Poetry.

The following lines were written by Mrs. A. J. G. Newton, of Boston, Mass., in her 88th year, and sent to Mrs. Phineas Emmon, of our village. The poem is remarkable for one of such an age, and the sentiment shows a clear and vivid intellect, though the writer be so advanced in years. (ed)

At the Gate,

I am kneeling at the threshold, weary, faint and Wailing for the dawning for the opening of the Waiting till the Master shall bid me rise and come
To the glory of his presence, to the gladness of His home.
A weary path I've travelled, mid darkness storm
and strife;
Bearing many a burden, struggling for my life;
But now the morn is breaking, my toil will soon
be o'er,
In kneeling at the threshold, my hand is on the door,
Methinks I hear the voices of the blessed as they sing,
Singing in the sunshine of a sinless land;
O, would that I were with them, amid their shining throng,
Mingling in their worship, joining in their song!
The friends that started with me have entered
long ago;
One by one they left me struggling with the foe,
Their pilgrimage was shorter, their triumph
 sooner won;
How lovingly they'll hail me when my toil is done!
With them the blessed angels, that know our
 grief and sin,
I see them by the portals, prepared to let me in.
O Lord! I wait Thy pleasure; Thy time and way are best;
But I'm washed, worn and weary, O Father! bid me rest!

A Matron of the Revolution:
Died in Taunton, Jan. 21, Mrs. Rebecca Simpson, aged 81 years, 8 months and 8 days. Mrs. S. was a rare specimen of a rare generation, retaining her mental powers to a remarkable degree till near the close of her long and useful life. Although for some months it had become apparent to her friends that her powers both of body and mind were gradually decaying, it became the more deeply affecting and interesting to witness the vivacity with which she recalled the incidents of her youth. Born and passing the days of her childhood and youth in what is now West Cambridge, the detachment of the British army sent out to ravage Concord, passed her father's door, and so vivid were her recollections of the exciting scenes of the commencement of our revolutionary struggle, and so animated were her descriptions of those which passed under her own eye, that unconsciously to the hearer, she would carry him back, and make him feel that he too was living amidst them—that he could see the red coat on his untoward march, and hear the earnest and shrill cry of "To arms, to arms—the red coats are coming," as it passed from one to the other of the patriotic yeomanry as he roused himself from the slumbers of the night and hastened to gird on his uncouth armor and nerve himself for the sanguinary conflict. Her account of the early march of the enemy on their way to Lexington and Concord, and their weary evening retreat and utter extinction but for a timely reinforcement, were so life-like that one could almost hear the rattling of the cannon, as it cut forth its mercurial, jagged bolts, on its way, was lodged in the bosom, and is preserved in the family—and the sharp twirl of musketry, and feel a kind of nervous twitch of the hands, as if involuntarily to grasp some deadly weapon and join in the general strife. Her account of and veneration for Washington and his compatriots, was so intense and heartfelt as to remove all wonder that the Greek and Roman, in their ignorance and enthusiasm, should have deified their victorious generals. Nor was her regard for the ministry of her youth less marked. The child-like meekness with which she related the words of wisdom impressed upon her young heart—and memory, were such as to make one wish that they had lived in the days of the fathers, instead of their children. At an early age she settled in Charlestown, and there united with

(It is believed) the First Congregational church. In all the relations of life, as a child, a wife, a mother, and a member of the Christian church, she did well her part. It was meet that a life so well spent, should have been followed, as hers was, by a serene and tranquil old age and a triumphant death. To one who called on her but a day or two before her decease, on being asked if she thought herself near her end, she answered with energy, almost homo-heavenly homo-rud. To the question, Does the Saviour appear precious, she replied, "More than precious—glorious—glorious." Prayer was offered, during which the Lord's Prayer was in part repeated. No sooner was the service closed, than she began "Our Father which art in heaven," &c., going through that admirable form of prayer with perfect accuracy, though she could not recall the commencement of ten minutes before; repeating it as she did, with a voice falling in death, gave it a peculiar significance, sublimity and beauty. Her end was peace.
"Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord. They do rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."

An Irishman, cutting his first green corn, handed the cob to the waiter, and asked "Will ye please put some more haacs upon me stick?"
"Why don't you wash the bottom of your feet, Jahany?" asked a grandmother of a boy when he was performing the operation before retiring for the night, to which he very gravely replied, "Why, granny, you don't think I'm going to stand up in bed, do you?"

At a Sunday School a teacher asked a little boy if he knew what the expression "sowing tares" meant. "Courth I does," said he, pulling the seat of his little breeches around in front! "There's a tare my ma sowed. I teared it sliding down hill."

An Irish officer, on seeing a beautiful picture sketched upon a wall, exclaimed, "It is a fine painting, but it was never done in America."
"O, sir," says his friend, "don't you see it is on a solid wall, and therefore must have been done in this country?" "Ah," replies he, "I see that plain enough, but I only meant the man who did it was never in this America."

Wonderful Discovery.—The reporters of the Esquire and Dispatch, by invitation, visited, on Saturday, a great natural curiosity—a spring, the like of which is perhaps, not to be found in the whole world. About two miles and a half from Ashland, in a Northeasterly direction, upon the lands of Phillip Bowler, Esq., there have recently been discovered several curious hot springs. The one we now speak of, and the most remarkable one of all, is of considerable size, the water of which, when properly seasoned with pepper and salt, cannot be distinguished from the best chicken soup. Of the hundreds who have partaken of it, all agree that it has precisely the taste of chicken soup or broth. The proprietors have made many experiments with the water of this spring, and find it to be both wholesome and nutritious. 3 lbs. of beef boiled in the water of the spring yields as much soup as could be obtained from twelve pounds of the same meat cooked in the common water. The spring is one of the group of hot springs situated in a stretch of moderately hilly or rolling country, and is no way remarkable in appearance. Like the other springs about the place, it is at the top of a little mound of loam and sediment formed by the decay of plants and mineral deposits. — Rich Eng.

Indianapolis is infested by highway robbers, but a brave girl there recently outwitted one of them. She was returning home about dusk, alone in a buggy. She drove along leisurely, her horse dropping his head in a contented way. All at once a man jumped out from a cornfield near by, and took her horse by the head. She looked at him in surprise. "I would like to ride with you, Miss," he said to her. "Most anybody would," she replied, surveying him steadily. "Taking the presence of mind for consent, he dropped the bridle rein and took a step toward the carriage. That instant the brave girl touched her horse with the whip, giving the man a sharp cut across the face, and before he could recover himself he was thrown down by the wheels of the buggy, which, with his intended victim, fast disappeared.

The committee appointed to superintend the erection of the Peabody statue, says the London Daily News, July 15th, have now closed their labors. The statue is placed upon the now granite pedestal, and the railing is completed. The inscription is "George Peabody, 1867." The entire cost has been about £3700.

The Lead.—The steamer Ocean Belle was going down the Mississippi river, with a deck load of pig lead. As she was steaming near a shallow place, the pilot gave the signal for the man forward to throw the lead. It happened that the only man forward was a green Irishman. "Why don't you throw the lead?" "Is it the lead you want to throw, yer honor? And faith where will I be throwing it?" "Overboard, you scoundrel!" Pat took up the pig of lead and threw it overboard; the mate endeavoring to prevent him, lost his balance and fell into the river. The captain ran forward on the hurricane deck and asked Pat why he did not "throw the lead and slag out how much water there was?" "Och, pon my soul, Captain, I throwed the lead, and the mate has gone down to see how much water there is!"

Jonathan's Description of a Steamboat.—"I've got a saw mill on one side and a grist mill on t' other, and a blacksmith's shop in the middle; and down cellar there's a turkation great pot, boiling all the time."

A very ingenious trick has recently come to light, by which ten five-dollar bills are manufactured out of nine, with but one pasting to each of the manufactured notes, and that in different parts of the note, and each note injures one-tenth of itself. The loss is hardly perceptible with a casual glance, and it is said that large numbers of these mutilated bills are in circulation. Be careful. The department will not redeem a bill which bears evidence on its face that it has been tampered with.

NICHOLAS LONGWORTH once purchased the business portion of the city of Cincinnati for the value of a horse—a circumstance which gives its Western rivals an opportunity to say that it has always been, as it commenced, a one-horse town—(which it isn't.)

"JOHNNY, what gender is huse—stankings, you know?" "Sometimes masculine, and sometimes feminine." "No, no, my son; huse is neuter." "Well, any how, I heard a man talking on the farm where we boarded, and he said, 'As hoes,' and 'As hoes,' and 'the old man hoes,' and 'that knocks your neuter higher'n a kite.'"

HOMICIDE.

We refrained from giving more than a passing notice in our last issue, of the sad occurrence that took place in our village on the afternoon of August 17th. We did so, because the public mind was so excited that it seemed almost impossible to get at the real facts of the case. The particulars seem to have been as follows: Henry Rohd and John (last name unknown) two cutlers at Furry's hotel had been angry with each other for several days, growing partly out of monies received by John, for water-logging people's horses, which, Henry claimed, belonged to him. This feud continued until a quarrel took place on Wednesday afternoon, growing out of the refusal of John to execute some arrangements that Henry wanted made at the stable. The quarrel ended in a scuffle, in which Henry got his face lacerated in some way, most probably with a pitch fork making the blood flow pretty freely. This so enraged Henry that he rushed from the stable, picked up a heavy club, and, returning to the stable raised John to a position to strike John, and ordered him from the stable. Mr. John P. Van-Pelt and Capt. Hoff, Tattle, hearing the noise from the bar-room, and seeing Henry running, came out on the back stoop and repeatedly told Henry not to strike John. After frequently ordering him from the stable and his refusing to go, Henry struck him on the head just above the temple, and he fell. He remained semi-senseless, but not apparently very dangerous, the greater part of the evening, and it was thought a night's sleep would bring him all right. He was then left alone till morning, when he was found dead. Henry immediately surrendered himself to justice Campbell, and a jury was empanelled to make an inquest of the case. Messrs Van Pelt and Tattle testified as above, and Drs. Shackleton and Travers made a section of the cranium, and examining the wound, found an extravasation of about three ounces of blood. They therefore testified that John came to his death from an external blow producing this congestion. The jury retired about half an hour and brought in a verdict that John (last name unknown) came to his death from a blow dealt by a club in the hands of Henry Rohd. The constable was then directed to take the prisoner and deliver him to the custody of the sheriff, where he will have to remain until the September term of Court.

That Henry intended that the blow should be a fatal one, is extremely doubtful; but when the passions are aroused, man strikes with a force beyond his reckoning, and it must be left for a jury to say whether a man is or is not, under such circumstances, liable to the severest penalty the law imposes.

Rev. F. B. Chetwood has resigned his position as rector of Trinity P. E. Church, and preached his farewell sermon on Sunday afternoon, 21st, ult.

KEYPORT & FREEHOLD RAILROAD.—The first survey of this road has been completed, thanks to the energy of the Messrs. Walling, Surveyors, and the Superintendent, Capt. Joseph D. Hoff. We hope soon to hear of the laying of the first rail. Let forward be the watchword.

One and another thing has interfered with the meetings of the Matawan Literary Society for four weeks past. We hope and confidently trust that there will be nothing to prevent a meeting next week. Let every one appointed to duty be ready.

We are pleased to know that our worthy friend Theo. Lambertson, of our village, is meeting with such success in the way of work. He has the contracts for the carpenter work of the large new brick building of Capt. Wm. Walling, and the residence of Mr. Winterton at Keyport, and a new residence for Mr. John Hoff, in the country.

A dangerous $20 counterfeit is in circulation. The only noticeable blemish in the notes is a slightly blotted appearance of the vignette, and an inferiority in the paper.

THE MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE OF MR. FRENCH, AT LONG BRANCH.—On Wednesday evening, 24th, ult., a Mr. French, who has just located at Eatontown, as a Dentist, purchased tickets for two at the Eatontown Station for Long Branch, intending to take a bath and then walk back. Nothing was heard of him afterwards, until the finding of his clothing in the bathing house was announced.

When he left Eatontown he had a valuable gold watch with a photograph of his wife on the dial, a heavy gold fob-chain hung with gold trinkets, and gold shirt studs and sleeve buttons. He generally carried money in a pocket book, but what amount he had with him at this time is not known. When his clothes were found his watch, jewelry and pocket book were missing.

Another mystery shrouding this affair is, that his companion has not as yet turned up, nor do any of Mr. French's friends at Eatontown know who it was that accompanied him.

Dr. S. H. Hunt, a cousin to Mr. French's wife, and physician at Eatontown, has offered a reward of $100 for the recovery of the body.

DROWNED.—Frank Jackson, son of Mr. William H. Jackson, of New York, and grandson of Mr. O. H. Applegate, of Freehold, was drowned in the pond at Jamesburg, on Tuesday afternoon, 16th, ult.

Mr. Jerome Magee of Helmsdel was riding near Eatontown on Sunday, 21st, ult., when his horses took fright and ran away. One of the horses, valued at $100, ran against a joist on one side of the road, which penetrated his breast, causing instant death.

A Citysman writing to a friend, says, "My wife's lungs are indefinitely poisoned. I have discovered the Fountain of Health" on this side of the Atlantic. Three bottles of the Peruvian Syrup have raised me from the fangs of the dead Dysentery. Dysentery should drink from this fountain.

FIRE.

At midnight of Tuesday, 30th. ult., the lower part of our village was aroused by the cry of fire! The Steam Grist Mill of Mr. A. D. Goddard, known as the 'Excelsior Mills,' was in flames. The fire-bell rang, and those who heard the alarm were promptly on hand, to render what assistance they could with engine and pails, to extinguish the flames. The fire had made somewhat of headway when it was discovered, and by the time the engine reached there the whole north part of the building was in flames. The men worked at the handles with an energy, and the stream of water made a telling influence on the fire. By their effort the boiler and engine of the mill were saved, though the main building was consumed. An occasional stream was also thrown at first on the residence of Mr. Goddard, on the hill, but it was soon found that there was no immediate danger of the house taking fire, and all their effort was directed toward the mill.

After reducing the flames somewhat, the alarm was given that the Lime Sheds of Messrs. H. & K. H. Wyckoff, on the other side of the mill, were on fire, and the men manned the rope, and started to run between the bearing mill and dock, a space of twenty feet, to reach the sheds. As they were attempting to make the passage, one of the arms of the engine caught in a piling on the dock, and the heat was so intense that the men had to drop the rope and run. The engine stood there for several seconds, in danger of being burned, and already scorching badly. At this juncture one of the men rushed in and raised the arm so that it cleared the pile, when the rope was again manned, and the engine brought near the sheds. The hose was yet to be gotten through, but the heat had become too intense for it to follow the track of the engine, and it was brought around the hill, attached and began to play upon the sheds which were soon extinguished. The engine worked well, throwing a heavy stream a great distance, though it did not take many minutes to tiro the men out, and relays of men were needed to take the places of those who were tired. Much praise is due to the firemen, and their Foreman, Mr. Jesse Slekels, and these citizens who worked with a will to save the endangered property. To those who stood by, but lent no helping hand, we have no word of commendation to offer. In the name of Mr. Goddard and Messrs. H. & K. H. Wyckoff, we tender our grateful thanks for the energetic assistance in this time of greatest need.

Fortunately the fire occurred in a place where there was plenty of water. Had it taken place in the main part of town, the necessity for public tanks would perhaps have been very seriously felt.

The loss of property amounts to about $8000. Insured for about one-half.

Local Construction.—A celebrated teacher of grammar, once on a time, set his class to parsing the following lines of Pope—
'Heaven from all creatures hides the book of fate;
All but the page described, &c.
The word 'all' in the second line, had been parsed, when coming to the word 'but,' and directing his eye to the next pupil, the master said—
'But—the next.'
No sooner was the word out, than plump went the head of the pupil into the broad-bucket of his next neighbor.

A young man named Thorne, alias Comstock, jumped from the roof of an elevator into Buffalo creek on Wednesday, a distance of 135 feet. During his fall he lost his balance and fell on his side in the water, causing serious injuries. He was advertised to jump from the new Suspension Bridge at Niagara Falls on the 13th inst. The water in the creek was only fourteen feet deep where the jump was made.

The other day some ladies were out visiting. There being a little two-year-old present, one of the ladies asked him if he would kiss her. He answered "No." "What is the reason that you will not kiss me?" "I'm too little to kiss you; papa kisses all the big girls." He was permitted to play with his toys.

WALSHEMAN'S REMEDY FOR DIARRHOEA, DYSANTERY & CHOLERA. A sure and speedy Remedy for the above Complaints. For sale by Geo. W. Bell, Matawan. Sulphate of Lime for purifying and Fecerring Clider. Sold by G. W. Bell, Druggist.

Will be found to be an excellent remedy for Burns, Scalds, Sores, Nose Bleeds & Lips, Chapped Hands, Wounds, Cuts, Bites of Insects, Scrofulous Sores, Salt Rheum, and Other CUTANEOUS Diseases.

CEROMA is not a preparation that has been compounded merely for speculative purposes, but is the result of careful experiment and repeated effort. It was originally prepared for our own private use, several years ago, and we were so pleased with its effects as a healing agent that we recommended it to others. A lady called at the store and asked for a remedy for

SALT RHEUM. and we advised her to try a box of the CEROMA. She returned shortly after for another box, and said she had received more benefit from it than from any other remedy. We recommended it to MRS. JOHN DOLAN, for a similar complaint, and her hands were soon healed. Some time after, Mr. Peter W. Sizer came to us with an eruption that covered a great part of his hand and wrist, and returned for another box, saying it was the BEST THING he had tried.

MR. JOEL COLLINS had used a number of remedies to cure an IRRITATION OF THE MOUTH, and Inflammation and Swelling of the lower lip, but all had failed. He took a box of Ceroma and applied it freely to the lip, and soon the disease was removed.

THE ATTENTION OF BOATMEN, and all who are troubled with CHAPPED OR CRACKED HANDS, is particularly called to Ceroma, as a CURE for this affliction, and, as proof thereof, we would refer to CAPT. PETER LAMBERTSON, and CAPT. PETER G. DISBROW, and to the following certificate. I consider Ceroma the best thing for Chapped Hands that I have ever used in my family. ALFRED S. DUNLOP. Paris, 25, rue. Pan. Box. For Sale At Geo. W. Bell's Drug Store, Matawan.

TERRA COTTA!

Fountain and Geran. Have just received a stock of TERRA COTTA GARDEN VASES, Pipe, Chimney Tops & Flues, to which they call the attention of the public. These Tops are very generally used, both for city and country houses. They give a style and finish to the Cottage or Villa, that cannot be produced in brick. Besides adding to the beauty of a house, they secure a good draft to the flue; are indestructible by Coal Gas or Weather; are cheaper than anything else in the market, a three-foot top costing only $3.75, while a brick or stone chimney will cost more at first, besides a five dollar bill every few years to repair the ravages of coal gas. They are easily put up, and can be placed on any chimney, old or new.

Verified Terra Cotta Pipes for underground draining or sewerage. These, being in the country should see that their houses have proper drainage, to carry away the house refuse; the rain water, or the water from wet cellars. A proper attention to this matter will make your home cleaner, more healthy and more pleasant. Call and examine these goods, and get a circular describing them more fully.
