TWO TWO LEGAL ORDINANCES.

The State Upon Which the Supreme Court Decides That Joseph M. Lee Was Not a Water Franchiser in Plainfield. The Council of the Mayor, Corporation Council and the Five Minority Members of the Common Council Fully Upheld by the Decision. It Clears Up a Very Disagreeable Piece of Business All Around.

The readers of the Courier alone had the information last evening of the decision of the Supreme Court in the Low Judge Magie handed in the opinion which is most interesting to every Plainfielder. It cited as the ground for laying aside the water ordinance which the "Big Six" persisted in passing over Mayor Gilbert's veto, that the ordinance failed to mention the names of the six associations which Mr. Low proposed to have with him in his big scheme. This fact alone was pointed out by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, when the ordinance was submitted to him. The "Big Six" reported this fact to Low, but the would-be Water King said it didn't make any difference and so the defective ordinance went through.

In the case of the sewer ordinance, the amendment to the act of the Legislature governing the laying of sewers, and which was designed to restrict the provisions of the act to cities of the third class was declared to be unconstitutional and as the ordinance was based on this act, it was thrown out as illegal. The court also mentioned that these defects were sufficient to throw out the ordinances without considering other manifest defects.

These decisions have proved to Plainfield people the wisdom and foresight of their honored Mayor. Mr. Gilbert declined to sign these ordinances because they were manifestly wrong, not only in spirit but in the manner of their passage. When the majority, however, passed them over his veto, he refused to sign the contracts and thus involve the city further in the financial slough which threatened. His veto message was clear, business-like and convincing. Yesterday the State's Supreme Court set their seal of approval upon his veto.

Mr. Marsh, too, is entitled to no small meed of credit. It is only an other evidence that his advice is good advice and has never let the city astray. And from the Councilmen who stood steadfast, who expostulated and pleaded against the reckless majority but were voted down, have only reason for further congratulation. The people endorsed their action last December and the courts have just done so.

Naming the Candidates!

THE CONVENTION HERE FOR BLAINE TWENTY-FIVE MINUTES.

Wolcott Nominates the Planned Knight and Richard Thompson Nominates the President. McKelvey's Name Brings Out a Big Measure of Enthusiasm.—The Balloting Likely to Begin Late in the Afternoon.

BY WIRE TO THE COURIER.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 10.—The nominations will be made before daylight, if it is, unless all signs fail. The mere mention of a candidate's name set the convention wild with excitement to-day. When Blaine's name was presented by Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, the enthusiasm broke out. The rival factions in turn cheered their candidate, though in point of noise Blaine seemed to take the lead. It is not likely that either the President or his ex-Secretary of State will be nominated. Keep cool and don't bet.

MATTHEWS.

(BY WIRE TO THE COURIER.)

MINNEAPOLIS, June 10.—The Convention re-convened this morning at 11 o'clock. At quarter past twelve Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, nominated Ex-Secretary of State in a speech that was pronounced a perfect gem. The nomination was received with wild cheers. Richard Thompson, of Michigan, presented the President's name. "I nominate," said he, "for the President of the United States the wise statesman, Benjamin Harrison." The close of the speech was followed by cheering which lasted for several minutes.

The managers of the Blaine campaign say the President cannot be nominated. They are talking and acting mysteriously, and there are plenty of rumors that they will bring out a dark horse.

This morning they give no figures of the anti-Harrison strength, but say that a safe majority of the delegates will not vote for the President when the final test comes.

It is generally agreed that a nomination will be made not later than the second ballot, and the President's friends say the roll will be called only once.

A LABOR SAVING DEVICE.

An Improved Method of Spoking Wheels. Which Will Prevent Rust and Consequent Breakage. John Vetterlein, of This City, Has a Patent in the Invention.

John Vetterlein, the machinist of Exchange alley, has just secured a patent for an improved spoke for bicycle wheels. The best quality of steel is used in the manufacture of spokes for the wheels in use at the present day. Their most vulnerable part is where these spokes enter the rim. Many manufacturers stick pins which they use to prevent them from rusting, but they find it impossible to so protect the screw threaded ends. Rust will come, no matter how much care is taken and here is where the breakage comes. Mr. Vetterlein's patent covers just this point. It consists of a nipple, set into the rim of the tire in such a manner that the spoke is screwed into it. This both holds the spoke firmly and adds to its strength. The nipple is set into the rim, flush with the inner side, and being heated prevents the spoke from coming through and injuring the tire. This nipple also is so constructed that any rider can, with the aid of a small monkey wrench, put in new spokes himself at a cost of about twenty cents each, and besides, can reshape an entire wheel in place of a couple of hours.

Mr. Vetterlein has had a number of orders for his patent from some of the largest cycle manufacturers in America, but thus far has refused to sell. His idea is to put his patent out on royalty, so that it will be of benefit to wheelmen of the world. He has applied for several other patents looking towards the improvement of the manufacture of the spokes and hubs of wheels, and expects they will be granted to him by the first of July.

His ideas are all practicable and are the result of observations which he has made while in the bicycle repair business. His interests will be fully protected by European patents.

Members of the Crescent League Wheelmen are requested to report at club house this evening at 7:30 o'clock for a club run to Rahway. Captain J. A. Haynes in his official notice says: "The pace will be moderate and no recording."

THE BELL ORDINANCE ALL RIGHT.

A Statute of the State Gives Citizens a Right to Place Bell Ordinances as They Please Regarding the Pedestrian Whistle.—The Wheelmen Leader Comments Sharply Upon the Demonstrations Made in that Village Last Week.

Some weeks ago, an ordinance was introduced in the Common Council which provided that when a bicyclist approached a carriage or vehicle on any of the public streets of the city, and desiring to pass, he should be given by the rider by ringing a bell or sounding a whistle, at a distance of not less than fifty feet from the said carriage or vehicle. This ordinance was amended at the last meeting of the Council, making it obligatory upon the rider to sound the whistle or ring the bell only when approaching a crossing when the said riders were not in plain view of the pedestrian. As this ordinance is practically the same as the other, the wheelmen of Plainfield feel somewhat incensed over the matter.

The clause of the ordinance which relates to the ringing of a bell or sounding a whistle when approaching a pedestrian or vehicle, has been thought by many to be useless and unjust, and that it will only lead to confusion and accident. Horses as a rule are not frightened by a bicycle rider at night, but the enforced ringing and whistling will be very apt to scare them. Some wheelmen have no objections to the clause of the law which provides for their carrying lighted lanterns at night, but they think that carriages and other conveyances should be included in the same provisions, as they do not consider it fair for such discrimination to be made against the wheelmen.

The Chief Counsel of the New Jersey Division of the League of American Wheelmen, G. Carlton Brown, of Elizabeth, in speaking of the matter, said that none of the wheelmen had made any complaint concerning the new law, but if any came he would refer law to ex-Assemblyman Foster Voorhees, of Elizabeth, the acting chairman of the League Committee on Rights and Privileges, and Herbert Knight, of Newark, who is the other member of the committee. If these gentlemen find sufficient cause for action, they will seek redress in the courts. Wheelmen have had to fight for their rights ever since the first wheel appeared and as bicycles are now recognized as vehicles by the law, they should not be discriminated against.

For the purpose of learning just what rights the wheelmen have in the premises, a reporter of the Courier consulted the Laws of the State of New Jersey. He found in the Laws of 1888 under section 3, of Chapter CLVII, the following: "And be it enacted that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent the passage, enforcement or maintenance of any regulation, ordinance or rule regulating the use of bicycles or tricycles in public streets, avenues, roads, turnpikes, driveways, parkways, and other public places in such manner as to limit and determine the proper rate of speed with which such vehicles may be propelled, nor in such manner as to require, direct or prohibit the use of bells, lamps and other such appliances, nor to prohibit the use of any vehicle upon that part of the street, road or parkway commonly known as the foot path or sidewalk."

According to this act, the Mayor and Council of the city or borough have the right to pass any law, ordinance or regulation which shall tend to the safety of pedestrians or vehicles upon any of the public streets from the misuse of bicycles. They also have full power to require the use of bells, lamps or other such appliances, if they see fit. Nothing can stop them from passing any such ordinances and enforcing them. Wheelmen, therefore, have no right to object to the ordinance as adopted.

In this connection it may not be out of place to call the attention of cyclists to an editorial which appears in the Westfield Leader of this week, on this very same subject. The reason attention is called to the article is because it is understood that some of the cyclists intend to try to show the citizens of this city this evening how absurd the recently enacted ordinance appears to them. The article should be carefully read by all intending demonstrators and it is to be hoped that they will decide to give up their proposed parade. It says:

"The means which some of the young people who ride bicycles have taken to show their disapproval of the ordinance lately passed by the Town Committee concerning the riding of bicycles upon the streets, are not such as will win the quiet and orderly portion of the community to their way of thinking. The Town Committee did not pass the ordinance in question without giving it careful consideration and in so doing it did not consider anything that would work hardship to the cyclists. They had no other object in view than that all might travel the village streets in safety, day or night, whether, bicycle, pedestrian, and the unbecomely disorder that some of the bicyclists created on the streets several evenings last week was an unwelcome and unjustified."

It was dangerous. It is but just to say that the other wheelmen disapproved such proceedings, and tried to dissuade the "young riders" from making such an exhibition of themselves. The older riders know what it was to ride a bicycle before the rights of a man on a wheel were acknowledged on the highway. They have had their wheels smashed, been run down, chased off the road and even lashed by hoggish team drivers. They appreciate the standing that the wheelmen now have upon the road, and they hate to see them turn back and trying a foolish injury. The warden displayed for peace and order displayed was a direct insult to the Town Committee, and through them to the law-abiding citizens of the town. It has not increased one iota the respect for the wheelmen or brought one thinking person to their side."

In the City Court.

The case of the city vs. Huff Brothers, for using foul language, will come up before City Judge Codrington to-morrow morning.

Hackman McCormick will also be arraigned to-morrow morning, for violating the hack ordinance.

Cornelius Glina has been summoned before Judge Codrington, to-morrow morning, upon complaint of S. A. Oriskany. The charge is for using foul language.

Struck by Lightning.

The dwelling house of David Morning, at No. 346 West Third street, was struck by lightning at 9:45 o'clock last evening. The bolt struck the chimney first, shattering it into fragments and tearing away a groove and about two feet of the slate roofing. The bolt also entered a bed-room on the second floor, in the rear corner of the building, and in this room the wall was also knocked down. In the garret the beams were set on fire, but the flames were extinguished by members of the family.

Claims His Name Was Forged.

Thomas Price went before Justice Wadsworth, last evening, and lodged a complaint against a man named Pierce, of Elizabeth, who, he claims, committed forgery in February, 1891, for salary. Price is special agent for an insurance company, and to the Justice he claimed to have good proof for the complaint.

Justice Wadsworth issued a warrant for Pierce's arrest; this morning, but as yet he has not been apprehended.

The Soldier's Monument.

Considerable dissatisfaction is being manifested among the members of the Grand Army Posts on account of the postponement of the soldier's monument matter by the committee. The veterans claim that nearly two hundred dollars have already been spent in drafting a design and sending out notices. This expenditure, they claim, was authorized by the citizens part of the committee, but was not concurred in by the Grand Army members.

—It is surprising, but yet it is not. The amount of butter J. F. MacDonald is selling, when you take into consideration that 30 cents per pound for the best creamery butter is extremely low.

—J. Bafferty, a dealer in fancy goods and notions, on Somerset street, was arrested by Special Marshal Job Codrington, of North Plainfield, last evening, charged with assault upon one of his employees. He was paroled on his own recognizance to appear before Justice Sperry for a hearing on Friday afternoon next.

HARRISON NOMINATED

HE POLLS A MAJORITY OF VOTES ON THE FIRST BALLOT!

The Expected Vote For Blaine Failed to Materialize and His Forces Went in Part for McKinley.—Great Excitement in the Convention During the Ballot.

PRESIDENT HARRISON.
(BY SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE COURIER.)
General Sewell moved for a ballot at 2.32 which was carried. At 3.03 the polling of States by the chairman began.

Total vote 906; no essay to nominate 454.

First balloting commenced at 3.17 and proceeded rapidly. Long before New Hampshire was reached it was evident the President would be re-nominated. The vote of Texas settled the business and the Convention broke into cheers.

The vote which was expected to go to Blaine proved to be very elusive. It went in part to McKinley, Reed and Lincoln.

At 4.22 p. m. McKinley takes the floor and moves that the vote be made unanimously for Harrison, which was done.

Opportunity for School Children.

The first meeting of educators appointed to arrange for an exhibition of State public school work at the World's Fair, was held last week at Trenton in response to a call issued by State Superintendent Poland. The committee got to work immediately and much was done toward organization. It was decided to prepare an extensive exhibit of all kinds of school work. Specimens of work are to be collected from all sections of the State to be subsequently examined by the executive committee, and the most creditable work selected. The pupils will prepare each sample of work on separate sheets of paper, and these are to be classified and bound in books. The members of the committee are as follows: State Superintendent, A. B. Poland; Principal, James M. Green, State Normal School, Trenton; Superintendent Harrington, Newark; Superintendent Randall Spaulding, Montclair; Superintendent Harry Sader, Jersey City; Superintendent J. A. Rinehart, Paterson; Superintendent Frank Lark, Trenton; Superintendent J. A. Dils, Elizabeth; County Superintendent John Terhune, Hackensack; County Superintendent H. B. Willis, New Brunswick; County Superintendent S. R. Morse, Atlantic City and City Superintendent H. B. Howell, Phillipsburg.

Base Base Chatter.

The game of the Plainfield Bicycle Club with the Flemingtons, which was to have been played to-morrow afternoon on the grounds of the Crescent League, is off. Johnston, the Bicycle Club pitcher, has a glass arm which is considerably out of condition.

The Elizabeth Journal's base ball correspondent's well, wait until Saturday and see."

In the account of the game played between the E. A. C. and Plainfield B. C. teams last Saturday, an injustice was done to Johnston, the P.B.C.'s regular pitcher. He was suffering with a lame arm, did not play, and therefore was not "knocked out of the box" as was stated in these columns. McLaughlin was the player who pitched in the first inning and to whom reference was made.—Elizabeth Journal.

A Chance For Speculators.

The old Central Railroad depot at Elizabeth will soon be torn down, and the new stations are about ready for occupancy. A large amount of goods have accumulated, which have been left by careless passengers or have been held for charges. They consist of an immense variety of umbrellas and parasols, some quite pretty and costly, and a whole carload of theatrical goods, once the property of the Duff Opera Company, of New York. It is proposed to dispose of the accumulation at auction, and speculators will find it a rich field for investment.

Sunday Music at Holy Cross Church.

Traded His Shoes and Skipped Town.

James Johnson, of Cottage place, dressed up in his best suit of clothes yesterday and borrowed a pair of his neighbor's shoes. He took the shoes to a Park avenue cobbler and exchanged them for another pair, receiving $1.50 in the bargain. This morning Cosmo Amos Moffett succeeded in locating the shoes and returning them to the owner. The shoe-maker has lodged a complaint against the alleged thief, but the latter has left town.

THREE DAYS OF WAITING

Then the Republican Convention Gets Down to Evening Session Work.

THE CREDENTIALS AND RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEES CAUSED THE DELAY.

BOTH SIDES BECOME VERY ANXIOUS.

Nothing Accomplished at the Third Session of the Convention—Committees Granted Further Time and World's Fair and Grand Army Resolutions Referred.—The Reported Collapse of the Blaine Name and the Assured Fate of His Name Would Not Be Presented to the Convention Caused Great Excitement.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 10.—The third day of the Convention found the Harrison and Blaine ranks decidedly in favor of settling down to the nominations with as little delay as possible.

The fact is that a good many delegates and visitors as well, who came here several days earlier than is customary in advance of the Convention, are beginning to get very tired of the eternal push and crush, and have been heard and drum corps whooping and howling at the close of the contest, and they did not relish the idea of the proceedings being contracted over Sunday.

Hence strong hints have been given to some of the Blaine majority of the committee on Credentials that it might not be policy to test so strongly the temper of the Harrison side of the Convention by prolonging the remaining contests solely in the interest of the Blaine managers, who claim would be made to improve the chances of their candidate.

PRESIDENT HARRISON.

Although the Committee on Credentials did not take a recess until 2 p. m., its members were in session again by 3 o'clock, and it was given out then that a partial recess would be made to the Convention at 11 o'clock and further time asked for.

Charges that the Convention Hall has been packed in the interest of Blaine were very freely made by the Harrison organizers. They said that every means, legitimate and otherwise were being resorted to so that the galleries might, if need be, create a stampede for Blaine.

The possibility that the nominating speeches would be made this afternoon, gave an added interest to the proceedings and increased the demand for tickets of admission.

At 1.30 p. m. it was reported that ex-Gov. Foraker, who had been hastily summoned to the Colorado headquarters immediately after the adjournment of the Committee on Resolutions was in conference with Chairman Gorman, Senators Teller and Wolcott, J. S. Foster and others of the anti-Administration leaders who have members on the Committee on Resolutions.

Chances were made to form a coalition of State delegates on one or other of the lesser names, but all of them were unsuccessful. Every effort to unite even the members of one delegation on the minor candidates was blocked by some Blaine or Harrison enthusiast who remained true to his allegiance. Some of these efforts to bring out dark horses were treacherous to the Blaine leaders. Senator Wolcott was heard to tell a delegate yesterday that he was "anything but a Harrison man."

This has been the position of the Silver State delegates from the beginning.

The Convention gathered slowly; at 11 o'clock perhaps three-quarters of the delegates were in their seats or in the aisles, but the galleries were not half full.

It has been a cold convention from the beginning and its coldness has never been more emphatic than on the morning of the third day.

Chairman McKinley came to his seat on the platform a few minutes before 11 o'clock, to the clapping of perhaps a hundred hands, and there was no demonstration of the kind of any other of the leaders.

Even the spontaneous Ingalls came down to his seat accompanied only by the clapping of his famous red necktie. There was the usual collection of notables just behind the Chairman's platform. Senator Smith, of Illinois, and Mr. McKinley sat side by side under the gallery. Assistant Postmaster General Blaine was in his accustomed place and Chairman Harry Bingham of Pennsylvania sat in the Clerk's seat.

A photographer had set up a big camera ready to take snap shots at the Convention in session.

GOV. MCKINLEY.

At 11.23 Chairman McKinley with a number of sounding blows of the new gavel endeavored to call the Convention to order, but it was some minutes before the buzz of the conversation ceased and the delegates took their seats and gave their attention to business.

Mr. Brush, D.D., Chancellor of the University of South Dakota, delivered the opening prayer.

Mr. Cuyler had tried to interrupt the prayer the Chair said the regular order was the report on credentials.

Mr. Cuyler was recognized and said: "The Committee on Credentials is still in session. It has been diligently at work and has achieved reasonable progress. It hopes to be able to report in full to-night at 8 o'clock and asks further time."

Gen. Sewell, of New Jersey, was immediately on his feet. Since no business could be done until the committee was ready to report he moved that the Convention take a recess until 8 o'clock.

Mr. Cuyler had tried to interrupt the prayer the Chair said the regular order was the report on credentials.

Gen. Sewell, of New Jersey, was immediately on his feet. Since no business could be done until the committee was ready to report he moved that the Convention take a recess until 8 o'clock.

ACCUSE THEIR FRIENDS.

The Louisiana Delegation Indignant at the Credentials Committee.

The Committee on Credentials re-assembled at 9 a. m., and took up the district contests from Louisiana, of which there were four. Considerable indignation is expressed by the Louisiana delegation who were turned down. Wednesday night at what they consider the injury of some of their friends in the Committee, through which they claim their case was given away.

After the presentation of arguments for the contestants by ex-Gov. Wornath, which is said to have been unusually effective, Mr. Chan plant, of Illinois, said the members from Georgia and Utah who had previously acted with the Blaine side, were ready then to vote for settling the question of the contestants but after some discussion by the delegates one of the Harrison men moved that ex-Gov. Kellogg be excluded and the remaining contestants be seated.

The intimation was made that the claim of the contestants was not entirely satisfactory to even the Harrison delegation. This, of course, the defeated delegates may, weakened the case before the Chairman. The effort was taken by a majority of three votes. There were two members of the Committee absent when the vote was taken and both these are claimed by the Harrison men.

Missouri Delegation in a Row.

The Missouri delegation almost came to blows over the selection of a National Committee to succeed the Chanany I. Wiley. The Kerens men claimed that Mr. Filley had not put the same

Whitlaw Reed.

Reed found where it would do the most good, and used it as an argument against his rejection. Filley, on the other hand, brought witnesses into Parlor D. the Nicollet to prove that he had always expended the funds judiciously. The talk was very rapid, the life being given movements of the Blaine supporters.

Talking to the Iowa Delegation.

The Iowa delegation had a meeting with the last night, and at that time before the assembling of the Convention. Several New York delegates who favor the Blaine side, were present, and a speech was made by Chanany M. Dewey, who was one of the Blaine delegation.

The report which was current early this morning that the Blaine boom had been made by State Delegates of substance, and that the Blaine boom would be placed before the Convention caused the greatest excitement, and the mysterious movements of the Blaine supporters, their hurried visits here and there, their secret conferences and strict discouragement led to the acceptance of the report as true.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 10.—The third day of the Convention found the Harrison and Blaine ranks decidedly in favor of getting down to the nominations with as little delay as possible.

At 11:22 Chairman McKinley with a number of sounding blows of the gavel endeavored to call the Convention to order, but it was some minutes before he could get the Convention to order, and the delegates took their seats and gave their attention to business.

Mr. Cullum, D.D., of the University of South Dakota, delivered the opening prayer.

Gen. Sewell, of New Jersey, was immediately on his feet. Since no business could be done until the committee was ready to report he moved that the Convention take a recess until 8 o'clock.

Mr. Cullum had tried to interrupt Gen. Sewell, but the Chairman stopped him. Then Mr. Cullum asked that pending the motion the Convention receive a resolution from him on the World's Fair.

Mr. Cullum sent up to the desk a resolution which was ordered read. It was as follows:

Resolved, That the World's Fair Columbian Exposition to be inaugurated in the city of Chicago in 1893 is rightfully considered by all citizens of this country, regardless of their political affiliations, as a great National undertaking, and in recognition of its character Congress should promptly provide by appropriate legislation for the purpose of enabling the government to discharge its express and implied obligations in connection with the fair.

After reading the resolution was referred to the Committee on Resolutions. The Chairman then announced that the question was on the motion to take a recess.

There were cries of no from all over the hall, and the motion was carried. A New York delegate called for a division. It was ordered as the eyes stood on the speaker and the motion was carried.

Even the spectacular Ingalls came down to his seat accompanied only by the clamor of his famous red necktie. Then after the usual collection of notables just behind the Chairman's platform, Senator Carey and Senator McKim sat side by side under the gallery. says that twelve more than the actual majority needed to elect a man to their names and said they were going to vote for Harrison. Reports were made by the delegates of the Harrison men who would vote for Gen. Harrison, bringing the total vote assured to him up to 32.

A Blaine Demonstration. The Blaine boomers indulged in a grand street parade last night, and the packed sidewalks of the thoroughfares through which the aggregation passed indicated that a large proportion of the population of the city were present out for the occasion. Everybody, boy or man, who wanted to carry a torch or a flag, or a banner, was welcome to fall in behind and go the length of the city.

In the various divisions were Blaine clubs from Iowa, Chicago, Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, St. Paul, St. Louis, and the Pearl Button Club of San Clara, Wis.

Just before the evening session commenced the impression prevailed that the Harrison men were doing it many of them being under the impression that the Pope has given orders to that effect and that such orders must be religiously obeyed.

COL. POLK BATTERED.

It is thought that With Proper Treatment Mr. Polk May Recover. WASHINGTON, June 10.—Col. L. L. Polk's condition is somewhat improved to-day and it is thought that with proper nursing he will recover. Col. Polk, from North Carolina and has been spoken of as the nominee of the Third party National Convention at Omaha. His case at one time was considered hopeless by his physicians. Dr. J. M. Hays, in diagnosing his case, said he had been ill for some time with hemorrhages from the bladder, caused, probably, by a tumor, and this it was feared was complicated with blood poisoning. Dr. J. Ford Thompson is the consulting physician.

The sudden change for the worse in Mr. Polk's condition which occurred Wednesday was entirely unexpected, the immediate cause of which was heart failure. The case which he has now survived. Twice during Wednesday the physicians thought Mr. Polk had expired, but each time he rallied.

Col. Polk was born in Anson County, N. C., in 1837. A few years' attendance at a little local school house on his father's plantation, and the Deacon College completed his school life. In 1860 he was sent to the Legislature from his native county and was a member of that body during the intense excitement of the secession period.

He was a gallant and able soldier in the Union army and was the last Union soldier made in Anson County. He was the last Union soldier made in Anson County. He was the last Union soldier made in Anson County.

At the close of the war Colonel Polk became a farmer. At the Reconstruction Convention at Raleigh he was elected by a large majority over an exceedingly popular candidate. This convention repudiated the Confederate debt, endorsed the abolition of slavery, and in all ways turned toward the future with honest purpose to become loyal citizens of a reunited nation and restore prosperity to the State. For several years following the war Colonel Polk was without health. He did his own blacksmithing and carpenter work, and with his own hand held the plow. From this practical work he turned his attention to the relation of the farmer to the business world.

He became a careful student of the economic side of agriculture, he was instrumental in securing the establishment of the State Agricultural Department of North Carolina and was made the first Commissioner of Agriculture, a position which he held from 1885 to 1890.

Colonel Polk was a leading spirit at large meetings and a large organizer of farmers' clubs. In 1888, when the several farmer organizations consolidated at St. Louis, and formed the Farmers Alliance and the National Union, Colonel Polk was elected president and has twice since been re-elected by acclamation. He has published the "Progressive Farmer" at Raleigh, N. C., a paper of extensive circulation, and is now the official organ of the State Alliance.

JACK THE POISONER.

London Police Still Effort to Find the Name of the Poisoner. LONDON, June 10.—The poisoning of the two unfortunate girls, Shirval and Marsh, is assuming an international aspect. It is claimed that the alleged murderer, whose name is not given, formerly resided in the United States, and committed or attempted similar crimes in Brooklyn, N. Y. If the criminal reports are true, he must be a sort of Jack the Ripper, with the exception that he used poison instead of the knife.

It is asserted that the London and New York police have been in communication on the subject of the alleged food, and that the New York police have given important information to the London authorities. The police still withhold the name of the accused, and it is revealed there will be some public disclosure as to whether they have such a man.

FOR ALLEGED BREACH OF PROMISE.

Justice Hall, a former Actress, Wants $50,000 from J. W. Paige of Hartford, Conn. CONN., June 10.—Justice Hall, a former actress, whose stage name was Dorothea Lewis Hale, has filed in the Superior Court here a suit to recover $50,000 for breach of promise to marry James M. Paige.

The defendant is the manufacturer of the Palace typewriter and is a citizen of Hartford, Conn., where he is reputed to be worth two or three million dollars. It is alleged in the complaint that Mrs. Hale left the stage and lived in private for two or more as the wife of the manufacturer.

Mrs. McLaughlin Wants a Divorce. PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—Mrs. Caroline McLaughlin has filed a bill in the Common Pleas Court for a divorce from her husband, James McLaughlin, and for $25,000 damages. Mrs. McLaughlin has also brought suit against her husband for $25,000 damages. The complaint is held on a capital of $25,000. The respondent is the inventor of the storage street car motor, and is at the head of the McLaughlin Electric Company. He has made more than $100,000 by his inventions.

French Revolution Alarmed. PARIS, June 10.—The Royalists are thoroughly alarmed by the friendly attitude of the Yettos toward the Republic. From ports of France they are receiving word that Catholics who have hitherto adhered unwaveringly to the Republic are deserting it many of them being under the impression that the Pope has given orders to that effect and that such orders must be religiously obeyed.

High Water at New Orleans. NEW ORLEANS, June 10.—The Mississippi River at this point again adopted its usual course, the gauge at the New Orleans river wharf registering 17.5 feet. There is little or no danger of the breaking of the levees in front of or above the city, but this record will probably stand for some time to come.

McKinties Discharged. ALBANY, N. Y., June 10.—McKinties of Utica, charged with complicity in a robbery, were discharged by Judge Shaw.

THE OIL CREEK HORROR

Estimating the Loss of Life and Destruction of Property.

THE DEATH LIST MOST APPALLING.

Different Views as to the Monetary Loss. The calamity now known to have been caused by the Dam Being Worked. The situation at Oil City and Titusville.

Oil City, Pa., June 10.—Twenty-five bodies in all have been recovered from the wreck caused by the fire and flood here. There are many who believe that with the finding of a few more bodies the death roll will be completed, but the facts do not justify any such conclusion. Many others, among them men in authority, believe that the ground will maintain that the first estimate of 180 dead will be close to the final list.

One of these gentlemen states that the total damage to property will reach, if not exceed, $500,000, while the other says that $200,000 covers the entire loss. With the exception of five companies, no individual loss exceeds $10,000. In the case of the Oil City Works, the company will not receive the money for the policy held by it because the damage done was by water.

In this city seventy-five dwelling houses, in all, were destroyed. Sixty of these buildings were located on the east side of Oil Creek, mostly on North Seneca street, and the remaining fifty on the hillside on the west side. This is a list of all business houses, hotels, saloons, stores and manufacturing plants.

With this recapitulation, positively the latest estimates, comparison with other disasters that have occurred within the last century, leave no doubt that the calamity of June 8 was the greatest the oil region has ever known.

That twenty-five bodies lie beneath the ruins of Seneca street is now believed to be one of the terrible statistics of this harrowing catastrophe. Before the explosion of Sunday last the hotel boardhouse stood in the rear of the Oil City Works on Seneca street. Between twenty and thirty men were employed at the work.

When the shock of burning oil swept Seneca street, and with the smoke cleared away, not a vestige of the boardhouse except its ashes remained. The foreigners were nowhere to be found, and the awful suspicion that they perished with their homes seems to be almost accepted by the survivors.

Not one of these scores or more of foreigners has been seen since the women who kept the boarding house is also missing. The spot where the women stood in the ruins of the ruins. It has as yet been impossible to penetrate the ruins, and the bodies have been the place of at least twenty men.

At the headquarters of the Relief Committee, it is reported that the bodies of the families are represented in that number 34 persons are still missing, and ten men, whose names have been saved, have not yet been accounted for. They were in town Sunday, when the fire occurred.

THE DAM WAS A WEAK ONE.

Case of the Oil Creek Valley Disaster. TITUSVILLE, June 10.—The cause of the terrible flood here is at last known. After three days of speculation as to its origin, the careful investigation of the Spangenberg dam revealed the truth. The dam is 150 feet wide, and is what is generally known as a wet dam. This is the second dam of the kind that was built about 30 years ago by Eldred & Thompson to supply power for running their saw mill.

The remaining part of the dam, extending for thirty feet, was built on a soft and sandy soil, and was not particularly strong. This was the point where the failure occurred. The water had been rising for several days, and the torrent of rain which fell on Saturday night raised the level to such a height that the loosely built part of the dam gave way under the pressure of the water.

The flood which thus passed over it. The flood which thus passed over it. The flood which thus passed over it. The flood which thus passed over it. The flood which thus passed over it.

A pretty effect can be obtained by using pink gelatine.

THOSE TWO LIBERAL ORDINANCES.

The Bids Upon Which the Supreme Court Declines That Joseph H. Low Has No Power or Water Franchises in Plainfield.—The Council of the Mayor, Corporation Counsel and the Five Alder Members of the Common Council Fully Upheld by the Decision.—It Clears Up A Very Disagreeable Piece of Business All Around.

The readers of the Courier alone had the information last evening of the decision of the Supreme Court in the Low water and sewer ordinance case. Judge Magie handed in the opinion which is most interesting to every Plainfielder. It cited as its ground for laying aside the water ordinance which the "Big Six" persisted in passing over Mayor Gilbert's veto, that the ordinance failed to mention the names of the six associates which Mr. Low proposed to have with him in his low scheme. This fatal defect was pointed out by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh when the ordinance was submitted to him. The "Big Six" reported this fact to Low, but the would-be water king said it didn't make any difference and so the defective ordinance went through.

In the case of the sewer ordinance, the amendment to the act of the Legislature governing the laying of sewers, and which was designed to restrict the provisions of the act to cities of the third class was declared to be unconstitutional and as the ordinance was based on this act, it was thrown out as illegal. The court also mentioned that these defects were sufficient to throw out the ordinance without considering other manifest defects.

The decisions were proved to Plainfield people the wisdom and foresight of their honored Mayor. Mr. Gilbert declined to sign these ordinances because they were manifestly wrong, not only in spirit but in the manner of their passage. When the majority, however, passed them over his veto, he refused to sign the contracts and thus involve the city further in the financial slough which threatened. His veto message was clear, business-like and convincing. Yesterday the State's Supreme Court gave their seal of approval upon his course.

Mr. Marsh, too, is entitled to no small amount of credit. It is only an other evidence that his advice is good advice and has never let the city astray. And from the Councilmen who stood stoutly, who expected and pleaded against the reckless majority who were voted down, have only reason for further congratulation. The people endorsed their action last December and the courts have just done so.

Naming the Candidates!

THE CONVENTION CHEERS FOR BLAINE TWENTY-FIVE MINUTES.

Volcott Nominates the Plumed Knight and Richard Thompson Endorses the President.—McKibbin's Name Brings Out a Big Measure of Enthusiasm.—The Balloting Likely to Begin Late in the Afternoon.

BY WIRE TO THE COURIER.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 10.—The nomination will be made before midnight, that is, unless all signs fail. The mere mention of a candidate's name set the convention wild with excitement to-day. When Blaine's name was presented by Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, the enthusiasm broke out. The rival factions in turn cheered their candidates, though in point of noise Blaine seemed to take the lead. It is not likely that either the President or his ex-Secretary of State will be nominated. Keep cool and don't bet. MATTHEWS.

BY WIRE TO THE COURIER.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 10.—The Convention re-opened this morning at 11 o'clock. At quarter past twelve Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, nominated Ex-Secretary of State in a speech that was pronounced a perfect gem. The nomination was received with wild cheers. Richard Thompson, of Michigan, presented the President's name. "I nominate," said he, "for the Presidency of the United States the wise statesman, Benjamin Harrison." The close of the speech was followed by cheering which lasted for several minutes.

The managers of the Blaine canvass say the President cannot be nominated. They are talking and acting mysteriously, and there are plenty of rumors that they will bring out a dark horse.

This morning they give no figures of the anti-Harrison strength, but say that a safe majority of the delegates will not vote for the President when the final vote comes.

It is generally agreed that a nomination will be made not later than the second ballot, and the President's friends say the roll will be called only once.

A LABOR SAVING DEVICE.

An Improved Method of Spoking Wheels, Which Will Prevent Rust and Consequent Breakage.—John Vetterlein, of This City, Has a Patent in the Invention.

John Vetterlein, the machinist of Exchange Alley, has secured a patent for an improved spoke for bicycle wheels. The best quality of steel is used in the manufacture of spokes for the wheels in use at the present day. Their most vulnerable part is where these spokes enter the rim. Many manufacturers nickle plate their spokes to prevent them from rusting, but they find it impossible to so protect the screw threaded ends. Rust will come, no matter how much care is taken and here is where the breakage comes. Mr. Vetterlein's patent covers just this point. It consists of a nipple, set into the rim of the tire in such a manner that the spoke is screwed into it. This both holds the spoke firmly and adds to its strength. The nipple is set into the rim, flush with the inner side, and being beaded prevents the spoke from coming through and injuring the tire. This nipple also is so constructed that any rider can, with the aid of a small monkey wrench, put in new spokes himself at a cost of about twenty cents each, and besides, can respoke an entire wheel in a couple of hours.

Mr. Vetterlein has had a number of orders for his patent from some of the largest cycle manufacturers in America, but thus far has refused to sell. His idea is to put his patent out on royalty, so that it will be of benefit to whomsoever of the world. He has applied for several other patents looking towards the improvement of the manufacture of the spokes and hubs of wheels, and expects they will be granted to him by the first of July.

His idea are all practicable and are the result of observations which he has made while in the bicycle repair business. His interests will be fully protected by European patents.

—Members of the Crescent League Wheelmen are requested to report at club house this evening at 7:30 o'clock for a club run to Rahway. Captain J. A. Haynes in his official notice says: "The pace will be moderate and no scoring."

THE BELL CHURCHMAN'S STORY.

A Student of the State Office Given a Right to Place Such Bachelors as They Please Regarding the Pedestrian Whistle.—The Whistle Laid Commanded Sharply Upon the Demonstrations Made in that Village Last Week.

Some weeks ago, an ordinance was introduced in the Common Council which provided that when a bicycle rider approached a carriage or vehicle on any of the public streets of the city, due notice of such approach should be given by the rider by ringing a bell or sounding a whistle, at a distance of not less than fifty feet, from the said carriage or vehicle. This ordinance was amended at the last meeting of the Council, making it obligatory upon the rider to sound the whistle or ring the bell only when approaching a crossing when the said riders were not in plain view of pedestrians.

The ordinance is practically the same as the one, the wheelmen of Plainfield feel somewhat incensed over the matter.

The clause of the ordinance which relates to the ringing of a bell or sounding a whistle when approaching a pedestrian or vehicle, has been thought by many to be unconstitutional. They claim it to be useless and unjust, and say it will only lead to confusion and accident. Horses as a rule are not frightened by a bicycle rider at night, but the enforced ringing and whistling will be very apt to scare them. The wheelmen have no objections to the clause of the law which provides for their carrying lighted lanterns at night, but they think that carriages and other conveyances should be included in the same provisions, as they do not consider it fair for such discrimination to be made against the wheelmen.

The Chief Counsel of the New Jersey Division of the League of American Wheelmen, G. Carlton Brown, of Elizabeth, in speaking of the matter, said that none of the wheelmen had made any complaints concerning the new law, but if any came he would refer them to ex-Assemblyman Foster Voorhees, of Elizabeth, the acting chairman of the League Committee on Rights and Privileges and Herbert Knight, of Newark, who is the other member of the committee.

If these gentlemen find sufficient cause for action, they will seek redress in the courts. Wheelmen have had to fight for their rights ever since the first wheel appeared and as bicycles are now recognized as vehicles by the law, they should not be discriminated against.

For the purpose of learning just what rights the wheelmen have in the premises, a reporter of the Courier consulted the Laws of the State of New Jersey. He found in the laws of 1888 under section 8, of Chapter CLVII, the following: "And he is enacted that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent the passage, enforcement or maintenance of any regulation, ordinance or rule regulating the use of bicycles or tricycles in public streets, avenues, roads, turnpikes, driveways, parkways, and other public places in such manner as to limit and determine the proper rate of speed with which such vehicles may be propelled, nor in such manner as to require, direct or prohibit the use of bells, lamps and other such appendances, nor to prohibit the use of any vehicle upon that part of the street, road or parkway commonly known as the foot path or sidewalk."

According to this act, the Mayor and Council of the city or borough have the right to pass any law, ordinance or regulation which shall tend to the safety of pedestrians or vehicles upon any of the public streets from the misuse of bicycles. They also have full power to require the use of bells, lamps or other such appendances, if they see fit. Nothing can stop them from passing any such ordinances and enforcing them. Wheelmen, therefore, have no right to object to the ordinance as adopted.

In this connection it may not be out of place to call the attention of cyclists to an editorial which appears in the Westfield Leader of this week, on this very same subject. The reason attention is called to the article is because it is understood that some of the cyclists intend to try to show the citizens of this city this evening how absurd the recently enacted ordinance appears to them.

The article should be carefully read, by all intending demonstrators and it is to be hoped that they will decide to give up their proposed parade.

It says: "The means which some of the young people who ride bicycles have taken to show their disapproval of the ordinance lately passed by the Town Committee concerning the riding of bicycles upon the streets, are not such as will win the quiet and orderly portion of the community to their way of thinking. The Town Committee did not pass the ordinance in question without giving it careful consideration, and in their judgment does not contain anything that would work hardship to the cyclists. They had no other object in view than that all might travel the village streets in safety, day or night, whether, bicycle, pedestrian, and the unsavory disapproval of some of the bicyclists created on the streets several angry looks last week and are supposed to be manifested for this evening."

It was dangerous. It is not just to say that the older wheelmen discouraged such proceedings, and tried to dissuade the young "bunches" from making such an exhibition of themselves. The older riders know what is to ride a bicycle before the rights of a man on a wheel were acknowledged on the highway. They have had their wheels smashed, been run down, chased off the road and even lashed by hoggish team drivers. They appreciate the standing that the wheelmen now have upon the road, and they have to see them turn back and do nothing a positive injury.

The wanton disregard for peace and order displayed was a direct insult to the Town Committee, and through them to the law-abiding citizens of the town. It has not increased one iota the respect for the wheelmen or brought one thinking person to their side."

In the City Court.

The case of the city vs. Hoff Brothers, for using foul language, will come up before City Judge Codrington to-morrow morning.

Hackman McCornick will also be arraigned to-morrow morning, for violating the hack ordinance.

Cornelius Guina has been summoned before Judge Codrington, to-morrow morning, upon complaint of S. A. Cruikshank. The charge is for using foul language.

Struck By Lightning.

The dwelling house of David Morning, at No. 846 West Third street, was struck by lightning at 9:45 o'clock last night, shattering that into fragments and leaving a great groove and about two feet of the slate roofing. The bolt also entered a bed-room on the second floor, in the north corner of the building, and in this room the walls were knocked down. In the garret the beams were not on fire, but the flames were extinguished by members of the family.

Claims His Name Was Forgiven.

Thomas Price went before Justice Waterworth, last evening, and lodged a complaint against a Metropolitan Stable, of Elizabeth, who, he claims, committed forgery in February, 1891, for salary. Price is special agent for an insurance company, and to the Justice he claimed to have good proof for the complaint.

Justice Waterworth issued a warrant for Price's arrest, this morning, but as yet he has not been apprehended.

The Soldier's Monument.

Considerable dissatisfaction is being manifested among the members of the Grand Army Post on account of the postponement of the soldier's monument matter by the committee. The veterans claim that nearly two hundred dollars have already been spent in drafting a design and sending out notices. This expenditure, they claim, was authorized by the citizens part of the committee, but was not concurred in by the Grand Army members.

Bicycle Races.

Four hundred and fifty wheelmen, members of the Philadelphia Cycling Club, go to Newark this afternoon to join in the great century race.

It is surprising, but yet it is not. The amount of butter J. F. Macdonald is selling, when you take into consideration that 20 cents per pound for the best creamery butter is extremely low.

J. Rafferty, a dealer in fancy goods and notions, on Somerset street, was arrested by Special Marshal Job Codrington, of North Plainfield, last evening, charged with assault upon one of his employees. He was paroled on his own recognizance to appear before Justice Perry for a hearing on Friday afternoon next.

A RETROSPECT.

The last time we met and saw my dear friend, I thought that his death was near. I look on the world and the race of men. There is a great deal of suffering and sorrow in this world. But I shall be content as long as I can.

UNCLE ZABDIEL'S VISIT.

All the Barchester family had come to the conclusion, separately and collectively, that Uncle Zabeel was a person in his white dress with the straight, clinging folds, the "V" neck and the knot of roses at the corsage that looked so exactly like real blue and leaves.

"Oh, dear, how nervous you are," said Madeline, the eldest sister of all.

Madeline herself was hopelessly plain. She was that in her case. Her hair was in her dull orange-red. Her weak, pale eyes were red-lidded and slightly crooked, her nose long and straight.

But, nevertheless, Madeline was a genius in her way. Old Judge Barchester never could have been so successful as a creditor, privations and trials that beset him had not been for her help.

"Don't fret, papa," said the pale-eyed diplomat. "That idea of yours of giving up this very handsome house is all nonsense. Who cares what the landlord says?"

"I won't hurt him if he never gets it. Let the tradespeople rage; they are simply a set of slaves. Here's Bea, a first-class beauty, and if she has a fair chance she's sure to make the family fortune."

"Everything is arranged," said she, composedly. "I'll order the supper of Vaucuse. I had to pay something on my book indebtedness, but I took care to be as little as possible. Steiner's roses are down, and we've now received flowers there before and the poor folks are anxious to secure our custom."

Bea, the funny man, is to rectify; he has engaged for the evening. Miss Dale will sing a Scotch ballad. There are plenty of nice people there, and Madeline Dale, but every one else wants to be paid in advance."

"Oh, but we will pay them, Madeline, when we are able to do so," said she, composedly. "I'll order the supper of Vaucuse. I had to pay something on my book indebtedness, but I took care to be as little as possible. Steiner's roses are down, and we've now received flowers there before and the poor folks are anxious to secure our custom."

"Don't be silly, Bea," said she. "Every one in the world is now engaged in cheating everybody else."

"But, Madeline," burst in a shrill, small voice.

Madeline Barchester uttered an exclamation of annoyance.

"Without any ceremony Madeline pulled Honor and Endora from the room."

"Horrid little nuisances!" said she. "But here's a letter, Bea, that I didn't show you."

"If your uncle wishes to adopt my son," said Judge Barchester, "there's Madeline has the family letters, and these are the only ones left."

"And Nora and Dora have all the best and good letters in the family," said Judge Barchester. "I calculate I won't alter my arrangements."

"Women."

Among the seventy proprietors of the London Times are many women.

Mrs. Mary Lovell of New York, a practical electrician, has invented a contrivance by which the electric light can be turned on from her bedroom.

A man has been known to win a girl's heart for the first time by giving her a full set of a hammock, by simply turning his head the other way—Somersetshire Journal.

Mrs. General Grant once dined her friends by wearing mourning, the dress of which was so big and wide that it warranted the calling of the Fifth Avenue.

Mrs. Langtry, having received a fortune for getting her hair spoiled with the heat of the sun, she had it cut off and put it at all on her merits, and they do say she has one to her name—Judge.

A young man, who is a member of the American Society of the Sons of the Revolution, has been known to win a girl's heart for the first time by giving her a full set of a hammock, by simply turning his head the other way—Somersetshire Journal.

The wedding will be solemnized in London during the coming season. His father was formerly private secretary to Mr. Lincoln.

Mrs. Antoinette Knapp, a college educated woman, has been known to win a girl's heart for the first time by giving her a full set of a hammock, by simply turning his head the other way—Somersetshire Journal.

Mrs. H. A. Gould of Georgia is a refined woman. She gave her means and efforts to the cause of the colored people, and she has been known to win a girl's heart for the first time by giving her a full set of a hammock, by simply turning his head the other way—Somersetshire Journal.

The late Mrs. E. L. Davenport was a most charming and estimable woman. She was a beautiful girl, and married a man who was a first-class beauty, and she has been known to win a girl's heart for the first time by giving her a full set of a hammock, by simply turning his head the other way—Somersetshire Journal.

"I'll tell you, Uncle Zabeel," said she. "Nora and I aren't fools, nor yet chattering doves. We are not to be treated as shamelessly, and so we're going to be revealed by telling their secrets to the world."

"Well, I declare!" said Uncle Zabeel, reliving his bronchitis by the sudden change of air and growing very red.

"And so," again chimed in Honor, "I'll tell you, Uncle Zabeel, that we've lived at 14 Current court and kept out of the way of the company."
