

HIGH JUMPING AT RACES

Daring Young Equestrienne to Give Exhibition of Horsemanship.

AT THE DRIVING PARK

Beautiful Rider Will Show Her $2,000 English Hackney Pony.

"Aristocrat," Tomorrow.

Fancy riding and daring horsemanship will be seen at the Driving Park, tomorrow afternoon, in connection with the matinee meet.

junction with the matinee meet. Miss Adele Von Ohl, who is one of the best known equestriennes in the country, will give an exhibition on her $2,000 English hackney pony, Aristocrat.

Her exhibition will show the natural action of a horse whose spirit has never been broken. It is possible that Miss Von Ohl will ride Rifle, the noted high jumper, who has a record of seven feet six inches. It has not been decided whether Rifle will be shown in action tomorrow or the Saturday following.

Rifle is a dangerous horse for a woman to ride. It is said that no woman has been able to ride him successfully so far. Miss Von Ohl says she can ride anything that walks, and is confident that she will master Rifle in any contest that may arise between his will and hers.

Miss Von Ohl has had several years of professional riding experience. She is a natural horsewoman, and is as familiar with horses and their instincts as other girls are with millinery and lingerie—not that Miss Von Ohl is unfamiliar with both. She came into prominence two years ago as the star rider in the Hippodrome, New York, troupe. She was recognized as the best and most charming rider in the country at the time, and hasn't lost her distinction. She rode with the Pawnee Bill show last season, using the name of Della Champion.

MARRIED AT ST. MARY'S.

Miss Anna G. Forrestell Becomes Bride of Theodore A. Martin.

Theodore A. Martin and Miss Anna G. Forrestell, of 729 Arlington avenue, were married Wednesday afternoon at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church. The ceremony took place at 3 o'clock. It was witnessed only by immediate relatives.

A wedding supper was held after the ceremony. Following the supper, Mr. and Mrs. Martin left on a honeymoon trip. They will travel for several days.

The groom is engaged in the express and trucking business. He is an ex-policeman, and has served in the navy.

Irving W. Blininger has resigned his position with the Colonial Life Insurance Company, the same to take effect tomorrow.

PLAINFIELD GIRL HURT ON NEW YORK STREET

MISS M'GINLEY KNOCKED DOWN ON FIFTH AVENUE.

Miss Teresa McGinley, of 407 Richmond street, had a narrow escape from serious injury in New York yesterday while crossing Fifth avenue, near Twenty-second street. At the time the avenue was congested with traffic, and while attempting to cross the street, Miss McGinley was knocked down by a horse attached to a hansom cab driven by James Blair, of No. 101 Lexington avenue, that city.

She was severely bruised and suffered greatly from shock. She was assisted to a nearby drug store, where medical aid was given. An examination showed that the young woman was not seriously hurt, and later she was able to return to her home. Miss McGinley refused to make any charge against the cabman and he was allowed to go.

HOLY CROSS BOYS HOLD A SILVER TEA

PROCEEDS TO MEET OUTING FUND DEFICIENCY.

The disagreeable weather did not interfere in the least with the attendance at the silver tea held at the rectory of the Church of the Holy Cross, yesterday afternoon. The rooms were crowded with patrons, the affair being given by the members of the boys' choir to make up the deficiency as a result of the outing last summer. The net proceeds were about $45.

The rectory was tastefully decorated for the occasion and the choir boys, attired in dark clothing with Eton collars and white ties, made an attractive picture. The boys were assisted by Mrs. George A. Warner, who poured in the tea room; Miss Gertrude Pearson at the candy table, and Miss Ida Davis at the cake table. All articles purchased at the tea were delivered at the homes of the purchasers by the choir boys.

A feature of the afternoon was an informal program of vocal music by the choir boys. At the suggestion of the rector, Rev. George A. Warner, they assembled in the music room and gave several selections which were popular at the summer camp. The patrons at the tea heartily applauded the boys.

The tea was planned chiefly by the boys themselves and their mothers' support was enlisted through the contribution of home-made cakes. Those in charge were much pleased with the success attained and it is believed that the amount realized will about cover the indebtedness.

Debating Society Reorganizes.

The Debating Society of the Plainfield High School met yesterday and organized for the coming year. These officers were chosen: President, George H. Fisher, Jr.; vice president, Percy M. Myrgrant; secretary, Miss Ellnor Van Tuyl; treasurer, Miss Helen Dorothy. After the election there was a short address by the president. The members are planning for an active season. In addition to the regular debates there will be mock trials and formal and informal speeches. Miss Mary Loch, of the faculty, will again direct the work of the society as critic.

Appointed Delegate to Grand Lodge.

Senate Lodge No. 3542, Knight of Honor, at a meeting held last night, appointed A. A. Lake as a delegate to attend the session of the Grand Lodge, to be held in Newark on October 10. John H. Doane, appointed an alternate, has decided to attend also. District Deputy Bush, of Westfield, was present last night and made a few remarks, commenting on the excellent standing of the order financially and otherwise.

Funeral of Miss Annie J. Dumont.

The funeral service of Miss Annie Jean Dumont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Dumont, was held at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon from the residence of the parents, 45 Prospect place. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, and there were many floral tributes. Rev. Charles E. Herring, the pastor of the First Presbyterian church, conducted the service. The body was placed in the receiving vault at Hillside Cemetery.

Races Begin at 2 O'clock.

The matinee races at the driving park tomorrow afternoon, under the auspices of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Park, will begin promptly at 2 o'clock. Stages will meet the trolleys on Park avenue.

Neuman Brothers have a fine display of 200 baskets of fancy table and canning peaches. The prices are right. Call early to get the benefit of variety.

COURT HOUSE DELAYED

Work on Structure Resumed But the Corner Stone Ceremony Postponed.

BIG MARBLE BUILDING

Cost of Structure $200,000—Extra Work to Place the Blocks in Place.

Work on the new $200,000 white marble court house for Somerset county at Somerville was resumed yesterday, after being at a standstill for two weeks, but it will not be in readiness for the ceremonies incident to the laying of the cornerstone on Tuesday, October 1, as planned. The bricklayers, who were called off by the National Bricklayers' Union, because the contractors were employing non-union men on their work in other parts of the country, have been allowed to go back on their job and the foundation walls of brick are being rapidly laid.

A framework fully fifty feet in height has been erected in the center of the excavation. On the top of the framework has been placed a double derrick for hoisting the great marble blocks into place.

A number of stone masons are now laying the marble walls which will serve as the face of the building and bricklayers are facing up the marble with layers of brick.

NEGRO RELIGIOUS TRAINING.

Rev. Dr. Shepard Will Speak On It At Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

Rev. Dr. James E. Shepard, field superintendent of the work among the negroes under the International Sunday-school Association, will speak at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. His subject will be, "The Religious Education of the Negro the Only Solution." Dr. Shepard was the only speaker of color at the World's Sunday-school Convention held in Rome, Italy, May 20 to 24. Before that convention he read a paper that met with the hearty approval of the entire body. The paper made reference to the fact that the negro must have such training as will strengthen his moral being. It is this work Dr. Shepard is doing now. There will be a special chorus of twenty voices to sing at Sunday's meeting.

BARBER ISSUES DEFI.

Will Meet Alchemers for Hair-cutting Championship.

Frank Deluca, of 144 First avenue, Elizabeth, has issued a challenge to every barber in Union county to contest with him for artistic tonsorial championship and will bet $500 he wins. The contestants must show their skill in four different styles in hair-cutting.

This challenge came about through a dispute in the barbershop in which Deluca was employed. He was the head man and had five others under him. These five, during a dull moment yesterday morning, started an argument about who could cut hair the best, but all agreed that each had it all over the "boss." Deluca resigned on the spot, seeing that he had lost the respect of his subordinates, and ten minutes later issued his challenge.

William Jaeger Resigns.

William Jaeger, driver of the chemical engine at fire headquarters, has tendered his resignation to Chief Doane and in turn has been given to Chairman H. D. Hibbard, of the fire committee, who will ask that action be taken on it at the next meeting of the Common Council. He resigns to take a position as foreman at the Potter Printing Press Works, where he will receive more money and work less hours. As yet Chief Doane does not know who will succeed Mr. Jaeger. In fact, he says that there is no one in the department now for the position. The resignation may bring about a shift among the firemen.

Ordination of Andrew Townsend.

The ordination of Andrew Townsend, the minister in charge of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, will take place tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in Christ's church, Elizabeth, that being the time and place appointed by Bishop Scarborough. Mr. Townsend has been in charge of the Church of the Heavenly Rest for several months, having been assigned there from the Mission House, Trenton. He is doing a good work and is well thought of by the members of his parish.

Miss Mildred Ulrich a Bride.

Miss Mildred Ulrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ulrich, formerly of this city, but now of New York, and Harry Bliss, of Hartford, Conn., were married at the home of the bride's parents, on Wednesday night. They will reside in Hartford.

BRILLIANT CAREER

OF G. O. P. NOMINEE

Eventful Political and Professional Life of Justice J. Franklin Fort.

HIS RISE A RAPID ONE

First Appointed a District Court Judge by Democratic Governor—Seated in Supreme Court.

John Franklin Fort, the Republican candidate for governor of the State, was born in Pemberton, Burlington county, on March 20, 1852, and is the son of Andrew H. Fort, who still lives in Mt. Holly. His father was in 1866-1867 a member of the House of Assembly, and his father's brother was Governor George H. Fort, who held the executive office from 1851 to 1853. Young Fort remained in Pemberton until he was 21 years of age, leading the life of a farmer's boy, and having his share of the country boy's hardships. His early education was secured in Miss Nicholson's private school in Pemberton, and after that he went to the Pemberton Academy, where his teacher was Charles E. Hendrickson, a warm personal friend of the judge, and in recent years his fellow-worker on the Supreme Court bench.

Justice Fort's next tutor was William Hutchison, afterward well known as "John Sands," under which name he wrote articles for the New York Sun. He then went to Mount Holly institute, conducted by Charles Aaron, and from there he went to Pennington Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1869.

Preparation for the Bar.

In the fall of 1869 he entered the law office of former Chief Justice Edward M. Paxton, who was then a well known practicing lawyer in Philadelphia, but six months later returned to New Jersey and entered the office of Ewan Merritt, in Mount Holly. In order to help pay his expenses while studying, he taught school at Ewanville. He was also in the office of Colonel Garret S. Cannon, at Bordentown, from which place he went to the Albany Law School, where he was graduated in 1872 with the degree of L. L. B. Among his most intimate friends and a room-mate at the law school, was former Chief Justice Alton B. Parker, candidate on the Democratic ticket for President of the United States in 1904. This friendship continues until the present time.

Returning from law school without having attained his majority, Fort again entered the office of Ewan Merritt, and in November, 1873, having just passed 21 by a few months, he was admitted to the bar.

Campaigned for Grant.

When Mr. Fort returned from law school the Greely-Grant campaign of 1872 was in progress, and he entered that campaign for General Grant with vigor. During the next three months he made twenty-seven speeches in South Jersey. In the winter of 1873 he was made Assistant Journal Clerk of the Assembly, and he also held the same position in 1874, earning money enough to reimburse his father for every cent the latter had spent on his education.

Justice Fort went to Newark at the solicitation of John W. Taylor, then president of the Senate, who was at that time the Senator from Essex. Hardly had he settled in Newark before he became interested in politics, and in 1877 he went on the stump for George A. Halsey, who was defeated by Governor Bedie in his campaign that year for the Governorship. His first speech in Newark was made from the porch of Mr. Halsey's house on the night of the nomination. After that he toured the State with Mr. Halsey, making many speeches. Shortly after this Mr. Fort married Miss Charlotte Stainsby, daughter of former State Senator William Stainsby, of Newark.

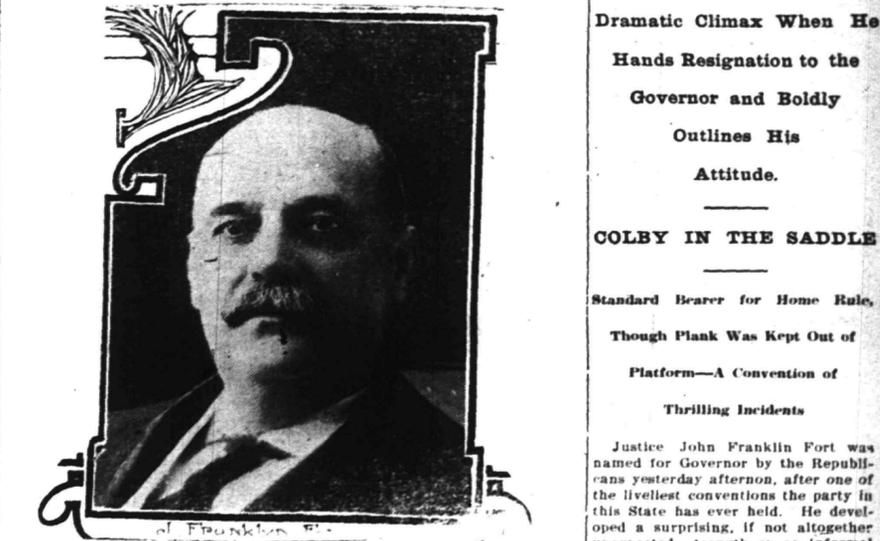

In 1878 Governor McClellan appointed Mr. Fort a Judge of the District Court in Newark, and he was reappointed by Governor Ludlow, but resigned the office in 1886 to practise law.

His Rise in Politics.

After Judge Fort quit the District Court bench he practised law for ten years, having a large and lucrative business. In 1884 he was elected a delegate-at-large by the Republican State convention to the national convention, held at Chicago. At that place, with six others, he acted independently and voted for George F. Edmunds, of Vermont, for President, until the latter was dropped, and then voted with the rest of the Jersey delegation for James G. Blaine, whom he loyally and vigorously supported after the convention. In 1889 he was chairman of the convention which nominated General E. Burd Grubb for Governor, and toured the State with him and was greatly disappointed at his defeat. He was also chairman of the Griggs convention in 1895, and was a speaker with the latter in the "whirlwind" campaign of that year, which resulted in the election of the first Republican Governor in thirty years. In 1896 Judge Fort was a delegate to the national convention at St. Louis, at which McKinley and Hobart were nominated, and speaking for New Jersey, he placed the name of Garret A. Hobart before the convention. He was also chairman of the committee on credentials at this convention, and presented the majority report for that committee, which read the notorious J. Edwad Addicks, of Delaware, out of the Republican party. Judge Fort's speeches denouncing Addicks and later nominating Hobart gave him a national reputation as an orator and resulted in repeated and frequent demands for his services upon the stump in other States throughout the union.

Appointed to Supreme Court Bench.

Governor Griggs appointed Mr. Fort Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Essex county in December, 1896, and on May 4, 1900, he was appointed a justice of the Supreme Court by Governor Voorhees. The date of his appointment was the anniversary of the date of his coming to Newark.

Since his appointment to the Supreme bench, Justice Fort has sat in many of the counties of the State, and made many friends in all. He has presided over the courts of Morris, Sussex, Monmouth, Middlesex, Ocean, Union and Hudson counties, and at the present time is the presiding justice in Hudson. While in Monmouth county he directed the movements which drove the gamblers from Long Branch in 1902, and they have never secured a foot hold there since.

In all of his stumping tours Mr. Fort has paid his own expenses, and he has been a liberal contributor to the Republican party for its campaign expenses for many years.

Drew the State's Probation Bill.

Justice Fort was the first man to advocate indeterminate sentences and the probation system in New Jersey, and drew the bill under which the latter is now operating throughout the State. In 188 he made a tour of European prisons under a commission from the United States, and reported upon them upon his return. The idea of probation and indeterminate sentences was such a new one that when Justice Fort drew the original bill providing for them for the Senate and House he had trouble in getting any one to father it. A hearing was given on the bill and Judge Fort appeared in its behalf, with the result that it passed by unanimous vote in each House with the exception of one man.

Justice Fort removed from Newark to East Orange in 1889, and has lived at 51 Arlington avenue, north, in that city since that time. He has three children, Mrs. Margretta Fort, Franklin W. Fort, a lawyer in Newark, and Leslie R. Fort, editor of the Lakewood Times and Journal. Justice Fort attends the Presbyterian church, and is a trustee of the Munn Avenue church at East Orange, and the Spring Lake Presbyterian church, at which latter place he owns a summer cottage, and spends five months in the year. He was active in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church for many years when in Newark.

His Private Life.

In his domestic life he is very happy. His home is his delight. It is a typical American home. No one who has ever entered it has failed to get the charm of the delightful hospitality and cheer always there. He is a man of exceptional social qualities, genial, kind and true. No one ever heard him utter an unkind word against any man, nor did any one ever hear an obscene remark or improper story from his lips. He will do a kindness for any one, even at a sacrifice to himself.

He is a man with few recreations.

He is devoted to the law and his judicial duties. They have been to him a delight.

Justice Fort has been president of the Sons of the American Bar Association of New Jersey since 1905.

He is a member of the American Bar Association and the New York and East Orange Republican Club and the Essex Club.

SOMERSET P. E. SOCIETY.

Mrs. Emily Williamson Will Open Winter Campaign October 7.

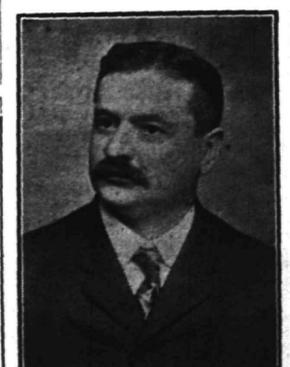

The Public Education Society of Somerset County at Somerville has organized for its winter campaign, and will resume its regular meetings Monday night in the assembly room of the public school here. The speaker will be Mrs. Emily Williamson, of Elizabeth.

Officers have been elected as follows: President, James L. Griggs; vice president, John E. Wehrly; secretary and treasurer, Miss R. Anna Miller; hygiene committee, Dr. Mary E. Gaston, Dr. A. Longstreet Stillwell, Dr. J. P. Hecht, Dr. F. M. McCaughy; domestic sciences, the Rev. Dr. E. A. Woods, Mrs. E. G. Read, Mrs. Louis P. Baston, Mrs. A. L. Canfield and Miss Helen Ballentine.

Samuel Isaacs Arrested.

Samuel Isaacs, of West Third street, was arraigned in the city court this morning, on a charge preferred by Mrs. Sarah Abrams, wife of the shoe dealer, who accuses him of using profane language and with being disorderly. Judge Runyon laid the case over to allow the principals a chance to marshal witnesses and bring testimony to straighten the tangle that showed in the hearing.

Miss Jennie Lea Broech, of Rutherford, is visiting relatives in this city.

Dramatic Climax When He

Hands Resignation to the Governor and Boldly

Outlines His Attitude.

COLBY IN THE SADDLE

Standard Bearer for Home Rule,

Though Plank Was Kept Out of

Platform—A Convention of

Thrilling Incidents

Justice John Franklin Fort was named for Governor by the Republicans yesterday afternoon, after one of the liveliest conventions the party in this State has ever held. He developed a surprising, if not altogether unexpected, strength on an informal ballot, and on the formal roll call only 115 1/2 of the 1,157 votes in the convention were cast against him. Of those, 110 1/2 went to Sheriff Franz H. Sommer, of Essex, candidate of the New Idea men, and the remaining five to Justice Mahlon Pitney, regarded as one of the strong candidates the day before.

Fort's overwhelming strength on the informal ballot was not counted upon by his most sanguine supporters. The delegations had been left free from "pressure," and not the faintest suggestion of slate-making was over the gathering. Fort sentiment gathered strength all morning, and by noon he was the leading candidate. Still, none of the delegations had heard anything like the sound of a whip, there was a strong undercurrent of feeling for Pitney, and Vivian Lewis gained in adherents and second-choice sentiment all the time. The "up-in-the-air" feeling resulted in a curious state of uncertainty on the part of the delegates and the observers in the convention hall when Chairman Griggs' gavel called the body back to business after recess. Predictions of Fort's nomination were freely made, but all the forecasters hastily added that if he didn't "get it" on the first ballot he wouldn't "get it" at all. Which means that up to the very minute of the voting none of them were sure that the Essex jurist was to be the honored candidate.

The result of the informal ballot made the doubts appear ridiculous. The votes piled up for him steadily, and the nomination became an assured thing in short order. On that ballot Fort received 753 votes. All but six and a half votes of the Hudson delegation were for him. Essex gave him 121. Union gave him 48 1/2 at first thought, then changed and cast 67 votes for him. In that first thought, Plainfield stood, 3 for Fort, 6 for Lewis, 2 1/2 for Sommer and 1 1/2 for Pitney.

Lewis proved to be the closest contender, mustering 179 1/2 votes. Sommer's 120 put him next, and Pitney finished a bad last with 96 1/2. On the formal ballot all the delegates except the Colbyites swung for Fort.

There was a moment of hesitation and the delegates waited tensely for a motion from the Essex independents. "Get in line, Essex," came the cry from the balcony, and the call swelled. Senator Colby went hurriedly about his supporters urging them to do the graceful, the politic thing. He had some trouble, apparently, but his words were heeded, and suddenly Judge Jones, of East Orange, brought a mighty cheer from the delegates by moving that Fort's nomination be made unanimous.

The nomination spread the balm of harmony and enthusiasm over what had been a most acrimonious convention. From 3 o'clock until long past 5 the Colbyites and the supporters of the liberal Sunday, headed by Carl Lentz, of Essex, had fought hard to force their ideas into the platform. Neither the Essex idea nor the Colbyite extremist plank framed by George L. Record met with the approval of the majority of the delegates, and there were a good many of them who allowed their disapproval to be heard without waiting for parliamentary routine. Major Lentz was howled at, and Record had an uphill time making himself heard. The latter's speech brought forth a demonstration speech brought forth a demonstration from all restraint but for the unyielding mastery of the chairman. The delegates interrupted Record

WANT MARSHAL DEPOSED. Nearly 200 Signers of Petition Asking the Removal of Marshal Jackson.

Rutherford, Sept. 20.—A petition containing nearly 200 names has been forwarded to the borough council, asking that Marshal Philander H. Jackson be removed. As the appointment is made by the mayor, the chief executive, Andrew H. Brinkerhoff, the council has ordered the petition placed in his hands for action.

The petition cites that on a certain day last June the marshal used his club on Henry Leire, of East Rutherford. It contends that its use was unnecessary and an outrage on the part of the policeman. It relates that the man's head was laid open as a result of the clubbing and that it required a doctor to put several stitches in the wound to close it up. It concludes that the prisoner made no resistance at the time of the arrest and that the conduct of the marshal was such that he should no longer be a peace officer, as a similar action might occur.

Reliable Money Lenders

Forget Your Money Troubles—We Can Show You How
Start life afresh. Borrow from us to pay the several you owe and make payments in keeping with your income. By so doing you keep your credit good. Ease up the pressure on yourself and have a chance to "turn around" in other things needed for the family.

An Illustration
One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $8 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

MORAL—Do likewise and avoid worry. Come in and we will talk it over with you, or drop a postal and a confidential representative will call on you.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

The Yale football team may be handicapped this season by the loss of three promising players in Burch, Cooney and Brides. Bob Burch, who got back yesterday, is in the hospital tonight, threatened with appendicitis, and it may be necessary to operate. Cooney and Brides are back in their work and have been forbidden to practise with the eleven until they make up the conditions.

Burch was looked on as the best end at Yale last year, but was injured in mid-season and only played part of the time in the big games. He was considered a sure man for the team this fall. Brides, the big guard, was also reasonably sure of his place, while Cooney, the clever centre on the strong freshman team last year, was counted on to fill that important place on the varsity.

Sammy Morse, last year's captain, arrived Wednesday to spend a week with the team. It was also announced that Owsley and Shevellin would assist in the coaching this fall. This was joyful news to Yale men. The lack of good backfield men may lead to Tad Jones, the clever quarterback, and Captain Biglow, the All-American tackle, being tried as halfbacks. In this case Dines would probably be first choice for quarter.

Football practise will begin at the Naval Academy tomorrow, most of the members of the team having forfeited a week of their leave to start in at that time. Slingluff, Wright, Northcroft, Leighton, Lange and McCormick, of last year's squad, who are members of the second class, are now in Annapolis, and several likely men have come in with the new fourth class. Spencer, a brother of the captain of last year's eleven, may take his brother's place at halfback. The practise will probably be under Lieutenant Commander Reeves, the head coach, who is expected to reach town by the end of this week. Jack Cates, field coach last year, will return on Monday.

Twenty-nine aspirants for Harvard football honors trotted out on Soldiers' Field yesterday afternoon for the first practise of the season. Only two of the men who played against Yale last November—Captain Parker and Wendell—appeared with the squad, while Crane, the head coach, was also absent. The practise was under the direction of Captain Parker and the assistant coaches, Brown and Leary. It consisted of punting, running down under the ball and passing.

The Princeton football squad held its second practise of the season at University Field yesterday. Owing to the steady downpour of rain, the work of the candidates was exceedingly light. After a short drill in the baseball cage the men had some light work on the field in punting, starting, catching and passing the ball. W. W. Roper, '02, the head coach, was assisted by J. Munn, '06, and ex-Captain Cooney, '07. The squad is unusually small for this time of year, less than thirty men reporting. Captain McCormick has not yet returned to college.

GOLF.

The Baltimore Golf Club is to hold an open tournament on Friday and Saturday, October 18 and 19. Some time ago it was decided to have some sort of a tournament in the fall, and in certain quarters it was believed that the club would handle the metropolitan open championship.

Conditions to govern the coming tournament are rather unusual, in that only amateurs rated at 11 or less on the Metropolitan Golf Association handicap list will be eligible. This, of course, insures a high class field. The reason for limiting it to two days is that the committee believes that it is difficult for a good many of the players to get away from business for three days at a stretch at this time of the year.

The exact details have not as yet been arranged, but it is expected that the players will qualify in eights. This is the same as at Shinnecock. The last important tournament at Baltusrol was the New Jersey State championship, in June.

Now that Baltusrol has announced its fall plans, speculation will be rife as to the fate of the metropolitan open championship. It is generally admitted that it would be a pity to ignore this tournament. The only two held thus far, at Fox Hills and Hollywood, were due to the efforts of private individuals, and the Metropolitan Golf Association did not have to make any outlay. Now the association says it is willing to pay half the expense.

Tomorrow the sixth monthly handicap at eighteen holes medal play will be held at the Dyker Meadow Golf Club. There will be first and second prizes. Another handicap is to be held over the Fort Hamilton links on Saturday, October 5. These will afford the last opportunities to qualify for the club championship.

Many of the leading amateurs of the country have entered for the invitation tournament, which began yesterday at the Morris County Golf Club. They include Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, the national titleholder; Walter J. Travis, of Garden City; Gilman P. Timby, of Powelton,

TURNED TRICK ON "NEW IDEA."

Places of Summit's Old Guard in G. O. P. Committee Filled by Regulars.

Summit, Sept. 20.—With the retirement this week of Postmaster Alfred M. Jones from membership in the Union county Republican committee the last of the "old guard" who represented this city in shaping the destinies of men and affairs political in Union county will have stepped aside. City Solicitor Corra N. Williams, who was regarded as one of the "powers that be" in local and county Republican affairs, was the first to tender his resignation after the inauguration of the New Idea movement here. Then came the withdrawal of Dr. William H. Lawrence after his election to the office of sheriff, and now comes the announcement of the retirement of Postmaster Jones.

While the unsophisticated citizen might be led to believe these had returned to the field of political inactivity, careful observation, however, discloses the fact that this city will not be represented in the county committee by any of the followers of the New Idea movement, but on the contrary the retiring leaders have quietly seen to it that their places are filled by faithful and ardent machine operators.

John W. Clift succeeded Mr. Williams, City Clerk J. Edward Rowe was elected without a contest to replace Sheriff Lawrence and Seaman L. Wright will fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Jones' retirement.

In the selection of the new men, the "old guard," it would seem, turned a trick on the local New Idea men, while the latter were permitted to name a couple of the councilman candidates and one or two delegates to the city, State and county convention, they paid no attention, apparently, to breaking into the county committee, upon which the "old guard" had eyes. The naming of the candidates for the council by the Colby followers is regarded by the Regulars as a master stroke in gaining support for Councilman Franklin in his fight for election as mayor, and City Clerk Rowe, who will be named at the city convention as a candidate for the office he now occupies and to which he was appointed to fill an unexpired term.

PLANS CHURCH IMPROVEMENTS.

Presbyterians of Hackettstown to Spend $1,200 on the Edifice.

Hackettstown, Sept. 20.—The congregation of the First Presbyterian church held an adjourned parish meeting in the chapel last night to further consider repairs to the chapel building and receive estimates. The contract to repaint the exterior was awarded to R. V. Kinsey for $147, the church to furnish the material. The contract to redecorate the interior walls and repaint the woodwork was given to Skinner & Beck on a bid of $349. The bid of the Hackettstown Electric Light Company to install a new system of lighting, at a cost of $106.75, was accepted, and the committee empowered to act. New sanitary conveniences will be also installed at a cost of $100. The heating plant needs repairing at a cost of $50, besides other minor repairs. The cost of rebuilding the part destroyed by fire on the evening of July 8 last will be about $300. In all from $1,200 to $1,500 will be expended in modernizing and repairing. Work will be begun at once.

Found Colored Man Under Bed.

Red Bank, Sept. 20.—Amos Harges, colored, 19 years old, was committed to the county jail last night on a charge preferred by Henry C. Taylor, a Middletown farmer. Mr. Taylor recently hired a Hungarian girl as cook and laundress. On Tuesday night when the girl went to her room to retire she was startled to see the bare feet of Harget sticking out from under her bed. She did not utter a sound, but retracing her steps went downstairs and informed Mr. Taylor, who hurried to the village hotel and asked Albert White, an employe there, to help him capture the man. The negro proved to be Harget, and he offered no resistance. He did not give his reason for being in the room. Harget had been in Mr. Taylor's employ about three months. He was brought to Red Bank, and Justice Sniffen committed him to Freehold jail to await the action of the grand jury.

FORT NAMED FOR GOVERNOR

time after time, and the chairman finally arose with grim determination showing in every line. He was there to see that the spirit of a Republican convention was observed, he told the disturbers, and he would hold the convention in session until Mr. Record had finished, if it took all night. The noisy ones recognized the master, and quieted down. There was no more trouble.

The fight on the platform was bitter and wearing. After it was all over, the platform as the Resolutions Committee presented it, with a simple pledge to maintain the needed excise legislation that had been accomplished, was adopted. Heat and excitement marked the debate. On the question of the adoption of the Essex idea, which was the Colby proposition for the local control of the excise question by vote, the convention was polled, resulting in 537 votes for and 619 against it.

When the nomination had been accomplished, the delegates were weary, and the warm work of the afternoon had left its tang of bitterness here and there. Then came Fort, summoned by the convention, and his coming swept all the weariness and bitterness away. His first action after the roar of greeting had subsided was dramatic in the extreme. Placing his hand in his pocket, he walked across the stage without a word, bent toward a box, withdrew his hand, and placed a plain envelope in the grasp of Governor Stokes. Then, after a pause, the nominee spoke:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention—I have in your presence handed my resignation to His Excellency Governor Stokes, and, having laid aside the honorable office of Justice of the Supreme Court, I am now ready to take up the duties you have cast upon me.

"I stand before you with a profound sense of the honor done me by your choice of me as your candidate. For ten years I have been out of politics, and during that ten years I have not even attended a political meeting. I come, then, much as a raw recruit to your ranks, ready to learn again some of the old ways and to get back into the old lines of political action.

"I can say that this nomination came to me without personal solicitation of any kind. If there is any one in this convention hall who will rise in his place and say I have ever asked him to vote for me, or that I have ever asked any other man to ask him to vote for me, I will decline the nomination."

"There was such a tumult of applause at this that the candidate was forced to wait for it to subside before resuming.

"More than that," he finally went on, "I do not have to thank any man for the nomination. I stand free and independent before this gathering—as free and independent as any man in New Jersey. No faction do I represent. I am unwilling to stand as the representative of anything but the grand old Republican party.

"At this time there is a good deal of independence abroad. Independence is a good thing and every man has a right to hold and express his own opinions. If I am elected I pledge my word to every man within hearing of my voice today that I will know no man, no individual, no faction; but I will know solely the party as a party standing for the people.

"It is right that you should know something at this time as to what I believe. I have not yet read your platform—I haven't had time. But I am willing to take something on faith from the Republican party.

"I tell you now that if I disagree with anything it contains I will say so frankly. I think that what is in the platform is right. I don't know whether it is in the platform, but I believe in direct nominations at the primaries. "I believe in an authoritative expression of the popular will in the selection of United States Senators. This cannot be made obligatory under the constitution, as it is at present, but if there is an expression of the will of the people in some way at the primaries or the election it must certainly be as obligatory on the Legislature as if it were written in the constitution.

"I stand for an effective and efficient civil service in our State, and favor a law that will bring this about.

"I believe with all my heart in the doctrine of home rule." There had been applause at the statement of each of the candidate's beliefs, but the home rule declaration was the signal for an outburst that was remarkable. Essex county's delegates arose as one man and cheered and cheered again. They waved their handkerchiefs and shouted their approval in every key. The rest of the convention seemed relieved, too, and joined in to make the demonstration even more exciting.

"I believe that each municipality should control in the matter of its police regulations," the speaker went on in outlining what were taken to be views on the excise question.

"I think I can say, in view of the position I have occupied, that I am opposed to vice and crime and criminals in every form. The proverb of Solomon is as true today as it was when it was written thousands of years ago: 'Right exalteth a nation and sin is a reproach to a people.'

"I am not going to talk about railroad taxation now. It is too long a subject to take up here.

"Recently, while I was in Europe, some investigations were made. I do not know what was the actual result of these investigations. I have not had time to look them up since I returned. I have had lots of hard work to do in the last few weeks. But I do want to say that it appears to me that the Governor of the State of New Jersey should be more responsible for the management of State institutions than he has been permitted to be in the past.

"The Governor should be a member of every State board and commission. There should be a law like that passed through the efforts of Hughes, in New York, that would make the Governor, with these large powers that I have suggested, do his duty or be held accountable.

"This is the opening battle of the great campaign that will begin a year from now. This is a skirmish, and we are taking our place in the lead. I do not care whether the fight goes on under the leadership of Taft or Hughes, of Fairbanks or Cannon; let the battle go forward so that the triumph of 1907 in New Jersey shall blaze the way for the greatest victory by the greatest party in this, the grandest country that the world has ever known."

It was the nominees' first political utterance of any sort since he accepted appointment as Common Pleas Court judge ten years ago.

After it was all over and the delegates were swarming about him to grasp his hand, Sheriff Frank H. Sommer, of Essex, one of the central figures in the great body of men, and a defeated candidate for the nomination, assured the nominee, as he had the delegates, of his hearty support for the ticket.

Senator Everett Colby, of Essex, and the Sheriff, the men who are the leaders of the New Idea wing of the party, accepted the invitation of Judge Fort to tour the State and speak in his behalf. Mayor Mark M. Egan and Colonel Samuel D. Dickinson, of Jersey City, leaders of the warring Hudson county factions, were apparently equally pleased and ready to support the candidates and platform.

Senator Ackerman, County Chairman Smith and Mayor Flisk were well pleased over the result of the convention. Mr. Smith declared that the party had picked a winner and that the platform was ideal. These were the sentiments of Mr. Flisk. Mr. Ackerman shared their belief.

"The convention," said the senator, "was absolutely free from any boss rule. The right of each delegate was fairly and honestly recognized in every instance. It was a convention of free speech. At times the situation was dramatic. It was a representative gathering of the very best elements in the Republican party. The platform may be said to be conservatively progressive and in accord with the advanced ideas of the people. The legislative record of the Republican party indicates that the pledges will be made a positive performance.

"Hon. J. Franklin Fort will, I am sure, prove to be an ideal candidate. He will most certainly be elected. His nomination has brought harmony out of seeming discord, and it was delightful to see the many different factions at the close of the convention all enthusiastically singing the words of the refrain, 'We are a united party and we won't vote wrong.'"

FOR THE COMFORT OF CHILDREN.

Children's shoes are a bug-bear to most shoe dealers because they don't go about it right. They don't like children to start with and they don't appreciate the requirements of little feet. Here it is different. We believe if we start in with the youngsters that we are pretty sure of holding the trade until they have youngsters of their own to shoe. This has been our experience and that is why we shall always continue to give unusually strong values in this department. Although the margin of profit is practically wiped out we believe it is better to charge it up to "good will." That is why you always find here sturdier, better made and more thoroughly dependable footwear for the little folks than you can get in other places. That's why we do the Children's Shoe business of the town.

Our "Steel Shod" shoe at $1.40 to $2.00 will please any youngster and the economy in buying them will please every parent. If your children aren't wearing "Van Arsdale's Steel Shod" buy a pair next time. They have been the solution of many a family's shoe troubles.

REPUBLICANS PLATFORM

Planks As Framed By Delegates at State Convention at Trenton Yesterday.

ALL ARE CLEAN CUT

Unequivocal Declaration of Principles and Ideals Upon Which Fort Will Make Canvas.

The Republican party again presents to the people of New Jersey an account of its stewardship and offers its record of faithful execution of pledges as a guarantee of future performances.

We endorse the administration of President Roosevelt as courageous and patriotic... We pledge ourselves to such amendments of this act as will simplify and improve our primary system.

The party has already undertaken the question of supervision of public utility corporations, with a view of increasing the efficiency, safety and economy of service in the interests of the public.

We favor the pending amendment of the constitution providing for the creation of Assembly districts, passed by the present Legislature upon the recommendation of a Republican Governor.

We favor a law providing that all moneys collected for or belonging to the State shall be paid into the State treasury, and that no disbursements of State funds shall be made except upon the audit and warrants of the Comptroller.

We believe in simplicity of government and we favor consolidation of all departments and commissions of similar character, and regret the failure of the Democratic House of Assembly to co-operate with the Senate to this end.

We pledge ourselves to correct any and all abuses that may be found in any State department or institution, and to hold all officials to a strict accountability for faithful public service.

We call the attention of the people to the incompetency of the Democratic House of Assembly, to the disgraceful scenes that marked its proceedings, to its absolute control by the lobby, to its refusal to pass laws for the improvement of the civil service, to pass laws for the reform of the grand jury system, to permit the submission to the public of the question of separation of the State and municipal elections, and to the reform measures passed by the Republican Senate.

The Republican party has inaugurated a policy of taxation of corporate franchises and by which the State annually collects a large sum for distribution to the taxing districts. We favor such systems as will compel franchisees to bear a just share of the burden of taxation as compared with corporate and individual property.

A Republican Senate has twice passed a civil service reform act which has been defeated by the present Democratic House of Assembly. We pledge ourselves to the enactment of a comprehensive civil service measure in the interest of higher efficiency in administrative affairs.

The Legislature has passed resolutions favoring an amendment to the federal constitution of the election of United States Senators by popular vote; and until such amendment has been adopted, we favor the enactment of a law, for expression in some authoritative way by the voter of his choice for United States Senator.

We believe in the separation of State and municipal elections and to that end favor a constitutional amendment providing that national and State elections shall be held in even years and municipal elections in odd years.

We have enacted legislation for the reform of our petit jury system, and we pledge a continuance of our efforts for a better system of selecting grand juries.

Our primary law—a Republican enactment—has done away with violence and fraud at the primaries and has enabled voters to express their choice and exercise their will in the nominating conventions. We pledge ourselves to such amendments of this act as will simplify and improve our primary system.

We favor the modification and simplification of the present primary law in the respects in which it is now cumbersome and intricate; and we believe that the most effective method to accomplish this purpose is a direct primary for candidates for all municipal and county offices, including Senators and Assemblymen, and we favor such an amendment of the primary law as will accomplish this end, with proper provisions for judicial review and recount.

STATE C. E. CONVENTION

Committee in Charge of Program Has Done Its Work.

TO BE HELD ON OCT. 9

Notable Speakers Among Those Who Will Take Part in New Jersey Gathering.

The committee arranging the program for the twenty-first annual New Jersey Christian Endeavor convention, to be held in the Peddie Memorial Baptist church, Newark, Oct. 10 and 11, has completed its work. The speakers secured by the committee after six months' work are among the leaders in Endeavor activity, and include Miss Grace L. Jones, superintendent of the New York junior department; Rev. Dr. William Patterson, pastor of Bethany Presbyterian church, Philadelphia; S. D. Gordon, the author of "Quiet Talks on Prayer," and who has spoken this year at the Northfield and Sagamore Beach conferences; Bishop Alexander Walters, the Eastern leader in colored church activity; Rev. Dr. John F. Carson, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn; Rev. Dr. Frederick J. Stanley, secretary of the American Sabbath Union; Rev. Dr. C. D. Case, pastor of the Hanson Place Baptist church, Brooklyn; Rev. Dr. C. H. Tyndal, of Mt. Vernon, and Rev. Dr. John W. Phillips, of Binghamton, N. Y.

As the State union becomes of age at this convention an added interest is being taken in the coming gathering by New Jersey Endeavors. A new feature this year will be a conference of district secretaries and county and local union workers, to be held on the morning of the opening day. The State secretary, Miss Ida B. Stephens, of Hackettstown, will be in charge of the secretaries of the New York State Endeavor Union. John L. Clements will take a prominent part in the conference. Among the topics to be discussed at this conference are: "How Shall the City Union Be Constituted?" "The Executive Committee and Its Functions," "The Congress Plan: Meetings, Members, Methods," "Committees: Look-out, Prayer-meeting, Junior, Intermediate, Evangelistic, Bible Study, Prison, Fresh Air, Correspondence," "Some Secrets of Successful Committee Work," "The Pastors' Advisory Board: Is It Essential?" "The Country Union: Its Peculiar Problems," "Is a Congress Possible? If Not, What Should Take Its Place?" "Are Sectional Divisions Advisable?" "Its Intervisitation an Advantage?" "Are Rallyes Practicable?" "Can Department Work Be Made a Success?"

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

There is one place where you are certain of getting the best anthracite coal at lowest prices and that is of V. W. Nash, Sr. Place your order now.

When you trade with John A. Koch, the Watchung avenue butcher, you always get the best meat, the kind that gives satisfaction. Prices reasonable.

George F. Brown, of Somerset street, deals only in high class real estate when selling and leasing, and he also represents the best fire and accident insurance companies.

Patrons of E. B. Maynard's barber shop on North avenue, are always sure of a first class shave, haircut or shampoo, while the electric massage is constantly growing in popularity.

SAY ALLEGED SWINDLER IS ALSO A DESERTER.

Elizabeth, Sept. 20.—George W. Robinson, accused of being a check swindler, who was caught here a couple of days ago, according to the police. His real name is George W. Fulcher, and his home is at Nashville, Tenn. The prisoner made a confession yesterday to Chief of Police Tenney, and said he is 24 years old and single. He left Nashville, East, where he enlisted in the regular army and was stationed at Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island.

He deserted two months ago and then went to Bayonne where, the police assert, he began his swindling operations and buncoed a number of tradesmen there and in Staten Island. From Bayonne he came here. He is a fine penman.

Fulcher was arraigned yesterday in police court before Judge Mahon, and several Elizabeth storekeepers appeared and preferred complaints against him. He was committed to the county jail to await the grand jury's action.

For State Normal School.

Trenton, Sept. 20.—Bids for the erection of a boiler room and hoisting plant at the State Normal School at Montclair Heights were received Tuesday in the office of the State superintendent of schools, Charles J. Baxter. The bids were for the various parts of the building.

Among the bidders were the structural iron workers, stone masons and brickwork, carpenter work and painting. The bidders were E. H. Ruxler & Co., Baker, Smith & Co., Stevens & Co., New York; Thornhill Pully Company, George Tobin, Ernest & Cook Company, Fred Kilgus.

Come Now to the Hallet & Davis Piano Store's Closing Out Sale.

The entire stock comprising many styles of many high-grade pianos will be closed out soon. Over half the stock sold last week; balance will go quickly.

Pianos Are Going at Nearly Half Price.

Your own terms, just about as you want to pay will be accepted. Don't miss this sale. Come tomorrow while a good selection remains.

OPEN EVENINGS, No. 170 EAST FRONT ST.

But a few days more. If the people of Plainfield who are in need of a piano or organ could realize just what I am doing here in closing out this stock, comprising the finest makes and styles of pianos, the unprecedented low prices I am making, the extremely easy terms I am offering, there would not be an instrument left in the house by Monday night; all would be snapped up quickly.

It will pay any one largely to buy a piano at this sale, even though they do not really need one for the next two or three years, for many of these pianos are being closed out at prices lower than wholesale cost, and on easy terms at that. Therefore, I would like as many Plainfield people here on Saturday as possible.

You will never regret this call, even though you do not purchase, the prices and terms will be a revelation to you.

EXTREMELY EASY PAYMENTS.

Many a family who have long desired a piano would grasp this opportunity if they could only see how easy are the terms and how low the prices. If you can spare $1.25 a week or even $1.00 a week, and from that up to $6 to $10 a month, you can come and have a piano sent right out to your home and be getting the use of it—learning to play while you save the money, little by little, to complete the payment, and you can expect the fairest kind of fair and lenient treatment while you are paying for the instrument.

STOCK COMPRISES BEST MAKES.

At no time in our long business career have we been able to offer such a grand array of good pianos and organs and at such remarkable price reductions. The stock consists of such well known makes as Hallet & Davis, Kimball, Conway, Bowen, Wellman, and many others. Most of these are new, some are slightly used.

ALL MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES.

Every instrument marked in plain figures—one price to all, the marked price. Cash or time payments the same, the only difference being a small interest on deferred payments.

BARGAINS IN NEW UPRIGHTS.

There are several New York made uprights left, in plain cases, designs which retail regularly for $250 to $275, sale price $137 to $157. Terms, $10 down and $1.25 weekly, or $5.00 monthly.

Standard grade uprights, worth in the regular retail way $300, $325, to $375, to close from $178 to $237. Terms, $10 to $25 down, and $6 to $8 monthly.

Highest class of Cabinet Uprights, comprising various fine makes, usually retailed at from $400, $450 to $550, to close out at $287, $317 to $343 and slightly upwards for the more elaborate cases. Terms, $15 to $25 down, and $8 to $10 monthly.

BARGAINS IN USED UPRIGHTS.

Used uprights to close from $95 to $150. Terms to suit. These used pianos are going quickly.

OUT OF TOWN PEOPLE SHOULD CALL.

People can afford to come a long distance to attend this sale if an instrument is needed for the home.

If you can't call, write at once for list of bargains, terms, etc. Will send pianos anywhere to be paid for on the easy-payment plan. Store open evenings until 9 o'clock to accommodate those who cannot call during the day.

Senator Heyburn, of Idaho weighs more than any other Senator.

Lord Euston, the distinguished son of the aged Duke of Grafton, is never lost in a crowd. He is six feet four inches in height.

Horace Goodrich Brown, of Collinsville, Conn., rode a bicycle until he was nearly 85 years old. It has been in the employ of one firm for sixty years.

Barnum and Bailey are in charge of the Burlington (Vt.) railroad station. Barnum is agent, and Bailey is the train dispatcher. The have never, however, been in the circus business.

The only surviving veteran of the Mexican war in Vermont is John Merrill Goodwin, of Ryebate. His four great-grandfathers served in the Revolutionary war and his father in the war of 1812.

Major Paymaster Eugene Coffin, of Manila, has had his left arm amputated, the result of infection from the handling of money in paying troops. He is a veteran of the Civil War and a member of the McKinley regiment.

The Duke of Devonshire has seven stately homes—six in England and one in Ireland—each of them fit for the reception of a king and not one of which, as he confessed the other day, he has yet lived long enough in to explore thoroughly.

The languid grace and philosophic claim which distinguished Mr. Balfour in the House of Commons never desert him, even in the stress of roiling. Even when he is badly bunkered his strongest ejaculation is said to be "Botheration!" or "This is indeed shocking!"

John Fritz, ironmaster and inventor, famous for his perfection of armor plate processes, celebrated the eighty-fifth anniversary of his birth at his home in Bethlehem, Pa., August 21. He began life as a blacksmith in 1838 and in his long career has been identified with almost every important step in the process of making iron and steel.

Thomas Read, who was orderly for Major Robert E. Lee of the Fourth Infantry during the Mexican war, is still living in Minneapolis at the age of 82. Captain Ulysses S. Grant was quartermaster of the regiment, and the veteran Read delights in reminiscences of the two officers who subsequently became opposing commanders in the Civil war.

FASHIONS LATEST IDEAS.

In the very newest neckwear, fagoting is applied in many different ways. Fagoted bands are much used to outline shaped collars of heavy Irish or cluny lace.

The elastic belt, imitating pompadour ribbon, is a novelty. The pink ones with flowers in dull pastel tints are particularly lovely, especially when worn with a gold buckle.

Petticoats are lovelier and more fluffy than ever before. Fine hand embroidery and masses of ruffles are the dainties that can be worn with evening gowns.

There are very attractive tailored shirtwaists that are worn with a white tailored skirt, made with open down collar and turnback cuffs, embroidered in a tiny design and scalloped on the edges.

The decided color of the moment is green instead of Nattier or Copenhagen blue. Green in dark emerald, lettuce, spinach or onion peed shades are the most popular. Blue-green is very fashionable for some gowns.

SOMETHING NEW.

Quite the daintiest prettiest things imaginable are the feathered hats that have arrived recently from Paris.

They are shown in endless variety. Humming birds offer themselves as particularly charming and adaptable, owing to the varied character of their plumage, and there are also some dear little peacocks in realistic colorings, and a distinguished note is shown in black crowns.

So fascinating are these feathery hats that they almost amount to trimmings.

WOMAN AND HER POCKET.

Why cannot female ingenuity devise some receptacle, approved of by fashion, asks the Onlooker, which will enable its wearer to bestow a small article, say a penny or a railway ticket or a powder puff, with some degree of certainty of being able to find it when wanted at five minutes' notice?

When one is waiting at the train gate, the inevitable hurried female is sure to steam up, who, on being asked to show her ticket, fumbles about in an overcrowded reticule, almost disrobes to reach an inaccessible pocket, and in the end discovers that she has mislaid it between the palm of her hand and her glove, which has to be removed laboriously.

The time wasted may make all the difference between catching and losing an express.

A HAT HINT.

Hats may be renovated by dipping a piece of black material in a little liquor ammonia poured into a small basin of cold water and gently sponging the hats all over. They need not be made really wet. Hang in a warm place and brush occasionally as they dry. You can almost fancy you have new hats.

Doctors in Germany. In Germany if a doctor is wanted suddenly in the night, instead of flying round in a cab or rushing wildly from house to house, one goes to the nearest emergency station and fetches one of several doctors who are always on night duty in their turn.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. Christian Harris, aged 44, of Elizabeth, N. J., is the mother of twenty-six children. There are three pairs of twins.

Mrs. Ida Webster, of Pratt county, Kan., last year harvested 5,000 bushels of wheat and 3,000 bushels of corn from the 800 acres she owns. Every acre of this was cultivated under her supervision.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., is a petite, piquant young woman with a slightly retroussé nose, large dark blue eyes, masses of wavy dark brown hair and has a pink and white complexion. She usually affects enormous picture hats.

Mrs. Emily R. Lincoln has been pointed by Governor Hughes to succeed her late husband, George I. Lincoln, as New York State agent of the Onondaga Indians. She is also postmistress for the tribe and superintendent of the Iroquois Indian school.

Mme. Patti speaks Italian, Spanish, Russian, German, French and Portuguese perfectly, and of course her English is faultless. Her memory is prodigious, her repertory consisting of more than eighty operas, of which she knows every detail by heart, cadenzas and words included.

Frances Bradley Storr is a little Doncasted child preacher who is electrifying Yorkshire just as Evan Roberts roused Wales. She is the 12-year-old daughter of a working woman, who is at present the police court mistress.

Cocoa.
Happily there is one beverage, says Table Talk, that children love dearly that may be given them without question—cocoa. It is so rich in nourishment if made as it should be, with milk, that it ranks as a food rather than a drink and is particularly useful in nourishing a child who dislikes milk by itself.

Brilliant Hair.

invite you to attend their Fall Opening in their Millinery Department, Thursday, September 19th, and Friday, September 20th. Showing copies of the newest imported Pattern Hats, such as you could heretofore see only by visiting New York's exclusive Millinery Shops. We have spared no expense to bring here a Milliner of such unquestioned ability as to give this house a prestige from the start as the authority on Millinery styles in this section of the state. We believe the women of Plainfield will appreciate our efforts to serve them with the newest and best at most moderate prices. Miss Strohuber, the designer, will be on the floor and happy to meet the visitors to this department, and show them the fruits of her labors of the past thirty days—you will agree it's a most charming collection of Hats at wonderfully "Little" prices.

FARMERS EARN MILLIONS

Wonderful Change in Their Financial Condition in This Country.

PAYING OFF MORTGAGES

Demand for Cotton Growing Rapidly, Making Low Prices Impossible.

"Notwithstanding the fears in the early summer that the long, cold spring would bring disaster to the crops," says the Manufacturers' Record, "it is now assured that once more nature will bless this country with abundant harvests. It is true that the phenomenal yield of corn and wheat last year may not be quite equaled, but it is also true that the output will exceed the average of recent years, and at the same time the increase in the value of farm products is likely to far more than offset the decline in the aggregate yield. There may be a decrease in wheat of possibly 75,000,000, but with the price more than 20 cents a bushel above the corresponding time last year there ought to be a net increase of $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 in the value of the wheat crop over that of 1906. With an increase in the price of corn and cotton the falling off in these crops will likewise be doubtless offset by their higher values. Thus the farmers of the country are once more to be blessed with a vast income—an income so great as compared with five or six years ago that it is difficult to comprehend the magnitude of the gain.

The value of farm products in different years has been as follows:

Years.
1880	$2,212,000,000
1890	2,466,000,000
1900	4,717,000,000
1905	6,415,000,000
1906	6,794,000,000
1907	*7,000,000,000

*Estimated.

These figures bring out several remarkable facts. Between 1880 and 1890 there was a gain in the value of farm products of only $254,000,000. Between 1890 and 1900 there was a gain of almost exactly ten times as much, or $2,250,000,000. But possibly the most striking fact in this remarkable exhibit of the increasing prosperity of the farmers is that the gain in the last seven years between 1900 and 1907 of $2,283,000,000 is only 9 per cent. less than the total gain of twenty years between 1880 and 1900. The increase in the last seven years of $2,283,000,000 is a gain of nearly 50 per cent. in that time. This gain in seven years is almost equal to the total value of the farm products of the country in 1890. In the latter year the per capita production of all engaged in agriculture was $287, almost exactly the same as in 1880, while at the present time the per capita of all engaged in agriculture is about $600.

Under these remarkable conditions we can readily understand the wonderful change which has taken place in the financial condition of the farmers of the entire country. Burdened as the West was ten years ago with farm mortgages, as the South was until 1902 or 1903, both sections are now to a very large extent free from such indebtedness, the aggregate of farm loans probably being smaller than at any time since 1905. The prosperity of the farmers is seen not only in the paying off of hundreds of millions of farm mortgages and in the building of better homes, but also in the heavy deposits in the country banks throughout the West and South.

"Every banker in all the agricultural regions of the country has been impressed during the past few years with the great increase in the deposits of farmers, and in many portions of the South a large proportion of the deposits in the country banks are made up of surplus accumulations of the agricultural classes. With such fundamentally sound conditions it is scarcely possible, however unwise may be the anti-corporation legislation of the day, for the country to again sink into the depths of panicky times such as we have had in the past. So far as the South is concerned, it is quite safe to count that this section will receive for its cotton and cottonseed an aggregate of $600,000,000.

"The world's demand for cotton has been growing at such a rapid pace that we are not likely to see low prices for a long time to come, if ever again; and whether this year's crop fulfills the estimate of the bulls or the bears, the price will doubtless be so regulated by market conditions as to give the great total of $800,000,000. Of this sum Europe will probably pay to the South to meet its bill for cotton at least $500,000,000, and with such conditions there must of necessity be great business activity."

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. White, of Mercer avenue, are about moving into the house recently purchased by them on Mercer avenue.

Councilman and Mrs. George P. Mellick have left their bungalow and are now at their East Seventh street home for the fall and winter.

Mrs. Lindley Baldwin and her daughter from Brooklyn are visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Chas. E. Case, of Madison avenue.

Among the automobile tourists registered this week at the Somerset Inn, Bernardsville, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richardson and party, of Westfield.

Mrs. O. F. Pearson and daughter, Miss Florence Pearson, of East Front street, returned yesterday after a visit of several weeks at Warren, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Pearson's home. This is her first visit there in sixteen years. They also spent a part of their vacation at Niagara Falls.

School to Reopen Monday.
The Parker School at Lincoln, which was closed this week owing to two cases of diphtheria, has been thoroughly fumigated, and it is expected that it will be reopened on Monday. The children who have the disease are under quarantine, and every precaution has been taken to prevent a spread of it among other children.

Death of Infant Son.
Rev. F. D. Tildon, pastor of Bethel chapel, whose family has been visiting relatives in Maryland, received a telegram last night announcing the death of his infant son, Earl Le Roy, aged one year, from an acute attack of bronchial pneumonia. Mr. Tildon left Plainfield today to join his family at Baltimore, where the funeral will take place.

Plans for new primary school building to be erected on Darrow avenue were filed in the office of the Board of Education at the High School today. They are now at the disposal of the different contractors who may wish to submit bids for the work. The question of using stone or brick has not been decided yet and contractors will present bids on both materials. The Board of Education will hold a special meeting on Monday night, September 30, when the bids will be opened. If they come within the appropriation, it is expected that the contract will be awarded soon afterward so that the work may be started as soon as possible.

Tennis Tourney.
The tennis tournament for junior mixed doubles will begin on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The entries close tonight at 6 o'clock with the chairman, T. M. Day, 740 Carlton avenue. Boys and girls under eighteen years are eligible.

LOW SCORES IN ANNUAL INVITATION TOURNAMENT

ROBERT ABBOTT AND DUDLEY H. BARROWS PLAY BRILLIANT GAME.

W. D. Vanderpool, of the home club, had the distinction of leading a "classy" field in the eighteen-hole medal play qualifying round of the annual invitation tournament which began yesterday on the links of the Morris County Golf Club. He returned a 76, beating the tournament record by a stroke.

Extra hole matches furnished plenty of excitement during the first round. One of these had Travers and F. R. Upton, Jr., of Baltusrol, for the principals. They were all square at the turn, and when Upton won the sixteenth hole the latter stood 1 up. He missed a short put on the next green, which enabled the champion to square the match. They halved the hole in 4, and the nineteenth in similar figures, but Travers won with a 3 at the next green.

The other twenty-hole affair resulted in a victory for A. A. Swords, of the home club, at the expense of George T. Brokaw. The best match from a scoring point of view was the 74, by Robert Abbott, of the Plainfield Country Club, the Deal winner, who defeated Charles Hitchcock, Jr., a former intercollegiate titleholder, who made his first tournament appearance in four years. Abbott won by 3 up and 2 to play.

Dudley H. Barrows, of the Plainfield Country Club, and Princeton, made a net score, finishing second among the first sixteen with a score of 42, 35-37, one stroke higher than Vanderpool. Robert Abbott finished twelfth, with a score of 42, 40-82.

In the first round for the Thomas cup, Robert Abbott beat Charles Hitchcock, Jr., by 2 up and 2 to play, and Dudley H. Barrows beat Max Behr by 1 up. The play will be continued today.

WIN FIRST BOWLING MATCH OF THE SEASON

ARMRIGHTS TRIM WESTFIELD FIVE; BRITTON IN GREAT FORM.

The first team match of the season at the bowling alleys was won last night by the Armrights, who defeated the Westfield five without any trouble. The Armrights rolled a strong game all the way through. Eddie Britton was in smashing trim. He started like a whirlwind, and the storm centre never shifted from his arm.

By RANDALL PARRISH AUTHOR OF "WHEN WILDERNESS WAS KING" "THE LADY OF THE NORTH" "HISTORIC ILLINOIS, ETC."

"You must not," she sobbed, "I tell you no! I will not consent; I will not be false to myself. You have no right; I gave you no right."

He permitted her to draw away, and they stood facing each other, he eager, mystified, thrilling with passion almost beyond mastery, she trembling and unstrung, her cheeks crimson, her eyes filled with mute appeal.

"I read it in your face," he insisted. "It told of love."

"Then my face must have lied," she answered, her soft voice tremulous, "or else you read the message wrongly. It is from my lips you must take the answer."

"And they kissed me?"

"If so, I knew it not. It was by no volition of mine. Lieut. Brant, I have trusted you so completely; that was not right."

"My heart exonerates me."

"I cannot accept that guidance."

"Then you do not love me?"

She swept, afraid of the impulse that awoke her, "Perhaps," the low voice scarcely audible, "I may love you too well."

"You mean there is something—some person, perhaps—standing between?"

She looked frankly at him. "I do mean just that. I am not heartless, and I sincerely wish we had never met; but this must be the end."

The end? And with no explanation—

"There is no other way." He could perceive tears in her eyes, although she spoke bravely. "Nor can I explain, for all is not clear to me. But this I know, there is a barrier between us insurmountable; not even the power of love can overcome it; and I appeal to you to ask me no more."

It was impossible for him to doubt her sober earnestness, or the depth of her feelings; the full truth in her words was pictured upon her face, and in the pathetic appeal of her eye. She extended both hands.

"You will forgive me? Truly, this barrier has not been raised by me."

He bowed low, until his lips pressed the white fingers, but before he could master himself to utter a word in reply, a distant voice called his name, and both glances hastily around.

"That cry came from the valley," he said. "I left my horse tied there. I will go and learn what it means."

She followed him part of the way through the labyrinth of underbrush, hardly knowing why she did so. He stood alone upon the summit of the high bluff whence he could look across the stream. Miss Spencer stood below waving her parasol frantically, and even as he gazed at her, his ears caught the sound of heavy firing down the valley.

CHAPTER XXII.

Plucked from the burning. That Miss Spencer was deeply agitated was evident at a glance, while the nervous manner in which she glanced in the direction of those distant gunshots, led Brant to jump to the conclusion that they were in some way connected with her appearance.

"Oh, Lieutenant Brant," she cried, excitedly, "they are going to kill him down there, and he never did it at all. I know he didn't, and so does Mr. Wynkoop. Oh, please hurry! No body knew where you were, until I saw your horse tied here, and Mr. Wynkoop has been hunting for you everywhere. He is nearly frantic, poor man, and I cannot learn where either Mr. Moffat or Mr. McNeill is, and I just know those dreadful creatures will kill him before we can get help."

"Kill whom?" burst in Brant, springing down the bank fully awakened to the realization of some unknown emergency. "My dear Miss Spencer, tell me your story quickly if you wish me to act. Who is in danger, and from what?"

The girl burst into tears, but struggled bravely through with her message.

"It's those awful men, the roughs and rowdies down in Glencald. They say he murdered Red Slavin, that big gambler who spoke to me this morning, but he didn't for I saw the man who did, and so did Mr. Wynkoop. He jumped out of the saloon window, his hand all bloody, and ran away. But they've got him and the town marshal up behind the Shasta dump, and swear they're going to hang him if they can't take him alive. Oh, just hear those awful guns!"

"Yes, but who is it?"

"Bob Hampton, and—and he never did it at all."

Before Brant could either move or speak, Naida swept past him down the steep bank, and her voice rang out clear, insistent. "Bob Hampton attacked by a mob? Is that true, Phoebe? They are fighting at the Shasta dump, you say? Lieut. Brant, you must act—you must act now, for my sake!"

She sprang toward the horse, nervously by Brant's apparent slowness to respond, and loosened the rein from the scrub oak. "Then I will go to him, even if they kill me also, the cowards!"

But Brant had got his head now. Grasping her arm and the rein of the plunging horse, "You will go home," he commanded, with the tone of military authority. "Go home with Miss Spencer. All that can possibly be done for old Hampton I shall do—will you go?"

She looked helplessly into his face. "You—you don't like him," she faltered. "I know you don't. But—but you will help him, won't you, for my sake?"

He crushed back an oath. "Like him or not like him, I will save him if he is in the power of man. Now will you go?"

"Yes," she answered, and suddenly extended her arms. "Kiss me first."

With the magical pressure of her lips upon his, he swung into the saddle and spurred down the road. It was a principle of his military training never to temporize with a mob—he would strike hard, but he must have sufficient force behind him. He reined up before the seemingly deserted camp, his horse flung back upon its haunches, white foam flecking its quivering flanks.

"Sergeant!" The sharp snap of his voice brought that officer forward on the run. "Where are the men?"

"Playin' ball, most of 'em, sir, just beyond the ridge."

"Are the horses out in the herd?"

"Yes, sir."

"Sound the recall; arm and mount every man; bring them into Glencald on the gallop. Do you know the old Shasta mine?"

"No, sir."

"Half-way up the hill back of the hotel. You'll find me somewhere in front of it. This is a matter of life or death, so jump lively now!"

He drove in his spurs, and was off like the wind. A number of men were in the street, all hurrying forward in the same direction, but he dashed past them. These were minors mostly, eager to have a hand in the man-hunt. Here and there a rider skurried along and joined in the chase. Just beyond the hotel, half-way up the hill, rifles were speaking irregularly, the white puffs of smoke blown quickly away by the stiff breeze. Near the center of this line of skirmishers a denser cloud was beginning to rise in spirals. Brant, perceiving the largest group of men gathered just before him, rode straight toward them. The crowd scattered slightly at his approach, but promptly closed in again as he drew up his horse with laut rein. He looked down into rough, bearded faces. Clearly enough these men were in no fit spirit for peace making.

"You damn fool!" roared one, hoarsely, his gun poised as if in threat, "what do you mean by riding us down like that? Do you own this country?"

Brant flung himself from the saddle and strode in front of the fellow. "I mean business. You see this uniform? Strike that, my man, and you strike the United States. Who is leading this outfit?"

"I don't know as it's your affair," the man returned, sullenly. "We ain't takin' no army orders at present, mister. We're free-born American citizens, an' ye better let us alone."

"That is not what I asked you," and Brant squared his shoulders, his hands clinched. "My question was, who is at the head of this outfit? and I want an answer."

The spokesman looked around upon the others near him with a grin of derision. "Oh, ye do, hey? Well, I reckon we are, if you must know. Since Big Jim Larson got it in the shoulder this outfit right yer hes bin doin' most of the brain work. So if ye've got anythin' ter say, mister officer man, I reckon ye better spit it out yer ter me, an' sorter relieve yer mind."

"Who are you?"

The fellow expectorated vigorously into the leaves under foot, and drawing one hairy hand across his lips, flushed angrily to the unexpected inquiry.

"Oh, tell him, Ben. What's the blame odds? He can't do ye no hurt." The man's look became dogged. "I'm Ben Colton, if it'll do ye any good to know."

"I thought I had seen you somewhere before," said Brant, contemptuously, and then swept his glance about the circle. "A nice leader of vigilantes you are, a fine representative of law and order, a lovely specimen of the free-born American citizen! Men, do you happen to know what sort of a cur you are following in this affair?"

"Oh, Ben's all right."

"What ye got against him, young feller?"

"Just this," and Brant squarely fronted the man, his voice ringing like steel. "I've seen his mobs before to-day, and I've dealt with them. I'm not afraid of you or your whole outfit, and I've got fighting men to back me up. I never yet saw any mob which wasn't led and incited by some cowardly, revengeful rascal. Honest men set mixed up in such affairs, but they

that Your Old Square or Upright Piano is Growing Less and Less in Value Every Day.

Naturally you hesitate to spend anything on it for tuning and repairing; you can use it but very little, if at all, and as time passes on it goes from bad to worse.

Why not put in its place a new, modern instrument that will add to the beauty and happiness of your home?

We will give you a liberal exchange valuation on your old piano. The balance you can pay in payments of from $5 to $10 monthly.

In the purchase price of each instrument we include a stool, scarf or cover, one year's tuning and free delivery to your parlor.

Why not decide to get a new piano now?

are invariably inflamed by some low-down sneak with an ax to grind. I confess I don't know all about this Colton, but I know enough to say he is an army deserter, a liar, a dive-keeper, a gambler, and, to my certain knowledge, the direct cause of the death of three men, one a soldier of my troop. Now isn't he a sweet specimen to lead in the avenging of a supposed crime?"

Whatever else Colton might have failed in, he was a man of action. Like a flash his gun flew to the level, but was instantly knocked aside by the grizzled old miner standing next him. "None o' that, Ben," he growled, warningly. "I don't never pay to shoot holes in Uncle Sam."

Brant smiled. He was not there just then to fight, but to secure delay until his own men could arrive, and to turn aside the fierce mob spirit if such a result was found possible.

"I really would enjoy accommodating you, Colton," he said, coolly, feeling much more at ease, "but I never fight personal battles with such fellows as you. And now, you other men, it is about time you woke up to the facts of this matter. A couple of hundred of you chasing after two men, one an officer of the law doing his sworn duty, and the other innocent of any crime. I should imagine you would feel proud of your job."

"Innocent? Hell!"

"That is what I said. You fellows have gone off half-cocked—a mob generally does. Both Miss Spencer and Mr. Wynkoop state positively that they saw the real murderer of Red Slavin, and it was not Bob Hampton." The men were impressed by his evident earnestness, his unquestioned courage. Several voices spoke almost at once.

"Is that right?"

"Oh, say, I saw the fellow with his hand on the knife."

"After we git the chap, we'll give them people a chance to tell what they know."

Brant's keenly attentive ears heard the far-off chug of numerous horses' feet.

"I rather think you will," he said, confidently, his voice ringing out with sudden authority.

He stepped back, lifted a silver whistle to his lips, and sounded one sharp, clear note. There was a growing thunder of hoofs, a quick, manly cheer, a crashing through the underbrush, and a squad of eager troopers, half-dressed but with faces glowing in anticipation of trouble, came galloping up the slope, swinging out into line as they advanced, their carbines gleaming in the sunlight. It was pretty, sharply performed, and their officer's face brightened.

"Very nicely done, Watson," he said to the expectant sergeant. "Deploy your men to left and right, and clear out those shooters. Make a good job of it, but no firing unless you have to."

The troopers went at it as if they enjoyed the task, forcing their restive horses through the thickets, and roughly handling more than one who ventured to question their authority. Yet the work was over in less time than it takes to tell, the discomfited regulators driven pell-mell down the hill and back into the town, the eager cavalrymen halting only at the command of the bugle. Brant, confident of his first sergeant in such emergency, merely paused long enough to watch the men deploy, and then pressed straight up the hill, alone and on foot. That danger to the besieged was yet imminent was very evident. The black spiral of smoke had become an enveloping cloud, spreading rapidly in both directions from its original starting-point. He arrived finally where the ground was charred black and covered with wood ashes, still hot under foot and smoking, but he pressed upward, sheltering his eyes with uplifted arm, and seeking passage where the scarcity of underbrush rendered the zone of fire less impassable. He could see scarcely three yards in advance, but to the rear the narrow lane of retreat remained open. Standing there, as though in the mouth of a furnace, the red flames scorching his face, Brant followed his hands for a call.

"Hampton!" The word rang out over the infernal crackling and roaring like the note of a trumpet.

"Ay! What is it?" The returning voice was plainly not Hampton's yet it came from directly in front, and not far away.

"Who are you? Is that you, Marshal?"

"That's the ticket," answered the voice, gruffly, "an' just as full o' fight es ever."

Brant lifted his jacket to protect his face from the scorching heat. There was certainly no time to lose in an exchange of compliments.

"I'm Brant, Lieutenant Seventh cavalry," he cried, choking with the thickening smoke. "My troop has scattered those fellows who were hunting you. I'll protect you and your prisoner, but you'll have to get out of there at once. Can you locate me and make a dash for it? Wrap your coats around your heads, and leave your guns behind."

An instant he waited for the answer, fairly writhing in the intense heat, then Mason shouted, "Hampton's been shot, and I'm winged a little; I can't carry him."

Brant ripped off his jacket, wrapped it about his mouth and with a prayer in his heart, leaped forward into the seemingly narrow fringe of fire in his front. Head down, he ran blindly, stumbling forward as he struck the ore-dump, and beating out with his hands the sparks that scorched his clothing. The smoke appeared to roll higher from the ground here, and the coughing soldier crept up beneath it, breathing the hot air, and feeling as though his entire body were afire. Mason, his countenance black and unrecognizable, his shirt soaked with blood, peered into his face.

"Hell, ain't it!" he spluttered, "but you're a dandy all right!"

"Is Hampton dead?"

"I reckon not. Got hit bad, though." Brant cast one glance into the white, unconscious face of his rival, and acted with the promptness of military training.

"Whip off your shirt, Mason, and tie it around your face," he commanded. "Lively now!"

He bound his silk neckerchief across Hampton's mouth, and lifted the limp form partially from the ground. "Help me to get him up. There, that will do. Now keep as close as you can so as to steady him if I trip. Straight ahead—run for it!"

"I Read it in Your Face" He insisted, "It Told of Love."

They sprang directly into the lurid flames, bending low. Brant's hands grasping the inert form lying across his shoulder. They dashed stumbling through the black, smouldering lane beyond. Halfway down this, the ground yet hot beneath their feet, the vapor stifling, but with clearer breaths of air blowing in their faces, Brant tripped and fell. Mason beat out the smouldering sparks in his clothing, and assisted him to stagger to his feet once more. Then together they bore him slowly down below the first fire-line.

CHAPTER XXIII. The Door Closes.

Totally exhausted, the two men dropped their heavy burden on the earth. Mason swore as the blood began dripping again from his wound, which had been torn afresh in his efforts to bear Hampton to safety. Just below them a mounted trooper caught sight of them and came forward. He failed to recognize his officer in the begrimed person before him, until called to attention by the voice of command.

"Sims, if there is any water in your canteen, hand it over. Good; here, Marshal, use this. Now, Sims, note what I say carefully, and don't waste a minute. Tell the first sergeant to send a file of men up here with some sort of a litter, on the run. Then you ride to the Herndon house—the yellow horse where the roads fork, you remember—and tell Miss Naida Gillis (don't forget the name) that Mr. Hampton has been seriously wounded, and we are taking him to the hotel. Can you remember that?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then off with you, and don't spare the horse."

He was gone instantly, and Brant began bathing the pallid, upturned face.

"You'd better lie down, Marshal," he commanded. "You're pretty weak from loss of blood, and I can do all there is to be done until those fellows get here."

In 15 minutes they appeared, and five minutes later they were toiling slowly down to the valley, Brant walking beside his still unconscious rival. Here and there down the street, but especially about the steps of the Occidental, were gathered the discomfited vigilantes, busily discussing the affair, and cursing the watchful, silent guard. As these caught sight of the little party approaching there were shouts of derision. The sight and sound angered Brant.

"Carry Hampton to his room and summon medical attendance at once," he ordered. "I have a word to say to those fellows."

Seeing Mr. Wynkoop on the hotel porch, Brant said to him: "Miss Spencer informed me that you saw a man leap from the back window of the Occidental. Is that true?"

The missionary nodded.

"Good; then come along with me. I intend breaking the back of this lynching business right here and now."

He strode directly across the street to the steps of the Occidental, his clothing scarcely more than smoldering rags. The crowd stared at him sullenly; then suddenly a reaction came, and the American spirit of fair play, the frontier appreciation of bulldog courage, burst forth into a confused murmur, that became half a cheer. Brant did not mind his words.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE JOKE WAS ON HER.

Comparison Made by Woman Lawyer Left Opening for Opponent.

A woman member of the bar in New York gives the following correspondence with the reservation that no names shall be quoted: "I am one of the few women," she says, "who can see a joke even if aimed at myself. I do not feel that in this case I came off first best."

Fishhawk Gives Up Prey. Aleck Canova brought a three-pound trout to the Record office the other morning and gave a very interesting description of the manner in which it was caught.

For Air Regeneration. Fused sodium peroxide, electrically prepared, is the chemical agent in a process of air regeneration that has been recommended for such purposes as submarine boats, etc.

The Technicality. "Your honor," said the lawyer for the prisoner, "there is no course open to you but to dismiss the case against my client."

Coyote Universally Despised. The coyote is a creature without a friend, an Ishmaelite whom men and animals have combined in despising.

THE ANTS' EGG TRADE. Russian Gatherer Has Insects Help Him in Collecting. Ants' eggs come in the main from Russia. They are the best food obtainable for gold fish, and canaries and other cage birds thrive on them wonderfully. They cost about 50 cents a pint. In the forests of southern Russia ant nests abound. The Russian egg hunter does not do his own collecting there—he makes the poor ants do it for him. Selecting a hot, sunny day, the man first erects little piles of twigs, a dozen or more of them, near the thickest colonies, and then he kicks open all the nests in the neighborhood. The ants know that their eggs, thus exposed to the sun would be made sterile in a few hours and they take them up and hurry to their underground shelter. The Bar at 31 courses, the little pile under each of these there are soon heaped the eggs from a hundred nests. The egg hunter, after a smoke and a nap, has nothing to do but gather up his spoil and dump it in his sack. He ships the eggs in hundred-weight bags, all over the world.

A SNAP FOR THE MICE. "Beads" of Rice Furnished Forth an Appetizing Luncheon. The wind shook the Japanese curtain of bamboo and glass beads, and as the strands divided the beach was visible—the white beach, the blue sea and the bathers bobbing up and down in the sun-warmed billows. "These Japanese curtains," said the host, "are a fraud, some of them. No wonder you can see through them. They get thinner and thinner. For the glass beads disappear. The mice eat them." "Mice eat glass beads?" Impossible! "So I thought at first. But, finding the beads on all my curtains disappearing, I investigated. And I found that these pretty pale beads were not made of glass at all. They were made of rice. They were translucent rice kernels strung beadlike between the bits of bamboo. No wonder they disappeared so fast. They made a fine lunch for the mice."

Woman M. P.'s Mishap. One of the women members of the Finnish diet met with a laughable mishap recently while attending the sittings of a local committee. Bored by the proceedings she bestrode her chair and rocked to and fro with her feet clear of the ground. Suddenly she overbalanced and fell above the chair, with which she battled for some moments as she lay on the floor. The equality of the sexes is coming to be looked upon so much as a matter of course that the male members of the committee, not concealing their appreciation of the humor of the situation, are reported to have been unamiable enough to refrain from expressing regret at the mishap.—London Mail.

Horns on Horse's Skull. A recently acquired abnormality of the British horse is the skull of an English horse showing a pair of rudimentary horns on the forehead. Older specimens are a portion of a similar skull with the horns and models of the foreheads of two thoroughbred haying horns. The skin extends uniformly over the horns, with no sign of thickening or hardening. Just what these hornlike growths signify is perplexing naturalists, as none of the ancestral horses or immediately related species were horned animals, and if there is no hereditary influence it is remarkable that so many freak appendages should appear in the same place.

Affection Between Senators. There was sincere affection between the late Alabama senators, Morgan and Pettus. It is said that Pettus adored Morgan. He looked up to him as few men look up to other men. When Morgan passed away the fading old veteran lost all interest in life. These things sound unbelievable, perhaps, to a skeptical modern man, but Morgan and Pettus did not belong to a modern time. They were relics of an older age. They passed away almost together. The death of one preceded and the Alabama men say, brought about the death of the other. Together they lie in Selma, where, side by side, they lived for 49 years.

Strenuous Medical Treatment. Although the Maoris of New Zealand have made considerable strides in civilization during recent years some of their barbaric superstitions survive. One of the most persistent is belief in the "tohunga" or tribal medicine man. His patients sometimes succumb to his energetic methods of treatment. The latest case of that sort comes from Waikato. A sick girl, after having been immersed in cold water for some hours, was beat-out with sticks to drive the evil spirits out, the "tohunga" afterward gripping her throat to prevent their reentering. She died the next day.

Copperhead's Hiding Place. While picking corn from a barrel Mrs. Irvin Showers thought the corn was being moved of its own accord, but upon closer investigation she discovered some shiny object in the bottom of the barrel. Suspicion was aroused and Mr. Showers' attention was called to the moving contents of the vessel. A pair of piners was secured and a large copperhead snake was drawn from between the ears of corn. Mrs. Showers had been picking close to danger.—Punxsutawney Spirit.
