CRAZED WITH REMORSE

Wealthy Mr. Jeroleman Becomes a Murderer.

Tormented with Cherry Thieves on His Place at Belleville, N. J., in His Blaze He Strikes an Intruder a Fatal
Blow Over the Head With a Bale
Stick—Locked Up in Jail.

NEWARK, N. J., June 29.—Theodore Jeroleman, a wealthy lumber dealer of Belleville, murdered with a balestick
Hugh Drain, of Sheridan avenue, Kearny, whom he caught stealing cherries on his farm yesterday afternoon. Jeroleman, who is almost crazed with remorse, gave himself up and was taken to the county jail in this city.

Ever since the opening of the season
Jeroleman has been annoyed by cherry thieves. Yesterday afternoon the latter numbered his companions entered the grounds and began to take the cherries
from the boys. They ran into the house and told Jeroleman, who became enraged,
seized a heavy balestick and rushed out,
determined to drive the men off his grounds.

They fled at his appearance and Drain,
who was the last to move, was in the act
of getting through a barbed wire fence
when caught by Jeroleman. The latter raised the balestick intending to strike
Drain on the back and at that instant
the fence broke and Drain's head caught the full force of the blow intended for another part of his body.

He fell bleeding and unconscious.
Jeroleman, full of remorse and his rash act, hastily summoned Dr. Skinner, who lives in the immediate vicinity. The doctor saw Drain's condition was precarious and had him removed to St. Michael's hospital in this city at once.

His skull was fractured, and despite strenuous efforts of the doctors he died
four hours later without regaining consciousness.

His wife and daughter arrived at the hospital half an hour after he had died
and when told that he was gone their grief
was most pitiful.

Jeroleman immediately after Drain was taken to the hospital surrendered himself to Justice Sanford at the University of Pennsylvania, where he was taken to his own room to await the result of his victim's injuries. One hour later learning his victim was dead, he returned,
saw himself up and was taken to the county jail, where he will be held without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

Much sympathy is expressed for Jerole-
man, who is one of the oldest and most respected citizens in the township, and his friends fear the shock of being held as a common murderer will kill the old man.

Greek Protestants Attacked.

LONDON, June 29.—The Daily News correspondent in Constantinople says that on May 13 members of the Greek Orthodox church attacked a house in Ordu, Asia Minor, where Greek Protestants were worshipping. The rioters bombarded the house with stones for seven hours. The Turkish police were present, but refused to interfere. Protestants to their homes and cancelled their permission to worship in the town.
Despite the rights guaranteed by firman,
Sis, Philip Currie, British consul, and the American charge d'affaires vainly protested. The Porte has prepared a memorandum on the subject for the powers.

Hill, a student at the University of Penn-yesterday for New York, accompanied by three university students, who will assist him in an exploration of the interior of Labrador. The party, in addition to Mr.

Hill, comprises Howard H. Henshaw, the

the Pennsylvania eight-oared shell

RAILROADS BOBBED.
Criminal Combination of Detectives
and Employees at Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 29.—The preliminary examination of Special Agent Maxwell of the Grand Trunk road as accessory to the murder of George Newcomb, a special agent of the Chicago & Western Indiana road, brought out facts relating to the plundering of the railroad companies by employees and special agents employed to detect thieves, which have so far become public property that it is now known that the railroad affected have lost between $50,000 and $75,000 in merchandise, baggage entrusted to their care, tickets collected and resold, and claims made by passengers
who were in a sense held up on their lines
with the connivance of detectives, thieves
and employees.

The story as developed shows a remarkable system of robbery covering a period of more than six months, and checked only by the killing of George Newcomb. His tragic death brought sharply to the attention of the authorities of the special agent
of the Chicago & Western Indiana railroad and the Grand Trunk the details of the criminal combination working under their eyes, and, while this may not lead to the detection of the murderer of Newcomb, it has already started a complete reorganization of the special agent systems employed by both lines.

Working Up Violence.

GUTHRIE, O. T., June 29.—Large numbers of people in Enid and Pond Creek,
on the Rock Island railroad, received copies of circulars purporting to be from the Rock Island railroad and declaring it to be the intention of the company to destroy the towns of Enid and Pond Creek, never to stop trains there in spite of any laws or courts, and warning everybody to govern themselves accordingly.
These circulars were in forged Rock Island envelopes, marked "Topsland," and were doubtless sent out by enemies of the railroad company as a means of inciting the
greatly wrought up residents of those
towns to acts of violence against the railway company. As a result there was great excitement. Officials of the company telegraphed United States Marshal
Nix for Enid, and a large posse of deputies left for Enid. Another posse
was ordered up from El Reno and Kingfisher.

Mysterious Death.

QUARTANING, S. I., June 29.—The body of a young man aged about 30 years was picked up off the upper boarding station of the New York Central railroad. The body was found in a box car, and was marked "Topsland," and was
doubtless sent out by enemies of the railroad company as a means of inciting the
greatly wrought up residents of those
towns to acts of violence against the railway company. As a result there was great excitement. Officials of the company telegraphed United States Marshal
Nix for Enid, and a large posse of
deputies left for Enid. Another posse
was ordered up from El Reno and King-
fisher.

Wheelmen Suspended.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Chairman Raymond, of the League of American Wheelmen, has suspended, among others, the following bicyclists riding on the Central railroad: Mr. H. H. Baker, of New York, suspended for failing to pay a fine of $100
for riding on the tracks; Mr. J. H. Baker, of New York, suspended for failing to pay a fine of $100 for riding on the tracks;
and Mr. J. H. Baker, of New York, suspended for failing to pay a fine of $100
for riding on the tracks.

Commissioner, Shields, for examination.
Burleigh is a young man, about 33 years

took and appropriated to his own use $682.14 of the receipts for the sale of stamps.

A New Coffin Ordered for the Dead
President's Remains—Disciplinary Punishments in Army and Navy Remitted in Observance of Perier's Election—Dupuy's Career Closed.

PARIS, June 29.—In observance of Casimir-Perier's election to the presidency, all disciplinary punishments in the army and navy have been remitted.

All the women passing the Elysee palace
make the sign of the cross and the men remove their hats.

Mme. Carnot received this morning a few friends and the wives of the civil engineers'
delegation, who were presented by Chamberlain-Lacour.

The oak coffin in which M. Carnot's body lies was found to have a large crack in one side. As the inner lining of lead could be seen through it, the police commissary ordered that a new and larger coffin be made at once.

The heat is intense. The sky is clear and the sun is shining brightly. The flowers are in full bloom.

More than 1,000,000 francs have been sent here already for flowers.

Four hundred wreaths have been received at the Elysee palace in the last 48 hours.

A society of Paris women has ordered a funeral wreath costing 5,000 francs.

Mlle. Chiris, who is betrothed to M. Car-not's son, will send to the palace a superb wreath eight yards in circumference, composed of flowers and white ribbons, and white tulle over which black crepe
will be crossed.

The police are confident that some of Santo's accomplices are in Toulouse, and are endeavoring to give their reasons.

The Lyons municipal authorities have decided to omit the 14th of July fete.

The 20,000 francs which is customary to give to the poor after the fete will be paid from the city treasury.

Among the candidates for the presidency of the chamber are Henry Brisson, ex-Premier Loubet, Auguste Burleau and Felix Faure. M. Dupuy's career is regarded as closed.

Workmen are preparing President Carnot's tomb in the Pantheon. It will be beside that of his famous ancestor, the organizer of victory.

Against These Amendments.

AT NEW YORK, June 29.—Constitutional convention committee on governor and state officers has acted adversely on the following proposed amendments: Providing for the election of a governor and lieutenant ernor by the people; providing for the

PLAINFIELD, N. J., JUNE 29, 1894.

Homesick?

Needn't Be

The Daily Press reaches you daily for 10 cents a week.

Stamps? We Tend to That.

Too hot to say much about moving—but just keep your eye on H. P. Baldwin and you'll see that freight-house move before long to make room for a little beauty of a passenger park.

The Somerville Unionist-Gazette rightly speaks of the Plainfield West End baseball amateurs as "a nine pretending to be the Crescents." The true Crescents are abroad in the big cities, playing winning League ball. T. H. Keller had a good eye.

Pyrotechnics are always in order on our national anniversary. Literary pyrotechnics promote patriotic enthusiasm. The people look to the newspapers nowadays for reading matter appropriate to all anniversaries, and newspapers that keep in touch with the people do not fail to supply it. The Press will have an American Eagle edition next Tuesday that will be a typographic joy.

The Dugellen Call modestly remarks: We shall be two years old July 10, and will have something to say in honor of the event later.

The Press has something to say on this matter right now, and that is that the lively little Call is an elixir of life to a town like Dunellen, and the town and its paper ought to be ashamed of themselves if they don't grow up to be mighty big and important features of Plainfield life before they're two years older. In Dunellen the Call has room to grow, and it's growing fast. Now let the borough hustle and see how far ahead of Editor Lowrie it can keep. Step lively; he's a hustler!

Because we set apart a whole day, each year in celebration of the glory of Independence, is no reason why we cannot admire individual independence the year round. And we do admire it. Take Early Closing, for example. We capitalists because we feel it's a glorious thing. And to be great and glorious in it, Plainfield storekeepers have only to pattern after Peck. At 7 p. m. the year round, his store has closed, without regard to anyone else—and he's been doing that for 15 years. It pays Peck, and it's a big thing for his clerks. Let's all try the Peck plan! Give the clerks a rest! Goodness knows it's hot enough!

The women who agitate in favor of the sex's rights, especially the right to vote, have carried their point: they have first filled the ballot-boxes, and subsequently the public offices; such honors and immunities as attach to the post of mayor or policeman have been theirs. But the result has been misgovernment—or to men has seemed to be misgovernment; and so it has once more been shown that the franchise is conceded only to force, that it is one of the brutal privileges, for men have by brute force taken the reins of government into their own hands again; all of which is set forth with delightful humor, telling a serious motive. In The Women's Conquest of New York, a book soon to be published by Harper & Brothers. The author's name is withheld. Why women should vote, The Daily Press will tell tomorrow.

Appropriate for Independence time is the topic of Woman Suffrage, a modern improvement favored by many Plainfield widders. Woman Suffrage is a living issue in Plainfield. It is talked in the Current Events Club, among the Plainfield Lady Cyclists, before the Monday Afternoon and Sub Rosa, and at dinner tables. Woman rules in Plainfield by her native divinity, and she will be proud to know why she should be a voting factor in the commonwealth.

The Press will tell why, tomorrow. Woman Suffrage is being debated with an animation that gives peculiar zest to a problem in itself absorbingly interesting. The cause of Woman Suffrage has many distinguished champions, but none more able than the eloquent Dr. Mary Putnam Jacob, whose recent speech before the New York Constitutional Convention in Albany is a veritable masterpiece of logic. She reviews the whole question, answers all the arguments of her opponents, and sums up her case by demanding the ballot for woman as a natural right.

Assuredly Press readers will be interested in this brilliant speech, whether they agree with Dr. Jacob or not. We give them a chance to read it in full tomorrow.

So full of the graduates' doings was the big Commencement issue of The Daily Press, and so interested in the young people were proud parents and fond friends, that although The Press reported the incident faithfully and gave it more prominence than did any other paper, the public perhaps did not sufficiently impress on its mind the importance of the portrait presentation which formed so pleasant a feature. And The Press cannot let another busy day go by without remembering to it, and saying just this much:

It's a glorious thing to have one's name perpetuated by mammoth mercantile building, and scientific library, and costly church. It's a glorious thing to see in a beautiful city like Plainfield shining landmarks which were wrought by the enterprise and beneficence of one man. But it is even yet more glorious to have one's portrait on public-school wall, one's face receiving the daily smiles of the tender-hearted American youth, one's memory beloved and kept evergreen among the growing generations.

And so The Press as a faithful Plainfielder which recognizes the worth of Mr. Babcock's achievements, welcomes his portrait to the Plainfield High School. During Mr. Babcock's life, during the time of bitterest mourning, and ever since, The Press has been steadfast in loyal tribute to Mr. Babcock's excellent record.

And right here let us record emphatically, once and for ever, in refutation of the renewed malicious charges of detractors, that the files of The Press do not show, and cannot be made to show, a single breath of blame on the honored name of George H. Babcock. For anyone to insist that abuse was ever given by The Press to Mr. Babcock, is a foul calumny on the paper whose success is responsible for the enmity of jealous rivals.

And for anyone to insist that any real or fancied personal attack dissuaded George H. Babcock from any such lofty purpose as founding a High School mansion to the town, is a base calumny yet on a man who was nothing if not persistent against opposition, and nothing if not dauntless in noble endeavor.

Let it not be misunderstood that The Press seeks to evade its opposition against School Board power to impose unlimited taxation. It glories in the victorious fight it made in such distinguished company. But that was a fight for principle, and was conducted on manly lines. It was an open difference between honorable men. There was not an iota of personal attack in the entire proceeding, except as was made by an outside factor against The Daily Press.

The Press is accustomed to, and can silently endure, the lies which are said of it chiefly to draw it into despicable personalities; and it does not intend to descend to the level set for such controversies. But it makes American blood, and Plainfield blood, boil with righteous Fourth-of-July wrath, to witness the continual repetition of charges which if true would belittle and demean in the eyes of the community the character of the honored educational father who has gone to his rest.

In the name of manhood, in the name of decency, are not the ashes of the dead sacred against the mutterings of a morbid imagination!

WITH THE DOCTORS AT HOPATCONG

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The 18th annual meeting of the Medical Society of New Jersey took place Tuesday and Wednesday, June 26 and 27, at Hotel Breunli, Lake Hopatcong. Those present numbered about 200, but the counties were very unequally represented.

President John G. Ryerson's annual address was a treatise on chronic nephritis, and was applauded as a practical and valuable paper.

At the Tuesday night session a discussion arose concerning the surplus fund in the treasury (several thousand dollars), which became somewhat acrid and ended in a parliamentary tangle during which some members voted confusedly on both sides of the pending question, amid a babel of shouts and laughter. In the end the good sense of members reassured itself, and a just decision was reached.

The election of officers for 1894-95 resulted in the choice of Dr. O. H. Sprout of Flemington for president, and the continuance in office of the former secretaries and treasurer.

Several excellent papers were read and discussed; ample recreation and amusement had been provided; and the meeting was altogether enjoyable and profitable.

The writer was present as the delegate of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association, according to a practice of five years standing, and read a paper which was received with kind approval. A committee was appointed for the purpose of conferring with the Pharmaceutical Association as to matters affecting the common interests of the professions of medicine and pharmacy, to the end that the public may be better served by both.

After resolutions of thanks to all who had contributed to the enjoyment of the meeting, the society adjourned to meet in June, 1895, at Cape May.

It was noted with kindly regret that the medical men of Plainfield had sent no representative, and that so small a delegation should be present from Union County as a whole.

Lake Hopatcong grows more beautiful every year. It was difficult to decide which of the members were the more enthusiastic—those who were familiar with it, or those to whom its charms came as a surprise and revelation. It is, in truth, the fairest jewel of New Jersey.

Good Game, and Recess Till the Fall. The Dunellen Bowling Club held a meeting on Mr. Schefflin's green yesterday, and a most enjoyable afternoon was the result. The rinks were:

G. K. Moore, George Haynes, A. K. Moore, D. R. Cookburn, Andrew Love, (skip) Thomas Stone.

After a game replete with remarkably pretty plays, Mr. Love's rink won by the score of 21 to Mr. Stone's 15.

A short game was then bowled, James Smyth replacing G. K. Moore, and resulted in a victory for Mr. Stone, the score being 7 to Mr. Love's 5.

A business meeting of the club was held and a resolution adopted that all meetings on the green be postponed until September.

James Moore, 2d, was the honored guest.

AT REST.

J. Randolph Dunn.

The funeral services of the late J. Randolph Dunn, held from Trinity Reformed Church yesterday afternoon at 3:30, were attended by a large gathering of friends and relatives.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck conducted the services, assisted by Rev. Mr. Hart of the Reformed Church of Neshaun, formerly pastor of deceased.

As the mourners entered the church, organist Arthur Titworth played a funeral march. The family and relatives were accompanied by thirty-eight members of Franklin Council, No. 41, J.O.U.A.M., of which Mr. Dunn was a member. The casket was covered with an American flag.

The hymn "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" was rendered very sweetly by Miss Fanny Mattison, Miss Phoebe Mills and Mr. Moore, after which Rev. Cornelius Schenck read appropriate Scripture selections.

He then spoke of the life of Paul, of his fearlessness of death because his hope was in Christ. Continuing he said:

"We naturally shrink from death. We see eyes that see not, and ears that hear not. I want that you and I shall get that view of death that Paul had. The grave has been transformed; it is only the robing room for eternal life, for the home on high, the splendors of heaven. Death has also been transformed. It has been robbed of its sting. Death is merely one of the conditions of the larger, happier and more blessed life."

"Our brother that sleeps had the essential confidence in his Master, the essential hope, and the young men that walked and talked with him know it. He was always contented, happy, joyful."

"When the thought comes that he will not be with us again, we should remember that he is far better off. For five years he fought for life; the end came peacefully. He was a humble disciple of the Lord Jesus Christ."

Rev. Mr. Hart also spoke in part as follows: "How we should rejoice to think our children are in heaven. It is best to bow humbly to our Lord's will, for He doeth all things well. What a blessed thing it is to know that we have a comrade in heaven! Our brother has been taken away. What a stimulus his life and example should be to us to do better. Our highest aim should be to reach heaven."

Rev. J. W. Richardson offered a most affecting and impressive prayer, which was in unison with the feelings of all present. Another selection, "Abide With Me," was then effectively sung, and those present were given an opportunity of looking on the face of their departed friend.

The floral offerings were beautiful. A very large pillow consisting of white asters, maroon roses, trimmed with maiden-hair ferns and sweet-pea blossoms, with the inscription "Our Brother in V. L. and P.," was given by the Council, and a wreath of white roses twined with maiden-hair ferns was a choice gift from a friend, as was also an exquisite bunch of pink and white pinks, with sweet-peas and ferns, from another friend. A very touching gift was a beautiful pillow given by the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed Church, with the letters "C. E." in the center.

The pall-bearers, members from the Council, were: David J. Krymer, Augustus Wilson, Harvey B. Thorn, Theodore Kurzhals, William C. Force and F. Merton Langer. Interment was in Hillside Cemetery.

Manning-Hetfield. Miss Aretta Hetfield, daughter of Levi Hetfield, was married Wednesday afternoon to Dr. Andrew Manning. The attendance was limited to a few relatives and friends because of Mr. Hetfield's illness. The house was handsomely decorated with flowers and ferns.

The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by George T. Rogers as the bride and groom entered the parlor, where Rev. Dr. Yerkes awaited them. The bride's nephew, Clarence Hetfield, and her niece, Miss Marguerite Serrall, walked before them. The bride wore a becoming traveling gown. Her bouquet was of roses and maiden hair fern. A reception and supper were given after the wedding at which many prominent people were present.

The wedding tour was a brief one, the bride not wishing to be long absent from her father during his illness.

And what made my condition so much worse was the constant protrusion of the pile tumors, which caused the most severe suffering and was often attended with hemorrhages so profuse that the blood came in streams and fairly flooded me. I had despaired of getting relief, when I applied to Dr. Lighthill, but I am most happy to state that he effected a complete and perfect cure in my case in a few weeks' time. The piles have disappeared, the pain, distress and discomfort is gone entirely, and I feel, indeed, like a new man. Nothing but my hearty gratitude to Dr. Lighthill and my desire to bring relief to those who suffer as I have done, prompts me to make this public statement. J. V. Z. GRIGGS.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Mr. Thomas Callahan of No. 214 Richmond street cured of a Very Distressing Trouble by Dr. Lighthill.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 1, 1894.

TO THE PUBLIC: For some time past I have been greatly distressed with noises in the head. They were all over my head and troubled me constantly. They were loudest at night when everything was quiet and at such times would often keep me from sleep and disturb my rest.

In fact they got to be so bad and distressing that they affected my whole nervous system as well as my health. I did not obtain the least relief until I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, of No. 144 Crescent avenue, who effected a complete cure in my case in a short time and made me a very happy man.

THOS. CALLAHAN, 214 Richmond street.

A Card from Mr. T. R. VanZandt, Of No. 304 and 306 Park ave., Plainfield.

I certify with pleasure that Dr. Lighthill has effectually cured me of a most painful case of piles. For some time past I had been subject to its attacks but the last attack was so exceedingly painful that it completely upset my whole system. The pain extended to my legs and in many other directions, and made me so nervous that I could neither sleep, sit, stand, or move about without serious discomfort and distress. Such was my condition when I applied to Dr. Lighthill for relief, and I am glad to say that as soon as he took hold of my case, I began to improve, and in a short time I found myself completely cured. Dr. Lighthill has also effected a radical and permanent cure in a most terrible case of piles on my cousin, Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs, of Rocky Hill, N. J., whose statement is published below. I can personally vouch that every word which it contains may be relied upon as absolutely true and correct in every particular.

T. R. VANZANDT, 304 and 306 Park avenue.

Years of Suffering and Distress Promptly Cured by Dr. Lighthill.

Mr. J. V. Z. Griggs is a well-known merchant of Rocky Hill, N. J., and a prominent resident of the town, having for years been the Treasurer of the borough. For a long time he has been a sufferer from bleeding piles of the very worst kind, until he was completely cured by Dr. Lighthill, as will be seen by the following statement.

ROCKY HILL, N. J., Jan. 9, 1893.

TO THE PUBLIC: I have often read of the wonderful cures which Dr. Lighthill effected in bad cases of piles, but I feel confident that no case ever came under his professional notice as bad as mine when I placed myself under his treatment. The pain which I suffered was simply terrible; in fact, it was so intense that at any time I would have preferred to have a hot pillow than to have an operation of the bowels.

The pile-bearers, members from the Council, were: David J. Krymer, Augustus Wilson, Harvey B. Thorn, Theodore Kurzhals, William C. Force and F. Merton Langer. Interment was in Hillside Cemetery.

The Overton Case.

COPYRIGHT BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION, 1894

CHAPTER XVII.

"Law is full of surprises, but this is about the most surprising," Mr. Hildreth said, refolding the yellow letter that Major Overton had put into his hands. "Why, major," he went on, "it really seems that this young fellow is determined to beat you. You refuse his surrender, and he at once goes to work developing a new line of evidence that 80 years ago might have won your case for you."

"Why not now as well as then?" Mr. Overton asked.

"Because, let me see—yes, it is 80 years since Bruce Stirling died. If we had known while he lived that he had a hand in the matter, we could easily have got the truth, of course paying well for it. While we may be morally certain of his turpitude, I see no way in the world of proving it. No, major," shaking his head commiseratingly, "through this letter explains enough to have the business set over from term to term. You know it waited 10 years the first time for a hearing in the higher court after hanging so long in the lower ones. Then, when it came back, I know my father fought for delay. He said he knew he had the side of right and justice and kept hoping time would show it. I think you know that I took up the case as wholeheartedly as he had done, hoping, I confess, to wear the other side out, if I could do nothing more. You have shown me that that was useless; that you will not accept victory by default. Since the property has found a prospective purchaser, there is less activity among our enemies that the end must come soon. I wish I could persuade you to compromise, major. This letter ought to show you that your opponents are innocent parties to the fraud against you, and surely young Fauntleroy's action"—

"Don't speak of it," Mr. Overton said hoarsely. "Hildreth, you—you—don't know—everything. You can never understand just why I must do as I do or how I hate myself for—finding it impossible longer to hate him."

Mr. Hildreth got up and walked twice or three about the office, stopping at last in front of his client to say:

"Major, keeping secrets from one's lawyer is nearly as suicidal as keeping them from one's doctor. But if you choose to do it I have no word to say. Listen to this, though. If your grand-daughter has some claim on you—Are you willing she should be left without a roof, a protector? I know some things, more perhaps than you imagine. I guess others, and in fact of all I say it is your duty as a gentleman, a man of honor, either to agree to a settlement that shall divide the property equally betwixt the Overtons and Fauntleroy or else to the marriage of Allen Fauntleroy to your grandchild."

Major Overton got up, white to the lips.

"You forget yourself, Mr. Hildreth," he said freezing. "With an Overton material considerations do not weigh against honor. I thought I had sufficiently impressed that on your mind. Permit me to wish you a very good day."

"Poor old Spantoni! He's three parts a monomaniac," Mr. Hildreth said compassionately as the door closed behind him. "Vanoe looked up from his desk at the room's fall and said to himself:

"No. He happens to live just 500 years too late. He is one of the souls made for crusades and jousts to the death for a liege's name or a lady's glove. His superb impracticability is quite out of place in this nineteenth century. But, do you know, whenever he passes I take of my hat and stand bareheaded even to his shadow?"

"It's a contest in Quixotism betwixt him and young Fauntleroy. Why, talk of the devil. There he is now. Give you good day, young fellow. What brings you with such a face of concern?"

"With an Overton material considerations do not weigh against honor."

Mr. Hildreth said, rising and holding out a cordial hand. "Vanoe made as if to go, but the newcomer stopped him, saying with an impatient gesture:

"If you mean any part of what you have just said about that poor old man."

"We both would fight or lie for him," Mr. Hildreth said lightly. Then, seeing that Allen's eyes were still full of horror—"What is up, Mr. Fauntleroy? Has murder been done?"

"No. Only plotted, and I am come to you for help in thwarting the assassin," Allen said very low.

"Who are they?" asked Vanoe. Allen answered in a whisper.

"For an hour the three men talked eagerly together, arguing, suggesting, planning. When the young fellow at last went away, Hildreth said, drawing a deep breath:

"Here's a pretty go! Planning riot, sedition and murder in the face of daylight. I always knew Hawkins wasn't the clear cut, but hang me if I thought he'd wade this fashion up to his neck in iniquity."

"He is really a monomaniac," Vanoe said, lighting a cigar. "He has been money crazy ever since he first set at a look in the other Allen Fauntleroy's of. "What surprises me, though, is that those poor folk listen to him when he tells them that Major Overton is their enemy, the only thing that stands betwixt them and the work that means prosperity."

"You forget," Hawkins has truth on his side, a mighty good ally even for a rascal such as he," Mr. Hildreth said, taking a revolver out of his desk and running his fingers along the barrel.

Holding it muzzle down, he went on: "I wonder if—no, it can't be! Melissa Townley can't know all his scheme. Anyway we will manage to spoil his little game for him, but if we let the major get wind of it first!"

"There'd be the devil to pay and no pitch hot," Vanoe supplemented, with his hand on the knob.

Hildreth nodded an emphatic assent. "Poor old major! We must save him, even in spite of himself."
