On June 8th, tickets will be sold at the Burrowes Mansion only.

PLEASE NOTE: Using this program and the map insert, you can start at any point and go in either direction without confusion. The listing sequence, for house numbers and present owners, is correct for your walk (i.e., 211 is approximately opposite 222 and 226 ... and 208 is approximately one-half block away). Odd numbers are provided in the left hand margin, whereas even numbers are in the right margin. Stop outside the "DO" (Description Only) locations and read the remarks provided in this program. All ticketed personnel are welcome to visit the "TA" (Ticket Admission) locations where members and friends of The Matawan Historical Society will provide additional information beyond that found in this program. All homes, opened for the Walking Tour, will be limited to showings on the first floor only. From Memorial Park to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, the distance is 1½ miles. Enjoy!

MEMORIAL PARK - established in 1928 as a civic memorial to War Veterans. The land for this one-acre park cost $9,500; and the flowers and shrubs were contributed by the community. The figure of the American Doughboy is the work of E. M. Viquesney of Spencer, Indiana. In 1929, a 7" howitzer - from the Benicia Arsenal in California - was placed in the park. The sun dial is in memory of Elizabeth Clark Clegg, a Y.M.C.A. Hostess in World War I, who was the only Matawan woman to serve overseas. In the center of the Park is the flag pole which was a gift of the late Charles E. Close. A tablet, at the base of the Doughboy statue, bears the names of our war dead.

Edward I. Buckle - The Episcopal parish was incorporated in 1850 at Middletown Point. Colonel John Travers was the moving force in the erection of this interesting brick structure. The cornerstone was laid in 1850; and Trinity Episcopal Church was consecrated in 1851. On May 11, the parish, now located on Ryers Lane, celebrated its 125th anniversary. Genevieve Donnell was reared in this denomination and building. Today, numerous commercial enterprises use Trinity Village as their headquarters.

74 (DO)

Mr. and Mrs. Stockton H. Hopkins - The house was built around 1850 by A. Longstreet. By 1873, the house was sold to T. W. Thorne; and his two daughters resided there until their deaths in the 1920s. The estate was purchased by Edward B. Sandford and was bequeathed to Charlotte Sandford Hopkins in 1972. Every piece of woodwork has the artificially grained wood. The woodwork in the Dining Room has been restored.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Sickels - The home was built in 1856 for Captain A. H. Hopkins. The home is of the center hall design with two Living Rooms and a Dining Room and Kitchen downstairs; and the three Bedrooms are upstairs. Throughout the house, the floors are of 9" pine planks. Around 1900, the house was jacked up and placed on a new foundation ... lifting it above the old street level.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Inquaggiato - This General Store was built for A. J. Carten around 1886. Merchandise included clothing (for ladies, men, and children) as well as groceries, hardware, horse blankets, and harnesses on the First Floor. The Second Floor housed furniture and wallpaper as well as storage of unsold toys until the following Christmas. In the basement, storage was provided for cider, butter, vinegar, molasses, and oil for lamps. Kerosene was stored out back. Five horse-drawn delivery wagons serviced the Cliffwood, Cheesequakes (original spelling), Morgenville, and Middletown Point areas. As the week's deliveries were made, the order for next week's supplies was taken. The drivers would warm themselves around the huge pot-bellied stove. The site is best known today as Andy's Barber Shop.

92 (DO)

THE BURROWES MANSION - The Bowne family built the mansion in 1723; and it was sold later to the Corn King, John Burrowes. Responding to the cause of the Revolution, the First New Jersey Company was mustered in the garden of the Burrowes homestead. The mansion played a key role in that era when the local Tories tried to capture Major Burrowes. In 1850, the Steamboat Hotel and lumber yard and stores of Longstreet and Bray were housed in the mansion. By 1873, Dr. A. Pitman had taken the mansion as his home. Later, a minister was to reside there; and, around the turn of the century, Mrs. Herrick's father purchased the mansion. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Herrick recently sold this historic site to the Borough of Matawan for $25,000, so that it can become a museum. Interior and exterior restoration efforts are presently underway; and we encourage your patience today with the related dust and debris. Funds derived from today's Walking Tour will benefit this restoration work.

Miss Mary C. Cartan, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Taylor, and E. Cartan Boone - The builder of this house, after 1850, was a Mr. Caleb. Captain C. Brown's house has a feature, common to that of ship captains, in that all of the upstairs rooms open onto each other, as well as onto the hall. The Captain had two daughters ... and this feature allowed the females privacy and protection in the absence of a male. By 1873, the Deed was held by Mrs. Brown and, thus, the Captain can be assumed dead. Mrs. John Terhune acquired the property and rented it. Later, it was sold to Mr. Goodheart and then, in 1905, sold to A. J. Cartan, owner of the General Store across the street. The Cartan heirs now own the property jointly.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Beyer - The home was built for Captain G. Heirs prior to 1850 and became part of the W. L. Harrison estate by 1873. The front of the residence is presently being renovated and will incorporate a new entrance into the adjacent tavern (which is on the site of the former driveway).

Matawan Chamber of Commerce, Inc. - The building was constructed prior to 1873 as part of the Haywood Slaughter house. Later, the office was moved to the front of Main Street and the Slaughter house no longer remained on Main Street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Panko - On the 1850 map, a structure was on the corner of Little Street by the name of Boeild and Craig's Store and Post Office. By 1873, the store was owned by C. Straub. A photograph of a fireman's affair, in the

Farms Bought and Sold
Money Loaned on Bonded Mortgages
Law Office of Jacob R. Lefferts

Later, the shop was sold to the Rapollas, then it became Mrs. Gildon's Variety Shop. Melvin Tanis, the son-in-law, continued the Variety Shop until it was purchased by John Penko, who renamed it Johnnie's Cozy Corner.

United States Post Office - In 1850, the Dunlop residence was at the site of the 1936 section of the Post Office. A window shade factory and two residences were at the site of the new 1975 section and driveway. By 1873, the W. Brown and Dr. F. K. Travers residences were on the site of the addition ... with the Dunlop family still holding title to their property. The Matawan Post Office was in the Boeide and Craig's store (now Johnnie's Cozy Corner) in 1850. On an 1855 map, the Post Office was moved across the street to a store at the present location of Cork N' Bottle Liquors. Later, it was moved to the present site of the Matawan Insurance Agency (next door) and, in 1937, the new building was constructed at its present site. On May 12, 1975, the expanded Post Office facility was opened for business. You will note that off-street customer parking is now available alongside the Post Office during its business hours.

159 (DO)

Matawan Insurance Agency - In 1850, this building housed the "Democratic Banner" run by Bell and Fountain, Publishers. Lawyers have used the building for over 125 years ... with names like Green, Chancery Court Judge Dayton, Lloyd, Reese, and Lefferts in the more recent past. In approximately 1910, Mr. Lloyd enlarged the building, both in front and back, and the U.S. Post Office moved into the lower level. Pictures have been placed in the front window today so you can see the old Post Office set-up. Also, the 1851 and 1873 maps are on view.

GENEVIEVE DONNELL PARK - The ground to the North side of the Borough Hall was dedicated to the memory of Genevieve Donnell in 1974. The Park Plaque reads: In memory of a life long resident of Matawan Borough concerned with and dedicated to good government. Today's Walking Tour is dedicated to the memory of this one who, shortly before her death, was honored as The First Lady of Matawan.

it became an apartment building. In 1912, the Bank built a new building. The Borough of Matawan purchased the building in 1960 when the Bank moved next door. This renovated building, designed by Daniel L. Bach and completed in 1973, is open today to all participants in the Springtime Walking Tour. A map of Matawan, dated 1855, is on display as part of today's historic tour.

The Friendly Shop - The shop was built for Mr. A. Fountain, prior to 1850, with a residence on the North side. By 1873, J. H. Horner, residing on the site of the Carteret Savings and Loan Association, became a partner. The Schock family had a Dry Goods and Shoe Store until it was sold to Vincent C. DeMaio. The rear portion is a law office and the front, on Main Street, houses The Friendly Shop, which was founded in 1939 by Genevieve Donnell.

Matawan Joint Free Public Library - The present facility was opened to the public on May 15, 1967. It stands on the site of the former Library (a one-time private residence) which served the community for over 40 years. The J. Mabel Brown Children's wing was opened in early 1971. The 1850 map shows this as the site of the Smock and Campbell Store. Several lecturers, plus Friends of the Library, are on hand today to welcome you during this Walking Tour.

Mr. F. Howard Lloyd, Jr. - In 1850, the property was owned by A. A. Smock. The present home was built in 1860 for Mr. A. Longstreet.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Neidlinger - Mr. S. Potter, a lumber merchant in New York, built the home in 1836; and it was sold to William Parker, Principal of Glenwood Academy, after 1850. He boarded students until around 1856. Dr. Alfred B. Dayton bought the property a year later, and it remained in the family until 1907. The home was given to Mrs. Emily C. Warne-Voorhees as a wedding gift from her parents (Mr. and Mrs. Hezakah Warne) ... direct descendants of Thomas Warne (who was one of the East Jersey Proprietors and is interred in Topanemus Burying Ground). Upon Mrs. Voorhees' death in 1951, her daughter, Helen E. Voorhees Neidlinger, inherited the home and lived here with her husband until she died in 1960. The 22-room structure is of particular architectural interest for the Greek Revival cornice, with open scrolls, set in the frieze band with triglyphy between. This house, which contains 12 fireplaces, is in the process of being restored.

Matawan Lodge No. 192 F. & A. M. - Participants in the Springtime Walking Tour are invited to visit the Masonic Temple and upstairs Lodge Room where some officers and members will welcome you to this Lodge that was constituted in 1910 A.D. (6910 A.L.). The Lodge's organist will also be presenting numerous musical presentations during the 1:00 - 4:30 p.m. open house.

Mrs. Percy D. Van Brakle - In 1807, the property was purchased from Mr. Parker and a residence was built on this site with a Grocery and Drug Store next door and, later, two more residences under the name of Samuel Stillwell. On the 1850 map, the section on Main Street includes four buildings across the street from the Arrowsmiths. By 1873, the homes were sold to M. E. Pars and A. H. Harris with the property subdivided. In the recent past, the families of Torine and DeVoice owned the property prior to the purchase by Mrs. Van Brakle in 1971. A copy of the early handwritten Deed may be seen in the home. If your eyesight is good, you can read that the adjacent property, to the North, was owned by John Schenck, Sr. In 1807, John Holmes sold the property to Mr. Parker and the home was built a year later. The 12,84 acre plot cost "321 lbs. current money of the City of New York."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baier - The property was owned by the Arrowsmith family, prior to 1850, with three buildings adjacent to this property to the North. The home was constructed in 1852 for T. H. Arrowsmith; and later it became the residence of Bill Arrowsmith. The family business, as Undertakers, was carried out in the next-door building ... with the horses and hearses housed in the barn on Jackson Street. Caskets were constructed in the second story of the barn. The property was sold to Wilbert Cox and left to his widow. Mrs. Emma Cox Baier inherited the property from her mother; and she and her husband reside here now.

208 (DO)

201 (DO)

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Lezarski - The Luptin Mansion was built in 1895 and reflects the occupation of its original owner. In 1873, Mr. Luptin owned and operated a Marble and Grave-stone Shop on Main Street, next to the Neidlingers (177), with a branch in Freehold. The home has marble mantels inside and marble trim outside. The house was later sold to Ross Fountain, a Matawan merchant. During world War II, the house was closed as a result of the fuel shortage. Meyers purchased the home in 1961; and, in 1967, it was sold to the present owners.

205 (DO)

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dolan - The house was built for Miss Arrowsmith (part of the Arrowsmith family) in 1850; and it remained in the family for years. Dr. Jackson owned the property and, upon his death in 1928, Eleanor N. Jackson inherited it. Then Dr. Gesswein purchased the property, and it became a garden showplace in Matawan. The D. B. Strong house, on the corner, was torn down and the garden was extended. A fish pond, in the shape of New Jersey, was built. The little house facing Church Street was Dr. Gesswein's office. Upon his death in the 1950s, Miss Lillian A. Keney, niece and nurse of the Doctor, inherited the property. The Dolans purchased the house from the estate of Miss Keney, upon her death in 1964.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Levine - This double entrance home was built, following the Revolution, on the estate of Captain Joseph Chapman. The property extended to Aberdeen Creek on the South. By 1873, the property was subdivided and The First Baptist Church was built ... as well as a second Chapman estate across from Terhune Park. The fine carving around the doorways is much photographed. Frank Riso and Kenny Durkin did extensive remodelling and restoration prior to selling the residence to the Levines in 1974.

222 (DO)

211 (DO)

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hutchinson - Cherry Hall, the Conover estate, was built in 1836. The property extended to Church Street on the North, to Aberdeen Creek on the South and to Gravelly Brook on the East. Cherry trees were planted in abundance ... thus the name. On the corner of Church and Main Streets was the Conover Store with large scales on Main Street. G. P. Conover was a cotton broker. The home is of Georgian architecture; and it was built from bricks formed from clay in Aberdeen Creek. The panel shutters are stayed by cast iron grape clusters. In 1929, the house was sold to Warren B. Hutchinson; and it is presently owned by his son and daughter-in-law, who are doing extensive renovation to it.

Dr. and Mrs. Michael Ambrosio - In 1873, David Ryer, a New York textile merchant, purchased the property, belonging to E. Black, for a summer residence. The 14-room home has 8 fireplaces (6 of which are marble). The Dining Room had the original gas chandeliers converted to electricity during the mid-1960s when the Shesleys resided in the home. The recollection is that it took six men to lower the Belgian bronze structures. A silver and crystal chandelier, given by the Munning children to their parents as an anniversary gift, hangs in the front Parlor. Etched glass graces the front door of this fantasy home. The original drawings are framed and have been given to each new resident. In the back yard is an old school house with barn siding and attached desks.

construction of the new building in 1860. On display is a quilt, dated 1878, which was made by the ladies of the church. On it are embroidered 540 names arranged in 30 circles. This quilt was found in the Slater house (a former Pastor to this congregation). The special Candlelight Concert, which is an integral part of this Springtime Walking Tour, will be held in the sanctuary this evening from 8:30 - 9:30 o'clock. Whether or not you participate in the 5:00 - 8:00 p.m. events at Buttonwood Manor, do plan to return for this special non-denominational program which wraps up a wonderful day in the life of this community.

TERMUNE PARK - This Park was a gift to the Borough of Matawan, in 1930, from Judge Henry S. Termune. As a part of the gift, there is a restriction in the Deed that no buildings should ever be built in the Park. Later, a strip of land was added to the Park as a gift of Councilman George S. Herrett. Hazel James recalls that her grandfather (Martin Weber) and two of his sons played at the Bandstand in Termune Park on Friday nights.

263 (TA)

Mrs. Louis M. James - This house belonged to a Mr. Conklin in 1850; and it was sold to Martin Weber in 1876 by Rensselaer Dayton. Mr. Weber, along with his entire family of seven children, stitched suits for a New York firm; and, for a completed vest, pants and coat, he received only 50¢. When Mr. Weber decided that he couldn't make a living for his family as a tailor, he opened the front of the house as a Grocery Store ... then he expanded and opened a Feed Store next door (261). His store serviced the Southern end of Matawan and the surrounding farms. With one delivery van the eldest son George made weekly deliveries. Fritz Weber lived across the street and, upon the death of his father, took over the Store with his mother, Lillian Kline Weber (who was a teacher and the daughter of a local Baptist minister). Upon her death, Fritz moved into the house (263). Later, he tore down the Feed Store barn and rented the house (261) for $15 a month. Fritz died in 1942, and the Store and home were converted back to a single-family residence. In the basement, behind the boiler, is the old brick oven that once was the kitchen stove. The Dining Room was also in the basement. In an old photo of the Store, it took three steps to get in the front door. Today, the road has risen about 18". Mrs. James (nee Hazel Weber) recalls that Main Street was gravel which was sprinkled daily in the Summer. It was tarred, then cemented. The trolley tracks were put down in 1903; and, from 5:00 a.m. to midnight, the trolley carried commuters to and from the Train Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Burkat - The present residence was built on the Schenck estate around 1770. Land from Arrowhead Road (Route 34) to the Creek and onto Main Street, constituted much of the estate. The Schencks were members of the Dutch Reformed Church; and Rufus and Ethel are buried in this denomination's cemetery along Route 520 in Marlboro Township. In 1850, a tannery existed across from the Thru the Years Antique Shop (277) with other outbuildings facing Arrowhead Road. The Schanck family moved from the home, after the turn of the century, into a large home next door. At this time, the house was sold to Frenk Bedle, a horse trader. Jacob Lefferts, who purchased the home in 1918, was responsible for the development and damming of Matawan's Lake Lefferts. Beuler acquired the property and did the sidewalks. The house remained empty during World War II. Harvey Klaus, President of The Matawan Tile Company, owned the home for three years and then sold it to Mr. Dawsnap in 1956. The property was purchased by the Burkets in 1963 and has had extensive restoration. Although this house is located at the corner of Schanck Avenue early maps and records indicate the spelling the family name as Schanck.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne F. DeVilbiss - This Federal home was built just following the Revolutionary War. The Living Room and Master Bedroom wing are original with flooring of 10", 12" and 14" planks. Both rooms have finely carved mantels with reeding and sunburst designs. The flooring in the remainder of the house is of 10" planks. All of the door frames have a fine bead with a heavy molding added in 1875. The windows were enlarged and the front peak was added (along with a large porch, since removed). Under the asbestos shingles, the original clapboard is in good condition. The picture window, on the South, is found in a picture of the house from 1900. Postal cards of 1911 show the house with a horse-drawn trolley passing down the tracks on Main Street. The house is presently in the process of extensive restoration.

304 (DO)

Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Kofoed - This Victorian home was built for Patience Cottrell around 1873. The vanilla-colored house was built with two Bedrooms and a Bath, on the second floor; and a Front Parlor, Living Room, Dining Room and Kitchen were on the first floor. The house has grown with the addition of three Bedrooms, a new Kitchen, fireplace and downstairs Bath. Warren Hutchinson purchased the home in 1928; and it was conveyed to Mr. and Mrs. Ward T. Posey in 1946, and later to Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Harris in 1950. The Kofoeds, who purchased the residence in 1965, have refurbished this charming structure with its gingerbread porches and turrets.

310 (DO)

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heuser, Jr. - This property was part of the Longstreet farm when it was sold to Suzan C. Peterson on January 8, 1865, for a home. Adelaide Peterson inherited the property from the estate in 1891, and married a Van Deventer. She was then widowed and sold the home to Florence Shafto in 1907. Florence married Frank Cottrell; and their daughter received the property in 1919. She sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Erdmann in 1950, and the widow sold the property to the Heusers in 1963. The house has been remodelled and expended over the years. The front of the house is presently being renovated.

MOUNT PLEASANT CEMETERY - The Mount Pleasant church ground was donated by Mr. Wykcoff (Wyckoff?) for the construction of a Meeting House, around 1734. On April 1, 1763, an acre adjacent to the church was purchased from Samuel Forman, for a shilling, and was to be used for a burying ground. The earliest date found (January 29, 1768) was on the grave of Dr. Peter LeConte. John Burrowes' young wife was buried here after she suffered a fatal wound at the hands of Tory soldiers. Today, during the Springtime Walking Tour, join with us in seeking old dates and famous persons ... to collect gravestone rubbings to take home with you.

-- (TA) Buttonwood Manor - This well-known restaurant is on the site of the Arrowhead estate. Clay was taken from the gully for brick. Docks, for loading the produce to ship down Matawan Creek, existed on the edge of the creek. Arrowhead Road (Route 34) came into Main Street from the farm ... but it did not extend on to Holmdel until after 1850 when it became a turnpike. Portions of the Springtime Walking Tour, to be held today at Buttonwood Manor, include the 5:00 p.m. Reception (with a cash bar) and the 6:00 - 8:00 o'clock Dinner for properly ticketed participants.

THANK YOU

To all who have contributed with their time, efforts, and homes, The Matawan Historical Society extends its sincere appreciation for helping to make Sunday, June 8, 1975, a memorable day in the life of our community.

And to all who have supported this program, through your ticket purchases and attendance, the Society thanks you for backing it in this Bicentennial period.

Last, but not least, we gratefully thank Barbara (Mrs. Wayne D.) DeVilbiss, who volunteered for the researching and the writing of the descriptions which make up this entire Tour Program.

Perhaps in the next year or two, we will be offering another Walking Tour; and, at that time, you can get to tour some of the many interesting homes which you have only read about or seen from the outside today ... plus other houses and sites that will be added to the list at that time.
