THE VENETIAN ARTIST.

Prof. J. C. Van Dyke gave a Lecture on Art before the Plainfield Club. The Venetian Art Club are to be congratulated in securing such an interesting and talented speaker as Professor J. C. Van Dyke, of Rutgers College, to give his illustrated lectures on the Venetians. They after-wards were the center of the social lectures and the members responded in a most encouraging manner.

Prof. Van Dyke's subject was "The Great Venetian Painters of the Sixteenth Century and the influence of the minds of all a clearer conception of the great artists of Venice. They had the art of bringing out charm, dignity and beauty in the work that was not only a work of art, but a work of light and shade their productions were superb. The beautiful scenery surrounding their objects, with the deep blue Italian sky, for which they were noted, was indelible in beauty. The speaker said that their art work was not painted to be hung in galleries, but was intended for use in decorations, and so it was used. Their pictures were never displayed in beauty. A LONG TIME COMING BACK.

T. J. Carey Remembers Several Articles He Lost During the War.

Tania J. Carey seems to have remarkable luck in recovering lost property. Monday a friend brought to him an old combination knife, fork and spoon set. He found it was the early part of the war. On the handle was cut "T. Carey, 1862," while "Company A. Thirtieth Regiment," was scratched on the bowl of the spoon. This article was immediately recognized and Mr. Carey never saw it again until Monday. It was found among the old traps of a fellow soldier of Mr. Carey's by a young man who, seeing the name, recognized it to its rightful owner.

Two years ago Mr. Carey had returned to him a valuable army saddle that had been borrowed eighteen years before. He found it was the same up in an old shed at Bound Brook. Artist Julian Scott is now using it as a model for armor, led up.

Oh Come, Let Up.

The Plainfield Courier of yesterday has the following:

But, Mr. Courier, it snowed yesterday some three inches in depth—unseasonable. Many people had not yet seen snow. The snow was a great may die. All these ill, too, you should charge to the "old catches" which were investigated by the Senate Investigating Committee." Are you sorry that you cannot charge to the "old catches" which were investigated by the Senate Investigating Committee?

OLD NASSAU MEN DINE.

TIGER-SIS-BOOM-AM! PRINCETON IN THE CASINO LAST NIGHT.

Plainfield Graduate of Princeton Have Their Third Annual Dinner—A Jolly Time Enjoyed around the Board.

The Princeton tiger would have been a source of delight could he have been present at the Casino of the Union County Country Club Tuesday night and seen the jovial gathering of the Alumni of old Nassau under the banner of black banner and heard the sentiments of love and sympathy expressed for their Alma Mater. It was the occasion of the second annual dinner of the Princeton Club of Plainfield and its great success predicted wonderful things for the future of the club. The gathering was not a very large one but the true Princeton spirit pervaded all. Old staid business men forgot the cares of Wall street or the stock exchange, professional men threw their anxiety to the wind and one and all joined in doing honor to the grand old college that sent them out into the world better equipped for the struggle than the graduates of other colleges days were told and they joked and laughed about their experiences in the quaint old Jersey town.

The room was handsomely decorated for the occasion. The walls were of black, of course, predominating. A large Princeton banner was hung across the stage and another was suspended from the ceiling above the stage. The stage was decorated with black bunting was draped over the doors and about the electric light fixtures and hung in artistic folds from the balcony on the roof of the large hall. The Princeton flag, Princeton flags, bunting and two large green dragons, immovable guardians of the feast, added to the splendid appearance of the room.

The table was prettily decorated with orange and black satin ribbon. The dinner was an excellent one and reflected much credit on Max Wertz, the caterer. The party that gathered last night to do honor to New Jersey's oldest college consisted of Dr. Hayes, Leonidas Dennis, J. R. Joy, Prof. John G. Hibben, Rowland Cox, Adrian H. Joline, Edward C. Perkins, William R. Wilder, Rev. W. H. Mearns, Seymour John Magee, Dr. W. H. Murray, Dr. E. W. Hedges, Alfred E. Holmes, Wm. N. Bunyon, Edward C. Petrie, Orville G. Waring, Hugh B. Reed, Dr. Van Dusen, Dr. F. R. Brady, Frank C. Mearns, Kaufman, Dr. H. H. Hedges, Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, Edward Patterson, Max Munger and Daisel Schoonmaker.

The chairman in charge of the dinner consisted of Harry Munger and Dr. B. Van D. Hedges. After the repast had been concluded and the diners had settled back for a while, the speaker, Harry Munger, presented Rowland Cox and addressed a few introductory remarks to his fellow Princetonians, telling of a recent visit to Princeton and declared it to be the loveliest place in the world. He then introduced John G. Hibben, '82, who responded to the toast "Princeton University." Prof. Hibben was greeted with the rousing Princeton yell followed by "Hibben." Prof. Hibben then introduced the speaker, "Old Nassau" and characterized its growth as an evolution and not a revolution. The noted acts of some of the graduates and the many prominent places they had occupied in the world that are held by them, were referred to. As a member of the faculty he spoke of the high literary spirit among the undergraduates. Athletics, academic system, vogue and literature, but the main principle of all was that they should be pure. Young Brook, who was drowned at Elberon in attempting to save the life of a young woman, he referred to as the noblest type of the perfectly manly athlete. Garrick, the winner at the Olympian games, was also spoken of as having the true manly Princeton spirit. Prof. Hibben then then placed the Princeton system and literature, but the main principle of all was that they should be pure. Young Brook, who was drowned at Elberon in attempting to save the life of a young woman, he referred to as the noblest type of the perfectly manly athlete. Garrick, the winner at the Olympian games, was also spoken of as having the true manly Princeton spirit.

President Cox next read an account of the Olympic games and proposed the health of Garrick, who distinguished himself there, in which all joined.

Dr. H. Joline, '70, was the next speaker and answered to the toast "The Alumni." After an eulogy on New Jersey, an especially Princetonian, he made some remarks, he told of the board of trustees, the undergraduates, and finally the alumni. He told very wittily of the functions and duties of the alumni. He then introduced the speaker, "Old Nassau" and characterized its growth as an evolution and not a revolution. The noted acts of some of the graduates and the many prominent places they had occupied in the world that are held by them, were referred to. As a member of the faculty he spoke of the high literary spirit among the undergraduates. Athletics, academic system, vogue and literature, but the main principle of all was that they should be pure. Young Brook, who was drowned at Elberon in attempting to save the life of a young woman, he referred to as the noblest type of the perfectly manly athlete. Garrick, the winner at the Olympian games, was also spoken of as having the true manly Princeton spirit.

Edward C. Perkins was next introduced by President Cox to respond to the toast "Harvard." He spoke highly of the Jersey college and congratulated the club on selecting a night when the praises of Princeton are being sung throughout the country on account of the great victory of her athletes at Athens. He closed by wishing Princeton a great future.

A witty little introduction by President Dennis followed the response to the toast "Orange Boveri," by Leonidas Dennis, '84. His speech was full of humor and his listeners were kept in a continual roar of laughter. One of the great weaknesses of Princeton, he said, the attitude of the press, which never fully represented the side of Princeton. He spoke of the advantages other colleges had gained in Plainfield, but declared that the Orange and the Blue would finally triumph, but that in victory or in defeat she would still wear the banner of honor.

Princeton's great rival in the athletic and literary world, Yale, was represented by James R. Joy, who was the next speaker. The familiar tune of "Brahm of Gilnet" greeted him and then he spoke entertainingly of his college and the life of its hosts. He said he hoped the greetings of Yale and hoped that the Princeton Club would grow and flourish, provided, of course, the Yale maintained the same ratio in size she held at present. Princeton and Yale are, he said, the nearest allies of all the American educational institutions, and graduates of both colleges are the best of friends. All through the history of this country Princeton and Yale men have stood together and the graduates of these two colleges have been the best of friends. He said he had been felt farther than any other institution in the country.

The last toast, "The Tiger," was responded to by William R. Wilder, '78. Mr. Wilder told of his efforts to discover who and what "The Tiger" is and read a letter to Prof. "Bill" Libby and its reply. He found, so he said, some crumbs of comfort in the qualities given to "Mrs. Tiger," his Arable derivation, and in the dictionary meaning of "Tiger." He finally ended his very entertaining and witty speech by suggesting that "The Tiger" should take "it" back to college with him.

Between the courses of the repast the well-known college songs were sung. A number of ladies viewed the banquet with interest and interest. Then, after the speechmaking was over, the men arose and joining hands sang "Auld Lang Syne" ere departing.

MRS. McCUTCHEEN'S FIRST TEA.

A Delightful Social Event Given at a Private Residence.

The possibility of snow storms scarcely entered into the calculations of those who planned to give teas in Easter week, but the unexpected has happened this season and the tea given by Mrs. McCutcheon, which has been preceded or accompanied by a fall of snow instead of sunshine and spring flowers, were found in the midst of a blizzard. Mrs. McCutcheon Tuesday afternoon when a tea was given her friends. The decorations were pink roses and pink shaded lights, producing a charming effect.

Mrs. McCutcheon was assisted in receiving and in the dining room by Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. Horne, Mrs. O. Leonard, Mrs. J. H. Hedges, Mrs. H. H. Hedges, Miss Wilson and Mary Thompson. The table was presided over by Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Charles Smith. This tea is the first of a series, Mrs. McCutcheon being at home to her friends Tuesdays in April.

Jokers for the May Term.

The pet jurors for the May Term were drawn by Sheriff E. E. Wertz, special session of court yesterday morning. Judge McCormick presided, and the Sheriff was assisted in the proceedings by Court Clerk North and Sheriff E. E. Wertz, former Newburger. The following jurors were drawn from this city: James M. Morrison, Frank L. C. Martin, William W. Correll, J. Hervey Smith, Dr. Charles E. Wertz, Dr. R. Mattox, John M. Crane, George A. Ha'lock, John H. Doane, Philip MacIntyre, Herman F. Schellenberger, Morpyn Turton and Henry W. Marshall.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be pure. Given by Sheriff E. E. Wertz, special session of court yesterday morning. Judge McCormick presided, and the Sheriff was assisted in the proceedings by Court Clerk North and Sheriff E. E. Wertz, former Newburger. The following jurors were drawn from this city: James M. THE NEW PRESIDING ELDER.

A Short Sketch of the Ministerial Work of Rev. G. W. Smith.

Rev. G. W. Smith, whose last Saturday published the following sketch and picture of Rev. George W. Smith, the new presiding elder of this district:

Mr. Smith is one of the leading men of his conference, and was chosen to the last session to represent it, with four other clergymen and two laymen, at the general conference to be held in Cleveland during the month of May.

REV. GEORGE W. SMITH.

The Elizabeth District extends in the State from Newark by nearly to the Delaware river, along the main line of the Central railroad and the Flemington branch and includes Rahway, Woodbridge, Millstone and Metuchen, and Staten Island, in all fifty-five churches, over which the presiding elder has supervision, requiring quarterly visitations. Elizabeth, being the most central point in this district, is usually selected by the presiding elder for his residence.

The change was unexpected, but was made by the bishop at the earnest solicitation of the Summit church for Dr. Ryman to become its pastor. The appointment of Mr. Smith gives great satisfaction to both ministers and churches in the district, and Dr. Ryman leaves it, after three years of efficient service, with the regret of all.

ACCEPTED A COIN COLLECTION.

Mr. Herbert Johnston Makes a Valuable Contribution to the Library.

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Public Library was held last Tuesday. Directors A. C. Baldwin, J. E. T. Brown, Ronald Cox and J. W. Yates were absent.

President M. W. Tyler reported that he had presented to the Common Council a valuable collection of books, the last meeting, requesting them to accept additional tax of $7,000, but they declined to order and levy the tax.

A letter was received from J. Herbert Johnston, of New York, tendering to the Library a valuable collection of books, the last meeting, requesting them to accept additional tax of $7,000, but they declined to order and levy the tax.

On motion, the president was instructed to write Mr. Johnston and accept the gift, and to extend to him the thanks and appreciation of the board for the gift. The matter of providing accommodations for the college was referred to the art committee.

THE OLD MEET THE NEW.

A PLEASANT RECEPTION GIVEN AT THE Y. M. C. A. LAST NIGHT.

The Old Members of the Association Greet the Younger Men, and Entered into a Social Hour.

It is possible for young men to be sociable and make their fellows feel the same, and when the "old fellows" of the Y. M. C. A. gave a reception to the "new members" last Tuesday, the deed was self-evident from the oldest to the youngest member present. J. W. Gavett, Philip Suffern, Thomas Cumming, J. A. V. Craighead, James Kimball and Robert Radford, Jr., composed the reception committee on duty and it was very little time to do for, everyone was sociable. Each one was provided with a diamond-shaped tag, which distinguished the old from the new, also giving the name of the woman and the time joined. This afforded an excellent channel for introductions. George R. Cornwell called the members together in the small hall, after which President Murray, in a few well-chosen words, introduced Alfred E. Pearsall, of Westfield. As an entertainer, Mr. Pearsall is well known, and the hearty reception accorded him last night was well merited. He related the story of "Singing Joseph" and "A Night of Trouble." Josiah Allen and his wife Samantha figured largely in the last named selection. Both selections brought forth loud applause.

President Murray followed by making a few announcements. He said that the season was coming when the members would prefer out-door diversions, and the association cognizant of the fact, had provided a summer camp at Northfield, Mass., a good place to spend a vacation. He also spoke of the baseball team which would furnish sport on the Crescent Oval, and the wheeling section which would make tours around the State visiting various associations. A camera club would also be organized and rooms would be set up for the member's use. The grounds in the rear of the building will be graded and arranged for basket ball and light out door sports.

The annual meeting of the association would be held May 10th, and a supper will be served to the members of the Get One Club. Next Sunday afternoon at the men's meeting a very interesting letter from "Broad Way of the Y. M. C. A." Mrs. Brooke will sing, Raymond McGee will play the cornet and Martin Kraft will play the violin.

The very much improved when President Murray on behalf of the association presented general secretary Harry Manning with a handsome Cleveland wheel special bicycle. When Mr. Manning accepted the gift, he was so happy that he could not speak. Finally he said he was not able to make a speech, but Rev. Mr. O'Donnell who was present, read a letter from the association, and it was "Blessed is the man who, having nothing to say, loses no time in saying it." He said he would lose no time in saying it.

Mr. Pearsall then gave the "Soldier's Story in Song," and "Ben Deane." Both were superbly rendered.

The reception committee served ice cream and refreshments, and the sociability, refreshment and college songs the most successful reception ever held was brought to a close.

IN HONOR OF HER FRIENDS.

Miss Mary Collier Gives a Party and Dance at the Olympia.

A party and dance was given last evening at the Olympia by Miss Collier, of East Sixth Street, in honor of her guests, the Misses Ella and Della Phillips, of Wilmington, Del. A very pleasant evening was spent by the guests, and the dancing was during the evening. Leap year was remembered by a "leap year" dance in which the young ladies selected their own partners.

Those present were the Misses Julia J. Robinson, Mary Ketchum, Lillian Gile, Agnes Langhorne, Grace Crane, Bertha Thorne, Leonore Carl, Mabelle Smith, Edith Manning, Louise Gane, Miss Newell, Lucie Palmer Davis, Cora W. H. Hedges, Miss E. V. Van Deventer, Edith I. Bart, Amy Bart and Mary A. Luckey; the Messrs. Wilbur T. Cornwall, Henry Brower, Walter Froloscoe, Arthur R. Gorman, Joseph H. Hedges, George W. V. Van Thomas U. Smith, Charles Noble, Franklin P. Noble, John De Meza, Alvah Davis, Arthur W. Vall, Volney F. Green, Charles F. Davis and Berry Egan.

It is not a miracle. It won't cure everything, but it will cure pleurisy, colds, coughs, whooping cough, croup, and all the ailments of children, being pleasant to take and quick in curing. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

MISSIONARY WOMEN MEET.

A Lecture Delivered by a Missionary From Burnham.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Mission Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Considering the weather, the attendance was remarkably good. Mrs. W. H. Moffett opened the meeting with devotional exercises, after which M. B. Kirkpatrick, a worker in the Burnham missions, under the direction of the American Baptist Union, was introduced and gave an interesting review of his seven years work on the mission field. He told of the many peculiarities of the people with whom he had been associated. In some sections of the country, there were 50,000 people with not one teacher to tell them of Christ and his wonderful work. Another place consisting of 300 miles in diameter was mentioned where the same conditions exist. The people in that area are in a physical and moral point. The average number of patients in the hospital will number twenty-five per day. When a native goes to jail his family is supposed to take care of him, and in some cases the family is so poor that they are unable to do so. The hardest thing in this country is to convince people that they are lost, but it is not so in Burnham. The heathen know they are lost, and the great of him is to convince them of the terrible destiny, but still it is difficult for them to understand redemption. The work is progressing very favorably, however, and the natives are rapidly learning of Christ. An instance of where a village consisting of about 100 persons were converted, was cited by the speaker.

During the meeting Mrs. Rand read two very interesting letters from foreign missionaries who are located in Burnham, telling of their productive work in that country.

An informal discussion followed with many valuable points regarding mission work were brought out.

TROLLEY INVADES ANOTHER STREET.

Work Started on Watching Avenue Extension This Morning.

Rumors of fresh trouble changed the plans of the trolley line contractors. Work started on Wednesday they began work on Watching avenue, between North Avenue and Fifth street, which they expect to complete today. It was understood that a trolley car was on Watching avenue was going to run on an objection to the laying of the tracks. He did not appear this morning, however, and work went on without hindrance. The very much improved when President Murray on behalf of the association presented general secretary Harry Manning with a handsome Cleveland wheel special bicycle. When Mr. Manning accepted the gift, he was so happy that he could not speak. Finally he said he was not able to make a speech, but Rev. Mr. O'Donnell who was present, read a letter from the association, and it was "Blessed is the man who, having nothing to say, loses no time in saying it." He said he would lose no time in saying it.

Missionary Work in Africa.

A. B. Cramer, a missionary in the Congo region, Africa, gave a very interesting talk on the modes of life and the great difficulties of the work accomplished in that section of the Dark Continent, in the W. C. T. U. rooms last Monday before a fair-sized gathering. The speaker told of the great difficulties of the work which exists among the natives. The witch doctors, also, have a great influence over the natives. Mr. Kirkpatrick, a missionary from Burnham, was present and made a few remarks. Cramer will return to Africa in the fall.

Died at a Wife Old Age.

The death occurred Tuesday morning of Mrs. Clara Spicer, a sister of the late Mrs. Job Male, at the home of J. D. Spicer, of West Fifth street. She was in her ninety-first year and one of Plainfield's oldest inhabitants. She has lived in this place about twenty years. She kept house for the late Mayor Job Male, for some time. After the latter's death she resided with Mrs. W. L. Titaworth, of Watching avenue. She was a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal church. The funeral will be held from her late residence tomorrow morning at 9:30. The interment will be at Middletown, Monmouth county.

3,000 DEATHS A DAY.

Starting Statistics in Regard to Consumption.

Some Also the Properties of

Cure-Analyst of the Dread

Disease.

When we visit a factory where there are the most delicate and most dangerous machines, we cannot avoid wondering how indifferent the workmen are to the danger about them. Saws and knives are rapidly used, yet no one seems to think of danger. Long association with danger causes indifference to it.

Yet the statement was made that there was a contagious disease abroad

in the land which was killing people at the rate of 3,000 a day in Europe.

Every day in New York State, and nearly 100,000 in one year in the United States, every one would be aroused to action. Yet such a condition exists in the lungs, and the above figures concerning it are taken from recent reports of the United States, and are not the disease in our midst, that we do not fully understand its terrible nature.

Yet it is surprising how many recover from this disease. Even after the Skilful attention given to all cases of eye strain, headache, etc. No
