We the Living

Every day more people die.
"But what to us? On each same day Others are born to take their places."
Death's a strange and foreign thing
To we who live. We try our best
Not to let it occupy our thoughts,
Pushing it to the remotest corners of our minds.
"Life's for the living; let us get on with this God-given task of ours: to live."
Then death strikes close to us:
A parent, sweetheart, friend. After the initial grief,
We try to forget, not wishing to be haunted
By memories. A month passes, then years.
Soon the deceased is but a photograph in an album,
A name on the fly-leaf of a book. They are seldom Thought of, less mentioned, then forgotten entirely While we go on with life. A fitting fate
For one who has done just as we are now?
Memory must be kept alive, for we on earth have
A precious gift, one which is taken away from us all Eventually. So we in life should occasionally ponder
And stop a moment, and think a thought
Of those no longer with us.

IN MEMORIAM

John McCall Middleton
May 19, 1973

Mrs. Ruth B. Ringel
February 16, 1974

Henry Tarantino
February 24, 1975

Once the teacher, now the friend;
You aided when aid was scarce.
You skillfully and patiently helped me to unfold.

Now, my reflection is clearer and the one I see before me is stronger.

Sights and sounds have been intensified.

Tomorrow, I will seek out a new world supported by my past.

I thank you, friend, for the help in building this, my foundation.

1975
CHS 10.00

Stop a minute.

Rest your weary mind. Just for a second look in the mirror. Look today.
Now is what matters.

You rush to a class.
You race to finish first.
To make it in the mirrored future.

Too busy to take time out.
Too busy to look around,
and meet yourself.

A stranger.
A teacher.
A smile fired across a room.
A friend.

It is the people you've come in contact with whom you have touched.

And, in turn who have touched you.

You are part of this puzzle,
Columbia. Columbia is part of this jigsaw,
the world.

You in your own particular way have made Columbia special.

Everyone has complemented this three year-old journey.

It's been colorful.
It's been dull.
A thousand images.
A million dreams.
Fragmented experiences.

Look in the Mirror.
Know that you must be yourself,
and be your best.

"Who is the fairest?" We are, for we are part of each other.
Some day the reflections of Columbia will be gone. You will find that what remains is a distorted memory.

For that time,
that second
when you look back and are puzzled
by what really happened,
take an extra-long look.

Do it while you can.

Time moves on.

Look while we are still together.

The People.

Adolescence is the time of life when everything seems to be in contradiction, when the naiveté of the past is exposed, when the world seems to be a big blur in search of a synthesis. As our adolescence ends, culminating in high school graduation, it is perhaps worthy of note that the general history of the past few years has reflected this sense of confusion and contradiction, making it perhaps an even more meaningful time in which to grow up. The events of our times, when seen as a whole, seem to represent an irreconcilable conflict between good and bad, happy and unhappy, cooperation and deception, and perhaps most of all, the complexity of our times.

Events of merit are too often found directly next to acts of terrorism. The beauty of athletic competition, is in its invisible ability to bind the athletes together. Olympic participants, both victorious and defeated, stood united as inhabitants of the earth in 1972, until Arab terrorism shattered the peaceful co-existence. Youths of the world had pride in the '72 Olympics. For a short time it seemed that man was able to reconcile his differences: sadly, such optimism was transformed into bewilderment by the ugliness that the mind can produce.

Mostly what can be extracted from the past few years are incidents of corruption and deception, grounded upon hypocrisy. The puzzling, almost silent public reaction to the initial Watergate break-in allowed the largest presidential mandate in history to be awarded to Richard Nixon. The questionable, sudden exclamations that "peace is at hand" concurred beautifully with the 1972 presidential election. This runs parallel to the exaggerated Energy Crisis — another lesson of hypocrisy and deceit. Once fuel prices rose high enough, gasoline and oil were abundant. It seems that when something is desired, the party who has desires deceives the people so as to reach the intended goal.

Fallacy can long be seen as an integral part of the fallen Nixon Administration. The misleading of the American people was best exemplified by the secret bombings of Hanoi. Nixon, at one point in time, ordered the secrecy of the Hanoi bombings and yet walked with his head held high into the Soviet Union and Red China to initiate "Detente." In the American voter's eye, Richard Nixon ended the Cold War. His falseheartedness in this situation makes his supposed role, or lack of it, in the Watergate scandal uneasy. The insincerity of his constant demands "to rid the country of Watergate" demonstrated the hypocrite within him, because when Archibald Cox set out to find the wrong, and so dispose of it, Nixon terminated Cox's appointment. The Saturday Night Massacre was the product of Richard Nixon's contradictions.

In the midst of Watergate, the case that proved the American system effective, there was an unusual juxtaposition of the good and the bad; the humorous and the absurd.

While everyday discussions turned to Watergate, the single folk music hero returned to the stage. From out of the fading sixties came Bob Dylan. Away from the realities of the worsening government situation rang the unique craggy voice that filled the air with a sense of unwielding fortitude. While the country's morale was at a low, Dylan strolled in, though only for an hour or so, and rekindled the honesty he is so closely associated with. Rose Mary Woods demonstrated her physical coordination for the world, while Julie Eisenhower vehemently insisted 'My daddy is not a crook.' And perhaps the most comical situation of all was Richard Nixon's maudlin farewell. Nixon's sanctimonious praises of his mother's saintliness were detached from the usual Nixon character: the character of a stoney man who "gets going when the going gets tough." The pseudo-pious president departed as the honest, humble president entered. Gerald Ford called for candor, a new policy of honesty. He married America and the honeymoon began. However, the honeymoon cracked when Ford granted a pardon to Mr. Nixon. Hypocrisy had once again worked itself into the executive branch.

The usual confusion that an adolescent views the world with, was accentuated by the repugnant situations confronting the Class of 1975. And yet, having grown through such history, it shall be easier to identify what we realize as needs for tomorrow's improvement. The difficult task will actually be implementing such promotion.

NORTH HOUSE OFFICERS

This year North House has sponsored a "night for everyone" including basketball, volleyball, swimming and two films for entertainment. North House has also shown movies during the day in its common resource area. This received an excellent response from the students.

SCHOOL COUNCIL ADVISERS Mr. Hamingson and Mrs. Press.

WEST HOUSE OFFICERS

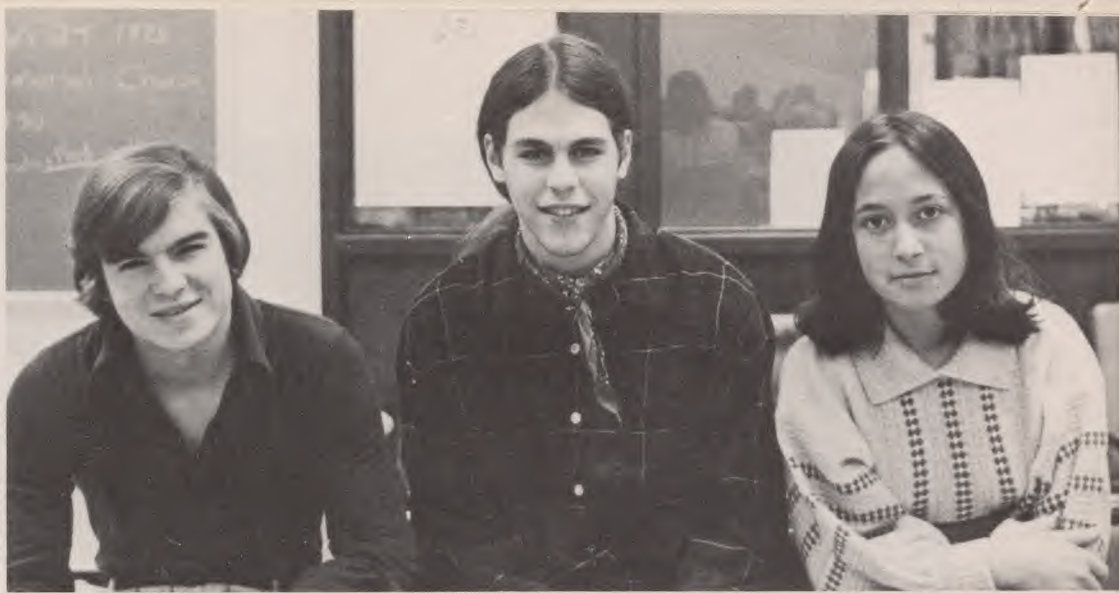

Throughout its years of existence, West House has successfully served the students. During the past year, West House remodeled its commons. It has been converted from a drab, unattractive area to a more comfortable and attractive resource area. West House has also held many different social events, such as movie nights and "Fuzz" dances.

S. Feigenbaum, v. president; Mr. Chase, adviser; G. Burke, president; M. Sperling, treasurer; R. Plastock, secretary.

EAST HOUSE OFFICERS

Thus far East House Council has sponsored several bake sales, both all-day and after-school. It is presently beginning to redecorate its commons and will be showing the movie American Graffiti. In addition, the council hopes to sponsor other evening and afternoon functions throughout the remainder of the year.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS

B. Felzenberg, president; J. Shachat, treasurer; S. Murrill, secretary; E. Simon, v. president.

The Columbia student council tried to accomplish a lot this year. The factor setting it apart from previous councils was the fewer number of representatives: of the forty members, there was little apathy — mostly interest.

The major problem facing council was the administration. Much work was put into ideas regarding smoking; computerized attendance; student parking; and, the 9:30 sign-in privilege. Unfortunately these topics never reached the levels of "serious consideration."

The inevitable question, "was anything accomplished?" can be answered affirmatively. Thanks to the continued willingness to work on behalf of all representatives, but particularly Richard Trenk, Harry Zelnick and Mike Sperling, there are recognizable achievements.

A student can now buy coffee with no other food ("Better Americans with good food"); assemblies are optional; but most significant, is the opening of coordinating committee meetings. Dr. Woodbury met with students concerning the 1975-76 Budget. The student voice was heard, but more than that, it was listened to.

Of the many commendable people in council, it is important not to overlook the new catalysts. Mrs. Adele Press and Mr. Don Hamingson, faculty advisers, have aided the council in whatever ways possible. Their interest matched that of any student.

The stature of the student is rising. The strength of student council is growing. It is doubtful that the label "apathetic" will stick much longer.

SOUTH HOUSE OFFICERS

Under the new South House constitution which was implemented at the beginning of this school year by a majority vote of the entire South House student body, the eighteen South House council representatives were elected at large, six per grade at the beginning of October. The council is in the process of planning a "Battle of the Bands" and a movie night for later this year. South House seems to be working quite cohesively under its new constitution.

CHS has a music program it can be proud of. Noted throughout the state for the quality of its performers, the orchestra has always rated high in regional, state and east coast competitions. The band and chorus, too, are a source of first chair material in the North Jersey Regional and New Jersey All-State Band and Chorus.

This year, the orchestra has received special merit for having the largest number of musicians in the All-Eastern Orchestra, which includes musicians from twelve states. Four string players, sophomore Jacob Robbins and senior Dale Hirschman on violin, senior Donna Robbins on cello, and senior Nancy Feins on harp, performed in Philadelphia for the Music Educators' National Convention.

The music faculty, consisting of Mr. Rudolph Kreutzer, orchestra conductor, Mr. Robert Jones, band director, and Mr. Wayne Fenstermacher, choral director, have put in much time and effort to uphold the quality of their respective groups. Mr. Fenstermacher, a newcomer to the school, has made great strides in rebuilding the chorus and establishing a tremendous spirit and pride among its singers.

The band, during football season, devotes its time to early morning rehearsals, many times marching in freezing weather or through the muddy field. Besides a deep devotion and pride in the marching band, its members have something else in common — ingenuity. One look at the cut-off mittens and well-hidden long johns makes obvious their talent for improvisation.

This year, setting a precedent, the marching band has petitioned for and received approval to issue letters to those musicians who have been members of the band for three years. The letters are to be sewn onto the new band jackets, another notable achievement for the band this year.

Nancye Green

Columbia High School underwent a significant change in appearance during 1974. Mike Donovan and Nancye Green, graduates of N.Y.U. were given an educational grant by the state of N.J. to reconstruct a part of C.H.S. — West House commons on the second floor. They supervised the positioning of plants and made exterior and interior changes. The hallway was so attractive, with huge blocks and comfortable chairs to sit on, that more students gathered here during open homeroom and commons periods than any other place in the school.

This was a joint effort. Everyone who cooperated with Nancye and Mike was given credit towards an independent study in environmental education.

After the fourteen hours' flight from Tokyo, I set my feet on a foreign land. I had dreamed of this for a long time. Now my dream had come true. I'm here in the United States of America. Everything is new for me — buildings, highways, parks, subways, theaters, museums. Everybody looks different. When I first saw Columbia High School, I was excited. It is such a great school! It has many facilities; for instance; the computer room, the indoor swimming pool, the audio-visual room with its many films, the fantastic library, and the stagecraft room, among others. Also, there are lots of interesting courses here. I like this school very much and am having a wonderful time. However, there is only one thing I don't like — the computerized attendance system. It seems that to the school I'm only a card and nothing else. I'm a student of Columbia and not a card belonging to a computer!

In my country, the relationship between teachers and students is very formal, so when I came to Columbia, at first I couldn't believe my eyes. Here it's much more informal. It seems that students and teachers are friends. Since relations between teacher and student are casual in this country, everyone is closer than in Japan. Actually, I've met many kind teachers in Columbia who help me in every way. And of course, I have lots of friends. They are kind even though I still have trouble expressing myself in English. I meet them in my classes, on the soccer team, in the cafeteria, on stairways, and all over. Nice friends are everywhere here at Columbia.

Finally, I thank my host families who have given me love and new mothers and fathers, brothers and sisters, and all of you who have afforded me such a great opportunity to learn about your country and to have such a wonderful time in America. I'll never forget these days at Columbia. The world is only one. We are all brothers and sisters. I hope we can all meet again.

Planning assembly programs which are diverse, creative, educational and entertaining has been a real challenge to the Assembly Committee during the past three years. The committee has experimented with various modes and media of production as well as a multiplicity of formats. Within three years, Columbia has come from mandatory assemblies to optional ones only to arrive at an agreeable mixture of both types. Multi-faceted formats have led to colorful, stimulating programs appealing to a more general audience. Even so, select groups are appeased in their choice of attending one of two or three simultaneously presented programs of special interest. A few such programs have included the hypnotist, the United States senatorial election debates, modern dance groups, drama, musical assemblies such as those featuring Bottle Hill, Stanky Brown, Rush, chamber music ensembles, and the C.H.S. Jazz ensemble, films such as Future Shock, computer-generated movies and animated cartoons, the faculty talent show, the student talent show, and assemblies featuring a member of the Women's Liberation movement and the acupuncturist.

DRAMA

Columbia has seen eight productions in the past three years, three of which have been musicals, and five of which have been dramatic productions. The first presentation was the comedy Harvey, starring Steve Lehrman and Terri Balash. In this production Maurene Singer made her debut as Myrtle Mae Simmons and received fine reviews. The Miracle Worker followed as the Parnassian Society's Christmas show. Susie Reiss did an outstanding job as Helen Keller and Dee Dee Ritota equaled Susie's portrayal in the part of Annie Sullivan. Mike Sperling, Emelia Barbanel, and Leslie Brown also made appearances in this effective drama. The all-school musical Promises, Promises brightened up the year with an effervescent score by Burt Bacharach and Hal David. The cast, including Martin Folkman, Terri Balash, and Danny Baum, did an excellent job with this sophisticated production. That spring, Parnassian produced Inherit the Wind, a moving drama based on the Scopes "Monkey Trial." Daryn DeRose, Steve Lehrman, David Margules, and others gave a fine performance.

In 1974, Columbia saw two productions. First came Once upon a Mattress, a musical scored by Mary Rogers. "Mattress" launched some new stars: Deanna Baum's fiery voice as Queen Aggravain as well as Larry Loeber's jetical dance are remembered with a smile. Mike Sperling appeared again, this time as the friendly minstrel who summarizes events as the musical moves along, waiting for the right princess to arrive for Prince Dauntless, expertly portrayed by Steve Lehrman. Danny Baum outdid himself as King Sextimus; Queen Aggravain's silent spouse, he was speechless until the last ten minutes of the play. And last, but not least, Susan Stern dazzled the audience with her portrayal of Princess Winifred. It was a truly fine production.

Later that year, Parnassian produced Neil Simon's comedy, Plaza Suite. The play, divided into three one-act vignettes starred David Pittman, and Gail FitzPatrick in the first act, Nancy Lindeman and Martin Folkman in the second, and Lydia Salkin and David Margules in the third. The entire production was well directed by Danny Baum, with excellent performances.

This year, Miss Wastie is directing the delightfully risqué comedy, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum. Once again Mike Sperling stars, this time as young Hero. Playing opposite him is a new, promising talent, Kris Berggren, in the part of Philia. Other stars are David Reis, David Medford, Nancy Lindeman, Paul Streifer, Andy Sarewitz, Marc Braunstein and Jon Rich. With its all star cast, Forum can't possibly miss.

Entertainment is an important part of our lives and the plays produced at Columbia were a great asset to the school's activities. Much time and effort went into these productions and they will surely be remembered for a long time.

THE SCHOOL WITHIN A SCHOOL

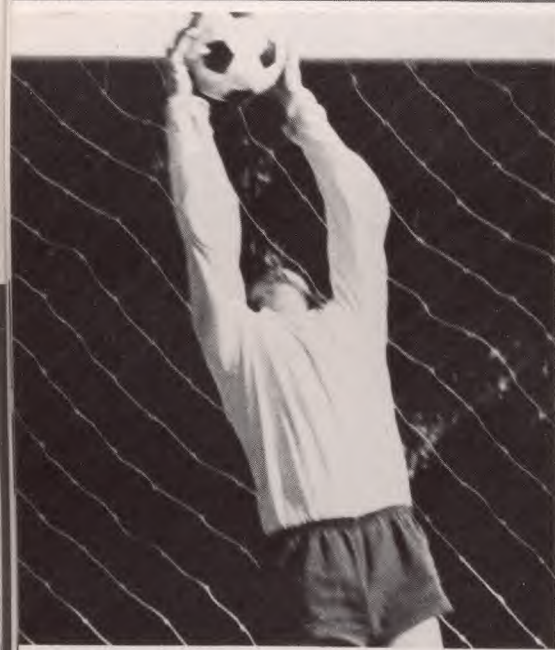

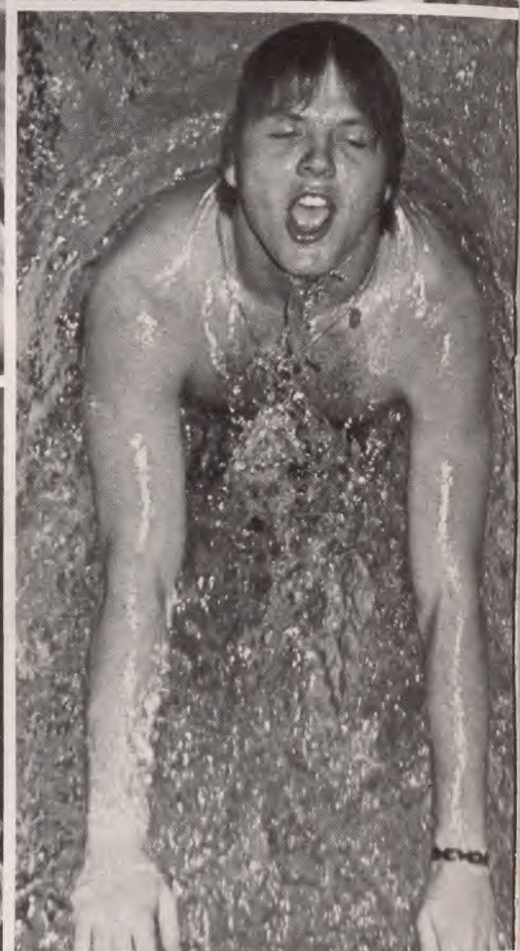

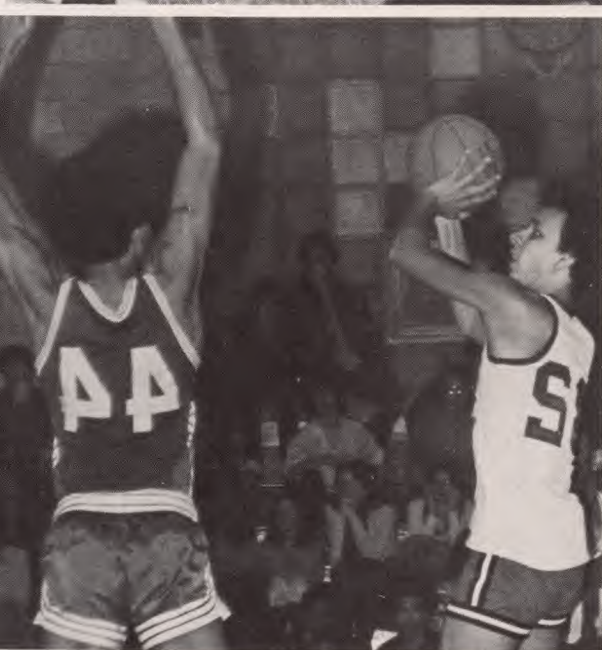

CHAOS (Columbia High Alternative Opportunity School) is a new approach to teaching at Columbia High School. Instead of the traditional type of class and its structured lessons, alternative teaching offers the interested student an opportunity to express his individual talents.

The program is comprised of a variety of courses from which a student must take English, history, and physical education requirements in addition to a series of mini-courses cooperatively designed to provide practical real-life learning experiences. Field trips are an integral segment of the mini-courses. Not only does this diversity make the school day more interesting for the student, but it also offers him a broader scope of knowledge.

CHAOS is an interesting innovation in teaching and the students have been willing candidates for experimentation.

The 1974 Columbia High School soccer team had another strong season despite graduation of all the first team members of last year's Big Ten Championship team. The rebuilding year was more satisfying than expected as the Cougars posted another winning season with an 8-7-1 season. The Cougars were lead by tri-captains Jimmy Grodnick, Rick DeFino, and Scott Goodwin. Grodnick, playing right wing, was one of the mainstays on offense along with the aggressive play of Auggie Celliti with talented John DeVivo. DeFino and Goodwin solidified the midfield with Hugh van Gelder and Dave DeFino playing well at halfback positions. The defense was headed by the outstanding play of Gary Leeds at the sweeper positions. Peter Benjamin, Tony Amato and Rodney Coles played strongly at fallback spots. The booters received excellent net keeping from Mike Fastiggi and Joe Riordan. Seniors who played key roles during the season were Bruce Monti, Dave Martineau and Gary McMillan.

Despite finishing the year with a 2-7 record, the football team showed that it will be a threat to any team in future years. With a new coaching staff the team showed that it could play football the way it should be played. In every game this season they were in until the final moments. 5 of their 7 losses were lost by margins of 7 points or less. The team's defensive unit was lead by all-county end Tommy Evans and all-metro Dan Shelffo. Other standouts were co-captain John Egerter, Wayne Crowell, John Kenny, Ed Zipf, and Steve Hornish. The offense was led by the running of Dan O'Connor and Justin Wharton. Anchoring the line were Charles DelVecchio, Vinny Vitiello, and Joe Dymkowski. Other outstanding team members were quarterback Kevin McCarthy and end Junie Files.

First Row: Co-Captain J. Davis, B. Hollyfield, manager M. Busse, M. Butterly, Co-Captain J. Somers. Second Row: Coach L. Klepak, J. Kozlowski, M. Dalton, F. Pryal, H. Fries, P. Maloney, S. Libramento, K. Horvath, T. Adams, D. Kilcommons, E. Pluys, J. Solomon, J. Butterly, R. Mann, S. Panglochi, S. Dorr.

The 1974 season brought many records and championships to coach Len Klepak's Cougar Harriers. The team was led to an undefeated ten and one dual meet record by co-captains Jim Somers and Jim Davis. The big victories came in the Big Ten and Essex County Championship meets at Branch Brook Park. The Cougars top seven of Somers, Davis, Mike Butterly, Frank Prial, Dan Kilcommons, Erwin Pluys and Phil Maloney out ran their opposition in the Big Ten Meet, placing four runners among top ten finishers. In this race, Somers and Davis tied for first place, breaking the three mile course with a time of 14:41. Sophomores Prial, Kilcommons, and Pluys secured the victory by placing in seventh, eighth, and twenty-fourth spots, respectively.

The following week the Cougars returned to Branch Brook Park to compete in the Essex County Championships. Injuries didn't seem to bother the top seven as they ran to an overwhelming victory, beating runner-up Nutley by thirty-nine points. In this meet Davis led the way, placing first in a course record time of 14:33. Jim Somers, running with an injury, came on to place seventh followed by Kilcommons, who placed ninth. Sewing up the victory along with placing in the top thirty finishers (of one hundred fifty) was Pluys, who placed twentieth. This strong team performance earned the Harriers a tenth place ranking in the state.

In the sectional meet, the Cougars again showed their strength by placing second to a strong Westfield team. Somers led the way in third place along with Davis, who placed fifth. Fine races by Prial, Kilcommons, and Maloney again secured victory for the Cougars.

Luck turned for the Cougars in the States where injuries caused a fourteenth place finish. The bright spot of the day was Somer's second place finish which enabled him to compete in the All-Group race.

The Columbia High School boys' varsity gymnastics team had its most successful season ever, placing third in the State Team Finals. Under the excellent guidance of head coach Marv Speidel and assistant coach Pete Ebbe the team rolled through a 13-1 dual meet season record en route to the North District Title, achieved by a 101.98-97.86 victory over St. Peter's of Jersey City. This landmark season was made possible by the outstanding efforts of the entire team. Co-captains were Pat O'Connor, all-around man who took first place in parallel bars and a second place on the Horizontal Bars in the opening meet, and John Conlon, pommel horse specialist, who achieved a score of 8.25 to place fifth in the state tournament. Joe Magid, one of the team's outstanding ringmen, placed first in the N.J.S.I.A.A. novice meet and fourth in the opening tournament. Norman Spier added much depth to the team on the horizontal bars, pommel horse, and still rings. Further complementing the team were this year's juniors. Dan Swass, next year's co-captain, placed second in the North Sectionals, and was defeated only by teammate John Conlon. Another junior, Mike Viola, next year's other co-captain, placed third in the opening tournament and first on still rings. John Bauer also had a fine year, having reached the sectional championships in tumbling, parallel bar and long horse vaulting. This year's competing sophomores were Chris Gleason, Eric Berk, and Terry Bauer, a long horse vaulter who placed third in the State Finals.

In their second year of interscholastic competition the girls' varsity gymnastics team ended the year with a season record of 3-3. The team had losses to East Brunswick, J. P. Stevens, and Madison, while they enjoyed wins over East Orange Catholic, Cedar Ridge, and Edison. In addition to outstanding performance, three school records were broken this year. Senior Robin Brubaker marked the first new record on the uneven bars, at 6.75, in the second meet of the season against Cedar Ridge. Meanwhile, Robin Grant, another senior, broke the school record on the balance beam with a score of 6.3 in the final meet of the season against Edison. Yet another record was broken by sophomore Jean Altschul who vaulted to a high 7.4 in a tough meet against J. P. Stevens. Sophomores Debbie Cummis and Mary Becker contributed much on the balance beam and uneven bars, respectively.

This year the Columbia Matmen posted a 4-10-1 record, a considerable improvement over last year's one-victory season. Coaches Al Hector and Vic Lomakin can look forward to even more successful seasons in the future from this young rebuilding squad. Not only did the J.V. squad post a successful 9-6 record, but a varsity squad which will only be losing two seniors to graduation took place in the District Tournament. Those who will be graduating are clutch performer heavyweight Don Hecht, a third-place medal winner in the District Tournament, and good all-around performer Steven Fram. Outstanding wrestlers who will be returning include sophomore district champ Andy Edmund, runner-up Armand Cacciarelli, and other good performers Kevin Kerrigan, Steve Libramento, Dave Epstein, Steve Meade, and Gene Madden.

The first two meets of Columbia's girls' swim team were not splashing success stories. The team lost first to Watchung Hills and then to West Essex. But after these two defeats the current changed. The team, under the direction of coaches Laura Wanco and David Yoresh hit a winning streak. Perhaps it was the added coaching skill of a female or the talent of captains Judy Zins and Lois Menke and Mary Doyle, but whatever the reason, the girl swimmers won the next seven meets. Most of the meets were easy wins but there were exceptions. For instance at the Montclair meet, a meet which Columbia was not slated to win, spirit and excellent performances by Jane Van Doren, Karen Wagner, and Mary Doyle led the team to a two point victory.

Although Columbia beat Montclair in a dual meet, the Big Ten Championship, and the Essex County Championships, Montclair won first place, leaving Columbia to claim second in both meets.

There were five swimmers on the team who qualified for the state championship meet: Ann Breen, backstroke; Van Doren, butterfly; Menke, freestyle; Zins, freestyle; and Doyle, breaststroke. They all made a good effort but Zins was the only member who placed in the meet. Although she came in a disappointing twelfth, Judy did have a rewarding undefeated season in the 500 freestyle.

This is the second year that the girls' varsity team has been in existence and again the women of Columbia, with a winning record of 8 and 4, have proven themselves more than able to be admirable representatives of Columbia High School.

The boys' swim team this year finished better than it has in the last four or five years. They won the Big Ten Championship and finished second in the county, missing first place by only one point. The final record was 11 wins and 6 losses. The team was lead through the season with strong showings from people when they were needed. Ed Zipf and Bruce Pearl were the captains and consistantly won, as did Barry Berson, a junior. Next year's team may be strong but it is going to miss a lot of the graduating seniors.

The team was very successful and was proud to send five swimmers to the states: Ed Zipf, swimming freestyle; Bruce Pearl, backstroke; Barry Berson, freestyle; Gary Cahill, breaststroke; and Johnny Amerman, freestyle.

Did someone say "The coachless team"? Well, nevertheless, credit and respect are due the members of the 1974 basketball team. While the season record may be unspectacular, it belies the hard work, comradeship, and team spirit exhibited by the entire team. Perhaps there has never been a similar season in the history of CHS, but certainly the team and school spirit has never been and probably never will be duplicated. The Cougars' early practice sessions were very impressive as the team learned Coach Walker's systems of offense and defense. Early scrimmages confirmed Coach Walker's beliefs that Columbia could be a Big Ten contender. The glue that was to make this season successful was the togetherness between the players, and Coach Walker saw this present. After an opening loss to Nutley by two points, Coach Walker thought that the glue was still there. After an unfortunate incident the Cougar troubles soon began. One bright note of the year was the defeat of Orange after having been defeated by that team for twelve straight years. Other wins were a 55-52 shading of St. Benedict's in a suspenseful, action-packed game, and a 64-54 win over Nutley, who had beaten the Cougars earlier in the season.

First row: Coach T. Ruggerio, D. O'Conne, H. Hargett, D. Santillo, Captain E. Madden, P. Holl, E. Surowicth, manager D. Christie.
Second row: C. Mersier, M. Purcell, B. Collins, L. Metro, G. Byrd, S. Madigan, manager S. Staszak.

With a new "team concept" of basketball, the Cougar girls ran off a five game winning streak after losing their opener. Leading the way for the Cougars was Patti Holl who was the leading scorer for the season. She was aided by Diane O'Conne, Hester Hargett, Gerry Byrd, and Susan Madigan. These were the five leading scorers for the girls' team. On defense, captain Eileen Madden sparked the pressing defenses by stealing the ball fourteen times in the five-game winning streak. Highlighting the season were wins over Montclair, the Big Ten champions, Kearny, and Belleville, who were very formidable foes for the three games in which the Cougar defense held their opponents to under twenty points. Individual high games were scored by Diane O'Conne, who scored twenty-two and twenty points against Kearny. The Cougars' offensive team average was 43.7 points per game compared to the 36.4 points scored by their opponents.

The 1974-1975 season brought frustration as well as satisfaction to Coaches Wask and Klepak and their Cougar squad.

Most of the competition for the Cougars this season came in the large invitational and the developmental meets. Despite damaging injuries, the Cougars established many school records during the three-month season. In the Milrose trials senior Jim Davis set a new school one-mile record when he ran 4:22.6. The two-mile relay record was broken twice during the season, the second time in the St. Francis Prep Games, when a team of Mike Butterly, Erwin Pluys, Davis, and Jim Somers ran a time of 8:19. In the developmental meets many personal records were set. Pluys and Prial set sophomore records of 4:35 in the mile and 10:00 in the two mile. Other strong performances were turned in by Bob Grossman, Chris Gleason, Henry Fries, Brian Hollyfield and Paul Maloney.

The Cougar hopes of winning the state relays and the Big Ten championship were dampened by key injuries. Distance star Somers, hampered by injuries most of the season, was forced out of the state relays because of the flu. The Cougars' distance medley team of Grossman, Pluys, and Davis ran a 3:50.

In the Big Ten championships held outside on the Nutley track, the Cougars fought off cold conditions to finish in a strong second place, just four points behind East Orange. Victories were gained by Pluys and Davis in the mile and two-mile, respectively. The field event placers were led by Justin Wharton, who placed fifth over-all. Third place finishers were Butterly and Prial, respectively.

The State Group championships were held at Princeton's Jadwin Gym. Davis finished fourth in the mile and qualified for the all-group meet. Pluys set a personal best and a sophomore record when he ran a 2:03 in the 880 yard run. Prial also set a personal best and sophomore record when he ran 9:55 to place seventh in the two-mile. Davis went on to finish sixth in the all-group mile.

The high point of the season came in the Easterns when the Columbia distance medley of Pluys, Grossman, Somers, and Davis finished third, establishing a new school record as well as posting the third fastest time in the East.

The 1975 outdoor track team is looking forward to an undefeated season this year under the leadership of Coaches Len Klepack, Eugene Czyowych, and Jay Gavitt, with Pete Cole. This year the Cougars will be defending their Big Ten title of last year, and hope to be victorious in the Essex County and Big Ten championship bids. The Cougars also have hopes of sending several of their top runners to the States. With a fine group of veterans returning, and an outstanding group of underclassmen the runners should break many of the school records. Many of these records should be established at the Penn Relay Championships held at Franklin Field, at the University of Pennsylvania. Returning seniors are: Brian Hollyfield, Mike Butterly, Gordon Freeman, Don Hecht, Pat Cedola, and Pat O'Connor. With other seniors Jim Davis, Jim Sommers, Anthony Palisi, Mark Levine, Kevin Geddes, Dan Shelffo, Mark Jennis, Mark Littlejohn, Daryl Hargett, and Todd Jones, the team can look forward to a winning season in their ten dual and eleven invitational meets.

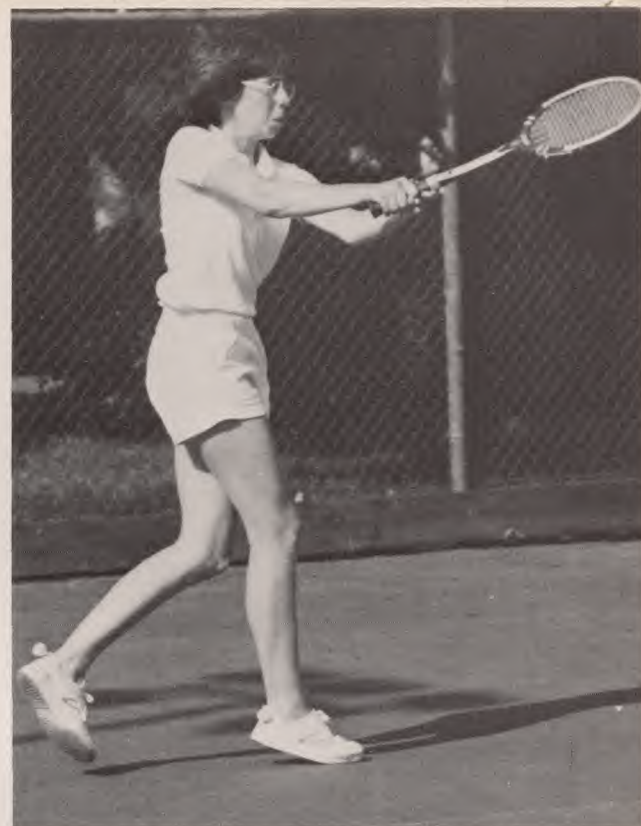

The 1975 varsity golf team, under the supervision of Coach Ernest F. DelGuercio, is looking forward to another very successful season. Seniors Steve Schneider, Chris Reilly, Tom Kalb, Cliff Greenberg, and Steve Reichenstein, along with juniors Andrew Brody, Ray Lubka, and Tom Thornton are the returning linksmen from last year. These veterans, with the help of a very impressive field of newcomers, should give Coach DelGuercio a flexible team on which many strategic moves can be made in aiding toward another winning season in 1975.

In their first year of interscholastic competition, the girls' varsity tennis team had an outstanding season. It began with a crushing victory (6-0) over Nutley and continued with victories against Union, Bloomfield, and Linden, with losses against tough Montclair and West Essex. A major achievement of the team was winning a trophy for the school. This was achieved as the team placed third in the Montclair State tournament. Continued outstanding performance was shown by Pat Antinozzi and Jane Van Doren with the best season records, and by Betsy Cohn, Helen Goldner, and Jennifer Bick. In the upcoming 1975 season captain Pat Antinozzi, Jane Van Doren, and Ami Friedman are expected back in the line-up, along with strong newcomers Cathy Connors and Karen Kramer.

The Cougar Netmen had an extremely successful season in 1974. The total season record was twelve wins and two losses, and in addition to the winning season, the team placed third in the Newark Academy boys' tournament. The netmen fell only to West Orange and Millburn, while they had victories over such tough teams as Montclair, Summit, Livingston, and Berkeley Heights. A high point of the 1974 season was a victory over Millburn, 3-2, after the Cougars had been defeated by them earlier in the season.

The 1975 season looks encouraging with senior co-captains Steve Fram and Jimmy Grodnick expected to play starting spots. Other outstanding players are John Gruen, Matt Waldor, and Hugh van Gelder.

"Not only does this year's varsity squad have an excellent chance of taking the Big Ten, but there is also a great possibility that we will place in the state tournament," says captain John Dixon.

Some of the seniors this year will include Joe Covello, Billy Edward, Paul Eisenberg, John Kelly, Craig Musum, and Tim Newman in the pitching department. Dixon, Bob Fritzen, Ron Lombardi, Tom Tivenan, Steve Willis, and Joe Zente will hold down the infield positions. Lou DiGiovine, Steve Dreschel, and Kevin McCarthy will set the outfield. Mike Doyle, an outstanding catcher, will be backed up by Bruce Dziedzic. Of these seniors the veterans are Fritzen and Dixon. These seniors are not promised a starting position but all are definitely qualified in the area of experience. The battle for the starting lineup will continue until the final decision is reached by Coach Fletcher.

First row: K. Epstein, M. Conlon, D. O'Conne, L. Metro, E. Surowitch, D. Santillo, M. Yoursh. Second row: M. Martineau, G. Byrd, S. Madigan, R. Sperduto, J. Horvath, M. Doyle, J. Kenny.

The 1974 season record for the girls' softball team was outstanding for a first-year team. It stood at an impressive ten wins, no losses, the only defeatless record for any 1974 CHS varsity sport.

Both the hitting and fielding skills of the team were excellent in conjunction with the very good pitching of Eileen Madden. Bonnie Hurley played an important part as center fielder and connected with second base Maureen Conlon to complete some fast, tricky plays. Other outstanding players were Jill Huston and Martha Van Loon.

With seniors Madden, Hurley, and Conlon returning, the 1975 season will probably be a repeat of 1974 with Tom Ruggerio coaching the team.

First row: D. Eick, S. Price, F. Frasco, E. DelVecchio, Captain J. Kenny, J. Regan, G. Taylor, G. Sprague, G. McLoughlin, J. Kaplin
Second row: T. Madden, D. Goettlich, E. Zipf, B. Pearl, J. Hooper, J. Riordan, M. Dalton, D. Schweikert, J. Schwartz. Third row: Coach B. Curcio, D. Lawrence, C. DelVecchio, D. Carswell, B. Perna, J. Butkus, G. Klein, J. Durando, S. Faig, J. Egerter, M. Keyasko, J. Coniaris, N. Breen, S. Hornish, D. Martineau, manager S. MacCoy

Lacrosse — that is the game in which "some guys throw a ball around using a stick with a net on the end of it." It's the game that almost everyone has heard of, but no one has seen. Well, not really, it is more than that: it is a game of skill, dedication, friendship, rivalries, and speed. It is the fastest game on two feet.

Formerly known as the Big Green Machine of the Maplewood Lacrosse Club, which functioned for 17 years, the team will now disguise itself with red and black as Columbia's varsity lacrosse team. Returning seniors Charlie DelVecchio, John Egerter, Steve Faig, "Buster" Goettlich, Steve "Horni," John Kenny, Mark Keyasko, Ryer Malone, Dick Lawrence, Bruce Pearl, Dave Schweikert, and Ed Zipf, along with the many other players on the team, hope to once again have a very good year. Having been state champs as a club in the years '62, '64, '67, and '69, the team figures that it is time to take the title again in 1975.

Look into the Mirror; deep, deep into the Mirror...

"Rivers of endless tides have passed beneath my feet and all too soon they had me standing on my own."

*There was a window of picture
Which my eyes gazed through
One Saturday morning
Leaves of orange-yellow brown
As I lay down
To reflect the times when I used to jump.*

Barbara Warmflash

*Remember yesterday,
Dream of tomorrow,
But live and love today.*

Flee

Running, escaping
the hardships of life, abhorring the beautiful flight of the birds,
wishing wings.
Having only music to carry you out of the confusion the world/life brings.
Being the owner of a rusting mind with the license plate-?!?!?
Controlling the switchboard to nothing, thinking it's something while envying the tranquil sea.

Danne

*Scattered Small dreams
fell away, like long hair
torn away from my scalp.
Surrounding me,
whimpering "when i grow up then..."*

*Gotta break away!!
Had to break -
SMASH the fragile cancer!
and SMASH the escapes to Never Grow Up Land!
Break the little girly smiles - ruffled dresses!*

Ruth Dinerman

I AM NOT AFRAID OF TOMORROW
BECAUSE I HAVE SEEN
YESTERDAY
AND LOVE TODAY.
W.H. WHITE

*The axe reclines
after splitting bark and severing the tree
as a shadow softens the tip of his boot, smeared with clay*

*In his mind
the branches shake, the leaves gather air dust and twigs rise from the ground
as the mighty oak falls*

*In his mind
a worn hand sweeps away sawdust
the body lowers itself onto the stump and he wipes his brow with a hand, that felled a tree*

*The shadow carefully seeks leather and lace
he looks again at the severed tree which only fell
in his mind*

Michael H. Ruby

It's not time to make a change, just relax, take it easy. You're still young, that's your fault there's so much you have to know...

*For you will still be here tomorrow
but your dreams may not.*

*How can I try to explain,
'cause when I do he turns away again. It's always been the same, same old story.*

From the moment I could talk I was ordered to listen, now there's a way and I know that I have to go. Away, I know, I have to go.

Cat Stevens

*I've learned from outside, outside our school
but I've also learned inside
from people from experiences
even from some teachers
I'll take with me to the outside to teach what I have learned but I hope I've learned enough to teach, to help what I can.*

Jamie Siegel

*Walking in the crisp colored air of leaves
I hear the bell sound
Onto the crackle sounding path I step,
I can feel the cool brown snapping air around me
Seeing the yellow soft, muzzled sound above,
I sense warmth.
The bell sounds.
Onward I move until I'm under the Rustling green that no one knows,
The cold quiet of darkness is now below me.
Here is where I want to stay.
I hear the bell sound.*

TALKING TO MYSELF

I sit and I talk to myself.
Others come by and laugh,
But I understand.
They say I am wasting my time,
But at least I am talking to someone who will listen.

Growing Pains

Now,
after 65 years
we can sit down and let our legs
stop jumping rope.

Why don't we start off with a quick hot-sotch
and go bliss
into turn-off the night light
and stopclockwatch,
then the sun will wake us up,
make us open wide our eyes and sigh, as we watch our watches fly by, as we throw them off any big city bridge and head for the hill that we're already over, now rollypolly over, to valley picnic anytime; with fine wine and laugh; maybe at ourselves and cry; surely for ourselves and die; in each other's arms
just in the nick of time to start living?

Dana Adler

A Place Within

Within the shallow minds hidden is a place within
A certain peace/tranquility of joy Freedom from the fire
that terrifies the match,
a place
within the deep sea that discovered the fishes, who weren't so bad after all. The hideaway that stirs the hunger/thirst to lay in the open,
hot sun
away from the sting of life.

Danne

The Pen

Statue stands, long and slenderly cylindrical
At its base rests its murky white path upon Which the burden of its vision steps.
Oh that history has been recorded through its eyes, Stare at the knowledge of the eyes. Perhaps (Dare I ask) you can suck the knowledge from its Eyes. Release can drive the anguish to the Abyss of indecision.

Images roar by statue standing atwart and Slenderly silent, awakening a twinge in stomach,
A stir in spirit. Yet it stumbles instead of Articulates.
In its last trembling act statue remains defiantly Silent (screams silent, dreams silent). Twitches but Gathers its defiance; braced against experience
It succeeds. Remains in state of desuetude
Laughing at the wanderers lost at its base...
And is discomfitted.

And the painted ponies go up and down.

Joni Mitchell

Chance Meeting

melodiously, symphonically
our lives flow evenly through the murky haze
of time.
growing, reaching, touching.
a myriad of shadowy images expanding, over-lapping, merging, replenishing our substance.

it is by chance we met, and by chance we may part.
our destiny belongs not to us,
but to the crowded fog
in which we dwell, clouding our senses and slowing our minds.

we control only the quality of our being and the interaction of our selves,
for our minds alone belong to us.
and if we are to grow, and make worth our existence
we must learn to touch and grasp, to exchange the essence of our selves
while the whirling mass of eternity dulls our vision and closes our minds.

but before the shroud engulfs our bodies
and we succumb to its numbness, bear me witness.
for my soul has grown, expanded, overflowed its limits in its endless search to find the being with whom i may merge in peace, and become one.

if it is by chance we met,
and by chance we part, let it not be by chance we two learn and grow.
then perhaps someday,
we may merge, intertwine,
to form a union nearer the perfection of god than each alone.

FORGIVE ME FOR NOT RECOGNIZING YOU By Chaim Mendelson

Is it my imagination that you lost

ten years
in ten minutes

Or a potency
more than champagne

that went to your head
and kindled the light in your eyes

Yet we were what

Not sweethearts hardly friends

but young
together

...now all that is left is "tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow..."

A good thought is developed by a mind
That wants to know why —
A good thought that expresses love is An attempt to explain the inexplicable
Sensation of the experience of one in love —
One who loves tends to make the other love
And so we grow.
And when we are apart babe,
Just go through it for it is only Ephemeral as all of time is,
And thank love for making it bearable.

AFTERGLOW

Sunset is always disturbing
Whether theatrical or muted,
But still more disturbing
Is that last desperate glow
That turns the plain to rust
When on the horizon nothing is left
Of the pump and clamor of the setting sun.
How hard holding onto that light, so tauntly drawn and different,
That hallucination which the human fear of the dark imposes on space
And which ceases at once
The moment we realize its falsity
The way a dream is broken
The moment the sleeper knows he is dreaming.

Till silence interposes a solid clearness:
And this all brings to be in equilibrium.

The 1975 Mirror is the culmination of the talents and efforts of many people. To all who helped, a hearty "thank you." Special thanks are in order for contributing photographers Sue Berman, Ruth Dinerman, Jimmy Gutentag, Marc Lester, David Medford, and Marty Wayne. Gratitude also goes to all the junior editors, especially Tommy Grotta. Also in the "above-and-beyond" category falls Sedra Jayne Varga, without whose proofreading talents this publication would be a bit misspelled in some places. To Hill, Holiday, Connors, Cosmopolous, Inc. of Boston, our eternal delight for the wonderful cover and section dividers they produced for us. Thanks, too, to Richard Gross and Marvin Gershenfeld of Richard's Studio, South Orange, and Mr. Roy Innocenti, our Bradbury-Keller representative. Applause for a job well done goes to Mr. Al Mucci, our financial adviser. Most Special Thanks of All to Tom Palma for the great job he has done in his first year as yearbook adviser. Here's to hoping for more years under his advisership.
