

MISS BORDEN'S CASE.

Attempting to Fix the Crime on the Daughter.

SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY OFFERED

The Prisoner Attempted to Buy Prussian Acid the Day Before the Murder—No Sign of Blood on Lizzie's Dress on the Day the Crime Was Committed.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 30.—The court came on at 10:45 a. m. but the court room was thronged and the understanding details of the district court were listened to by those who were assembled.

Miss Adelaide B. Churchill was the first witness called. She lived next door to the Bordens. She saw Lizzie standing at the side of the side door, apparently distressed about something. She opened the door and asked her what was the matter. Lizzie said, "Oh, Mrs. Churchill, do come over, somebody has killed father!" She went over and asked where her father was. She saw him sitting in the room. She asked Lizzie where he was when it happened, and she said she was in the bathroom looking for some soap. She said she did not see any blood on Lizzie's dress, hands or feet. She said she saw Lizzie's hair was "done up" and appeared not to be disarranged in the slightest, and there was no indication by her appearance that any changes had been made since she arose.

Sensational Testimony. Miss Alice M. Russell, the next witness, said she had known Lizzie about ten years. When she first heard of the crime she went to the house and found Lizzie leaning against the door. The witness could not remember that there was any blood on Lizzie's dress, hands or feet. Lizzie told her, in answer to a question, that she went into the bathroom to get a piece of soap to use at a window with a pane of glass.

(Continued.) The next examination witness Russell said she had seen Lizzie's face after she went in, and saw no signs of blood on her face or on any of her clothing.

Startling Evidence. El Bence, drug clerk, testified that he remembered the day of the tragedy and was acquainted with Lizzie Borden. He said he saw Lizzie on the day before the crime, and that he saw her on the day before the crime.

The Whisky Trust Trial. BOSTON, Aug. 30.—The whisky trust trial will soon be resumed. President Borden's case is expected back about Sept. 1, and the case will be tried by the United States district court. The case is expected to be tried by the United States district court.

The Sanitary Officer at Gravesend Denies That the Disease from Which the Three Passengers of the Gemma Died Was Asiatic Cholera.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—What with the assertions and denials made regarding the presence of cholera in England, it would be hard to decide whether or not the cholera cases that have occurred have been true Asiatic cholera or not.

A bridge should be placed at the intersection of Park avenue and West Eighth street. The deep gutter at that place is an excellent place to wrench off the wheels of your carriage.

It might be a good thing to change the name of Crescent avenue to that of Riverside Drive, for the sprinkling carts keeps the roadway in such an excellent condition of ooze.

Three political conventions are called for the second week in September. The first is that of the colored men of New Jersey on September 12. The Republicans will meet on Tuesday, the 13th, and yesterday the Democratic call made its appearance for the Democratic State Convention on the 14th.

The children of Rev. J. W. Mitchell's church are rehearsing daily for an entertainment to be given in St. Mary's Church on the afternoon and evening of Labor Day. The entertainment is being arranged by Dr. Mitchell's daughters, and will consist of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, dialogues, etc.

A suggestion in railroad circles, which may be put into practice within the next few years, is that of keeping all points considered favorable to the operations of train wreckers lighted with electric light. A terrible wheel run by a mountain stream and small dynamo to manufacture the current, could be easily placed and run at no cost whatever for power. If the lights were put out by train wreckers, that would cause the engineer to have his train under control in approaching.

Three lone fishermen spent last evening fishing from a boat on Trier's lake. The boat was upset and the three were "flung" into the "wet."

The first train into the half-constructed train station of the new station of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad at Twelfth and Market streets, Philadelphia, rumbled over the iron span at Arch street, yesterday afternoon. It was a freight train with supplies.

This is not original.

A doctor who has given attention to the subject says that the reason people grow thin in summer is, they worry themselves out with travel and dissipation and cannot eat enough of the strange food they meet to keep their flesh up to the standard. This is probably true, and there are many people who are very well satisfied that it is so.

Another of the sixteen-inch pipes in the Water Supply Company's main on the West Front street, this morning, and for a time the supply was shut off in that section of the city.

A force of men was at once put to work repairing the main. Strange as it may seem, most all of the breaks have been in the big pipes, and the two last, have occurred within a hundred yards of each other.

It is seldom that the Courier takes any interest in prize-fighting. It will, however, be glad to record in the future that Corbett has "put to sleep" that old fighter, Sullivan, whose exploits, drunken and otherwise, the daily papers are so fond of recording. This worship of muscle is absolutely disgusting.

ROBBED IN THEIR ABSENCE.

David Baskin's House on Grove Street Entered by Robbers While the Family are at the Seashore.—Jewelry Taken but no Silverware Disturbed.

While David Baskin and his family, of No. 110 Grove street, were away at the seashore last week, a thief entered the house by prying open the latch on one of the parlor windows. When the family arrived home on Saturday they immediately discovered that the house had been ransacked. Bureau drawers had been ransacked and the contents scattered promiscuously about the room. But little of the wearing apparel was gone, but all of the jewelry the robber or robbers could find in the house, was taken.

Before leaving town the family took every precaution to securely fasten up their silverware, and this was left untouched. The back door was found open one day last week, which seems to be proof that the intruders left by that egress.

The North Plainfield authorities are under the impression that the place was entered by the same person or persons who robbed Augustus Van Deventer's house in Washington Park, a few weeks ago, and who stole all of their silverware.

Selling Off Unclaimed Articles.

Constable Carey, under direction of Sheriff Hicks auctioned off yesterday the unclaimed goods stored in the old Central Railroad depot at Elizabeth. There were many hundred umbrellas, parasols and canes sold. These were done up in bundles of a dozen each, and they brought good prices, ranging from half a dollar to $3.50 per dozen. Trunks and valises brought good prices, the purchasers thinking perhaps there were valuables inside. One man bought a satchel and found it filled with rags.

A long leather case which looked as if it might have been the property of a sportsman and contain a rifle, was bid for in lively fashion, and the purchaser found some half two brass ball bats.

There were many amusing scenes at the auction, which lasted most of the day.

City Judge Coddington Explains and Says That Wheelmen Must Look Out Hereafter.

In reply to article which appeared in the Courier of last Friday, Judge Coddington says that but two wheelmen have appeared before him on the charge of riding their wheels at night without having their lights on. As they had been arrested at a time when the ordinance was being published in the daily papers of the city, he did not think it would be right to fine them, as during the publication of the ordinance, he practically gave them free license to ride without lamps or bells at that time. He says that hereafter all wheelmen who violate the ordinance, and who are summoned to appear before him will be dealt with as the occasion may require.

A Dog Cart Wrecked on East Second Street.

A horse attached to a dog cart and said to be owned by a man named Beckman, of West Seventh street, ran away on East Second street, about eight o'clock this morning, and completely wrecked the cart. The horse became frightened and dashed away at a rapid gait. At the corner of Washington street the cart struck a telephone pole and was overturned. Mr. Beckman and a friend who was riding with him at the time were both thrown out, but fortunately neither of them were injured. The horse was caught near the corner of Second and Fence streets.

The Democrat Cannot Have It.

The Crescent Club, which has been a sort of house of contention between the Democratic and Republican parties of this city, has at last been secured by the latter for the coming campaign.

In it will be held all the Republican mass meetings, and it will also be used as a drill room for the marching and wheelmen clubs of the Republican Association. As the club room of the Democrats, is located in one of the stores in the front of the building, there will be an opportunity for the two parties to be very neighborly if they are so disposed.

Elizabeth's Health Board on the Alert.

The Health Board and other city officials of Elizabeth are on the alert for any contagious disease which may arise in that city. There was a recent danger that threatened the city with an epidemic of typhoid, cholera or some other contagious disease, and it originated in the thickly settled portion of the city. For months the physicians apprehended an outbreak of disease, and there was reason for sincere anxiety.

The matter was thoroughly investigated, and mainly through the efforts of Dr. Maving, as chairman of the Health Committee, the threatened district is being secured, and the health of citizens improved.
