Board of Trade Discusses Various Methods for Advertising Plainfield.

PRAISE BRICK PAVING

Garbage Disposal, Arc Lights, Street
Sprinkling Among Other.

Matters Considered.

Free discussion of nearly every subject of municipal importance engaged the attention of the Board of Trade at its monthly meeting last night, including arc lights, street sprinkling, municipal ownership of water supply, methods for advertising the city, brick pavement and garbage disposal. President H. W. Marshall was in the chair, and in the absence of E. F. Felckert, secretary, his place was filled by Millard F. Elderton.

The question of securing additional arc lights for the business section of the city was introduced by Mr. Marshall, and J. V. E. Vanderhoff, to whom was referred the matter, presented a letter from Councilman F. L. Montgomery, chairman of the light committee, who stated that inasmuch as the city had withheld the Public Service Corporation light bills for some time, it was not thought advisable to take any action regarding additional arc lights. He said that the city expected to adjust the difficulty soon, when a new contract will be made with the company. Then it was proposed to favor the installation of more arc lights. He believed the new contract would give the city light for less money than the present rate.

Publicity Ideas.

Mr. Marshall referred to the advisability of publishing a year book of Plainfield, similar to the one issued by the Elizabeth Board of Trade, and published by the Evening Times of that city. Mr. Marshall stated that 5,000 books were issued annually in Elizabeth at a cost of about $4,300. Some of the books were bound in substantial cover and sold for $1 each. He said that such a book could be gotten out here at no expense to the Board of Trade, the merchants being expected to place their advertisements in it and thus meet the expense. No action was taken, as Mr. Vanderhoff reported that a Brooklyn concern is now at work on a similar scheme.

It was suggested by A. E. Force that an attractive envelope, containing pictures of city and a map, be secured and the merchants used for advertising. Isaac Schwed favored newspaper advertising, and said that a majority of those who contributed to the publicity fund understood that the funds would be used that way.

"The trouble is," said Mr. Marshall, "those who contributed want too much for their money. They want a page advertisement in a New York paper once a week. This cannot be done with the money subscribed."

Reference was made to the folders issued by the board, and it was decided to have an additional 5,000 printed with new pictures and reading matter. The question of getting envelopes was left to the advertising committee.

It was reported that additional cans to be used on the streets for the collection of papers and refuse have arrived, and City Engineer Gavett desired instruction as to where they should be put. It was decided to let M. Gavett attend to the matter as he deemed best.

Street Sprinkling.

There was a warm discussion about street sprinkling and it was the sense of the members that the city should not sprinkle the trolley tracks, but put the water on other streets. It was argued that the Public Service Corporation should sprinkle its own tracks. Complaint was made that in the outside districts the streets are deluged with water, while in the business section they are dusty. The matter will be taken up with the city officials with a view to having the sprinkling done in a proper manner.

Mr. Vanderhoff remarked that if the members had reason to kick about the city sprinkling they should visit North Plainfield. He said that most of the water is used in Bull Frog City. He suggested oil for the streets.

The question of the high water rates here was thrashed out. It was said that at Harrisburg, Pa., the rates are $6 a year, and that last year $40,000 was the profit on the plant. F. A. Dattenhofer, who formerly resided at Harrisburg, said that when he moved here he called at the local water office, and asked for a meter, but was refused. In his opinion an ordinary family could not use more than $6 worth of water a year.

Defends Water Company.

This attack on the water company aroused L. B. Woolston, who said

LAY CORNERSTONE FOR THE COLES MEMORIAL

HIGH SCHOOL IN INDIA GIFT OF SCOTCH PLAINS FAMILY.

The Baptist Missionary Magazine for October has a deeply interesting article, telling of the dedication of "The Coles Memorial" at Kurnool, India. The foundation of the new high school building was laid with imposing and appropriate exercises. A hymn composed by Dr. Abraham Coles, of Scotch Plains, N. J., in whose memory the building was erected, was sung and the history of the building was recounted, showing how Miss Emily Coles and her brother, Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, became interested in the work at Kurnool. They first erected a girls' school building at a cost of $5,000, and then followed it up by a fine structure for the erection of which they have contributed $10,000.

On the afternoon of the day following the dedicatory exercises that closed with the National anthem, the annual prize distribution of the Coles Memorial High School was held.

Much is hoped for this generous gift educationally and spiritually for the youth of all South India.

WELCOME TO MARTINE EXCEEDS KATZENBACH'S

CANDIDATE AND DEFEATED RIVAL ENTERTAINED AT NEWARK.

Fifteen hundred Essex county Democrats and a few from other parts of the State shook hands with Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., nominee of their party for Governor, at the Jeffersonian Club in Newark last night. It was the initial visit of the standard bearer of Democracy to that city as a candidate for office, and evidently everybody who received a card of invitation took advantage of the opportunity to meet him.

Farmer Orator James E. Martine, of this city, chief rival of the nominee in the State convention, was a prominent figure at the club. The ovation to Mr. Katzenbach far exceeded that given the candidate. He greeted Mr. Katzenbach warmly, and in a statement to a reporter, said that he had placed himself at the service of the candidate.

"I will do everything in my power to assist in the election of Mr. Katzenbach," said Mr. Martine. "I have told him that I will speak with him when he may desire it and will get right to work in Union county. He will be elected."

The candidate entered the club house without any ostentatious display of enthusiasm on the part of the hundreds gathered there. While there was a demonstration of good feeling from first to last and every man who shook the hand of the candidate promised active support and predicted party victory, the reception was in every respect a social gathering, with none of the earmarks of a red fire campaign meeting. There were no speeches and no formalities.

DOCTORS MEET.

Medical Association Dines and Hears Able Paper at Truett Hall.

The first full meeting of the Plainfield Medical Association was held last night at Truett Hall. The meeting was noteworthy from the presence of Dr. Howard Fox, of the Skin and Cancer Hospital, New York, son of Dr. Fox, who became, before he died, the most noted specialist on skin diseases in this country; and himself well known in the field. Dr. Fox read a paper on skin eruptions.

The meeting was preceded by a dinner. The covers were laid in one of the private dining rooms, which was strikingly decorated. Over a score of Plainfield physicians attended. The menu was memorable.

Dr. Fox's paper was most able. It was copiously illustrated by lantern slides.

Young People to Meet.

An adjourned meeting of the young people of the First Baptist church will be held in the church parlors this evening, when the committees appointed at the last meeting will report on nomination of officers and methods of work and various standing committees will be announced. Part of the hour will be spent in social enjoyment. If the rain does not interfere it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

Borough Council Tonight.

The Borough Council will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight. In addition to a lot of routine business, awaiting disposition, several important matters will be brought up.

Big Bargains at Levy's Saturday.

ROBT. F. TILNEY JR. WEDS

Plainfielder Takes Miss Rhoda M. Sargent, of New Haven, As His Bride.

CEREMONY A QUIET ONE

Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., the Millionaire Episcopal Clergyman, Officiates at the Nuptials.

Robert F. Tilney, of this city, and Miss Rhoda Mills Sargent, daughter of Henry B. Sargent, of New Haven, were quietly married yesterday afternoon. The ceremony took place in the garden at the Church street residence of the bride's father, in the presence of a small company of relatives and friends. The wedding was a quiet one owing to the recent death of the bride's grandfather, former Mayor Joseph B. Sargent, of New Haven.

Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., rector of Christ Episcopal church, New Haven, officiated. The bride had as her maid-of-honor her sister, Miss Elizabeth Sargent. Miss Elsie Trowbridge, Miss Olive Schley, of New York, and Miss Kathleen Stryker, of Trenton, were the bridesmaids, while Miss Barbara Sargent was flower girl. Mr. Tilney had for his best man, Berrien Hughes, of Denver, Col., while the ushers were M. Ziegler Sargent, Murray Sargent, brothers of the bride; Edmund P. Rogers, of Hyde Park, and E. Rogers, of Yonkers. An informal reception followed the ceremony, after which the couple left for a four months' trip in Europe. Upon their return they will reside in New Haven for the present.

The bride's family is prominent in New Haven, her father being identified for many years with the well-known concern, the Ingersoll-Sargent Drill Company, now the Ingersoll-Rand Company. Mr. Tilney is prominent in Plainfield and New York society. He was graduated from Lehigh school and later from Yale. Last year he took a post-graduate course at Yale. He is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth, of West Eighth street, with whom he made his home while here, and Albert A. Tilney, of Central avenue.

PLANS FOR POLICE STATION

Designs for Proposed Headquarters Submitted by Evarts Tracy.

COST NOT FIGURED

Calls for Two-Story Brick Structure, to Be Equipped With All the Latest Improvements.

Plans for a proposed new police station were presented at the meeting of the Councilmanic Police Board last night by Evarts Tracy, the architect, but inasmuch as the board had no idea as to the estimated cost of the structure and was not in a position to frame a report to be presented to the Common Council no definite action was taken at this time.

The plans are quite elaborate, providing for a two-story structure of brick, to be equipped with all the latest equipment. Provisions are made for separate apartments for men and women prisoners, with modern toilet arrangements, a room for a matron, sleeping quarters for policemen who are on duty at headquarters. These quarters are to be located on the second floor. The first floor is devoted to a chief's office and room for holding court, together with a place for installing the Gamewell police system.

The members of the board were favorably impressed with the plans and the general arrangement of the rooms, but in the absence of any figures giving an idea of cost nothing could be done. It is proposed to secure estimates so that the board will have something definite to work on. Then if the cost comes within the amount of money which the board would feel justified in asking for, steps may be taken to erect the structure.

High School Society Debate.

The Plainfield High School Society had an informal debate this morning on the subject: "Resolved, That examinations in the High School should be abolished." Percy Mygrant, vice president of the society, acted as judge, and decided in the negative. The first formal debate of the organization will be held next week.

—An attractive assortment of fruits and vegetables will be shown at Neuman Brothers' store tomorrow. Make sure you see it before making purchases for Sunday's dinner. Delicious grapes will predominate in the fruit line.

SOMERSET ARRAIGNMENTS

Richard Stryker Pleads "Not Guilty" to Indictment Charging Him With Patricide.

PASCO FINED $300

Italian Sold Liquor on Sunday in Borough—Laborers on Duke Estate Answer "Not Guilty."

Some of the prisoners indicted by the last grand jury were arraigned before Judge Schenck in the court room in Somerville yesterday and were given a chance to answer for their alleged offenses.

Richard Stryker, who is in the county jail on a charge of shooting his father, John C. Stryker, near North Branch Depot, and who attempted to take his own life when he was told of his father's death, pleaded not guilty to the latter offense.

Jacob and Clark Rush, the caretakers on the Susan Sterling estate, at Bernardsville, who are charged with stealing jewelry and clothing to the value of $1,000, entered a plea of not guilty, and Paul Kane, Max Crosby and Clarence Koch, charged with breaking and entering the Pennsylvania railroad station at Middleburgh and stealing tickets, also pleaded not guilty.

The fifteen laborers charged with trying to incite a riot on the estate of James B. Duke, near Somerville, were arraigned and pleaded not guilty. They were admitted in bail to appear next week for trial.

Nicholas Pasco, of North Plainfield, indicted for illegal selling and for selling on Sunday, pleaded guilty to both charges and was fined $150 on each.

Henry Schloane, of Chimney Rock, charged with illegal selling, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for October 16.

Mary Regner, of Franklin township, indicted for receiving stolen goods and malicious mischief, pleaded not guilty and was held for trial, October 16.

William Greishelmer, of Bound Brook, charged with assault and battery, pleaded not guilty. Trial, October 16.

Daniel McClosky, of Rocky Hill, pleaded not guilty to a charge of resisting an officer. Trial, October 16.

Patsy Pearly, of Raritan, charged with larceny, pleaded guilty and was sent to the Reform school at Jamesburg.

William McCormack and Anthony Brant, of North Plainfield township, pleaded not guilty to assault and battery.

PATROLMAN MYERS AGAIN BEFORE POLICE BOARD

THIS TIME TWO WOMEN COMPLAIN OF ANNOYANCES.

Patrolman Nicholas Myers appeared before the Councilmanic Police Board last night to answer to charges preferred by two women in the employ of DeWitt C. Ivins, of Hillside avenue. They complained that while the family was away from the city last summer, the officer persisted in stopping at the house and in other ways annoyed them. When they remonstrated with him, they claimed that Mr. Myers talked about them.

While the board listened attentively to the complaint of the women, the members, it is said, were not entirely satisfied as to its merits. The women said that they could bring another witness before the board to more fully substantiate their charge, and it was decided to allow them to do so. In the meantime the board will further investigate the matter.

No action was taken last night toward imposing a penalty on Mr. Myers, and none will be until the board has thoroughly investigated the case.

Mrs. Williamson to Talk.

Because Mrs. Emily E. Williamson of Elizabeth, could not be present next Monday, on account of other engagements, the first meeting of the season of the Public Education Society at Somerville will be held on Tuesday evening, in the assembly room of the public school building in the latter city. Mrs. Williamson is to make the chief address and her topic will be "Probation—The Adult and the Minor." She is probation officer for Union and Middlesex counties.

In the Borough Court.

Maze Green, arraigned before Recorder Dolliver last night, was given his preference of $3 or three days on a drunk and disorderly charge. He took the days in the hope that the time might give him an opportunity to straighten out.

BIG GROCERY IS COMING

Acker, Merrill & Condit to Locate a Branch Store in This City.

THE CIGAR TRUST TOO

The United Cigar Stores Is Looking For a Site Here—Fight for Plainfield's Business.

Through a representative who has been in the city for several days, Acker, Merrill & Condit, New York's big grocery firm, have been negotiating for a suitable building in which to open a local retail store. Several sites have been under consideration and it is said that the agent has practically decided upon the Stirling building, where two adjoining locations are vacant. When several preliminary matters are disposed of, definite announcement either one way or the other can be made within a week or ten days.

The Acker, Merrill & Condit concern is one of the largest in the East and has always done a large business in Plainfield through its New York stores. It maintains a local delivery service and also ships quantities of goods into the city at wholesale rates. It has retail branches at East Orange, Montclair, Morristown and the important cities from Harlem up to New Rochelle.

Announcement has previously been made of the fact that the United Cigar Stores Company has been seeking to enter the local field and plans are still underway. The company has secured two leases which were afterward disposed of and another is now pending. The store will probably be located on East Front street.

It has also been stated that one of New York's important drug concerns has an eye on the local trade and is reconnoitering in a quiet way. Just how much truth there is in the statement has not yet been ascertained but it is known positively that one of the Broadway pharmacies has the patronage of enough Plainfielders to warrant a branch in town.

AUTO BUS LINE SERVICE

Connection With South Plainfield on Hourly Schedule is Arranged.

STARTS ON MONDAY

Twelve-Passenger Coach to Be Used by E. B. Ryder, Who Undertakes the Enterprise.

Commencing on Monday, Edward B. Ryder, of Morris Brothers' auto garage, will operate an auto bus line between this city and South Plainfield, making hourly trips. Frank Rowley's drug store on West Front street will be the local depot, and the Lehigh Valley railroad station at South Plainfield will be the depot there.

It is proposed to operate the bus line so as to make connections with the more important trains on the Lehigh Valley railroad, and the round trip will consume about thirty minutes, allowing for stops and time of waiting at each end of the line. The rate of fare will be 15 cents for a single trip or 25 cents for a round trip.

The line will be opened with a Reo twelve-passenger auto, and if the traffic demands another auto will be put into service and will include Metuchen in the trip. Walter Kettering has been engaged to operate the bus between here and South Plainfield.

Young People Happily Surprised. Miss Jessie Campbell and her brother, Arthur Campbell, of East Second street, were happily surprised at their home Friday night. The young people spent the evening playing games and listening to a program of vocal and instrumental music. Among the guests were Percy Cannon, who entertained the company with a number of funny stories. Each guest brought refreshments and a generous spread was provided. There were about twenty-five persons present.

Birthday Card Party.

In celebration of her nineteenth birthday, Miss Marion Kline, of Clinton avenue, entertained a number of friends at a card party last night. Dancing and refreshments were enjoyed after the play.

—Mrs. J. K. Myers has leased her residence at 139 East Seventh street to H. L. Whitney.

—The Y. M. C. A. Board of Directors met last night. Routine business was transacted.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR KATZENBACH'S COMING

JAMES EDGAR MARTINE WILL RECEIVE AND ENTERTAIN HIM.

Mr. Katzenbach will come to this city at about noon from Trenton. Mr. Martine will meet him and take him to the Kensington Hotel, where he will be entertained at lunch. Mr. Katzenbach will be accompanied by several friends and political advisers. Judge Hudspeth, Assemblyman Edgar Lethbridge, Charles H. Gallagher, E. Furman Hooper and John T. Dillard, of Trenton, are expected to be in the party.

After lunch Mr. Katzenbach will be the central figure in a general reception. He will hold a levee in the hotel parlor. All the citizens are invited to it. It is hoped to make Mr. Katzenbach a familiar figure to most of his fellow-Democrats and a godly number of Republicans in Plainfield. He will be at the hotel from three to four hours. The affair will be entirely informal.

James E. Martine has completed arrangements for the reception to Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., Democratic candidate for Governor, tomorrow. Mr. Katzenbach will come here as Mr. Martine's guest, and the latter will have full charge of the reception.

BIG STORAGE HOUSE FOR SOMERSET STREET

HAND EXPRESS COMPANY TO ERECT A LARGE BUILDING.

Following negotiation that have been pending for several months, an important realty deal was consummated yesterday, whereby the Hand Express and Storage Company secured the Jacob Voehl property at 63 and 65 Somerset street. The present residence occupying the site has been sold to Frank Mobus, and as soon as Mr. Voehl can vacate it will be moved to a new location on Watching avenue. In its place a handsome three-story building will be erected, the company having found it necessary to secure increased facilities for carrying on its business.

The property concerned in the sale adjoins the former C. Frank French building at Somerset street and Somerset place, and has a frontage of sixty feet. In depth it is 160 feet and is considered one of the most desirable sites along the borough's main thoroughfare. The structure to be put up by the company will be designed principally to handle the concern's storage business, which has outgrown the present quarters on West Front street. Architecturally the building will enhance the appearance of the street, and will be equipped with every improvement for the safe-keeping of goods. Fireproof material will be used exclusively.

The removal of the Voehl residence will prove quite an undertaking, but Mr. Mobus has already made his arrangements, so that it will be carried out very rapidly. The house will be taken up Somerset street to Race street and traffic will suffer but very little inconvenience. The remainder of the trip will be along less traveled thoroughfares and will be occupied in parts only a few days at the most.

The Hand Storage and Express Company is composed of Fred Hand, who was connected in business with his father for many years; Captain W. C. Smith and C. Frank French.

Hit By Auto Crank.

Theodore Bloodgood, a well known Perth Amboy resident, had a narrow escape from losing the sight of an optic in an accident in this city, yesterday. In attempting to start his automobile after leaving a Park avenue store, the crank suddenly flew back and struck him a hard blow over the left optic. He was rendered unconscious for a few minutes and had to be taken to a physician's office for treatment. The crank inflicted an ugly wound and had it been an inch lower would have impaired the sight of the eye. He was assisted home and is still under the care of Dr. J. S. Stafford, of Perth Amboy.

A Successor Not Yet Chosen.

The committee from the Seventh-Day Baptist church appointed to secure a successor to Rev. George B. Shaw as pastor of the church, has not yet chosen any one, although it is very busy in search of one. Mr. Shaw will relinquish his present charge January 1 to accept the pastorate of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at North Loup, Neb.

—Andrew C. Thompson Auto Co.

has been very fortunate in securing the exclusive agency for the Cadillac automobiles. They secured their 1908 demonstrating car today, and will be pleased to demonstrate the superiority of the 1908 Cadillac cars.

DOUBLE TRACK WANTED

Street Improvement Delayed if Common Council Grants P. S. C. Petition.

MEANS BETTER SERVICE

Corporation Also Intends to Lay New Rails On Somerset Street—Action On Monday Night.

Provided the Common Council and the property-owners consent to the improvement, there promises to be further delay of the brick pavement on Front street and a portion of Watching avenue. It is understood that the Public Service Corporation is still desirous of double tracking the trolley line from the Watching avenue stand to West Front and Somerset streets, where the double track begins, and that a petition to do this work will be presented at the meeting of the Common Council Monday night.

This improvement has been discussed more or less during the past few years. While many have favored it, a number of interested property-owners on the line of the trolley have been opposed. It is argued that if the road between these points is to be double tracked it will have to be done before the brick pavement is laid.

Another thing that is likely to cause a delay in the pavement work on West Front street is that the trolley company is planning to replace the old tracks with new ones on that thoroughfare, between Somerset street and Madison avenue. Considerable criticism is heard about the delay in making this change, as it is planned to lay the new tracks at a time when Contractor Meeker is ready to put down the brick pavement. In case it is decided to lay the double tracks on Front street and Watching avenue it may hold up the brick work until next year, something that the property-owners and city officials do not favor.

On account of the work of laying concrete walks under the Park avenue bridge Contractor Meeker is unable to proceed any further than North avenue with his paving work. As soon as weather permits he will transfer operations to Somerset street, where the concrete foundation will be laid. A part of the gang used on the work has been busy removing the macadam surface on Park avenue, between the railroad bridge and Fourth street.

SWIFT JUSTICE.

Men Arraigned Before Judge Five Minutes After Fight.

Five minutes after the row, Patsy V. Minelo, foreman of the sewer construction gang, was arraigned in court this morning for fighting with Louis Kadesh, dealer in junk and old stoves. The quarrel took place at 10 o'clock at Kadesh's store, in East Front street, a few doors above the police station. Judge Runyon had not left court when Detective Sergeant Flynn brought the combatants into the station house, and they were arraigned at once.

The quarrel started over the price asked by Kadesh for a second-hand stove which Minelo fancied. Minelo said rude things to Kadesh, and the latter started to eject him. Panes of glass in the doorway were broken in the pushing and hauling. Minelo promised to pay for the glass and Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

Will Reorganize Orchestra.

Under the direction of Martin A. Korff, the Y. M. C. A. orchestra will be reorganized on Monday night, when a meeting for that purpose will be held at the association rooms. It is proposed to hold a meeting every week on Monday night and any person who can play an instrument suitable for an orchestra is invited to attend, especially the meeting next week. Mr. Korff met with much success last year in this work, and the prospects for the coming year are so bright that he was persuaded to continue as leader. Those who join the orchestra not only get the benefit of the practice, but there will be social fellowship among Christian surroundings.

Valuable Dog Missing.

A $500 setter, belonging to A. G. Rooley, Rockview avenue, disappeared yesterday afternoon. The dog was lost while being exercised by Mr. Rooley's son, almost within sight of her kennel, and as she is 6 years old and has never strayed away, it is believed she was stolen. The police have been notified. The dog is white, with lemon-colored markings. She won several field trials in North Carolina and took a blue ribbon at the bench show in New York.

Will Sell Sewer Bonds.

Among the important matters to come up at the October meeting of the Common Council Monday night will be the sale of the $68,000 worth of sewer bonds, which were advertised recently.

WANTS JAIL FENCED IN.

Somerset Grand Jury Believes Suicide of Inmate Was by Knife Passed From Outside.

Somerville, Oct. 4.—The Board of Freeholders at a special meeting held at Bedminster Wednesday received a recommendation from the grand jury to place screens at the windows of the county jail with an iron fence, having a spiked top, ten feet in height, with a gate provided with a lock.

The communication stated that the grand jury in deliberating on the case of Richard P. Stryker, charged with attempting to take his own life in the county jail, found that the knife used by Stryker to cut his throat had probably been passed in through the jail window. The grand jury informed the board that it had arrived at this conclusion after questioning the turnkey and making a personal inspection of the jail. The windows, it was stated, were unprotected and divers objects, such as food and drink, were handed or thrown through the bars to the prisoners.

OFFICE SEEKER IS LIBERAL.

Aged Andrew Jackson, of Rahway, Would Be Independent Candidate.

Rahway, Oct. 4.—Andrew Jackson, 76 years of age, announces himself as an independent candidate for any office that the constituents of any party are willing to back him for. He is willing to be Mayor, alderman or school commissioner, as the voters may wish. He says he is entirely unpledged to the railroad, the gas companies, the Middlesex Water Company or former Mayor Holmes, so that when elected he can give unbiased decisions on all cases, and if necessary act as police justice and do his own pleading, sentencing or fining, and can march the prisoner to prison.

Mr. Jackson has prepared for this election by purchasing a carload of brooms, one of which he proposes to present to every man who votes for him and who will join the parade on the night that he is inaugurated into whatever office he can secure.

—Contractor Arthur E. Smith, of this city, is progressing favorably with the construction of the new concrete bridge over Robinson's branch of the Rahway river at Rahway. The work was inspected yesterday by the committee from the Board of Freeholders.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Miss Mamie Fleming, who is a strong favorite everywhere, will appear at the New Plainfield theatre tonight in her new play, "The Girl of Eagle Ranch," which has never before been seen in this city. Although sensational in character, drama and comedy are so judiciously blended that the melodrama appeals at once to the lover, as well as to those who prefer comedy. The play is modern in every detail and the author has selected as the ground work for his play conditions that appeal strong to the American heart.

The next big local dramatic event will be the appearance of Max Figman in the scintillating comedy success, "The Man On the Box," at the Max Figman in "The Man on the Box," at New Plainfield Theatre Saturday Matinee and Night.

New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. Mr. Figman ranks among the really great artists of the present day stage and he has a fortunate vehicle for his talents in "The Man On the Box," which was dramatized from Harold MacGrath's book and has faithfully retained the story, a rather uncommon thing with plays taken from books. It was originally produced in New York city and had a prosperous run of over three hundred nights and but for the circumstance of bookings could have finished out the year. Mr. Figman will bring with him a complete scenic production and a splendid company including among others Messrs. Douglas A. Flint, John Charles Brownell, Frank M. Rainger, George Centre, Ernest P. Orr, Herbert Denton, Edward Johnson, John Pearson and the Misses Fannie Martinoff, Madeline Dallas, Bertha Kriehoff and Berenice Bucklin.

When "Mr. Blue Beard" is presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night the theatregoing public of this city will have an opportunity of witnessing what has proved to be the comedy success of the year. Music that is catchy and songs that are original, are claimed for "Mr. Blue Beard" and no comedy production in recent years has attained such immense popularity. The cast is far above the average usually found in comedy offerings, and judging from the list of names, real fun is promised and the laughing atmosphere looks exceedingly bright. The costume, scenic and electrical embellishment are all new this season.

Few plays of modern authorship have had such universal praise from the New York critics as was given Clyde Fitch's sensational success, "The Woman in the Case," which is to be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. The able critic of Town Topics says, for instance: "There can scarcely be two opinions about 'The Woman in the Case.' It teems with dramatic interest through three acts and if the last act is almost necessary it has the merit of being short and can be excused on that score. 'The Woman in the Case,' like most of the Fitch plays, tells a story of today, a story of New York men and manners and it tells it with a sure, plain form of the man who knows. From the first it grips the interest and holds it. It is real and thrilling. It is refreshing too in its pictures of domestic trust and loyalty." The play will be presented here with a notable cast of players and the production will be exactly the same as was seen in New York.

The musical absurdity styled "About Town," with music, laughter and pretty girls to while away a delightful evening, comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night. Dave Lewis heads the company, and he is assisted by such well known comedians, and comedienne as Charles Prince, Dick Temple, Bert Western, Albertina Benson, Nellie Minto, Kathryn Miley, and a chorus.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Women Golfers will claim chief attention during the next two weeks. In addition to the national championship, which is to begin on October 7, at the Midlothian Country Club, near Chicago, the second annual team match between the women's associations of the East and West, also to be played there, is certain to create no end of interest.

J. J. Hurley, of Macrihanish, won the South of Ireland championship at Lahinch, which is said to resemble the Scotch native course of the victor. He beat H. D. Gillies in the match by 4 up and 2. Gillies had a twenty-hole match in the semi-final with D. F. Ransom, who had defeated the British amateur champion, John Ball, Jr., in the fourth round by 3 and 1.

The first round match play for the Autumn classes A and B, will be the interesting event at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow. The drawings have been made and judging from those the play should be very close and exciting.

There will be the usual dinner dance at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow night.

In addition to the regular events at the Park Golf Club tomorrow, R. V. Carpenter and Charles B. Morse will meet in a match to see who shall play W. V. Byard in the finals for the September cup.

Additional entries for the national women's golf championship tournament, to begin at the Midlothian Country Club on Monday, have increased the total to eighty-four. Among the belated entrants are Mrs. W. Alexander, of Exmoor; Mrs. W. L. Holloway, of Skokie; Miss Mason and Miss Neely, of Newton, Mass., and a delegation of twenty-four from the Midlothian Country Club, Chicago.

A number of leading players are already practising over the Blue Island course. The chief attraction today will be a team match between the Women's Western Golf Association and the Canadian women. Although only one entry for the championship has been received from across the border, all of the Canadian women have been invited to take part, so it is quite possible that several of the visitors will be found on the first tee on Monday morning.

The annual fall tournament of the Eastern Tryde Golf Association will be held on Thursday, October 10, at the Ardsley Club. There will be an eighteen-hole medal play round in the morning and a handicap in the afternoon for which gross and net score prizes have been offered. An approaching and putting contest is also on the program.

Another afternoon attraction will be a team match between the association and representatives of the New York City Association of Master Team and Hot Water Fitters. There will be individual prizes for each member of the winning team. The tournament committee consists of M. E. Danforth, E. H. Roberts, W. H. Thayer, A. E. Barron and A. S. Armagnac.

DIAMOND DUST.

Clinton Avenue and Scotch Plains meet at Crescent Oval tomorrow, and the two teams should be able to furnish a fine game for the fans. Of course, the followers of the local team feel sure that they will win, but the last time the clubs came together the Plains boys walked away with a victory through the effective pitching of Johnson.

It is now practically a sure thing that the Detroit team will win the American League pennant, after one of the most exciting series of games in the history of the league. It will be up to the Tigers to meet the Chicago Nationals for the world's championship, and the outcome will be watched with unusual interest. Many fans contend that the Tigers will have no trouble in defeating the Windy City aggregation, but the latter have had the advantage of a long rest, not being obliged to extend themselves in winning the pennant.

Doyle and Castleton, the youngsters of the New York Americans' pitching staff, turned the tables on the Chicago Tuesday by the score of 4 to 3. They were both very effective, and the Chicago could get but nine hits off of them.

It cannot be said that the Washingtons did not try to defeat the Detroit on Tuesday. In the first game of a double-header the Senators used fifteen players and twelve in the second, yet they lost both contests.

The Y. M. C. A. plans to be in the field next year with a better and stronger team than this. Captain Howard Craig will undoubtedly be retained, and no better choice could be made from the association membership. He is not only a strong player in the field and at the bat, but has personal ability which fits him for the position.

POLITICAL NOTES

Frank S. Katzenbach, the Democratic candidate for Governor, was the guest of the Jeffersonian Club, in Newark, last night. He came from Trenton, where he had spent the day among the politicians at the Interstate Fair. There was no speech-making, but the candidate found time to have a chat with the various leaders of the county. There were none of the "big guns" present except James E. Marine, the "farmer orator" of Plainfield. It was because he was assured he would have to make no public utterances at this time that Mr. Katzenbach agreed to invade Essex county.

J. Franklin Fort will preach the gospel of political peace at the two Republican conventions to be held in Jersey City tonight. The city convention, controlled by the New Idea men, will be a public meeting, and will be held in Elks' Hall, in the lower section of the city. The county convention, in which the "regulars" will have a majority, will be held in Lincoln Hall, the headquarters of the county committee, on the heights.

Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., the Democratic nominee for Governor, will talk at a ratification meeting in Jersey City tonight.

Samuel D. Dickinson, Secretary of State, has ordered that voting machines be placed in every district in East Orange, but the voters of the Third district of the Third ward are vigorously opposed to the use of machines. Six petitions will be sent to the Secretary of State asking that the old ballot boxes be substituted.

Alden Freeman, of East Orange, chairman of the "county committee" of the Citizens' Independent party, said last night that he would probably issue a statement today in the name of the men associated with him in regard to plans for an independent ticket at the coming election. He expects to nominate an Assembly ticket and a man for Governor. The plan to put a candidate in the field for the gubernatorial prize had not been definitely agreed upon till recently, and even now no names have been mentioned. Mr. Freeman's understanding of the election law is that he will have to get "from 800 to 1,000" names on a petition to put his candidate in the race. He said that at an early date the Citizens' party would decide on a time for the county convention. It had been delayed to give the candidates of the Republican and Democratic parties an opportunity to express themselves on the issues.

J. Franklin Fort, Republican candidate for Governor, will not be heard in Elizabeth until October 29. The Republican committee is trying to secure his appearance for some earlier date also, but it is doubtful if they will succeed. A big meeting is being planned for the 29th in the Lyceum Theatre, in that city, and other Republicans of note will be present.

Elizabeth voters will have an opportunity to hear the candidate before, on October 16, in Westfield, after having addressed a gathering in Plainfield. The county committee today opened headquarters in the Dix building.

HAPPINESS OF YEARS DESTROYED.

Affected by the first serious illness to upset their twenty-seven years of married life, Charles Fauss and his wife, of Flemington, recent patrons of the Hotel Kensington, are both in a state of collapse. The illness that led to the trouble was suffered by the wife, just before the couple came to this city, a little less than a month ago.

The wife met with an accident at Flemington, where Fauss had kept a hotel. The injury and the suffering preyed greatly on the woman, and her general health began to fail. Fauss took her travelling, in an effort to improve her condition. They came to this city, and registered at the Kensington. Mrs. Fauss' condition grew worse, instead of better, and about two weeks ago it was found necessary to remove her to Muhlenberg Hospital. There her illness took a new and more alarming turn. Constant brooding on her suffering affected the woman's mind, and a week ago the doctors had her removed to the asylum at Morristown.

It was the first time trouble of the sort had come to him since he married twenty-seven years ago, and Fauss' health gave out under the strain of worry. The removal of his wife to Morristown was the culminating shock, and it so affected him that he became almost a physical wreck. He is making arrangements to go to Cooley's sanitarium.

CALL AUTOMOBILIST THIEVES.
Woodcliff Thinks Burglaries Were Committed by Them.

Three residents in Woodcliff were visited by burglars early yesterday morning in Hackensack. At the residence of Freeholder Garret F. Ackerman $300 worth of old family silverware was stolen. The burglars aroused John J. Westervelt's family while trying to pry open the parlor window and were frightened away. At the residence of John Ackerman, formerly Mayor, a Scotch collar tackled the burglars while they stood near the parlor window and the desperate struggling aroused the family. The burglars escaped.

The Woodcliff Borough Council has offered a reward of $100 for the arrest of the mysterious man and woman who are always seen passing through the town in this vicinity in an automobile the evening before each raid. The couple is suspected of this morning's burglaries.

WEDS FORMER WIFE'S SISTER.

Bayard Hamblet and Miss Fannie M. Meyers Married.

The marriage of Bayard Hamblet and Miss Fannie M. Meyers, proprietress of Nassau Hall, Asbury Park, took place at that place yesterday. The Rev. J. A. Van Nest, of Ridgewood, performed the ceremony. The bride is a sister of Mr. Hamblet's former wife, from whom he was divorced several years ago.

Miss Edith Hamblet, Mr. Hamblet's daughter by his former wife and niece of the bride, was maid-of-honor. The wedding was a quiet affair and was witnessed by a few friends.

Fire Destroys Part of Factory.

Fire of which the cause has not been determined caused damage estimated at $35,000 early yesterday morning in the plant of the Rosedale-Reddaway Belting and Hose Company, in Euclid avenue, Newark. One of the largest buildings of the plant, a two story frame, was totally wrecked and large quantities of stock and valuable machinery were destroyed.

Boy and Money Gone.

Samuel Bierman, a grocer at No. 131 Perry street, Newark, reported to the police that a boy named Louis, who had been working for him for two weeks, had disappeared after abstracting $100 from the safe. The boy slept in a room in the rear of the store and knew how to open the old-fashioned safe. Bierman does not know what his last name is or where he lives.

$5,000 for Attacking Child.

Damages in the sum of $5,000, the full amount asked, were awarded by a Newark jury in the Supreme Court Circuit yesterday in a suit in behalf of the 9-year-old daughter of Samuel McCully against Walter Louvrie. The latter was charged with attacking the child. He will also have to face a criminal charge.

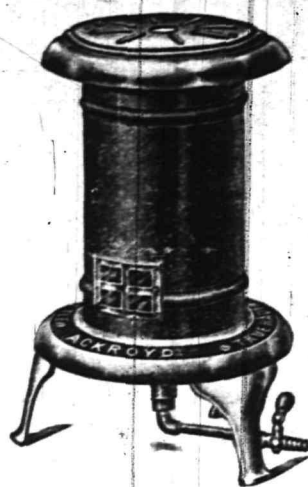

Fire Committee Conference.

The fire committee of the Common Council held a conference last night and considered three applicants for positions in the department. Some hydrant matters were also discussed and recommendations made.

On Sunday, October 6, the New Jersey Central offers a $2.50 excursion to the famous Gettysburg battlefield. Special train leaves Plainfield at 6:15 a. m. 9 28 5 s w t h f s

A still alarm was received at fire headquarters last night for a chimney fire at the home of E. F. Vall, Richmond street and Putnam avenue. A hose wagon was sent out and a couple of extinguishers did the rest.

The Woodhull & Martin Store.

Demonstration of the Ackroyd Gas Heater.

Manufactured by the Ackroyd True
Radiator Co., Plainfield, N. J.

FLOYD T. WOODHULL, President.

E. C. MARTIN, Treasurer.

Mr. John K. Ackroyd, the inventor of this wonderful heater, will be at our store all day Saturday to demonstrate the advantages of his heater. This heater will deliver five times as much heat from the cylinder side walls as is delivered from the side walls of other heaters burning the same amount of gas, which means that the bulk of the heat produced is radiated laterally in an outward direction near the floor, where the heat is needed, instead of ascending directly to the ceiling, as in other heaters. They are also economical in gas consumption, costing from 2½ cent to 2½ cents an hour, according to the amount of heat desired. Another point that we wish to emphasize and that is that they are sold under a positive guarantee not to smell. Made in one size only, sold at $2.50, and can be purchased in this city only at our store. Don't fail to come in on Saturday and see them in operation.

POLITICIANS AT THE FAIR

Rival Nominees for Governor
Are Chief Attractions at Interstate Exhibition.

THE BIG GUNS THERE

Seventy-five Thousand Persons Attend On the Principal Day of The Big Show at Trenton.

It was "Politicians' Day" at the Interstate Fair at Trenton yesterday, and the political activities of the State were centered in the capital city. The principal attraction, of course, were John Franklin Fort, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, and Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., the Democratic nominee. Prominent political leaders from all parts of the State were in attendance.

There was an especially big turnout of Democrats, particularly from the northern counties, and all of them were confident that Mr. Katzenbach's election was assured. Republican leaders, however, were equally confident that Judge Fort would be elected and control of the House would swing back to the Republican party.

Mr. Katzenbach was the first to arrive at the fair grounds. He came in an automobile, accompanied by Harry J. Stout, Joseph Hoff, E. Furman Hooper, Bayard Stockton and John P. Dillard, prominent local leaders. He made a tour of the grounds and was received everywhere with great applause. Mr. Katzenbach is popular with Trenton people of all political parties, and there is considerable local pride over his nomination.

Mr. Fort arrived soon after the Katzenbach party had entered the grounds, and he, too, made a tour of the place. His wonderful memory for names and faces made him a favorite everywhere. He was accompanied around the grounds by Governor Stokes, United States Senators Briggs and Keen, John F. Dryden, Colonel A. R. Kuser, Forest Dryden, John L. Kuser and other State leaders.

After a tour of the fair the rival candidates met at the office of Senator J. F. Blackwell, president of the Fair Association, and the issues of the campaign were forgotten while luncheon was served.

Then the line of march was taken to the grand stand for the racing and vaudeville attractions. Governor Stokes led the way, followed by the candidates and their political associates. The bands played "Hail to the Chief," and an ovation was tendered to the candidates.

One of the noticeable features of the day was the absence of both James Smith and Robert Davis, the Democratic leaders from the northern end of the State.

In addition to being "politicians' day" it was also "big Thursday," the principal day of the week's exhibition, and an immense crowd was present on that account also. It was estimated this afternoon that not less than 75,000 persons had passed through the turnstiles. This is a record breaking attendance. All of the attractions were well patronized.

Today's "get away day," when most of the exhibitors will remove their displays and the fakers will fold their tents and depart. For the first time in the history of the fair, however, the gates will be kept open until Saturday night, when there will be concluded a twenty-four hour automobile race.

Pastor Howard Returns.
Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, returned yesterday from a three months' visit in Illinois for the benefit of his health. The rest has improved him greatly and he led the regular prayer meeting at the chapel last night. He was greeted by a large congregation and an address of welcome was delivered by David Bowden. At the close of the service a social time was enjoyed.

Alexander Ayres was unable to mingle among the politicians at the Interstate Fair at Trenton yesterday owing to a rush of business.

Edward E. Iremonger, former chairman of the Republican city committee, appears to be the strongest candidate for the nomination for Councilman-at-large.

Dr. Freeman Wins Primary Fight.
New Brunswick, Oct. 4.—The election board of Metuchen yesterday afternoon made another count of the votes cast at the primary election on September 10, and will make a return to the clerk of Middlesex county showing that Dr. Charles M. Freeman, husband of Mary E. Wilkins, the author, received the majority of the Democratic votes cast for a candidate for Mayor. The clerk will place the doctor's name on the regular Democratic ticket to be voted on November 5, though the doctor is a Republican.

Hudson Juror May Be In Contempt.
The unexplained absence of a juror caused the mistrial of a suit in the Hudson County Circuit Court yesterday, after the case had taken up the attention of the court and jury, all of the preceding court. The juror, Frank Kennedy, of Hoboken, has been dismissed from the panel, and proceedings in contempt have been ordered by Judge Vall.

Suburbs For Annexation.
The West Hudson County Board of Trade, at its first meeting of the season, last night, elected eight new members. In an informal way the matter of consolidation of the three towns, Kearny, Harrison and East Newark, was discussed, and eventual annexation to Newark is to be advocated.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Maxwell, of New York, have removed to Plainfield and taken up their residence at 818 Webster place.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Preparatory services will be held in Trinity Reformed church this evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. J. T. Lansdale, pastor of Marconier chapel, will be in charge of the meeting.

All of the young people of the First Baptist church are requested to attend the meeting to be held in the church tonight, when definite steps will be taken toward forming an association. Officers will be elected and a proposed constitution and by-laws introduced.

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS ACCEPT TWO BRIDGES.

Other Matters of Business Disposed of at Meeting Held Yesterday.

The Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders met yesterday to view what are known as the Miller and Layton bridges in Bedminster township and afterward organized at the hotel in the village of Bedminster, when the structures were formally accepted.

A communication was received from the Somerville Water Company in reference to laying a six inch water main on the west side of the country road from the Grove street bridge to the Somerville corporation limits, for the purpose of supplying the residents of North Grove street with water. Granted.

A resolution was passed demanding that William Elling remove certain obstructions from the country road in front of his property in North Somerville.

The Board will ask for bids for the construction of a retaining wall between the river bridge and the mill race bridge at North Branch.

Amboy Bridge Open.

The Middlesex County Commissioners yesterday formally declared the new county bridge between Perth Amboy and South Amboy over the Raritan River open for traffic. The structure is nearly a mile long and cost about $300,000. It was originally built as a pile bridge, with a draw over the Raritan River channel, and was opened in that shape over a year ago, but the War Department ordered 450 feet of piling pulled up and three 150-foot spans substituted. The bridge is the longest public structure over navigable water in New Jersey.

Frown On Sunday Vaudeville.

The Rev. John E. Hienfeld, of the German Evangelical Lutheran church, in Jersey City, who has led the fight of clergymen against Sunday evening "sacred concert" performances at Jersey City theatres, said yesterday that he had received assurances from a representative of Mayor Fagan that the performances would not be allowed. Chief of Police Monahan said he had had no talk with the Mayor on the subject. The show at a Newark avenue theatre last Sunday evening was permitted, the Chief said, because it was for charity.

OUT OF THE QUICKSANDS

By M. QUAD.

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

One hundred and fifteen convicts, half of them under life sentence, occupied corridor No. 4 of the big prison, and they had been locked in since the six o'clock supper. Down at the west end of the steel door a turnkey sat and dozed until a flash of lightning and a peal of thunder aroused him. The sighing and muttering and cursing of the convicts was an old story to him. Those sounds did not disturb him. He held the keys of the five doors between his prisoners and liberty, and they were his animals.

There was another flash and another peal, and then the storm was on. It awoke the "animals" and they were silent. The turnkey arose and turned two or three of the ventilators and then walked up and down in his list slippers as softly as a cat. He was at the head of the menagerie. He had a hundred and fifteen animals under his thumb. Forty of the convicts, standing at their doors, could see the officer as he walked and turned—walked and turned. They bared their teeth at him and growled a "yah!" but he did not look up. Presently another figure came into their vision. It was that of Black Sam. He was convict No. 814. He had been in the prison for two years, and his history was better known than of any other inmate. In some manner he had picked the lock of his cell door and descended the corridor stairs without discovery. It was over while the convicts held their breath. The giant of a Black Sam seized the turnkey and lifted him high and dashed him to the stone floor as if he had been a bag of sand.

When the convict took the keys and unlocked the steel door there was an uneasy movement on the part of all the "animals" in the corridor. Only 40 could see with their eyes, but the others could feel. All knew that Black Sam was escaping, and that he was going alone, but not a voice was raised in protest. Officials and convicts alike had learned to fear the man. Had he unlocked a hundred cell doors not a prisoner would have followed him. He stood for a moment and looked back. Not a word—not a whisper—not a movement from the men he was leaving behind.

Three years previously at the big slate quarry a hundred miles up the coast Black Sam had been taken on to replace a foreman who had died. Mary Bryn, the daughter of one of the quarrymen, had looked upon this strong, smiling man and blushed. He had looked into her brown eyes and sought her out in her own home. They were humble people, and it was a humble courtship, but the sentiment was there the same as if one had worn silks and the other broadcloth. The workmen in the quarry—the people in the village—the children toddling about loved this foreman—all but one. With Mary Bryn's father it was different. There was envy and hate in his soul because the place had not fallen to him. He made no sign but he hated.

One day there came to the village a man who might, with the father's ready encouragement, have worked much harm. He was an artist who was sketching along the coast. He lingered beyond his time and there was gossip. One morning as he strolled along the sands Black Sam stood before him. At first the big man pleaded with him to go away. He did not command, but appealed. When he was answered with sneers and sarcasm he grew angry and made threats that were overheard by others. At length he menaced, and the artist feared personal violence and turned away. The tide was out at that hour and ahead of him as he walked was a spot that the children and dogs passing that way avoided with a chill of fear. Two days later the foreman was arrested. The artist had suddenly and mysteriously disappeared. The search was exhaustive, but no traces could be found. When all had been gathered together, there were many little circumstances pointing the accusing finger at the foreman. His unsupported word was his defense. That went with Mary Bryn, but with none other.

"You didn't do it—you never could have done it!" she wailed with her arms around the prisoner's neck; but her father shook his head in a doubtful way and said with others that the law must take its course. In his heart he was glad.

Weeks later, when the prisoner was on trial for his life, Samuel Bryn took a walk along the seashore. He came to that peculiar spot in the sands—that spot always showing wet and soft, no matter how lazy the return tide or how hot the sun, and he paused and stared at it for a long, long time. Then he picked up a pole that had been left stranded on the beach and began to poke and dig. Presently he felt something queer, and his face paled and he shut his teeth hard as he threw the pole away and walked swiftly from the spot.

"He made game of me and I would have struck him," was Black Sam's defense in court. "Aye, he made game of me, the man as made pictures, and I would have struck him had he not turned his back on me and walked away. When he did that I turned as well and so help me God he came to no harm through me."

They had not found the body, but the jury brought in a verdict of guilty and Black Sam was given a life sentence. At the prison he was classed as "dangerous," and the officials were ready to shoot him down at the first

Men's Suits A Style That's Different.

It is said, and it is doubtless true, that the clothes one wears have an effect for good or evil on one's spirits. Certain suits depress; others cheer the wearer. So women have by odds the best of men in the matter of clothes because of the decided changes in style, and the refreshing feeling of newness that goes with every suit they buy.

But we've done something for men this season by having a model made especially for us that, while not at all freaky, is some different and out of the beaten path.

These suits are intended for that class of men, young and old, who like to dress with some individuality yet in fashionable manner.

These are Sack Suits in three and four-button styles. The lapels are peaked; the back is fairly full without vent; the shoulders suggest the athletic style though not extreme. The cuffs have a new cut; the buttons are placed closer together than usual and the average length coat is thirty-one inches.

The fabrics and colorings are fresh and unusual, including Brown Scotch Mixtures and plain browns as well as checks and plaids, overplaids in gray and brown, small black and gray checks, and they are full of a color scheme that relieves the garments of somberness; best of mohair linings; first-class trimmings; extremely low-priced considering the tailoring.

Prices $7.00 to $30.00.

We particularly call your attention to those suits we sell at $12.98, $15 and $18.
Fall Overcoats, $10 to $35; Raincoats, $10 up.
Trousers—cheviots, cassimeres and worsteds, $1.50 to $10.

All Fur Automobile Coats.

Sale of Raccoon Coats, worth $120 to $125, for $50.

Just a year ago we offered a lot of Fur Coats at a price that was much below what they were worth, and they were sold out very quickly. All thru the season after that sale we were asked, time and again, for coats at that price and could not supply them.

This season we come with a lot of coats better than the former ones in every way—coats we contracted for early in the year with a prominent maker, enabling him to keep his workers busy thru a dull season, therefore giving us a decided advantage in price.

These luxurious fur coats are made of rich dark raccoon in the most up-to-date model, lined with satin; yoke and sleeves with, eighth lining, and they are coats that would sell in the regular course of $50 trade at $120 to $125. These we place on sale tomorrow, Saturday only, at the astonishing price of $50.

Automobilists and others who have occasion to expose themselves to the rigors of winter are advised to take advantage of this very remarkable sale, as an equal opportunity is not likely to occur.

Men's $4 Shoes $2.55.

W. L. Douglas and other well-known makes of Men's Shoes—kinds that are manufactured to sell at $3.50 and $4 a pair; sold to us at a great reduction because of slight factory imperfections which will not affect the wear in the least, are the basis of this offer.

Shoes of Patent Calf Skin, Calf Skin and Gunmetal, sizes 5 to 11, many styles and shapes; some low shoes in the lot; pick any pair you wish tomorrow and while the lot lasts $2.55 at, only

Boynton Square Pot Furnaces

The many acknowledged disadvantages of the old-fashioned round fire pot have been entirely overcome in the patent Square Pot—an exclusive feature of the time-tried Boynton Furnaces.

First of all, the grate bars are of equal length and motion, extending under the whole layer of ashes, making clearance quick and complete. No place to clog; no choking; no poking. Solves problem of perfect combustion. Ash pit is square—cleanest, best draught, handiest.

With the square pot there is greater ease of operation, more radiating surface, more economy of fuel, than in any other construction known. Your plumber, steam fitter or tinsmith will show you.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for steam or hot water. Also ranges.

sign of breaking loose. Out of a man they made an animal. A keeper lay helpless on the stone floor and an animal walked out into the night and the storm.

There was a new lover at the cabin on the hill above the slate quarry. Mary's father would have it so. The young man came and went, but it was few words he got from the girl. She had promised the man in prison that she would be faithful, and the father could not move her. He coaxed, argued and threatened. She was silent and tearful, but she was determined. On a Sunday night when the harvest moon rode high and clear, but a gale was sweeping over the land and angering the sea, the quarryman left his cabin to walk on the shore. He had feared for long months that the tide would come in above the mark some day and dig and bore and delve and unearth that thing from its grave and leave it exposed on the sands. All that day he had been uneasy as he listened to the howling of the gale and the booming of the surf.

Ten minutes after the father left the house the daughter followed him. A feeling that she could not resist impelled her. The lover whose love was not returned was left behind, but presently he rose up and took the same path down to the sea. The quarryman's fears had been realized. The waters had rushed far above the wet spot and dug into it and swirled about it, and had at last fastened their fingers on the body of the victim and hove it out to view. It lay there with the foam sweeping over it at every seventh wave. The sands had preserved it from decay, and the quarryman cursed in his throat as he bent over and recognized the features.

"It is him! It is him!" screamed the daughter in the father's ear; and her shrill tones were carried far out to sea by the howling gale.

"Aye, the missing man—he was quicksanded!" exclaimed the lover as he came plodding over the sands to stare at the body.

"You knew it!" screamed the girl as she pointed at the dead and then at her father. "You knew it all the time, and yet you never said a word! You hated him. You wanted his place. You have sent a man to die in prison and broken a girl's heart. May God never forgive you!"

Another man came plodding over the sands. He came to the trio and spoke no word. He saw the object on the sands and knew what it was, but he made no exclamation. For that he had been sent away for life. For that he had been changed from a man to an animal. Mary heard him breathing hoarsely at her elbow, and she turned and put her hand in his and laid her head on his shoulder. On the sand dunes behind them men on horses and men on foot suddenly appeared. They had guns and shouted to each other as they caught sight of the convict.

"Come, Mary," said Black Sam, as he lifted the girl in his arms and carried her over to a boat beached beyond the reach of the surf. With a heave of his giant shoulders he shoved the boat into the water and then held her for a moment. The big white moon stood fairly out to sea, and her shimmer made a broad pathway across the heaving waves. That pathway began millions of miles away and seemed to end at the dead man on the sands. The men hurried down from the dunes and aimed and fired their rifles at the figures in the boat, but their bullets flew harmless. Then they looked at the corpse on the sands and shouted to the convict that he was an innocent man and should return to stand before his fellowmen, but he did not look back.

Straight out into the heaving, troubled sea—straight into the path of the moonlight—straight for that Unknown that human souls visit never to return, sailed the boat and the lovers, and they were presently hidden from sight by the tossing billows and no man saw them again. Somewhere they found rest and peace.

Reckless of Life.

A wrestler named Tournier was sentenced to eight months' imprisonment at Toulouse recently. No sooner had he heard the sentence than he whipped out a revolver, fired four bullets at the witness whose evidence had procured his conviction, and fled from the police court.

Tournier barricaded himself within his house, together with his wife and children, and swore that he would shoot the first policeman who attempted to arrest him.

The new Fort Chabrol was at once surrounded by a cordon of police. Tournier shot twice at a policeman who had come within range. Soon afterward Mme. Tournier appeared at the window and cried, "He has killed himself."

The police would not believe it until the poor woman had brought out Tournier's weapons. They then entered the house, and found the wrestler on his bed. On a sheet of paper he had scrawled, "Let my wife alone; she has trouble enough as it is."—London Leader.

Already Done.

"Dear me, John, this is dreadful with hot weather on us and no money to go anywhere. Haven't you any country relations you can scare up?" "That's the trouble. I've scared all I've got already."—Baltimore American.

A Definition.

"Pa," said little Willie, looking up from his paper, "what is a philanthropist, anyway?"

"A philanthropist, my son," replied his wise pa, "is usually a man who spends his time getting other people to spend their money for charity."

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Have you tried the electric massage at E. B. Maynard's barber shop on North avenue? If not, you have no idea how refreshing it is.

Cool days are coming—have come, in fact. It behooves us all to buy our supply of L. A. Rheumie, East Fourth street, and be sure of getting good fuel.

W. W. Nash, Sr., the coal dealer, is now ready to make prompt deliveries to all parts of the city. Prices are the lowest in the market and the coal is first class.

Woolton & Buckle, North avenue, are the painters and decorators par excellence of Plainfield. Their work is distinctive and bears the stamp of expertness.

George F. Brown, of Somerset street, besides selling and leasing desirable properties, also represents leading fire and accident insurance companies. Rates are reasonable.

John A. Koch, the Watchung avenue butcher, carries only first class cuts of meat and his customers get but the one kind. Remember this when you need anything in his line.

There are suggestions on every shelf and counter, for the housewife, in J. W. Gavett's store, West Front street. Articles decorative as well as utilitarian are present in almost bewildering variety.

WOULDN'T WED HIS

MIDNIGHT CALLERS.

Decide to Wait Until They Are Older and Wiser.

The Rev. Thomas S. Brock, pastor of St. James' Methodist Episcopal church, New Brunswick, was awakened by his wife about midnight last night, who informed him that there was a young pair at the door.

They were from South River and very anxious to have the minister marry them. They were not accompanied by any one, and because of the youth of the girl and the fact that the young man had been drinking the pastor refused to tie the knot.

Inquiry was made of other local ministers as to a midnight marriage in which they officiated, but none of them, so far as is known, officiated in any wedding that night, and it is thought they decided to wait until they were older and wiser before they wed.

The Sheik and His House.

When the French came into contact with the Bedouin in Algeria, it was thought that a ready way of civilizing him would be to assist him to build himself a permanent habitation. A sheik who was thus favored was full of gratitude to the French engineers who had built him a house.

"Since my house was finished," he said, "I have not lost a single sheep. I lock them up in my house every night, and next morning I find them all in safety."

"Then where do you sleep yourself?" asked an officer in amazement.

"Oh, for myself, a sheik can live only in his tent," said the other, with dignity.

The Truth.

Gabsa Golde descended painfully from his ninety horsepower automobile.

"I wish to purchase," he said, "an engagement ring."

"Yes, sir," said the eager clerk. "We have just imported a superb ring, sir—two ruby hearts surrounded—"

"No," said the aged millionaire in a cold, disillusioned voice: "no, that won't do. There is only one heart concerned in this affair. The girl is marrying me for my money."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"Packing Off of Widows."

Some curious customs in the way of pastimes prevail in Korea. Among the farming classes there is one known as the "packing off of widows." This means a raid on a certain village known to contain a young widow. A widower, accompanied by friends, enters the village, carries off the woman in question and marries her.

Window Made of Stone.

A window made entirely of stone has been presented to a French cathedral. The stone is nephrite, found in Siberia, and so beautifully transparent that when placed as it is it catches the sun's rays and reflects them into the interior of the cathedral.

Blackbirds.

Blackbirds are powerful enemies of wasps. A blackbird will stand coolly by the side of a wasp's nest and deliberately tear it to pieces to get at the larvae, apparently caring not in the least for the swarms of angry insects flying around.

Garnet and Topaz.

The deterioration of the garnet and topaz is much more rapid than that of the ruby, but it takes a different form. While the garnet becomes lighter, the topaz turns cloudy and dull and loses all its brightness.

The Deadheads.

"What started the riot at the performance of 'Hamlet' last night?" "Ham held the skull and said, 'Alas, poor Yorick, you are not the only dead head in the house.'"—Pearson's Weekly.

The Guillotine.

Which machine of the type invented by Guillotine was first put to its dread use is not known, but that used for the execution of Marie Antoinette still exists in Berlin.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Best Books of 1905, Part III., All of Which Are in the Library.

FICTION.

Alice Brown. Absorbing story of love and self-sacrifice, based on the sudden appearance in a New England farm house of a runaway girl palmist.

F. H. Crawford—Fair Margaret. Present day story of a young English woman with a remarkable voice, who aspires to the operatic stage.

Sir A. C. Doyle—Return of Sherlock Holmes. Sherlock Holmes, opportunity reappears to unravel thirteen new mysteries awaiting his unerring instinct and ingenuity.

Gustav Fremsson—John Uhl. Somewhat sombre but hopeful tale of a young peasant's long struggle against adverse circumstances, reflecting the atmosphere of North German farm life and marked by sincerity and poetic feeling.

Mrs. M. C. Graham—The Wizard's Daughter. Six stories of country life, with one exception, Californian in scene. Strong in human interest and keen humor.

Mrs. A. C. H. Rice—Sandy. Hero, a light-hearted and irresponsible young Irish stowaway, who drifts to a Kentucky town and wins hearts and success.

F. H. Smith—The Wood Fire in No. 3. A collection of fireside tales full of Bohemian cheer, and good fellowship.

Mrs. R. M. Stuart—Second Woeing of Salina Sue. Short stories, humorous and pathetic, of Southern plantation life.

N. B. Tarkington—Conquest of Canaan. Well told story of how a young lawyer won the respect and admiration of an Indiana town which had ostracized him from childhood.

Mrs. K. C. Thurston—The Gambler. Story of a heroine, beautiful, impulsive, with a high sense of honor and capacity for a noble love, who is threatened with shipwreck through an inherited passion for gambling.

Mrs. M. A. Ward—Marriage of William Ashe. Story of an ill-assorted union between a young, level headed member of Parliament and an impulsive girl. Based on the life of Lord Melbourne, Lady Caroline Lamb and Lord Byron.

Mrs. Edith Wharton—House of Mirth. Absorbing study of the gradual downfall of a New York society girl whose lack of high standards compromise her at every turn.

Mrs. K. D. Wiggin—Rose o' the River. A Maine love idyl. The fascination and power of the Saco river and the perilous work of the lumbermen furnish the background.

C. N. and A. M. Williamson—The Princess Passes. Tale of love, automobile travel and a walking tour in Swiss and French Alps. Following but not vitally connected with "The Lightning Conductor."

M. O. Wright—At the Sign of the Fox. Combines satirical thrusts at the ostentatious life of the rich with a philosophy of simple, wholesome living and charming description of nature.

JUVENILE BOOKS.

Our Holidays—Their meaning and spirit; retold from St. Nicholas.

Howard Pyle—Story of the champions of the Round Table.

E. M. Tappan. The golden goose and other fairy tales.

J. D. Champlin—Young folks' encyclopedia of natural history.

A. N. Hall—Boy Craftsman. Instruction for indoor and outdoor work and recreation, with suggestions for earning money by small business enterprises. Includes directions for tools and workshop, printing, dark rooms and churches for making tool houses and furniture, log cabins, etc.

A. R. Bond—Scientific American Boy. Gives in story form directions which the average boy can follow for constructing bridges, windmills, water-wheels, tents, camping equipments, snowshoes, sledges, ice-boats, etc.

J. H. Kelman—Stories From Chaucer. (Told to the children series.) The volumes of this series are attractively printed, illustrated in color and, though not of equal value, are all worthy of consideration.

Mary MacLeod—Shakespeare story book, with introduction by Sidney Lee.

Blanche MacManus—Our Little French Cousin. Describes daily life and some happy journeys of little Germaine, daughter of a well-to-do farmer, of Normandy. Our Little English Cousins, by the same author, are among the best of the series.

F. G. Carpenter—Africa. An imaginary journey from New York through all African countries. Describes physical features, natural resources, people, life and industries. Illustrated.

Civil War Stories—Stories, many of them true, of the great struggle on land and sea, and the part taken in it by children. This series is especially valuable to libraries not having full set of St. Nicholas.

JUVENILE FICTION.

R. H. Barbour—Four in Camp. Adventures in a boys' summer camp on a New Hampshire lake.

E. V. Lucas—Old Fashioned Tales. Nineteen charming stories and illustrated moral classics.

Mrs. M. P. Smith—Boy Captive in Canada. Relates the experience of the 10-year-old son of Deerfield's minister, who lived for more than a year in captivity among the Indians of Vermont and Canada.

E. O. White—An Only Child. Pleasant story of a lonely little girl, her friends and her cats.

Bible Class Rally.

Under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A., a Bible class rally was held in the rooms on East Front street, last night. In addition to interesting talks by W. D. Murray and Miss Chadbourne on Bible study, there was an informal program of music, including vocal solos by Miss Mary Hubbell and violin solos by Miss Hyatt. After the meeting two Bible classes were formed, one to meet Tuesday afternoon and taught by Miss Taylor and the other to meet Tuesday evening and taught by Miss Colton.

Sentence Suspended.

Arrested last night for helpless drunkenness, Verney Hunt, colored, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. Sentence was suspended.

LEAGUE WILL CONTINUE

More Nines Will Be in the Pennant Race Next Year.

MAY BE EIGHT CLUBS

There Will Be Six Contenders, at Least—Handsome Caps For Star Hitters and Base-Stealers.

By a vote of the Inter-City Baseball League "magnates" last night, the continuance of the organization another season became an assured thing. The managers met at the office of Physical Director Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., manager of the association team, and besides determining that the league had proved itself a complete success and worthy of continued existence, they made arrangements to determine the winners of the prizes offered for batting and base-stealing.

Managers Bowlby, of Bound Brook; Frenz, of Scotch Plains; Dorfinger, of Clinton Avenue, and Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., besides several of the captains, were at the meeting. All of them agreed that the league had met their highest expectations. Not only was it splendidly successful from the standpoint of the sport, but the financial success was of a most pleasing character. Not a dissenting voice was raised when the suggestion that the organization be carried on for another season was brought up.

There is to be a decided change in the appearance of the league next year. It will be larger by at least two clubs, and there is a possibility that four clubs will be added. Where the new clubs will be from cannot be stated at this time; Rahway, New Brunswick, Somerville, Roselle, Garwood, Westfield, even Dunellen, are among the possible homes of league nines in 1908. About the only things decided are that the league will be enlarged and that it will not be larger than eight clubs.

The trophies for the star hitters and base-stealers are silver cups. There is a first and a second prize for hitting, and one prize for stealing. The batting figures are in so incomplete a state at present that not even a guess could be hazarded by the league secretary last night as to who will get the cups. The figures will be worked out by next week, by a committee consisting of Managers Bowlby, Frenz, Listman and Dorfinger. The base-stealing percentage is also incomplete, but that cup is said to lie between Ralph Schoonmaker, shortstop of the Y. M. C. A. nine, and Billy O'Loughlin, catcher of the Clinton Avenue combination.

Whether or not prizes and the pennant will be presented at a formal gathering was not decided. Some affair will probably be arranged to mark fittingly the team and individual victories. Manager Listman will get the pennant in New York next week. It will be a big "rag," bearing this inscription: "Clinton Avenue, Champions, Inter-City Baseball League."

The league will hold another meeting in a week or two. The committee on prizes will report at that time, and then official announcement of the winners will be made.

TWO MORE GAMES

Clinton Avenue Will Play Exhibition Contests With Plains and Y. M. C. A.

Two more lively games of ball are promised the fans before the season ends here. It was announced after the league meeting last night that Clinton Avenue, the pennant winners, and Scotch Plains, the runners-up, will meet on the Oval tomorrow afternoon.

The Saturday following Y. M. C. A. and Clinton Avenue will play. Of course the trailing clubs are just spoiling for the satisfaction of lowering the colors of the conquering champs, and the West Enders will have two spirited contests. They thrive on hot battles, however, and the livelier the meeting the better they are apt to work.

Miss Fleming Tennis Champion. The women's singles, for the club championship, were finished on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday afternoon, when Miss Barbara Fleming beat Miss Sarah Schuyler, 6-4, 7-5, and received the

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was — Is — Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

Y. M. C. A. GYMNASIUM.

Repairs Will Be Completed Tomorrow—Classes Start Next Week.

All the repairs to the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium will be completed by tomorrow night, and the classes will start the new season next week. The members will find a highly freshened department—enlarged locker rooms and a new coat of paint everywhere. The pool, in its new coat of dazzling white, looks inviting enough to tempt a tramp. The locker arrangements now provide separate accommodations for the Leal's boys, Business Men classes, and the Boys' department.

Class work will start Monday afternoon with the Leal's, police, and Business Men's classes. Tuesday afternoon the boys' and high school classes will open, and Tuesday evening the seniors will start their work.

PUSH PUBLICITY PLANS

that he thought the rates here very low, averaging about 5 cents a day. He pays annually $200 to the company, because he owns considerable property, and said he had no kick to make.

Regarding a municipal water supply, B. Frank Coriell said that he was in the Common Council when the question was discussed, but no one had yet shown him what advantage it would be for the city to bond itself for one or two million dollars, lose the revenue from outside towns which is now a considerable item in the profits of the local company.

It was the opinion of Mr. Marshall that if the water company can make money the city should be able to, and he believed that Amos Andrews and William Whelan would be just as glad to work for the city as the present company. However, he did not favor a municipal plant under present conditions.

It was decided to lay the garbage disposal question over to next year, when, as Mr. Marshall said, he understood Plainfield would have a crackjack Common Council.

The Brick Pave.

Considerable time was spent in discussing the slow work of brick paving, which was a great inconvenience to the merchants. A. E. Force predicted that the merchants on Front street would suffer a great deal about the holiday times if that thoroughfare was allowed to be torn up and left in that condition any length of time. These remarks brought forth a vigorous reply from F. A. Dunham. He thought recent criticism in that direction too severe on the contractor and city engineer. He declared that the city is getting a first-class job, without any graft, and that no improvement of the kind can be made without some inconvenience. He begged the indulgence of the merchants, believing that Mr. Gavett will do all in his power to rush the work.

In this connection there was some talk about the poor sidewalks and curbing in the business section, and everyone believed that steps should be taken to improve the same while the brick pavement is being laid.

William Richards has resigned his position as clerk with a local grocer.

Miss Serrell, of Myrtle avenue, gave an informal bridge whist party at her home yesterday, to which a small company of friends were invited.

The last days of the peach season are at hand and Neuman Brothers expect the last consignment tomorrow. It will be a good one, nevertheless, and will comprise some splendid Iron Mountain and Fox Seedling varieties.

—Horse Sale—I will sell at the Somerset street stables on Saturday, October 5, a carload of acclimated horses, consisting of fast drivers and some workers, with ponies and cart. This is a good lot and worth the attention of buyers. Sale 1:30 p. m. and we will be pleased to have you all with us.

Kokomo, Ind.—Carl Hunt, who, for a year, has been employed in a responsible position by the Kokomo Steel and Wire company, was arrested by the police on the charge of being a fugitive from the Indiana School for Boys at Plainfield. Hunt admits that he escaped from the school, but asserts that he has lived an upright life ever since, and he proposes to continue to do so if his liberty is given him.

The police have investigated his record since he has been in Kokomo and found it exemplary. He has worked steadily, has avoided evil companions, saved his money, has been a regular attendant at Sunday school, and while not at work has been busily engaged in study.

His case discloses a child Jean Valjean.

Hunt was sent to Plainfield when 9 years old from Brimhurst, Ind., as an "incorrigible." He won enough credits in a year and a half to entitle him to a parole, and he was sent back to Brimhurst. Soon after his return a store in Brimhurst was robbed. He said he had no connection whatever with the robbery, but suspicion was directed toward him, and he was arrested and returned to Plainfield without trial.

Afterward the charge of robbery was dismissed by the Carroll Circuit court, but Hunt was not released. He became a trustee of the school, and lived quietly there until a year ago. One day he saw a good opportunity to escape, and he took it. He came directly to Kokomo, as he had heard that employment was easy to obtain in the steel and wire mills.

Young Hunt worked faithfully and received frequent promotions and increases in salary. He probably would have worked his way into a position of trust had not this secret of his life been revealed. Some one who had learned the facts concerning Hunt's past wrote to the authorities of the Plainfield school telling them he was in Kokomo. The letter was sent to the Kokomo police, and they arrested Hunt at his boarding house this morning.

He is greatly distressed at having to return to the Plainfield institution, but he sees no way to avoid it, and he will probably have to serve a long time for the offense of escaping. It was said today that some of the friends he made while in this city are talking of interesting themselves in his behalf with Gov. Hanly, to the end that a permanent parole for him may be obtained.

Cow Loses Tail in Tree.

Traverse City, Mich.—Catching her tail in the limb of a tree while fighting flies, a cow belonging to Frank Parmenter, in trying to free herself, strained and granted until she and the tail parted company, leaving her nothing but a wiggling eight inch stump to give battle to insects. Her owner discovered her plight before the break occurred and endeavored to extricate the caudal appendage with no success. Then he secured a saw and started to saw the tree down, but the cow still pulled and broke the tail before he could finish. The report was heard a block away when the tail parted.

Pigs' Tails as Barometers.

Milton, Del.—The secret of "Uncle Billy" Waring's ability to forecast the weather has leaked out. Recently he has been able with an exactitude not equaled by the best barometers to tell his neighbors 24 and sometimes 36 hours ahead what weather to expect. His predictions have been of great benefit to farmers. Now it is learned that he gets his tips from his two pigs. In dry weather the tails of the pigs have one curl, in wet weather two curls, and just before a rain their tails hang limp.

Fooled the General.

There is a story of a Russian general who asked a sentry at night, "How many stars are in the sky?" The sentry was not at a loss for an answer. "I will see, sir," he said, and calmly began counting them. After he had reached 700 the general rode off, for it was bitterly cold.

Forget Your Money Troubles—We Can Show You How
Start life afresh. Borrow from us to pay the several you owe and make payments in keeping with your income. By so doing you keep your credit good. Ease up the pressure on yourself and have a chance to "turn around" in other things needed for the family.

An Illustration
One of our clients owed $48 to four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; paid his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

IN THE FOG

BY Richard Harding Davis.

COPYRIGHT, 1901, BY ROBERT HOWARD RUSSELL.

At these unexpected words, which carried in them something of the tone of a challenge, the gentlemen about the table started as suddenly as though the American had fired a pistol in the air, and Sir Andrew halted abruptly and stood observing him with grave surprise.

"The gentleman with the black pearl was the first to recover. 'Yes, yes,' he said eagerly, throwing himself across the table. 'A mystery that baffles the police of London. I have heard nothing of it. Tell us at once, pray do—tell us at once.'"

The American flushed uncomfortably and picked uneasily at the tablecloth.

"No one but the police has heard of it," he murmured, "and they only through me. It is a remarkable crime, to which, unfortunately, I am the only person who can bear witness. Because I am the only witness, I am, in spite of my immunity as a diplomat, detained in London by the authorities of Scotland Yard. My name," he said, inclining his head politely, "is Sears, Lieutenant Ripley Sears of the United States Navy, at present Naval Attaché to the Court of Russia. Had I not been detained to-day by the police I would have started this morning for Petersburg."

The gentleman with the black pearl interrupted with so pronounced an exclamation of excitement and delight that the American stammered and ceased speaking.

"Do you hear, Sir Andrew?" cried the member of Parliament jubilantly. "An American diplomat halted by our police because he is the only witness of a most remarkable crime—the most remarkable crime, I believe you said, sir," he added, bending eagerly toward the naval officer, "which has occurred in London in many years."

The American moved his head in assent and glanced at the two other members. They were looking doubtfully at him, and the face of each showed that he was greatly perplexed.

Sir Andrew advanced to within the light of the candles and drew a chair toward him.

"The crime must be exceptional indeed," he said, "to justify the police in interfering with a representative of a friendly power. If I were not forced to leave at once, I should take the liberty of asking you to tell us the details."

The gentleman with the pearl pushed the chair toward Sir Andrew, and motioned him to be seated.

"You cannot leave us now," he exclaimed. "Mr. Sears is just about to tell us of this remarkable crime."

He nodded vigorously at the naval officer and the American, after first glancing doubtfully toward the servants at the far end of the room, leaning forward across the table. The others drew their chairs nearer and bent toward him. The baronet glanced irresolutely at his watch, and with an exclamation of annoyance snapped down the lid. "They can wait," he muttered. He seated himself quickly and nodded at Lieutenant Sears.

"If you will be so kind as to begin, sir," he said impatiently.

"Of course," said the American, "you understand that I understand that I am speaking to gentlemen. The confidences of this Club are inviolate. Until the police give the facts to the public press, I must consider you my confederates. You have heard nothing, you know no one connected with this mystery. Even I must remain anonymous."

The gentlemen seated around him nodded gravely.

"Of course," the baronet assented with eagerness, "of course."

"We will refer to it," said the gentleman with the black pearl, "as 'The Story of the Naval Attaché.'"

"I arrived in London two days ago," said the American, "and I engaged a room at the Bath Hotel. I know very few people in London, and even the members of our embassy were strangers to me. But in Hong Kong I had become great pals with an officer in your navy, who has since retired, and who is now living in a small house in Rutland Gardens opposite the Knightsbridge Barracks. I telegraphed him that I was in London, and yesterday morning I received a most hearty invitation to dine with him the same evening at his house. He is a bachelor, so we dined alone and talked over all our old days on the Asiatic Station, and of the changes which had come to us since we had last met there. As I was leaving the next morning for my post at Petersburg, and had many letters to write, I told him, about 10 o'clock, that I must get back to the hotel, and he sent out his servant to call a hansom."

"For the next quarter of an hour, as we sat talking, we could hear the cab whistle sounding violently from the doorstep, but apparently with no result."

"It cannot be that the cabmen are on strike," my friend said, as he rose and walked to the window.

"He pulled back the curtains and at once called to me."

"You have never seen a London fog, have you?" he asked. "Well, come here. This is one of the best, or, rather, one of the worst, of them." I joined him at the window, but I could see nothing. Had I not known that the house looked out upon the street I would have believed that I was facing a dead wall. I raised the sash and stretched out my head, but still I could see nothing. Even the light of the street lamps opposite, and in the upper windows of the barracks, had been smothered in the yellow mist. The lights of the room in which I stood penetrated the fog only to the distance of a few inches from my eyes.

"Below me the servant was still sounding his whistle, but I could afford to wait no longer, and told my friend that I would try and find the way to my hotel on foot. He objected, but the letters I had to write were for the Navy Department, and, besides, I had always heard that to be out in a London fog was the most wonderful experience, and I was curious to investigate one for myself."

"My friend went with me to his front door and laid down a course for me to follow. I was first to walk straight across the street to the brick wall of the Knightsbridge Barracks. I was then to feel my way along the wall until I came to a row of houses set back from the sidewalk. They would bring me to a cross street. On the other side of this street was a row of shops which I was to follow until they joined the iron railings of Hyde Park Corner, where I was to lay a diagonal course across Piccadilly, and back in toward the railings of Green Park. At the end of these railings, going east, I would find the Walsingham, and my own hotel.

"To a sailor the course did not seem difficult, so I bade my friend good-night and walked forward until my feet touched the paving. I continued upon it until I reached the curbing of the sidewalk. A few steps further, and my hands struck the wall of the barracks. I turned in the direction from which I had just come and saw a square of faint light cut in the yellow fog. I shouted 'All right,' and the voice of my friend answered, 'Good luck to you.' The light from his open door disappeared with a bang, and I was left alone in a dripping, yellow darkness. I have been in the Navy for ten years, but I have never known such a fog as that of last night, not even among the icebergs of Behring Sea. There one at least could see the light of the binnacle, but last night I could not even distinguish the hand by which I guided myself along the barrack wall. At sea a fog is a natural phenomenon. It is as familiar as the rainbow which follows a storm, it is as proper that a fog should spread upon the waters as that steam shall rise from a kettle. But a fog which springs from the paved streets, that rolls between solid house-fronts, that forces cabs to move at half speed, that drowns policemen and extinguishes the electric lights of the music hall, that to me is incomprehensible. It is as out of place as a tidal wave on Broadway.

"As I felt my way along the wall, I encountered other men who were coming from the opposite direction, and each time when we hailed each other I stepped away from the wall to make room for them to pass. But the third time I did this, when I reached out my hand, the wall had disappeared, and the further I moved to find it the further I seemed to be sinking into space. I had the unpleasant conviction that at any moment I might step over a precipice. Since I had set out I had heard no traffic in the street, and now, although I listened some minutes, I could only distinguish the occasional footfalls of pedestrians. Several times I called aloud, and once a jocular gentleman answered me, but only to ask me where I thought he was, and then even he was swallowed up in the silence. Just above me I could make
