GREAT CROWDS ATTEND THE GOSPEL MEETINGS

Two Overflow Meetings Were Necessary to Accommodate People Last Night.

MR. HALL'S FIRST ADDRESS.

ANOTHER MEETING WAS HELD IN THE WEST END.

Earnest Plea of Wm. Phillips Hall Drew Many to The Right Path—Monster Congregation Assembled Early in The Evening—Other Meetings.

The second week of the evangelistic services commenced in a most satisfactory manner last evening at the First Baptist church and long will the meeting remain as a joyful memory in the hearts and minds of Plainfield's Christian workers. William Phillips Hall, an enthusiastic and very earnest lay propagator of the gospel of Christ, conducted the service and his success was greatly augmented by the hearty cooperation of the musical leader, F. H. Jacobs, and his well-selected band of choristers. By 7:15 o'clock every available seat in the body of the church and galleries was occupied.

Before the meeting commenced Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes arose and announced that the doors of the First Methodist church across the way had been thrown open to accommodate those who could not gain admittance.

As at the previous meetings the platform was set apart for the organist, choirmaster and singers. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, Rev. J. W. Richardson, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. Edward Love, F. H. Jacobs and Wm. Phillips Hall were conspicuous among those on the platform.

An inspiring song service served as a forerunner to the real evangelistic part of the programme. Led by D. E. Titworth, the congregation as well as the choir joined in singing "Blessed Assurance," and in turn "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "Scatter Sunshine" and "There is Power in the Blood" stirred the religious emotions of all.

Dr. Yerkes invoked God's blessing on the meeting and prayed that every heart would be given the spirit of prayer, and then announced that at 3 o'clock Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons a half-hour service of prayer would be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and that upon its conclusion evangelistic meetings would be held at the same place on the days specified.

Announcement was also made by Mr. Jacobs that on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons a children's meeting would be held at 4:15 o'clock in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church and he requested that some of the young Christian women would make it their duty to attend and assist in the services.

A request was also made that the pledge cards outstanding be returned as quickly as possible.

Dr. Hall opened his address with a short prayer and then quickly became absorbed in his well-chosen subject, "The Atonement."

He said the good old Book was never so popular as it is today, and in truth it is a dearly beloved Book. Queen Victoria, said Dr. Hall, when asked the secret of England's greatness, pointed to the Bible in response. The Holy Writ is right up to date and is really much ahead of most people. Christ's death on Calvary made man one with God and this is the doctrine of the atonement or the doctrine of substitution.

He impressed upon his hearers that they must give up all for Christ and that though it was human nature to do the one thing out of the thousand and that one being the wrong thing yet one must forswear that evil thing. Man, said he, in his natural sinful nature is separated from God, citing Adam and Cain as examples. To do good the sinful man must turn right about face.

Continuing Dr. Hall remarked that Christ's terms to the wicked were unconditional surrender. He then pictured the horror of being spiritually dead and said that if one hasn't come in touch with the revivifying influence of the great dynamo of the Holy Spirit he is spiritually dead. Christ, said he, accepted death to save man and God had so accepted the atonement of His dearly beloved Son. The speaker concluded his discourse with the story of his own conversion and implored others to do as he had done and seek Jesus.

The members who arose in response

YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB ALIVE.

OPENED NEW CLUB ROOMS INFORMALLY SATURDAY EVENING.

Much Interest Shown at House Warming and Classes Have Been Formed at Once.

The members of the Young Women's Club met in their new rooms in the Babcock building Saturday evening and enjoyed a house-warming. It was the first time in many months that the club had met and there was a large attendance of members and many young women who will no doubt become identified with the club. Through the generosity of several well-known women of means the club will have two rooms in the Babcock building free of rent, and thus will be able to carry on their work. Classes in millinery, dressmaking, calligraphy, singing, etc., have been formed and will be continued under competent instructors. Miss Kregar is the president of the club and she was in charge Saturday evening.

The programme included the rendition of several popular songs by the singing class, and the presentation of shadow pantomimes. These included "The Oysterman" and "The Ballad of the Oysterman," the former from James Russell Lowell's poem and the latter by Oliver Wendell Holmes. There was also an interesting address by the president of the club in which she gave all a hearty welcome and urged everyone to attend the mass meetings and assist the club in every way possible.

After the programme was rendered all joined in playing games. The affair came to a close after refreshments were served by a committee in charge. The club will now meet frequently and consider ways and means to carry on its helpful work.

AT Y. M. C. A. DINNER.

Plainfield Represented at Banquet at State Association at East Orange.

A large delegation from Plainfield attended the annual dinner of the State executive committee of the Young Men's Christian Association held at East Orange Friday evening. Wm. D. Murray, of West Ninth street, was one of the principal speakers of the evening. On behalf of the State committee he related the work accomplished and spoke especially of the great increase in the number of conversions. Mr. Murray also dwelt upon the advancement made in the attendance of the Bible class.

Around the banquet board were Wm. D. Murray, A. V. D. Honeyman, Wm. O. Worth and George F. Brown.

Drake Doesn't Understand.

S. D. Drake, who has been one of the promoters of the Woodland avenue boulevard scheme, informed a reporter for The Daily Press this morning, that nearly all of the property owners along the avenue consented to the improvement and a majority urged it. He does not understand why these same people come forward and oppose the widening. With the exception of one or two all signed the petition presented to the Common Council, and those who did not sign said that they would not oppose it.

New Church Members.

Communion services were held in many of the city churches yesterday and many additions were made to each. At Trinity Reformed church there were 13 accessions, 8 on confession and 5 by letter. The First Presbyterian church received 6, of which 4 were on confession and 2 by letter. The Crescent Avenue church received 9 by letter and 4 by confession. Communion services were also held at Warren chapel, Grace M. E. church and the Congregational church.

Wouldn't Give His Name.

Special Officer Reagan placed under arrest at 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening a man found begging at the residence of Henry A. McGee on Orchard avenue. The prisoner was placed in the lockup and later in the evening was taken before Mayor N. B. Smalley. He declined to give any name and was sentenced to five days imprisonment for begging.

WORK DONE IN PUBLIC SCHOOL

FINE EXHIBIT HAS BEGUN AT NORTH PLAINFIELD SCHOOL.

Parents of Pupils at Borough Schools Are Invited to Visit Schools This Week.

The parents and friends of the pupils of the North Plainfield public schools have an opportunity this week to see just what is being accomplished by the pupils in the regular lines of scholastic education. At any time during the present week the public is privileged, and, in fact, requested to attend any session they may desire and examine the original work done by the pupils in the various branches.

The walls and blackboards within the building are covered with samples of the work performed in spelling, writing, commercial geography, grammar, arithmetic, physiology, drawing and painting. The two last subjects constitute the chief feature of the exhibit. The complete exhibit is representative of the entire schools from the kindergarten to the High School inclusive.

The proficiency acquired by the pupils, especially with the pen and pencil, speaks well for the standard of the teaching corps.

In the hallway of the main entrance to the building is shown the work of the primary department pupils. It consists of sketches in ink, crayon and water colors, and also designs in tissue paper. With this as an introductory the visitor, as he passes from room to room, observes at a glance the rapid progress made by the pupils as they are advanced from one grade to another.

In the kindergarten is taught merely a few elementary principles in drawing and designing, and with this as a beginning little by little the course advances until in the High School scenic work with pencil and crayon forms the basis of the instruction. On the twelve blackboards in one of the High School rooms are designs which appropriately represent the months of the year. In this collection the work of DeWitt Brokaw, George Smith and Frank Curtis is exceptionally well done.

The citizen of North Plainfield will feel well repaid for the time he spent in visiting the schools this week.

SETTLEMENT PROBABLE.

Another Joint Conference of Bosses and Men Will be Held This Evening.

A conference was held yesterday between the committee from the bosses of all the building trades and the executive committee of the Building Trades Council. As neither committee had any power to effect a settlement, no action was taken. A meeting of the Master Plumbers' Association and a meeting of the Plainfield Building Trades Council will be held this evening to give the committees power to act. It is expected that at the joint conference which will follow that the present trouble will be adjusted satisfactorily to both sides. There is no change in the situation today.

NEW STATION OPENED TO PUBLIC SUNDAY.

Handsome Structure Was Much Admired by Crowds Yesterday.

BUILDING THE FENCE NOW.

TICKET OFFICE HAS BEEN REMOVED TO THE NEW BUILDING.

Interior Decoration of New Station is Very Handsome—About the Tunnel—Iron Fence Will Extend From Park to Watchung Avenues.

After many weeks of anxious expectation on the part of the citizens, Plainfield's handsome new east bound station was thrown open to the public promptly at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. From that time until late last night without an hour's cessation an admiring crowd thronged the building, viewing the handsome interior and promenade up and down the main room.

The new building shows in every way the combination of architectural skill and experienced workmanship, the result being the most handsome edifice of its kind on the Jersey Central. Finished throughout the interior with quartered oak fittings, supplemented by highly polished spruce walls and ceilings it presents an appearance seldom seen in a public station. The toilet rooms located in the east end have been built on the most scientific plans.

The tunnel, or underground crossing is much higher and lighter far better than any of the similar crossings along the road. The stairways, leading to the approaches, have been finished in quartered oak, while the main part is of concrete. There are three entrances, one from North avenue, one from the ladies' room in the old building and the remaining one in the new station. Neat and attractive signs inform passengers as to their location.

The ticket office was removed from the west bound station yesterday afternoon and will hereafter be located in the new building. This has also been fitted up in the most improved style and connects with the baggage rooms and telegraph office in the old building by telephone. The honor of buying the first ticket at the new station is credited to Dr. Roland Tomlinson, who purchased a commuter's ticket soon after Agent Geo. Ballantyne had become installed in his new quarters.

Under the direction of W. A. Mulford, of Roselle, a gang of workmen commenced this morning the erection of the fence which will separate the east and west bound tracks, thus reducing to a minimum the liability to accidents from crossing in front of trains. The fence will probably extend from the Park avenue to the Watchung avenue bridge and will be of iron.

GOING TO WASHINGTON.

While the U. S. Grant Club is the only organization from this city which will witness the inaugural ceremonies at Washington today, in a body, a large number of individuals left for the Capitol city at various times yesterday. The committee appointed by the Democratic primary to wait on H. P. Reynolds and inform him of his nomination for the Mayorality met Mr. Reynolds Saturday evening. The committee on vacancies met last Saturday evening and selected Hiram A. Woodruff, of Westervelt avenue, as the party's candidate for mayor.

Mr. Woodruff is a custom house broker in New York and has resided in Plainfield for the past decade. He is a tax payer and property owner. Mr. Woodruff's friends believe that he will run especially well in the second district where he is favorably known.

APPEAL FOR MORE INTEREST

REV. MR. SHOTT MADE AN ADDRESS TO HIS CONGREGATION.

Occasion of His Second Anniversary as Pastor of the Scotch Plains Church.

(Special to The Daily Press.) Scotch Plains, March 4.—Rev. G. M. Shott, who gained more than a local notoriety last spring and summer in his fight against the granting of liquor licenses to the several hotels in the township, observed his second anniversary as pastor of the Baptist church Sunday. Mr. Shott at his morning service said: "I do not intend to preach an anniversary sermon or go into our work of the two years as pastor and people but I do feel as though I should give a short prelude to my sermon."

"There are several painful points in my work I feel as though I must touch upon. The past has had many encouragements in it, but there have also been many discouragements. Chief among these is your lack of interest in the Sunday school. Every active member of the church should be an active worker also in the Sunday school. But there are many of you who lack this interest in this part of your church work."

"There is the midweek prayer meeting. This is the one night in the week that I am more than discouraged. When I come to the church to lead this service I see but few of you in attendance. The interest in the Sunday evening service is about the same. I can hardly expect the public to become interested in our services as long as the church members have lost their interest."

"I feel as though I must tell you that this lack of interest which is so discouraging to me in the work, can only lead to one thing, the severing of our relations in the future. You can look back with pride upon one hundred and fifty years of sacred history. But do you ever think of the present and future? If you will revive an interest in your church attendance, then your pastor will have a better heart to ask the public to attend our services. Let us as pastor and people say: 'Let the dead past bury its dead.' Let us revive our interest in the work for the Master. When you do this you will do much to lift the discouragement which has pained your pastor much and then I would like to spend my life here with you."

PANGBORN-ALLEN CASE.

Will Come Up for Trial in Williamsport, Pa., Tomorrow.

The case in which Mrs. Louise Miller, of this city, is endeavoring to prove that Stephen Pangborn and Winfield Scott Allen was one and the same person and that he was her father will be continued in the Lycoming County Court at Williamsport, Pa., tomorrow. This morning Mrs. Miller and a large number of witnesses, both for and against Mrs. Miller in her claims, left for Williamsport to be present at the trial. Bruce & Runyon are among the lawyers who represent Mrs. Miller, but owing to Mr. Runyon's illness he will be unable to attend. Lawyer Clark, of Westfield, also for the plaintiff, will be present. Among the witnesses who will be called are William Pangborn, of Onatham street, and William N. Pangborn, of Linden avenue, both relatives of the late Stephen Pangborn.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

F. H. Jacobs, who has been leading the singing during the past week at the evangelistic services, gave an interesting talk and also sang at the afternoon meeting in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday. ## BOYD STILL IN JAIL; POLICE SUSPECT HIM

Detectives Looked Him Over And His Past Record is Being Investigated.

RESEMBLES A CROOK.

MAYOR SMALLEY SENTENCED HIM TO LOCKUP FOR FIVE DAYS.

Charge Was For Being Disorderly—Police Think He Knows Something About The Recent Burglaries—Was Photographed Saturday.

The man arrested by Marshal Campbell Friday evening as a suspicious character is still under detention. The police have not as yet completed the investigation which they believe proper to make before releasing him. "William A. Boyd" is the name he gives himself, but this is believed to be merely an alias.

Boyd is five feet eight inches in height, and has blue eyes and a pallid complexion. Over the right temple he carries a scar which he alleges is the result of a knife wound received some years ago in a fight in New York. The right eyelid droops perceptibly.

From the man's story it is gathered that he is a native of Mendham, Morris county, and has worked almost all his life at sewing machine repairing. He admits having resided in many places on the map. Potter, Newark, New York, Utica and Plainfield have furnished him a domicile at various periods.

In New York, he claims to have worked for a firm on Cortlandt street, and he says Samuel Mundel, of Bank street, employed him for a considerable period.

A year ago he worked for Kenyon, the West Front street sewing machine man, and since November he has held the same position. Boyd lodged, while here, with Alfred Drew, of 315 West Front street.

Mr. Drew called Saturday afternoon to see Boyd at the lockup and was given permission to talk with him through the iron grating of the cell.

When seen later by a reporter for the Press Mr. Drew said that he had no information concerning Boyd's past history. The prisoner had always been a quiet peaceable boarder and he was much surprised to hear of the arrest. Mr. Drew admitted, however, that for the past month Boyd had been given to drink and kept very late hours. A search of his room at 315 West Front street made Saturday afternoon by the police brought no results of any value.

Saturday Boyd's photograph was taken twice by Photographer Moffat, of Somerset street. Later the prisoner was examined by Detective Carroll, of Newark, and by Seymour Beniter, a assistant superintendent of the Pinkerton's New York agency.

To the Pinkerton detective Boyd admitted that he was acquainted with a number of well known crooks in New York. His Newark record, so far as is known, consists of one night's detention in the station house.

Boyd remembers where he was prior to his arrest Friday night and who he was with but cannot recall much of his conversation during the evening.

Saturday evening Boyd was brought before Mayor N. B. Smalley who, sitting as a magistrate, sentenced him to five days' incarceration in the lockup on the charge of disorderly conduct.

In the course of the investigation it has been learned that Friday afternoon a man called at Vito Ferraro's fur store on Somerset street and inquired of Mrs. Ferraro whether she needed any sewing machine repairing done. On Mrs. Ferraro's statement that she had, the man offered to repair the machine without charge if permitted to examine it on the second floor, where the machine was located. Mr. Ferraro requested the stranger to call some other time, and when leaving the store the mechanic presented his business card upon which was inscribed "J. C. Smith" and the address "25 Maple avenue, Somerville, N. J."

Sunday afternoon Mrs. Ferraro after having seen the prisoner in the lockup, said that she was not positive that Boyd was the man who called Monday.

Yesterday afternoon a Pinkerton man from New York came on with a photograph of a crook well known to the agency. Boyd, it is said, bears a remarkable resemblance to the crook photographed. The scars above his right temple and on his shoulder tally with the marks corresponding on the picture.

Richard Boyce, proprietor of the Somerset Hotel, called at the lockup this morning and identified Boyd as a man who came to the hotel on October 23 and signed the registry as Andrew Baisley, Maddaugh, Pa.

PEKING TO MANILA.

Departure of Americans From Chinese Soil Hastened.

BRITISH PLAN GRADUAL WITHDRAWAL

Germans Show No Signs of Intended Evacuation—French to Send Garrison to Hankow—Ministers Meet Thrice a Week.

PEKING, March 4.—The American preparations for departure are going actively forward. All supplies, except enough for two companies, have been packed and marked for Manila.

The British plans contemplate a summer along the Pei-Ho and a gradual withdrawal of forces to India, leaving behind by next winter half a battalion of Welsh fusiliers as a legion guard in Peking, together with an Indian regiment to guard the railroad.

The Germans show few signs of intention to depart, but they are endeavoring to sell 5,000 American and Australian horses as well as a quantity of camels.

It is reported that the French intend to withdraw most of their forces, leaving one infantry brigade, a regiment of cavalry and some artillery to protect the French legation and to guard the lines of communication. A part of this force, it is understood, will be employed to guard the Franco-Belgian railroad from Peking to Pao-tung-fu.

In French military circles it is freely asserted that the French intend to send a force to be stationed permanently at Hankow and to guard the other end of the Lu-han railroad, 120 kilometers of which have been completed. More definite information on this point is awaited with anxiety by the British, who regard such an intention with serious misgivings, because it is calculated to bring about complications with the Yangtze viceroys if for no other reason.

The ministers of the powers now meet thrice a week, but no business of great importance is transacted. At present they are going over local claims.

The subject of legation defenses is also being considered, although this will be left for final consideration until the United States government has reached the decision as to the legation barracks question, which the legation is anxious to have settled immediately in order that the building may be constructed before the rainy season sets in.

Japanese Withdraw in March.

LONDON, March 4.—"The Japanese have decided to withdraw their troops during March," says the Peking correspondent of The Morning Post, wiring Saturday, "and to replace them by 2,000 fresh troops, 500 of whom will be posted here. As a result of the conspicuous divergence in the attitude of the powers the Chinese imagine discord is beginning. Li Hung Chang has sent two mandarins to inspect the route between Peking and the province of Shensi and to prepare for the return of the court."

Evarts' Funeral in Vermont.

WINDSOR, Vt., March 4.—The remains of Hon. William H. Evarts, who died in New York last Thursday, were brought to Windsor in a special car, accompanied by members of the family. A brief service was held at the house Sunday morning for the family, and the public services were held at St. Paul's church at noon, Rev. E. N. Goddard, the rector, officiating. This is the church in which Mr. Evarts was married in August, 1843, by Rev. Dr. Wolcott, now of Syracuse. The church was filled with a large sympathizing crowd of people who feel that in the death of Mr. Evarts they have lost a noble friend, for he had ever had the best interests of Windsor at heart. It was through him and the late Mr. Beaman, his son-in-law, that Windsor is possessed of a public library. The floral remembrances were profuse. The interment was in Acute cemetery in the family plot.

Railway Consolidation.

CLEVELAND, March 4.—E. W. Moore, for the Everett syndicate, and J. H. Harding, for C. D. Barney & Co., the Philadelphia bankers, have signed an agreement for consolidating the Lorain and Cleveland, Sandusky, Interurban and Sandusky and Norwalk Southern lines, including both local Sandusky railways, under the name of the Lake Shore Electric Railway company. The capitalization will be $4,000,000. A traffic arrangement has been made for trolley lines from Sandusky to Toledo, from Toledo to Monroe, Mich. Through trolley freight and passenger cars will be run from Cleveland to Toledo along the Lake Shore, thence to Detroit and from Detroit to Monroe, Mich.

Steamer Forced to Turn Back.

QUEENSTOWN, March 4.—The Elder, Dempster & Co.'s Beaver line steamer, Wassa, in command of Captain Symons, which touched at this port on Feb. 27 for passengers and mails on her way to Halifax and St. John, N. B., from Liverpool, whence she sailed the previous day, has returned to this port in a much disabled condition. The steamer reached a point 300 miles west of Fastnet, where on Thursday night a terrific gale, with high seas, was encountered. During the night the vessel suffered badly from the storm, having been steering gear disabled and much damage done about her decks. Several members of the vessel's crew were injured.

Trouble With Indian Wars.

GRINNEL, Ia., March 4.—The government is having trouble with Sacs and Foxes, the remnant of the tribe of the famous Blackhawk, now located on the Tama reservation. The tribe has formulated its grievances in the form of a protest which a committee of six tribal leaders will take to Washington. The tribal laws and customs do not conform with the moral standard of the agent, who charged them with polygamy. They claim that the agent forcibly interferes with the family relations resulting from their marriages, and they demand exemption from such interference.

President of Haiti on an Excursion.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, March 4.—President Sam left Port au Prince yesterday with an important part of the Haitian army for an excursion into the northern part of the country. During his absence, which will continue for three months, M. Tanouère Auguste, minister of the interior, will exercise a special commission, is charged with the administration of civil affairs at the capital.

BULOW AND AMERICA.

New German Chancellor Is an Admirer of Our Country.

His Exalted Position Is Full of Care and Perplexities—Surprised the Reichstag Parliamentarians by His Elegant Oratory.

Up to the time when Prince von Hohenlohe, the third chancellor of the German empire, presented his resignation to the kaiser no one knew positively who would be chosen his successor excepting perhaps a number of German rulers enjoying the full confidence of his majesty. They had been repeatedly informed by him that the natural successor of Hohenlohe was the secretary of the foreign office, Count Bernhard von Bulow. This information was given particularly to the grand duke of Baden, to whom the emperor is always frank and open. But no one really supposed, not even Count von Bulow himself, that he would be asked to take in to his hands the reins of the government previous to the opening of the reichstag.

How was this sudden change brought about? It can be explained by an utterance made by Hohenlohe to a confidant: "It is difficult to be chancellor to an emperor who wishes to be his own chancellor, but it is even more difficult when one is not advised of the secrets of his diplomacy. I am no longer master of the situation."

It was acknowledged on all sides that as a speaker the new chancellor is ahead of any of his predecessors. His manner was not a brilliant speaker. He usually spoke slowly and carefully but in the heat of debate lacked the qualities of quiet explanation and subjective reasoning to defend his diplomatic measures. Caprivi at the beginning of his career was considered a rather monosyllabic speaker, but very soon surprised the reichstag by a display of capacity, giving him the reputation of being a better debater than Bismarck. Hohenlohe, on the other hand, lacked every qualification as a speaker or debater. His voice was decidedly weak, and even the shortest explanation which he had to make was read from manuscript. Even in the use of the latter he would mix up the pages, making the appearance of utter helplessness.

COUNT VON BULOW.
(German Chancellor is an Orator as Well as a Diplomat.)

Bulow, as secretary of the foreign office, had frequently appeared before the reichstag in well-memorized and elegantly worded utterances. No one supposed, however, that he possessed any special qualifications as an effective debater. To the surprise of the whole reichstag, in a number of happy addresses, he held his own with such ready and noted speakers as Richter, Bebel and Lieber. Bulow, bred in the elegant school of French and Italian diction and eloquence, speaks in short, clear sentences, which are full of spirit and flowery irony. He holds the entire attention of his audience by never repeating or improving upon the words previously spoken.

Cares not alone within but also without await Count von Bulow in abundance, says the Chicago Record. When Bismarck began his career, in his efforts for the greater Prussia, and in the creation of the new German empire, it always remained his aim to be on friendly terms with Russia. He came thereby into strong opposition to public opinion in Germany, which in a measure contributed to his unpopularity at the beginning of his career. In the same manner Bulow, owing to the expansion policy which has pushed Germany to the front, has been influenced to put his country on the strongest and best terms with England, just as his great predecessor had done. But just as it was with Bismarck, public opinion is little satisfied with the present policy of its chancellor. It is believed by the mass of the German people that England for years has aimed to injure and destroy Germany's growing economic and political prosperity. Added to this was the recent consummation of the Anglo-German agreement and the refusal to receive President Kruger. In support of his position Bulow contended that if he should follow the advice of the Anglophobes he would only please France and Russia, who are anxious to humiliate and weaken Germany. These are some of the problems confronting the new chancellor.

As to the United States, he is anxious to cultivate the friendliest relations with our country. When Ambassador White came to Berlin Count von Bulow expressed the hope that the same friendly relations would exist between the foreign office and the American embassy as existed when Bulow's father was Prussian minister of foreign affairs and the present American ambassador was minister to Germany.

PORTO RICAN TROUBLES.

Natives Embarking For Cuba and Hawaii Detained.

PONCE, Porto Rico, March 4.—Saturday as 400 emigrants were about to embark for the Hawaiian Islands, the Cuban on the British freighter Aldborough, Captain Tarrant, the customs officials interfered on the ground that the Aldborough, being a freighter, could not be allowed to carry passengers from American ports. Mr. Fox, representing the Spanish-American Iron company, who was in charge of the expedition, dismissed the emigrants, who demanded four days' pay for the time they had been waiting to sail.

When he refused to comply with the demand, they raised a disturbance and made threats, though nothing more serious occurred. Mr. Fox disappeared, and the emigrants marched in a body to the city hall in quest of the alcalde. When they arrived there, they made another demonstration, but they were ultimately quieted by Chief of Police Teller. Ultimately they encamped on the plaza, and for a time it was feared that there would be trouble.

They were engaged by agents of the Spanish-American Iron company to work in the mines for $1 a day. Mr. Fox, when finally located, explained that he was simply an employee of the company and was under no obligation to make the payment demanded. He disclaimed all responsibility in the affair and laid the blame on the company for not sending a proper vessel. He said he had cabled the facts of the situation to his employers.

The people of Ponce are indignant at such treatment of their fellow countrymen, and considerable sentiment has been aroused.

The New York and Porto Rico Steamship company's Californian, having on board 500 emigrants for Hawaii, was about weighing anchor when she also was detained by the authorities. The local press had been publishing alarmist stories of ill treatment, slavery and starvation, thus discouraging and frightening would be emigrants, and men and women had been calling on the police to recover runaway children. Dozens of women had been arrested for deserting husbands.

As a result of these complaints and requests the police boarded the Californian. The officers of the ship refused to act, and the alcalde wired Governor Allen for instructions. Ultimately the custom authorities received orders to detain the Californian, and the police took off four children and five adults. The Californian sailed at half past 10 last evening for New Orleans.

When the house reconvened at 8 o'clock, the discussion of the resolution presented by Mr. Dalzell in the afternoon for the appointment of a special committee to visit Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines was resumed. The debate was interrupted by Mr. Burton, chairman of the river and harbor committee, who presented a conference report on the river and harbor bill agreeing to all items except four.

The report was adopted by a vote of 134 to 25.

A motion to concur in the senate amendment to the sundry civil bill providing for the St. Louis, Buffalo and Charleston expositions was defeated in the house by a vote of 78 to 139.

The conference report on the deficiency appropriation bill was concurred in, thus disposing of that measure.

At 5:45 p. m. a recess was taken until 8 o'clock.

After a spirited fight both in conference and on the floor of the senate the final conference report on the naval appropriation bill was agreed to, the senate receding from the one contested amendment authorizing the construction of three additional Holland submarine torpedo boats.

A conference report on the general deficiency bill was agreed to without comment. During the afternoon and evening the senate passed a large number of bills, among them being that to promote the safety of railway employees.

An agreement has been reached by the conferees on the postoffice appropriation bill. The senate receded on the proposition for rural free delivery to small towns, and the house agreed to the amendment for an investigation of a postal telegraph system.

At 10:55 the house took a recess until midnight.

WHAT CONGRESS HAS DONE.

Appropriations Reach a High Figure Owing to Expansion.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The volume of work done by the congress just closing was shown in a supplement to the house calendar prepared by Tully Clerk Wakefield of the house staff. The congress was in session 197 days, which is less than any congress for years. The following is given of bills, acts, etc.: Number of bills, 14,338; number of reports, 3,000; public acts, 345; private acts, 1,250; total acts, 1,595; number of joint resolutions, 395.

During the Fifty-sixth congress, which expired by constitutional limitation today at noon, the country has entered upon the first stages of worldwide empire.

Problems which have never before confronted the national legislature have arisen, and in the effort to solve them congress has exercised powers the constitutionality of which has been questioned by many distinguished lawyers and which have been called into question in cases still undecided by the supreme court of the United States.

When the Fifty-first congress terminated in 1891 with a total of appropriations amounting to a little less than $1,000,000,000, the country was startled by the amount of the bill the taxpayers were called upon to pay, and it was thought that the extreme limit of expenditures in time of peace for many years to come had been reached.

Yet now, only ten years later, the $1,000,000,000 limit has not only been passed, but the total appropriations for the congress will amount to nearly $1,500,000,000. The figures, as nearly as they can be given in advance of the official footings, show a total of about $1,460,000,000.

The total appropriations for the first session of congress, including the sinking fund, footed up $710,150,862. For the session ending today the total will be at least $750,000,000.

Much of the increased expenditure has been due to the maintenance of the large volunteer army and the prosecution of the expensive military campaigns in the Philippines and China, and the impetus given to naval construction by the Spanish war has led to the appropriations for that arm of the service being more than doubled.

Change in Ticket.

A change has been made in the ticket which the Democrats of North Plainfield nominated at their primary last week. When the committee waited on E. P. Reynolds, who was nominated for mayor, Mr. Reynolds informed them that while he greatly appreciated the honor which they had conferred on him, he could not accept the nomination.

In place of Mr. Reynolds the committee selected Hiram A. Woodruff who is well and popularly known in the borough, but has taken little or no part in politics there. While Mr. Woodruff is not as well known as the opposing candidate, Mr. Smalley, he has favorably impressed those who have met him, and it is believed by the Democrats that he will make an excellent man for the place.

While Mr. Woodruff has not yet formally declared his acceptance, the Democratic leaders declare that he will be a candidate and they expect to make an active canvass at once. With Mr. Woodruff at the head of the Democratic ticket, as with Mr. Reynolds there, the borough voters need have no fear as to the integrity and honesty of either candidate for the mayoralty.

It has been estimated, says the Philadelphia Record, that not less than two hundred million dollars is expended every year in the United States for advertising, chiefly in the newspapers. It is also estimated that a hundred years ago not as much as one hundred thousand dollars a year was paid for advertising. Then, and for many years later, merchants and others advertised mainly to help support the local newspapers, and not to promote business. Now nobody advertises in a spirit of charity, but purely as a business proposition. Every advertiser fully expects to get profitable returns from his advertising investment. That the business men of this country expend millions annually for newspaper space is the best kind of proof that newspaper advertising does pay.

Plainfield has always been so famous for the excellence of its water supply that it is a fact greatly to be deplored when for any reason the water supply fails to maintain its old standard of excellence. The complaints which have recently been made in the borough seem to indicate that the present arrangement, where by the water is allowed to stand in the reservoir on the mountain, is not satisfactory and should be carefully examined and the defects remedied by the officials of the Plainfield Water Supply Company at the earliest possible moment.

Great interest is being shown in the evangelistic meetings now in progress at the First Baptist church. Last evening William Phillips Hall, the evangelist, conducted his first meeting. The church could not accommodate all who desired to attend. Every evening except Saturday this week the meetings will continue under the charge of Mr. Hall, while Rev. T. S. Henderson, who proved such a popular leader last week, will be in charge of meetings every afternoon in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

The anti-spring election law will undoubtedly be a factor in keeping the Plainfield intact. On strictly local issues there was always the possibility of the defeat of the Republicans by a combination of all the local forces opposed to the present policy of administration. When State and county issues figure in the same election, however, the overwhelming majority of Republicans is going to be very hard to break.

Councilman George T. Rogers, of North Plainfield, and Councilman J. B. Dumont, of this city, are of the same opinion regarding the duties of the tax collector. They both believe that the old custom of being merely a tax receiver should be done away with and that the tax collector should be a collector in action as well as in name.

One of the new street signs is now to be seen in the office of the Daily Press. It appears to admirably answer the purpose for which it was designed. When the six hundred and seventy of these signs are placed in position it will be a time for general congratulation on the part of all the citizens.

Without doubt, William Newcorn was one of the most efficient and capable men who ever stood at the head of the Improved Order of Red Men in New Jersey. The growth of the order under Mr. Newcorn's administration, is an excellent evidence of that fact.

The attention of such Plainfielders as were not able to attend the inauguration of President McKinley today, is called to a summary of Mr. McKinley's inaugural address, which is published on the fifth page of The Daily Press today.

It is to be hoped that the trouble between the master and journeymen plumbers can be settled without causing a general strike in all the building trades. Such an event would be greatly deplored for many reasons.

The happening which will make the ninth anniversary of the founding of the Grace M. E. church a red letter time in the history of that church was the clearing away of the indebtedness of the church.

The campaign publication of the borough Democrats, as edited at present, promises to be more harm than good to their campaign.

To many, the combination of the State and municipal elections seems like a step backward.

One great inconvenience in connection with the use of the new railroad station will be that patrons of the road going east will have to go through the tunnel to arrange for having baggage checked or to attend to matters pertaining to the telegraph office. The people may become used to the change, but they will no doubt think and say many hard things while doing so.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Coers May Care
to Witness.

"The Dairy Farm," which will be at Music Hall Wednesday night, was one of the greatest successes of last season and comes with the prestige of runs of 109 nights in New York and 133 in Chicago. No play has received a greater degree of approval from the best class of theatre goers; not only have the critics praised it, but it has won the endorsement of the clergy in every city where it has been presented for its healthy moral, its purity of theme, its strength of characterization and the fidelity with which it depicts episodes of pastoral life. The scene is laid in a little village in Northern New York in the decade preceding the civil war. The story is extremely fascinating and of great dramatic power. The basis of the plot is the hate of a miserly old man for his neighbor, a country
quire of the old school; the mutual love of the niece of the one and the nephew of the other, and the tragic revenge of a runaway slave who has been trapped and sold back into bondage in the South by the miser. The slavery question agitating the country during the campaign that resulted in the election of Franklin Pierce to the Presidency, plays a prominent part in the development of the story and an old time political rally, in which the abolitionists and pro-slavery men are arrayed against each other, forms one of the most thrilling episodes. The costumes of the period are faithfully
reproduced and an entirely new outfit
of beautiful and picturesque scenery.

Mark Twain's amusing story of
"Tom Sawyer," replete with songs,
dances, and comical situations, interpreted by a splendid cast of characters, will be presented in dramatic form at Music Hall next Saturday afternoon and evening. Special arrangements for ladies and children will be made at the matinee performance.

INAUGURATION DAY.

McKinley and Roosevelt Take the Oath of Office.

VAST ASSEMBLAGE WITNESSES EVENT

Parade Down Pennsylvania Avenue
This Afternoon Will Be One of the Largest Ever Seen—Three Days' Programme.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Last evening at 9:30 the weather bureau sent the following bulletin to Mr. John Joy Edson, chairman of the inaugural committee: "The weather tomorrow will be the finest ever experienced on the inauguration of a president. The sky surely will be clear and the temperature warm and balm, a fit meteorological climax to the magnificent work done by yourself and your able assistants."

This prediction was amply fulfilled today, and the inauguration of President McKinley and Vice President Roosevelt has taken place under the most auspicious conditions.

President McKinley rode to take for a second time the oath of office as president of the United States in the carriage
that he generally uses in pleasant weather for his daily drive and behind horses
of his own. The president's equipage differed from the one he uses on everyday occasions only in that it was drawn by four horses instead of two. The carriage was an open one. The horses were fine.
The leaders were the beautiful pair of blacks that have become so familiar in Washington as the McKinley carriage horses, and the wheel horses were the new team of bright bays which the president recently purchased in Ohio. The White House coachman drove for the president, and the White House footman sat upon the box beside the driver. Both are fine looking negroes and were clad in brand new McKinley liveries.

President McKinley was escorted from the White House to a stand erected for the occasion in front of the capitol by a guard of Grand Army veterans. At the stand he was met by a joint committee of senate and house, headed by the chief justice and Vice President Roosevelt, to whom the oath of office had been previously administered in the senate chamber.

On reaching the platform President
McKinley took the seat reserved for him.
Chief Justice Fuller of the supreme court sitting on his right and the sergeant-at-arms of the senate on his left. The committee of arrangements occupied seats directly behind the president.

All other distinguished guests having occupied the special positions assigned them, Chief Justice Fuller at a few minutes past the hour of noon administered
the oath of office to President McKinley, who delivered his inaugural address to one of the largest assemblages ever gathered in front of the national capitol and only a handful of which could hear a word that fell from the speaker's lips.
On the conclusion of his address the vice president and the members and officers of the senate returned to the senate chamber, and the president was escorted to the glass enclosed reviewing stand in front of the White House grounds.

The president's address was in part
as follows:

"My fellow citizens, when we assembled here on the 4th of March, 1897, there was great anxiety with regard to our currency and credit. None exists
now. Then our treasury receipts were inadequate to meet the current obligations of the government. Now they are sufficient for all public needs, and we have a surplus instead of a deficit. Then I felt constrained to convene the congress in extraordinary session to devise revenues to pay the ordinary expenses of the government. Now I have the satisfaction to announce that the congress just closed has reduced taxation in the sum of $41,000,000. Then there was deep solicitude because of the long depression in our manufacturing, mining,
agricultural and mercantile industries
and the consequent distress of our laboring population. Now every avenue of production is crowded with activity, labor is well employed, and American products find good markets at home and abroad.

"The national verdict of 1896 has for the most part been executed. Whatever remains unfulfilled is a continuing obligation, resting with undiminished force upon the executive and the congress.

"Honesty, capacity and industry are nowhere more indispensable than in public employment. These should be fundamental requisites to original appointment and the surest guarantees against removal.

"Four years ago we stood on the brink
of war without the people knowing it and without any preparation or effort
at preparation for the impending peril
I did all that in honor could be done to avert the war, but without avail. It became inevitable, and the congress at its first regular session, without party
division, provided money in anticipation of the crisis and in preparation to meet
it. It came. The result was signally favorable to American arms and in the highest degree honorable with the family of the world. It imposed upon us obligations from which we cannot escape and from which it would be dishonorable to seek to escape.

"Intrusted by the people for a second time with the office of president, I enter upon its administration appreciating the great responsibilities which attach to this renewed honor and commission promising preserved devotion on my part to their faithful discharge and reverently invoking for my guidance the direction and favor of Almighty God.

"Strong hearts and helpful hands are needed, and fortunately we have them
in every part of our beloved country.
We are united. Sectionalism has disappeared. Division on public question can no longer be traced by the war maps of old days. These old differences have less disturb the judgment. Existing problems demand the thought and quicker
the conscience of the country, and the responsibility for their presence as well as for their righteous settlement rest upon us all—no more upon me than upon you.

"We will be consoled, too, with the fact that opposition has confronted every war ward movement of the republic from its opening hour until now, but without success. The republic has marched on and on, and its every step has exalted freedom and humanity. We are undergoing the same ordeal as did our predecessors nearly a century ago. We are following the course they blazed. They triumphed

Will their successors falter and plead organic impotency in the nation?

"My fellow citizens, the public events of the past four years have gone into history. They are too near to justify recital.
Some of them were unforeseen, many of them momentous and far-reaching in their consequences to ourselves and our relations with the rest of the world. The part which the United States bore so honorably in the thrilling scenes in China, while new to American life, has been in harmony with its true spirit and best traditions, and in dealing with the results its policy will be that of moderation and fairness.

"We face at this moment a most important question, that of the future relations of the United States and Cuba. With our near neighbors we must remain close friends. The declaration of the purposes of this government in the resolution of April 20, 1898, must be made good. Ever since the evacuation of the island by the army of Spain the executive, with all practicable speed, has been assisting its people in the successive steps necessary to the establishment of a free and independent government.

"The peace which we are pledged to leave to the Cuban people must carry with it the guarantee of permanence.
We become sponsors for the pacification of the island, and we remain accountable to the Cubans no less than to our country and people for the reconstruction of Cuba as a free commonwealth on abiding foundations of right, justice, liberty and assured order. Our enfranchisement of the people will not be completed until free Cuba shall be a reality,
not a name, a perfect entity, not a hasty experiment bearing within itself the elements of failure."

"While the treaty of peace with Spain
was ratified on the 6th of February, 1899, and ratifications were exchanged nearly two years ago the congress has indicated no form of government for the Philippine Islands. I shall continue the efforts already begun until order shall be restored throughout the islands and as fast as conditions permit will establish local governments, in the formation of which the full co-operation of the people has been already invited, and, when established, will encourage the people to administer them. The settled purpose, long ago proclaimed, to afford the inhabitants of the islands self government as fast as they are ready for it will be pursued with earnestness and fidelity.

"We are not waging war against the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands. A portion of them are making war against the United States. By far the greater part of the inhabitants recognize American sovereignty and welcome it as a guaranty of order and security for life,
property, liberty, freedom of conscience and the pursuit of happiness. To them full protection will be given. They shall not be abandoned. We will not leave the destiny of the loyal millions in the islands to the disloyal thousands who are in rebellion against the United States."

The final estimate of the size of the inaugural parade, which starts at 1:30 p. m., as given out at military headquarters, was: Military, volunteer and regular, 22,240; veteran organizations, 1,200, and civic societies, 7,500. General Francis Greene, the grand marshal, estimates that the parade will take 4½ hours to pass the reviewing stand if no unforeseen contingencies arise. Assuming that the inaugural parade actually gets under way on its turn from the capitol by 2 p. m., this will make it 7:30 by the time the last section passes the White House.

More than a dozen of governors of states and territories, with their staffs in full uniform, will be in line. Among the number are Governor Odell and staff of New York, Governor Stone and staff of Pennsylvania, Governor Bliss and staff of 30 members of Michigan, Governor
Nash and staff of 18 members of Ohio,
Governor Yates and staff of Illinois,
Governor Richards and staff of Wyoming, Governor McLean of Maryland,
Governor Smith and staff of Maryland,
Governor Dietrich and staff of Nebraska, Governor Shaw of Iowa, Governor Heard of Louisiana, Governor Longino
of Mississippi and Governor Murray
Crane of Massachusetts.

Sunday was quiet, but crowded. The weather opened threatening, with a southeast wind and a cloudy sky, but toward noon it cleared, and the sun set fair, with every indication of a good day to follow. From early morning till toward midnight every street in the downtown section was crowded. The local churches kept open doors both day and evening and were crowded with worshipers at every service, many of the visitors
being in uniform and reminding old residents of wartime Sabbath.

Sunday at the White House was uneventful. The building was closed to the public, and but for the visit of Vice President Elect Roosevelt the day indoors was not noticeably different from many others. The president, accompanied by his brother, Mr. Abner Mc-Kinley, and Mr. Hawkes, a visitor, attended church in the morning and on his return found that Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, their two children and Mrs. Cowles had arrived and were with Mrs. McKinley.

Vice President Elect Roosevelt put in a busy Sabbath preceding his inauguration. He is staying at the home of his sister, Mrs. Cowles, wife of Commander Cowles of the navy. After an early breakfast with the family Mr. and Mrs.
Roosevelt attended morning services at the German Reform church, of which the corrected time card of the remaining official events for the three days is as follows:

7:30 p. m.—Illumination of the court
of honor in front of the White House.

HIS LOVE WAS TRUE.

Pretty Romance in the Life of a Noted Desperado.

His Wild Deeds in the Border War Explained by Years of Honest Industry and Devotion to a Dear One's Memory.

“Bill” Hailey’s death, recently reported from St. Joseph, Mo., recalled his wild deeds in the days of the border war, when he served as lieutenant of Quantrell’s famous band. But the real story of Bill Hailey’s life was a story of love and sorrow, says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

He had been with Quantrell for two or three years, and gained his commission from that officer, when he fell in love with a beautiful young southern girl who lived at Independence, Mo. Shortly after the famous sack and burning of Lawrence, Kan., in which he played a conspicuous part, he obtained leave of absence and went to visit her. At that time Independence was full of soldiers, and no sooner had he appeared in the streets than they recognized and seized him.

A drum-head court-martial tried him and sentenced him to be shot on the third day following. Pending his execution he was placed in the county jail at Independence. Word of his capture and impending fate came to his lady love late that night. She inquired where Quantrell might be found, and, mounting a horse at midnight, rode off alone in search of him.

She found him at daybreak 30 miles away, and told her story. Without halting, except for a short rest, Quantrell led his desperate followers back to Independence, and she went with them.

At noon they halted on the hills above the town, and there she watched them as at the border chief’s command they thundered down into it and set her lower free. And when the battle and burning was over he came to her, and to her pleading promised to leave the band and the border altogether. He kept his word, and, shortly afterward, believing that it would not be best to begin married life in poverty, started west in the hope of soon winning a competence. For awhile he did well, fighting and trading on the plains, and was just making ready to return when a month or so later came telling of the death of his fiancée.

From that time on for several years he drifted everywhere through the west. Now he was a cowboy in Texas, now a prospector in the mountains of California, a sheep herder in Utah, or a freighter on the trails west from Ogden. Finally, about 12 years ago, he returned to St. Joseph and obtained a place on the city police force. During all the time he was here, the past 12 years, he was accounted one of the cheeriest natures in the town, and, though he spoke at rare intervals of the girl who died long ago, even those who knew of his great attachment for her did not believe that the disappointment troubled him very deeply. But he never married.

In the ravings of his last illness, however, the burden of his unsettled thoughts was of her—she was the one woman of his whole life.

Cheerful Business Invitation.
An enterprising undertaker, in Holton, Kan., has thrown his shingle to the breeze and in a local paper makes the cheerful announcement: “I have just completed a course in the embalming school of Kansas City, and returned with my diploma. I will have a full stock of coffins and funeral supplies ready by the first of the week, and invite all needing my services or goods of this character to give me a call.”

Monkey Gets Yellow Fever.
The yellow fever commission working at Mariannao, Cuba, tried an experiment on a monkey to further ascertain the truth of the theory that the disease is spread by mosquitoes. The monkey was inoculated by being bitten by an infected mosquito and on the fourth day the animal developed well-marked symptoms of the disease.

Arizona’s Petrified Forest.
There is a petrified forest covering an area of 100 square miles, in Arizona. Thousands and thousands of petrified logs strew the ground, and represent beautiful shades of pink, purple, red, gray, blue and yellow. One of the stone trees spans a gulf 40 feet wide.

Plenty of Breathing Space.
There is plenty of breathing-space in parts of Texas. Bailey county has but four residents; Cockran has 25; Andrews has 37; Lynn has 17, and Dawson has 26. Twenty-five other counties have populations of less than 500 each.

Scorned by His Best Girl.
A Georgia editor, having been discarded by a lovely maiden whom he had been unsuccessfully wooing for months, has come to the ungalant conclusion that “a girl may be a peach, and still have a heart of stone.”

OUT OF DOOR GOWNS.

Fashion Decees That They Shall Be Quite In Style.

For out of door wear costumes are of great simplicity. However great the name of the dressmaker and milliner who have composed the toilet, however costly the furs, the effect maintained is one of quiet elegance, with nothing striking. Formerly calling gowns were invariably of silk. This was a fashionable obligation not to be overlooked. Now even tailor made walking gowns are permissible, provided they are smart and fresh. Amazon cloth and satin finished cashmere are favorite materials, and such colors are adopted as deep blue, brown, iron gray, dark green and medium shades of blue, gray and beige. As for calling gowns of blue, red and other delicately tinted pastel cloth, they necessitate a carriage and are quite unfit for walking in the street.

The illustration given today shows a costume of copper red cloth. The tunic of the skirt is formed in single bands of copper velvet ribbon, and three bands of the ribbon are carried around the rest of the skirt, half way up. The bodice has a small basque at the back and is trimmed with bands of velvet ribbon which follow the edges and form a sort of yoke which extends from the top of the sleeves. The lower part of the sleeves is bell shaped and bordered with velvet bands, and beneath are full sleeves of light copper silk with copper dots gathered into a velvet wristband. There is a sort of vest of guipure on light copper silk, covered by bands of velvet, and the full chemise is of the dotted silk. The collar is covered with guipure and the belt is of velvet. The hat of copper felt is trimmed with copper velvet and a gold and jeweled buckle.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONABLE LINGERIE.
Colored Underwear Abandoned in Favor of White.

The fancy for colored underwear has waned, and there is a return to entirely white garments, even the ribbons being preferred without tint. This is always in the best taste and is, moreover, a serviceable style, as colored underwear becomes faded and defaced by the frequent laundering that is necessary.

The most fashionable underwear is comparatively plain. Bands of embroidery are much less used than formerly, the embroidery now appearing upon the goods of the garment itself. The French corset cover or underbodice is replacing the old fashioned, plainly fitted one and is gathered at the top and waist or tucked altogether at the back and adjusted to the figure in front by a series of tucks extending upward from the waist line a few inches, the upper part being left free and full. Lace is the usual decoration. The bolero bodice is also seen, short and plain at the back and tying across the bosom in a fichu knot. This is pretty and suitable for a stout figure, as it does not increase the size of the waist.

The illustration given shows two designs for nightgowns. They are both of fine batiste. The first is cut in a deep point in front and has a shawl collar embroidered at the edge and bordered with a deep ruffle of embroidery. A large bow with embroidered and ruffled ends fastens the collar. The sleeves are gathered into a cuff, embroidered and ruffled to match the collar. The second model has three graduated ruffles covering the shoulders. They are trimmed with lace, and the lower one is continued down the front in a double jabot. The high, turn-over collar is also trimmed with lace, and the cuffs of the full sleeves are ornamented to match. JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Question Indiscreet.
“What kind of weather do you think it’s going to be tomorrow?” he asked of the editor. “I fear it’s going to be like your subscription.” Then he remembered that that was unsettled and was sorry he had asked.

to request for all professing Christians to arise included ninety per cent of the congregation.

After a few gospel hymns were rendered the benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. O. McKelvey. A short meeting of the band of two hundred workers took place immediately after adjournment of the services. Mr. Jacobs addressed the members and requested them to use all effort to bring the unsaved to the meetings during the present week.

TWO OVERFLOW SERVICES.

Meetings Were Held in the First M. E. Church and Vincent Chapel Last Evening.

The first overflow service was held in the First M. E. church. Those who were in doubt as to whether such a service would be necessary had their doubts dispelled early in the evening. Before 8 o'clock the Methodist church was filled, every seat being taken and many were standing. For the benefit of those who could not get a seat, a third meeting was held in Vincent chapel conducted by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, assisted by D. E. Titworth, who led the singing. This service was well attended.

The large meeting at the Methodist church was opened with a song service conducted by W. C. Weeden, the evangelistic singer. Before the preaching service he sang effectively "The Inner Circle." Both Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass and Rev. A. E. Main were present and offered prayers at the opening and closing of the service.

F. H. Jacobs, the evangelistic singer, had charge of the service and preached. He read the eleventh chapter of Hebrews and from that drew forth many helpful and interesting lessons. The first part of his discourse was devoted to a consideration of heroes, and he remarked that the kind that people of the present day would select as heroes would not be the kind that God selected, and the kind read of in the Bible. He said that people today are so busy with other matters that they do not take time to consider the things which are unseen and which are real.

Mr. Jacobs considered Abel and compared him with Cain, and he said that at one time he thought one was as good as the other. But when he learned that without shedding of blood there is no remission of sins, he saw a marvelous difference in the two men. Abel brought the first fruits of his flock, representing the sacrifice. Cain was not in the same spirit and his offering was not so pleasing to God.

"Have you the foundation principle in your life," continued Mr. Jacobs. "Am I speaking to anyone in this audience with no hope beyond this vale? The shedding of blood should mean more to us today than ever, and if you are ever saved it must be through the blood of Christ. I want to hold up Christ to you tonight. It is His blood that cleanseth from all sins. I plead with you to accept Christ and give yourself to Him."

"You must first have faith and then your works will follow. The two must go together. There must be a cleansing of the heart, morality will not save you, but Christ will."

At the close of the sermon Mr. Jacobs made an earnest appeal to the unconverted and many yielded, deciding to become Christians. A number of cards were distributed and collected and much encouragement was found in the deep spiritual interest manifested by all.

MEETING IN THE WEST END.

Many People Attended Evangelistic Service Held in Hope Chapel Last Evening.

While the several evangelistic meetings were in progress in the center of the city, another none the less interesting was being held in the West End, in the form of a union service at Hope chapel. Practically every seat was occupied, and the same spirit of earnestness manifested at the larger meetings was much in evidence.

In addition to Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of the chapel, the pastor of the chapel, the clergymen occupying the platform were Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church and Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, the latter being the speaker of the evening.

After a brief introductory song service Mr. Herring announced his text as being found in Luke 4: 23 but took from it but two words "Remember Me," as were uttered by the dying and repentant thief upon the cross who, realizing his misdeeds, sought everlasting life from the Saviour who was by his side. To this self-confessed outlaw the speaker attributed five redeeming qualities, faith, heroism, penitence, belief in himself and belief in others and from which he drew a convincing moral by which all might profit in turning to Christ who is a constant companion and asking His remembrance as did the dying thief.

Following Mr. Herring the incident of the cross was further referred to in a few remarks made by Mr. Newell, after which cards similar to those used at the meetings during the past week were passed among the congregation, many of them being returned with signatures.

At the conclusion of the meeting those who professed their acceptance of Christ remained for the purpose of a brief conference with the pastors which proved helpful and beneficial.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB.

Head of the Great Billion Dollar Steel Combination.

Story of His Life Reads Like a Romance—Less Than 20 Years Ago Was Working for a Pittance of $2.50 a Week.

Charles M. Schwab, the man who has been selected through the influence of Andrew Carnegie for the president of the new steel trust, has, like his rival for that position, Mr. Frick, risen from the ranks of labor. Mr. Schwab is a native of Pennsylvania and is 39 years old. He was graduated from St. Francis college at Loretto, Pa., when he was 17, and at once entered the employ of the Edgar Thompson Steel company. He became chief engineer and vastly improved the mechanical works of the plant. In 1887 Mr. Carnegie made him superintendent of the Homestead steel works, and in 1892 he became general superintendent of the Edgar Thompson plant also. He has a marked ability for controlling men is courteous, and can be easily approached by any of the laborers over whom he is placed. His wealth is large.

And this is his story of how he rose from an obscure clerk to his present position, as outlined in the periodical Success:

"In the first place I stood on my own feet—always relied on myself. It is really a detriment to have anyone behind you. When you depend on yourself you know that it is only on your own merit that you succeed. Then you discover your latent powers, awake to your manhood and are on your mettle to do your utmost. It is a very good motto to depend on yourself. I am a great believer in self-reliant manliness, which is manhood in its noblest form."

"There was one thing that I discovered very early—that it was well to make myself indispensable instead of looking continually at the clock. Employers appreciate to the full men who may be trusted to do their work as if they were working for themselves.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB.
(Prospective President of the Billion Dollar Steel Trust.)

"We do everything in our power to make the men realize their importance in our company. My employers, Mr. Carnegie and his managers, realized mine, and I in turn follow their example."

"When I first went to work for Mr. Carnegie it was necessary for me to be up to the top notch to give satisfaction. I worked faster than I otherwise would have done, and to my impetuous, hustling overseer I attribute the impetus I acquired. My whole object in life was to show him my worth and prove it. I thought and dreamed of nothing else but the steel works. In consequence I became his assistant. I attribute my first great success to hard and active work. I found that those who were quickest were those who were promoted."

"A college education is not indispensable for a business man—a college man is usually in dreamland most of the time."

"To understand his business a man must start at the bottom and work himself up."

"A man to be successful must have a good general knowledge."

"I appreciated this fact so much that I never neglected opportunities to study. In my own home I rigged up a laboratory and spent many hours at chemistry."

"No man can rest on his laurels who hopes for advancement."

"Achievement is possible to a man who does something besides his mere duty that attracts the attention of his superiors to him."

"An employer picks out his assistants from the best informed."

"Always be sure of your facts—you lessen the esteem of your employers if you are not."

"I never encourage those who are not susceptible to encouragement."

"A man must be up to date and wide awake."

These Girls Mean Business.

The Business Girls' association in New Jersey has started a temperance movement which includes a pledge "not to accept as a husband any man who is not a total abstainer from intoxicating liquor, and not to marry any man to save him." The basis of their principle is that when the drinking man can be made to feel that he is a "dreg" in the matrimonial market it will be a long step toward sobriety, and when he can be brought to realize that no woman considers him sufficiently worth saving to marry him for this purpose he may conclude to make himself a little more valuable. Success to the Business Girls' association. It evidently means business.

The statement made in this respect concerning me in the sheet called the "Borough Taxpayer" is maliciously untrue. Andrew Lutkins.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness. Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly. Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 55 Warren Street, New York.
