THE ALBION SIDE OF THE STORY

Richard J. Clarke, the retired bookkeeper of New York, who died at the Albany Hotel, left a will, West Two and a Half East One and a Half, as he did not leave them any of his money.

On the tenth day of last June, Richard J. Clarke, a wealthy retired restaurant keeper of New York, who with his special friend Mrs. A. Schell of 365 West Twenty-third street, was staying at the Albany Hotel in this city, died after an illness of four days. Mrs. Schell had his body removed to the St. Nicholas Hotel in New York, where she placed the body in a coffin. The story of the sensational developments which arose at that time were fully described in the Courier.

On June 15, Mitchell & Mitchell, his attorneys presented his will for probate, which practically made Mrs. Schell his heir. The probate was opposed by George B. Clarke, of Brooklyn, and William J. Clarke, of Winona, Minn., two cousins of the deceased who were not mentioned in the will. They charged that the will was not the last and testament of the deceased, but was procured from him by undue influence.

Today Surrogate Ransom is to decide whether a commission shall be appointed to go and examine certain witnesses who live in other States. These witnesses are Dr. George W. Hendrick, of this city, who attended Mr. Clarke last, before he died, James Feller, of Riverside, and Annie Roke, of Bound Brook, who were in attendance at the Albany when his death took place. At all probability, the case will go over to the January term, as the four witnesses to Mr. Clarke's will cannot appear before that time.

A representative of the Courier called at the Albany last evening to learn something in regard to Mr. Clarke's stay in Plainfield. It was ascertained that Mr. Clarke and Mrs. Schell came there on May 7 last, registering in their own name. During Mr. Clarke's residence there it was the impression that he was in good health and often went out unaided for long constitutional walks to the city. Besides he frequently went to New York on business. Mrs. Schell became to more like a housekeeper to him than anything else. She never went with him outside of the hotel, and gave the impression to others of trying to avoid him in every way.

Mr. Clarke never refused to receive visitors who came to call on him, but was always glad to see them. He held his life property but never made any parade of his wealth. He was kind and pleasant to all with whom he came in contact and when his death came he was greatly missed by all who knew him.

The Central Railroad Company have decided to erect a four foot fence between the east and west tracks at the Greenville station, so that passengers wishing to take New York trains cannot cross the west tracks, but must cross the bridge at the southern end of the station. Had the fence been there the frightful collision which has been reported, Mrs. Parsons could not have crossed the west bound tracks and the High Bridge train would not have been stopped. The company is now erecting a waiting room on the east side of the tracks.

Much opposition is made by East Fifth street property-owners against running the street cars through that thoroughfare. It is not likely that the street cars will pass through Broadway or Belvidere avenue for a long time to come.

The receipts of the Street Railway Company at present amount to about $45 a day.

There is claim to make the best candy and the greatest variety of it ever sold in Plainfield and he can easily prove his claim.

Hulet sells every make of pianos on what they are good for.

Brandreth's Pills are the best medicine known.

First—They are purely vegetable, in fact a medicine.

Second—The same does always produce the same effect—other purgatives require increased doses and finally cease acting.

Third—They purify the blood.

Fourth—They invigorate the digestion and cleanse the stomach and bowels.

Fifth—They stimulate the liver and carry off vitiated bile and other depraved secretions.

The first two or three doses tell the story. The skin becomes clear, the eyes bright, the mind active, digestion is restored, constipation cured, the animal vigor is recruited and all decay arrested.

Brandreth's Pills are sold in every drug and medicine store, other plain or sugar coated.

An officer was detailed to watch the man all night and to-day.
