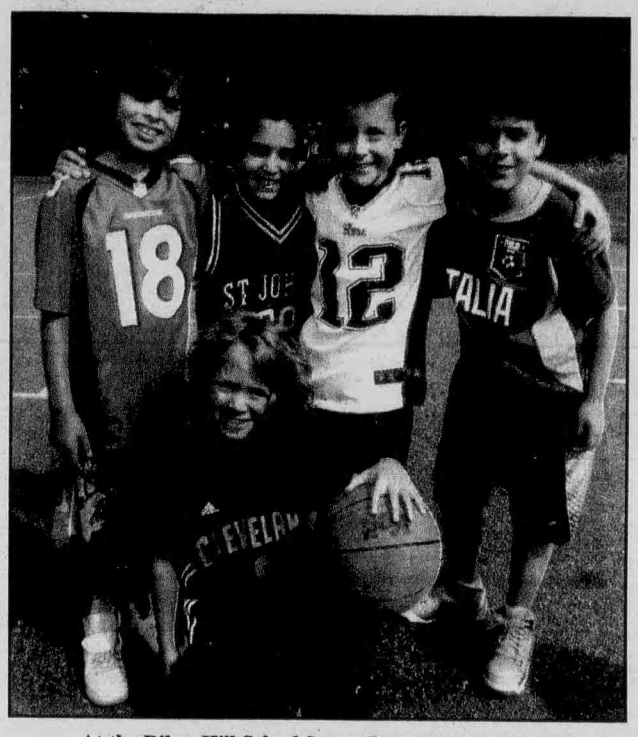

While celebrating Harrison School's "Week of Respect," students spent time focusing on treating each other with kindness and respect by "filling their buckets" with compliments and positive images. Shown with his bucket is first grader Julian Katz.

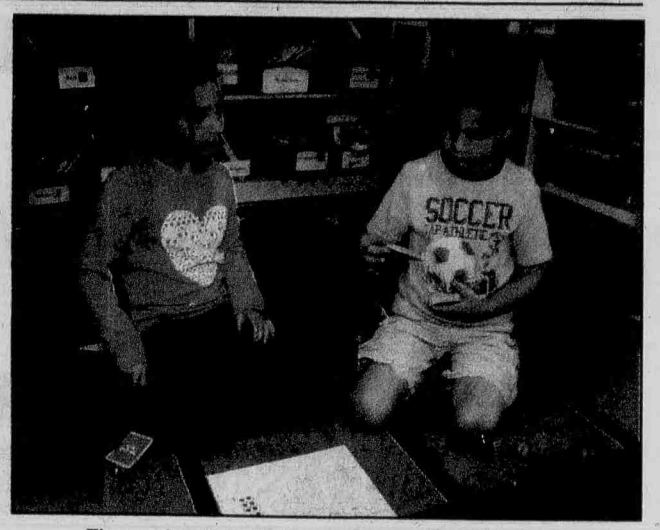

Elementary School News

It's Fire Prevention Week and the Livingston Fire Department visited Mt. Pleasant Elementary School to help the students learn about fire safety. The students were all given a surprise ride in one of the fire trucks. Shown above with assistant Fire Chief Kevin Francione and first grade teacher, Nicole Lynn are: Jonathan Lewin, Dylan Greenberg, Aarman Mishra, Bella Rodrigues, Jenya Narang, Kayla Fang, Emilia Nurilov, Reese Manoff, Avery Gasman, Nicolas Langella and Bella Jenis.

At the Riker Hill School Sports Day, third graders Nicholas Tserpelis, Ben Ghamar, Aidan Healy, Marco Sassone and Shayne Apple wear shirts to indicate their favorite teams.

First graders Sadie Phelps and Zachary Rosenberg play a math game in which they explore number concepts and ordering numbers in Kathleen Berrios' class at Collins School.

First graders from Hillside School participated in a class trip to Riamede Farm, where they took a hay ride, and picked pumpkins and apples. Shown during the trip are Yash Naidu, Isabella Kilelee, Mikhail Ahmad and Joseph Sayas with teacher Katelyn Viverito.

Dynamos Win EDP Soccer Cup

This past weekend, the SDFC Dynamo Soccer Team, including Heritage Middle School seventh and eighth graders Elijah Elster, Aria Navi, and Phillip Rodrigues, won the EDP Cup. The tournament, which was held in Hammonton, featured top teams from New Hampshire to Virginia and all throughout the Eastern United States.

The team tied both games during the first day of the tournament, which was cold and rainy. On day two, the Dynamos defeated the Capital United Virginia team early in the day, qualifying them to compete in the finals against a strong South Jersey Elite Barons squad.

Dynamo scored just before the halftime and its strong performance held on for a 1-0 victory. Next Sunday the team plays TSF Academy in the quarter finals of the National U13 Cup Tournament.

Musical Savant Matt Savage To Perform In Free Concert

Jazz pianist and composer Matt Savage will perform on Thursday, November 6, at Temple B'nai Abraham to celebrate "JVS at 75." The 7:30 p.m. concert and dessert reception which follows are free and open to the public. The JVS Board of Trustees is sponsoring this celebration in honor of JVS' 75th anniversary.

Founded in 1939, JVS is a not-for-profit agency serving nearly 16,000 people annually with a staff of almost 100 and an operating budget of $6.1 million. JVS "helps people help themselves" and provides a broad range of services, including career counseling and job placement; vocational rehabilitation; and customized skills training for individuals from age 14 to 100+ throughout the state.

Savage is a musical savant diagnosed with an autism spectrum disorder, whose exceptional skills were evident from a very early age when he taught himself to read piano music at age six. He also taught himself to play the piano and within two years had worked with such musical greats as Dave Brubeck and Chick Corea.

While developing his extraordinary musical talents, Savage focused on improving his social and communication skills, frequently a difficult task for a person with autism.

In 2003, at the age of 11, Savage debuted at the famed Blue Note in Manhattan and was signed as a Bösendorfer Piano artist, the only child to be so recognized in the company's 175-year history.

He has performed worldwide in solo concerts and with his own Matt Savage Trio. He has appeared on numerous television and radio programs, including The Today Show, All Things Considered, the Late Show with David Letterman and Late Night with Conan O'Brian. A graduate of Berklee College of Music in Boston, Savage is studying toward a master's degree at the Manhattan School of Music in New York City. He recently released his ninth album, Matt Savage: A Bigger Celebration.

"JVS is delighted to present Matt Savage in concert and to showcase the achievements of a person with autism, as the agency offers a wide range of school-to-career transition services for students with special needs," said Jane Hecht, director of marketing and special events for JVS.

JVS' professional evaluators are available to work with a student's child study team to develop the transition plan required by federal regulations for every high school student with an Individualized Education Program (IEP). For individuals diagnosed with autism spectrum disorders, the JVS Career Center provides a wide range of services including vocational evaluation, career counseling, employment readiness and job search training, placement and coaching.

Seating for this event is limited. To reserve seats contact Katie Mendelsohn at JVS by October 24, at kmendelsohn@jvsnj.org or by calling 973-674-6330, extension 256. For additional information or to learn about sponsorship opportunities, contact Hecht at jhecht@jvsnj.org or by calling 973-674-6330, extension 294.

JV Field Hockey Team Plays Against Cranford

The Livingston High School junior varsity field hockey team played a great game against the Cougars of Cranford High School this past Monday, October 13, despite eventually losing, 2-1.

The Lancers' offense, led by Emily Lasoff, Gabriella Tejeda, Victoria Zotti, and Emily Carnevale, generated an attack that led to several offensive corners and threatened the Cougars' goalkeeper.

Midfielders Macen Lantzman, Marley Arzonico and Abby Levy added valuable transitioning throughout the field, while defenders Amanda Young, Elyssa Gordon, Sharon Perlmutter, and Bari Greenwald added a tough defensive front in the circle. Elizabeth Edler also added a stick save.

Lancer goalkeepers Daniella Terry and Beth Goldberg combined for 17 saves.

The Lady Lancers will honor their seniors and hold their annual Play4theCure game to raise funds for breast cancer research on Tuesday, October 21, at 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

SYLS to Sponsor "Fright Night"

The Livingston Senior, Youth, and Leisure Services Department will sponsor a Halloween Fright Night event on Saturday, October 25, at the Hillside Avenue community center.

The event will begin with "Trunk or Treat" from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. In this safe alternative to trick-or-treating, children will walk in their costumes from vehicle to vehicle in the parking lot of the community center, collecting treats. Parents are asked to provide candy or snacks; those wishing to participate are asked to pre-register by e-mailing program supervisor Brittany Elsasser at BElsasser@livingstonnj.org.

Next, a Costume Contest Parade will begin at 4:30 p.m. Costumes will be judged by the following categories: most unique, scariest, best super hero, funniest, prettiest, and best group costumes. There will be two winners for each age category, fourth grade and younger, and fifth grade and older. All participants will receive a prize, and the category winners will receive a prize and certificate. Participants must pre-register free of charge online www.livingstonsyls.org or at the community center.

The Fright Night Haunted Walk, a less-scary version for younger children, will take place from 5 to 9 p.m.

At 7 p.m., a scarier Haunted Walk for older children, ages ten and up, will take place. Admission will be charged for both Haunted Walks. Tickets will be available inside the community center the night of the event or may be purchased in advance on-line at www.livingstonsyls.org.

All indoor activities, which are appropriate for all ages, will run from 5 to 7:30 p.m. These activities are free of charge and will include Halloween tattoos, seasonal crafts, haunted games, and treats and refreshments. Students of the Livingston Dance Academy will perform a Halloween dance routine at 6:30 p.m.

Emily Ann Gordon Exchanges Vows With Dr. Noah Robert Reisman

Emily Ann Gordon and Dr. Noah Robert Reisman were married on Saturday, June 7, at the Park Avenue Club in Florham Park. The bride is the daughter of Debby and Ira Gordon of Livingston. The bridegroom is the son of Flo and Eugene Reisman of Pleasantville, New York.

The bride, presented by her parents at the evening ceremony, wore a romantic lace gown, created by Brooklyn designer Rebecca Schoneveld, featuring a v-neckline and a lace train. She carried an ivory bouquet.

Officiating at the ceremony was Rabbi Faith Joy Dantowitz of Temple B'nai Abraham in Livingston.

Serving as maid of honor for her sister was Julie Gordon of New York. The bridesmaids included the bride's sister-in-law, Rachel True of Chicago; Sophia Liss and Jamie Lutzky of Philadelphia; Lauren Hecht and Jenna Pokidaylo of Hoboken; Arin Rollingher of San Francisco; and Emily Rodney, Ashley Balaban, Jamie Michels, Liz Gordon, and Margherita Gallina, all of New York.

The attendants wore short gray strapless dresses in chiffon.

Aaron Reisman served as best man for his brother. The groomsmen were the bridegroom's brother-in-law Toby True of Chicago; Dan Berk and Sam Dozor of Brooklyn; Matt Nash, Nick Kort, Mike Matzker, Tommy Pastrana and Ryan Russikoff, all of New York; and Jeff Branz of Boston.

Alexandra True, the baby niece of the newlyweds, went down the aisle, held by her mother, in a gray dress and headband that coordinated with the bridesmaids' dresses.

The couple went from camp friends to husband and wife, meeting at the young age of 12 at Camp Schodack, located in the foothills of the Berkshires. He asked her to the "camp prom" and the rest is history.

Because Camp Schodack was integral in their meeting, the newlyweds incorporated camp-inspired elements into their wedding: Their program featured letters that they had written to each other over the years in their camp yearbooks, and they gave away "Camp Reisman" T-shirts to all guests.

The new Mrs. Reisman, a 2005 graduate of Livingston High School, earned her undergraduate degree at Penn State University and a master's degree at Brooklyn College. She was chosen for the prestigious New York City Teaching Fellows program and is currently a teacher at MS 88 in Park Slope, Brooklyn, where she is part of the innovative School of One math program.

Dr. Reisman earned his undergraduate degree at Binghamton University and was graduated from Ross University School of Medicine in July. He is currently a resident in internal medicine at New York Methodist Hospital in Park Slope, Brooklyn.

Dr. and Mrs. Reisman reside in Park Slope, Brooklyn.

In addition, fire prevention programs have been held for children in kindergarten through second grade. Library Announces November Programs

The Livingston Public Library will offer a speaker and several free film programs in November. Film programs are sponsored by the Livingston Library Endowment Fund. All are invited to attend these programs.

In commemoration of the World War I centennial, the library will show the recent three-part BBC documentary, 37 Days. The first two episodes of the series will be presented on Wednesday, November 5, at 7 p.m. The third episode will be shown on Wednesday, December 3, at 7 p.m. Churchill's First World War will also be shown that day. On Wednesday, January 7, Royal Cousins at War will be screened at 7 p.m.

On Thursday, November 6, at 7:30 p.m., Dr. James Kane will present "Non-Essential History." During his program, he will explain little known facts, such as why New York City is called the "Big Apple," the origin of the "Ivy League" and the definition of a "square" meal.

Jr. Lancer A Team Defeats Fairfield

The Livingston Junior Lancer A seventh and eighth grade football team recently defeated Fairfield, 32-26, in an exciting game. Fairfield had previously won the Superbowl for this age group.

The Lancers got off to a fast start, when Mashod Harrison took the kick-off 60 yards for a touchdown. On the next possession, Harrison ran for a six yard touchdown. The next offensive series saw quarterback Joe Cullen run for a ten yard touchdown set up by Lucas Giordano's fumble recovery.

On the next possession, Cullen hit Jack Ernst with a 35 yard completion and then scored on a six yard touchdown run. The Lancers completed the scoring when Cullen ran for a four yard touchdown after a long 50 yard run.

The offensive line was led by C.J. Bullion, Michael DeAngelus, Chris Durish, Jack Ernst, Lucas Giordano, Drew Nardone, and Austin Paris. This marked the best effort by the line all season, as the Junior Lancers did not have to attempt one punt the entire game.

Marco Fusari and Dominick Martine added key runs to the Lancer attack. Receivers Nicky Gullace, Tommy Werner, and Aidan Conway added key blocks.

The defense was led by Bullion, Conway, Gullace, Harrison, Martine, Nardone, and Werner.

The Junior Lancer A teams next game will be against Caldwell on Saturday, October 25, at 8 p.m. The Junior Lancers' record stands at 4-2.

Dodgers Divisions Tie Series Finals

The Livingston Dodgers of the U.S. Over Thirty (USOT) Baseball League are one win away from pulling off a first in the league's history. The two Livingston teams have each captured the pennant in both the Sunday and Mid-Week Divisions. Last week, the Dodgers won the play-offs in the Sunday league, and are now tied at one game each in the finals of the Mid-Week League play-offs.

Tonight, Thursday, October 16, at Smith Field in Parsippany, the Dodgers will square off against the New Brunswick Pirates in the season's final game, with the winners to be crowned league champions. Should the Dodgers win, it will mark the first time in the USOT League history that one team swept both the league and play-off titles in one season.

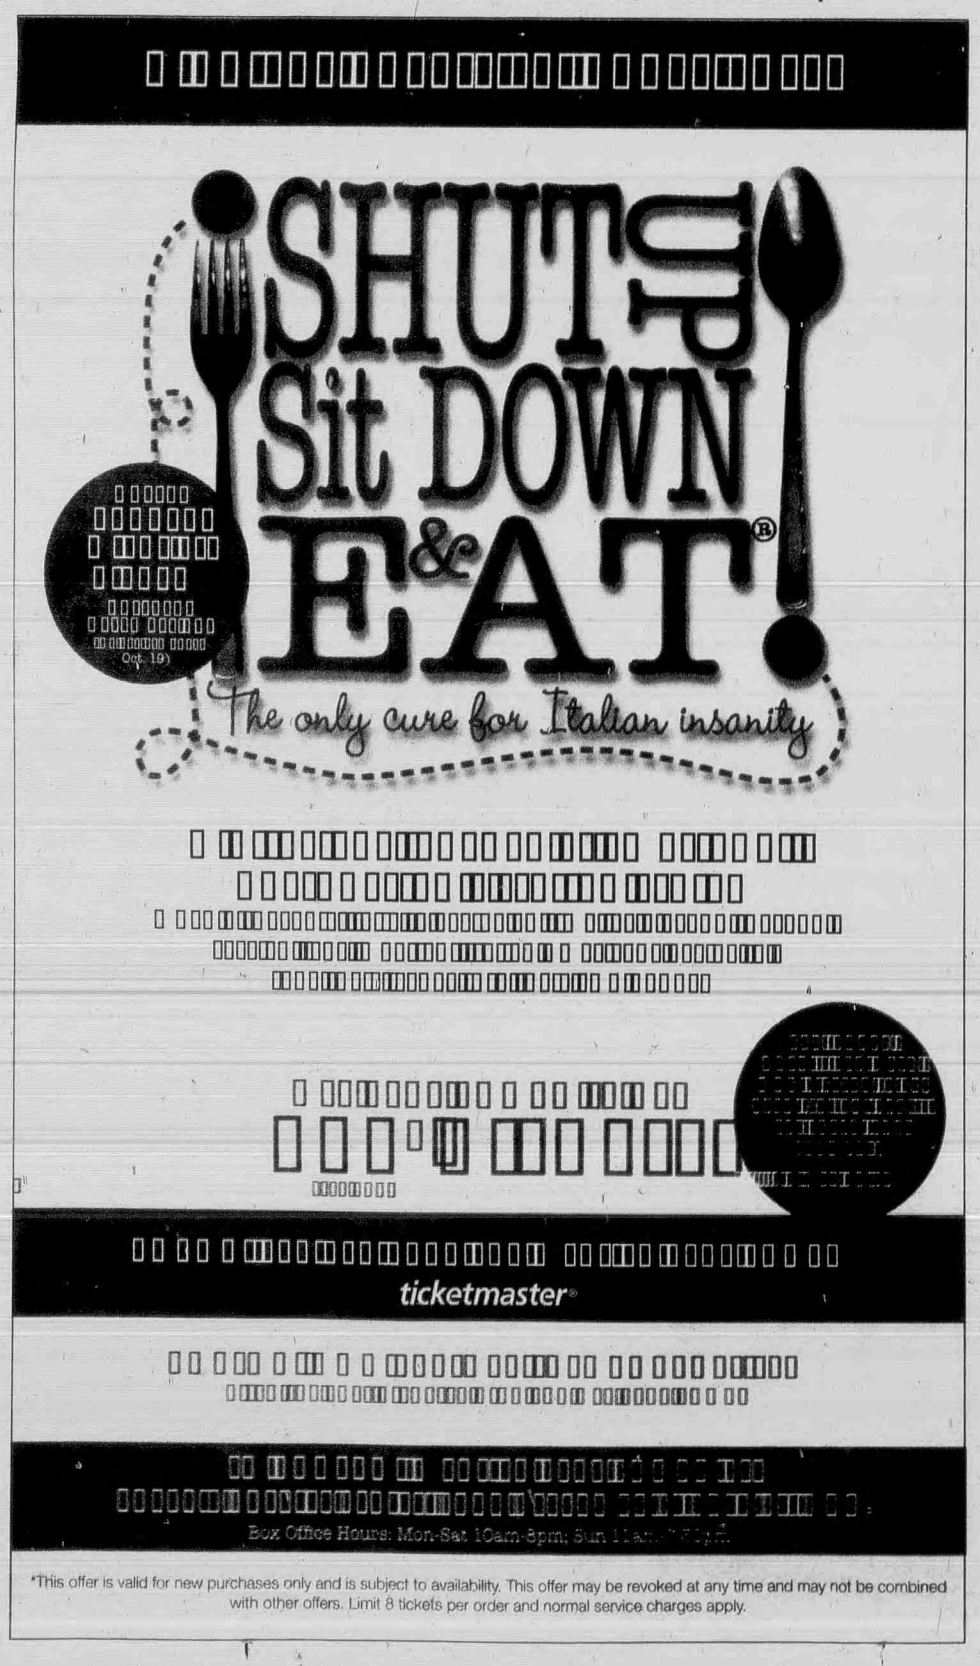

Last Thursday, October 9, the Dodgers topped the Pirates, 5-4, in Perth Amboy. Adam Slater turned in a gutsy performance, limiting the Pirates to eight hits and striking out five. The Pirates drew first blood as they struck for two runs in the last of the first inning. Livingston came back with two in the top of the second inning as Mike DiBiasse and Frank Moretti singled. Dennis Iandolo singled home DiBiasse and Pete Diaz singled to drive in Moretti.

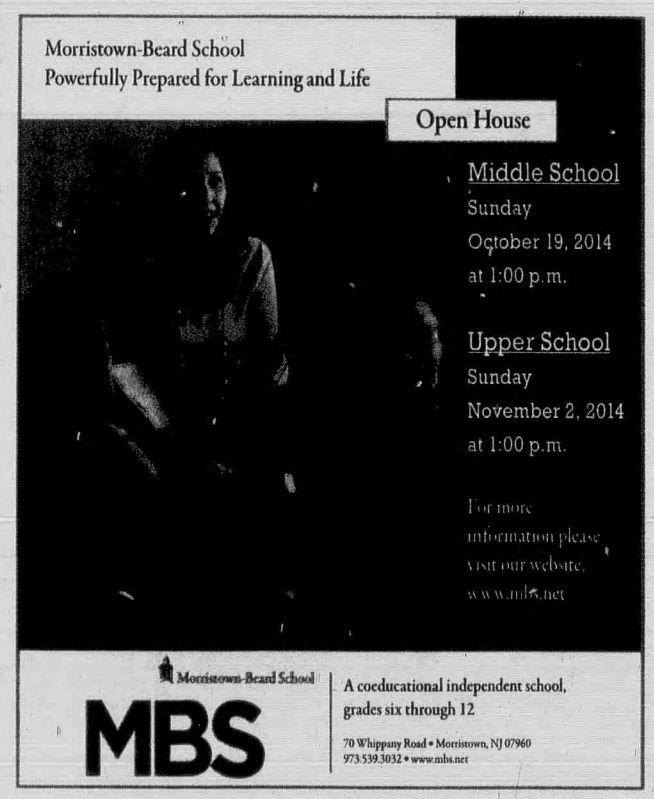

The Dodgers took a 3-2 lead in the third as Jim Fredo was walked and rode home on a long double by Silas Ashmore. The Dodgers added one more run in the fifth as Angel Roman walked and Ashmore again stoked a long double to score in Roman.

The Pirates tied the score in the last of the fifth with two runs. In the top of the seventh, Jeff Spilsbury singled, was sacrificed to second by Fredo, and came home with the winning run on a double by Roman. The Pirates loaded the bases with one out in the last of the seventh, but Slater induced the next Pirate batter to hit into a game-ending double play.

Slater's record for the season is 8-1, which puts him as the leading candidate for the league's Cy Young Award as the top pitcher in the USOT League, according to player/manager Bill "Doc" Pollak.

The Dodger slate stands at 14-1-1. Combined, the Sunday and Mid-Week teams are 32-7 for the season.

Tribune editor and publisher William Klaber wrote two editorials this week in 1974. The first was "Vote No on Casinos," in which he urged readers to vote against a referendum to permit the operation of casino gambling in New Jersey. Refuting proponents' arguments that the measure would revitalize Atlantic City and provide millions of dollars to help solve the state's financial woes, he opined, "Most of all… we think it is morally indefensible for the state or any other government to declare that gambling is illegal and wrong unless the state gets its cut." In conclusion, he noted, "Casino gambling is just another of those pie-in-the-sky ideas that will supposedly solve our financial problems by catering to some of our baser instincts. They haven't worked in the past, and we don't think this will work either. We're voting no on this one."

In "An Important Battle," Klaber wrote, "We doubt that many people fully appreciate the major importance of the current dispute between Livingston and East Orange over the right to develop additional potable water supplies in the area… Just how limited the supply is, we do not know. However, each year our demand rises, and so does the water usage of our neighboring communities." Even in recent years, when there had been a lot of rain, "we still found that we were tending to overdraw our water supply." He concluded, "We feel that it is time for the public to consider various ways in which to conserve our water… We cannot depend indefinitely on the existing underground water supplies to see us and our neighbors through indefinitely. There is a definite limit, and we are approaching it."

Field Hockey Team Competes Valiantly

Despite playing with fierce determination, the Lady Lancer field hockey team failed to score in three recent matches.

The Lady Lancers were host to Montclair Kimberley Academy on Wednesday, October 8, when the game took an interesting turn early in the first half. MKA quickly scored two goals, and the Lancers answered back by being awarded a penalty stroke. At the end of the first half, MKA held the lead 3-0; however, the Lancers continued to take the ball down the field, and although the ball found the net a total of five times, the Lancers were unable to put up any points on the board. Despite a fiercely fought game by the Lancers and outshooting MKA in the circle, the Lancers were defeated 8-0. Junior Daniella Terry stepped up to help the varsity team out in goal.

On Thursday night, October 9, the Lancers traveled to Arthur L. Johnson High School in Clark. Unfortunately, ALJ was able to dominate Livingston, despite the valiant effort put forth by the Lancer defense, with senior captain Olivia Cordero having 23 saves in goal, stick saves contributed by junior Jessie Roth, and three stick saves by senior captain Sydney Merkin. The Lancers were able to hold ALJ to a score of 2-0 at half, but fell to ALJ with a final score of 7-0.

On Monday night, October 13, the Lancers traveled to Cranford. Despite yet another fierce competition, Cranford scored nine minutes into the first half. Defensive stick saves were again contributed by Merkin and Roth. The game ended on a penalty corner for Livingston. Although the Lancers were awarded three consecutive corners with the time elapsed, the Lancers could not capitalize and fell to Cranford by a close final score of 1-0.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and the Lancers will host their "Play4theCure" evening, in addition to their Senior Night, on Tuesday, October 21. "The public is invited to come out and support a great cause as well as our seniors and the rest of the team," said coach Abby Martin.

The Rents Rock Band To Perform in Stanhope

Livingston based rock band, The Rents, will perform tomorrow, Friday, October 17, at the Stanhope House in Stanhope. Doors open at 6 p.m. The Rents will play at 9 p.m.

The band is made up of five Livingston dads, including founders, Scott Morrison on lead guitar; Jack Kolker on bass and Harry Lipman on drums. The band recently expanded with the additions of Steve Ferman on vocals and Rich Miseo on keyboard. They play everything from Led Zeppelin music to their own original songs, said Morrison.

The founders started their basement band 20 years ago and have been rocking New Jersey and New York stages ever since. The Rents have played venues such as the Bitter End, the Cutting Room and the Mercury Lounge in New York City, as well as many other locations.

Morrison, a Chicago native, relocated his family to Livingston more than two decades ago. He says that at the age of ten he began teaching himself how to play the guitar and wrote his first song when he was in seventh grade. He has never taken a music lesson and cannot read music. Instead he listened to and imitated his favorite artists such as Jimmy Page, Jimi Hendrix, Duane Allman, Ted Nugent and the Beatles to create his own style.

Kolker started playing the bass guitar at the age of 12. He and his Livingston High School (LHS)classmate, Brian Drux, formed a musical group that went on to win Battle of the Bands at both LHS and Newark Academy at that time. Tomorrow evening's performance is a "full circle" moment for Kolker as Drux's current band, the Brian Drux Project, will also be performing at the Stanhope House.

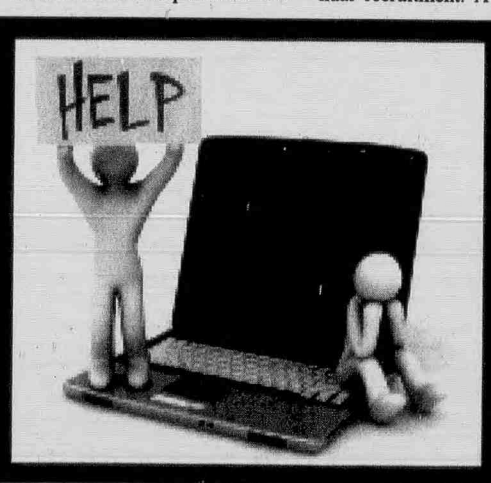

After high school, Kolker went to college in Boston, where he played with the Alleybeats.

Lipman, has been playing the drums since the '70s and took drum lessons from Carmine Apice, who Morrison notes stills plays with "greatest names in rock and roll." Lipman has played in many bands over the years.

The Darren Demarco Band will also perform that evening. For more information on the Stanhope House show, visit www.stanhopehousenj.com.

Parents Teaching Teens "Responsible Drinking" is a Myth

Parents who provide their teens with alcohol and a place to consume it may think they are teaching their children "responsible drinking." A new review of studies concludes this view is misguided. Researchers found parental provision of alcohol is associated with increased teen alcohol use.

In some cases, parental provision of alcohol is also linked with increased heavy episodic drinking and higher rates of alcohol-related problems, the researchers report in the Journal of Studies on Alcohol and Drugs. "We suspect there is a surprising amount of 'social hosting' going on—parents providing alcohol for their teens and their friends," said study co-author Ken C. Winters, Ph.D., Professor in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Minnesota Medical School. "Parents probably aren't aware that social hosting could have criminal implications in some states if things take a bad turn. I can appreciate that social hosting is often done with good intentions. Parents think they are preventing something worse by having their kids drink at home with their friends. But the risks are great."

Senior author Dr. Övgü Kaynak and her co-authors reviewed 22 studies that examined the association between parental provision of alcohol and teen drinking. Based on their findings, they recommend that parents discourage drinking until their children reach the legal drinking age of 21. Parents influence their children's risk for alcohol use in both direct and indirect ways, Winters notes. Indirectly, parents can influence their teens' behavior by failing to monitor their activities while their child still lives at home, having permissive attitudes toward underage drinking, expressing direct approval of underage drinking, or simply by providing unguarded access to alcohol at home.

More direct ways of influencing teens' drinking behavior include offering to buy alcohol for them, supplying alcohol for a teen party, or allowing their teen to drink at home, either supervised or unsupervised. "The most worrisome things parents can do are to model poor behavior by drinking excessively in front of their teens, and to provide alcohol to their teens," Winters said. "I'm not talking giving about a sip of alcohol or an occasional glass of an alcoholic beverage with a meal for an older teenager. I'm referring to parents who host a drinking party and provide alcohol, thinking they will be able to make it safe. It creates more problems than it solves."

The researchers say there is little research to support the notion that it is possible to "teach" children to drink alcohol responsibly. They write their review "suggests that by allowing alcohol use at a young age, parents might increase the risk for progression toward unsupervised drinking more rapidly than it would otherwise have been." Allowing teens to drink may instill a sense of comfort in alcohol use, which could increase their tendency to drink, with or without their parents present. Parents may be giving their teens subtle messages about drinking without even realizing it, Winters notes. For instance, they may not take the opportunity to say something negative about underage drinking if they see it in a movie or TV show they are watching with their teen.

The researchers said they want parents to understand that allowing teens to drink underage, even when supervised by the parent, is always associated with a greater likelihood of drinking during adolescence over time. Social hosting is never a good idea, they emphasize. "Adolescents who attend parties where parents supply alcohol are at increased risk for heavy episodic drinking, alcohol-related problems, and drinking and driving," they wrote.

Help For Parents to Deal With Challenging Children of All Ages

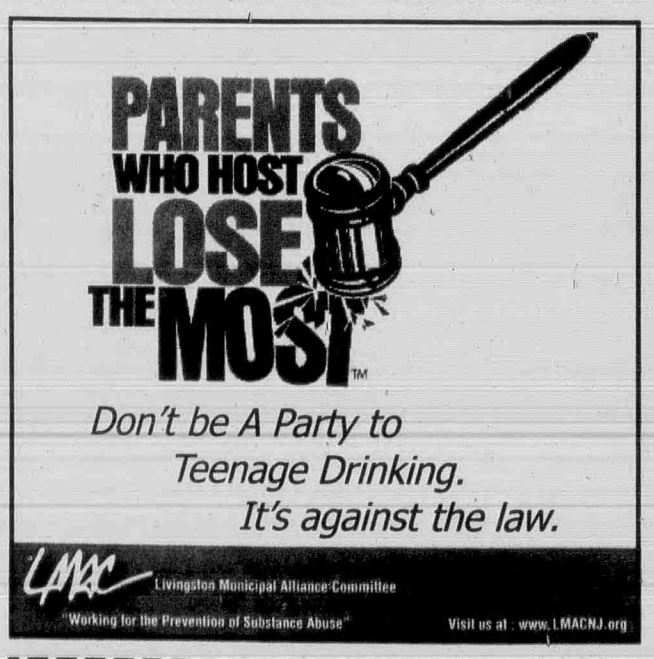

The Livingston Parents Self-Help Support Group (LPSHSG) is a volunteer organization which helps parents with non-traditional children. It has been continually active for over 33 years and has helped hundreds of local families. Parents who attend are seeking new skills and support to deal with a non-traditional child (of all ages including adult children) who has not responded to their current parenting approach. Often the child is disrespectful at home, having problems at school, or in legal trouble. Substance abuse is also common.

We Teach Parents To:

- Understand that their problems are shared by many others
- Determine which of their parental behaviors aren't working
- Learn new skills for interacting with their child
- Work together with their parenting partner to create unity between parents
- Disengage from ineffective battles with their child
- Express empathy and respect while not enabling destructive behavior
- Develop a plan to assert parental control of their home and family
- Set up fair and effective rules with consequences, clarified to children in advance, rather than act punitively
- Guide their children to act responsibly and understand the consequences of their behavior

GRANDPARENTS ARE POWERFUL ALLIES IN PREVENTING TEEN DRUG USE

Grandparents adore their grandchildren – without judgment – and the grandchild adores them. This means that grandparents have a unique opportunity to approach the topic of drugs and alcohol with this generation, in a way that is unlike parents who are the enforcers of discipline. Grandparents can have open and honest conversations with kids without judgment, yelling, criticism or punishment.

The conversation on drugs and alcohol won't just happen by itself. Grandparents should begin by establishing a bond, so this important conversation becomes a natural part of that close relationship. Grandparents can connect with their grandchild initially on their terms and in their world; depending on the age and interests of their grandchild, they might go shopping, play board games or cards, or pick a TV series that they watch together each week. Kids and teens also love to learn new skills, and grandparents are the perfect teachers. Grandparents can teach the child cooking, gardening, crafting or sailing — the opportunities are endless. The goal is to bond and make memories, not to nag or criticize. If an activity is not fun for either grandparent or child, find something new.

Grandparents can use this time together to show an interest in their grandchild's life – listening, asking questions, offering love and encouragement. This is not an opportunity to give advice or opinions – that is the role of parents. Kids will be much more likely to open up about important topics if they see their grandparents as nonjudgmental figures without criticism. Grandparents can also take advantage of technology and social media to connect with their teen grandchild, including texting, video chatting and becoming online 'friends.' They can embrace the chance to enter their grandchild's world in a way that may not be natural to them, but is a fundamental part of the teen's life.

A good relationship between grandparents and children means that they can offer opinions about illegal substance use without seeming like a nag. They don't need to be afraid to express their opinion against underage drinking or dangerous substance use. Research shows that kids are swayed by the opinions of important adults in their lives. Children won't want to disappoint their grandparents, so they will be less likely to indulge when they hear clear disapproval. In addition, grandparents can look for good opportunities to talk to their grandchild about the dangers of drugs and alcohol, such as discussing a news item about a drunk driving accident or story of someone (especially another teen) who had relationship, school or job failure after using drugs.

Once the topic is on the table, grandparents should be open to listening to their grandchild's stories. They may hear about a friend who got 'wasted' or someone who was "grounded for a month," and listen without expressing disapproval. The child may then want to discuss his/her own struggle to fit in and seem 'normal,' but yet not indulge. Grandparents can be prepared with practical advice such as "hold a cup and pretend to drink," or "offer to be the designated driver."

They may listen further and hear stories from their grandchild that worries them – talking about their own overindulgence in alcohol, illegal drugs or even prescription pills. They should resist the urge to yell, criticize or lecture their grandchild. This is the tricky part – they must also resist the urge to keep their grandchild's secret. Above all else, the grandchild's health and safety is of paramount importance. But, grandparents shouldn't go behind the child's back to his/her parent. Instead, they should explain that they need to talk to mom or dad, then offer their support throughout the process, and discuss the best ways to talk to the parent. The child may, at first, feel angry or betrayed, but as long as grandparents continue to be loving and supportive, the relationship will bounce back, and their special bond will continue for many years to come.

The older we get the more decisions we have to make. Transferring from what seems like trivial, tiny schools into the big high school creates a list of decisions longer than a list of every city in the world. There can be good decisions, as well as bad ones.

The pressure to do drugs and drink alcohol is almost guaranteed in high school. Being a freshman myself, there are many times when upper classmen will invite you to parties, so having the fresh, innocent thinking that they just want to be your friend, most people would say yes. If you go, it's very likely that there will be drugs and alcohol there that you didn't plan on. Many people will come up to you and practically force you to drink, maybe not physically but the simple words such as "chicken" or "whimp" might be just enough to give in. There are so many scenarios in which people will make you feel pressured to do something you don't want to do. Something many people don't expect is that often times even their best friend or group of friends will try to pressure you into doing something not right. Take my point of view and think about how making that one wrong decision can ruin your relationships with friends, family or anyone! Think about how it can ruin your focus on education and about how it will impact the rest of your life. Think about feeling regret and feeling lost because you did something that seemed worth it at the time, but it's not worth it. This is the biggest challenge to remember in high school as you make some of the most important decisions on your journey through the years from freshman and beyond.

Since the Drop Off Drug Box was placed in the lobby of the police station this summer, 318 pounds of prescription drugs have been collected and brought to the county for proper disposal. Drop off your expired drugs or prescription drugs, that are no longer needed, to the Drop Off Box at any time for an ecologically safe way to dispose of drugs without polluting the environment

School is back in session and we are looking for new volunteers. Listen to Children program is an intergenerational program that pairs a retired senior citizen with an elementary or middle school-aged child. They meet for about 30 minutes a week talking, playing games and spending time together in a non-judgmental environment. The child-listener friendship allows a child to share conversations, joys, experiences and concerns. The trained listener, who is not in a role of authority, encourages a child to problem solve by choosing positive alternatives.

As a result, the listeners are able to:

- Build a warm and cross-generational relationship
- Model positive attitudes
- Nurture student success
- Foster critical thinking
- Help develop self-esteem

The program is getting started for a new year in all five elementary schools and both middle schools. Please contact your principal or guidance counselor today if you think that your child can benefit from this program or if you have any questions regarding the program. Volunteers are available to listen to your children!

LTC is administered on a non-discriminatory basis by Jewish Family Service of MetroWest. It is sponsored in partnership with the Livingston School District and made possible by the generous support of the Livingston Municipal Alliance Committee (LMAC) and the United Way of Northern New Jersey.

Livingston Youth and Community Services (LYCS) - Building the Leaders of Tomorrow

Livingston Youth and Community Services (LYCS) is a community-based, after-school educational program that provides leadership, healthy life choices, and life skills to students in grades 1 thru 12. As well as educational programs, LYCS Leaders also provides community service opportunities, family socials (i.e., Halloween Party in October and End of Year Pool Party in June 2015) and co-sponsors community programming.

Registration is OPEN and closes by December 31. Programs start in October, and class schedules and program information are available at www.livingstonlycs.org.

Elementary students meet once a month at their school (2:40-3:40 pm). Young Leaders (grades 1 and 2) teaches social, emotional and leadership skills in a fun, educational, after-school program that is age appropriate. Each grade has its own age-appropriate curriculum, with topics including listening, self-esteem, feelings, friendship, making choices, and when to say no.

LYCS Leaders (grade 3, 4 and 5) is a program that emphasizes leadership, responsibility, respect, and teamwork. Leaders' classes address different topics each month for each grade including healthy life choices, leadership, and social skills. Students are taught communication skills, self-esteem, responsibility, respect, and teamwork.

As students move up through the grades, LYCS provides opportunities for them to become more involved in program decision-making. Evening programs are held at Monmouth Court Community Center (5:30-7:00 pm). Grade 5 Leaders Club is an opportunity for all Grade 5 students to meet before going into middle school next year. There is a core curriculum and students choose their goals for the program, additional topics of interest, and a community service project. Peer Leaders (gr. 6, 7 and 8) is a place for students to take on a leadership role. Students choose topics of interest, Adopt-a-Charity, and have the opportunity to attend a weekend leadership camp.

Community Leaders Club (grade 9, 10, 11 and 12) is a community leadership program that provides high school students with opportunities to work with and mentor younger students, including those with special needs. Students are provided with training on presentation skills, facilitating groups, and coordinating community-based programs. Previous program activities have included a variety of community service projects including volunteering and fundraising, cross-age teaching, environmental initiatives, participation in student conferences, and facilitating a weekend leadership camp. Students in this program are expected to be positive role models in the community and are committed to an ATOD-free lifestyle (Alcohol, Tobacco & Other Drugs). This program provides excellent experience in community programming which can enhance any college application.

Save the Date: LYCS Leaders Halloween Party and Family Social is on Friday, October 31, 2014, at 5:30 – 7:00 pm at Monmouth Court Community Center (26 Monmouth Ct). The party is FREE and open to registered students in the LYCS Leaders programs and Clubs, and their siblings. If students are younger than grade 3 we ask a parent/guardian to stay and supervise. Parents/guardians have the option to stay and volunteer on the day, socialize or drop off students and pick-up at 7:00 pm. Join us for an evening of fun, music and games. Pizza and refreshments will be provided.

For more information about LYCS Leaders class schedule and programs go to www.livingstonlycs.org, email: lycs@livingston.org, or call 973-535-7925 ext 703. Registration forms are available at the Senior Community Center (204 Hillside Ave) and you can register in person, or online with CommunityPass.

LYCS Leaders is a program of the Township of Livingston: Senior, Youth and Leisure Services, and is funded in part by the Livingston Municipal Alliance Committee (LMAC).

Smoking Alcohol

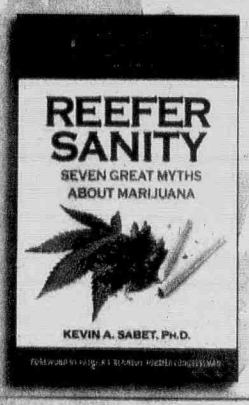

By: Livingston Community Policing/D.A.R.E. Unit

Unfortunately, the title of the piece was not written in error. Most people would agree with the fact that responsible parents speak to their children about the dangers of drinking alcohol and smoking cigarettes. However, do we speak to them about the dangers of smoking alcohol? This relatively recent and dangerous practice of inhaling vaporized alcohol is known as "vaping." Some experts believe that breathing in alcohol that has been vaporized might rapidly lead to alcohol poisoning, as the inhaled vapor/fumes bypass the stomach and liver then are quickly absorbed into the bloodstream and finally the brain. Consequently, some dangerous sides effects of vaping/alcohol inhalation are as follows: severe headache, loss of coordination, alcohol addiction, inflammation of the brain, and damage to nerves in the short term. Long term "vaping" could potentially lead to breathing difficulty, bronchitis, asthma and dementia.

Some things to watch for: if your child is not in the Science Fair this year parents should be leery of certain items lying around your home. There is absolutely no need for teenagers to have an air pump, funnels, hoses, glass straws, empty large plastic bottles or corks "laying around" in their bedrooms, or basement. Parents should be suspicious of the aforementioned items and if their existence can't be explained (quickly) they need to be concerned. Parents should be pro-active and should have open lines of communication with their teenagers. It truly seems as though many parents essentially give the impression that they fear their own kids. There is nothing wrong with asking questions that could keep your child out of harm's way. If smoking cigarettes is unhealthy and consumption of alcohol underage is unsafe, then vaping (smoking alcohol) should be considered at the very least harmful, hazardous to your heath and extremely foolish. It is easy to find out how much alcohol one has consumed after a can of beer or a shot of vodka but how does one accurately measure how much alcohol has entered one's blood stream after vaping?

Lastly, our body has some built in "defense mechanisms" that can help protect us against alcohol poisoning. The food in our stomach and liver can absorb some alcohol. In addition our body weight can impact our respective absorption rates. Urination, nausea, vomiting (gag reflex) or "getting sick" subsequently can also help expel alcohol from the body. In other words, alcohol is eliminated from the body by excretion and our metabolism. After drinking alcohol (which is absorbed overtime) it is essentially metabolized (slowly) in a way parallel to food digestion. At the end of the day parents should understand that they need to pay attention to subtle details or changes in their children's behavior/demeanor, expect the unexpected, do not take anything for granted and have open lines of communication with their children. When conversations of alcohol abuse come up some parents often say, "not my child"... sometimes it may be their child. It does not hurt to ask because you care.

My sister and I chose Robin Pato Davis to sell my mother's house in West Caldwell. From the start she was a pleasure to work with. She gave us great advice regarding pricing, marketing and staging, to excellent recommendations for attorneys and contractors. Robin also helped to smooth out issues with our buyers to pave the way to the final closing. With Robin's help, we had ten offers, and the house sold quickly, for $81,000 above asking price!

Robin was very helpful with preparing my mother's home for sale in Livingston this past September. She was very supportive, giving us excellent advice on the best way for the house to be priced and shown. Robin was always available to meet with all workmen/contractors and with us, to discuss important issues that came up. Her knowledge and expertise in the real estate market led to proven results, demonstrated by a quick sale! And above asking price!

Above, members of the Livingston Pullers, the youngest team to compete, strain to tow a plane weighing over 93,000 pounds. 20 Livingston teens and family members raised $1,320 for the Special Olympics by competing to pull a Boeing 737 plane. Below, rear, are Kirill Dunayev, Jason Vernoff, Max Goott, Paul Goott, Boris Vernoff, and Gery Alter. The middle row shows Aby Bekov, Sabrina Rom, Rebecca Dunayev, Anna Brylin, Max Alter, Daniella Alter, Elaine Vernoff, Gaby Levin, Sara Navi, Julia Vernoff, Alison Walkow and Samantha Walkow. Kneeling in front are Kyle Ferguson and Gaby Levin.

Teens Move 93,000-Pound Plane for Special Olympics

On a rain-soaked Saturday in October, a 20-person team of 14 students and six parents came together to pull a United Airlines Boeing 737, weighing more than 93,000 pounds. It took the team 9.43 seconds to pull the plane 12 feet.

The aptly named team, the "Livingston Pullers," raised $1,320 for the Special Olympics.

They were the youngest team to participate in the "Plane Pull for Special Olympics New Jersey" and competed against 33 other teams, some made up completely of law enforcement officers.

The "Plane Pull," which began in 1997, has helped the New Jersey Law Enforcement Torch Run raise more than $2 million each year for the athletes of Special Olympics New Jersey.

"Livingston Pullers" was started by siblings Jason and Elaine Vernoff, who came up with the idea of raising money for the New Jersey Special Olympics while volunteering in Allie's Camp, run by the Friendship Circle, for special needs children.

"Working with special needs children made us realize how important it is for them to participate in sports," said Elaine Vernoff. She and Jason teamed up with friends Daniella and Max Alter and started their fund-raising campaign at the start of the new school year. The goal was to raise $1,200 to participate in a Plane Pull event.

They got help from friends and family including the Livingston girls' tennis team , where Elaine Vernoff is a co-captain, and coach Elliot Lovi, who has been involved with Special Olympics and has run tennis clinics for special needs children.

What is it like to pull a plane? "It was actually a little easier than I thought it was going to be," said ten year old Max Alter, the youngest member of the team. "Once you get the plane moving, it actually moves pretty quickly."

As much fun as the competition might be, however, it was about more than moving a plane. "You're up there to compete and have fun, but at the end of the day it's a way of raising money for Special Olympics," Jason Vernoff said. "That's what everybody is there for."

Even though the team did not win the trophy, everyone had a terrific time and they are already planning for next year's plane pull.

The Livingston Pullers include Elaine, Jason, Julia and Boris Vernoff; Daniella, Max and Gery Alter; Jeri, Samantha and Alison Walkow; Rebecca and Kirill Dunayev; Max and Paul Goott; Sabrina Rom; Gaby Levin; Sara Navi; Aby Bekov; Kyle Ferguson; and Anna Brylin.

Special Olympics New Jersey is a nonprofit organization that provides year-round sports training and athletic competition to children and adults with intellectual disabilities throughout the state. More than 23,000 athletes enjoy camaraderie and gain a sense of pride and accomplishment through participating in these events annually.

Senior Happening Features Musical Duo

The Livingston Public Library invites all senior citizens to its Senior Happening on Friday, October 17. The event will feature the Stirling Duo with Joseph Gluck on violin and Mark Yolleck on piano.

Gluck had a long career with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra and now performs as a soloist, as well as with the duo. He also gives lecture recitals. Yolleck, who received his master's degree in musicology from Rutgers University, is a solo performer, accompanist, chamber musician and educator. He has served as chairman of the Fine Arts Department in the South Orange/Maplewood school district.

A brown bag lunch begins at noon and the concert will begin at 1 p.m. The Friends of the Library will serve dessert and coffee.
