Congressman Tells Local Unit of Republican Women Recovery Is Stalled

Congressman Charles A. Eaton, candidate for re-election in the Fifth Congressional District, told the United Women's Republican Club of Middlesex County on Monday that prosperity can never be restored by "spending and squandering more money, or by wrapping ourselves more completely in the grave clothes of confiscatory taxes.

"What have the American people gotten out of this orgy of debt and taxes?" he asked.

"When the New Deal started in 1932 we were in a depression. To-day we have 12,000,000 out of work. Today we are still in a depression. Today we have 12,000,000 and more out of work Our relief load is heavier than ever. The Administration of reform is in hopeless confusion. Recovery is stalled.

"To meet this appalling situation our first step must be to elect on November 8th a Congress of free, independent men and women who will represent the people that let them and who will refuse to act as mere yes-men who will refuse ps to register the will of the Chief Executive."

Board of Education Approves Curriculum Survey By 5-3 Vote

Despite opposition from Mrs. Wm. C. Bohlke, Sherwood Mundy and Boyd Johnson, the $1,800 technical survey of curriculum in Metuchen schools to be made by Columbia Teachers' College, recommended by Rev. Harold Dunne, was approved at a special meeting of the Board of Education last night.

Mrs. Bohlke, leading the opposition, presented surveys prepared at her request by the principals and declared that many of the recommendations made in the survey recently of Perth Amboy schools could be applied in Metuchen. She declared that principals might conduct the survey themselves with some assistance.

Dr. Clarence Hofer, explaining the survey in detail, pointed out that it is conducted by 20 graduate students of the college working with twenty experts without salary for the doctor's degree, whereas, the already overburdened principals would need two clerks at $1,800 for the work.

Mrs. Bohlke's statement that the board would do better in using the money to restore special courses to the curriculum, Dr. Hofer answered by referring to the $1,000,00 spent in the past six years, in comparison with which $1,800 to determine efficiency would be an investment.

Pointing to the Perth Amboy survey, Mrs. Bohlke indicated what they might expect from the Metuchen survey: a school owned athletic field, dental clinic, classes limited to 30 students, elimination of basement classrooms, a separate auditorium, addition of manual trainbooks, provision for slow students. ic to the curriculum, extra reference ing, domestic science, arts and mus-

Reports by Elmo Spoerl, principal of the High School, and Carl Roos, principal of the Elementary Schools were introduced by Mrs. Bohlke.

Mr. Spoerl's report emphasized the need for a complete sequence in language study ending in the 12th year, algebra in consecutive years, leaving geometry for the third year, written guides for all courses, doubling of present library space and correction of physical facilities.

Mr. Spoerl also reported the need for special courses for the less gifted, machine instruction and a socio-commercial subject in the commercial department, alleviation of routine for the principal to allow more time for supervision, instruction, visitation and research, a college preparatory course, a practical commercial course, and a sufficiently paid faculty.

Weaknesses scored by Mr. Roos in his report were the lack of playground space and equipment, a well defined art program and manual arts for the fourth and fifth grades, the promotion system, visual education, reading classes, kindergarten equipment, overburdened and underpaid teachers.

As strong points in the school system, Mr. Roos pointed to the supply of up to date text books, certain kinds of athletic equipment, conscientious and willing teachers, standards of achievement, testing program, safety program and provision for individual differences in the class Outlining progress in the fields of discipline, promotions, records, control of books and supplies, fire drills, contracts with parents, health program and addition of equipment, Mr. Roos suggested revision of curtem, entrance age, teacher rating ricula report cards, marking systand seating.

Mayor C. F. Geiger Asks Taxpayers For Co-operation

Charles A. Hyne Protests Railroad Rates and Services

Appealing to taxpayers to meet their obligations in an effort to reduce the tax rate for 1939, Mayor Charles F. Geiger issued a statement to taxpayers at the borough council meeting on Monday, urging their cooperatioin. Mayor Geiger said:

In a communication sent out with the tax bills earlier in the year we called the attention of property owners to the direct effect of tax payments under the Cash-Basis Statute upon the amount to be raised by taxation for the year following. That was done then to emphasize the fact that taxpayers could contribute substantially toward tax reduction and tax relief. The notice was sent at that time also to afford sufficient time, the balance of the year, for taxpayers to prepare for their tax obligations. Current taxes for the last quarter of 1938 become payable November 1 and the fiscal year is rapidly coming to a close. We feel, therefore, that it is our duty again to point out the important effect of tax payments upon the 1939 budget.

The State law compels the inclusion annually in the budget of an appropriation to take care of all deficiencies arising from less than 100 percent of current tax collections. For example, such a mandatory item amounting to $86,000 had to be included in the 1938 budget. As a result the 1938 tax levy was approximately 143 percent of net budget requirements.

It is evident, therefore, that the greater the percentage of current collections the less the mandatory addition and the less the amount necessary to be raised by taxation.

Likewise all monies received against delinquent taxes provide added cash reserves that can also be applied to reduce the amount to be raised by taxation in 1939.

It is apparent, therefore, that property owners can assist the governing body in keeping taxes down and in that way help themselves. The Council is doing all in its power to relieve that burden and it now respectfully requests the cooperation of taxpayrs to do their part in that "job" made mutual by State Statute.

Charles A. Hayne of Cliffwood Place, protested the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He objected strenuously to the $6 monthly charge for commutation tickets for the uptown station and suggested cooperative action among various communities using the road to obtain better schedules and reduction of prices.

Mayor Geiger referred to similar action by South Amboy two years ago that had failed, but promised that the Borough Council would consider the matter.

An ordinance establishing the curb grade on Newman street was passed on second and minal reading by the council.

DeWITT CLINTON, 'PHONE PIONEER, BURIED SATURDAY

Metuchen Native, 64, Dies Suddenly From Heart Attack Near His Home

Mr. De Witt Clinton Price of Hillside avenue, who fell dead from a heart attack while talking to his neighbor last Thursday, was buried on Saturday afternoon at Hillside Cemetery. The funeral services, conducted by Rev. Harry ver Strate, were held at the Hillpot funeral home.

Apparently in good health, Mr. Price was speaking with J R. Johnson, near his home at Hillside avenue and Rector street, when he collapsed and died almost instantaneously. He had a poor heart for some time although it apparently gave him no cause for worry. With his daughter, Mrs Charles Kehoe of Asbury Park, and his granddaughter, Miss Virginia Coleman, he had returned the night before his death from a few days' trip to Washington, D. C.

A lifelong member of the Reformed Church and an actively interested in the Delphic Dramatic Club, Mr. Price was born on Woodbridge avenue 64 years ago, Sept. 24, 1874. He was the son of Charles Wesley Price and Laura Edgar.

Local Officials Refuse To Discuss Proposed Growth

Reliable Sources Report Expansion Is Considered For Future

Steps that may eventually lead on to expansion of the Metuchen Celotex plant sufficiently large to more than absorb all the unemployed in this section were taken when 28 lots adjoining the present site were turned over to the local plant in a deed recorded on Friday.

The total relief cases of the Brainy Borough numbering approximately 100 will be taken care of when the still unannounced plans of Celotex directors materialize. The plant capacity ultimately will require 3000 employees, it was learned on good authority. Present facilities alone at their peak would call for 1,000, although at the moment the employment is registered in the low hundreds.

Arthur Landis, eastern operations manager of the company whose headquarters are at the Metuchen plant, explained that the purchase of more land would mak possible construction of more parking space immediately. He refused to verify reports of proposed expansion until authorized by the Chicago office, but did admit the land might be used for growth in the future.

The additional land gives the Celotex plant frontage on Middlesex avenue from the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks to Factory street. Most of the land is on the side, however, between the plant and Factory st., with enough room for the construction of another plant the size of the present building. Vacant land in the rear was also purchased.

Samuel C. Schenck, Jr, local real estate agent, representing the company, secured the 28 lots during the past year and a half through tax liens and by purchase from scattered owners.

Actual utilization of the newly acquired land which doubles the local property may not be for some time, reliable sources indicated. Expansion of the Celotex industry, largest in the borough, is generally believed, to be a stimulant to business as a whole as well as a factor directly responsible for increase in employment.

The Celotex industry, producing an insulating pressboard which is heat and sound resisting, is now housed in the former silk factory building.

It located here about four years ago and invested a quarter of a million dollars approximately in repairing and fitting out a warehouse, now used largely for storage, packing, shipping and ware house purposes.

Hans Krogh Wins Decision Appeal

A decision against Hans Krogh in an automobile accident appeal was reversed on Friday by Judge Adrian Lyon presiding at Special Sessions Court. The appeal was for a small cause judgment of $180 that had been levied in favor of Richard Paperlein of New Brunswick.

Krogh had been declared responsible for a crash on April 15 at the intersection of Ward street and Lee avenue in North Brunswick Township by Justice of the Peace William A. Steinmetz.

Judge Lyon found, however, that Paperlein had failed to sustain the plaintiff's burden of proof and was more guilty of negligence than Krogh in the light of testimony adduced before him.

Russell Harris, Jr., driver of Paperlein's car at the time of the accident testified and other witnesses that he was proceeding east on Lee avenue. Krogh, he said, sped out of Ward street toward the south and hit him. Krogh pleaded he had almost passed the Lee avenue intersection when Harris crashed into him.

Judge Lyons opinion was that the accident could not have happened as described by witnesses for the plaintiff.

John Stockel represented Krogh and Harris Roth was attorney for Paperlein.

Democrats Stand On Their Record At Women's Dinner Opening Drive

A galaxy of local and county notables in the Democratic party attended the dinner-dance at the Pines last night, arranged by the Women's Democratic Club. The affair officially launched the Democrats' campaign and more than 250 wer present as the lid blew off for local politics.

Candidates for offices in the borough and in the county, urging cooperation for the party workers and stressing the need for endorsement of work for the underprivliged and the need for business efficiency among local council members, were presented to the local party leaders by Mrs. Mabel Seggel, president of the Women's Democratic Club and acting as toastmistress for the evening.

Declaring the administration of the borough to be essentitl a business problem and pointing to the business experience of the candidates as qualifying the Democratic candidates, Mayor Charles F. Geiger, candidate for reelection, pointed to the Democratic "Reorganizatiol and consolidattioon" and promulgation of a program "To rehabilitate the toterong financial structure of the borough when we were on the very brink of bankruptcy".

"All newly elected Democratic officials have pledged themselves to the continuation of the policy of reducing as fast as possible the tremendous d ebt inherited in 1932" He scored the opposition candidates for the past seven years in not having constructively criticised the program and emphasized the debt reduction record of almost a half million dollars.

Mayor Edward Patten of Perth Amboy declared the local candidates the "finest goup of locall candidates I have ever seen". The mayor denounced Charles Eaton as a reagionary who has "torn the heart out of the president during these trying years. He is direct opposite of the people's needs and is no good to them". The Republicans he charged, have failed to provide relief money and his city would be unable to pay relief rolls after this month.

E. Kenneth Baumann and Austin Walsh, candidates for councilmen, admitting they were newcomers into politics, pointed to their business experience as providing background for their entrance into politics. "Businessmen pick only business people to run their business. A city is the same", Walsh declared.

Samuel Wiley, county candidate, criticised the lack of action by Republicans in failing to put forth issues and Klemmer Kaltelsen complimented the local Democrats on th calibre of their ticket.

Speakers included also Mrs. Elizabeth Stillwell, Mrs. Cecila Mullen, Mrs. Ethel Kirkpatrick who discussed the Democratic work in providing for the underprivile in the wages and hours bill, Edward Fraser, president of the men's Democratic Club and Mrs. Seggel, who found the turn-out considerably larger than that of last year, an indication of appreciation of the good government given by the Democrats".

Y. M. C. A. Drive Will End Tonight; Mrs. Schiffmayer's Team Is In Lead

There's open hunting for the Y. M. C. A. campaigners this week, for the annual drive was extended for a week when the score last Friday was found to be only $1,400 short of the $6,500 goal, and 133 memberships beneath the desired 650. Final tallies will be made this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Y building.

Upon checking last Friday, Mrs. G. Francis Schiffmayer was found to maintain her lead with $408.50, and 81 members, secured by her No. 7 team. Mrs. Schiffmayer's percentage was 226 in comparison with the previous collection in the same district.

Leading in number of memberships in the South division, with 265 members and $1,410, while the North Division is ahead with its $1,467.50 and 234 members. The executive committee reported eighteen membrships and $2,210 contributions.

According to Huyler Romond, general chairman, the drive is $300 further than at the same time last year.

New World Crawls Into Shell As Revitalized Reich Expands

By Joseph W. La Bine

International

The U. S. has long maintained splendid trade relations with Western hemisphere nations, has moreover done this without resorting to heavy armaments. Until five years ago the U. S. was similarly strong in China. Reason: European and Asiatic nations have always been busy at home, not daring to risk invasion of the Western hemisphere.

But since Japan became supreme in the Far East, the U. S. has been forced to expand her Pacific fleet. If this was cause for worry, a much greater cause is the Munich pact which sheared friendly France and Britain of their power. Dominant in Europe, anxious to increase their foreign trade, Italy and Germany can now be regarded as a serious threat to U. S. commerce. Of the two, Germany will be a greater threat because she has adopted an aggressive foreign expansion program, moreover because her new Sudeten territorial acquisitions bring glassware, leather and textiles into the Reich for export sale.

BRAZIL'S PRESIDENT VARGAS

Focal point of German expansion will be Latin America, which last year gave the Reich 14 per cent of its trade, compared with 34.7 per cent to the U. S. In this trade war, it has become apparent the U. S. will attempt to sell South Americans on democracy, while Germany sells them Nazism. Today, as the war gets under way, the U. S. appears to hold an upper hand.

Long favored in South America through her Monroe doctrine, the U. S. has just helped preserve Western hemisphere peace by joining in settlement of the 100-year-old Chaco dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia. Indirectly, the U. S. could place another feather in her cap when Brazil called home its ambassador to Berlin, apparently breaking off diplomatic relations with the Reich. This is President Getulio Vargas' answer to Chancellor Hitler's efforts for Brazilian Nazification.

Aiding the U. S. will be increased domestic desire to woo South America. Already a campaign is under way to boost our consumption of South American goods.

A natural result of this activity has been growing American disinclination to complete the long-pending U. S.-British trade pact, a sentiment resulting from the rebirth of isolationism which followed Munich's peace treaty. The greatest stumbling block is that isolationism calls for strengthened trade relations with Canada, a plan blocked by Great Britain's renewed efforts to tighten her dominion bonds. A U. S.-Canadian trade treaty is bound to hurt American agriculture; a U. S.-British treaty will hurt American manufacture. Therefore economists are betting the "most favored nation" agreements now pending with Canada and Britain will never be consummated.

Meanwhile, Germany is cocksure of her position. Busily flitting from one European capital to another, Economics Minister Walter Funk has completed bilateral accords based on barter of goods with several Balkan states. In this way the Reich hopes to increase its economic orbit. But when Minister Funk optimistically announced he would next attempt a barter treaty with the U. S., state department officials made it clear that optimism is unfounded.

War

A large part of China's war supplies for defending Hankow have come up the railroad from rich, southerly Canton. Moreover, Cantonese troops have shown remarkable bravery, reportedly wiping out 10,000 Japs near Tehan early this month. Although Canton has therefore been a thorn in Japan's side, Tokyo feared to move into South China lest Great Britain might object. But since Britain capitulated in the Czech crisis, Japan has become bolder. Result is the landing of 35,000 troops near Canton for any or all of three purposes: (1) to force frightened Cantonese to withdraw troops from Hankow, making that city's capture easier; (2) to cut the Hankow-Canton railroad and stop war supplies; (3) to force Canton into an independent peace with Japan.

But if Japan hopes thereby to force surrender of China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, she will be disappointed. Though 70 per cent of China's war materials have come through Canton, General Chiang has foreseen that city's fall and developed four alternative lines of entry. Two railroads enter from Indo-China and highways can carry supplies from both Burma and Russia. Moreover, Chinese are resigned to a 10-year struggle if necessary.

Far more likely than Chinese capitulation is a breach between Great Britain and Japan. Not since the siege of Japan has the British lion been so imperiled. Canton lies a scant 75 miles from the crown colony of Hong Kong, whose prosperity depends largely on trade with Canton. The maddening air of righteousness surrounding Japan's invasion of South China, coupled with warnings to Britain, France and the United States, shows clearly that Japan now considers herself the Far East's No. 1 power.

Races

During the World war Great Britain helped liberate Palestine's Arabs from the Turks, thereby winning Arabic support against Turkey. Although Arabs expected they would be rewarded with complete domination over Palestine, England's Lord Balfour led a successful campaign to establish part of the Holy Land as a haven for the wandering Jew.

Since then world Jewry has sent 400,000 persecuted Hebrews to Palestine, investing $385,000,000 to build a national home. But disgruntled Arabs have protested with warfare, keeping harried Britain busy policing the land over which she was given a mandate in 1923. While blood ran freely through the streets of Jerusalem, Bethlehem and Jaffa, Colonial Secretary of State Malcolm MacDonald has led a commission in search of amicable settlement.

Meanwhile, Jew-hating Germany and Italy have given restrained cheers for the Arabic cause, cheers that need no longer be restrained since the Munich peace treaty has placed Great Britain on the defensive. Faced with threats of Italo-German intervention unless Arabs were given a square deal, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain has been reported ready to "sell out" the Holy Land's Jews.

Thoroughly miserable, Prime Minister Chamberlain and Secretary MacDonald (son of the late Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald) were bombarded with protests the minute their weakened position was rumored. To make matters worse, Dr. Chaim Weizmann of London, president of the Zionist federation, has aroused U. S. Jewry to such an extent that President Roosevelt has been deluged with pleas to intervene. Thus Great Britain risks losing a measure of badly needed U. S. sentiment if she capitulates to Arabic demands.

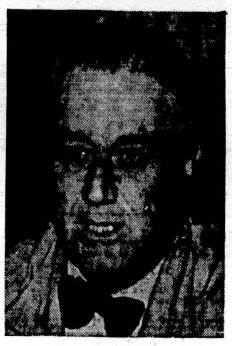

MALCOLM MAC DONALD

As Prime Minister Chamberlain prepared to act, the least harmful settlement Hebrews could expect was a heavy restriction on Jewish immigration to the Holy Land. Even this, commented Jews, would almost make Great Britain an accessory to the Italo-German race persecution program.

Polities

On Tuesday, November 8, the United States will elect an entire house of representatives, one-third of its senate and a host of governors. Since U. S. politics swings back and forth from Republican to Democratic domination, since the Democratic swing which began in 1933 has reached and passed its peak, the safest prediction is that Republicanism will start swinging back into power this year.

Obviously, it is Franklin Roosevelt's ambition to stymie a Republican comeback. But his chief interest in last summer's primaries was not Republicanism, but the construction of a coherent liberal party through so-called "purge" tactics. Since "purge" failed, since preservation of New Deal gains already made is now more important than party purification, November's election has resumed normal political color for the first time since 1930.

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT

As in 1936, this year's Republican candidates can base a strong campaign on New Deal failure. Unlike 1933 and 1936, this year's Democratic campaign becomes essentially a defensive proposition. But developments of the past month show that the New Deal's defense will not feature such argumentative points as AAA, relief and budget-balancing, will attempt instead to shift public interest on Franklin Roosevelt's accomplishments as a peacemaker. Three points of peace:

World Peace: The world may never know if President Roosevelt helped smooth over the Czech-German crisis, but his final message to Adolf Hitler and simultaneous pleas to every other world power came only a few hours before the Reichsfuehrer called his historic Munich parley. But, coming when it did, Roosevelt intercession looked tremendously successful. Thus, praising the administration's foreign policy as a safeguard to world peace, Democrats hope the voting public will overlook the fact that Munich's meeting did nothing to help democracy's cause, was instead a bloodless victory for Germany.

Business Peace: If the administration's foreign policy helped win world peace, it also helped U. S. business. Upshot has been a tremendous stock market upturn, greater steel and automobile production, higher railroad carloadings. But part of this upturn is also due to governmental "pump priming," which is just beginning to show its effect. Nevertheless these signs of optimism came at a time when U. S. business decided to quit warring on the administration, choosing instead to play ball until a Republican government throws out New Deal measures which it considers oppressive. President Roosevelt has asked for less "saber rattling" and more cooperation between government and business. Charles Hook, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, has assured him that business is eager for co-operation. Thus, Franklin Roosevelt looms as a peacemaker with business.

Industrial Peace: When the American Federation of Labor convened in Houston, Texas, the President messaged his desire for a settlement of the factional war between A. F. of L. and John Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization. Obviously a solid labor front, thoroughly New Deal, would be a potent vote getter. How it could exercise this solidified strength against employers is an unpleasant thought, but the average business man is inclined to hope a patch-up will bring more conservatism to labor. Already the Rooseveltian business upturn has brought men back to work, resulting in fewer disputes between labor and capital. Though the President's efforts for peace between C. I. O. and A. F. of L. have been unsuccessful, the nation may well appreciate his gesture.

Despite the political connotations these peace efforts must certainly carry during election season, the President's self-chosen role of arbiter wins favor with a war-weary U. S. populace. Whether this popular appeal will overshadow Republican criticism on November 8 is anybody's guess.

Navy

Few navies have a definite system for naming their armor-clad war chariots. Even England's huge navy mingles historic and geographical names with unconcern. But the U. S., having started its gigantic naval construction program, will not permit such confusion. The new nomenclature system: Battleships named after states, cruisers after large cities, aircraft carriers after historic ships and battles, destroyers after naval officers.

'Quotes'

MISS MARGUERITE WELLS of the National League of Women Voters, on aroused interest in world issues: "One of the things about the dangers facing the world today is that it makes us in America realize how well off we are."

DR. WILLIAM L. LEAP of Birmingham (Ala.) university, on divorce: "The remedy does not lie in making divorces difficult to obtain. The problem should be met from the opposite direction—by making marriage requirements more stringent."

Power Eases the Tasks Of 'Sidewalk Farmers'

The "sidewalk farmer" has replaced the "suitcase farmer" as a non-resident tiller of the soil, the department of agriculture reports.

"As distinguished from the 'suitcase farmer,' the 'sidewalk farmer' lives in the nearby village or town and drives the short distance to his farm," the department said. The "suitcase farmer" is one who "camps" on the farm during the growing and harvesting season.

"The use of power machinery frees him of the necessity to keeping work stock on his farm, and the use of an automobile frees him from the necessity of remaining on his farm except when his presence is needed in the fields," the department discloses.

The department obtained no exact figures on the number of "sidewalk farmers," but reported 1,160,000 persons moved from farms to villages, towns and cities last year.

Bears Taste Electricity

Bears love honey. Because of this, up to now bee-keeping has been almost impossible in the Rocky mountains, traditional home of "grizzlies." But science has stepped in, and the University of California and the U. S. department of agriculture have resorted to electricity. Hives are now surrounded with four-wire fences—and the wires are charged with electricity. Since charged with electricity. A photo-electric cell controls the current.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

To Press Ribbons. — Dampen ribbons and iron them between tissue paper.

Bright Clothes for Children.— You may not like vividly colored clothes, but they are the safest thing to wear in traffic. It is advisable to dress children in such costumes to help protect them from accidents.

Save Salty Water.—When water in which salt has been boiling is poured over coal, it makes good coal last longer and improves bad coal.

Well-Fitting Hose. — Children's stockings ought to be selected carefully. Short ones cramp toes and will eventually make them crooked. Too long ones wrinkle and twist, irritating toes and heels. Also, children should be taught to wear a fresh pair of stockings each morning. Don't allow your youngsters to wear galoshes in the house or classroom.

Salt Improves Coffee.—The flavor of coffee is improved if a little salt is sprinkled on the bottom of the pot before the coffee is put in.

Apples for the Winter.—To keep apples through the winter, bore holes in the bottom and sides of a barrel and store on a dry platform a foot or more from the ground. Where only a few apples are available for storage, a good plan is to carefully wrap them singly in paper, then pack them in layers three or four deep in shallow boxes and place them in the coolest position in the house or outbuilding.

When Cooking Greens. — If a piece of fat about the size of a nutmeg is added to the water in which any kind of greens are being cooked there will be no boiling over and no stirring will be required.

HELP KIDNEYS
To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove these impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful users recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Undulant Fever

Undulant fever originated in Europe, according to an authority, and came to the attention of medical men during the Crimean war, when army physicians had trouble distinguishing it from typhoid. Its name describes the up and down character of the victim's temperature. It is also called Malta fever because of the experimental work carried on on the island of Malta, where British soldiers contracted it from goats. But, as pointed out, the disease in humans runs the same course regardless of whether the infection comes from cattle, goats or swine.

Predict Good Sport For Coming Upland Game Hunting Season

Ideal Conditions Reported For Season Beginning On November 10

Sportsmen of New Jersey are in for several weeks of fine hunting this fall when the upland game season opens on November 10, even surpassing the great sport of last year when practically all hunters found sufficient game and birds afield to satisfy them, the New Jersey Fish and Game Commission predicted.

Continued statewide stocking of rabbits, pheasants and quail by the State Fish and Game Commission; volunteer winter feeding of birds and game and good breeding conditions in the wild are responsible for the ideal hunting conditions this year, the commission stated. The season will close on December 15.

Game management programs well underway on New Jersey's public hunting and fishing grounds located materially increased the game population in the state have aided in keeping numerous sportsmen organizations min hunts conducted periodically by ulation in the state this year. Vernin all sections of the state have also down the game mortality rate.

Rabbit, hare, gray, black or fox squirrel, male English ring-neck in season during the upland game pheasant and huffed grouse, will eb season. The shooting of female pheasants will again be prohibited. Quail may be hunted during the season, except in Passaic, Bergen, Essex, Hudson and Union counties.

Sport smen are now preparing to participate in the waterfowl and woodcock seasons which open on October 15. Duck hunters will take advantage of the open season until November 28, while nimrods interested in woodcock shooting have until November 14 to secure daily bag limits. The deer season this year opens on December 17 and concludes on December 21, providing only four days of hunting, because of the intervening Sunday. Many big game hunters are already planning trips into the South Jersey pines and North Jersey hills to prepare their hunting lodges for coming events.

Business Guides
By C. E. Johnston
Director, Business Training Schools, International Correspondence Schools

THERE are four interrelated subjects which any person should study before he attempts to engage in any form of merchandising business for himself. These are, marketing, business finance, accounting and business law. The man who plans to start a small manufacturing concern should also be a student of production.

The ability to interpret financial statements is as important to the business executive as to the accountant. The day has passed when even the smallest business can be operated successfully without financial statements and the constant study of the information they contain.

Of the great number of men who go into business for themselves each year, only a few meet with sufficient success to enable them to continue to operate. Statisticians have estimated that from 80 to 90 per cent of all small businesses ultimately fail. The principal cause of failure is lack of business knowledge. Many small enterprises are started when a cursory study of the market available would show that there was no possibility of sufficient sales being obtained regularly to meet operating expenses, let alone to pay interest on the money invested and to yield the owner a profit. Many businesses that have the possibility of success fail because their owners have insufficient understanding of business principles and methods.

The direct aim of the business man is to make a profit out of which to support himself and his dependents and to lay aside savings in as large an amount as possible to constitute a competence for his old age. This desire to make money by engaging in business for one's self is typically American and perfectly legitimate, but cannot be fulfilled today without study of all the important aspects of business.

Woodlawn Opened as New Home of N. J. C.'s 3000 Graduates

GLIMPSE OF WOODLAWN GARDEN

Saturday night. A simple ceremony, attended by alumnae, faculty and students, marked the presentation of Woodlawn by Dr. Robert C. Clothier, president of Rutgers University, and its acceptance in behalf of N. J. C.'s 3000 graduates by Mrs. John W. Moxon of Mountainside, president of the Associate Alumnae. The three story house has 27 rooms and spacious reception halls and porches. It is surrounded by vast lawns and beautiful gardens.

Half of 450,000 Telephones Silenced By Hurricane Restored in Single Week

Bell System Organization and Service of Supplies Met Greatest Test Successfully. Standard Equipment and Methods Invaluable

When a tropical hurricane veered in from the sea September 21 its fringe lashed New Jersey, causing widespread damage, but its full force was spent on Long Island and the New England states where wind and floodwaters combined to cause the greatest disaster that part of the country has known.

Lines of communication throughout the storm-swept area went down before the wall of wind and water. Hundreds of communities were isolated and 450,000 telephones silenced — the largest number in Bell System history.

Mobilization of manpower and equipment to restore communications began while the hurricane still raged. New Jersey, emerging from its own task of restoring 18,000 crippled telephones to service and repairing many miles of broken lines, dispatched 250 men and fifty fully-equipped trucks to New England. Other states in the East and Middle West as far as Nebraska sent additional help, and thousands of tons of equipment, poles, cables, switchboards, wire, tools of all sorts, began to roll into the area from Western Electric plants and supply houses throughout the eastern part of the country.

At the end of a single week, due to the concentration of men and supplies in the area, and the standardization of methods and equipment throughout the nation-wide telephone system which enabled the men to go to work in New England with methods and equipment with which they are familiar at home, more than half the tremendous number of telephones put out of service were in use again, and all major voice highways in New England were open to traffic.

FOREIGN PROPOGANDA

All any American citizen has to do is to look abroad at any country— Russia, Germany, Italy, or elsewhere—to know that we can do without their theories of government in this country. We want no regimentation of farmers, or industry, or of labor. We can do without dictatorships.

One of the most notable investigative jobs that is being done in this country, therefore, is that of the House Committee headed by Representative Dies of Texas. Charged with the investigation of "un-American activities," the Committee for the first time has spread publicly upon the records of Congress the extent to which the Communist Internationale has infiltrated into American patriotic, peace, organized labor, and political movements. It has shown how the Communists set up dummy organizations under high-sounding, patriotic names such as their "League for Peace and Democracy," to front for doctrines designed to overthrow the American Constitution.

Now the Dies Committee is setting out to expose other alien propaganda espousing Naziism, Fascism, etc. It is hoped that Congress will provide the funds for the inquiry to go the whole way in developing the extent to which these foreign "isms" are being propagandized in this country.

The sentiments of all thoughtful Americans have been reflected by Charles R. Hook, President of the National Association of Manufacturers, who said in a letter to Representative Dies:

"Those who are behind such movements should be forced to stand before the public and receive the judgment of the people. If they are industrialists, doctors, teachers, ministers, or politicians, let their names be registered in the official records of your committee."

KNOW WHY FOR PARENTS

Have you ever stopped and considered that reading is one of the most important things in a person's life? It broadens one's mind beyond the scope of any other means. Without reading, there would be no means of getting many of the daily routines of life. The average student learns to become a master of the art of reading in his high school days. Reading like any other diversion or work becomes a skill to the everyday student by continued practice.

Pupils of Metuchen High School like to use the libary. In using the library, they dvelop gold reading habits. This, as the older generation knows, is an invaluable asset for them later on in life. But all the students may not go to the library when they wish. That is because there is only one available room at the moment.

The great need in Metuchen High School at the moment is additional library space so that our very efficient librarian, Mrs. Susan Cooke, can carry on her brilliant work unhampered.

Try This With Your New Ruffled Curtains

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR Mrs. Spears:—I want to thank you for the clear diagram of how to hang draw curtains in your Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator. This was just what I have been needing as we have casement windows and no shades in our living room. With a pull of the cord my new curtains shut out the light or the outside view. I wonder if you would help me with another problem? I do not want to make the curtains for the rest of the house. Thought I would buy ruffled net ones. Do you think they would be too commonplace? J. T."

Answer: Here is a suggestion for hanging ruffled curtains that will make your windows little different from those of your neighbors and lend no end of style to your rooms. Double curtain rods are needed to give the crossed effect and a valance board is added to the top of the window as shown. Here the valance is the sort that comes with ready made curtains and the top is folded back to make it double. In thumbtacking it to the valance board, do not stretch it—just "ease it on" so that it hangs well. If you feel that the windows need color, the valance and tie backs may be of plain glazed chintz that repeats the strongest color in your room color scheme. A contrasting valance may be either plain or gathered.

Let Father and Young Son and Little Sister help you make the home a center of interest. Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator contains many useful things that every one may take a hand in making. Book 2 shows you with pictures how to make many novelty gifts. Books are 25 cents each. Order both books today and get the patchwork quilt leaflet picturing 36 authentic embroidery stitches free. ## Fishermen's Memorial Day

An annual memorial service for fishermen who have been lost at sea is a traditional ceremony of Gloucester, Mass. Every year in August at the memorial service the names of those who have been drowned that year are read and relatives of loved ones of the deceased throw flowers in the sea.

After the service fishermen gather and after tossing their flowers on the waters repeat in unison: "In memory of all the seamen, who through all the years have found a last resting place in the waters that wash every shore, we lovingly strew these flowers."

Here Is How You Can Look Slimmer

IF YOU take a woman's size, you'll certainly enjoy having both of these smart, new, slenderizing styles. They're extremely becoming, and made up in materials and colors of your own choosing, they will be the joy of your life, one for house work, and the other for afternoon and dinner engagements. Both of these dresses are so very simple to make that you'll thoroughly enjoy doing it. Each pattern includes a detailed sew chart for the guidance of beginners.

The House Dress.

Notice how very practical and comfortable this dress is, with every detail you want for working freedom and slim lines. Darts make the waistline slim and neat, but not tight. The armholes are ample, the sleeves very short, and slashed for greater freedom. The skirt has sufficient, unhampering fullness at the hem. It's a diagram design, that you can finish in a few hours. For this, choose percale, calico, or gingham.

The Afternoon Dress.

Just wait to see how nice and slim your hips look, in this cleverly designed dress, with just a little fullness above the waist to emphasize the slick, smooth cut below. This design gives you the fashionable bodice detailing, in soft, lengthening jabot drapes that have a dressy, but not a fussy, look. Bishop sleeves are another new and very becoming style, most flattering to large women. This dress will be lovely in velvet, crepe satin, thin wool or silk crepe.

The Patterns.

1559 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 35 inch material. 2½ yards of ricrac braid.

1613 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. With long sleeves, size 38 requires 5 yards of 39 inch material; with short sleeves, 4¾ yards. Collar and jabot in contrast would take ¾ yard.

Fall and Winter Fashion Book.

The new 32-page Fall and Winter Pattern Book which shows photographs of the dresses being worn is now out. (One pattern and the Fall and Winter Pattern Book—25 cents.) You can order the book separately for 15 cents.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 247 W. Forty-third street, New York, N. Y. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Look Young By Striving For Posture

By PATRICIA LINDSAY

● Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

THE way you carry yourself is not only indicative of what sort of person you are, but it either adds years to you or makes you look younger.

When wealthy ladies pay high prices for courses in self-improvement in the leading salons, the first lesson they get is a posture lesson. And the course does not proceed until the women have learned how to walk correctly and to sit correctly.

"Walk proudly," "grow tall from the midriff" and "tuck in your buttocks" as if you had been spanked, are the three most simple rules to remember as you walk. "Sit in the entire seat of a chair," "tuck in your tummy while sitting," and "don't cross your knees," will take you far in sitting posture if you will but remember them.

Authority Advises These Exercises

From one of the leading salons, that of Miss Dorothy Nye, I secured these two corrective exercises, which, if practiced daily, will firm the abdominal muscles and give flexibility to the hip region. Both are necessary to acquire an erect and agile carriage.

1. On back with right knee pulled back to chest and both hands clasped around knee.

2. Swing left leg back over head as far as you can, then come to sitting-up position. Pull from hands around knees and flatten back, keep neck and head high.

Repeat with right three times. Then left three times. Twelve times altogether.

EXERCISE 2

1. On knees, head back, hands clasped back of body and stretch downward.

2. Bend slowly forward, keeping head up and back flat until sitting on heels. Drop head to floor and relax.

3. Keeping head down, round the back, pull in abdominal muscles, and slowly raise the body. Movement begins at lowest vertebrae and slowly lifts thighs away from heels at same time.

Head and shoulders rise last to original position. Repeat five times, working up to fifteen times altogether in a few days.

Not difficult are they? Try going through them every day for a month.

HINT-OF-THE-DAY

If a child possesses his own aids to body health and cleanliness he is more likely to use them. "My very own hair brush"—"My very own tooth paste" — makes him proud. If he is taught how to use them and why he must use them, a mother will have little difficulty in getting him to do so.

Of course all children go through that obstinate age when any suggestion is vetoed, when every request calls forth a lengthy argument. But even during this stage of growing pains the child is quite likely to slip off and do what he has been told to do after he has satisfied his ego by displaying his obstinance, that is, providing his earlier years have included a daily grooming routine.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses Vitamins And Vision; Explains How and Why You Should Feed Your Eyes

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

FOR a number of years, scientists have stressed the importance of a well-balanced diet as a means of maintaining health, promoting growth and preventing disease. Recently, an even more significant development has occurred. It has been determined that a carefully chosen diet is absolutely necessary to preserve the general health and efficiency of every bodily function and that there is a close relationship between a good diet and good eyesight.

Your Food and Your Eyes

Many people regard their eyesight as one of the five senses which operate in some mysterious manner of their own! If they suffer from indigestion, they recognize that it is quite apt to be due to something they ate. If they are troubled with stomach, liver or kidney complaints, they quickly appreciate that prolonged dietary indiscretions may be at the root of the trouble. But it never occurs to them that what they eat may affect the eyes just as profoundly as it affects the internal organs.

It is not uncommon, during an attack of biliousness, to suffer a disturbance of the vision. But that disturbance usually disappears with the disorder that caused it. On the other hand, a deficient diet may produce eye troubles that have a far reaching effect upon health, efficiency, and even personal safety.

Night Blindness Explained

For example, it has been established that there is a definite relation between your vision and the vitamins in your diet; between your ability to drive a car safely at night, and the amount of vitamin A-containing foods that you consume.

To understand this astonishing fact, it is necessary to know that vision under faint illumination is accomplished by means of chemical changes in the pigment at the back of the eye. This is known as the "visual purple" of the retina and one of its important components is carotene, which is the active form of vitamin A.

The visual purple might be compared to the film in a camera. When you are in a dim light and the eyes are suddenly exposed to bright light, the visual purple is greatly reduced or bleached. This change results in a stimulation of the optic nerve and enables you to see clearly.

When an adequate supply of vitamin A is present in the body, the visual purple is rapidly regenerated. But when the supply is inadequate, a much longer period elapses before the corrective chemical change takes place. During the intervening time, many people find it difficult to see.

That is the condition known as "night blindness." And it accounts for the fact that a large proportion of serious motor accidents occur at night. Victims of this deficiency disease are first blinded by approaching headlights, then cannot quickly readjust themselves after the oncoming car has passed. Their ability to drive safely is subsequently impaired for they cannot clearly see the road ahead, and they may miss dangerous curves, pedestrians or other vehicles.

A Common Complaint

Unfortunately, the prevalence of night blindness is not generally recognized, though it is held that urban dwellers are more conscious of it than those living in the rural areas. This is borne out by the fact that ocular disorders from vitamin deficiency are less common in urban than in rural areas.

Children Often Victims

Since the discovery of the close connection between vitamin A and the ability to see in dim light, scientists have tested large numbers of school children to determine whether vitamin A was present in their diet in adequate amounts. It was revealed that from 26 to 79 per cent of the children examined had incipient night blindness.

The same deplorable conditions were found among adults. Mild to moderate degrees of vitamin A deficiency were present in from 10 to over 50 per cent of each group tested.

Yet here is the remarkable thing—in nearly every case, a diet rich in vitamin A for a few weeks restored the vision to normal.

A Significant Experiment

An even more striking example of the power of food to affect the eyesight is to be found in the report of an experiment in which breeding sows were given food in abundance but lacking vitamin A for 160 days before and for 30 days after breeding. In three litters of 35 pigs, all were blind. In another litter of 14 pigs, all were sightless. But under normal feeding, the same animals produced litters of pigs with normal eyes and vision. This experiment justifies the conclusion of one of our most noted food scientists, that the deficiency of essential food elements may so alter vital processes that even pre-natal changes may occur.

Cause of Other Eye Disorders

Night blindness is not the only eye disease caused by an improper diet. Xerophthalmia or conjunctivitis, characterized by excessive dryness of the eyeball, has long been known to be caused by a vitamin A deficiency. It is also well known that a liberal amount of this vitamin will prevent that serious disease and will even effect a cure where destruction of the cornea has not progressed too far.

This suggests the tremendous importance of including in the diet foods rich in vitamin A—cod- and other fish-liver oils; milk and other dairy products; green leafy and yellow vegetables; and egg yolk.

Experiments with rats, whose dietary requirements are similar to those of man, show a close connection between cataract and a deficiency of another vitamin—vitamin G. This is found most abundantly in meat, milk, eggs, fruit and vegetables.

Were we concerned about protecting the blessing of good eyesight alone, that would be sufficient reason why every homemaker should plan meals that are rich in vitamins. But it is not only the eyes which are dependent upon vitamins, for they have many other functions to perform.

An improper diet may cause people to drive automobiles blindly at night so that they are dangerous not only to themselves and their passengers, but to everyone on the streets and roads. A deficient diet will also send them through life with half-efficient bodies, half-efficient brains, half-efficient senses.

That is why I urge you to learn everything you can about food, so that in planning meals you will not only feed your eyes, your husband's eyes and your children's eyes, but will take advantage of the wonderful discoveries of nutritional science to make every member of the family so efficient that they will enjoy the best of health each day of their lives.

Questions Answered

Mrs. G. C. L.—Yes, indeed, nutritionists do approve of a mid-afternoon snack for most school children. A glass of milk and a slice of buttered bread with jam or preserves; fruit juice and oatmeal cookies; or a chocolate milk shake and graham crackers will provide fresh energy for late afternoon play. Without the between-meal lunch, some children become so fatigued that nerve strain results. Take care, however, that the snack does not destroy the appetite for the evening meal.

BY CONGRESSMAN
WILLIAM H. SUTPHIN

Wage and Hour Law

With the Wage and Hour Law to become effective next week, it is timely to discuss the principal features. To begin with, it affects only those employees engaged in the production or handling of goods which enters into interstate commerce.

Specific exemptions within this group will be mentioned later.

Minimum Wages: An impression has been gathered that the minimum wage rates set by Congress are definite in that the minimum rate will be 25 cents per hour for the first year; 30 cents for the next six years, and after the expiration of seven years it will be not less than 40 cents per hour. This is true to the extent that if a minimum rate is not set by order of the Administrator after the effective date of the Act (October 24), then these rates shall be paid by the industry until such order is issued. Upon order of the Administrator, however, a minimum rate of 40 cents per hour can be set at any time.

Maximum Hours: The maximum hours set by the terms of the act are mandatory upon the employer. For the first year the weekly limit is 44 hours; during the second year, 42 hours, and during the third and successive years; 40 hours, unless such employee receives one-and-one-half times the regular rate for work in excess of the hours specified.

Where collective bargaining agreements are made with employees, no employees shall work on an annual basis in excess of 2000 hours in any period of 52 consecutive weeks, 1,000 hours during any period of 26 consecutive weeks, with the exception that in an industry found to be seasonal by the Administrator, the maximum hours may be exceeded for not more than 14 consecutive weeks. In these excepted periods the employee must receive one and one-half the wage rate for work in excess of 12 hours per day or 56 hours per week.

Exempt from these provisions are industries engaged in the first-processing of milk and dairy products, ginning of cotton, processing of cotton-seed, sugar beets, sugar beet molasses, sugar cane, or maple sap for to sugar. An exemption of not more than fourteen work weeks in any calendar year is allowed to the first processing, canning, or packing of perishable or seasonal fruits and vegetables, and of any agricultural commodity, poultry or livestock in the area of production.

Child Labor: It is unlawful for employers subject to the provisions of the act to employ: (1) any person under 16 years of age; (2) any person between 16 and 18 years of age in any occupation held by the Department of Labor to be hazardous or detrimental to the health or well-being of such persons. However, employers can employ their own children when under the age of 16 years in any occupation other than manufacturing or mining. Persons between the ages of 14 and 16 may be employed in an occupation other than mining or manufacturing provided it is determined by the Chief of the Children's Bureau that such employment is confined to periods that will not interfere with the schooling, health or well-being of such persons.

General Exemptions: (1) Agricultural labor, including farming, raising of bees, livestock, poultry, etc. (2) Persons employed in executive, administration, professional or local retailing capacities. (3) Outside salesmen. (4) Employees of state. (5) Seamen. (6) Employees of air carriers, subject to the labor provisions of the Railway Act (7) Persons employed in the catching or packing of fish. (8) Employees of weekly or semi-weekly newspapers having a circulation of less than 3,000. (9) Employees of urban or suburban transit companies. (10) Persons employed in packing, ginning, canning, or otherwise preparing agricultural or horticultural commodities for market, including dairy products.

Also under special certificates issued by the Administrator, learners, apprentices, and messengers, and persons whose earning capacity is impaired by age or physical deficiencies or injury, can be employed at wages lower than the minimum for such occupation, subject to limitations as to time, number, proportion and length of service as the Administrator shall prescribe.

Industry Committee: To assist the Administrator in his work, Industry Committees shall be established for each industry, to include a number of disinterested persons representing the public, one of whom shall be designated as chairman; a like number of persons to represent employers and a like number representing the employees also will be appointed to the committee, and due regard must be given to the geographical regions in which the industry is carried on.

The Industry Committee must recommend to the Administrator the highest minimum wage rates for the industry which will not curtail employment or give competitive advantage to any group within the industry. In fixing the minimum rate, both the Committee and the Administrator must consider (1) competitive conditions as affected by transportation; living and production costs; (2) wages established by collective labor agreements, and (3) wages paid for work of like or comparable character by employers who voluntarily maintain minimum-wage standards. No classification shall be made on the basis of age or sex.

The effective date of the Act is Monday, October 24. During the 120 days which have elapsed since passage of the act, the Administrator has been working in preparation for its administration.

No less than Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck may be seen on the same program in one of Walt Disney's newest kreations, "Mickey's Trailer", while a golf oddity entiled aptly enough "Brother Golfer" rounds out this four star show.

Double feature bills the rest of the week combine "Smashing the Rackets" with Chester Morris and "Air Devils" with Dick Purcell on Wednesday and Thursday while Friday and Saturday's bargain offering will be "Speed to Burn" with Michael hWalen and "Safety in Numbers" with The Jones Family, Hollywood's very popular typical American household.

Metuchen Gridders Score Zero Hour Safety To Win 8 - 6

Leonardo Fumble Behind Goal Line Decides Contest

Brainy Boro Squad Runs Show; Opponents Make Surprise Tally in Two Minutes

By George Martin

A powerful Metuchen combine tripped up a highly touted Leonardo squad at the High School field last Saturday, 8-6. Coach Seitzer's men were masters of the situation most of the day. The Metuchenites were alert and capitalized on the enemies mistakes the entire afternoon. Even though Leonardo scored first, the Blue and White came back and scored 5 minutes later.

Louis Krause scored the varsity's first touchdown of the season when Jim Rossi threw a pass into the end zone in the season with thirty seconds remaining to play.

Capt. Ed. Risler provided the winning margin when he tackled Miller behind the goal line and scored a safety in the last two minutes of play.

Leonardo's touchdown came as a result of a 30-yard drive downfield by the Leonardo squad to the seven yard line from whence Hoboskey cut inside tackle for a score.

Rahway High Swamps Metuchen Jay-Vees

A passing attack by the second Blue and White team leading a lone touchdown saved the Metuchen High School Jayv-Vees from a complete washout on Monday afternoon, when they met heavier Rahway High School gridders at Rahway. The final whistle stopped the slaughter at 47-7.

Morris put in a good performance as passer, with a record of three quarters of his tosses completed. The tally was made by Reick, catching a 10 yard pass from his teammate in the end zone. It took four completed passes to move the Brainy outfit into scoring range.

Local players included Reink and Breen, ends; Sodon, Dickson and Kohn, tackles; Wojciechowski, Lawrence and Wickberg, guards; Yelencsics, center and Ribinsky, Schwalje, Bierne, Powell, Hazlett and Morris, backs.

Tranavitch Will Not Play Opening Game In Rutgers Stadium

Hampden-Sydney Will Be Scarlet Opponents Tomorrow

With Big Bill Tranavitch, backfield mainstay of Rutgers both offensively and defensively, out of the line-up for the first time in two years, the Scarlet will move into its new stadium across the Raritan River from the main campus for the first time next Saturday when it faces Hampden-Sydney of Virginia.

Tranavitch sustained torn cartilages in the ribs last Saturday when Rutgers eked out a 6 to 0 victory over Springfield in the tightest defensive battle seen on Nelson Field in years. The Big Train will probably be on the side lines for two weeks. Burt Hasbrouck, Rahway sophomore, will start in Tranavitch's fullback post.

Hampden-Sydney is a question mark. The Little Tigers from the South opened their season by losing 7 to 6 to the Washington and Lee eleven, but in its second game sustained a 53 to 0 defeat at the hands of Georgetown.

Production of Radium

Radium is produced from carnotite and other ores found in Utah and Colorado, Belgian Congo, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Australia, Russia, etc. Its chief use is in the treatment of cancer. Meteors do not form a source of radium.

Equally Heavy Teams Brighten Outlook For Scotch Plains Tilt

Because of the rejuvenation of spirits among the Metuchen High School gridders through the victory last week, and because Scotch Plains is the only team besides Highland Park on etuchen schedule with an average weight equalling that of Metuchen, Coach Phillip Seitzer is confident that his boys will put forth a good fight this week and the mythical flag of victory may well float over the Brainy Borough School again after Saturday's contest.

An eleven ranging close to 160 pounds at the beginning of the season has dwindled nearer 154 or 155, when the big fellows on the team didn't measure to their xpectations. But the weight factor doesn't bother the mentor, at least not where Scotch Plains is concerned.

Bill Thornall's dislocated thumb will probably hold up Metuchen more than anything else, for the ace of the squad will definitely not see action this week.

But there's plenty of guessing, now that Bobby Knott has left the school to transfer at Elizabeth, and John Mezey, halfback in the left area, has also discontinued his studies at Franklin. Enos Rainsford may take Bobby's post and Joe Schwalje, tenth-grader, who has been coming along swiftly, may succeed Mezer, who originally went in to give Farrington a rest.

Art Weckberg seems to be the Jonah of the team. His injured hip was well nigh repaired when he received a disability with his thumb. Artie is a good boy and plays a strong able to serve for the team since the game of guard, but he hasn't been first game.

Powell will go in this Saturday as ed to be healing but acquired a disa bad shoulder last week that seemfullback to relieve Rossi.. Rossi had couraging bit of water on his knee after the game with Rahway.

However, with Risler and Walter Stork, and the guards, Schaffhauser and Longabardo, Coach Seitzer finds his line formidable and will put much of his faith for Saturday's game in the front lineup.

MUNICIPAL TOPICS

By the New Jersey State League Of Municipalities

Mandatory Laws

Municipal authorities control only about 23 per cent of the total budget appropriations they are called upon to raise. The balance is dictated by mandatory legislation.

Hundreds of such laws clutter the statute books, invading local government rights and imposing all sorts of demands. Many require the appointment of officials with fixed minimum salaries that cannot be reduced, even in time of emergency. No sound argument has been advanced against permitting municipalities to determine the wages and salaries of their employes, but the mandatory laws stand as a bar.

Other acts of the same class compel municipal authorities to pay state and county taxes on the basis of 100 per cent of the levy, despite the fact collections may not exceed 65 per cent. The entire overhead of collection is borne by the municipalities, along with holding the bag for uncollected taxes. Through mandatory action close to one-sixth of the total ratables of the state, representing more than a billion dollars, is entirely exempt from taxation.

In addition to permitting this situation to exist, the taxpayers, by referendum vote, have created more than 200 unsound public pension funds. The only two systems of this nature known to be actuarially sound are the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund and the State Employes' Retirement System. In the 1938 budgets it was necessary for local taxpayers to meet a deficit of approximately $1,500,000 over and above their normal contributions to pension funds.

The burden of all those costs falls heaviest upon the real estate owner. The recent Princeton Local Government Survey had some succinct comment on the subject of taxation in New Jersey and the unfair load property is required to carry. Said the report: "The property tax in New Jersey is:

"1. A heavy tax—because it provides almost 90 per cent of local tax revenues.

"2. An unequal tax—because in spite of the constitutional requirement that 'property shall be assessed for taxes under general laws and by uniform rules, according to its true value,' it falls the greatest unevenness upon individual property owners.

"3. A rigid tax—because the taxes levied are slow to vary with the value of the property; have little relation to the earning capacity of the property; and equally little relation to the purchasing power of the dollar.

"4. A fearsome tax—because if it is not paid, the property, home, farm or business, may be declared forfeit to the municipality."

The much-discussed revision of the tax system is going to be long in coming. Conflict among various interests and groups is an obstacle to rapid progress.

But the way is open for a large measure of relief by a concerted attack upon the entangling growth of mandatory legislation, with special attention to tax exempt property and unsound pension funds. With these overcome, the more formidable tasks would be vastly simplified.

Undulant Fever

Undulant fever originated in Europe, according to an authority, and came to the attention of medical men during the Crimean war, when army physicians had trouble distinguishing it from typhoid. Its name describes the up and down character of the victim's temperature. It is also called Malta fever because of the experimental work carried on on the island of Malta, where British soldiers contracted it from goats. But, as pointed out, the disease in humans runs the same course regardless of whether the infection comes from cattle, goats or swine.

Not to be avaricious is money; not to be fond of buying is a revenue; but to be content with our own is the greatest and most certain wealth of all.—Cicero.

Removing the Pain of Want

He who understands the limits of life knows how easy it is to procure enough to remove the pain of want and make the whole life complete and perfect. Hence he has no longer any need of things which are to be won only by labor and conflict.—Epicurus.

DO YOU HAVE ANY OF THESE ITEMS YOU WANT TO SELL?

Make a check-up through the house and in the attic and basement, also out in the garage and just see how many things you have that are not being used and are really of no value to you.

But all of these things were useful at one time and you no doubt paid good prices for most of them. But even though they are no longer being used by you does not mean that somebody else would not find good use for them. There is always somebody who is glad to buy things that have been used, thereby saving money by not paying the first cost for them.

It is only a matter of getting in touch with these who are in the market for the things you have to sell. You can do it very easily by advertising in The Recorder want ads. Thousands of people read these ads every issue and you are almost certain to find buyers for what you have to sell.

Want ads received to 5 P. M. the day before publication. Phone Metuchen 6-0501.

He began his spree with a 32 yard throw leading to a touchdown, dotted the entire game with beautiful passes and climaxed the afternoon by tossing the football 50 yards to sail easily into the arms of a teammate waiting on the goal line.
