BOARD OF EDUCATION REFUSE TO BUY COAL AT HOME.

The June Meeting Transacts a Great Amount of Midyear Business—Repairs to Be Made to the Buildings.

There was a considerable amount of business transacted at the regular July meeting of the Board of Education Monday evening, but the chief topics of interest were fire, water and repairs.

All the members were present after Clerk F. B. Clark read the minutes of the June session, which were approved. A large batch of bills were presented and all were ordered paid, excepting the one of D. C. Heath for $71.75 which the board was not acquainted with. It was contracted for by Principal Maxson, and when found correct it will be paid. Another bill of Miss Fanny Comstock, of Connecticut, for botany topics, with additional cost for notary public fees as certification, was also not paid as the board decided they had no right to pay the fees. The matter will, however, be settled satisfactorily.

Collector Johnson reported that $1,230.68 had been collected from 1886 to 1895, the interest on same was $161.97, making total $1,392.65. Of that amount, $664.67 had been deposited in the First National Bank and $727.98 in the City National Bank.

Captain George F. Edwards sent a communication to the board which he desired to have forwarded to Adjutant General Wm. A. Stryker asking that he be appointed captain to drill the boys in the schools. The board did not think in their best judgment it would be wise to introduce drills at this time and on motion it was laid on the table.

A communication was received from Mrs. J. Brown in which she stated that she would clean the vaults at the various schools for $8 each, and other work of a like nature at proportionately low rates. It was received and filed.

Mr. Lounsbury stated that he had seen a representative of the firm of H. P. Smith, of New York, in regard to the changing the size of coal to be used in the furnaces, and that they advised against using small coal as it could not be depended upon to give the desired heat. He also said that he had received estimates on proposed repairs on the High school building, and the cost of the work, including ventilators, new floors and stairs, would be about $1,600 or $1,700, and it might possibly cost $2,000. Mr. Lounsbury said that Principal Maxson was anxious to have the assembly room changed so that there might be a study room, and that would cost $500 more. He read a letter from Mr. Maxson, in which the latter gave his idea on the changes.

It was figured that about $2,500 would be necessary for the changes, and an additional $2,200 for fire escapes. $3,000 had been set aside for fire escapes and repairs, and another $1,000 would probably be needed.

It was thought that it would be a good idea to make the repairs, and borrow the additional money and charge it to next year's account, as the repairs were most urgent. John Abbott submitted an estimate for furnishing a flag pole to be erected between the Franklin and Stillman buildings, which were $60 for one 75 feet long, and $125 for one 100 feet long. The board thought it best to secure the longest one, which will be spliced and will be 100 feet above ground. It was also decided to have the pole on the Franklin building taken down, as it was not safe.

The matter of water for the Irving school was brought up by Dr. Probasco, he stated that the company would not put pipes in before next April and only then if the board would pay $5 a year. Mr. Lovell said the company had made a contract that water would not cost them over $20 dollars a year and that they had promised to put it in last April.

Letters were read from E. B. Pope and Frank Bergen explaining matters, but Mr. Lovell thought the company ought to fulfill their contract and offered a motion that was carried, that the clerk be instructed to write the company and respectfully ask them to do as they promised.

Mrs. S. E. Collins, in a communication, asked the board to remove an elm tree on school property adjoining her property at 211 West Fourth street, as the bugs and insects made it impossible for her to hang any clothes in the yard. The matter was referred to the building committee. Mrs. A. J. Praed living next to the Washington school asked the board to erect a new fence on the line as the old one was worn out. This matter was also referred to the building committee with power.

Principal Maxson reported $1,011

collected for tuition from out-of-town scholars.

The matter of persons playing tennis in the Bryant school yard was referred to the building committee.

On motion of Mr. Finch a vote of thanks was tendered to Miss Petrie, principal of the Irving school, for the very excellent entertainment recently given for the benefit of the school library and which netted $75.

The committee on fuel then reported bids from the coal dealers. All gave the same quality of coal and prices except TenEyck & Harris. The others were Upper Lehigh and pea coal $4.50 and $3.75 per ton. TenEyck & Harris's bid was $4.40 for Lehigh coal. The others bidding were: L. A. Rheume, agt., George O. Stevens, C. H. Rugg, F. W. Hand, Boice, Runyon & Co., and J. A. Thickstun.

Dr. Jenkins recommended that the contract be given to a Plainfield dealer for upper Lehigh at $4.50 per ton, 2,240 pounds to a ton.

Mr. Lounsbury said he always supported Plainfield trade, but he had no sympathy with anyone who would not make concessions for a large order such as they would give. He thought the Plainfield coal dealers unjust, as they charge the same for a large number of tons as they do for one ton.

Mr. Lovell said he thought they were duty bound to give the contract to the lowest bidder, whether he lived in town or not, and he made a motion to the effect that it be given the lowest bidder. It was carried, Dr. Jenkins voting against it.

Mr. Lounsbury stated there was too much independence in Plainfield dealers, and cited an instance when he recently wanted a stone walk laid, and asked a man to measure it and give his figures, when the man replied, "it will cost so much per foot, you can measure it and figure it up as well as I can." Dr. Jenkins thought the board ought to secure the kind of coal they advertised for and not an inferior grade, and said that he had figures in his pocket that might prove startling, but he had promised not to show them. He thought the contract should be kept here. He made a motion that each ton be weighed before it was delivered and that the weight be handed over. It was adopted.

A short recess was then taken and the members went through the building to see about needed repairs. When they met it was decided on motion that the building committee investigate the matter and report as soon as possible at a special meeting of the board.

The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the president.

TRILBY AT THE NETHERWOOD.

Miss Lewis Will Present Her Own Version Thursday Evening.

Miss Catherine Lewis, who is to bring her company to the Hotel Netherwood on Thursday evening, July 11th, will be remembered most kindly by all theatre-goers for her long list of successes under Mr. Daly's and other managements. She is to present in the drawing room of the hotel her own condensed version of Trilby, she playing the title role. The Countess of Castelvoglio plays Svengali, which in itself is a sufficient novelty to draw a good house. The rest of the players are well known and it was only on the competence of the cast that A. M. Palmer gave his permission to the playing of this new adaption. An excellent programme is to fill up the evening, and thanks to Mr. Spidler the Netherwood guests ought to have a treat.

Evidence of Reliability.

W. V. Mundy, agent for the Traveller's Accident Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., Monday handed George Kesselring, the Park Avenue tonsorial artist, a check for $57, for sixteen days disability, resulting from a fall. Mr. Kesselring has only been insured for four weeks, and considers himself very fortunate in being insured in such a reliable company as the Traveller's.

Thieves broke into the wagon house and granary of Bizzilla French at Union Village, Saturday night, and stole forty bushels of corn, a set of harness and about thirty-five hens. All they left was one hen and a dozen little chickens.

To Join the Camp.

Albert Finch, of Belvidere avenue, and Benjamin O. Bowers, Jr., of Franklin place, will soon join the Y. M. C. A. camp at Northfield, Mass. Several of their friends are talking of joining the party.

On Bicycle Wheels.

Work is progressing favorably on the Crescent Wheelmen's float for the Fourth of July parade. It will be run on bicycle wheels.

Principal Maxson reported $1,011

BALL TOSSERS OF OLD TIMES

FAMOUS CRESCENTS RESURRECTED TO PLAY THE Y. M. C. A.'S.

Greatest Ball Game of the Season to Be Played Saturday—Secure Your Tickets Early and Avoid the Rush.

The reconstruction of the old Crescents in the baseball diamond is a fact hailed with delight by the cranks of the city of Plainfield, and this fact will be demonstrated and uniquely exemplified at the Crescent Oval on Saturday afternoon next, at 3:45 p. m., when the veterans will don their uniforms that have been gathering dust upon the shelf for nearly a decade and the way they will make the ball twirl and twist and spin all over the diamond will be a phenomenal feature not to be forgotten. It will bring most vividly to the 1,500 spectators in the grand-stand, cheering their respective favorites on to victory, the memory of bygone days when enthusiasm ran high, pulses beat fast, and brilliant stops and catches brought forth volley after volley of cheers and applause.

The Stonewalls will be there, and will form a regular barricade, invincible and impregnable. Joe Gavet will don the mit and plant himself on first base and with an eye like a hawk will swoop in every ball sent in his domain. Samuel St. John McCutchen will look after the interests of second base, with a zealous care, as in the days of yore.

George Cornwall will prance around that portion of the diamond known as the short stop's territory with the alertness of a youth in his teens; and pick up the ball with the grace and cleverness of a second Fuller or a "Shugart."

J. Hervey Doane will hug third base and keep his eye on Joe, and you just watch the ball go to first. "And what about the battery?" "It's all right!"

Walter Freeman, the first man that ever pitched a curved ball in Plainfield, will toe the mark, while James W. MacMurray, as backstop, will send out every batter with a cipher.

And you ought to keep a sharp eye on the outfield if you want to see some grand stand catches.

Demarest will be there.

Roger Murray and Roger Murray will be there, too.

Yes, of course, we'll all be there. Hurrah for the old Crescents.

REDUCED RATES TO BOSTON.

One Fare for the Round Trip via Pennsylvania Railroad.

From July 8th to 11th, inclusive, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Boston, Mass., going and returning by the same route, at a single fare for the round trip, account Christian Endeavor and Young People's Christian Union meetings, to be held in Boston, July 10-14. The tickets will be good to return until July 31st.

Excursion tickets, good going via one route and returning via another, will be sold on the same dates at a slight advance over the one-fare rate for the round trip.

Changes in Realty.

The New Jersey Contractor reports the following Plainfield real estate transfers during the last week.

Board Trustees Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund to Netta Potter Tittsworth, lots, Central avenue, Plainfield, $3,000.

George W. DeMeza to E. Emburg, Plainfield, lots Lyman place, $1. Benjamin Manning, Piscataway, to Andrew Manning, 100 acres road leading from New Brooklyn to Plainfield, $1.

Sarah P. Cudlipp to Wm. Spencer, lot Plainfield, $2.

Scrapers of a Dusky Hue.

The North avenue railroad station was the scene of a lively fight last Monday about 7:30.

James Morris, colored who runs the bootblack stand for Thomas Timbo, was seated in his chair when a young man, also colored, named King, came along and the two had some words. The latter finally hit Morris and then they pitched into one another. King bit Morris in the throat, injuring him.

Persons standing near were obliged to separate the would-be pugilists. King then disappeared and today he went on the excursion to Asbury Park. He will be arrested on his return and properly dealt with.

The Next Excursion.

The First Baptist Sunday-school and its missions will have their annual excursion to Ocean Grove, on Thursday, July 11th. Grace P. E. Church Sunday-school and all their friends go with them. Do not miss the opportunity of spending a pleasant day at the seashore.

THE MERRY DANCE.

The Casino Held a Jolly Throng of Society People Last Night.

The second of the summer subscription dances in the Casino took place last Monday, and was quite largely attended. The evening was a splendid one for dancing and Rogers and Conde were at their best. The ever moving throng of dancers with the black and white of the men's costumes and the many colors of the women's made a beautiful sight which only came to an end in the small hours of this morning.

The second dance was a greater success than the first if it were possible and all expressed themselves delighted. The next will occur sometime in September. The committee in charge consisted of Howard W. Beebe, Fred W. Waltz, and Laurens VanBuren.

Among those present during the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpon, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baker, Miss Gertrude Walz, Miss May Evans, Miss Edith Smalley, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hallock, Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Miss Van Boskerk, Miss Stewart, Miss McClure, the Misses McCready, Mr. and Mrs. Everts Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Bogart, Miss Bogart, Miss Boehm, Miss Pierson, Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Serrell, Mrs. O. T. Waring, Mrs. M. I. Cooley, Miss Cooley, Miss Sprague, Miss Miller, Miss Florence Abbott, Miss Tracy, Miss Kathryn Yates, Miss Gertrude Baker, W. T. Murray, Dr. A. Beebe, Frank Sykes, E. M. VanBuren, Roger Erickson, Frank Frost, J. H. P. Wharton, Irving West, L. E. Waring, J. N. Moore, O. G. Waring, Harry Munger, H. A. Patten, Dr. Ard, Fred Place, McCready Sykes, George Schoonmaker, Walter Stewart, J. W. Kirkner, W. K. McClure, Clarence L. Murphy, Edward Field, W. C. Baker, F. G. Smith, A. D. Shepherd, Jr., Samuel Hall, Richard Colburn, Walter Moore, Horace Moore, Peter Matthews, Mr. Billings, Everett Dwight, Mr. Henshaw, Albert Woltman, F. K. Fish, Jr., Fred Huntington, James Murray, and Howard Huntington.

The Old Bell Will Parade.

There has been some doubt as to whether or not the old fire bell would be allowed in the Fourth of July parade, owing to the objection of the New York firm who bought it some time ago. However, at the earnest solicitation of Chief Doane and several prominent business men permission has been secured. The bell will be mounted on a new wagon and drawn by six large horses, donated by John D. Runyon. An escort of exempt firemen will accompany the bell along the line of parade.

Popular Excursion.

On Thursday, July 4th, the Central Railroad will run one of its popular low-rate excursions to Mauch Chunk, Glen Onoka, and the wonderful Switchback railroad, the fare for the round trip being only $1.75. A special express train will leave the North Avenue station at 7:25 a. m., making a quick run to Mauch Chunk and the beautiful Glen Onoka, and give a full day's out to all who go.

Lots at Private Sale.

The building lots of the Plainfield Land Improvement Company will be offered at private sale until July 15th. A quarter page ad explaining terms, etc., will appear in the Daily Press tomorrow.

After the Horse Thieves.

Three horses were stolen Sunday night in New Providence. The detectives of the Protective Society are in pursuit of the thieves, but have thus far discovered nothing.

Will Make Lots of Noise.

The North Plainfield Cadets have secured the use of Mr. McDonald's cannon for the parade Fourth of July. Forty-four salutes will be fired during the day.

Another Exponent of Blackstone.

William G. DeMeza has entered the law office of his brother George W. DeMeza to study law.

A. H. Barnett will ride in the King's County Wheelmen race meet in Brooklyn, this afternoon.

Clarence Tittsworth and J. VanEps are planning a cycling trip to the Delaware Water Gap. They will go via Port Jervis so as to be able to enjoy the famous thirty-five minute coast. They will leave Plainfield about August 25th, and will be absent nine days.

Walter Probasco, of East Front street, has been enjoying an extended cycling trip. With one of his school chums, Mr. Newman, and another friend he rode to Woodland in the Catskills and spent several days there. He was expected to leave for home yesterday and will probably arrive today.

RAILWAY EXTENSION SLEEPS

NOT A WORD SAID IN REFERENCE THERETO LAST NIGHT.

The July Meeting of the Common Council Taken Up With Small Business—First Steps in Watchung Avenue Opening.

When the Common Council was called to order last Monday, thirty-four minutes after the announced time, there were six councilmen, besides President See, in the chamber. They were Messrs. Frost, Ginna, Bird, Moore, Frazee and Westphal. Clerk MacMurray talked 500 words a minute for thirty minutes before the reading of the minutes of the June meetings were finished, and then it was after nine o'clock before any real business was got down to, which consisted principally of petitions and remonstrances, though Councilman Ginna introduced one or two important ordinances.

Michael Harrigan, Thomas Callahan and Thomas Leary protested against the granting the right of way on Richmond street for the extension of the street railway.

In a remonstrance couched in language that brought laughter from the councilmen and much trouble to Clerk MacMurray in deciphering the writing Mrs. J. L. Tobin protested against paying taxes on the property of Peter Collins. Mrs. Tobin averred that Assessor Hubbard was unjust in assessing the place more than what she considered it worth. She stated that Collins and his wife were poor and that she had taken care of them for some time, and therefore saved the city the expense of caring for them.

Now the property was advertised for sale by Justice Nash for delinquent taxes. She threatened to throw the old couple on the city if the council did not recognize her arguments forthwith. The petition was referred.

Petitions for lights and hydrants were received and granted.

The invitation of the executive committee of the Fourth of July to review the parade was accepted.

Mrs. C. DeForest petitioned for the privilege of erecting a drinking fountain on West Second street, for man and beast. W. R. Codrington asked for the privilege of building a brick addition to the store at 105 Park avenue. The Public Library report was received and placed on file.

It was ordered that one two-way hydrant be placed on Kensington avenue, West Eighth street, and corner of West Sixth street and Arlington avenue. The Dunellen Electric Light Company were ordered to remove poles and wires illegally erected on West Front street and Rock avenue.

Councilman Ginna offered a resolution which was adopted, that the city treasurer be authorized to borrow $500 to apply to the poor fund; and $8,000 to apply to the payment of sewer work. He also offered an ordinance seeking to establish curb lines along lower West Front street properties.

Councilman Westphal introduced a resolution that Honan & Son be requested to clear the streets of obstructions over which the Fourth of July parade was to pass. It was adopted.

Councilman Ginna offered ordinances to establish curb lines on Arlington avenue, and to regulate the grade on Watchung avenue from East Ninth street to Cedar brook. They were both read first and second time and ordered advertised.

Mr. Ginna also introduced an ordinance looking to the widening of Watchung avenue, from Front street to Green brook.

On the motion of Mr. Ginna it was laid on the table.

Councilman Westphal from the committee who were appointed to confer with the general Fourth of July celebration committee introduced a resolution that the sum of $100 be appropriated for the celebration.

Mr. Ginna questioned the propriety of the appropriation inasmuch as it would establish a precedent for all future public celebrations, and besides the city had no more money on hand than was needed. He said he wanted to see a proper observance of the day, but thought it bad policy for the council to give any money.

Mr. Frazee explained the reason the resolution had been introduced was that the celebration committee were not meeting with much financial aid in the borough. The resolution was carried, Messrs. Ginna Frost and Moore voting No.

Councilman Frost from the committee on sewers announced that John Marshall, of New York, was the successful bidder for the main outlet sewer.

Councilman Moore wanted to know if the contract called for a size of pipe that would be large enough to answer the purposes of tide water disposal.

Mr. Frost said that the pipe would not have to be changed no matter where the sewage was taken to.

The council adjourned to Monday, July 8th.

CUPID BUSY IN JULY.

Month of Weddings Past, But His Work Does Not Let Up.

A very pretty marriage was solemnized in New Providence Monday afternoon. The happy couple were Louis Frenz, of Scotch Plains, and Miss May Bonnell, of New Providence. H. Frenz, brother of the groom, was the best man and Miss Ella Frenz, his sister, was the bridesmaid.

The bride was dressed in a pretty traveling dress of tan cloth, trimmed with brown satin and erodescent beads. She was given away by her uncle, W. Crause, of Staten Island, who celebrated his golden wedding only two weeks ago. Miss Mamie Dickenson played the wedding march. The house was decorated with roses and ferns and was well filled with numerous wedding gifts which were both useful and ornamental. Rev. Mr. True, of the All Saints Church, of Scotch Plains, performed the ceremony. The newly married couple left immediately for a trip through New York State.

There was a large number of guests present from New Providence, Summit and Scotch Plains, in addition to these there were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Putnam and child, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Johnson, of Westfield.

Mr. Frenz has followed the trade of carpenter in Scotch Plains for several years and will resume his work as soon as he returns. He is also well known as the reliable first baseman on the Scotch Plains nine that played here last Saturday.

LET HER BOOM.

Everything Is Ready for the Great Celebration.

One more day and the Fourth of July will be here with all its noise and parade. The preparations of the day are almost completed and last evening the general committee met in Red Men's Hall to make the final arrangements. The reports of the various committees were made and accepted and everything promises a day long to be remembered in Plainfield.

The executive committee met at the conclusion of the other meeting and listened to reports of the sub-committees. The finance committee reported that their part of the work was progressing very favorably. The music committee reported that the Union Band of New Brunswick had been secured for the parade. The question of the arch over Park avenue was brought up and thrown aside as there were not sufficient funds to make a success of it. The fireworks committee reported that everything was ready for a grand exhibition of pyrotechnics. The other committees reported everything completed or being completed.

MR. CORRIEL VINDICATED.

The Court of Chancery Declares That His Actions Were Proper.

The Press congratulates William Wallace Coriell on his important victory in the New Jersey Court of Chancery. Mr. Coriell is well known in Plainfield as a man of integrity. The case that he has just won involved the charge that he had committed fraud in inducing John Warren to sell the entire estate left by the latter's mother, Sarah C. Coriell, who was Mr. Coriell's stepmother. The plaintiff is a resident of Brooklyn, where he was formerly employed in the navy yard, and was represented in the suit by able counsel from Plainfield assisted by New York counsel.

Craig A. Marsh was retained by Mr. Coriell, and, as generally happens when Mr. Marsh takes charge of a case in the higher courts, he won his case. The court not only holds that the plaintiff failed to prove his case, but also that his charges had been disproved. Mr. Coriell is vindicated, and he retains the property.

Contracts Filled.

The New Jersey Contractor reports the following contracts having been filed in the county clerk's office of Union from June 20th to July 27th inclusive:

John Abbot with Wm. Adair & Son, house Stelle avenue, Plainfield, built for Geo. A. Chapman, plumbing, $10.80.

John Abbot with Wm. Adair & Son, plumbing, house Central avenue, Plainfield, built for John Leal, $68.40.

John Abbot with Wm. Adair & Son, plumbing, house Stelle avenue, Plainfield, for John T. Baker, $49.40.

Pearson & Gayle with Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Plainfield, remodeling, etc., mason, carpenter, etc., $1,500.

A. W. Atterbury with Pearson & Gayle, house, Plainfield, carpenter, mason, etc., $8,346.65.

THE NATIONAL EMBLEM.

More Than Two Years of Warfare Without a Flag.

A national ensign was not adopted till June, 1777. A glance at the promiscuous banners under which the different American forces engaged during the first two years of the Revolution will be found of interest to the antiquary of the birth of the nation.

The first regular battle of the war was Bunker Hill. It is not likely that there were any colors carried by the militiamen who were here. The flag at Concord and Lexington was the British one. But after the skirmishes at these places each of the colonies set up its own flag. Unfortunately, the details of these flags were not preserved, and the information we have is very vague.

The most definite information as to American flags we get is in the journals at ports where American ships at that time touched. There is no satisfactory information as to the standard used by the colonists at Bunker Hill, fought on June 17, 1775. Indeed it has never been proved that they had any standards, though one writer says "they were as various as the troops were motley." There is a picture of the battle in the rotunda of the capitol at Washington, painted by Trumbull, the celebrated American artist of that day, in which the Americans are pictured fighting under a red flag having a white canton bearing a green pine tree. Warren is said to have reminded his troops of the motto on their standard, on one side of which was, "Qui transtulit sustinet" (He who brought us here will sustain us), and on the other, "An appeal to heaven." This appears to have been the Connecticut motto. An old lady told Mr. Lossing, the historian, that her father was at the battle and assisted in hoisting the flag. He described it to her. The ground was blue, with one corner quartered by the red cross of St. George, in one section of which was a pine tree.

On July 18, 1775, a standard was presented to Washington bearing the motto, "An Appeal to Heaven." On Oct. 20, 1775, a plan was suggested for a Revolutionary flag, which was a white ground and a tree in the middle bearing the motto, "An Appeal to Heaven." It was the flag of American floating batteries. This was undoubtedly adopted by Massachusetts, and it was used on American ships.

In September, 1775, Colonel Moultrie, in South Carolina, had a flag made which was blue, with a white crescent in the corner. On June 28, 1776, this flag, with the word "Liberty" inscribed upon it, was raised on what is now Fort Moultrie. This was the first American flag displayed in the south.

The colors of the American flag (July, 1776) were 13 stripes, with a rattlesnake across, bearing the motto, "Don't Tread on Me."

In Paul Jones' flag, the stripes were alternate red and blue. The rattlesnake was a favorite device among the colonists. In 1775 an old device used in the French and Indian war was revived, being a rattlesnake cut into parts. It was adopted by the newspapers to represent the separate colonies and with the motto, "Unite or Die."

On the 8th of February, 1776, Colonel Gadsden presented to congress a standard for the commander of the navy. It was a yellow flag, with a rattlesnake in the middle coiled ready to strike, and the motto, "Don't Tread on Me." At the equipping of a fleet a committee was appointed at Cambridge to consider a flag. The result was the union jack, coupled with 13 stripes. This was the close of the year 1775. The flag was hoisted on the 2d of January at the Cambridge camp. At the battle of Long Island, Aug. 26, 1776, the British captured from a small band of Americans a red damask flag, with the motto, "Liberty." At the battle of White Plains, Oct. 28, 1776, the Americans carried a flag with a crossed sword and staff, with a liberty cap on the end of the staff and the motto, "Liberty or Death."

The earliest suggestion of stars in an American flag is in a standard of the Philadelphia Light horse (1774-5), though it is not probable that this influenced the design of the national flag. It was on the 14th of June, 1777, that the American congress decided on a banner. It was on that day resolved "That the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes of alternate red and white; that the Union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." This design was at once promulgated, and the vast number of colonial flags bearing rattlesnakes, pine trees, union jacks and other emblems and mottoes disappeared, and the remainder of the war was fought out under the stars and stripes.

CELEBRATED AFTER THE WAR

A FOURTH OF JULY THIRTY YEARS AGO IN THIS CITY.

Names and Incidents That Will Bring Back to Memory a Great Event in the Minds of Many.

The celebration of July Fourth, 1865, was undoubtedly the most unique and grotesque that ever occurred in Plainfield. There were no policemen here in those days and the town was truly rural and the boys did about as they pleased. On the eve of the Fourth all night long a big bonfire would blaze away in the street opposite Somerset on Front, surrounded by the youths of the town. That continued at the same old stand until the town became incorporated in 1869.

The writer of this celebration thirty years ago was only nine years of age at that time and if his memory is in any way remiss it is in regard to the forgetfulness of some of the names of the some of the participants, and not as to any of the events that occurred on that day.

It is easy to recall the sons of Capt. Reguer, Joe and Lon, who lived up in Washington Valley, riding the mules that their father brought home from Virginia. Capt. "Ed" P. Thorn and Lon Townley, Col. Craig Spencer, the late William Dunn, Russell Johnston, John Chandler, Chris Pope, Jake Naylor, Bill and Dave Linbarger, Tom Terry, Aaron and Connert (both dead), Andrew Webster, Frazee Connert, Marshal and Dave Pangborn, Wm. B. Ayers, Albert Runyon, Wm. Paine, and others.

The war had closed in April, 1865, and all the boys who had left their homes in Plainfield to fight in the country's defense, and had not been among the missing, with the few weeks among their families here made them; that is, the younger element, crave for a devil-may-care-kind-of-a-time and the Fourth of July was selected for the blow-out. The line was formed on Front street, right resting on Cherry street, now Park avenue. The line of march took in all the streets and a more woe begone looking gathering never appeared in parade.

The parade was on the calathumpian order and many were the unique and odd characters that were represented. An aged citizen, from up over the hills whose name was Isaac Winans, and who has long since passed away drove a team of oxen attached to a hay-rigging that was full of characters. The old gentleman himself wore a long claw from a lobster over his nose and walking beside his oxen was a sight in itself.

The parade stopped at the residence of Hon. Joseph W. Yates, on Seventh street and were entertained, the crowd all entering into the yard where refreshments were passed. They also stopped at the Mansion House and Laing's Hotel, and also at the residence of H. P. Bronk, the old Seminary building, on Front street opposite the First Baptist church, and were royally entertained.

Ed. P. Thorn and ex-Marshall William Pangborn were seated in an old-time open carriage that belonged to Mr. Thorn's father. The wagon was a sight. Every kind and color of paint they could procure, was on the vehicle. The animal, an old bony little pony that belonged to Patrick Muldoon, the then junk man, furnished the motive power. Modesty made them make the poor beast wear a pair of drawers on his fore feet.

H. N. Spencer, the marshal of the day, wore a large pair of pants that belonged to a citizen, now deceased, who weighed nearly four hundred pounds. They were stuffed with hay to fit the occasion.

One of the bands, who rode in a hammer-and-tongs, consisted of Larry O'Neal, John Bangham and Joseph all deceased, and Amos Moffett, who is still with us.

Of course the Frazee family were in the parade, as nothing ever happened in these days unless they took part. There was Augustus, Samuel, and the late Abraham Frazee, and on the evening of the Fourth there was high old times at the Beuna Vista hotel, which was located on Front street and kept by their father, and the site was opposite where Harry Werner now keeps his clothing store.

There was a large number of nymus mules in the parade ridden by different ones. Some of the mules belonged to Capt. Hand, who purchased them in Virginia, and afterwards used them in opening up Grove and different streets hereabouts.

Some of the riders on the male went so far as to ride them into a beer saloon, on the corner of Chatham and Somerset streets, kept by Charles Smith's father.

After the parade, in fact all the later part of that day, mules could be seen wandering aimlessly about the streets. The riders immediately dismounted, on arriving in the vicinity of where the crowd congregated, leaving the animals to find their homes as best they could.

THE LAST SCHOOL TO CLOSE.

ENTERTAINING EXERCISES AT THE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL LAST NIGHT.

A Delightful Little Sketch Presented by the Scholars, Who Evincd Thorough Training—Other Exercises.

Even the pouring rain could not dampen the enthusiasm of those who attended the closing exercises of St. Mary's School last Thursday. Had it been a pleasant evening the hall would have been crowded to its fullest capacity and, as it was, a good-sized audience comfortably filled the room.

The programme opened with a selection by a chorus of girls entitled "Gently Fall the Dew of Eve," which was quite suggestive, considering that the rain was falling in torrents outside. The chorus was composed of about twenty-five young girls, costumed in white and formed a very pretty picture, while their singing was excellent.

The principal part of the evening's entertainment consisted of a drama entitled "Kathleen; or, The Cost of a Promise." The cast was as follows:

Kathleen.....Miss E. Day
Mrs. Connors (her Mother), an Invalid.....Miss M. Smith
Granny Gilligan, Old Apple-Woman.....Miss M. Foster
Mrs. Royallon, Wealthy Sister of Mrs. Connors.....Miss A. McIntyre
Ethel Royallon and Lucille Royallon, Nieces of the Late Mr. Royallon—Miss L. Flanagan and Miss K. Walsh.
Madame Felice, French Attendant to Mrs. Royallon.....Miss A. O'Keefe
Topsy, Maid to Ethel and Lucille.....Miss J. Murphy
Magistrate.....Master E. Flynn
Guards.....Master J. Burks
Messenger.....Master J. Daley
Zola Gypses.....Miss K. Homan
Miss E. Walsh

CHILDREN PLAYING IN THE PARK.
Olive.....Miss M. McCann
Selma.....Miss K. Roach
Annie.....Miss M. Carty
Frances.....Miss M. Doll
Maggie.....Miss M. Shannon
Josie.....Miss L. Rafferty
Nellie.....Miss L. Corrigan
Gertrude.....Miss J. Lutz
Genevra.....Miss L. O'Keefe
Helen.....Miss E. Barelle
Susie.....Miss S. Lynch
Mary.....Miss M. Callahan

The plot was quite interesting. The first scene showed a room in Mr. Connor's cottage; Mrs. Connor was dying, and called her daughter to her side and told her of her past history, and how she had been defrauded from her inheritance by an older sister, now Mrs. Royallon, and made Kathleen promise that she would try to recover it by some fair means. The second scene was in a public park, and Granny soliloquizes on various subjects. After her disappearance, two gypsies entered and danced most prettily in which they were soon joined by the children, and when in the midst of it, they beat a hasty retreat at the sight of Granny, the applewoman. In this scene it is learned that one of the gypsies is not a real one, but was picked up by the other when almost drowned in Italy.

The Royallon House is where the next scene is laid, which opens with a soliloquy by Mrs. Royallon in which she mourns over the death of her child who was drowned in Italy, and the treatment of a younger sister. The scheming neices appear and try to be as loving as possible. They learn that Mrs. Royallon is taking a fancy to Kathleen who comes to play the zither for her, and fearing her influence decide to get rid of her, by putting a bracelet in her bag and then charging her with stealing. But Topsy, the colored maid, overhears all their plotting. In the fourth scene Kathleen is brought before a magistrate and the bracelet discovered in her bag, but Topsy testifies and she is released and, in the last scene, restored to her real position. The little gypsy is found to be the lost child, and all ends happily.

To give the names of those who did the best, would be to name the players again, but everything showed that some master-hand governed them all. The arranging of the stage also reflects great credit on those in charge. The rest of the programme was as follows:

Concerts Recitation....."The Flag and Cross"
Boys of the Preparatory Class.
Chorus—"The Flower Gatherers".....Glover
A Picture Chorus—"Hill and Sea".....Blake
The "Tots."
Solo and Chorus—"The Ship I Love".....Glenn
William Lawlor
Vocal Solo—"What Would You Take for Me, Papa?".....Westendorf
Miss Mary McCarthy
Chorus—"When Daylight's Gone."
Lafayette
Instrumental—"American National Airs."
Knight
Piano—Misses K. Quinn and E. Kelly. Organ
—Miss St. Leger. Violin—Miss A. Quinn.
Finale—Tableaux, representing Goddess of Liberty and States.

The drills and tableaux were certainly very beautiful and showed that Mme. Elizabetha Menzelli had been most successful.

The final tableaux was a fitting end to a most excellent entertainment. Miss Catherine Coley as Goddess of Liberty was surrounded by forty-eight girls, each dressed to represent one state, while J. Daly as Uncle Sam smiled benignly upon them. Just at the close G. Thorn took a flash light picture of the group.

A BRILLIANT MARRIAGE.

DAVIS-UNDERWOOD NUPTIALS A BIG SOCIETY EVENT.

Crescent Avenue Church Elaborately Decorated—Ceremony Performed By Rev. Dr. Brett—The Bridal Party.

An audience that represented the wealth, beauty and culture of Plainfield assembled at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Thursday, and witnessed one of the prettiest June weddings. The front part of the church was decorated with Nature's fairest products, forming an immense bank of palms, cut rushes, pinks, white pinks, purple pinks, and gracefully entwining was broad pink and white satin ribbon, reaching to the top where it was neatly joined in two very handsome bows, while half way down the church in each aisle were handsome bouquets of pink and white roses tied with pink satin ribbon.

The contracting parties were Miss Florence Allison Underwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Underwood, of 138 Crescent avenue, and Seward Davis, of Jersey City.

While the expectant throng were awaiting the arrival of the bridal party Miss Jessie Utter seated at the organ gave delightful renditions from Rossini, Wagoner and Gregh.

It was past the hour, eight o'clock, when the first notes of Lohengrin's wedding march were heard, and as the favorite bridal march was being played, entering on the left from the front were the flower girls, Helen Underwood and Alice Parrott, of Elizabeth, dressed in white and carrying baskets of pink and white carnations. Then came the first bridesmaid, Miss Eleanor A. Underwood, sister of the bride, gowned in white, carrying a French cane at the top of which was a beautiful bouquet of pink carnations tied with pink ribbon.

She was followed by two additional bridesmaids gowned in green silk, trimmed with velvet ribbons of a darker shade. They carried French canes with bouquets of mignonettes, tied with white ribbon. They then proceeded down the aisle to the left of the centre to the rear of the church. Here they met the maid of honor, Miss Laura Underwood, sister of the bride, gowned in pink silk and carrying a bouquet of white carnations, and the bride, wearing a beautiful gown of white satin, trimmed with duchesse lace. She also wore a mille veil, pinned with a diamond crescent, the gift of the groom. A shower bouquet of white bridal roses and lilies of the valley was carried gracefully by the bride.

The ushers leading, followed by the bridesmaids, flower girls, maid of honor, and the bride, leaning on her father's arm, returned to the front of the church, where they were met by the groom, and best man, Mr. Knox, of New York, and Rev. Dr. Brett, pastor of the Dutch Reformed church, of Jersey City Heights, and Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church.

The party gracefully formed around the altar, when Dr. Brett performed the ceremony, which was the Episcopal service, assisted by Dr. Richards. While the nuptial knot was being consummated, the intermezzo from Cavalier de Rusticana was rendered in delightful manner by Miss Utter.

In leaving the church the bride and groom preheated the rest of the party, she carrying an ivory bound prayer book, given her by the officiating clergyman. Then followed the maid of honor and best man, flower girls, bridesmaids and ushers. While they were retiring, Mendelssohn's wedding march was perfectly rendered in every detail.

The ushers were: S. V. Parrott, of Buffalo, N. Y., Mahlon Appgar, Mr. Strang, George Fielder, of Jersey City, L. A. Underwood and Julius Erickson, of Plainfield.

A reception followed at the residence of the bride's parents at 138 Crescent avenue. The rooms were elegantly decorated with smilax and roses. In the parlor was arranged a large fan of smilax, drooping from which were choice roses.

Music was by Isler of Newark and Max Wiertz was the caterer.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis were the recipients of many costly and handsome presents. During the evening they left on a bridal tour.

Miss Minnie Wilson, as one of the bride's maids was particularly favored in securing the bride's ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis will reside at Jersey City on their return from the bridal tour.

Eight hundred invitations were issued for the wedding and five hundred for the reception, but owing to the stormy weather and the inability of the Plainfield people to secure carriages, very few were able to be present.

To Handle the Funds.

At a recent meeting of the executive board of the Union County Equal Suffrage Association Mrs. M. H. Eaton was appointed treasurer pro tem of the organization, during the absence of the regular treasurer, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, for the summer.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children

MOTHERS, Do You Know? that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Sleeping Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

MISS BULKLEY COMING HOME.

She Will Be Dean of the Women's College in Chicago.

Miss Julia E. Bulkley, who is gratefully remembered in Plainfield as teacher and principal for twenty years in the High School, will come back to her native land in September, and in October will begin her responsible duties as dean of the Women's College in connection with the University of Chicago. Miss Bulkley has for three years been a student in the University of Zurich, where her course of study will be finished in July. In a recent letter to a friend in Plainfield she says: "I expect to be in Jena in August, then may study in the British Museum until I sail for America in September, when I will visit Plainfield for a few days." The many friends of Miss Bulkley will give her a warm welcome, and will follow her future career in the University of Chicago with interest and pride.

Library Accessions.

Among the collection of books just given to the Free Public Library by Mrs. H. E. Bowen, of 740 Watchung avenue, is the very valuable "Narrative" of Charles Wilkes, U. S. N. This is the account of the U. S. exploring expedition made in 1838-'42, of which he had charge. It is contained in five large volumes, and illustrated with many steel and other engravings, and forms an exceedingly valuable addition to the historical department. Others given by Mrs. Bowen are: Chamberlin's Commercial Law, Headley's Life of Gen. Grant, Savage's Life of President Johnson, Cornwall's Great Fire in Boston, Milman's edition of Gibbon's Rome, in six volumes, etc.

Enjoying Their Vacation.

John C. Whiting of East Sixth street, and H. Oscar Nightingale of Sandford avenue, are enjoying an ideal vacation. They left Plainfield the first of the week. Mr. Whiting on his wheel and Mr. Nightingale in his carriage, and rode together to Delaware Water Gap where they are now staying in a cottage belonging to C. T. Nightingale of this city. Mr. Nightingale's famous dog accompanied him.

A Young Thief.

For sometime past Thomas Johnson, a colored boy in the employ of Edsall, has been stealing goods from the store. They were missed but it was difficult to detect the person. Yesterday Mr. Edsall succeeded in catching the young thief. It was learned that he had taken neckties, handkerchiefs, jewelry, and money from a pocketbook belonging to one of the clerks. The boy confessed his guilt and was discharged. He took the articles at different times and placed them in a bag he had hid back of the building and at night would take them away.

Insurance Money Contest.

The case of Henry Pendleton deceased, against Metropolitan Insurance Company, was tried yesterday morning before Justice Mosher. Lawyer S. S. Swackhamer represented the widow and City Attorney James Connolly, of Elizabeth, the company. The plaintiff claimed that in the payment of a death claim of $165, while the defendants claimed that they did not owe the money. The case consumed three hours and Justice Mosher reserved his decision till next Monday.

Several prominent men from this state have been invited to review the Fourth of July parade.

NETHERWOOD IS AROUSED.

CITIZENS BOUND TO HAVE THE TROLLEY ROAD EXTENSION.

Out of Forty-Two Property Owners Only Four Are Said to Be Opposed to the Extension—Mean Business.

The Netherwood people turned out recently. They filled the reading-room of the Hotel Netherwood, and they were filled with a burning zeal for public improvements, particularly the trolley. Out of forty-two property owners in the district, it is said that all but four want the trolley, and the sentiment of the meeting was that the wishes of the forty are better than the vivid imaginations of the four.

W. A. Lord was called to the chair and G. W. Thomas was made secretary. Mr. Lord stated the object of the meeting which was that those present be given an opportunity to place themselves on record as wanting the trolley road in Netherwood. Continuing he said the railway company want to run their tracks to the end of Putnam avenue, but unless they will lay their tracks to the Netherwood station they don't want the extension at all. He said that the company act very indifferent in the matter and will not turn their hand one way or the other, for or against. The advocates of extension, he said, may meet opposition, and no doubt will, and the question was whether they wanted to retain counsel to fight the opposition. To his mind the other side was making a bluff, and there was no reason why Netherwood people should not stand ground and see the matter through.

Mr. Finch offered a resolution that it be the sense of the meeting that the Netherwood people want the trolley and that it must come to Netherwood before the trunk line goes through, and that the citizens be represented at the Common Council meeting held Monday night; also that the Council be asked to carry out the wishes of Netherwood citizens. It was carried unanimously.

Mr. Finch made a motion that a committee of fifteen be appointed to attend the meeting of the council on Monday night next. It was adopted, and the following were named by Mr. Lord: F. C. Langhorne, N. P. T. Finch, C. P. Ellis, F. W. Hand, S. A. Guion, W. L. Brown, Howard Runyon, Dorsey Hyde, Edward Willis, F. I. Smith, H. A. Ostermoor, D. W. Hand, A. J. Beal, William Daveson, George Thomas, W. A. Lord was added to the committee, as was also A. D. Thompson.

It was reported that one man in opposition had said he would spend $5,000 to defeat the trolley construction. It was also reported that a Plainfield lawyer had been retained by the same man.

Mr. Stillman, a lawyer living at Netherwood, was asked for his opinion, and he said that there was no need of securing counsel till it was known what the opposition were going to do.

Another resolution was offered by Mr. Finch and carried that the chairman be authorized to call a meeting, if in his judgment he thought the opposition would warrant it.

It was understood that the same lawyer who had been retained by one of the opposition, was also counsel for one of the large property owners who had signed in favor of the trolley.

Those present at the meeting included the following: H. A. Ostermoor, W. A. Lord, N. P. T. Finch, John Christianson, F. W. Hand, William Daveson, Fred I. Smith, David Hand, Edward Willis, George Thomas, C. P. Ellis, Dorsey W. Hyde, S. A. Guion, A. J. Beal, W. L. Brown, F. C. Langhorne, Martin Korff and Howard Runyon.

Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Singue Elects.

The County Election Boards.

Governor Werts has approved the lists of men submitted by the Republican and Democratic State Executive Committees as nominees for members of the County Boards of Election. The Democratic list was handed in by Allan McDermott, Chairman of the State Committee, yesterday. His recommendations for this county were the same as last year, Dr. David Schleimer of this city, and Elmer D. Moffett of Plainfield. The Republicans are E. C. Woodruff of this city, and William Chamberlain of Rahway.

TABB-DANIEL NUPTIALS.

Another Plainfield Belle Carried Away by an Outsider.

Another of Plainfield's belles was carried away by an outsider, when Miss Grace Daniel and Albert Tabb, of Brooklyn, were united in wedlock at the home of the bride on the corner of Plainfield avenue and West Eighth street, Thursday afternoon at half past five o'clock.

The marriage was a very quiet affair, only relatives and a few near friends being present. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards performed the ceremony. The bride was dressed in full bridal costume, white silk dress, tulle veil and orange blossoms. Miss Genevieve Daniel, the maid of honor, looked pretty in white with pink bouquet, while the three bridesmaids, Miss Estelle Daniel, sister of the bride, Miss Skidmore, of New York, and Miss Farwell, of Montreal, were all dressed in pink, and carried pink bouquets. Irving Daniel was the best man.

The decorations were besides the palms and greens, entirely pink, arranged in a most artistic manner. P. Ludvig Conde, on the violin, assisted by a harpist, furnished the enjoyable music, playing before the marriage the well-known Lohengrin wedding march. During the ceremony the Angel's Serenade was played very softly, but after it was concluded the grand strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march were spiritedly rendered. Afterwards a varied programme of select music was rendered.

The newly married couple left last night on their wedding tour.

STRUCK BY THE TROLLEY.

A Horse Knocked Down on West Front Street.

Thursday afternoon, between three and four o'clock, Max Wertz was preparing to deliver some goods at the residence of William Underwood. The wagon was filled with silver and China ware, and the young man in charge of the rig came out the driveway on West Front street, crossing the street railway tracks. Just then a car came along, making fast time. It struck the horse knocking him down and cutting him severely. The harness broke, and the horse managed to get up, and then ran into the yard.

After considerable effort he was captured and placed in the stable. Mr. Wertz at once secured another horse from Blair's livery stable. It will be some time before the injured horse can be used.

FESTIVAL FOR CHILDREN.

Sunday-School Scholars of Church of The Redeemer Entertained.

The scholars of the Sunday-school of the Church of the Redeemer were given an enjoyable treat, Wednesday afternoon on the lawn in the rear of D. L. Thompson's residence on Rockview Terrace.

It was the annual festival and Mr. Henderson, of New York, was present, and gave a very clever exhibition of sleight-of-hand, ventriloquism, etc. The little ones as well as the older ones thoroughly enjoyed the affair. Excellent refreshments were afterward served by the women.

Mr. Saltzman Off for Europe.

A meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association was held Wednesday. President Auguste Saltzman presented the association with a frame of badges which he has been collecting for a long time and made a short farewell speech, as he sails for Europe next Wednesday. The question of being represented in the Fourth of July parade was thoroughly discussed and a number of members expressed their willingness to turn out. It was not decided whether to have the old fire bell, the Fanwood hand engine or the old Zephyr hook and ladder truck in line.

Mr. Kirk Gets the Job.

The special committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders into whose charge has been given the matter of widening the Grand street bridge that spans the Rahway River at Rahway, have awarded the contract to W. D. Kirk, of this city, whose bid was $1,775. There were five bids received. Dean & Westbrook being the next lowest, their's being $1,795. The job will be commenced in two weeks, and the bridge will be made the same with as Grand street.

Dr. Raymond's Likeness.

Harper's Weekly for this week contains an excellent picture of Rev. Andrew V. V. Raymond, D. D. L. D. President of Union College, together with photographs of the college buildings and grounds. President Raymond was formerly pastor of Trinity Reformed church in this city.

Will Have an Arch, Anyway.

William Classen and John Goff, of Liberty street, are building an arch across the street for the Fourth of July parade.

vain negotiations with the Czar. Alexander and Kutusoff will not budge. The French are in the ashes of a burnt-up Russian city.

Already winter was at hand. Snow was falling. The Soldier of Fortune has at last found his destiny. On the 19th of October, he leaves Moscow, and the retreat begins to the Niemen. On every side the Cossacks arise and assail the fugitives. The soldiers of the West and South drop by thousands on the frozen roads. The snows cover them. The ice-darts in their sides are sharper than bayonets. The columns stagger and swing to right and left. A hundred and twenty thousand men roll away across the hostile world. At the Berezina the bridges are broken down under the retreating army. In the following spring, when the ice-gorges go down the river, 15,000 dead Frenchmen shall be washed up from the flood.

There is constant battle on flank and rear. All stragglers perish. The army dwindles. Ney brings up the rear-guard, twisted to a handful. At the passage of the Niemen, soiled with dirt, blackened with smoke, without insignia, with only drawn sword and facing backwards towards the hated region, the "Bravest of the Brave" crosses the bridge. He is the last man to save himself from the indescribable horrors of the Campaign of Russia.

The remnants of the Grand Army find refuge in Königsberg. Napoleon, after Moscow, had taken to a sledge, and had sped across the snow-covered wastes of Poland on his way to Paris. He came there unannounced. At four o'clock on the following morning, some one found him in his office at the Tuilleries with his war-map of Europe spread before him on the floor.

As soon as it was known that the Grand Army was under the snows of Russia, there were signs of upheaval throughout all the borders of the West. The Germanic States were first to profit by the disasters of the French. Frederick William gave his aid to the Czar. There was a revolt in Hamburg. The Confederation of the Rhine began to fall to pieces. Alexander sent an army to Berlin; Napoleon must guard his eastern frontier, or perish.

The turmoil of 1813 began on the 2nd of May with the battle of Lützen. With incredible speed Napoleon had planted his new armies on a line extending from Lubec to Venice. At Lützen the French were victorious. Frederick William, Alexander, and Napoleon were once more on the same field! On the 21st of May, the Emperor hurled 125,000 men on the allies at Bautzen, and won another victory. Davout retook Hamburg, and terribly punished that place for its defection. Napoleon held Dresden in one hand and routed the allies with the other until his antagonists were glad to accept an armistice. They agreed to convene at Prague for making a treaty of peace.

But secretly, in the interim, the Czar and Frederick William, aided by England, constructed the Fifth Coalition. Austria and Saxony were won over to the league. The father of Maria Louise, perfidiously entered the lists against her husband. On the 26th of August, after the truce had expired, the Emperor met the Prussians and Russians at Dresden, and gained another victory. But his enemies were only beaten—not overwhelmed.

The war in other parts of the field bore hardly on the French. At Grossbeeren the allies defeated Oudinot, and on the 26th of August, the battle of Katsbach was won by Blücher over MacDonald, who suffered heavy losses in men and guns. Bernadotte, who had renounced the Emperor, came down against Ney at Dennewitz, and there, on the 6th of September, disastrously defeated him. The allies concentrated in great force on Leipzig, and on the 16th of October were beaten there by Bonaparte. Vainly he sought to open negotiations. The second battle of Leipzig was fought on the 18th of the month—a terrible conflict in which Napoleon was forced from the field. The city was taken; the bridges blown up; and Fontenauy drowned in the Elster.

The French, hard-pressed, were obliged to fall back from the frontier of Germany. In November, Napoleon reached Paris. He sought in all possible ways to conclude a peace, but also exerted himself during the winter to prepare for the coming avalanche. Beyond the Rhine the French power was broken up. Hanover was recovered by the allies. Holland proclaimed William I. of Orange. Jerome had to abdicate the throne of Westphalia. The small princes of Germany took back their ancient estates. Norway went to Sweden. Denmark leagued with Great Britain. The Austrians overran the Illyrian provinces. Murat, king of Naples, made a treaty with Austria. Only Eugene, viceroy of Italy, remained loyal in support of the Emperor.

In the beginning of 1814 was begun the so-called Campaign of France. Napoleon everywhere confronted his enemies. All the eastern borders were darkened with the oncoming armies of the Coalition. Wellington, who in the preceding summer had won the great battle of Vittoria, was now in command of the allies on the side of Flanders. Napoleon gave the Pope his liberty, and restored him to his States. All the wharves and monsters of the Middle Ages came up from the sea; he threw to this one a bait and to that one a tub. The Austrians under Schwarzenberg crossed the Rhine. Blücher also crossed, at Coblenz. The Russians came by way of Holland. Bernadotte pressed southward with 100,000 men.

The struggle that ensued was without a parallel in history. Napoleon, like King John at Poitiers, warding right and warding left. He fought one battle after another, until both Blücher and Schwarzenberg were crushed, and Austria sued for peace. But the Germanic powers returned to the battle with the powerful support of Russia and Sweden and England; and the French began to recede. It was now seen that the allied generals had learned from the lion many of his own arts of war.

Napoleon, with his usual audacity, plunged into Germany; the allies, instead of following him, pressed on towards Paris, and the Emperor was obliged to return. Arriving at Fontenauy, he found that Alexander and Frederick William were already in his capital. Europe was in an uproar. The French Empire was sinking to its knees. Such legislative authority as existed in Paris was asserting itself for peace and abdication. On the 11th of April, the Emperor agreed to withdraw in favor of his son; but the triumphant allies would have nothing less than the absolute. The absolute was accepted by the Man of Destiny. To him was given, instead of the Empire of Europe, the island of Elbe, with its ninety square miles of petty mountains, its' sandhills, its' crabapples, and its small wheel. Besides this, in compensation for the crowns of Caesar and Charlemagne, we will give General Bonaparte a pension of 2,000,000 francs!

XX.—FROM DRESDEN TO BERLIN VIA MOSCOW.

In the early spring of 1813 Napoleon had his court in Dresden. Pragaury could go no further than was witnessed there. He was surrounded with a retinue of vestal kings and princes. The princesses were there also, headed by the mistress of the King of Rome. Emile Bayard has painted for posterity one of the Imperial receptions. Fashion and gallantry and royal state could rise no higher. Misadventure has added to his Napoleonic cycle a picture of the "Advance of the Grand Army."

On the 27th of May, the march to the Niemen began. More than a half million of men, gathered from nearly a score of nations, moved forward. The critical Bourienne says that sixteen miles, like so many chained dogs, advanced Russia. The military genius of all Central and Western Europe was in the plain. Napoleon was backed by all the resources of European civilization. He had his veterans and his marshals. He had his undisciplined. He had his genius, and the experience of more than fifteen years of warfare. He knew that he was now going into battle with an antagonist second only to England.

As for Russia, she had savage forces; vast domains, an assemblage of barbarous peoples, inaccessible cities, impassable rivers and illimitable steppes. She had also patriotism and physical hardihood. She had the Cossacks. She knew herself, and her enemy knew her not. She had winter—sublime, yellow-black winter, blown out of the hyperborean caverns, swept by the men of Western Europe. She had frozen mercury in her thermometer, and soldiers who would not fall when their brains were out.

On the 24th of June, the Grand Army, crossing the Niemen, headed towards Moscow. The advance was but little impeded. The Russians fell back before the relentless invaders. Soon, however, a new commander appeared on the scene—one with whom Napoleon was unfamiliar. It was Field-marshal Nature. Marshal Nature had an army that the Old Guard had never confronted. His commission was probably from God. His herald was frost, and his aide-de-camp was zero. One of his army corps was snow. His following artillery

The Paterson Daily Press yesterday published a column of Trenton gossip concerning the Governorship contest, in which it is endeavored to show that ex-Senator Griggs has as good a chance for the nomination as John Kean, and that Senator Voorhees' boom is as good as dead now.

The term of seven State Senators expire the present year, as follows: Skirm, of Mercer; Stokes, of Cumberland; Smith, of Ocean; Hoffman, of Atlantic; Winton, of Bergen; Daly, of Hudson; and Drake, of Morris. The first four are Republicans and the other three are Democrats.

Senator Maurice A. Rogers, of Camden, is a candidate for Governor. His candidacy is based not on his developed ability as a State Senator, nor his undeveloped possibilities as a State Governor, but upon the single fact that he is in good standing with the A. P. Hahne & Co., the Newark drygoods merchants, have taken into their own hands the matter of inaugurating the early closing, Saturday half-holiday movement. There are in Newark as elsewhere a very few greedy men who would keep open stores day and night if they believed a few paltry dollars could be earned thereby. These men have thus far blocked the movement for a general Saturday half-holiday. Hahne & Co. seem to be big enough and broadminded enough to go ahead alone, and they have announced that they will close their store at noon Saturdays during July and August. Such action deserves not only the appreciation of the public but likewise its substantial recognition.

It is said that Police Justice George Neill, of Elizabeth, has been slated for re-election by the secret caucus of the Republican majority in the City Council.

It is said that the difference between the tariff in the Wilson and in the McKinley acts on imported firecrackers means a loss of a half million dollars to the government. But the consequent jubilation of the patriotic youth and the noise incident thereto are ample recompense for all such loss.

The power-of-removal bill passed by the New York Legislature for the benefit of Mayor Strong ceased to become operative last Saturday. The passage of such laws as the removal bill, in the view of popular suffrage at the ballot box, is one of the curious anomalies of American government in 1895.

The Daily Press is glad to hear that at least one member of the Board of Education was in favor of awarding the contract for supplying coal to the schools to a Plainfield dealer, to the exclusion of outside dealers. Dr. Jenkins would have performed a public service if he had announced the facts in reference to this matter which he had at hand last night.

That New Jersey stands well in comparison as a desirable place to live, is shown by the fact that in the migration to and from other States the balance is in her favor. ## FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT.

DR. LEWIS TALKS TO YOUNG PEOPLE ON THE SUBJECT.

Says the Present Movement Resembles the One Before the War, But Along Different and Just As Important Lines.

A very interesting "Good Government" meeting was held in the Congregational church, last evening by the Christian Endeavor Society of that church. John V. Beckman, Jr., president of the society, acted as leader. After several opening hymns, a selection of Scripture was read, after which Rev. C. L. Goodrich led in prayer.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis was then introduced as the speaker of the evening. He spoke of the prophetic movement that occurred in 1890, when the military tactics were used so extensively in the presidential campaign, and how it prepared the young men of the time for the coming war. The present "good government" movement, he said, is the forerunner of a grand movement that is coming in the next century by which the many questions that stand so prominently before us today without any apparent solution, will be definitely settled. Attempts are now being made to settle them by legislation but the true solution will be the adoption of practical Christianity in the government. I do not agree, he said, with the party that believe that as soon as the words "Christ" and "God" are put in the Constitution, everything will be all right, but I believe that when the time comes, and it will come too, that this country is governed from a Christian standpoint, these questions will no longer trouble us. It is the young people of today that will see the beginning to this great movement and they must be prepared to do their share. It is not likely that there will be war as in '61, but the issues will be just as important if not more so.

CONTRADICTS THE DOCTORS.

All Are Happy, Glad, and Well.

(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.)

The theories of physicians in regard to female complaints suffer a "Waterloo" very frequently, when sensible and thinking women take matters into their own hands.

Women are sometimes compelled to act for themselves, because of the suffering forced upon them by incompetent doctors, who are backed up by very simple complaints, because they are not the right sex to comprehend them.

Lydia E. Pinkham, when she gave to the world her Vegetable Compound, lifted women from the darkness into light. She placed within their reach a guaranty, not only of health, but of delicacy and self-respect.

The following letter is a little story where a "dear little boy" was the "Waterloo."

"I have taken three bottles of your Vegetable Compound, one package of Sanative Wash, one box of Liver Pills; and now I have a dear little babe four weeks old, and I am well. I have to thank you for this."

"I have spent $25.00 for doctors' bills without a cure. For my cure I only spent $1.00."

"I was once a victim of female troubles in their worst form. I have suffered untold agonies every month; had to stay in bed, and have poultices applied, and then could not stand the pain."

"My physician told me if I became pregnant I would die. I had bladder trouble, itching, backache, catarrh of the stomach, hysteria and heart trouble, fainting spells and nervousness. Can you wonder that I sing the praises of a medicine that has cured me of all these ills?"

THE PLAINS TEAM DEFEATED

Y. M. C. A. TEAM WINS A VICTORY BY FOUR RUNS.

Few Errors Made By Either Team. Though the Ball Was Wet and Slippery—Billy Lee at Short.

Even water cannot check the enthusiasm of the cranks, especially if they have a chance to see the home team win, and so it was at the Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon in the baseball game between the Y. M. C. A. team and the Scotch Plains club, when the Y. M. C. A. boys won by the score of 5 to 1.

Despite the fact that the ball was wet and slippery, neither team made many errors, although some of the Scotch Plains infielders seemed inclined to juggle with the ball. The Plainfield boys won their game fairly, out-fielding and out-batting their opponents. Burt seemed a perfect puzzle, and although his delivery was hit, yet only one was hit safely. It seemed like old times to see Billy Lee on the diamond again, but he now plays short instead of his old position at third. He did not play his old game, however, except in the fourth inning when he made one of those famous left-hand catches of an apparently safe hit of Townley's.

Four of the five runs were scored in the third inning. Schenck was first to bat and hit to third, who threw him out at first. Dupee got his base on balls, and ran around to third on Erickson's fumble of Schoonmaker's grounder. Schoonmaker stole second, and then Egan put one in Billy Lee's hands who dropped it. Dupee crossed the plate and Schoonmaker took third. A pretty base hit by McKelvey sent Schoonmaker home and Egan on to second. By this time the cranks were enjoying the game to their heart's content. Johnson lost his nerve and sent Burt to first on four balls forcing Egan to third and McKelvey to second. Egan tried to do a rash thing, to steal home, and succeeded, while McKelvey and Burt each advanced a base. A long fly of Davis' enabled McKelvey to score the fourth run on the throw in. Wyckoff ended the inning by striking out.

The other run was made in the sixth by Wyckoff on errors by Johnson, Lee and C. Frenz. Lee made the only run for the Scotch Plains nine on an error by Schoonmaker, a sacrifice hit, a stolen base and a hit by Johnson.

At the end of the second inning, play was suspended for a time on account of rain, but was resumed in a few minutes.

After one half of the seventh inning had been played, the rain came down so hard that umpire Theirs called the game.

The score by innings was as follows:

Y. M. C. A. 0 0 4 0 0 1 — 5.
Scotch Plains 0 0 0 1 0 0 — 1.

Tennis Tournaments.

The Hills Tennis Club will hold an open singles tournament on July Fourth, instead of the club tournament previously announced. The open tournament, which was to be held on the courts of H. E. Rider, of East Front street, on July 3, has been postponed until July 12, so as not to conflict with the Hills Tennis Club's tournament.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Miss Jennie Crosley, of Dner street, has been presented with a Victoria bicycle, which she is learning to ride.

A German wheel paper advertises "false calves for use by thin-legged wheelmen." France comes to the front with "a conversation cycle," which is a tandem bicycle so built that the riders are facing each other when riding. Even the dead are to ride with comfort to the grave, thanks to the pneumatic. An Atlanta undertaker has a hearse equipped with pneumatic tires.—The Wheel.

PARTED AFTER A HALF CENTURY.

Mrs. J. C. VanName Dies After Fifty-two Years of Married Life.

Saturday afternoon occurred the death of Mrs. J. C. VanName at her home on Elmwood place after an illness of two weeks.

Mrs. VanName was the daughter of Moses VanPelt, and was born at Mariner's Harbor, S. I., seventy-two years ago. She was married to J. C. VanName, and they took up their residence in this city a number of years ago. Two sons, Henry and Garrett VanName, and one daughter, Mrs. C. Kohler, survive her.

Mr. and Mrs. VanName had lived together fifty-two years and were very devoted to each other. She was a faithful member of the First Baptist church and was a steady attendant.

The funeral services were held this morning at eleven o'clock from her late residence, Rev. Dr. Yerkes officiating. Interment was in Hillside cemetery, Mariner's Harbor, this afternoon.

At Hymen's Altar.

Wednesday, at 5 p. m. Mr. Ernest Barrett of Plainfield and Miss Delia Casey were united in the bonds of wedlock, in St. Francis' church, by the Rev. Father Freeman. There was a very large attendance of deeply interested spectators. The charming bride was attired in a lovely white silk dress, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The bride's maid, Miss Mary Tilford, wore an exquisite dress of pale green silk. Mr. David Power was best man. There were four ushers, namely: Messrs. James Power, John Power, T. Barrett, and L. Townley. At the close of the ceremony a splendid reception was given at the residence of the bride's mother. The happy couple were the gratified recipients of many hearty wishes for their future happiness. They left on the 7:53 east bound train for Jersey City where they took a late train for Washington D. C. Mr. Barrett is a very superior young man. Mr. David Power took charge of the church decorations which were very tasteful. Mrs. Townley discoursed appropriate organ music before and at the close of the ceremony.—Metuchen Courier.

The July Forum.

The Forum for July has an uncommonly interesting table of contents. One of its notable articles is by Dr. Max Nordau, the alienist and author of "Degeneration," who makes his first appearance in an American periodical with an article in The Forum, entitled "Society's Protection Against Degenerates," showing to what extent the degenerate in art and literature degrades society, and the best method by which society may defend itself against them. The article is in effect a supplement to "Degeneration." Two important financial articles are "Coin's Food for the Gullible," in which Prof. J. Laurence Laughlin, of Chicago university, relentlessly exposes the fallacies and misrepresentations in "Coin's Financial School," the other article is by William Salomon, a prominent banker of New York, on "Sound Currency the Dominant Political Issue." He declares sound money to be the dominant issue in the coming campaign, and urges all who are able to throw any light on the intricate financial problem to do so; and he predicts that that political party which shall make sound money its platform will win the next Presidential election.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Whereas: It has pleased Almighty God to take from this earth James Connolly, a faithful husband and kind father and a devoted comrade, while still in the vigor of manhood, and from the circle of a devoted family.

Resolved, That while we bow to the disposition of a Merciful Creator, who knows all things and does all things for the best, we mourn the loss of this devoted comrade whose perseverance earned the regard of his fellow members in the Legion.

Resolved, That Plainfield Council, No. 244, Catholic Benevolent Legion, desires to express its heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved household, and regrets the severance of ties that were ever pleasant and true. Be it further that:

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes and also sent to the bereaved family, and published in The Plainfield Press.

Thomas Haplin,
T. A. McCarthy,
A. E. Kenney,
Committee.

The Boy Was Cautioned.

Michael Udahl desires to state through the columns of The Daily Press that he had repeatedly cautioned Clarkson Palmer about touching the dynamite cartridges in his tool chest but he disobeyed him and in consequence suffered.

OFFICIAL LINE OF MARCH.

How the Division Will Form and the Streets on Which They Will Go.

Amos Andrews, chairman of the parade committee of the Fourth of July celebration, today announces the official line of march and the points at which the different divisions will form are as follows:

Second division—On Crescent avenue, right resting on Seventh street, extending down Crescent avenue towards Park avenue.

Third division—Right resting on Crescent avenue, extending down Watchung avenue towards Ninth street.

Fourth division—Right resting on Watchung avenue, extending down LaGrande towards Richmond street.

The line of march is as follows, the only change from the proposed line published on Saturday being the substitution of Eighth street for Seventh street, the latter thoroughfare not being in condition to draw the heavy floats over it.

From Watchung avenue through Seventh street to Park avenue, through Park avenue to Arlington place and countermarch to Eighth street, to Liberty street, to Front street, to Washington avenue, to Mercer avenue, to Grove street, to Linden avenue, to Somerset street, to Craig place, to Grove street, to Front street, to Richmond street, to Fifth street, to Park avenue, to North avenue and dismiss.

A Delightful Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Schuyler, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roberts, John Meeker and the Misses Hewson, of this city, and William Chamberlain, of Westfield, drove on Friday to Fox Hill, where they remained over night and on Saturday continued their journey to Chester, Morris county, where they were the guests of Frank Hewson, whose father, William Hewson, kept the City Hotel in this city in the latter part of the '70s. The delightful trip was immensely enjoyed, and their reception and treatment at Chester a long to be remembered event. The party returned last night.

He Is a Fool.

so the great Homer thought, "who only sees the mischiefs that are past." He is wise who, anticipating the mischief that may result from inattention to care of his eyes, seeks the advice of a reliable optician, and learns how to provide against loss of sight and the ills that follow in its wake. Go to Callier's then, and get timely counsel on this important subject. All examinations free at 103 Park avenue.

Will Be Missed By Friends.

William Gray, of Nyack, N. Y., died on Saturday at the advanced age of eighty-five years. He was the father of Mrs. John F. Harman of this city. A gentleman of the old school, genial and vivacious in manner, of rare humor, with a poetic temperament, the personal friend of William Cullen Bryant, his loss will be keenly felt by a large circle of friends.

Why, of Course, They Will.

Several people on North avenue have been wondering whether any of the merchants are going to decorate their places of business. In view of the fact that North avenue will receive the visitors from out of town, it seems as though they ought to go into the decorating business with a good will.

An Important Feature.

One of the most important features of the Fourth of July celebration has arrived in town. It is a young pig who will be greased and let loose upon the Crescent Oval on the afternoon of the Fourth. He arrived from Somerville, and as a squealer does credit to the town from which it hails. The pig will be shaved by Brown.

Made Rich in a Day.

Daniel Sorrell, a poor painter, who lives in East Grand street, Elizabeth, has received word from England that he has fallen heir in that country to $75,000 by the death of a relative. He will sail for England this week to claim his fortune.

A Pretty Big Place.

The population of the city and North Plainfield borough and township, which are really all one place, is 18,508. In the figures of total population given in the Press of Saturday, the township was omitted.

A Gift to the Library.

The Free Public Library has just received from Mrs. John Dietrich, of 16 Arlington place, Frost's "Pictorial history of the world" in three volumes, and the "Life of Benjamin Franklin" by Jared Sparks.

Don't Build Too High.

Merchants who are building floats for the Fourth of July parade should not build them over 11 feet high on account of the railroad bridges being only 12 feet from the roadway.

A MOVING FESTIVAL.

But The Little Girls Made Money Just the Same.

A lawn festival in the rain was not to be thought of and so the young people who were to hold one on the lawn of E. H. Hannagan, of Craig place and Grove street, Saturday afternoon and evening, moved to a vacant house on Craig place kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. Hannagan. The festival was started on the lawn in the afternoon, but when the rain came and the waitresses had to pass the ice cream from under umbrellas, the moving began. John P. Emmons gave the use of his wagon and he and Mr. Hannagan did their best in assisting. Mrs. Hannagan, Mrs. C. H. Smith and Miss Safford helped to rearrange the booths and by eight o'clock the festival was in full swing.

At a pretty booth at one end of the room Miss Edna Smith and Miss Aimee Emmons sold delicious candies. Lemonade was passed out by Miss Della Grant, while the root beer, in a regular gypsy's kettle, was presided over by Miss Genie Hannagan. Miss Marion Safford and Miss Clara Woodward were in charge of the cake department. Mrs. Hannagan served out the ice cream which was served by the Misses Dora Waring, Helen Walter, Mildred Everett and Blanche Heidehoff. Miss Maud Emmons was the flower girl, and Frank Emmons looked after the grab bag. Orville Waring and Herbert Cathcart took tickets at the door.

The net profits were $21.

TOM PLATT AND THE FOURTH.

He Will Send Out the Famous Express Wagon for the Parade.

Manager Mills, of the U. S. Express Company, has at last succeeded in securing the company's World's Fair exhibition for the Fourth of July parade. It consists of the largest, handsomest and most complete express wagon ever placed on wheels, together with four of the largest horses owned by the company. The harness is gold mounted.

Mr. Mills had great difficulty in securing the rig, and was obliged to go personally to President Platt. The order for it was received Saturday. The Plainfield branch have also been given the privilege of keeping it four days to deliver goods. Mr. Mills also received a requisition to decorate the company's office.

DEATH OF MRS. BERRY.

Was an Active Worker in the First Presbyterian Church.

Deborah Berry, wife of John C. Berry, passed away quietly Sunday morning at her home, 27 Craig place. Two weeks ago in coming down stairs Mrs. Berry slipped and fell, injuring herself internally. She never rallied and Plainfield lost a good and Christian woman and the First Presbyterian church an active worker. Mrs. Berry had been a resident of Plainfield for thirty-five years, coming here from New York. Her husband survives her. Mrs. Berry's nephew, D. S. Berry, lives at 25 Craig place, and Mr. Cox and Mr. Spangenberg are both related to her. She had three daughters, Mrs. David Shotwell, now in Florida, Mrs. Harriet Bailey, who resided with Mrs. Berry, and Mrs. A. C. Sutton, of Riverton. She also had four grandchildren of whom Oliver Sutton of Dunellen is one.

Why Go Away From Plainfield?

While some friends are discussing summer schools established in different parts of the country that have recognized the fact that children are benefited by a little study in summer, they do not know that in Plainfield at the Manual Training and Grammar school, on East Front street, there is a class of boys and girls meeting three mornings in the week for instruction from Miss Dalziel in clay modeling. This accomplished young teacher, who has recently returned from Philadelphia where she has been studying under Prof. Platchart, has a happy group of boys and girls about her, who have found in substituting clay, for the sand-pits at home, great satisfaction in the better results of their scientific play. A glance at their cheerful faces will convince parents and friends of children that a little work during the long vacation is of great value, and that it is also true that "All play and no work makes Jack a dull boy."

A Watermelon Party.

The mention of a watermelon party suggests great times, and the one given by Andrew Wilson, of Washingtonville last Friday evening to a number of his young friends, was equal to the expectations. After an evening of singing and instrumental music the melons appeared. Among those who enjoyed Mr. Wilson's hospitality were the Misses Jessie Coddington, Jennie Simpson, Josie Fritts, Lena Smalley, Minnie Smalley, May McLoughlin, Miss Speer, Harry Coddington, Allen Coddington, Will Kitchen, Robert Clark, Edward Clark and Will Titus.

THE IDEAL OF WOMANHOOD.

MISS CASEY'S VALEDICTORY AT THE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL.

Father Murphy Advises the Scholars in an Admirable Address—Names of Those Receiving Honorable Mention

A good entertainment does not always secure a large audience, but the closing exercises of St. Mary's Parochial School, last Friday, filled the school hall to overflowing with an enthusiastic audience. The exercises were even better than Thursday night, if such a thing were possible, and all were sorry when the curtain fell on the final tableau.

The programme opened with a selection, "Cheerfulness," by a chorus of girls dressed in white. Then followed a selection "Ye Banks and Braes O' Bonnie Doon" a selection by a double quartette composed of the following: Misses C. Cooley and L. Flanagan, sopranos; Misses C. Flynn and A. McIntyre, tenors; Misses M. Smith and E. Kelly, altos; Misses E. Day and K. Walsh, bases. "Come Where the Cowslip Bloweth" was next rendered by the chorus, after which Whittier's well-known "Barbara Frietchie" was given most charmingly by the girls of the senior classes as a part recitation and part song. Miss E. Day next recited "The Legend of Brenz" in a manner that brought forth great applause. Then came one of the features of the evening, the Roman sabre drill arranged by Miss Menzelli. It was something entirely novel, but proved most successful. The drilling was done by a number of uniformed young men with swords and shields assisted by a bevy of girls dressed to represent Peace and Victory. Many most beautiful tableaux were the result. A most enjoyable duet, "Pizzicati," was next given by Miss K. Quinn, piano, and Miss A. Quinn, violin.

The attention of all was held by the operetta "Queen Flora's Day Dreams" in which the characters were, Queen Flora, Miss Anna Daley; Stella, Miss Catherine Roach; Bumble Bee, John Madden; Bull-Frog, Charles McCann; besides numberless fairies, daisies, roses, butterflies and frogs. Many pretty dances were introduced while the bullfrog dance, led by Charles McCann, sent the audience into roars of laughter. Several beautiful tableaux ended the operetta, which was photographed by G. Thorn.

Lawrence Doyle then recited, "Independence Ball" after which a chorus of pretty girls dressed in white, with red and blue sashes, sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

The next time the curtain rose it showed the three graduates, Miss Elizabeth Casey, Miss Catherine Flynn, and Miss Catherine Cooley, seated in front with the members of the senior classes behind them.

Father Smyth then came forward and presented each of the graduating young women with a diploma and a gold medal. Father Murphy next announced the following honorable mentions: Senior Class, Mary Smith, Anna O'Keefe, and Edward Flynn. First preparatory class—Joseph Murphy, Elizabeth Rafferty, and Elizabeth Flanagan.

Second preparatory class—Catherine O'Keefe, Arwea Ryan, and Joseph Walsh.

Third preparatory class—Michael Owens, Henry Shannon, and Mary Burke.

First junior class—Thomas O'Keefe, Joseph Whalen, and George Taylor. Second junior class—Mary Higgins, Loretto Flanagan, and Catherine Muldowney.

Miss Elizabeth Casey, the valedictorian, delivered her essay on "Ideal of Womanhood," which was as follows:

The Old Testament begins with the mournful story of a woman who distrusted God, disobeyed, fell and dragged down with her the whole of our race. The New Testament begins with the history of a woman who trusted God and gave herself up to His Holy will in loving obedience, and rose into His light, and with her lifted up our whole race. Against the sad story of Eve is set the joyful story of Mary. Both parts of the Sacred Scriptures begin with a woman. The first is the sad story of a fall; how this world of ours went wrong; and the heart that drank in the poison which poisoned our whole race was the heart of a woman. The second tells the glorious story of the rising, of the redemption and restoration, and here, too, the lowly and loving heart which received the joyful word of redemption and renewed the world was the heart of a woman. Hence, according to the designs of Divine Providence, woman was destined to exert a lasting influence in the world. Whether that influence was to be a baneful or a beneficial one, depended on the world at large and on woman in particular. In the early ages of the world, woman was treated as the slave of man; she was regarded as being of an inferior order. The Hindus pronounced her an afterthought of the Deity and the mother of all evil. The historic accounts of old pagan rites give us an idea of the humiliation and degradation of woman in ancient times. The contemptuous opinion entertained of women in the past has found expression not only in literature but also in unjust laws and customs. In marriage she has been a serf, in public instruction she was ignored as though she did not exist. She was the equal of man only when punishment and payment of taxes were in question. In past ages Shakespeare wrote two mottoes, one contradicting the other; the first was an old adage, believed in by the world and quoted generally, "Frailty, they name is woman," and underneath it and unlike it was the other, "The Earth waits for her Queen;" the first described woman as she has been understood in the past, as she has masqueraded in history and as she has, in a certain sense, existed. The other prophesied of that grander type of woman, towards which the whole sex is moving. This grander type of womanhood was shown to the world by God, Himself. For it was not till the dawn of Christianity that woman was exhibited in her true light, or permitted to occupy her proper sphere in the world. Christianity proved that woman, instead of being the "Mother of evil," could and should be the "Mother of good," a "ministering angel" in the world, the queen for whom the earth was waiting. Christianity, by showing forth the true part that woman performed in the redemption of the world, by placing Mary the Madonna in the exalted position which is justly hers, has shown the world that the power and influence of woman, for good, is of the greatest importance. The chivalry of the middle ages, which made of woman something sacred, was but the result of the church's labor in making the world realize the true worth and influence of woman. Woman can make her influence felt in various ways, and in various spheres. She can exact of the world a respect and a deference, which none other on earth can exact. She can represent the roughness of human nature, she can soothe and mollify the more violent passions of man, she can make the world better by exerting her influence in the home, in the family and through them over the whole world. Of late it seems to be the fashion among women to appear as much like men as possible; but such is not in accordance with the true ideal of the grace and beauty of womanly nature. It is the true and established sphere of women to influence man and guide him to look to higher ideals and more worthy desires. Many men of rare promise, whose early manhood has glowed with high ambitions, have been made petty and ignoble by their female companions; these through physical weakness, mental poverty and lowness of moral tone, have ruined the progress of their sons, brothers or husbands by lowering their ideals. For this reason women should devote their faculties to the cultivation of all the nobler virtues so as to fit themselves for the state of life in which Providence has placed them. When woman does this: when she fulfills the noble, the exalted destiny that God has marked out for her, when she can say that she has left the world gentler, better than she found it, then she has approached nearer to the true ideal of womanhood. Mary the Madonna shines as a star through the mist of ages, as the highest type of womanhood. Yet it was by devoting herself to the cultivation of the domestic virtues, by her true womanliness, that she reached that exalted position. She is our ideal and if we the women of the present age wish to approach her standard, then we must follow in her steps. Not by trying to occupy the place in the social or political order, destined only for men; will women reach that standard, but by cultivating like Mary the virtues that render women a mighty power on earth.

Father Murphy next made a short address. He said in part:

To instill a noble sentiment into the heart is of far greater value than the teaching of the human mind. This is only brought about by religion. Our system of education embraces the religious and natural sciences. Education means to draw out and to train up, and it must train every faculty. Man is composed of two elements, the material and the spiritual, and the last is the most important. Our system of education develops the spiritual as well as the material, it satisfies the noble ambitions of the soul as well as the ambitions of the mind. An education that does not develop both is not a perfect education. I do not need to refute the calumny that our church favors ignorance. History is my witness. All the learning of the middle ages was stored up by the church to be given out as man should wish. The libraries and art galleries of the Vatican are thrown open today to the students of all religions, and everything is done for the advancement of learning and science.

Let us always go forward, let our motto be "Excelsior." The barbarian is happy in his way, but where is the Christian soul that would return to barbarity. The aim of the Catholic education is to advance, but let us remember the God who made us and from whom all blessings flow.

After a vocal solo, "We Now Must Part," by Miss Catherine Cooley, the exercises closed with a tableau composed of the graduates and the girls of the senior classes.

Wooden Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Overland, of 226 Grove street, celebrated their wooden wedding at their home on Wednesday evening. During the evening excellent music was enjoyed, games were played, and a bountiful supply of refreshments were served. There was a large number of Mr. and Mrs. Overland's friends present, who extended hearty congratulations.

Annie Plead Guilty.

Annie McDonald, the young girl who is charged with stealing a pair of handcuffs from Constable Worsinger, of Roselle, pleaded guilty in the Court of Special Sessions at Elizabeth, yesterday. There is some question now as to whether the charge should be for larceny. The prisoner was remanded for one week, when the Court will pass its judgment.

A Picnic to the Drive.

Mrs. Waters and Mrs. Thorn, of East Third street, arranged a very enjoyable picnic to Johnston's Drive Friday. Those who formed the merry party were Jennie and Lillia Thorn, Arthur and Frank Thorn, Louisa Waters, Vernon Waters, Lizzie Stratton, Mrs. Stratton, Mrs. Thorn, and Mrs. Waters. All joined heartily in making the day one of pleasure.

STANDS WHERE HE STOOD.

MR. HUMBLE STILL OPPOSES WATCHUNG AVENUE EXTENSION.

Ordinance Looking Towards the Opening of Duer Street Is Laid on the Table—Other Borough Council Business.

An adjourned meeting of the North Plainfield Council was held last Friday, all the members being present except Mr. Schutt.

A communication was received from Secretary A. E. Kenney, of the Fourth of July Executive Committee inviting the Mayor and Council to review the parade. It was unanimously accepted.

W. J. Butfield stated in a communication that he had laid a stone walk on the northwest side of Repeck avenue between Magnolia and West End avenues, and he asked that the adjoining property owners be requested to make their walks conform with the ordinance. It was referred to the Street Committee.

A small number of bills were presented and later ordered paid.

Mr. Smith stated that he had seen the surveyor in regard to the grade on Harrison street and as soon as he obtained it they would then be ready to receive bids. He also said that the work on Somerset street was finished, as was also Greenbrook road, and that today the Street Commissioner would commence repairing Watchung avenue, Grove street and several cross streets. The report was received and filed.

The Mayor then stated the object of the meeting was the personal objection of J. P. Humble to the opening of Watchung avenue. Mr. Humble was given an opportunity to state his objections, but he said that he had nothing further to say than that stated in the letter which he sent to the Council.

The Mayor said that the next thing to do was to select a person to treat with the property owners along said proposed new avenue, to see what property can be purchased for, and report to Council. He then appointed Dr. Justus H. Cooley.

Mr. Lounsbury offered a resolution that Duer street be opened, and that the Clerk give the proper notice for all objectors to file their statements at the Council rooms on July 17th, before six o'clock in the evening.

Mr. Valiant thought that the opening of Watchung avenue would be the greatest improvement the borough had ever known, and did not favor the opening of Duer street. He amended the resolution, so to have it lay on the table. The amendment was carried, Mr. Lounsbury alone voting against it.

Mr. Smith presented a resolution that the action of the Mayor and Council in drawing $98 in favor of Collector Spencer be ratified. It was carried.

A resolution by Mr. Lounsbury, that Corporation Counsel C. A. Reed draw up an ordinance regulating the size tires to be used on wagons and heavy trucks, was carried.

The Mayor then appointed J. J. Stahl assistant chief of Fire Department and Mr. Peck offered a resolution that the name be confirmed, which was carried. Mr. Valiant offered a similar resolution in regard to Dr. Cooley. That was also adopted.

Mr. Smith reported that several weeks ago notice had been served on certain property owners to regard to the laying of sidewalk in front of their property, and that all had complied except one or two and they were preparing to follow out instructions, but one citizen had been complained of because he had not complied. He had seen him and explained wherein he had not complied. Mr. Smith wanted to know if he should have the work done.

The Mayor thought it would be best to give the thirty days notice and then if it was not done, have the Council by resolution authorize Mr. Smith to have it done. Council then adjourned.

THE KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Gold Rule Circle Conduct a Profitable Lawn Festival.

Pretty waitresses and good things to eat made the lawn festival of the Golden Rule Circle of King's Daughters, held yesterday afternoon and evening, at 65 Grandview avenue, a great success financially as well as socially. The ice-cream department was carefully managed by Miss Cora VanArsdale, president of the circle, assisted by the Misses Mabel Stevens, Lucretia Clark, Flossie Conroy and Eva Dorringer. The cake table was under the efficient control of Miss Emma Stevens. Lemonade was furnished to the thirsty by Miss May Conroy, while behind a table prettily decorated with pink, the Misses Lydia Pingham, Bertha Stevens and Lizzie Hoagland, sold candy to the ready purchasers. The popcorn table was cared for by Miss Mary Hoagland.

The entire stock was sold out, and the managers of the festival expect great returns from the sale of tickets. The festival was held for the benefit of the city nurse.

DYNAMITE AND A HAIRPIN.

A BOY LOSES HIS HAND BY THE COMBINATION.

Picked a Cartridge Until It Exploded With Fearful Results—Found the Disastrous Play Thing in a Tool Chest.

Clarkson Palmer, the twelve-year-old son of Mrs. Forrester, of 1113 West Third street, was the victim of a terrible accident Friday, between eight and nine o'clock, when a dynamite cartridge exploded in his left hand, completely shattering that member.

Young Palmer has been working for sometime with Michael Udahl, grading streets in the west end near the Irving School. It often became necessary for Mr. Udahl to use dynamite cartridges in removing old stumps of trees and large stones in properly grading the streets, and he always had a supply in his tool chest.

Last night when Palmer stopped work he saw the cartridges in the chest, picked three out and took them home with him. For a few nights past he had been helping a neighbor, Mr. Cashon, to move, but last night he remained at home. A little later his step-father, Charles Forrester, was sent for to help move a stove.

In the hall Palmer, his sister and two smaller brothers were seated. His sister noticed that Clarkson had a cartridge in his hand, but thinking it was an old one paid no particular attention, as he sat there picking at it with a hairpin. They were all close to each other, when without any warning the three cartridges exploded, the one he was picking at effected the others in exploding.

Mrs. Palmer heard the terrific noise and almost fainted, while the sister and two brothers were horrified. The injured boy was frightened beyond description.

Those near him were spattered with blood as was also the walls a distance of some four feet from where he was seated.

He was taken at once to Muhlenburg Hospital, and Drs. Long and Boone were called. They found that the boy's hand was so badly injured that he will have to lose it, and the pieces of flesh and bone left were amputated near the wrist.

Today young Palmer is getting along as well as can be expected and it is not thought that he will be confined to the hospital more than a few days.

His mother is nearly prostrated from the effects of the accident.

That the explosion did not kill those in the group is a mystery.

WHERE THE CYCLIST COMES IN.

Common Council of Cyclists Is Not Improbable, and Then Look Out.

To The Editor of The Daily Press:

Will you allow me a few remarks suggested by City Judge Coddington's manifesto against the cyclist printed last night, telling of the dreadful peril of the man who dares to wheel after July 5th. I don't wish to refer to the so-called bicycle ordinance because, of course, all such measures are absurd.

While they are about it, too, would it not be well to give us a tip as to how the so-called bicycle ordinance now stands? Some say that a fine for having one's light out is $10, others say $5 others $2 and even $1. Ditto concerning sidewalk riding when the streets are absolutely impassable.

I should not mind paying one or two dollars once in a while provided the policemen were polite about it, but five or ten is a trifle too strong, and would make one feel almost like a wrong-doer.

If the Common Council must amuse itself monkeying with bicycles, why does it not enact an ordinance to send up the idiots who throw bottles and tacks in the public streets, or who, without looking where they are going cross at points other than corners, and to electrocute the careless children permitted to run wild in the middle of the thoroughfares? If a cyclist knowing his business is not to be allowed to use the sidewalks when it is utterly impossible for him to ride anywhere else, it would seem only fair that the large percentage of brainless pedestrians who do not know how to take care of themselves, should be kept from the roadways.

It will be well for the Council to consider that in a very short time the wheelmen will be the majority everywhere and that it will soon be a matter of duty to look after the cyclist first and be very civil about election time. Some day we will elect a Council of wheelmen, and have some light upon the subject.

Meanwhile we must just whoop it up till July 5th, and then lay low.

L. A. W. 40,338.

Take It Away.

The large tool chest on Watchung avenue between Second street and North avenue, belonging to Honan & Son, the sewer contractors, is becoming an eyesore to the residents in the neighborhood. It should be removed, since the sewer on that thoroughfare has been completed for over a week.

ACTED OUT ADVERTISEMENTS

NEW FORM OF ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY THE METHODISTS.

The Last Sociable of the Season Given in the Front Street Church Last Night—Happy Affair All Around.

The last, but by no means the least, of the spring sociables of the Epworth League of the First Methodist Episcopal church was held in Vincent chapel last Friday, and thoroughly enjoyed by a goodly number of members and friends.

The programme opened with a Rose Drill by Miss Anna Teale, after which the audience was favored with a selection, "Blige the Lady," by Plainfield's only George O. Stevens, the applause for which would not cease until he sang another selection. A novel form of entertainment was then tried. Different advertisements were represented and the audience guessed what they were. Miss C. Florence Barnes first represented the well-known picture of "Chocolate Menier."

Wilburf. Cornwell made a good chef in representing Franco-American soups. Miss Teale next gave a selection, "Mohammedan Prayer," a pantomime of an easter temple service. Miss Lucie Davis next came on the platform in the well-known costume of the "Baker's Chocolate" girl. A table was brought up, and Raymond A. McGee, disguised as a baby with long dress, sat down to the table and tried to eat a pretended pancake. The cake could not be cut, so he attempted to take it whole and then rushed from the platform, while everyone cried "Hecker's Buckwheat," the toughness was not the cause of the correct guess though. Miss Teale next faced the audience with a pantomime hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," which was sung by Miss Madge Barnes. The effect was very pretty.

After a little interval for conversation, Miss Grace E. Overton gave the recitation "Old Ace," in her usual excellent manner, holding the close attention of all through the piece.

After the programme was completed, lemonade and cake were served while conversation took possession of the room. The sociable was arranged by the literary and social committees of the Epworth League of which David Duhavan and Miss Elsie Horne are respectively chairmen.

The refreshments were under the special charge of Miss Sharp, Miss Jackson, Miss Roberts and Miss Van-Middlesworth.

NORTH PLAINFIELD CENSUS.

FIGURES OF BOTH THE BOROUGH AND TOWNSHIP.

The Township Has Fallen Off and the Borough Shows an Increase—Details of the Enumeration.

Assessor Cooley completed the census of the North Plainfield borough and township Friday. This is the first time that the borough and township have been taken separately, so that the gain in each cannot be given, but Assessor Cooley says that the township has lost, if anything, and that would make the total gain of 648 come upon the borough. The total inhabitants in borough and township was, in 1890, 4,231, and this year it is 4,879. The detailed report of the enumeration is as follows:

	BOROUGH.	TOWNSHIP.
Dwelling Houses.....	824	135
Families.....	936	143
White males, native born.....	1,636	254
" females.....	1,912	248
Colored males.....	48	9
" females.....	86	12
Irish males.....	51	4
" females.....	122	11
German males.....	109	24
" females.....	81	17
Males of all other nationalities.....	101	39
Females.....	104	16
Total population.....	4,248	634
Males, five years or under.....	231	36
" five to twenty years.....	577	88
" twenty to sixty years.....	1,029	192
" over sixty years.....	1,02	18
Females, five years or under.....	226	32
" five to twenty years.....	506	72
" twenty to sixty years.....	1,342	164
" over sixty years.....	142	31

This gives the city and borough a total population of 17,874.

Contracts for Bank Improvements.

Pearson & Gale will do the carpenter work, J. P. Emmons the masonry work and Marsh, Ayres & Co., the painting on the new First National Bank building. The entire present structure will be taken down. The bank will endeavor to move into the old postoffice building, opposite the City National Bank, next Saturday after closing hours. The bank will rent two large fireproof safes to store their papers, books and currency during the changes. The contractors will commence work on the building as soon as it is empty.

Louis C. Dunn, of Park avenue, now rides a new wheel.

A MODEL COTTAGE FOR $550.

Plans for the Erection of a Cheap and Pretty Suburban Home.

(Copyright 1905 by the Co-operative Building Plan Association.)

It is one of the primary principles of political economy that the happiness and prosperity of a country is caused by the general thrift of the inhabitants, and not by the abundance of the few. That would be the model community in which each head of the family owned, in the derivative words of the British statesman, "An acre and a cow," even if not a single individual had much greater possession than that.

"Landlordism" is responsible for much of the misery which exists in cities. Happily there is a growing disposition in this country for wage earners to become householders. It is not difficult for the laboring man and the small artisan to render themselves independent of landlords. The suburbs of our cities have abundant room for growth, and the land is not all in the possession of a few families. Every day it is proven possible for a man with shrewd management, prudence, and a little self-denial to build and own a house for himself, with scarcely more of a weekly outlay than he was called upon to expend in rent. A dollar or two more a month for a few years is not difficult to manage, when it means in the end such a neat and attractive home as is pictured herewith, instead of a mere memory of shelter and fat profits in the pocket of a landlord.

This little cottage, which is capable of various modifications to suit individual tastes, can be built, according to the most careful and reliable estimates, for $550. Its width, including bay, is 27 feet; depth, including veranda, 37 feet; height of first story, 8 feet 6 inches; second story, 8 feet.

First Floor.

Exterior materials: Foundation posts or piers; first story, clapboard; bay window, gables, dormers and roofs, shingles.

Interior finish: Two coat plaster, soft wood flooring, trim and stair case. Interior woodwork finished in hard oil.

Colors: Body, all clapboards and shingles of bay window, terra cotta trim, Pompeian red; shingles in gables and sides of dormers treated with burnt sienna and oil; roof, shingles dark red; sashes, bronze green; blinds, terra cotta; veranda floor and ceiling, oiled.

The principal rooms and their sizes, closets, etc., are shown by the floor plans. Open fireplace in the living room and cheerful bay window. Front door glazed handsomely. A cellar may be added in which vegetables may not freeze. The living room may be divided in half with a smaller bay window in the front room, and the back used as a dining room, with open fireplace, which heats upstairs, economizing the expenditure of the coal. A few extra dollars will build a one-story extension at the rear, used as a storehouse or workshop, and in the summer as a laundry when the heat of the kitchen range would be oppressive.

The finished neatness of this design, its economical arrangement of rooms and the low cost for which it can be built, appeals directly to the mechanic and the laboring man. Nor is it a hard matter to figure how so small a sum be made to represent a weekly or monthly payment scarcely in excess of the rent of a room or two in the crowded city tenement.

An Up-to-Date Donation Party.

The Rochester Herald, says the Rev. A. W. Hayes of Asbury Methodist Church, is the happy owner of a new and new bicycle. It was presented to him the other night by the members of the church. The young people and many of the older members of the congregation assembled in the church parlors to participate in a "poor man's social," and incidentally the wheel was pushed out from behind the curtains and given to Mr. Hayes.

QUEEN ONLY IN NAME

THE GOOD VICTORIA LIVES MOSTLY IN SECLUSION.

She is Seventy-six and the Climate of England is Conducive to Rheumatic Pains. That the Prince of Wales May Become Regent is a Future Possibility.

For many years Victoria has ceased to be more than a name and a memory to the great mass of her people. Since the death of her beloved friend and servant, Beaconsfield, she has taken little or no interest in public affairs. The jubilee year, indeed, did rouse her to some little social activity, and with it there came something like a renaissance of the old royalist spirit in Great Britain. But that was soon followed by even closer seclusion and a still further weakening of the thread that binds the personality of the sovereign to the lives of the people.

To-day the Queen is almost an invalid. Her rheumatism has grown upon her to such a degree as to render a residence in the wet, foggy and changeable climate of England extremely undesirable. She longs constantly for Italy; it is said, where she has passed so many months of peace and comfort of late years. She cannot walk at all except with the support of a cane and an attendant, and in England she cannot venture out during the late autumn, the winter and the spring months.

This confinement is extremely wearisome and depressing to the Queen. She no longer attempts to keep in touch with the affairs of state. She does not even dictate the responses to personal letters, which until recently she has always done. Her secretaries write all her letters for her, except those to her immediate family, which are written by Princess Beatrice.

Loved and revered in her own immediate circle, gentle and considerate always to those about her, Victoria has drifted apart from the ideas, the aspirations and endeavors of her people and practically belongs to a past generation. The political and social movements that are dominant forces in the England of to-day neither disturb nor interest her. Her days are given up to her family and to the three delights of an old woman's life—religion, match making and the society of her grandchildren. Her appearances at the royal social functions are now increasingly rare and are made great state occasions.

Yet withal, the abdication of the Queen is extremely improbable. It would be without precedent, and, as far as possible, the English do nothing of this character without precedent. James II. did, indeed, abandon the crown to William of Orange, but from the monarch's point of view it was a case of exile and flight from armed rebellion rather than of abdication. The mad and mischievous old king, George III., yielded the reins of power to the regency of his infamous and worthless son, but that was a case of absolute necessity, and the king was still king in name.

There yet remains in England a peculiar and intense veneration for the monarchy, which an abdication would tend to greatly shock and disturb. Although in the British theory of government the monarchy is purely the creature of Parliament, it is not so in the minds and hearts of the people.

Every foot of land surrounding the home of Queen Victoria is historic. At the foot of the hill lies the village where Shakespeare first met Mistress Davenant and where the characters of Mistress Page and Mistress Ford, of Justice Shallow and Master Slender, of Fenton and Sweet Anne Page, took shape in the poet's brain. Back of the castle, with its miles of open glade and dense woodland stretches the historic park where Falstaff was burned by the fairies—the hunting ground of many generations of English kings, and still the source of the venison that furnishes the royal table. A few miles below the park the Thames divides at Magna Charta Island, and there you may stand upon the very spot where King John signed the first declaration of independence, and under the very tree which tradition says is a scion of the oak about which the barons were gathered. Across the river from the castle is Eton, the mother of many generations of illustrious Englishmen, her walls scarred with immortal names, carved by boyish hands for centuries—Eton, upon whose playground Wellington testified that he got the training which enabled him to beat Napoleon at last.

Nor is Windsor itself less striking and significant than its surroundings. The great gray towers which have seen many a stubborn siege guard a treasure of surpassing excellence and beauty. From the Waterloo room, with its great battle painting and historic trophies, to the old oak paneled banquet hall, with the arms of every knight of the Garter, from King Edward's time down to the present, hung upon its walls; from the old bed chambers, with their quaint furniture and their portraits of Stuart, princes and fine court ladies, by Lely and Kneller, to the splendid chapel of St. George, with its noble monuments, Windsor Castle, more than any other spot, except Westminster Abbey, embodies the national spirit of the English people.

Of course, the Queen occupies only a comparatively small portion of the present castle herself. Her private apartments are in a wing, the approaches to which are guarded by soldiers, even when her Majesty is not in the residence.

The Queen seldom enters the state apartments now. When she receives the Prime Minister or any member of the royal family it is in her own room. One of the very few occasions when the grand staircase has been used of recent years was when Gen. Grant and Mrs. Grant visited the Queen at Windsor, and her Majesty received them at the head of the staircase. All presentations now are during the limited season when the Queen is at Buckingham Palace.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness, caused by catarrh, that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Last June Dick Crawford brought his twelve-months-old child, suffering from infantile diarrhoea, to me. It had been weaned at four months old and had always been sickly. I gave it the usual treatment in such cases but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25 cent size had been used a marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and pany constitution disappeared, and its father and myself believe the child's life was saved by this remedy. J. T. Marlow, M. D., Tamaroa, Ill. W. H. Nelson, who is in the drug business at Kingville, Mo., has so much confidence in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he warrants every bottle and offers to refund the money to any customer who is not satisfied after using it. Mr. Nelson takes no risk in doing this because the remedy is a certain cure for the diseases for which it is intended and he knows it. It is for sale by Reynolds' Pharmacy, Park and North Avenues, T. S. Armstrong, Manager.

It was remarked during a recent conversation, that Peck's store was a regular landmark in our city. If a person was being directed it would be said, "go to Peck's store and there in the next block, or first corner, or opposite, or near Peck's." Where is the man, woman or child that does not know where Peck's store is.

Ridiculously low are the prices on hunting and flags as well as on all Fourth of July goods found at Edsall's.
