

THE FINAL BANQUET.

Last Act in New York's Columbus Celebration.

SPEECHES OF FOSTER AND MORTON.

The Vice President Feelingly Refers to the Absence of Foster Responds to the "United States" Other Toasts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—As if to justify Sidney Smith's criticism that every event, even an earthquake, must be celebrated by the Anglo-Saxon race by a banquet, even if they had to hunt a place under the ruins on which to dine, New York's celebration of the discovery of America was closed by a banquet last night which was in a measure as successful as the ceremonies which had preceded it.

It was a night to eat most comfortably and dine over 500 guests, but this was accomplished by the celebration in a satisfactory manner. The auditorium of the Madison Avenue Hotel, fifty-ninth street and Madison avenue, where the feast was held, is an ideal banquet hall. Well lighted and airy, its natural advantages were enhanced by decorations and wonderfully artistic electric lighting.

The guests of honor dined on the stage, which was so draped as to resemble a banquet table. The music, consisting of the United States national anthem and the center-appeal of the Columbus celebration, by the flags of Italy, Spain and the United States.

Mayor Grant presided, supported on the right by Vice President Morton and Secretary Foster. The toast was given by Mayor Grant, who presided over the banquet, and was followed by the toast given by Mayor Grant, who presided over the banquet, and was followed by the toast given by Mayor Grant, who presided over the banquet.

A DETECTIVE'S ROMANCE.

McHenry Acknowledges That the Boston Story Was a "Take."

HE MAY BE INDUCED TO SPEAK.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 14.—Private Detective McHenry, the author of the romance in connection with the Boston case which was published in the Boston Globe, is now endeavoring to show to the Fall River authorities that he was working in their behalf, and that his interest was to bring the Globe reporter to book.

He alleges that he felt that the reporter was playing a part, and that he was trying to find out just what the reporter was up to, and for whom he was working.

McHenry says: "My only object in leading the reporter off on a wild goose chase was to see if the surmise held by me and others was correct, and in order that the paper he represented might not be led into error."

McHenry denies having received any money from the Globe man.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS.

—Special sale of Park Avenue clips at Tiers.

—Mrs. Genevieve W. Hoyt, the soprano, of Brooklyn, will assist W. E. Mac Olynnot at his free organ recital at the First Baptist Church on Tuesday evening next. It will not be necessary to obtain tickets for this recital as it will be free to all lovers of music.

—W. A. Woodruff reports the sale of the Lena Kine property on Summit avenue to Mr. Benedict of 29 Carlton avenue.

—The Court of Common Pleas will sit at Elizabeth this evening for the purpose of naturalizing foreign-born citizens.

—A new schedule in the running of passenger trains will take effect on the Central Railroad Tuesday. There will, however, but little change in the arrival and departure of trains from here.

—Miss Editha Naylor, the talented Dramatic Reader, will give a return entertainment on Tuesday, October 18, in Bethel Chapel.

—The Dunellen schools will be closed Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, as the teachers are all summoned to an Institute at Asbury Park. Middlesex and Monmouth counties hold a joint Institute.

—At the Fourth Ward Republican Club meeting on Saturday evening, there will be clamor for all who attend.

—An unfortunate man, who was under the influence of liquor, fell down a flight of stairs, on East Second street, Wednesday night, but he was only slightly injured.

—A fire in the parlor stove is not an unaccountable thing this weather.

—There is considerable talk about extending the Street Railway to Dunellen and Scotch Plains.

—The next joint debate of Somerset Council, No. 104, J. O. U. A. M., of North Plainfield, and Friendship Council, of New Market, will take place in the rooms of Friendship Council at New Market, on Monday evening, Oct. 31.

—Janitor Hope, of the Bryant School building, did not know that the Democrats in the Second Ward were to meet in the School building on Monday evening, until they began to arrive. Consequently the arrangements were not complete when the meeting was held.

—About a dozen Democrats met in F. M. Bacon's office, on North avenue, a few nights ago and attempted to hold a meeting. The lights went out, and for a time the handful of Democrats were in the dark. An effort was made to borrow a lamp from a neighboring cigar store, but without success, and the meeting adjourned sine die.

—A genuine old-fashioned slug-matching took place back of the Opera House, yesterday afternoon. There were three in the mill, but none of them were much hurt.

—It is understood that a "temperance house" is to be opened on West Front street, near Grant avenue. The proprietor, it is said, is a resident of Scotch Plains.

—The bowling team of the Crescent League will contest with the team of the Elizabeth Athletic Club on the latter's new alleys on Thursday evening, October 20.

—A young daughter of Benjamin Hand, of South Plainfield, was kicked on the breast by a horse, yesterday, and seriously injured. The child will be confined to the house for some time to come.

—The case of the Treasurer of the city of Plainfield against John J. Cahill, tried yesterday, before City Judge Edgerton and a jury, occupied about five hours. The case was for non-support, and Cahill was adjudged guilty. The defendant has been away in New Orleans for some time past, and was not returned to Plainfield, recently, the summons was served upon him.

—The Hotchkiss Sisters gave a very pleasing and satisfactory entertainment in the Warren Union Mission Chapel last evening, which was listened to by a good-sized audience. These sisters are thoroughly acquainted with the different kinds of instruments which they play. The different numbers on the programme were well received, and there were several encores. The Christian Endeavor Society of the Mission will receive a small benefit from the entertainment.

EXPONDERING TARIFF TRUTHS.

Col. Fairman, of New York, speaks to a Large Audience at the Republican Meeting in the Crescent Rink.

Several entertainments took place in the city last evening. The Hotchkiss Sisters were at Warren Mission and George Thatcher was at Music Hall. In spite of these entertainments, the Crescent Rink held over 500 people who had come to hear Col. James Fairman, of New York, talk about the tariff. Many of the people were of the fair sex, and it is a fact worthy of note that the large audiences which greet the speakers at the Rink always contain a goodly number of ladies.

Prior to the beginning of the meeting, Prof. Guttman's band paraded through the streets of the city and attracted a large crowd with their excellent playing. As soon as they reached the Rink about twenty members of the Republican League started out for a short run on their bicycles and it is almost unnecessary to say that they were accorded a perfect ovation wherever they went.

The meeting was called to order by Judge Ulrich, chairman of the City Executive Committee of the Republican Association. He nominated James L. Anthony, of Belvidere avenue, as chairman of the meeting, and he was unanimously elected. The list of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries were then read and elected. They were as follows:

Vice-Presidents—Dr. J. P. Probasco, B. Frank Coilell, James L. Glosson, William D. Lyon, Jr., Robert A. Meeker, George H. Babcock, J. Fred MacCall, Charles Fisk, William G. E. See, H. Otis Newman, Augustus D. Huggins, Tunis J. Carey, Townsend S. Hull, Charles B. Clifton, John G. Kane, John C. Manchester, Leander N. Lovell, Edward B. Ryder, Peter N. Kline, Abraham Anglemann.

Secretaries—William V. Stout, Daniel F. Ginn, Frank W. Runyon, Joseph N. Robinson, William Kline. Chairman Anthony then introduced Col. Fairman, of the 96th N. Y. Volunteers, Army of the Cumberland, and a great tariff expounder, to the audience, in a few well chosen words. Among the first things the speaker was doing during the past thirty years there has been but one election of any great moment beside the present one. The first one the people decided for themselves, in 1864, and it is to be hoped that they will be equally successful in deciding the present one. In 1864, the people decided that the country should live. To-day the question is to be decided, is whether the people are to be allowed in the future to get a living.

The speaker then went on to explain the meaning of the word "tariff." He said it was the levying or collecting of a certain per cent. or tax upon goods. In the case of the United States, it meant the collecting of a certain sum of money upon goods brought here from other countries. He said that there were two kinds of tariff. One was a free tariff and the other a protective tariff. Free tariff is the shibboleth of the Democratic party. It is a tariff for revenue only. It seeks to admit almost every kind of goods to the United States free of duty and only collect a small sum from a few articles, sufficient only to pay the running expenses of the Government. To admit so many goods free of duty, would be to destroy the careers of the cherished institutions of the United States, her manufactures. It would make it impossible for the manufacturers of the country to compete with those of Great Britain, the great free trade country, the ideal country from a Democratic standpoint. A tariff for revenue only, such as the Democratic party advocate, is a menace to the life and welfare of the producing industries of this country. Should it be enforced it means a lowering of wages, the cessation of many factories and a depreciated currency.

The speaker cited many instances showing how a tariff like the one which the Democrats seek to foist upon the country would be productive of great harm, and instanced free trade England as an example of the harm which it would do. He also showed that tariff protection, which the Republicans advocate, would be of great benefit to the country at large. Work will be plentiful, money will be easy, the currency will not be depreciated, and the public debt will be reduced, instead of increased, as it would be under Democratic rule.

Several attempts have been made to take a ballot, but the confusion is so great it has been utterly impossible to do so up to the present time (four o'clock).

It looks, however, as though Dunn would be finally nominated.

LATER. ELIZABETH, 5 p. m.—John Dunn was nominated on the second ballot, receiving 61 votes. Jim Martine received 23 votes.

The Independent Gets There Again. The attendance at Wilmington yesterday at the blue rock tournament of the Rod and Gun Club out-numbered any similar gathering that has ever been held in Delaware. The contestants represented several States and the work done was of the highest order. The evening was more than favorable, and the absence of high winds made good scores the rule.

The Independents, of this city, were short several of their shooting stars, but they captured second place just the same. The Standard Gun Club, of Baltimore, took first prize with 136, as follows: Agar, 24; Slinger, 23; Keller, 23; Lindsey, 20; Smith, 24; Quinby, 22. Total, 126.

The members of the Independent club also participated in several other events, but they were all sweepstakes.

A FREE FIGHT AT THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The Democratic Congressional Convention a Regular Pandemonium.—Senator Marsh Not Allowed to Speak.—Dunn Nominated on the Second Ballot.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO OUR COURIER.) ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 14.—The Democratic Convention of the Eighth Congressional District assembled in Library Hall, in this city, at noon today. The convention is regularly composed of 120 delegates, but the candidates' friends and almost every one else have been attempting to take a hand in the proceedings. The noise and bluster, the shouts and threats heard on every hand from the time the first batch of delegates arrived would have led a stranger to suppose that a first-class free-for-all prize fight was getting underway, and he would not have been very far off in his supposition.

The hot contest which has been waged between ex-Speaker John T. Dunn, of Elizabeth, and Farmer James Marline, of Plainfield, for the delegates for the past month has been carried to the floor of the convention, and charges of treachery have been hurled from one crowd to the other with a rancor which only a Democratic Convention in full blast could possibly furnish.

Budd, of Union county, McKiernan, of Essex county, and O'Farrell, of Hudson county, the three signers to the call for the convention, evidently thought that discretion was the better part of valor and out of a kind regard for their own safety failed to show up at the convention.

When the delegates had calmed themselves long enough to hear something less than a steam whistle or an electric gun, Harman H. Hart, of Orange, was elected chairman. This moment's respite, however, only served to intensify matters among the warring Orange factions, and a big fight was immediately under way. In the midst of the confusion, John M. Crane, of Plainfield, was thrown out of the convention by a policeman.

Senator Fred Marsh, of Elizabeth, arose and endeavored to make a speech, but he had not uttered a word before his right to speak on the floor was questioned, it being claimed that he was not a delegate. He, however, attempted to force himself on the convention, but was again called down and this time was choked off.

A resolution was passed to immediately proceed to call for nominations, and the turmoil was intensified.

Hudson and Union counties were called, but neither was ready to present any name, and while the various delegations were engaged in the biggest kind of a row among themselves, the convention took a recess until 2 o'clock.

It was half-past two o'clock before the convention was again called to order. The wrangling among the various factions had been kept up unceasingly, and was increasing in vigor every moment.

When Hudson county was called, the chairman of the delegation said the county had no name to present for the nomination.

Elizabeth presented the name of John T. Dunn. Judge Gilhooly made the nominating speech amid the wildest confusion.

"Farmer Jim" Martine's name was presented by Judge Wadsworth, of Plainfield, in one of his old-time ringing speeches, which called forth round after round of applause from Martine's many friends.

Several attempts have been made to take a ballot, but the confusion is so great it has been utterly impossible to do so up to the present time (four o'clock).

It looks, however, as though Dunn would be finally nominated.
