THIS BUILDING, THE PRODUCT OF MANY THOUGHTFUL MINDS AND SKILFUL HANDS, IS AN EXPRESSION OF THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE TO PROVIDE FULL OPPORTUNITY TO ALL WHO ENTER ITS HALLS, FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF ABILITY AND CHARACTER - THAT THEY MAY BECOME STURDY, RIGHTEOUS CITIZENS INSPIRED BY THE IDEAL OF UNSELFISH SERVICE

MRS. G. W. HUMPHREY President, Columbia Home and School Association

Dedication

In appreciative regard for its continued efforts to better our educational opportunities and contacts, we, the Class of 1938, dedicate this MIRROR to the Home and School Association of Columbia High School.

Establishing a better and a closer connection between the school and the community, the Association has aided our quest for knowledge in many ways and has helped give us an objective in our studies—an opportunity for higher learning.

Thus our parents have been able to play an important part in our educational guidance so that in the future we may become, as they have, active and useful members of the community in which we live.

Foreword

We, the Seniors of Columbia High School, have edited the 1938 MIRROR so that we may receive and take with us a written record of our final year together. Our high school days are growing few in number, and soon we shall depart to make our separate ways in higher education and in life. And so these days in Columbia shall slowly fade from memory as we advance into the problems of the future. Thus, in this book it is our sole purpose to enable ourselves from time to time to retrace our steps and live once more among high school friends and associations.

We have attempted to make this MIRROR one that is worthy of the highest ideals and traditions of the class so that it may encourage us to remember our group for its greaest and most outstanding achievements. Between these covers we have taken particular care to leave each of our classmates a happy remembrance of his associates. By means of a photograph, a witty phrase, or some humorous prophecy the Mirror of 1938 creates for each one of us a pleasant and a lasting relation to Columbia High School.

SENIORS

Retrospect

As the time for our graduation rolls swiftly around, the Class of 1938 passes in review. Perhaps we have thought of the days when there will be no more high school worries for us, but the realization of the splendid opportunities given us and the memory of the wonderful times we had in Columbia High far surpass any cares and troubles we might have had.

In our sophomore year, our big presentation was an operetta, a sparkling comedy entitled "State Secrets". It was sprinkled with songs and dances, and almost every member of the Sophomore Dramatic Club was represented in it. Some of the most prominent members of the cast were Vance Torbert, Miriam Provost, Bob Arras, Ruth Eisenberg, Boyd Harding, Sue Lieblich, and Bill McJames.

Our junior year found us working hard on our first important public performance. On Junior Night we presented "The Devil Comes to Alcaraz", a three-act presentation, with Bob Latta and Peggie Powers heading the cast of the skit given in the first act, and Vance Torbert and Dee Dann leading the pantomime of the same skit in act two. Part three was a series of impressionistic modern dances with the strife in Spain as their motif. Also in our junior year, the Parnassian Society presented for the public the classic drama, "Pride and Prejudice". Among the members of the cast Muriel Wright, Sue Lieblich, Edgar Smith, and Edward Schroeder were the representatives of our class.

Topping our sophomore and junior dramatic achievements was our thrilling senior play, "Death Takes a Holiday". We undertook a big task for a high school group in the presentation of this drama, but aided by the exceptional acting ability of the cast and the hard work of the many committees, we scored a real triumph.

In the field of sports, our class excelled in fine football players. Jim Carrier, quarterback, and Bill Smith, tackle, were perhaps our finest representatives, being elected co-captains in their last year. On the team that so successfully carried through the second undefeated season for Columbia there were ten seniors, with still another alternating at the tackle post. Bob Heald and Bob Krumm, of our class, were basketball team members. Among the outstanding men of the track team were the football captains and many other prominent football players. Jack White carried the honors in tennis; while in baseball, Ozzie Day and Mike Roman were the leaders. Representing our class on the swimming team were Bob Arras, Bob Heald, Duncan Lee, and still many others.

Some of our class who made a name for themselves in Columbia were our school officers—Jack Bosman, president; "Jimmie" Siedler, vice-president; Cynthia Yard, secretary; and Bob Van Ness, treasurer. The president of the Guild and also editor-in-chief of the Mirror staff was Russell Hartranft. You all know our peppy head of the pep committee, Bob Mason. There were many others of the '38 class who made a name for themselves, but it would be impossible to mention all those who have taken advantage of the many opportunities offered us here, have made something of them, and will forever remember all that Columbia High School has given to them.

We, of the class of 1938, hope that we have been able to leave a little in the annals of the Red and Black in return for the vast treasures we have been able to take with us from our alma mater, Columbia.

Come and Get It

1 I IR IR() IR

We, the Class of 1938, who are on the point of passing on into the misty realms of the future, do desire and intend to leave behind us a record and a reputation which no other class may even hope to attain. It is with this in mind that we draw up, publish, and declare this, our last will and testament.

As an intelligent group of model students, filled with all the knowledge we were able to obtain from books, teachers, and other sources, and having at last reached the end of our high school education, we do hereby direct:

First: That all debts, mercenary and otherwise, which we have contracted in the past, be forgotten.

Second: That Columbia High School, the school grounds, the faculty, and their pithy observations and pronouncements be kept in excellent condition by the Silly Sophomores and the Jolly Juniors.

Third: That our keen and famous sense of humor and our toleration of our numercus underlings be left to reverberate through the halls of Columbia.

As individuals we now undertake to leave those many qualities which we possess and which we deem necessary to the coming Senior Class.

Item: I, Boyd "Baron" Harding, bequeath my boyish charm to Keith Kinyon to be used in a manner that he see fit.

Item: I, Janet Merrill, bequeath to Elinor Boyce my "school-girl complexion." (Beauty hint—Use Sweetheart Soap).

liem: I, Edgar Smith, bequeath my shy and retiring disposition to Roy Kirch. Take care, Roy, take care!

Item: I, Dee Dann, bequeath to Jean Hochette my ability to have a finger in all extra-curricular activities. Efficiency is the last word in the modern woman.

Item: I, Bob Arras, bequeath my ability to kick up a splash (and what a splash!) to "Mickey" McBride. Il nagera avec la "greatest of ease." (Pardon, I didn't take enough French.)

Item: I, Jimmie Seidler, bequeath to Jean Humphrey my ability to attain the heights. Oh me, punning again.

Item: I, Bob Krumm, bequeath my flock of feminine admirers to Armand Johnson. Of course, A., my son, you haven't my red hair, not my beautiful physique, nor do you play football as I do, but—oh well, skip it.

Item: We, Helen Tripp and Ruth Eisenberg, bequeath to some Willing Juniorette the care of "Doc" Summers. (No interference in our interests or we will haunt you.)

Item: I, Moses Smith, bequeath my educated feet to Charles Aufderhar, and may he "truck" in a manner befitting my memory.

Item: I, Dot Bartlett, bequeath, if there were only someone to leave it to, my unusual nose. (There could be only one like it.).

Item: I, Bob Smith, bequeath my Barrymore profile to Hallam Walker, It has powers, my lad. (The Smiths seem to have it this year.)

As we bring to a close this document of our class which we desire to be carried out to the nth degree, we wish to say, in all sincerity, that we leave to those who follow us, all the luck of past years, all the ability we can to make Columbia the best school ever, and all the wonderful experiences we have had as we went through the halls of Columbia High School.

In the Future

All was silent, as usual, in Maplewood, as the clock in the Columbia Tower struck twelve. There was a rustling and a bustling, and then 465 strange figures thronged into Columbia High School. They were the ghosts of the class of 1938, holding their class reunion.

Russia's strong man, Comrade Bill Smith, was directing the traffic, assisted by Mel Knox, who turned in his baton for a policeman's club after graduating.

Great flocks of ghosts passed, waving their sheets and moaning happily along the corridor, as each ghost went to the room most appropriate to its calling.

Sue Lieblich, the grand old lady of the stage, went behind the curtains with Shakespearian Boyd Harding and a group of famed Thespians, including the famous team of Lotta and Wright, Muriel as usual amiably agreeing with everything that Directress Marilyn Landers said.

Up in the Music Room a crowd had gathered to watch Vance Torbert and Leo Ritger truck to Swift (Louis Armstrong) Barne's trumpet version of "Mr. Ghost Goes to Town." Off in a corner, famed concert-pianist Jack Bosman and his cellist wife, Barbara Jackson, were quietly tearing their hair.

In the auditorium an unprecedented aggregation of the genii of science and learning were waiting to hear class president, noted Naval architect, Donald Stein, explain his invention for building ships from empty tin cans (one of the greatest single scientific achievements of the twentieth century). There were Wallace MacMullen, the famous surgeon; Joe White, the fascinating dentist; Jack Doran, the criminal lawyer (called a "shyster" by his contemporaries); Clarence Sanderson, the wizard of chemistry; Gus Kruttschmitt, the man who made the famous Shellac-slick Hair Tonic; and Russell Hartranft, the suave author of "A Short History of the World", in seventy-two volumes —and many another world famous personage.

Outside the auditorium a pathetic incident took place. Mild athlete, Bob Heald, asked his five children whether they wanted to hear their father tell them of his athletic achievements or have a "dixie" in the cafeteria. To which they replied, "De la glace, papa, oui, ouil"

In the gymnasium the athletes of the twentieth century were reminiscing. Ozzie was sitting, complacently peering over his three chins and two bellies, and telling lucky sports writer Frank Bush, and trans-Atlantic swimmer, Bob Arras, how he won the world series for the Giants by beaning every Yankee player with his fine pitching.

Newshound Bill Buckley was interviewing bashful Jim ("you eat it") Carrier, while the noisy antics of those Ritz Brothers of Television, Bob Vlachos, Bob Perry, and Bob (Beaugarde) Mason were rewarded with a wry grin and a sarcastic, "Ve-ry funny!" from Abe (monotone) Magee.

Up in the art room, blond adonis Doug MacKelcan was posing for artist Bill Tippett, who sat busily painting, and artist Patty Drake, who just sat.

Off in a quiet corner that eminent magnate of the business world, Bill McJames, was promising castles in the air to secretary Hellie Stanley who cuddled on his lap, and just as she asked if there would be "twees and Wodedendwons," Mrs. Bill McJames (Dee Dann), who had haunted him in life and still haunted him. discovered them, and dragged the hapless, protesting master-of men off by the toupe.

ELEGY

I wish that I could fade right now To some deserted tomb, For any ghost would far surpass The nuts in this homeroom.

THOUGHTS

I sat and dreamed of some place new— The sea with nature at its best; I sat and thought of even you— All, but that doggone Latin test!

INSULT

When e'er the orchestra plays with care, Who would not be offended, When some poor blokes do always clap Before the piece is ended?

STRETCH

I clenched my fist and heaved my cheșt, As loud the chimes did tell the hour; I ran, and ran with all my might, Oh woe, to classes in the tower!

When o'er the books you gently drowse, And pleasant mem'ries linger, 'T is then that you are beckoned forth By a little wagging finger.

We Hate to Leave Em

Well, here we are at last—done, finished, and through. Our high school days (daze) are at an end (we hope), and we will leave behind us a group of high-minded, understanding, and extremely helpful personages known collectively as the faculty. Of course, their condition at present it not what one would describe as "in the pink". But what can one expect of a weary, belittled, browbeaten troupe who for three arduous years have suffered the slings and arrows of outraged seniors! It is to be expected, however (or at least hoped), that the faculty will recover under better treatment next year (an admonition to juniors).

There is, of course, the long, curved index finger of Miss Wilcox, which had beckoned us to her austeer presence. Then too, there does not seem to be any relief in sight for the students who take chemistry with Mr. Erickson or "Doc" Summers, for escaping their torrent of puns and fierce jokes. Mr. Parson's habit of always putting on his hat for a fire drill has also caused his physics classes moments of great hilarity. And when it comes to an efficient manner coupled with an ever cheery smile, then will we remember Miss Guest. In the fashion department Mr. Gnagey holds full sway with his many different suits worn on alternate days with very flashy ties.

Candid Life

As you look at these beautiful pictures, you can well imagine that "Oolie" Day is extremely worried about that rear left tire on his orangepecan Ford.

Now how would you like to be "Daffy" Davimose? She is a fine example of a girl who wants to get places, and she doesn't care how she gets there. Incidently, she was voted the biggest bluff.

"Fritz" DeLorme ought to receive a medal of some sort for his fine exhibition of courage while driving that coffee pot of his to school three times a week. Let me tell you that it is a nerve-wreaking exploit.

Now to get to the underdog of Columbia. Bob Pell just doesn't live right. Remember, he's the fellow who forgot to swim the last lap. Never mind, Bob, it could have happened to a dog. Don't get sore; I didn't say it did.

P. S. We still love you.

All we can say about Marylin Landers is that her name rhymes with "Moses" Mason's. Or at least it did for a while.

"Red" Krumm, yes the football player, will always be known for his sterling left foot, his carrot-red hair, and that maple cane he uses after every football game.

"Mel" Knox could wield a mean club. I wouldn't be surprised to see him end up as a policeman.

Last but not least we should find "Smokey" Perry around here somewhere. He was Columbia's stooge. I hope he doesn't think we are "stoogle" pigeons.

Why Some Seniors Hate to Leave Columbia

J. Bosman: I can't argue with Vance anymore.

B. Arras: Virginia is only a sophomore.

D. Davinmose: I'll have to get a new friend.

D. Lee: No more free lunches.

W. Brett: I still haven't given anybody the Hot Foot. B. Perry. I don't know.

B. Harding: Will I 'ave to taike the bloomin' final?

P. Crompton: Where I'm going, they take only girls.

B. Smith: I'll miss all the bright new faces looking at me.

R. Krumm: What will Mr. Marvel do now that I'm graduating?

J. Doran: I get stage fright.

C. Yard: Do you think I'll get out?

Remarks of Bright Seniors

Mr. Brown: Is it proper to say, "The house's roof is red"? B. S.: No, it should be: "The roof's house is red".

Mr. Gnagey: What distinguishes Hawethorne from most authors? B. S.: All his heroines were females.

B. S.: Will it be all right to translate this at sight? Miss Sora: Yes, at home; not in class.

Miss Smith: What do we get when we simplify this? B. S.: The answer.

B. S.: Is "sweat" a good word? Miss Guest: It's rather strong.

Teacher: What are you reading? B. S.: Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner". Teacher: Who wrote it? B. S.: Don't know; I'll look it up.

The Senior Fight

We, like all other classes of Columbia, have fought the fight-the good fight, we hope—and are now nearing the time to sign the armistice; or, in plainer words, to get that scroll of parchment that means so much to all of us.

We have successfully, or almost so, dodged the bullets of "Doc" Summers' death-dealing puns; and, with skilfull finesse, we have evaded the barbs of Baldy Parsons' wit. We have waged dashing counter attacks against Miss Vale's daring, and have completely outsmarted the entire faculty's system of espionage. We have sent out able red-shirt legions into the field under the leadership of Field Marshall William Smith and his corps of trained football men, and have completely conquered the foe. Our candid camera regiments, at the risk of their lives (and of their marks) have entered the strategic points of the faculty lines and have returned with the goods (Remember, facultythe camera can take only what it sees).

Therefore, having developed a well organized unit, we have met with success. Our foes are completely vanquished -- or at least badly beaten-and in spite of their efforts to make us stay, we are going to leave (we hope).

Junior Class Doodles

The senior class has its actors, the sophomore class has its troubles, but the junior class has its doodlers! The juniors are in a class by themselves when it comes to doodling. The workmanship in the majority of them is exquisite. Below are several examples of junior doodles, proving that, contrary to common opinion, the junior class does have a purpose in life.

No. 1 is a master-piece from the Wilcox Library Collection. It was found on page 230 of Carlyle's "French Revolution." The care with which it has been executed leads many critics to believe that it was done during a study period.

No. 2 belongs to the modern school of thought, which believes that a variety of subjects is better than concentrating on one subject throughout the entire period of doodling.

No. 3 tells us, from the number of geometric figures that are drawn here, that the artist likes to draw geometric figures. This may, or may not, indicate a mathematical turn of mind.

No. 4 is a doodle from which we couldn't draw any conclusions except that it is from the Bell Telephone Booth Collection. The author of this doodle is

No. 5 was done while the creator was talking on the 'phone. It is easily seen that the creator's work is more spontaneous and more flowing when he is not aware that he is doodling. This proves absolutely nothing.

Sophomores on Parade

a Note About Sophomores

By Two of 'em

In recalling to our minds the amusing and interesting highlights of our Sophomore year at Columbia High School, we blush to find what babes we were when we arrived on that memorable day of September the eighth.

When Miss Caswell read the list of assigned homerooms for the boys and girls under her wing, we found that two of our nicest young ladies were listed as boys. Even one of them was sent to the boys' gym. Many of the sophomores were found roaming around the halls trying to find their classrooms with the aid of the "Columbia Highlights."

Little did we realize that we had several up and coming actors and actresses in our midst. Many sophomores made the Parnassian Society (remember the beautiful hat rack in "Funny Business"?), but most of us were content to pay our fifty cents to the Sophomore Dramatic Club. Nearly two hundred sophomores are members of this club. The members gave us a taste of their dramatic ability when they presented their premiere of "His First Date" in assembly. The disinguished Mr. Frederick P. Tippet completely lost his dignity and blushed when he acquired the name of "Fweddie-weddie" offstage (and we mean off-stage!).

The boys semed to have entered into school sports in greater numbers than ever before. Many made the football squad and junior varsity. Such gridiron players as Joe Damasco, Louis Church, Greenfield, and Bill Churm helped to carry the J. V.'s to glory. Jack VanNess and Bob Mahorter, were two of the better players in the line. Doctor Summers wouldn't trade Karl Harr and Bob Agnew for the Varsity ends. On the junior varsity basketball team George Kelly, Bob Winnery, and Baskin proved themselves worthy of mention.

The girls, not to be outdone by the boys, went out for the afterschool sports, too. The tennis tournament called for many contestants. Jean Garneau won by default from Jean Yorkey; the almost professional player, Dory Stalder, defeated Nancy McClane; Nancy Wiley lost to Jean Nason; and Corinne (Teddy to you) Steers won a victory over Gladys Faig. Although the soccer results did not find us on top of the heap, we did have the satisfaction of seeing the "mighty" seniors bow to the third sophomore team. Every Wednesday and Thursday of December and January, the girls battle (and it really is a battle) for the achievement of a place on one of the basketball teams.

Teddy (or Theodora, if you prefer) Barlow rushes through the hall with a flushed face and a look of worry, wondering why "quidam" wants her just when she has that geometry to do. Speaking of geometry, if anyone (how about you, E. B.) has an extra "straight edge" would he mind giving it to a friend of mine so she won't have to borrow one when she endeavors to solve Mr. Talbot's "few problems." (By the way, Peggy, you had better get that assignment notebook or you won't become one of Mr. Talbot's students.)

If "cette femme" from 145 continues taking the corner outside of 148 so quickly and always in the same path, by the time June rolls along, we fear she will have blazed a trail in the marble. That would never do!

We should like to put in an order for a special wastebasket with room for one's two feet. (Are you listening, Chizzie?) It seems as though a certain French class has more comediennes and practical jokers than French scholars.

One sophomore English class will be very disappointed if John A. doesn't tell them that horrible ghost story. How about it, Mr. Brown?

One of Columbia's chief extra-curricular enthusiasms is dramatics. Clubs and home rooms, as well as dramatic societies, present numerous plays in assemblies—in addition, of course, to the school's usual major public performances. Following are some of the plays presented in the year of 1937-38.

The Auditorium Speaks

Your Editor asked me, the Auditorium, who has witnessed senior class plays of former years, to give my opinion of the latest one, "Death Takes A Holiday", presented by the class of 1938.

I was fortunate in having witnessed the first senior class meeting, the tryouts for the chosen play, and the actual rehearsals. I heard of the different committees' work, and saw the stage committees achieve one of the most beautiful sets ever on my stage. I saw the characters take form as the students were directed by Miss Christine Tollefson, who pulled the high school production to such a great height that many said that it compared favorably with the Broadway production.

On the evening of November 20, the curtains opened to show to a full house "Death Takes a Holiday". From the first moment of enthusiastic clapping, which praised the authentic and lovely set, the audience followed a most convincing presentation.

Duke Lambert (Bill McJames), the master of the Villa Happiness, is horror-stricken when Death (Bob Latta), tells him of his intention to take a holiday. So, in the human form of Prince Sirki, Death experiences the life of a mortal, and Duke Lambert's unknowing family and guests feel a disturbing attraction toward the Prince. Death wishes to experience Love, mortal's greatest emotion, and finds that Rhoda (Dee Dann), and the charming Alda (Janet Novak) have not the fearless love of the dreamy girl, Grazia (Muriel Wright). Grazia, against the entreaties of her mother (Sue Lieblich), goes with the known Death into the Land Beyond.

Those mentioned were excellent, and Boyd Harding, as a rejuvenated diplomat, was extremely successful. The supporting cast was also very good. The production was deemed by all, myself included, one of the best ever given in Columbia High School.

The Parnassian Play

Backstage Speaks

"Well, it's all over", sighed the audience, referring to the beautiful production of "The Admirable Crichton", presented by the Parnassian Society. "Well, it's all over," sighed the cast, wishing for the fun of rehearsals. "Well, it's all over", sighed those backstage, thankfully—and your editor was backstage.

And being backstage is an education in itself! Make-up must be on almost half an hour before the curtain rises; costumes must be hung in order of use; properties must be arranged on tables, ready for the scenes in which they are to be used. The motto seems to be, variously, "Hurry", or "Quiet". Humor is not lacking. I noted Boyd Harding's harried entreaties to an uncomprehending make-up man; Janet Merrill's repair of a costume, warning the male members of the cast away; and Rus Forsythe's account of the putting up of the footlights by one of the stage crew, dressed perfectly in hurriedly-borrowed clothing. Some of the cast were in the balcony, and the crew gave a party during the performance.

But there is no doubt that the audience enjoyed the play to the utmost, as was evidenced by the curtain calls. The plot, dealing with the change in class in England and on the island, was subtle, interesting, and provided an excellent field for comedy in both character and situation. The settings were particularly lovely, and were much admired.

The cast was headed by an admirable characterization of Crichton by Edgar Smith, and by Janet Novak as Lady Mary. Boyd Harding as Ernest, Frazer Bent as Lord Loam, and Miriam Provost as Tweeny, were well portrayed. Others in the cast included Sue Lieblich, Walter Avery, Janet Merrill, Dee Dann, Vance Torbert, and Wallace McMullen. "The Admirable Crichton" was excellently directed by Miss Mildred Memory, and was enthusiastically received by all who had the good fortune to see it.

Junior Night

Rigadoon

Yippee! That was the theme of "Rigadoon", the contribution of the Class of 1939 to Columbian dramatics, presented March 11 and 12, 1938.

"Rigadoon" was a case of East meeting West—but not in Kipling fashion. The Prairie Doll (Jean Thomas), the most beautiful ranch owner in Wyoming, and one who vehemently desired the West to remain as it was found, was in serious danger of losing her ranch. Dusty, a cowboy played by Jack Crosson, when in New York City, sees the vacationers in Grand Central Station departing for their holidays, and impulsively invites them to visit the ranch as dudes. Douglas Quarrier (Ken Norris), an engineer who arrives early and tries to irrigate the land, finally wins the Prairie Doll over to some Eastern ideas. To celebrate, she invites every one to a barn dance, where her engagement to Douglas is to be announced. The bad man, One-eyed Pete (Charles Aufderhar), attempts a holdup, but is thought ridiculous by the sissified cowboys, and, before being allowed to commit suicide, is hired by the Prairie Doll to be official bad man.

The story, however, was only the background for a series of spritely dances. The Ski Dance, and the Dance of the Porters at Grand Central, were both ingenious and well interpreted. The Hill-Billy dance was hilariously amusing, as a group of orange-pantalooned, straw-bonneted girls very cleverly imitated chorus-girl ballet and modern dance technique. The chorus rendered versions of "I Ain't Got No Use for the Wimmen", and during the final scene the Prairie Doll gave a solo tap dance. The finale was the greatest success of all. In this scene the Easterners were asked to render a version of the Eastern dance, and four couples complied with a beautiful "Shadow Waltz". The Westerners did a square dance. Then the Big Apple, a combination of both dances, effectively finished a lively entertainment.

Sophomore Dramatic Club

The Sophomore Dramatic Club is one of the outstanding organizations of Columbia High School, not only because it is the largest single club but also because it is the only strictly sophomore extra-curricular organization. Its membership is not based upon competitive try-outs, but rather upon the sincerity of interest demonstrated by incoming sophomores in the field of dramatics. The club has been splendidly developed during the past few years under the excellent tutelage of Miss Alexander, and this year it has been effectively directed by Mr. Wood.

The purpose of the organization is to provide expression for the dramatic interests of sophomores, not only in the field of play acting, but also in allied theatrical fields, such as scenery painting, make-up, stage lighting, play directing, and play-writing.

Many of the school's most delightful assembly programs have been presentations by this club. Furthermore, the club is a training ground and talent finder for the dramatic organizations of the junior and senior years.

This year's officers are: Joy Edgerton, president; William McLaughlin, vice-president; Louise Reicke, secretary; Gregory Flynn, assistant secretary; Helen Torbert, treasurer; Sherman Burking, assistant treasurer. Mr. Platt and Miss Zielenbach assist Mr. Wood in sponsoring the numerous activities of the club.

Among the chief plays presented by the club this year were the following: "Yes Means No"; "Rich Man, Poor Man"; "His First Date"; "E. J. Smith and Wife"; and "Castle of Mr. Simpson".

Summary of the Season

IIRROR

Determined to make the 1937 season more successful than the undefeated 1936 campaign, several of Columbia's gridiron stalwarts did manual labor during the summer months in order to be in mid-season condition when practice started.

That their efforts bore fruit is evidenced by the 25-7 defeat hung on Ferris High School, which proved to be the only setback suffered by that school all season. Mike

Roman scored on the first play of the game to put the Gem in front. In the second period a Ferris forward scored the only touchdown chalked up against Columbia all year.

On the following Saturday Columbia hung the first of a series of 46 to 0 triumphs on Plainfield High's eleven in a game in which a great many subs saw action.

Then a strong, undefeated Morristown eleven visited Underhill Field ready to twist the Cougar's tail. Again Columbia unleashed a tidal wave of touchdowns and the final score read 46 to 0. The Villagers were sparked by Mike Roman and Bob Heald who crossed the final stripe on two occasions apiece.

In the traditional battle of the young campaign with Orange High School, Mike Roman rose to great heights and scored 25 points against the aggressive Benkert Brigade. The "Tornadoes" proved themselves to be merely "puffs" and were easily blown away to the tune of 46-0.

By the time of the Westfield game, "46-0" had become a watchword in South Orange and Maplewood and the outcome of the fray with the Blue and White was accurately predicted by many. Long before the final whistle was blown, the Red and Black had slithered 46 points across the Westfield goal and was content to coast along to another overwhelming victory. Passes featured the Columbia attack when the ground crew stalled in the quagmire. Again Bob Heald and Mike Roman scored two touchdowns apiece.

For their sixth consecutive victim Columbia tackled Montclair High School's Mountaineers. It was in this setto that the "46-0" myth was exploded and for the first time in five weeks the score read 27 for the Jewels and 0 for their opponents. Heald plunged for two markers and his defensive play was outstanding. Pearcy, Jackson, and Smith were also especially brilliant in this encounter.

Saturday, November 6, will always be a memorable occasion to present-day Columbia rooters. That bleak afternoon two fine football teams, Columbia and New Brunswick, were locked in a titanic struggle which saw neither emerge victorious and the final result of which was a 0-0 tie. That the Marvelmen decisively outplayed their rivals does not detract from the brilliance of the New Brunswick combine. When they threatened to crumble, the Zebras were given new life by the vicious tackling, flashy running, and unparalelled punting of their great halfback, Andy Beno.

The next team to face the Twin-towners was East Orange High School's Panthers. Only the sheer fight of the Wassonmen held Columbia to a score of 25-0. Bob Heald was again a bulwark on the defense and once more he tallied two touchdowns.

The "Big Game" was staged in West Orange in the 23rd renewal of the series. The Cowboys were determined to avenge their 1936 defeat by the Big Red, but were disappointed when Bob Heald crashed over center to score the only touchdown of the fray. Jim- Carrier converted and the final score was 7-0 in favor of the Jewels. The victors threatened continually in the second half but could not cross the goal. Columbia's Seven Mules outdid themselves in this tussle and smothered every climax to a glorious season for the 10 seniors in Columbia's starting cast.

G. A. A. Council

Leaders' Club

Girls' Sports

Every year the number of enthusiastic girls who enjoy sports increases. This year the Girls' Athletic Association has a membership of 450. The competitive spirit began early in September when more than 225 girls came out regularly to soccer practice in spite of cold weather and many bumps and bruises. Four teams from each class were chosen, and these teams played each other for points toward the class banner which is awarded the class attaining the highest number of points during the year.

The technique of basketball is easily acquired by the underclassmen, and so interclass basketball competition is as interesting as soccer. Besides class competition, each homeroom that wishes may enter the homeroom tournament. This tournament not only determines homeroom champions, but also gives more girls a chance to play.

The other winter sports are swimming and volley ball. The graceful mermaids have swimming twice a week in order to get in shape for the purpose of winning points for their class in the annual meets.

In the spring, when it is warm enough to go out, the girls start baseball practice and the tennis tournament. There is even more enthusiasm at this time than in the fall, especially if the classes are closely matched, for these sports mark the end of the year's competition.

The Girls' Athletic Association sponsors all the girls sports. The G. A. A. governing body, the council, consists of faculty advisers and seven representatives elected from each class. A point system has been established by the club whereby girls can earn honors. For 100 points a girl receives her class numerals; and if she succeeds in getting 150 points, she earns her "C". The G. A. A. also sponsors social affairs. The two most festive enterprises are the Christmas dance, for which the Service Orchestra plays; and also the final spring banquet, at which time awards are presented.

THE ART OF PRINTING

NID (CO) PPD(C) DE PRINTEDRAS

The invention of printing from movable types, made in Holland near the middle of the fifteenth century, was the most significant invention of civilized man. The priceless jewel of knowledge, which for centuries could be the possession of only a privileged few, was made available to all by the development of printing. During the last five centuries printing has progressed not only as the spreader and preserver of knowledge and culture, but also as the finest of the graphic arts.

We take pride in turning out artistic printing. Our plant represents the last word in modern equipment, skillful craftsmanship, and dependable service.

You regard your yearbook as the reflection of your school; we regard it as a sample of the art of printing.

Our specialty is distinctive printing that both you and we can be proud of.
