

MARTINE HAS 29 VOTES

This is Enough to Make Primary Winner Choice of the Caucus.

Hoss Jim Smith, Jr., had another bad day yesterday at the hands of the New Jersey progressives. Another of the alleged props was knocked from under his brazen attempt to wrest the United States Senatorship from his party and from the Democratic voters of the State. The delegation to the assembly from Morris county yesterday announced that it will line up with Governor-elect Wilson and the progressives in their advocacy of James E. Martine, the choice of the Democratic primary for United States Senator.

According to the calculations of the progressives, Martine now has enough votes in the assembly to assure his election. The latest estimates of his strength give him 29 votes, with but 11 votes pledged to Smith and with 10 votes doubtful. There are fifty Democrats in the legislature, and Martine thus requires 26 to win out.

It is fully expected by those who are watching the trend of events most closely that day by day the Martine strength will grow apace, for in the fierce light of the public opinion, which is every day becoming more intense and outspoken in its denunciation of Smith and all he stands for in the way of machine politics and special privilege legislation, the Democratic legislators are feeling a pressure from the public at large which is unique in the political annals of the State.

The bosses, both Democratic and Republican—for in this fight there is a fraternity of feeling between the bosses of both parties in their last desperate stand against the new force which Wilson and the solid phalanx of voters back of him represent—were further dismayed today by the announcement that Doctor Wilson will go before the people in another public document in a few days.

On Friday or Saturday of this week the Governor-elect intends to issue a lengthy statement to the people of New Jersey which will be at once an analysis of the situation and an inspiring call to arms to all good men and true in the State to arise and demand that the men whom they have elected to represent them as they indicated their will in the primary.

Doctor Wilson, followed his habit of taking the people entirely into his confidence in regard to all matters of public import, has felt it his duty as the elected leader of his party to resolve the present fight, which has been beclouded by inspired reports and arguments in all parts of the State and country, into its fundamentals.

He desires to let the people know just what the issues are that are being contested. He wishes to let the legislators know just what they are about to do when they cast their ballots for the United States Senator in this most unique and epoch-making contest.

There is no doubt in the minds of the people of the State but that Doctor Wilson will leave the entire question stripped down to its simplest terms, and that by the time he has concluded his analysis in his own peculiar and almost uncanny method of getting at the essentials, neither legislator nor voter nor political boss nor corporation crook will be in any doubt as to what the election of Martine or of Smith will mean—both to the State and the country.

By Doctor Wilson's advisers it is thought that this statement will become as famous in the New Jersey political history as the letter to Record which was virtually responsible for the election of Wilson. The statement will be directed to the legislators in the first instance and will outline what, in Doctor Wilson's opinion, is the path of honor of the assemblymen in the contest.

He will point out that every consideration of party honor and public morality calls upon the Democratic assemblymen to stand by the pledge of their party at the convention and vote for the successful candidate at the primary. In the second place, it is understood, Doctor Wilson will address himself to the people of New Jersey, calling upon them to rouse themselves into a mighty storm of vigorous protest against the election of Smith, and thus force the recalcitrant legislators to actually represent them.

In the third place, it is thought that Doctor Wilson will go into the question of the circumstances surrounding his nomination and what he at that time understood the attitude of Smith to be regarding the senatorship. It has now become a matter of general report that Doctor Wilson in the conference in New York last July, at which the matter of his nomination for governor was discussed, was given to understand that Smith was in ill health and that

GOVERNOR-ELECT THANKS MR. MARTINE'S NEIGHBORS

Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson has written a letter expressing his appreciation of the action of Plainfield's business men in denouncing the attacks made on James E. Martine, which questioned his ability to fill the office of United States Senator. The merchants' resolution as transmitted to the scholar-statesman rebuked the newspapers published at distant points for giving space to articles reflecting on Martine's ability. In his reply, acknowledging the "round robin," Governor-elect Wilson says:

"Allow me to acknowledge with real appreciation your letter of December 16, with its enclosures, the resolutions concerning Mr. Martine. Such resolutions greatly strengthen me and assist not a little to guide my purpose."

GOVERNOR-ELECT WILSON IS IN FIGHT TO FINISH

Calvin E. Brodhead, Assemblyman-elect, when interviewed as to the Senatorial situation yesterday, had this to say of Mr. Martine's chances: "Mr. Smith's letter has made no change in the Senatorial situation. Everybody knows that he has been an active candidate ever since the election was over. On the other hand his strength is growing and will crystallize into an irresistible force before the balloting commences. Governor-elect Wilson is in the fight to a finish and there will be no compromise."

SALVATION ARMY DINNERS

Five Hundred Families to Enjoy Christmas Cheer Through Salvationists.

Five hundred dinners will be distributed among the poor of Plainfield on Saturday night next, and as a result, joy will reign on Christmas Day in humble cottage as well as palatial mansion. Indeed, it is fitting that sympathy should be the keynote at this festive Yuletide season and that the right hand of good fellowship should be extended at this time toward those whom the world deems less fortunate.

This evidence of "good will toward men" has been made possible through the kindly contributions of the citizens of Plainfield and is a climax worthy of the untiring efforts of the local Salvation Army.

Least one should fail to grasp the full significance of these five hundred dinners it might be well to mention that each of them will contain: chicken, potatoes, bread and butter, sugar, coffee, crackers and oranges, in varying proportions, according to the size of the family provided.

These Christmas dinners for the poor will be given out at eight o'clock on Saturday night at the local headquarters of the Salvation Army and the people who will be served have been carefully selected as the most needy and deserving in our midst.

A like number were fed last year at Christmas time, though now there are many new comers to the city. On the following Wednesday, an entertainment will be given at the Salvation Army hall to poor children and among other things each child will receive presents such as toys, warm underclothing and dolls. Not the least interesting feature of the entertainment will be a Christmas tree. These blessings for the poor of Plainfield have been made possible through the generous response of the public and Capt. and Mrs. Hewitt take this opportunity to express their heartfelt thanks to all who have contributed, whether through the medium of the tripod stands on the streets, or by mail.

Those who have displayed their practical Christianity by helping the good cause along will doubtless receive a full reward in the knowledge that they have helped to enlighten the burden of their fellow men at a time when all the world is saying "Peace on Earth—Good Will Toward Men."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH S. S. CHRISTMAS SERVICE

The Sunday-school of the First Baptist church, under the direction of a committee of which Arthur M. Harris is the chairman, has planned an elaborate religious Christmas service to be held at the church, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. In addition to the singing of Christmas carols by the school and recitations, presentations of gifts, etc., there will be instrumental selections by the Norma Trio comprising Miss Edna White, trumpet soloist; Miss Norma Sauter, violinist and Miss Cora Sauter, cellist.

This trio filled a long engagement at the Ocean Grove Auditorium last summer and proved one of the great attractions at the concerts; also at the Sunday services. An address will also be made by Rev. Winfred R. Ackert, pastor of the Vermilye chapel, connected with the Collegiate church of St. Nicholas, New York city.

The aim of the First Baptist church and Bible school this year, is to carry out the teaching of Christ, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." The presentation of gifts by the different classes for the poor will be an important feature of the service.

Slick Thief. One of the slickest thieves yet caught is one John W. Vincent, alias John W. Wilson, who was arrested in Providence, R. I. yesterday. Vincent disguised himself as a workman and helped himself to silver bars from the safe of the Gorham Mfg. Co., in Providence. Vincent was caught through the vigilance of John F. Harmon, of West Eighth street, this city, who became suspicious when a bar of the stolen silver was presented to his firm, Handy and Harmon, at 22 Pine street, New York, to be refined. Mr. Harmon wired the Providence firm and Vincent was nabbed after stealing another ingot worth approximately $800.

SWEET SENTIMENTS OF "GOOD FELLOWS"

Two mighty Good Fellows dropped into the poetical yesterday and announced that they had made up their minds to keep up their membership in the club in language whose import cold type can scarcely convey. Here's one of them:

"Well, here's Christmas again. Some call it Merry Christmas because everybody wants everybody else to be happy. Yes, I want all the youngsters to be happy, but unfortunately I cannot take care of more than twenty. I want them to be happy as I am while I am writing this to the big "Good Fellow." I find it hard at times to tell others my feelings, but I find it easy to share mine with them, especially when they are brimming over as they are today."

The other fellow says: "It is the merry laugh of children, the warm hand clasp of a friend, the thought of gladness. All quickens the heart and causes it to sing. It makes one forget self in wishing others well and that echoes up to the very stars the notes of happiness."

There are but three days left for you to enlist now and there are still some poor little folks wistfully looking up and around the chimney for the coming of Santa. Will you let them look in vain? I would not. Get on the big sleigh with the ruddy faced saint and put your gifts in his sack. Then lay back and see the smiles creep over the features of the happiest little mortals you ever conjured up in your mind's eye. It will spell happiness for you the rest of the year, regardless of whether November's political results or the last snowstorm or anything else has made you a little grouchy.

"Good Fellow" is waiting to acknowledge your willingness to help him help others to have just the best and happiest time ever. Read the letter published today on page 4, addressed to the Good Fellows of Plainfield.

BOUND BROOK BOILING

Don't Like Being Told That They Cannot Protest Against Sewage Disposal.

Bound Brook is stirred from centre to circumference today and excitement is running high over the statement of Sherrard Depue, of the law firm of Lindaberry, Depue & Faulks, of Newark, that Bound Brook had permitted the time limit for objections against a North Plainfield sewerage disposal plant to expire. That such is the case seems to have awakened the people to a sense of what is termed their danger of having a sewage disposal plant in their back yard. Mr. Depue, on Monday, appeared before the State Board of Health and urged the claims of North Plainfield for the establishment of its plant and in arguing the point for the borough declared that the limit of thirty days provided in the statutes of 1907 had expired and that therefore the inhabitants of the township of Bound Brook had no further right to object to the work proposed by North Plainfield.

Residents of that pretty section of the country seem to think that they have not only a right, but propose to exercise it, and that vigorously, to prevent the dumping of sewage within a mile of the township limits. According to the law, to which Mr. Depue is said to have referred, the residents of a municipality are not the only people who have a right to object to a proposition such as a sewerage question is, but all the people of the township, borough and municipality and therefore, there is no legal time limit put on those outside of the city in which to file their objections with the State Board of Health.

Monday's hearing was not advertised, it is said, so that those of the territory concerned could be present to raise their voices against the proposed establishment and only one or two of those concerned convinced the president of the board, John H. Capstick, that the motion of Mr. Depue was illegal and the public hearing was set down for January 24 next.

In speaking on the subject this morning Henry C. Snyder, of Bound Brook, said that his interpretation of the law under which Mr. Depue had based his opinion as to the expiration of the time limit was entirely different and he believed that the people of Bound Brook had a right to object on sanitary grounds against the proposal of the North Plainfield people to make an ill-smelling spot of the environs of his city.

DE BRIGARD IN TROUBLE, HIS STORE IS CLOSED

Boice, Runyon & Co., through Isaac P. Runyon, has placed an attachment on the goods in the store of Louis DeBrigard on Park avenue, for the November and December rent. Mr. DeBrigard closed the store, which is in the building of Boice, Runyon & Co., several days ago and has failed to notify the concern as to what he intended to do.

Mr. DeBrigard had a young man working for him, who joined him in signing the lease for the store, but the clerk disclaims any responsibility and says that he was not in partnership with DeBrigard. DeBrigard conducted an art and supply store, having been located on Park avenue for the past two years, formerly being associated with Paul Collier.

SCHWARTZMAN'S FURS FOUND IN NEW YORK

Perhaps some of the fur articles alleged to have been stolen from the store of Max Schwartzman, on East Front street, were not taken at all. Chief of Police Kiely has received a letter from C. E. Malgadey, 36 West 26th street, New York, in which Mr. Malgadey says that he has some furs which were sent to him by Julian Davis, the young man accused by Schwartzman, of embezzling $500. The articles were sent in to be repaired.

The New York merchant enumerates certain furs which he says belongs to customers of Mr. Schwartzman, in this city. As they could not have been on hand when the last inventory of the stock in the store was taken they may prove to be part of the furs alleged to have been disposed of by Schwartzman's manager.

WATCHUNG RESIDENTS HAVE MAD DOG SCARE

The residents of Watchung are in the midst of a mad dog scare as the result of a rabid canine running amuck in the valley about two weeks ago. The animal bit two dogs belonging to John Mobus and another belonging to Theodore Luerson, both of which went mad yesterday. They were promptly shot by Marshal Clement. Six pigs the property of Clarence Kellogg, whose barn was destroyed by fire last week, also fell victims to the dog's bite and had to be slaughtered Monday. The porkers were separated as soon as it was known the canine had been in their midst but all gave unmistakable signs of rabies.

Beside the three dogs and pigs, it is known that two cows were also bitten but the owners have not been located. An effort is being made to find them. It may be possible that other animals have been affected and all the farmers are keeping a close watch on their stock.

The dog at the bottom of the trouble was a homeless mongrel that first made its appearance directly in Watchung. As soon as it became known that it was mad, Constable Clement started in pursuit and finally killed it. The head was sent to the State chemist at Trenton and word was received in reply that rabies were plainly evident.

A sale of the City Market property was scheduled to take place in the sheriff's office at Elizabeth at 2 o'clock, this afternoon but a postponement was obtained by the interested parties until January 4. There are two mortgages on the property, one held by Mr. Lillian Mendenhall, of New York, who is represented by I. P. Runyon, and another by Mrs. Lydia Bullock, of this city, who invested $4,000 in the venture, and who is represented by W. S. Angelman. It is said that it will require about $32,000 to clean up the matter.

Among those who are interested in the company controlling the market property are Clarence L. Murphy, Ira L. LaRue and Mrs. T. Logan Murphy, known as the Quoin Investment company. They acquired the property from a Mrs. Peck, of New York, and the market was opened about a year ago.

RIDDLES SMITH BOOM; PLEADS FOR MARTINE

The candidacy of James E. Martine for United States Senator received a big boost Sunday at a meeting in the People's Institute at Jersey City. Representative-elect Henry George, of New York, said that now was New Jersey's opportunity to take a great stride toward redeeming herself in the country's eyes.

Then he continued: "James Smith, Jr., boss of the Democratic machine, now in the ascendancy in New Jersey politics, is, outside the borders of your State, regarded as a type of monopoly corporation servant. He has been in the past faithful to their interests. He is believed to be such now. What guarantee does he give that he will not be so in the future? On the other hand, James E. Martine is, and always has been, faithful to the principle of equal rights for all and special privileges to none. Moreover, the Democratic platform declared for Martine. Is Mr. Boss Smith to be permitted to set aside this referendum to the Democratic party and put himself into the Senate?"

I believe that the aggressive, brilliant and courageous Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson, in taking the leadership of his party into his own hands and making war against the old-style, rotten machine interests of the people while serving the least bidding of privilege, is not only doing his duty toward the State of which he is to be the Chief Magistrate, but is giving hope to the whole country that the day of New Jersey's redemption from the thralldom of privilege has begun to dawn."

TRAIN KILLS A HORSE AND INJURES DRIVER.

A one-horse delivery wagon belonging to Crickenberger Bros., and driven by Matthew Slaughter, colored, was struck by an eastbound freight engine at the Central avenue railroad crossing, Westfield, at 6:45 o'clock yesterday morning. The horse was killed and the wagon demolished.

The driver was picked up unconscious a few moments after the accident, put on the train and taken to the Elizabeth General Hospital. The gate-tender, Pierce McCormick, claims that the man drove under the gates as he was lowering them, apparently trying to cross ahead of a passenger train standing at the station, but not seeing a fast freight approaching, which was hidden from his view by the passenger train.

Santa Claus Getting Busier

Hello! Hello! That you, Hahne & Co.? Yes! Well, this is Santa Claus—and I want to tell you there are more kids around this town than I ever saw before. Letters piling upon me to beat the band. I don't know how I'm going to fill all the stockings. Better order 10,000 more dolls, 1,000 more trains of cars, 4,000 more sleds, 50,000 more books, 1,000 more drums—and those traction toys, can you get any more of them? Air rifles, too—several hundred more of them. And how about tree ornaments? Got plenty? Need lots of them—going to put up more trees than ever.

"Think I'm getting old? Think I'm getting played out, maybe? Well, we'll see. I'm going to dump more toys, more playthings in on Newark than it ever saw before, and pretty nearly all of them are coming from your store. Big job! You bet. But I'm an old hand at this business and anyone who knows how to crawl down chimneys like I do knows how to get around to every house in town in jig-time.

"I'm working both reindeers and automobiles this year. Look out for the 'din-a-ling' and the 'honk-honk!'"

"Tell folks to put the kiddies to bed early for I've got to make an early start to get thru. By the way, better make a hundred tons more of those bully candles you sell. I can't get any others as good as they are anywhere. So long."

Joy Is Assured Where There's a Victrola

An instrument that renders brass band and orchestral music, an instrument that sings with the voice of the prima donnas of the grand operas, an instrument that is just as capable of accompanying an evening party with a sonata, an oratorio or a bit of George Cohan's rag, is certainly up in the front row of things givable at Christmas time.

The Victrola

IS THE MARVEL OF THE AGE. As a music-maker it has no peer, and as a source of pleasure in the home it is simply unrivaled, for all the family, from silver-haired grandmother down to prattling youngsters, find this flow of music good for the soul and all find equal delight in it.

Think—think a long while—and you will hardly conjure anything that will more surely "fill the bill" than the "Victrola."

FRED TENNEY WILL MANAGE BOSTON CLUB

Fred Tenney will manage the Boston National League baseball team next season. The board of directors, William Heppburn Russell, L. Cowe Page, George A. Page and Frederic J. Murphy, met at the club office and at the conclusion of the meeting President Russell made the following statement:

"The board of directors has been in session and has conferred with Messrs. Fred Lake and Fred Tenney. The directors all like Mr. Lake very much, and had it not been for negotiations made previous to the change of ownership, no change would have been made in the management of the club at this time.

"Mr. Tenney has been of greatest possible service to me as the negotiations to buy the club were in progress.

"Today the directors decided that the manager of the club for 1911 should be Fred Tenney.

"Mr. Lake's contract, which calls for $5,000 salary for 1911, will be lived up to in every particular, and the money will be paid in accordance with his contract unless at Mr. Lake's own request the contract is terminated.

"We only regret that we cannot have two heads for the same undertaking, but it is obvious that we can't.

"Lake will remain connected with the team as an advisor until the termination of his contract."

BASEBALL.

The national Baseball Commission yesterday decided that Catcher O'Neill, drafted by the Philadelphia American League Club from the Elmira club of the New York State League, had been purposely released by the Elmira club to avoid the drafting of the player. The drafting of this player is held to be legal, but on account of the action of the Elmira club the money is awarded to the New York State League. The commission also decided that in the similar case of Player Smith, drafted by the Pittsburgh National League Club from the Jacksonville club, the drafting was legal. However, the drafting money is to be paid to the Jacksonville club, because of the Jacksonville club having already signed the player to a contract for 1911.

Herrmann has not abandoned his scheme for an interleague schedule. He talked with magnates in both leagues last week and has so many arguments to show that his plan is practicable that he believes there will be a change of sentiment in his favor before another year has passed. Herrmann says that his plan can be modified so that each major league can play a schedule of ninety-eight games, including two Western and Eastern trips, after which each club in the National for instance can play eight games with each club in the American, a combined schedule of 152 games instead of 176 games for the entire season.

The Cleveland club, in addition to Griggs, secured from the Browns in exchange for Catcher Clarke, has landed a pitcher named Gregg, who did remarkable work on the Pacific coast this year. Deacon Jim McGuire, the Cleveland manager, appears to have rounded up a formidable lot of young players, including Joe Jackson, the heavy-hitting outfielder; First Baseman Hohnhurst, and Pitchers Blanding, Mitchell and Kaler.

It is predicted by scouts that in Chalmers the Philadelphia Nationals have picked up a coming pitcher. Chalmers is a New York boy who first attracted attention by his work with semi-professional teams in Harlem and The Bronx. He was the best pitcher in the New York State League last season and after joining the Quakers he showed unusual form against the Giants at the Polo Grounds, by holding them down to a few scattered hits and winning his game. He is a powerfully built fellow, about 26 years old and has unlimited confidence in his ability to make good in fast company.

MANAGER CONNIE MACK IS REWARDED BY CLUB.

That the services of Manager Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics, are appreciated by the stockholders of the Athletic Baseball Club was shown at the annual meeting, when the assembled potentates voted the popular manager of the White Elephants $5,000 as a wedding present, in recognition of his services during the past season.

Connie and Mrs. McGillicuddy are now somewhere in the south of Europe, and the letter sent by the club, enclosing the best wishes of the stockholders and the check for $5,000 will probably arrive before Christmas. This is the first time in the history of organized baseball that a manager has been so handsomely treated for winning a world's championship.

Owing to the holiday season the missionary study class of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church will not hold its regular meeting this week.

Wind Up Your Christmas Shopping Here

Some stores allow their Christmas stocks to run down so that those who, through necessity or oversight, have put off their holiday buying until the final hour, are obliged to take whatever there is left. It would be manifestly ridiculous for us to claim that our stocks are as complete now as they were a fortnight since, because every one knows that we have had the greatest holiday trade in the history of our business, but we do say and we stand ready to prove it, too, that our assortments are more complete than some stores because we buy in greater quantities and because we are constantly replenishing. If the very thing you have set your heart on is not here (which is improbable) you will have no difficulty determining upon something else just as good. Wind up your shopping at this store—your Christmas will be all the merrier for it.

Plainfield, N. J., December 21, 1910.

CONSOLIDATION FIRST.

It is quite apparent that there is a difference of opinion among the people of North Plainfield and Plainfield as to the feasibility and practicability of a consolidation of the two places. Even among those who look with favor upon the merger plan, there appears to be a strong sentiment against renewing the agitation at this time. Some citizens, some very influential citizens, hold that in the light of present events in both the city and the borough, it is most inopportune to stir up the subject just now. One even goes so far as to remark that he "does not consider the matter is regarded seriously enough by the municipal bodies of either the borough or the city" to warrant discussion.

During the last week or so, this paper has communicated with men prominent in civic affairs, men who pay into either the city or borough treasury, goodly sums as taxes each year. Unfortunately we are honor bound not to reveal the identity of most of those whose views we have sought nor the expressions which they have made for permission to publish the replies was expressly withheld. It is no violation of confidence, however, to state that the sum and substance of the objections to reviving the consolidation proposition are based on the claim that other weighty problems on which time, effort and money have been expended are still unsettled and it would be an injustice to divert public attention from these matters which are held to be of prime importance and urgent necessity.

At no small sacrifice to themselves, a number of the borough's citizens have worked indefatigably for the solution of the sewage disposal problem. It is quite natural that they should be anxious to bring their efforts to a successful termination before the borough tackles another big problem. And so it is as respects the water question, which interests the residents "over the brook" quite as much as it does the authorities of this city who have expended thousands to ascertain if by some chance there be a way to rid the community of the private monopoly and to make money and reduce rates at the same time in the operation of an "M. O." plant.

To us, such reasons as objections to renewing the agitation for consolidation are unsound. They are in reality, we submit, reasons why a merger should be brought about at the earliest possible day. It would be manifestly unwise for the borough to construct a sanitary sewage disposal system larger than is required for its needs for a reasonable time to come unless first assured that such a plant would be adequate for the needs of both borough and the city as well, and that it would be required for such purposes. Nothing less than the consummation of a merger beforehand would warrant this assurance. The same line of argument holds good as to the water problem. Each community is at a disadvantage in attempting to satisfactorily solve this question as the situation is at present. To our way of thinking the thing to do is first to ascertain definitely and for all time whether the community is to be one in law as it is in every other respect or whether it is to continue to be divided against itself. Then the water and sewage problems would be easy to settle.

HACKLEBARNEY WATER.

After examining half a dozen sources from which Plainfield may possibly obtain a water supply, Mr. Fuertes, the expert, whose report will be considered tonight by the Common Council meeting as a committee on the whole, expresses a preference for Hacklebarney. Hacklebarney is a hamlet in Morris county, two or three miles southwest of Chester, and about eighteen miles from this city "as the crow flies," but by pipe route nearly twenty miles. Water, the expert asserts, will flow from that source to Plainfield by gravity, but occasionally, at least, before it enters the city it must be passed through a filter plant and treated with soda ash, bleaching powder, sulphate of aluminum, hypochlorite of lime and compressed air to remove turbidity, color, odor and bacteria.

The quantity of water in its raw state at Hacklebarney, which is on the Lamington or Black river, is thus described in the expert's report: "The only respect in which Black River water, as drawn from the proposed reservoirs (at Hacklebarney) without filtration, might not entirely satisfy the inhabitants of Plainfield would be in regard to turbidity or muddiness. Plainfield has been supplied for many years with clear colorless water derived from underground sources, and a very high standard has thus been unconsciously established with which comparisons would be made by the water consumers in the event of a new supply being provided. Unquestionably any natural surface water supply will be less attractive in appearance, and possibly less palatable than the ground water now supplied to Plainfield. Surface waters almost always are slightly discolored, are usually very slightly turbid, and in the fall of the year sometimes acquire noticeable odors and tastes, due to plant life. These odors and tastes most frequently result from the secretion of pungent vegetable oils from cells of

"THE PRINCE OF MYSTERY" THE ATTRACTION XMAS DAY.

"The Prince of Mystery." That is the name that has often been applied to Powell, the magician who, with his excellent company headed by Zazell & Vernon, comes to the Plainfield theatre, Christmas Day, December 26, for two performances, matinee and night. His feats of legerdemain are without a parallel and children as well as grownups are mystified by his wonderful magic.

Christmas Day has been chosen by Proctor & Sanderson for this great attraction as the day stands for good cheer and the holiday spirit pervade—and the performance will be in keeping with the day and season—one of hilarity, happiness and festivity. Patrons are advised to secure seats early as there is a great demand for tickets.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The Prosperity League of Cape May County has decided to issue a large map of the county.

With the continuation of cold weather cod fishing has commenced in earnest from Anglesea, and a large number of fine specimens are being brought in.

Fire from the explosion of a lamp at the home of Morris Miller, of 159 North Third street, Paterson, caused a loss amounting to $2,500 Saturday evening.

Mayor John J. Cain, of Bayonne, has appointed Dr. Archibald C. Forman, Dr. J. C. L. Borgmeyer, and Thomas M. O'Brien members of the Board of Education to take office on January 1. They are all Democrats, and the new board will be the first Democratic one in four years.

Petitions are being numerous signed in Trenton for a Carnegie medal for John L. Van Lappen, of 1106 Chestnut avenue, that city, who has in the past four years stopped ten runaway horses and saved many lives thereby. The man gained his experience with horses in the West, and it is estimated that he has saved more than twenty-five lives in the past four years.

Boardwalk promenaders in the vicinity of the Casino, Atlantic City, were started Sunday afternoon to see two young men in bathing suits dart swiftly from the Casino and hurt themselves breast high into the surf. They were James Phillips and Earl V. Dailey, of Philadelphia, who are week-end visitors at the Hotel Dunlop. Hundreds of persons gathered in a drizzling rain and watched their antics.

Breaking through the ice into the deep channel of Assisuncunk Creek, Burlington, a valuable trotter owned by T. P. Barnaby was rescued in a sensational manner Sunday afternoon. Courageous skaters cut the harness and wagon from the foundering horse, and the vehicle disappeared under the ice. Ice saws were then procured from a nearby ice-house, a long lane was opened and the animal was drawn ashore, practically uninjured.

Rev. Bernard Daly, O. S. A., for the past year assistant pastor at St. Nicholas' Church, Atlantic City, has been elevated to the pastorate of the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, and will leave to assume his new charge on Wednesday. He will be succeeded at Atlantic City by Rev. John Howard at present assistant pastor at Schaghticoke, N. Y., where Rev. Edward J. Flynn is pastor.

The ceremony uniting in marriage Rev. Joseph Lyons Ewing, of the West Presbyterian church, Bridgeton, and Miss Mary Edna McGalliard, superintendent of the primary department of his Sunday school, will take place in the church on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Heber H. Beadle, of the Second church, will officiate. Mr. Ewing has resigned the pastorate of the church and will go at once after the ceremony to his new charge at Jersey Shore, Pa.

A suit instituted by John T. R. Proctor, editor of the Bayonne Daily Times, a Republican newspaper, to compel former Recorder Hyman Lazarus, a Democrat, to surrender a majority of the stock of the company, has been decided by Vice-Chancellor Gaarrison in favor of Lazarus. Proctor asserted that he gave the shares to Lazarus as security for his indorsement of loans aggregating $7,000. Lazarus contended that the stock was given to him in return for his services to the paper.

The Cumberland County Board of Freeholders has issued orders to the justices of peace throughout the county that prompt reports of fines collected and money collected in criminal cases must be made to the county collector and the cash paid to the county treasurer. It is stated that the board intends to proceed against delinquents. The records show that but four justices of the peace in the entire county have made settlement in full and retired without making any returns at all.

But for the snoring of James Hughes, said to have been bound out to a farmer of Cranbury, N. J., by the authorities of an institution at Glen Mills, Pa., the small lad would have frozen to death late Saturday night. A Trenton policeman heard the snoring as he was passing a freight car, and investigating, found the Hughes boy asleep. The lad was taken to the police station and his feet were found badly frozen. He said he had run away from the Cranbury farmer because of bad treatment he had received.

Suffering from a dislocated shoulder, Joseph Kane, twenty-six years old, of Second and Washington streets, was attended at Cooper Hospital, Camden, Sunday and later locked up on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Eli Jackson, of 318 Line street. Jackson made the complaint on behalf of his 16-year old daughter, who alleges that Kane made an effort to assault her. It was when Kane started to run away from the angry father that he fell on the ice, Jackson says, and sustained the injuries that sent him to the hospital.

Accosted by a young highwayman, who brandished a loaded revolver while he demanded her money, Miss Mary Newell, in Bridgeton, late Saturday evening, handed over her pocketbook to him without a word, and then as he ran off with it she hastened to notify some young men whom she saw approaching. They captured a man in the City Park who is now in jail awaiting a hearing. He proved to be Robert Shoemaker, nineteen years old, son of a farmer just outside of Bridgeton, and a regular attendant at one of the Bridgeton Sunday schools.

Fearing that in Atlantic City, as had been done in Washington, the collection of the mail by automobile might receive a setback if too many accidents were reported, Charles B. Johnson, thirty-four years old, one of the men engaged in the collection of the mail, suffered the most intense pain for twelve days from a broken rib rather than report the accident. Johnson fell across the mail box of the automobile with such force that one of his ribs became fractured. Saturday the pain became so intense that he was compelled to seek surgical attention.

GOOD WORK.

Done Daily in Plainfield—Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Plainfield still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, 304 West Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "A dull, heavy, bearing-down pain in my back bothered me a great deal especially when I caught cold. I also had frequent headaches and was at times so dizzy that I could scarcely see. If I did much stooping or lifting, my back became very lame and though I used plasters, I was relieved only for the time being. Finally on the advice of a friend, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Pharmacy and began this use. They acted in every way as represented and in a short time rid me of all symptoms of kidney trouble. I am pleased to recommend a remedy of such undoubted merit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

FILET LACE BEDSPREAD.

Filet lace upon a bedspread in conjunction with broderie anglaise is much used. A foundation of fine linen hemstitched with a fancy beading is very nice. Large and small squares of filet lace are inserted at regular intervals, the design for broderie anglaise being so arranged that it mingles with, surrounds and supports the lace.

The principal part of the decoration should be upon the top of the bedspread, as the part hanging over the sides is not seen so much. Filet lace with this work seems to give the required lightness, and any one unable to make the lace can buy squares prepared and ready for insertion, after which the broderie anglaise is done.

Filet lace will be found a fascinating study. The squares of net are sewn into frames specially made for the purpose and the darning process is then done. Patterns to copy and books on the subject make its manufacture quite easy.

OUR INVALID.

It is only in extreme cases and at inopportune times that visitors are excluded from the sickroom—the tedium of confinement is relieved so much by the smiling countenance and cheery word of a friend.

It may seem almost superfluous to offer any suggestions as to the means of making a call upon the sick acceptable, yet "often times we do offend where most we wish to please." How many, even among those who are the promptest to discharge their duty in such cases, are so welcome that their return is awaited with eagerness?

The failure, or partial failure, of such well-meaning persons may arise from the fact that the sense of duty which has prompted the visit is allowed to make itself too apparent. Calling upon the sick is by no means the pleasantest of tasks and it is not to be wondered at, perhaps, if the duty is sometimes put off until the delay is no longer excusable.

THE HARVEST MOON

A Novelization of the Drama
AUGUSTUS THOMAS
By GEORGE HENRY PAYNE

Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

The reception was most encouraging. "Sit down, my boy," said the old gentleman as Jules was ushered into his office, an office that had known the presence of nearly every great literary man of France for years. Here Hugo had come with his first work, Lamartine and Balzac had conferred with this old man, and dramatists galore from Augier to Dumas fils had taken his counsel. It was to young Vavin another academy, dedicated to literature, having an atmosphere of its own—being, in fact, a universe, different from that which made its presence known by the clattering cabs outside on the Boulevard des Italiens.

"You come from where, monsieur?" he said after a few minutes' communique with himself, fingering the white Jules' manuscript, which was on the desk before him when the young poet entered. "From Haute-voire, monsieur."

"And you are—years of age?"
"Twenty, monsieur."
"And you look to poetry as a profession or trade?"

The old man's eyes twinkled, but Jules did not see that. At twenty one sees little but oneself, one has one's own orbit, and the things and influences one admits at that time become an irrevocable part of the after life of the young individual.

"Monsieur, I beg your pardon"—To speak of poetry as a trade or a profession was to Jules a gratuitous insult.

"Do not be hasty, M. Vavin. I am an old man, and I know many things. I wish I knew less. Here you have written many beautiful things. You have written them beautifully, but," and the old man spoke in tones that were genuinely sad, "you have only written poetry."

Inexperienced in the irony of the Parisian world, of which he was afterward to be the acknowledged master, Vavin stared hopelessly at the publisher.

"I am a Frenchman—as loyal, as true a Frenchman as there is," went on Flamand. "But we are not doing the things our instinct prompts. We are the Frankensteins of our intellect. You are a failure as a poet because you do not realize that with us poetry must be written to prove something, to suggest something or do something that to your unlettered mind has nothing whatsoever to do with poetry. I suppose you will say that this is all wrong; that a lark when she sings does not try to suggest to you the cathedral at Rouen or an English fog or that she is not trying to preach a sermon on anti-Semitism or pro-Kantism or anything of that sort. We have the greatest artists in the world. They are technically the most accomplished, they are the truest lovers of art, but—so people say—they paint with the soul of a preacher. They are more interested in their theories than they are in their art. Art to them is a mistress, not a wife."

"You are a poet. That is not bad," he continued. "But that is all you are. A poet in these days must be a poet philosopher, or poet Socialist, or poet colonist, etc., and must get into what he writes more philosophy, socialism, color, etc., than poetry. The people do not want poetry, but they will read it occasionally if, like the doctor's pills, it has a coating that is palatable."

"Your poems are therefore impossible, and that you should have written them demonstrates that you—par don my frankness—are also impossible. Your poems are an insult to intelligent Paris. They will be laughed at by every man who reads poetry or reviews it. You will be pointed out in the sheets as a very ridiculous figure. You have affronted all Paris by offering me these manuscripts, and I will publish them with our January work."

Jules, who had sat spellbound during this talk, breathing hard, angrily, but gradually getting the spirit of the discourse, verily leaped from his chair at the unexpected decision.

"And," continued the old man, ignoring Vavin's excitement, "as you will probably find, Paris will not offer you occupation readily, and, as you have no money, your father is dead and me the honor to call here on Tuesday and I will introduce you to the professor of Greek languages and literature at the Rouen academy, who is looking for an assistant."

In his memoirs, yet unpublished, Vavin has written:
"That conversation changed my whole life. I came out gasping. He was an elder man than I, and therefore I could ask no questions. He seemed to me the very embodiment of the Mephistopheles of the middle ages—smiling, unbelieving, all knowing, all possessing, yet kindly. Only when I read my own poems in print did I realize that he had gathered his knowledge of me from them."

FOR HOME AND PERSONAL USE.

Christmas Gifts which add to the convenience of the home or the physical comfort of the recipient are always appreciated.

In this class are portable lamps, gas or electric, which may be had in a variety of designs and at prices to suit any purse. Also artistic domes for the dining room or library.

For cooking, the electric chafing dish, the coffee percolator, the electric or gas toasters and waffle irons are handy and cost but a few cents for each operation.

A Cabinet Gas Range would make a gift of lasting benefit to the housewife and so would a Gas Water Heater.

CHAPTER IV.

It took only a week of experience with audiences in towns ranging from 20,000 to 70,000 inhabitants for Dora to learn the difference between a papered house and a real audience and to understand the true significance of the "bad" house.

The first night the company was full of excitement and joy, rumors and gossip, expectations and beliefs. When the curtain went down on the last act of the play for the first time every member of the company was quite sure that he or she had made a great hit. The author, who was traveling with it, was positive that his play was a masterpiece. The manager was positive that he would have three or four New York houses offering him "time." Everybody agreed that the play had gone reasonably well. Ludlow said he never saw so much enthusiasm in an audience.

Holcomb alone was calm and apparently unaffected by the general excitement.

"The play is bad," he said to Dora as he walked with her to her hotel—"atrociously bad, and I am afraid we will all be 'panned' in the morning," a bit of theatrical slang with which Dora had become familiar by this time, understanding that it referred to an editorial rather than to a culinary process.

MARTINE HAS 29 VOTER

the death of his wife had removed from him all ambition for the United States Senatorship.

At that conference there were present James R. Nugent, chairman of the State committee; Richard V. Lindaberry, a prominent corporation lawyer and personal friend of Smith; Eugene Kinkead and Robert Hudspeth, representing Boss Bob Davis, of Hudson county, and Colonel George Harvey, personal friend of Smith and, at that time, a personal friend of Wilson.

Wilson had every reason for believing that these men spoke with authority when they declared that Smith would not be a candidate for senator and Wilson had foresight enough to make himself perfectly certain on that point. It was not until after the election that he became assured that Smith was laying wires cunningly and secretly for the coveted senatorship.

It is thought the governor-elect may have something to say of these inside facts in his public statement this week.

Doctor Wilson and his friends feel that the fight will be won when this statement appears and is spread broadcast throughout the State. But, if, in spite of it, the bosses continue to show their teeth and to keep on with their plans to ruin the party in the State, Doctor Wilson will take the stump and will probably go from end of the State to the other in his campaign for Martine. That, the progressives say, in the light of Doctor Wilson's wonderful personal popularity and influence on the stump during the gubernatorial campaign, would simply wipe away the last vestiges of the bosses' domination in the State and would result in overwhelming defeat for Smith.

With a view to giving all of the legislators an opportunity to get in line before he issues his statement upon the senatorial situation, Doctor Wilson has invited the delegates of Essex, Warren and Sussex counties to visit him at Princeton. Those from Essex county, Smith's bailiwick, are down on the card for tomorrow, and at this conference Doctor Wilson hopes to be able to dissuade the Essex men from a course of madness and certain political suicide, if they were to fly in the face of the people's express will, as shown at the primary election.
