He also urged the citizens of the State to join the GOC through our civil defense forces to help provide the air surveillance so urgently needed. MADISON BOARD INTERVIEWS MANY SCHOOL ARCHITECTS

Further steps toward the construction of a 26-room central school in Madison Township were taken at a special meeting of the Board of Education at which 12 school architects were interviewed with an eye toward choosing one for the job.

Walter Staeger, president of the board, and Rex Copeland, superintendent of schools, said several of those interviewed indicated they would be favorably disposed to take the job within the budget allowed.

It is assumed the school board will ask four of the architects to submit definite plans and choose one for the school.

The board also signed an option on a 20-acre tract off Route 9 known as the Gaub tract for $800 per acre. The board gave no indication when it expects to begin construction of the school.

The board is presently awaiting permission from the State Department of Municipal Government to float a bond issue in excess of the legal debt limit in order to secure funds for the school.

MATAWAN BANK HAS LONG TRADE HISTORY

Nothing inspires confidence and a true sense of security in the performance of business more than having a bank account with a good solid institution. And we may say with complete assurance that any bank which has survived for more than a hundred years has really earned its reputation the hard way.

The Farmers & Merchants National Bank is to be congratulated on its glorious past, active and cooperative present, and, best of all, its prospective future. Organized in 1830, it is well past its hundredth birthday, and into its second hundred years of service.

It is the oldest bank in Monmouth County, and one which has contributed much toward the growth of not only this county, but the entire State as well. They are members of the Federal Reserve System, and a glance at their condensed statement of any year shows how well their assets and liabilities are kept under control.

A bank account reflects credit upon anyone's standing. It is a business reference. Wise men know this and capitalize upon it. Whenever earnings begin, savings should begin and continue. This is an axiom to success and happiness, and it is as sure and safe as the Scriptures.

Starting people in the right direction is the business of the Farmers & Merchants National Bank, and they can point with pride to countless business firms in this and surrounding areas, now solid pillars of their community, which they assisted at critical times thru crashes, depressions and disasters.

The Board of Directors and personnel of this bank know that they have a duty to perform, a service to render to their fellowman, an obligation to live up to, and this they have done well for 124 years. The character of any bank is a reflection of the character of the men at its head.

RUTGERS FAMED SOIL SCIENTIST RETIRES

Dr. Firman E. Bear, Rutgers University scientist who won world acclaim for his work with trace elements in soil, retired yesterday, leaving behind some pleasant predictions for future gourmands. He says such a challenge can be met through science and a basic reliance on the soil.

HUBS DOWN HARBOR A.C. IN TUNEUP TILT

The Hubs, Perth Amboy's good-will ambassadors of sport, warmed up for their annual trek to Pennsylvania Thursday night with a 10-0 thumping of the Laurence Harbor A.C. The game, played at the shore, entered the record books as win No. 25 for the Hubner crew this season in 33 games.

Johnny Davis, who seems to have recaptured his old-time form, made it five straight, holding the Harbor boys pretty well moored at home plate, giving up but two singles.

His mates, meanwhile, broke into the scoring column with two in the second and piled it on thereafter, climaxing their scoring with a 6-run outburst in the fifth.

Bill Orosz produced the first two scores with a single. It followed singles by Davis and Harry Koons.

Hap Springer, who will not make the Pennsy trek, gave the boys something to remember him by with a round-tripper in the third and came up with two other hits, both doubles, to lead the hitters. Davis had three singles.

Jackie Burns, Yogi Toth, Koons and Orosz also contributed greatly to the attack with two safeties apiece.

Matawan won both ends of a twin bill against Neptune Thursday night in a Monmouth County American Legion Junior Baseball league affair at the Matawan field.

In the first game, suspended from June 7 when the score was tied 4-4, Matawan earned a 6-4 triumph by shoving across single tallies in the sixth and seventh innings. Matawan also won the second scuffle, 4-1, as the Huskies scored all of their runs in the first two innings.

DODGERS DOWN FAIR HAVEN IN LEAGUE GAME

Continuing their red hot pace in the Bayshore Little Bigger League, the Keyport Dodgers downed Fair Haven 11-3 behind the five hit pitching of Tony Cogliano.

Cogliano was a big gun at the plate for his own cause going three for three including a line drive home run and a triple. The Dodgers pounded out eight hits off the slants of Fair Haven pitchers and scored in each of the first five innings. The game was called midway through the sixth on account of darkness.

Cogliano struck out six and issued two passes. The Dodgers played without the services of pitcher Ray LoPresto and Hank Cleary, sidelined by injuries and Frank Melee who did not turn up for the game.

Tonight, the Dodgers take on Matawan at the local field and tomorrow play host to St. Joseph's squad, both going great guns in the loop. Middletown and Englishtown are also on tap for the locals on Monday and Wednesday of next week.

RURAL BODY WORKS HERE GAINS REPUTATION

In no other field in this area is competition keener than among those firms who make the renewing and refinishing of auto bodies their business. As competition has grown, more and more stress has been placed upon expert workmanship and service. A policy of rigid adherence to the highest standards has won distinction for the better repair shops, among which is the Rural Body Works, located at Route 4, Cheesequake, New Jersey, and R.D. 1, Matawan, New Jersey, phone Matawan 1-1028.

Operated by Bill Zellers and John Caliendo, the Rural Body Works specializes in Auto Body Repairing, Refinishing, Collision Work and the highest quality of Auto Painting, and has succeeded in maintaining reasonable prices without loss of either quality of workmanship or spirit of friendly service.

In these days of modern conveniences and transportation requirements, such as were not even envisioned a few years back, automobiles play far too important a part in our lives, both from a standpoint of investment and appearance, to be neglected in their surface upkeep. But a dented fender is no longer something that can be knocked out by an amateur and perhaps touched up a bit crudely. With the present vogue of light and off-shade colors, the slightest imperfection quickly catches the eye, and the problems involved in restoring and renewing it have been greatly magnified. With increased traffic has come multiplied odds against the driver keeping his vehicle free of mars and dents, to say nothing of the more serious complications of accidents involving expensive damages. Such work can be entrusted only to someone who is qualified and equipped to handle the job completely and efficiently, with the least possible loss of the use of the car to the owner. This is when service is really appreciated.

Car owners have learned from experience that Rural Body Works is a mighty good place to take their problems, and that work done there will stand up well with any to be found not only in this immediate section, but over a large surrounding territory as well.

The Rural Body Works is pleased to give estimates, confident that the quality of their work, combined with reasonable prices, will stand the closest scrutiny and comparison. No job is too large or too small for them to tackle and the personal guarantee of both Bill Zellers and John Caliendo backs all work done.

When your problem is concerned with an auto body, whether it involves a fleet or just your own private passenger car, and whether it is a routine or emergency job, a call to Rural Body Works, Route 4, Cheesequake, New Jersey, and R.D. 1, Matawan, New Jersey, telephone Matawan 1-1028, will insure quality work done speedily and thoroughly.

The PUC said it imposed the restrictions in order to protect three other bus lines—Rollo Transit Corp., Boro Buses Ltd.—which serve the same area.

The company testified at a public hearing on its application to operate between Keansburg and Long Branch that an affiliate, the Keansburg Steamboat Co., was seeking approval from the Interstate Commerce Commission to transfer to the bus company its permit to carry passengers between New York City and Long Branch.

"CAROUSEL" IS PLEASING EVENT AT MUSIC CIRCUS

Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein's sentimental and touching musical "Carousel" opened a pleasing engagement at the Neptune Music Circus on Monday. This tuneful show about carnival life which is in a natural setting in a tent features Janet Medlin, Chris Robinson, Dorothea MacFarland, Donald Clarke, Lorraine Bridges, Van Hawley, Ruth White, Patience Jarvis and Joan Elliot. Robert C. Jarvis has staged the production which has original choreography by Jerry Ross, as staged by Ana Baldwin. The Music Circus orchestra is under the direction of Al Evans.

"Carousel" has given us some of the best of the Rodgers and Hammerstein music, such as "If I Loved You", "You'll Never Walk Alone", "June Is Bustin' Out All Over", "You're A Queer One, Julie Jordan", "That Was A Real Nice Clam Bake" and "What's The Use of Wond'rin'". The show will continue thru July 11.

YOUR GARDEN THIS WEEK

Perennials, as the term is generally used to refer to hardy herbaceous perennial plants that die to the ground in winter and sprout again in spring, should form the framework of any flower border.

No garden is complete without iris, peonies and daylilies if you like them. These, of course, should be purchased as plants because there are so many varieties. Many other herbaceous perennial plants can be raised from seed.

Biennials, such as fox glove, sweet william, Canterbury bells, hollyhocks, are valuable in the garden, but these usually need to be raised each year. They normally live over winter in the rosette form and bloom and die or pass their best usefulness the following year.

A good place to sow seeds is in a cold frame. This is easily covered with a muslin or burlap shade that is desirable to prevent drying of the soil. If a cold frame is not available, prepare a small space in the garden where you can put some sort of protective screen over it. Such a bed is better if elevated slightly above the surrounding soil to provide drainage.

The soil should not be too rich. If you have a good loam, add about 2 inches of concrete sand and 2 inches of peat moss, humus or garden compost. It is not advisable to use manure in a seed bed.

Dig this all under to a depth of 6 or 8 inches and mix it thoroughly. This will give the desirable elevation. Wet down with a fine spray and allow to dry out to proper consistency for sowing. A day should be sufficient.

You will find it an advantage to sow the seeds in rows. Even at this stage, I like to make the furrows just a little deeper than normal and cover with sand after sowing the seeds. Sow thin, to avoid over crowding when they germinate. The sand will serve to mark the rows so if germination is slow, cultivation between the rows to kill weeds is possible.

When plants are of proper size to handle (do not let them become too large) they may be transplanted 2 or 3 inches apart into another prepared bed to size up for final planting.

A better plan, of course, is to transplant into pots, plunging these up to the brim in the soil, or into veneer bands in flats. Young plants can then be put into permanent quarters without harming the root system. This is desirable for plants that make heavy roots, such as oriental poppies, columbine, balloon-flower, etc.

WEEKLY TEST ON CHILD SAFETY

(Feature No. 4)

What's Your Answer?
The New Jersey Weekly
Child Safety Quiz

The question below was asked of 30,000 New Jersey parents recently in a study of parental attitudes toward situations which may prove hazardous to children.

The study was the joint effort of the New Jersey Congress of Parents and Teachers, the New Jersey State Safety Council, the New Jersey State Department of Health, and the National Safety Council.

It is endorsed by the Medical Society of New Jersey and the New Jersey Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

There is frequently more than one solution to a given situation. In the situations used in this series, however, there is one answer which would be the best of the four choices.

Check the answer which you think would be most likely to assure the safety of the child without being an unreasonable imposition on the parent. Then compare your answer with the one given below.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbott both smoke cigarettes and hence use matches a great deal. They are concerned about the danger of their 3-year-old Donald using the matches. What should they be advised to do?

1. Instruct the child to use matches correctly.
2. Give up the use of matches and keep only cigarette lighters around the house.
3. Try to avoid lighting a cigarette in the presence of the child.
4. Keep their matches in a place where the child cannot reach them.

Dr. Renee Zindwer, Chief of the Bureau of Maternal and Child Health of the New Jersey State Department of Health, who prepared the questions in consultation with the Professional Examination Service of the American Public Health Association, advises as follows with reference to the situation:

To safeguard the child against accident hazards depends on two factors—protection and education.

It is, however, extremely important to gear the educational efforts towards the child's level of understanding. In this situation, therefore, answer number 4 is our choice. A 3-year-old child, as a rule, is not ready for answer number 1. Number 2 would be inadequate protection. Choice number 3 is not desirable because a child's presence should not interfere to such an extent with the comfort of adults; furthermore, seeing how matches are being used is part of a child's education.
