PUC ORDERS MAINS OF CLIFFWOOD FIRM FLUSHED IN AREA

The Public Utilities Commission has ordered the Cliffwood Beach Water Company to flush out its water mains in Madison Township.

The company, which supplies water to the residents of Cliffwood Beach, must flush its mains a "sufficient number of times before June 15 to assure that all sediment that can be carried by water is evacuated from the mains."

The company must also keep a record of such work and submit it to the PUC not later than July 1.

The board also ordered the water company to engage a professional engineer to compile a comprehensive report on:

- (1) The condition of its mains.
- (2) The hydraulic relationship with respect to its suppliers (Keyport borough, Matawan township and the Laurence Harbor Water Company).
- (3) Means by which its water tank can be filled for release during periods of heavy usage, and
- (4) Future dependable sources of supply.

This engineering report must be completed and filed with the board by July 1.

The board also directed the company to draw up rules and regulations to be observed by its customers to conserve water during dry periods or periods in which a shortage may develop.

PUC action came as a result of a complaint filed by Madison Township that 300 residents of Cliffwood Beach were not getting adequate water service.

The township charged that during summer months water to these residents has been cut off for as long as 71 hours at a time and that during a three month period last summer there were 19 interruptions in service averaging 17 hours each.

The township also contended that the company's water was often "rusty" and left brown or red rings in bath tubs and stained white clothing when washed.

CONFERENCE SET IN MATAWAN BY BOARD, COUNCIL

Members of the Matawan Township Board of Education will meet tomorrow (Thursday) with the director of school building services of the State Department of Education in Trenton on plans for two new school buildings planned for Matawan and Cliffwood.

Frederic Fessler, of Hazlet, architect employed by the Board of Education, has been advised by the State Department of Education that the plans submitted by him for the new school in Matawan borough, have been approved insofar as the structural details are concerned, but that questioning has been raised about the location selected for the building.

In the communication Fessler received from the state board, objection is raised to locating the borough building so close to the Church street line of the school property and the lot lines in Cliffwood. It is understood the state board is of the opinion the borough building should be set in the athletic field away from the Church street line. It is suggested that acreage be obtained for the better location of the building proposed for Cliffwood.

The conference is to determine what can be done about the situation.

KEANSBURG MOVES TO INSTALL PARKING METERS AT BEACH

The Keansburg borough council has approved an appropriation of $23,000 for the purchase and installation of parking meters on Beachway and Highland avenue.

A bond ordinance, providing a major portion of the funds for installation was approved following a public hearing.

Mayor James J. Gravany urged passage of the ordinance and outlined the low cost of maintenance of the meters. He also cited the figures of other municipalities which had already installed meters showing substantial revenues through meter operation.

The meters are scheduled to be in operation during the summer season only.

Two business groups split on the issue of installing the meters. The Keansburg Beach Merchant's Association endorsed the plan to install meters on Beachway and Highland avenue while the Keansburg Businessmen's Association opposed the immediate installation of meters in the borough. The latter group cited the need for other community improvements which they thought should be dealt with first.

clerks to look out for professional gamblers who try to cash in on now-legal charity bingo and raffles games.

Municipal governments must make sure they grant permits to charitable organizations only, because big-time gamblers undoubtedly would like to get a share of the games' proceeds.

LOCAL CEMETERY PROPERTY SOLD; TO RESTORE TRACT

Superior Court Judge C. Thomas Schettino has paved the way for the restoration of Rosemont Cemetery in Raritan Township by approving the sale of 400 cemetery lots to James Carragher, Colonia for $4,000.

Mr. Carragher immediately promised to call a meeting of the stockholders to activate the board of trustees and to take an active part in seeing that the long-neglected local property is restored to use.

Sale of the property climaxes a two-year effort on the part of Mayor Herbert R. Rothenberg of Keyport, to preserve the cemetery. He was appointed by the court as receiver of the Rosemont Cemetery Association in 1952.

The cemetery was established in 1932 by Elizabeth R. Jewett, Keyport. In 1933 she conveyed the property to the cemetery corporation. In the next few years between 50 and 60 persons were buried there before the company failed.

Mrs. Jewett died in 1940 and willed income rights from the cemetery to her six children. However, the will was never probated and subsequently these rights were purchased by a Benjamin Getzoff, a former resident of Somerville now residing in California.

Mr. Getzoff bought suit against the defunct corporation to recover his equity. Judge Schettino ruled there was an equitable right in favor of Mrs. Jewett's original grant which included the entire tract, to which Mr. Getzoff succeeded and accordingly set its value at $17,000 plus collection of interest of four percent dating back to Jan. 1, 1934.

The sale was made on the recommendation of Mr. Rothenberg who said he was convinced Mr. Carragher would rehabilitate and place back in operation some 400 cemetery lots.

Mr. Carragher indicated he would make 4.2 acres of the property available to the adjoining

COAST GUARD'S WATER POLICE TO PATROL BAY

Coast Guard "water police" patrols along Sandy Hook will start patrolling New York bay and shore areas May 1st when hundreds of pleasure craft are expected to take to the water for the first time this year.

Tours will include boat inspections to make sure safety regulations are observed, keeping channels clear of "water parkers" and possible emergency or rescue missions.

Preparation by the Coast Guard for the opening of increased summer boating activities has been going on for several months at the Sandy Hook station and its substations at Monmouth Beach, Shark River and Manasquan Inlet, the spring work program included overhaul of boats and drills for personnel.

State police at Keyport reported a pickup during the last few days of small craft transportation by trailer from North Jersey counties over Monmouth County highways.

Cedarwood Cemetery for expansion. Mr. Rothenberg said the Cedarwood people had cared for part of Rosemont for many years without charge, a deed which drew warm praise from Judge Schettino.

The Cedarwood company had offered $5,000 for the 4.2 acres but acceded to the sale on the basis of Mr. Rothenberg's presentations. Seymour Kleinberg, Keansburg attorney representing the Keyport Development Company, also withdrew an offer for Rosemont and urged the recommendations of Mr. Rothenberg.

The only other offer came from Norman Bernard, Highland Park, who said he represented the Cloverleaf Memorial Aid Plan, a company which acts as managers of cemetery property. Mr. Bernard entered a bid of $6,000 for the entire 23 acres of Rosemont.

RULES OUTLINED FOR BINGO GAMES UNDER NEW LAW

Rules governing the operation of Bingo games and raffles in the county have been outlined by Merrit Lane, Middletown, a member of the Legal Games of Chance Commission or Bingo Control Commission.

Mr. Lane attended the meeting of the Monmouth County Municipal Clerks Association at the American Hotel, Freehold, Friday night, when the main part of the meeting was devoted to a question forum.

He was introduced by State Senator Richard R. Stout. Senator Stout said the bingo bill "contains the best features of all bills which have been presented to the Legislature since 1950."

But he said that amendment might be necessary.

Mr. Lane warned that effective control of the legal gaming was most important. "If the games get out of hand," he said, "I feel that there will be a complete reversal of the law, and that no gaming will be permitted by the state."

Mr. Lane's answers to questions clarified these facts:

1. Organizations desiring to hold games or raffles must register with the Commission and be assigned a registration number.

2. When the number has been assigned they will apply to the municipal clerk for application forms.

3. The governing body may by resolution, designate an authority to investigate the application and recommend approval or rejection. Mr. Lane indicated that the police department might be the logical agency for this.

4. After report, the governing body, at its regular meeting will instruct the clerk to issue the permit or reject the application.

Mr. Lane pointed out that a municipal ordinance was required only when the applicant requested a permit for Sunday operation.

Other facts brought out by the forum were:

1. Persons under age 18 are not permitted to play games of chance under the statute.

2. Organizations operating games of chance must do so with their own or donated equipment. Operation with rented equipment from firms formerly supplying this equipment is not permitted.

3. Permits are only valid in towns where they are issued.

4. Violations are punishable under the disorderly persons law.

5. All fees for permits under the statute belong to the municipality.

6. Payment of money to workers selling raffle chances is prohibited.

7. An organization keeps its registration number for the entire period for which it has requested permits.

YOUR GARDEN THIS WEEK

Dogwood is one of the plants that last summer showed the effects of the extreme and prolonged heat wave and drought.

As the dogwood grows naturally, it is what is known as an understory plant. It usually grows in open woodland. Above it tower the oaks and hickories and the other trees. Consequently, it develops a relatively shallow root system.

This means that the roots are usually fairly close to the soil surface. When the upper layer of soil dries out, there is injury to the roots.

When this dry volume of soil is subjected to extreme heat, the baking results in still more injury to the finer roots. The leaves become somewhat mottled and the late leaves to form are reduced in size.

This spring these trees should be fertilized. If they are in a situation where the soil can be cultivated—that is, if they are not growing in a lawn area or where there are other plants under them—the fertilizer can be spread on the soil and lightly cultivated in.

In spreading, keep the fertilizer away from the trunk, as it might cause injury. If there are plants growing under the spread of the branches, it would be well to put the fertilizer deeper, in holes 15 to 18 inches deep, spaced about 2 feet apart. These holes may be made with a soil auger or with a crowbar and they should be under the outer two-thirds of the branch spread.

If no lime or little has been used under the trees, a complete garden fertilizer, such as 5-10-5 or similar analysis, may be used. If lime has been used, it probably would be better to apply fertilizer that will give an acid reaction, such as those prepared for broad-leaved evergreens.

The amount to use should be at the rate of 2 pounds for each inch diameter of trunk, measured about 4 feet from the ground. The total amount should be divided by the number of holes and an equal quantity should be placed in each hole if holes are used. Holes may be left open to receive water or they may be filled with sand, good soil or humous material.

At the same time, it would be wise to reduce the top somewhat. This may be done by the removal of branches that closely overlap one another so that one might well be spared. They may be cut back, but not as you would shear an evergreen.

Where side branches are thick, out toward the margin, take out some of them one-fourth inch to three-fourths inch in diameter, cutting back to the branch from which they originate.

HUMAN VOICE "CODED" IN RUTGERS PROJECT

The simple "eh" sound in the word, "met," produced these striking differences in frequency spectrums when recorded by the four persons above, left to right, Professor James J. Slade, research director of the Rutgers University Bureau of Engineering Research; Doris Klink, Bureau secretary; George M. Badoyannis, research associate in electrical engineering, and Sylvan Fich, associate professor of electrical engineering. It's part of a project to reduce the human voice to a minimum number of elements that can be incorporated in a high-speed, interference-free communications system.

TAG DAY DISPUTE BETWEEN BANDS LEFT UNSETTLED

Fund drive plans which have placed Union Beach's two Drum and Bugle Corps organizations in competition with each other were argued again at the regular meeting of the borough council.

The hassle started after the Fire Department Drum and Bugle group was given permission to hold a tag day May 30. The Community Drum and Bugle Corps then received permission to hold a similar effort on Mother's Day, May 9.

The Fire Department then protested that the action would hurt both groups, the dates being too close together. Fire Chief Keith Gunsauls said a former officer of the Community group was quoted as saying that the earlier date was obtained "just to spite" the other corps.

Mrs. John McRae, of the Community group, denied this and said the statement was not made by any of the present officers. She said the only harm that might come of the controversy was that done by the "slandorous remarks" made by the fire chief. Chief Gunsauls said he did not make up what he had said and was only repeating statements of others.

Council, which had granted both tag day dates, decided after arguments to leave the matter as it stands, with the community group slated to stage its drive May 9 and the firemen's group still holding the later date.

HEARING OF GAS COMPANY RATE BOOST POSTPONED

The Public Utilities Commission has announced that resumption of the rate hearing case of the New Jersey Natural Gas Company has been postponed until May 10.

The hearing opened March 17 before Commissioner D. Lane Powers with the filing of briefs by company attorney Sidney M. Schrieber.

The company seeks a new rate scale which would increase annual revenue by $628,000. The scale is also designed to equalize gas rates thruout the company's four districts.

Trenton attorney Thorn Lord, court-appointed rate defender, sought and received a postponement to April 26 in order to compile rebuttal testimony to the company's case.

A spokesman for Commissioner Powers said Mr. Lord wrote the commission that he has had "difficulty in securing satisfactory expert testimony" and asked for a further postponement.

Mr. Powers accordingly set the resumption date for May 10 at 11 a.m. in the State House Annex.

COUNCIL AT UNION BEACH TABLES BINGO APPROVALS

A request that Tuesday nights be reserved for firemen's bingo games was tabled for further study by the Union Beach borough council Thursday night.

Union Beach Fire Company No. 1 made the request for permission to hold Bingo games each Tuesday evening. The council granted permission for May 4 and May 11, a stop gap measure to enable further study of the firemen's proposal and determine a blanket method of approval of the games.

Fire Chief Keith Gunsauls reported he and Councilman Carl Dibling had inspected hydrants and recommended attention be given to some. Most of those for which corrective steps were advised should be raised, the chief said.

Council ordered a letter demanding that crossings of the Central Railroad of New Jersey be marked with signals framed and sent the railroad. There have been many serious accidents at borough crossings, the most recent one last week at Florence avenue where a driver was critically injured. The borough attorney was asked to take immediate action.

Council accepted the bid of Graybar Electric Company, Newark, for supply of materials and supplies for a new fire alarm system. The bid of $4,644 was the only one received.

MATAWAN MAN WINS AWARD OF $495 IN COURT

Maurice J. Denardo, 11 Sutphin avenue, Matawan, has been awarded $495 after a hearing before Deputy Director Harry S. Medinets in Workmen's Compensation Court.

A plater employed by Bendix Aviation Corporation at Eatontown, Mr. Denardo was burned when a tank containing dichromide overflowed on Dec. 3, 1953. He was hospitalized at Monmouth Memorial Hospital, Long Branch, and was unable to work for two weeks, it was contended.

Samuel Carotenuto, Red Bank, represented Mr. Denardo.

MATAWAN NINE SETS PACE WITH 5-1 VICTORY HERE

Matawan High School's baseball team, defending champions and now currently setting the pace in the Class B race of the Shore Conference downed Atlantic Highlands 5-1 behind the four-hit hurling of Jim Dillon at the Huskie field.

Matawan won the game despite a 4-3 margin in hits gained by the Tigers. Bob Schanbel, the losing hurler, whiffed nine and walked four batters. Dillon breezed the third strike by 10 batters and only issued a pair of passes.

The score was tied at the end of four innings, 1-1, as each team tallied in the opening stanza. The Huskies won the game by scoring braces of runs in the fifth and sixth innings.

Fred DeNardo, Dick Frost and Lanzaro garnered the trio of hits off Schnabel's servings. Heard accounted for half of the Tigers' hits, while Tom Derby and Bennett rapped out the other safeties.

MATAWAN MILERS SHINE IN PENN RELAY HEATS

Matawan High School's great mile relay team emerged as the only champion among Shore schools in the high school phase of the Penn Relays at Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

Coach John Carraciolo's fleet-footed Huskies took first place honors in their class with a clocking of 3:40.1. Scotch Plains was second, Mount Pleasant of Delaware settling for third position. Columbia, Pa. was fourth and Pelham Memorial was fifth.

Competing for the Huskies were Joe Sheeran, who ran the first leg; Herbie Carbone, Carlos Concepcion and Mary Hauser ran anchor.

As the race started out, Sheeran was forced to fight his way out of a traffic jam and on the second turn the Huskies were holding their own.

At the 220 mark, Sheeran was first and when Carbone took over, the Huskies had clear sailing, finishing strongly by holding as much as a 20 yard lead on their closets competitors.
