Weakness and lack of strength is matter of the nerves and brain. It is the exhaustion of the nerve centres that produces the feeling of lassitude and depression.

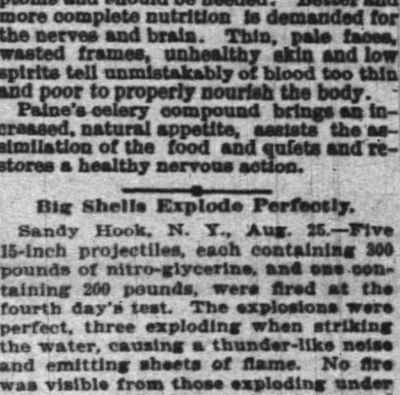

Digestion and assimilation are the first to become affected by diminished nerve power; and as the functions are so closely connected with every part of the entire system shares in their disorder.

creasing load of anxiety and care keeps their nerves from being properly nourished. Such persons will find a steady gain in health, in vigor and in good spirits from Palme's celery compound taken steadily through the month of August.

The reason for the high regard in which Palme's celery compound is held by those

...cians for building up the weak, the sickly and the nervous, is because all the ingredients are known to medical men to feed the nerves and to provide pure and rich blood for all the weak parts of the body. Every trace of nervous exhaustion disappears when the nerves that govern the functions of the body are thus abundantly supplied with their appropriate

William's Wisdom.

"It so falls out that what we have prize not to the world while it is ours." Shakespeare evidently meant that for those who do not take care of their right. Neglect of that precious sense may lead to blindness. If you prize it you should care for it at once. It is a duty you owe to yourself to have your eyes examined by an expert optician. Such you will find at Collier's, 103 Park avenue.
That Bridge Should Be Kept Open.
It is hoped that the New Brunswick Board of Trade will be successful in its efforts to prevent the Pennsylvania Railroad Company from building in that city a bridge over the canal without a draw, thus preventing the traffic of vessels with high masts and steamers through the canal. Such a structure would be a great blow to Sound Brook and the whole lower portion of Somerset County through which the canal passes.

Has His Eye on Every Detail.

The officials of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company are making a tour of inspection along the road in a special car. The general passenger agent, Charles S. Lee, whose extraordinary executive ability and watchful supervision of the workings of this popular road make it the success it is, and the people's favorite, personally inspected the offices at Ash Brook, Plinton, Roselle and Lyons Farms yesterday.

Let Others Do Likewise.

Alfred Cooks has inaugurated sidewalk improvements in Netherwood which it is hoped will be followed by others of like nature. He is paving the walk in front of his new house with Martintown stone. After such as that in front of the Babcock Building, each stone being 4 feet wide and 7 long.
Death of James H. Cory.

At one time he was a resident of Plainfield, and was well known here. Interment was in the Presbyterian Cemetery, North Plainfield, this morning.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; also cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give $100 for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

BECKMAN'S PLUM

Stater Fight Over the District Attorneyship of New Jersey Ended.
at Last by President Cleveland.
President Cleveland sent to the Senate yesterday the appointment of John W. Beckman, of Perth Amboy, to be United States District Attorney for New Jersey.
President Cleveland's nomination of John W. Beckman, of Perth Amboy, to succeed Henry S. White, as District Attorney for New Jersey, probably ends one of the most bitter controversies that the public men of New Jersey have engaged in for the recognition of the present administration.
The early candidate for the office was ex-State Comptroller William C. Heppenhelm, but the suggestion did not "go" well in Washington, probably because Heppenhelm was closely identified with the administration of Governor Abbott, which threw its influence against Cleveland's nomination in the days that preceded the Chicago Convention.
Then there was a remarkable silence about the matter till suddenly the State was surprised by the announcement that the President had sent in the name of James Parker of Perth Amboy for the position. Mr. Parker had been a warm Cleveland advocate when Mr. Cleveland needed friends to tackle the Abbott influence.

During all the intervening season of silence, however, there were some who were in active pursuit of the place. Miles Rose is a member of the Democratic National Convention, while Abbott was plotting to send an anti-Cleveland delegation from the State to Chicago. Mr. Rose was warm in Cleveland's support.
Mr. Rose had demanded no recognition for his work till he made up his mind that he would like to name the new District Attorney. Senator McPherson agreed to help any suitable man whom Rose should name.
Mr. Rose was said to have solicited the privilege in the hope of naming ex-Governor George C. Ludlow, and so placing one of his most influential local foes. When McPherson gave his consent Mr. Rose offered the place to Mr. Ludlow, who declared he would accept no office whatever at Mr. Rose's hands.

While Rose was looking about for some one else he saw that Mr. Cleveland had nominated Captain Parker. He went at once to Washington to see Senator McPherson about it, and the Senator went to Mr. Cleveland and asked that the nomination be withdrawn, and after a deal of persuasion the President yielded.
Rose then learned that Mr. Parker was no great admirer of his and that Mr. Beckman and Parker were bitter foes, and so, to punish the Perth Amboy captain for daring to ask for an office without first seeing him, he decided upon Mr. Beckman.

When President Cleveland was introduced to Mr. Beckman he was not pleased with him, and doubting his fitness sent him back to New Jersey to get letters of recommendation. These were procured and proved satisfactory it seems.
Mr. Beckman is not widely known as a lawyer in New Jersey. He has served three terms as a member of the Assembly. He was on hand to support the coal combine legislation of the winter of 1892, and it was understood that if his vote were needed to pass the "coal track" bill in 1893 it was at the service of those who were promoting them. He is short, slim, gray haired and between fifty and sixty years old.
Elizabeth Spence Works Destroyed.
The plant of the Connelly Spence Works on Front street, Elizabeth, was destroyed by fire this morning. A quantity of valuable patterns and machinery were burned. The loss will be $10,000. T. S. L. Moore Sons & Company foundry and ship yard were barely saved from destruction.

FABLES OF THE PHOENIX.

How He Builds His Own Funeral Pyre and Lights It.
The paragon of all fabulous creatures was the bird described by the ancient writers under the title of the "Arabian phoenix." Ovid says: "Although most beings and things have their origin in other individuals of their own species, there is one remarkable exception to this general law—the phoenix bird called the 'phoenix,' which reproduces itself." According to a belief which Herodotus has expressed at Heliopolis, the famous Egyptian "city of the sun," this miraculous bird visited that place every 500 years—always coming from the direction of Arabia—on the occasion of its father's death, and always buried him with peculiar ceremonies.
According to the best evidences which can be gathered from the writings of Ovid, Pliny, Herodotus and Dion Cassius, after the phoenix had lived his allotted lifetime of five hundred years he selected a spot and prepared his own deathbed, which consisted of a segment of cedar, pine, made of leaves and branches of the oak, ears of sweet spikenard, cinnamon bark, yellow myrrh, etc. Seating himself upon these he fanned his wings with such velocity as to cause the nest to take fire. After bird and nest had been consumed a little worm appeared in the ashes and rapidly developed into a full-fledged phoenix. The first care of the new bird was to arrange for the sepulchre of his father's ashes, which Herodotus described as follows:
"With the myrrh and other gums it has amassed the phoenix fashions a ball as large as it can carry. The ball it hollows out, and in the hollow places puts the ashes of its dead parent. The ball is deposited in the nest, and the young phoenix carries the whole from Arabia to Egypt for the purpose of interring its father's ashes at the city of the sun. Having reached its destination it lays its burden down upon the altar of Helios and disappears as mysteriously as it had come." The legends connected with this fabulous bird vary in some of their details, but all agree in the statement that only a single bird of the species was living at any one time.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Scots For Week Beginning Aug. 26.
Comment by Rev. R. H. Doyle.
Torn.—The joy of the Christian life.—John 1:1-11.
There is joy in the Christian life, and it is one of the best signs of the present age that Christian people are beginning to learn this fact and to experience the joys of Christianity. The time was when religion was surrounded by a cloud. Joy and happiness and cheerfulness found no place in the life of the saint. But that cloud is being rapidly dispelled, and rightly too. Christian people should be the happiest people in the world, for, like godliness, they have the promise of this life and also of the life to come.
In the Scriptural reference before us we see some of the leading characteristics of the Christian's joy.
The Christian's joy is of divine origin. It is "the joy of the Lord." Jesus has spoken to his disciples about the intimate relation that exists between Himself and them, illustrating it by the vine and branches. He has compared the joy of the Christian to the joy of the vine in Him, and then adds: "These things have I spoken unto you that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be filled." It is then Christ's joy that is to be in the Christian. As Christ gives peace to His followers, so also He gives joy to them. He gives joy to the heart and joy to the one who is faithful in serving Him.

2. The Christian's joy is complete. "And that your joy might be full." The Lord Jesus never does His work by halves. When He gives salvation, He gives a perfect and complete salvation. When He gives peace, He gives perfect peace, and when He gives joy He also gives a full and complete joy. The joy of every one who has the testimony of the Spirit with His spirit that He is the child of God, who has heard the Father's whisper to Him, "Thy sins be forgiven thee," and who has the sweet consciousness that He is at peace with God, and that His life is right in the sight of God! The joy of the world is brief. It worketh death. But the joy of the Christian is perfect, perfect in character and unending forever.

3. The Christian's joy is accessible to all. "There is but one condition to this full joy of the Lord. It is a condition easy of fulfillment. It is that we should abide by faith in Christ and have Him abide in us. Endeavorers cultivate the joy of the Christian life. Find joy and happiness in serving God. Let no harp be hung upon the willows. 'Rejoice in the Lord always.'"

More Than Two Million Endeavorers.

I have read that three natives of India once happened to come together from quite different states, and being unable to speak one another's languages found themselves at a mission station. At last one of them looked up to heaven and repeated the word—which was substantially the same in every dialect throughout India—"Jesu." The second brother said "Amen," and that was the same in every tongue, and the third added, looking and pointing upward, "Halleluiah," which was the same everywhere. We, too, are unable to speak one another's language. We come from every clime, from every land. Our skins vary in color; 460 are red, 18,700 are yellow, 97,020 are black and 1,997,630 are white, making in all an interracial and international army of over 2,000,000. Our actual enrollment, including active and associate members, is now 2,023,800. And yet there is one common rallying name for us all, and above that the name above every name.—Secretary Baez.

An Australian Incident.

A well known Congregational minister of Australia became discouraged about his society, and one night he said, "Now we are going to pray, and God wants every active member to pray." They knelt down, and 15 prayed right away whose voices had never been heard before. They were the Pentecost of that society.—Selected.

Resolve to Do Good.

Without the resolution in your hearts to do good work so long as your right hands have motion in them and to do it whether the issue be that you die or live, no life worthy the name will ever be possible to you, while in one forming the resolution that your work is to be well done life is really won here and forever.—Baskin.
