

VOL. 11-NO. 39.

AN ENGLISH MYSTERY.

The Crime for Which Edward McRae is on Trial.

THE EVIDENCE CIRCUMSTANTIAL.

The Remarkable Chain of Evidence Which the Public Prosecutor Has Woven About the Accused, on Which He Expects Conviction.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The trial of Andrew George McRae for the murder of his paramour, Annie Pritchard, began yesterday before the Northampton assizes. The case has caused much excitement, and the court room was packed with people eager to hear the details of the crime. The streets in the vicinity, however, were unusually quiet, and the police with difficulty preserved order.

The public prosecutor said that the evidence upon which the government relied to prove its case was of a circumstantial nature. He told in detail of the relations that existed between the prisoner and Annie Pritchard, and of the latter's mysterious disappearance.

On the 27th of August, last, some laborers on a small road, or railway, in the village of Northampton, noticed a peculiar stench, which set them looking for a ditch near the main road leading from Northampton to the village of Crick, a spot which is generally supposed to be the scene of a robbery, and which is surrounded by a wall of the surrounding village, they came upon the headless, armless body of a woman in an old, faded dress, which was labeled "E. McRae, Northampton."

The arrest of McRae. Mr. Edward McRae, of Crick, a village a few miles from where the body was found, the brother of Andrew McRae, identified the man. He was then taken to the police station, where the investigation that led to the arrest of the accused was commenced. It was discovered that where Andrew McRae lived, and that that he was alive, and he learned that Annie Pritchard, a friend of the McRaes, had disappeared, and that no one had been heard of her for a considerable time. When she left home she had left a letter stating that she was going to Liverpool, but to Northampton instead, where she arrived on March 23, and, under the name of Mrs. Rae Anderson, lived with McRae as his wife. In June she gave birth to a child, and in July she and her baby disappeared. The police theory is that the woman, fearing that his illicit relations with her would reach the ears of his family, enticed her into his brother's warehouse in Northampton and there murdered her and the baby. The body of the latter has not been found.

Calced Bones Found. A search made of the warehouse revealed the presence of some calced bones, upon which medical examination was pronounced to be finger bones, and it was discovered that McRae had sold to some second hand dealer in clothing many articles that were subsequently identified as belonging to Alice Pritchard, and his arrest on the charge of murder followed.

A peculiar feature of the case is that Mrs. Tite, whose daughter formerly lived at the warehouse in Northampton, persistently asserted that the body was that of her daughter Kate, who disappeared from a servant's home in Edgeware road in July last. A number of persons believed that the murder and abduction of the girl were the work of her daughter, Mrs. Tite, but a short time ago the missing woman appeared in Northampton, and the mystery was at an end.

Children Miraculously Escaped. CHINCINNATI, Nov. 18.—The Washington Park, located at 9 o'clock evening, but fortunately no one was hurt. It is an old structure which has been converted by the building department into eight different times. No. 69 is not damaged, but it is a complete wreck. Just before it fell there were five persons in the dining room, but they all managed to escape without injury. The owner of the building, Mr. Goetz, the proprietor, who received slight injuries about the head and shoulders, was taken to the hospital, and he and his wife were in bed on the second floor and went down in the wreck, but the red turned over and covered them. A party of eighteen railroad men had just left the hotel a minute before the crash came.

Greedy Didn't Care. THOY, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Mr. Edward Murphy, Jr., chairman of the Democratic state committee, in an interview with a reporter of the United Press, denied the statements made by Mr. Shearer, the proprietor of the "Globe," that he had been offered a bribe of $10,000 by the late Governor Shearer, in which the latter was quoted as saying that "he would be damned before he would give such pledges as the Democratic machine demanded."

Victims of the Gilderer Wreck. MICHIGAN, Nov. 18.—A message just arrived from Fox Island reports that Charles Row has found two bodies and one with the face of the Gilderer life preservers on them. From papers found on the remains it is believed that the bodies are those of the steward, Charles E. Williams. The other is believed to be that of one of the firemen, Green. The third body, which was found on the beach at Fox Island, is believed to be that of the steward, Charles E. Williams.

When the conference ended there were much on the streets among the large crowd of strikers. Chairman Crawford, of the advisory committee, and the strike were still on. President Garland, of the Amalgamated Association, had been cashed at the Homestead bank and this caused much rejoicing among the strikers.

THE SECRET SOCIETIES.

An Interesting Question Before the Catholic Conference.

PROHIBITED SOCIETIES DEFINED.

The Odd Fellows' Relation to the Church Especially Considered.—The Question to be Indisputably Settled. NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—At the second year's session of the annual conference of the archbishops of the Roman Catholic church in the United States, at the archiepiscopal residence, Cardinal Gibbons again presided. All the archbishops were present, as was Archbishop Satolli, the papal delegate. Again the deliberations were carried on behind closed doors. The major portion of the time, it was learned, was occupied in the discussion of the question on the condemnation of certain secret societies. The delegates referred chiefly to the Odd Fellows, numbering about 500,000 in the United States, and the Sons of Temperance, whose roll includes about 70,000 members.

Archbishop Satolli, of Milwaukee, brought the matter to the attention of the council by presenting the petition of the German Catholic Central society of the United States, which was adopted at Dubuque, Ia., in September last, asking the conference to clearly define the designation of secret societies in plain and unmistakable terms, as some doubt has been raised in the minds of some of the church authorities as to whether the societies are under the ban of the papal see. In explanation of his position, Archbishop Satolli said that it is absolutely true that the Free Masons are the only society forbidden by the church, and that, consequently, a Catholic may join any other lodge or society except the Free Masons. He quoted from the injunction of the third plenary council at Baltimore, as follows:

1. That all former decrees of the Roman pontiffs against all societies condemned by the Holy See are to remain in full force, according to the tenor of the constitution "apostolicae sedis" and the meaning of the Roman pontiffs. 2. That the Free Masons and the Carbonari are excommunicated by name. 3. That all other societies, though not mentioned by name, are excommunicated if they are of the same nature as the Free Masons and the Carbonari, that is, all those societies which openly or secretly plot against the church or against the lawful government of the state. 4. That all those societies are excommunicated which have their own ritual or their own religious ceremonies, in such a manner as thereby to become a heretic or schismatic sect. 5. That any society which requires its members to be sworn to secrecy, or to reveal its secrets to any one, not even to the ecclesiastical authority, that is, the bishop or which demands, be it by oath or mere promise, from its members to keep its secrets, is absolutely forbidden under previous sin, and the members of such a society cannot be absolved until they actually leave the society or at least promise to do so at once.

6. That the faithful, and especially the youth, are to be taught and earnestly admonished carefully to avoid all such societies in the judgment of the bishop of their own diocese are in any way dangerous to faith and morals, for all members of such societies are to be excluded from the sacraments, and they are to be excluded from the sacraments, and they are to be excluded from the sacraments.

The Question to be Settled. According to Archbishop Satolli the society of Odd Fellows has within late years gained a large increase of members, and it is not only in the Catholic ranks on the plea that they are not Free Masons, and therefore not a society forbidden by the church, but also a society forbidden by the church.

The council of Baltimore has appointed the bishops of the archbishops of the United States as the only competent tribunal in the matter of secret societies, and it is the duty of the present conference to determine exactly the question.

The majority of the council coincided with the opinion expressed by Archbishop Satolli, and the majority of the council coincided with the opinion expressed by Archbishop Satolli, and the majority of the council coincided with the opinion expressed by Archbishop Satolli.

PENROSE-DREXEL WEDDING.

The Adventurous Young Physician Becomes a Bridegroom.

New York, Nov. 18.—Miss Katherine Drexel, daughter of the late Joseph W. Drexel, was married yesterday, Nov. 17, at St. George's Protestant Episcopal church, Stuyvesant square. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. S. Rainford. Mr. A. J. Drexel, uncle of the bride, gave her away. State Senator Boies Penrose acted as best man. The bridesmaids were: Miss Josephine Drexel, Miss Cornelia Drexel, Miss Christine Biddle and Miss Annette Fall. The brides were: Messrs. Spencer, Louis Biddle, Robert Ralston, and M. Harrington, all of Philadelphia. After the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

Dr. Charles Bingham Penrose, the groom, is son of Dr. Richard A. Penrose, of Philadelphia, and a brother of State Senator Boies Penrose. He graduated at Harvard with high honors, and then studied medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, where he graduated in 1884. He served for a time as resident physician at the Pennsylvania hospital, and has a high reputation for his surgical skill.

In January, 1891, he went to the Boies house in Philadelphia. He remained in the west until last spring, practicing medicine among the ranchmen of Wyoming. When the stockmen of the famous trail upon the cattle thieves, or "rustlers," of Johnson county, in that state, last spring, Dr. Penrose accompanied them as surgeon. He and a number of the stockmen fell into the hands of the county authorities, and the whole party were charged with murder and conspiracy, two of the cattle thieves having been killed in a scuffle with the stockmen a few days before.

The United States troops were finally called in to save the lives of the prisoners. Dr. Penrose was finally escorted in safety to Philadelphia, where he was released under $10,000 bail, to appear before the November term of the court for trial. The Free Masons, he stated, were in the case, and they will doubtless go by default.

Peary Wants to Go Again. WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Lieutenant Peary, who recently returned from Greenland, has been requested by a number of Philadelphia gentlemen to make another trip to that region. Mr. Peary expressed his willingness to do so, provided he was given the necessary leave of absence from the navy department. He is an engineer on the roll of the navy, and has been in the service for three years, but his application has not yet been granted. Secretary of the Navy, Mr. D. C. Hoag, excuses him for that period, as engineers are needed in the service according to report of Commodore Fanning, the commander, however, is said to have approved Lieutenant Peary's request.

Martha Washington Monument Case. RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 18.—In the supreme court of appeals Judge Fauschauer delivered the opinion in the celebrated case of Collier and Kirtley against the executors of the late Martha Washington monument case, and it is a suit for $20,000 damages. The plaintiffs allege that defendant agreed to sell the monument, while the executors claim that he had agreed to sell the ground on which the monument was located. The court came from the circuit court of Fredericksburg.

Colored Men Protest. ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 18.—A largely attended colored convention is being held here to protest against the discrimination against their race. The whole of the debates may be judged from the following, from a circular calling them together: "We believe such laws are a separate act of law, which forces a citizen to pay first class fare and at the same time subjects him or her to a third class ride in a smoker, or an apartment adjoining a smoker, is not only unjust, but we believe also that such action is a relic of ignorance, superstition and prejudice that should be buried with the ruins of slavery."

An Aristocratic Scold. LONDON, Nov. 18.—A decided sensation was caused in the Marlborough street police court yesterday, just before the case of Gwyneth Maude, the handsome and aristocratic 18-year-old girl, charged with swindling her father, the establishment of all present, it was announced that Gwyneth's mother, probably rendered insane by the charge made against her daughter, had committed suicide. The sensational case, consequently, was postponed for a week.

Not Guilty of Murder. WILMERSHAM, Pa., Nov. 18.—Jacob Gomer, of Bittowood, south of this city, was yesterday acquitted of the murder of Michael Zupka, a Hungarian. Zupka had been stealing chickens from Gomer's farm last summer. One day Gomer detected the Hungarian in the act and fired a load of buckshot into him, killing him. Zupka's mother, who was a Hungarian, was charged with the murder of her son, but she was acquitted.

Was News to Justice Field. WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Justice Field, of the United States supreme court, was shown the published statement coming from California to the effect that he intended to retire from the supreme bench in time to prevent the naming of his successor. President Cleveland and Justice Field read the statement carefully and remarked, "That is news to me. Further than that he has said to say."
