

NINE TOWNS,
NINE TRUSTEES.

SCHOOL ELECTION IN THE TOWNSHIP OF PISCATAWAY.

Dunellen's Demand for Representation on a Basis of Population Not Recognized—The Borough's Nomination Set Aside.

The school election was held in the New Market public school yesterday afternoon as provided for by the new law. The polls were opened at 3:30 and were closed at 4:30, 110 votes being cast in that time.

A very large number of citizens of Piscataway township were present and the interest taken was intense.

Dunellen presented a claim for three of the commissioners, as about half the population of the township lives in the borough. The nine places in the township each wanted a representative, however, and a discussion of the subject followed. The meeting favored equal town representation.

The places in Piscataway township that they represent are: Dunellen, New Market, Maple Grove, South Plainfield, Union, Hartland, Lodi, Fairview, Greenbrook, and Newtown.

The action of the meeting of Monday evening in Dunellen when three commissioners were nominated was set aside and Chairman Frank Fletcher appointed the following committee to nominate men for the positions: Abner S. Coriell, chairman; William Fitz Randolph, Captain Bileh, Dr. Nelson, and H. C. Gaskel.

They presented a list of names and then those present were given an opportunity of making their own nominations. Fifteen men were nominated as follows:

George Conover, Dr. M. J. Whitford, C. T. Rogers, J. H. Rogers, Albert Rogers, Taylor Jelliff, Wm. Fitz Randolph, F. O. Nelson, J. C. Morris, Samuel Pyatt, Isaac Dayton, J. H. Sebring, A. B. Nelson, Fred Wilcox.

George Day was clerk of election and James Dunham and Martin Nevius were tellers. They announced the following as the result of the voting:

Dr. M. J. Whitford, 90
Wm. Fitz Randolph, 81
George Conover, 72
C. T. Rogers, 71
Albert Rogers, 71
Taylor Jelliff, 56
J. C. Morris, 56
Isaac Dayton, 56
A. B. Nelson, 46

Joseph E. Mosher also received votes making a tie with F. O. Nelson, but the former withdrew and Mr. Nelson was declared elected. There was some dispute as to whether this could be done without another election, but it was finally decided in favor of such action.

Dr. Whitford represents the 340 children in the one Dunellen district with an average attendance of 250, while the remaining eight districts with 446 children and an average attendance of 100 are represented by eight.

Mr. Thomas's Departure.
Secretary Thomas of the Colored Y. M. C. A. here, as was mentioned in The Press of yesterday, severed his connection as active leader of the Association. He resigns because of his acceptance of an offer from the New England Baptist Missionary Convention as a general agent in the educational department.

He has, in his new position, entire charge of the collections for the work in the New England and Middle States. The work takes up so much of his time, and takes him away from the vicinity so often, that he will be unable to do more than call occasionally at Association meetings. The meetings in Central Hall have been discontinued until September 1.

Tuition in Telegraphy.
Vacation is the time to arrange for the next term's schooling of the young folks, and in the consideration of suitable institutions, one it is well to investigate in the Plainfield Manual Training School, 309 East Front street, John Dalziel principal, which reopens September 10.

Instruction in telegraphy is now being given in the training school. The prices usually charged, in New York and other cities, for the first six months of teaching in operating vary from $25 to $50. In the school on East Front street, the best of instruction for the half year is given for $10.

Teaching the Young Idea.
Fourteen miles from Providence is situated the East Greenwich Academy, an unsurpassed school for both sexes. The location is superb, being on Narragansett Bay, and the institution is equipped to educate young people thoroughly in all branches. Principal Blacklee will supply illustrated catalogues.

SHAY & ADAMS
ACQUITTED.ATTORNEY DEMEZA SCORES A NOTABLE TRIUMPH.

Takes Plainfield Lawyers to Win Cases, and This Was a Difficult One, in the Face of So Much Bitter Prejudice.

The case of John Shay and Wm. Adams of Fanwood, charged with stealing chickens from Mrs. Julia Wallace of Fanwood, came up for the criminal court of Cyer and Terminus in Elizabeth this morning, before Judge McCormick and two associates. Both men were acquitted.

The counsel for the defendants was Attorney George DeMeza. Senator Frederick C. Marsh prosecuted the case.

The complainant alleged that the two men had broken into her chicken coop and stolen fifteen fowl the night of July 12. The coop was ten feet away from the house. It was a moonlight night. She had heard a racket, and went downstairs and saw Shay and Adams. She said "Shay and Adams, I want you to leave those chickens alone, or I'll have you arrested." The men then ran away.

Her direct evidence having been unimpaired, Counsel DeMeza began an adroit and successful cross-examination. He asked Mrs. Wallace how many chickens she had told. She said she could not tell. Asked how she knew then how many had been stolen, she said she had counted them when she put them into the coop that night, ten feet from the house. Her next answer was that the men entered her yard between 12 and 1. The examining counsel turned to her then, and, pointing to the clock in the court-room, asked her to tell the Court what time it was. She could not tell.

Mrs. Wallace's son Lawrence, whose trial on a charge of incendiarism will come up at the next term of court, was then sworn. He testified that he had seen the chickens referred to running about in Adams's yard. Under cross-examination he admitted that he had given Adams some eggs and was not positive that the flock he saw might not have been hatched from those eggs.

The defence then opened by proving a complete alibi. Shay's mother swore that on the night in question her son had not left his home after 10, and Adams's mother testified the same concerning her son. The case was finished at 12:10, when an immediate decision in the favor of the defendants was handed down. Counsel DeMeza deserves great credit for the way in which he handled the case with such decided result.

Judge Moore was not present at the trial. Justice Mosher was an attentive witness.

A Midsummer Magazine.

How girls were courted in the old Puritan days, and the difficulties, now unknown, to marriage are delightfully described by Alice Morse Earle in the August Ladies' Home Journal, which article is not next to a week's story by Max O'Rell, reminiscent of his life in the bush of Australia, and which he calls "My First Snake". Julia Bond Valentine's charming story, "The Whistling Girl", is the subject of two most exquisite illustrations by Irving E. Wiles. Sketches, with portraits, of "Four Famous Young Authors", Richard Harding Davis, Rudyard Kipling, John Kendrick Bangs and Jerome K. Jerome, comprise the biography of the number. Mr. Howells' literary biography, which he has aptly named "My Literary Pastimes", continues to grow in interest and charm. John Gilmer Speed writes of "Mud-Imprisoned Women", making a strong plea, in behalf of women, for the improvement of country roads. Frank R. Stockton continues to amuse with Pomona's letters to her old mistress, as does A. T. Frost, the original "Buckaroo" artist, with his clever illustrations. Edward W. Bok writes of "The Boy in the Office", and Grace Elery Channing of "Politeness in Two Countries". The clever and funny Brownies are at Newport, and their escapades at that fashionable resort are exceedingly amusing. Florence Morse writes of the advantages and disadvantages of "Suburban Life for Women", and Mrs. Garrett Webster gives a very novel idea for a summer fair under the title "The New Athletic Carnival". Mrs. Mallon writes of "Dainty Styles in Linen", and "The Art of Dressing the Hair". Miss Scott's "Suggestions for Mothers" are valuable, as is the column devoted to "Musical Helps and Hints". Altogether this August issue, with its pretty Summer cover by Alice Brown Stephens, is a particularly dainty issue, and a woman can afford to be without it. Sold by The Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia, for 10 cents per number and $1 per year.

Ex-Councilman Emmons in Real Estate.

F. A. Emmons of 15 Jackson avenue has purchased of the Marsh estate a lot 50x180 feet on Somerset street on the upper end of the property occupied by W. F. Williams. This purchase makes Mr. Emmons's Jackson avenue property L-shaped, with an entrance on Somerset street. It was a diplomatic move on the part of Mr. Emmons, but that's the kind of a man he is.

For the relief and cure of a cold in the head there is no more potent remedy than Beecham's pills.

Nothing else is it possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, croup and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Beecham's pills prevent all serious development of the system, while almost numberless cases have been cured of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other remedies have proved of no avail.

HANDMADE LINGERIE.

It Costs a Small Fortune and Demands Special Care.

Every now and then some writer on the subject of the wardrobe comes out with the discouraging statement that no woman of refinement will wear undergarments not made by hand. This would seem to be rather a broad generalization, arguing that only women of great wealth deserve to be considered refined, for handmade clothes cost a small fortune and therefore demand special care in the laundry. There are millions of well-dressed and well-bred women who wear machine sewed undergarments because they cannot afford the outlay for handmade garments and can still less afford to keep a servant especially to do the washing. Delicate clothing sent to the best of laundries comes back eaten to holes by chemicals and torn by careless handling. Unless one is able to engage a skilled maid to take entire charge of all delicate washable articles it is foolish extravagance to pay $7 or $8 for the simplest sort of a nightgown and for other garments in proportion. Washed in the usual way, the stock of underwear has to be continually replenished, and the rate of cost mentioned it would take all of an average woman's allowance to keep her in lingerie. Of course she can make it herself if she has no more improving way of spending her time and evenings. Her grandmother did so, but in her grandmother's day there were no sewing machines, and underwear could not, as a rule, be bought ready made. Not only was the young lady of olden days satisfied with a very plain outfit, but her washing was far better done. The undergarments of the woman of 75 or 100 years ago lasted half a lifetime, but the same garments under the present laundry system would not last six months. When neat and pretty clothing, made of good muslin and carefully finished, can be bought at such a moderate price as it is sold for at present, it would be a silly woman who would refuse to wear it because it is sewed by machine unless she were a cynic. She could afford every luxury in keeping. And it would be an equally silly woman who would sit stooping over her needle hours in succession making delicate designs and embroidering with light blue figures. It has a waste of time and a princess front and is trimmed with cream lace.

USES OF ALCOHOL.

It May Be Employed in Innumerable Ways. A Handsome House Gown.

Alcohol is one of the most useful adjuncts of the toilet table, as many persons know. Cologne in the bath is often recommended, but it is beneficial chiefly on account of the alcohol which is in the base. Used once a week mixed with water it stimulates the skin, makes it smooth and keeps it in good condition. Pure alcohol rubbed on the neck, shoulders and arms before going out in evening dress in the winter will act as a preventive of catching cold. After painful or exhausting experiences, like a morning at the dentist's, for instance, a cloth wet with alcohol rubbed briskly over the face and throat will revive one greatly.

Alcohol will take oil paint off the hands, and the same spirit will remove grease made at home by putting gum camphor in a bottle and pouring alcohol over it. Alcohol also affords relief from the pain of insect bites and stings, and is usually a effective when applied as a liniment for lameness, strains or weak muscles. It is often used thus as a daily treatment for weakly infants and children, with favorable results. In fact, its uses are innumerable, from cleaning jewelry to washing the face, but it must not be spilled on lacquered silver toilet articles, as it dissolves the transparent varnish and leaves the silver exposed to the air, which soon turns it black.

Pink is greatly favored in Paris for tea and house gowns just now. Alone and in combination with white and colors, it is much used. An illustration is given of a house gown of white embroidered gauze. The full gown skirt is made over a skirt of pink taffeta, and a ruche of the same material trims the bottom. The blouse bodice is of taffeta and is gathered in at the waist by a belt of rose mola, with long ends. The gauge pelpline is made over a taffeta lining and trimmed with a taffeta ruche. The sleeves are of gauze similarly lined and trimmed.
