WILSON TO THE PEOPLE

Governor-Elect Calls Upon New Jersey Citizens to See That Justice is Done.

BITTERLY DENOUNCES SMITH.

Democratic "Boss" Placed in the Limelight in a Most Remarkable Document—Eulogizes Martine.

Calling upon the people to "speak their minds in unmistakable terms to those whom have been chosen to represent them," Governor-elect Woodrow Wilson, in the most remarkable statement to the voters ever issued by one in a similar position, denounces James Smith, Jr., in no unmeasured terms for his attitude in the senatorial contest.

The letter follows:

"In view of Mr. James Smith, Jr.'s, public avowal of his candidacy for the seat in the Senate of the United States presently vacated by the Hon. John Kean, it becomes my duty to lay before the voters of the State the facts as I know them, and the reasons why it seems to me imperative that Mr. Martine and not Mr. Smith should be sent to the Senate.

"Before I consented to allow my name to be put before the State Democratic Convention for the nomination of Governor, I asked the gentleman who was acting as Mr. Smith's spokesman if Mr. Smith would desire to return to the Senate, in case the Democrats should win a majority in the State Legislature. I was assured that he would not. I was told that the state of his health would not permit it and that he did not desire it.

"Immediately after the election Mr. Smith came to see me and said that had been his feeling before election, but that he was feeling stronger and hoped that the Legislature would offer him the seat. I pointed out to him that this action on his part would confirm all the ugliest suspicions of the campaign concerning him, and urged him very strongly not to allow his name to be used at all; but my arguments had no effect upon him.

"I subsequently learned that before my nomination and at the very time I was told that he would not desire the seat, he had made an agreement with the leader of the Hudson county organization that the votes of the Hudson county members in the Legislature would be cast for him as Senator in case the Legislature should be Democratic. The gentlemen who were to be nominated for the Assembly from Hudson were not consulted; it was an agreement between leaders. The vote was to be turned over to Mr. Smith by the organization in case of a Democratic victory.

"Mr. Smith has at last publicly announced his candidacy, but he has been a candidate from the first. Ever since the election he has been using every means at his disposal to obtain the pledges of Democratic members of the Legislature to vote for him as Senator. He has assumed, in dealing with them, that the State organization would be in control of the Legislature; that its offices would be distributed as he should suggest; that members would be assigned to committees and the committees made up as he wished them to be. He has offered to assist members in obtaining membership on such committees as they might prefer. In brief, he has assumed that he and other gentlemen not elected to the Legislature by the people would have the same control over the action of the houses that is understood to have been exercised by the so-called Board of Guardians of the Republican party in recent years.

"I said in my former statement regarding this matter that if Mr. Smith should be sent to the United States Senate he would not go as the representative of the people. I meant that he would go as the representative of particular interests in the State, with which it is well known he has always been identified. It is significant that his candidacy is supported by the Camden paper known to be owned or controlled by Mr. David Baird. Mr. John W. Griggs in a letter recently published, has condemned me for taking any part in this matter and has thereby confirmed the impression that he also has clients who are interested in being represented in the Senate by Mr. Smith. So far as the voters of the State are concerned and the States' essential interests, there is no reason why a change should be made from Mr. John Kean to Mr. James Smith, Jr. They are believed to stand for the same influences and to represent the same group of selfish interests. It should be a matter of indifference to both Republicans and Democrats which of the two represents the State at Washington.

"I say these things with genuine regret. I made every possible effort, consistent with dignity and self-respect, to prevent this.

MEETS DEATH ON TRACK

Plainfielder Was Searching for Work When Killed at Cheltenham.

SAD CHRISTMAS FOR WIFE.

Victim Wanted to Earn Enough Money to Buy Her a Christmas Present When he Was Struck by Train.

Axel Larson, 38 years old, of 1432 West Third street, was yesterday identified as the man who was killed by a train on the Reading Railway near Cheltenham, Pa., and it became known that he virtually sacrificed his life in an effort to earn money to buy Christmas presents for his wife and three small children.

Larson was out of work and left his home Tuesday to seek employment. A neighbor who identified the body promised to give Larson work if he would wait for one week, but the latter wanted to obtain a livelihood at once.

"Christmas is coming and I want to earn some money to get my wife and children some gifts, so they will be happy," he said.

Larson's three children are all girls, the oldest of them being only six years old. The neighbor, who identified the body, told Deputy Coroner Clarence Foote at Cheltenham that the family was in such circumstances that Mrs. Larson was financially unable to go to Philadelphia to identify the body.

Friends and neighbors here have taken an interest in the family with a view to rendering substantial help.

GOOD FELLOWS' WORK IS SIMPLY 'IMMENSE'

Good Fellow is lying back in his chair this afternoon with his feet on the fender and his relaxing pipe emitting whiffs of fragrant smoke while preparations are under way for completing the work he started a week ago to give the poor little folks of this town a good time on Christmas Day. He wears a broad smile of satisfaction as he reminisces back to the day when the thought first struck him that he could be of some material use to the less fortunate than his own children and the outcome has been satisfactory.

Every poor little child in Plainfield will be remembered on the day that Santa Claus makes his annual visit and that this is possible is due entirely to the other Good Fellows who joined the lodge last year and those who added their names this year, and to all of these Good Fellows extends his thanks for so generously responding to the appeal he made. None but those who can feel a sense of duty well done can understand the feeling of joy that sweeps over the whole person who has turned his or her hand to make "one of the least of these" happy.

A Mitchell stock car has been placed at the disposal of the Charity Organization Society by the local agent for the distribution of some of the gifts for the little folks and this part of the work will be continued tomorrow until all the presents are distributed.

Somewhere, sometime and in some way those who have assisted in the noble undertaking will receive their reward aside from the feeling of satisfaction experienced in doing good. So, to all these Good Fellows Good Fellow wishes a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Funeral of C. Clayton Clark.

The funeral of C. Clayton Clark was held at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. F. A. Dunham, on Madison avenue, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, officiated. The remains were taken to Scott, N. Y., for burial.

DISCUSS WATER PROBLEM

Offer Suggestion That Effort First be Made to Obtain Better Contract.

PROMINENT CITIZENS CONFER.

Gilbert, Dumont and Holstein do not Look With Favor on "M. O." Idea—Randolph and Frost Take Opposite View.

Upon invitation of the special water commission, prominent citizens and large taxpayers attended a conference held in the Common Council rooms, last night, for the purpose of discussing informally the water question in view of the recent report made by James Fustes, the expert engineer.

Among the invited ones present were L. V. F. Randolph, John B. Dumont, Alexander Gilbert, William S. Tyler, George M. Holstein, George P. Mellick, City Treasurer William F. Arnold, Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett and George H. Frost. The members of the Common Council present were, Frederic E. Mygatt, chairman of the special water commission; Frank L. Holt, William L. Gloak, George S. Clay, Duncan W. Taylor, Francis L. Montgomery, Herbert Buxton and Mayor-elect G. W. V. Moy.

Having another engagement later in the evening, Alexander Gilbert was the first speaker. He advised the Council to weigh the question of a future water supply slowly and carefully before deciding on municipal ownership. He expressed himself in favor of an effort to make a satisfactory contract with the Plainfield-Union Water Company, before deciding on an independent plant. Mr. Dumont supported Mr. Gilbert in his opinion and urged that the Council go cautiously in the matter. He said that the great question seemed to be as to whether there would be sufficient water supply for the future needs of Plainfield, even under present conditions. While some people seemed to be of the opinion that there is plenty of water and that a municipal plant could be operated successfully there is also some doubt as to the ultimate result.

Until such time as the question can be settled definitely, Mr. Dumont believed that the city should try to make the best possible contract with the present water company and thus avoid any trouble in the immediate future. Mr. Dumont did not favor the bonding of the city for a million and half for the purpose of acquiring a municipal plant and Mr. Gilbert was of the same opinion.

L. V. F. Randolph spoke in favor of a municipal plant, it being his opinion that the present water company cannot guarantee to furnish an adequate water supply for years to come. He believed that the city should seek to protect its water rights as far as possible and control its own supply. George H. Frost agreed with Mr. Randolph, adding that now is the time to solve the problem instead of waiting any number of years.

The legal rights of the water company were explained by William S. Tyler, former councilman, who, as a member of a special committee, investigated this phase of the question sometime ago.

An important declaration by Mr. Randolph was to the effect that in his opinion the old charter of the Plainfield Water Company, which was sold by the late E. R. Pope to Frank Bergen and John Kean, was dead before it was sold. If this was true, Mr. Randolph said that if condemnation proceedings were adopted it would not be difficult to prove that the franchise damages should not and would not be anything.

George M. Holstein favored making a satisfactory contract as possible with the present water company and continuing the investigation of the advantages of a municipal plant until such time as all important points are definitely settled.

The members of the Common Council did not enter into the general discussion, the object of the conference being solely for the purpose of getting the opinions of some of the large property owners. It is probable that other conferences of a similar character will be held in the near future with a view to getting additional opinions on the subject.

Plainfield vs. Pomeroy Thistles.

The Plainfield A. F. C. and the Pomeroy Thistles, of Newark, will clash Monday morning at 10:30 on the Clinton avenue field, in a league game of soccer. On account of the recent bad weather no football games have been played, but the management is now hopeful of completing the schedule. The two teams are evenly matched. Two months ago they met and the Pomeroy defeated the locals by one goal. The local team will lineup as follows: McNeice, Craig, Buckland, McCombs, Hosie, Crawford, Spalding, Menzie, Heaume, Crawford and Sutton.

DOG CAUSES A ROW

AMONG NEIGHBORS

Charges and counter charges of assault were made this morning by Mrs. J. Snelderback and Lawrence Miner, both residents of the West End, and for lack of witnesses the hearing was put off until Monday morning by Judge Runyon.

Mrs. Snelderback was first heard and she related how Miner's dog had bitten her while she was a hanging cloth in the yard of the home of Mrs. Erner whom she was nursing. She said she kicked the dog away from her and in a minute or two after came on the scene and took the canine's part by administering a kick or two himself on her person.

Miner stoutly denied that he had acted in the unchivalrous manner, declaring that Mrs. Snelderback had hurled vile epithets at him when he remonstrated with her for kicking an inoffensive dog. Anyway, the case will probably be cleared up on Monday.

Moving picture theatres have been enlisted in the army of crusaders fighting tuberculosis by selling Red

Cross Christmas Seals, and on December 16 in all parts of the United States a film entitled "The Red Cross Seal" will be exhibited for the first time, according to an announcement of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The picture drama has been produced by the Edison Manufacturing Company in co-operation with the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis and the American National Red Cross. It portrays an interesting story of New York life, and is besides filled with educational scenes that show how tuberculosis is contracted and how it may be prevented and cured. The film is 1,000 feet long. The tuberculosis workers in every state of the United States are urging their local theatres to exhibit the picture.

The plot of the story centers about the winning of the prize of $100 for the best design for the Red Cross Seal for 1910, by Ellen Williams, a poor girl of the tenements who makes her living by decorating lampshades for very meagre wages. She has applied to the art school where she longs to take a course of study, but finds that the cost, $100, is too much for her purse. As she turns to leave the school, a young man of wealth sees her in the office and is struck by the pathos of her beauty and disappointment. Tired of his purposeless life, Jordan resolves to see for himself "how the other half lives." Dressed as an ordinary laborer, therefore, he rents a room in the same tenement with Ellen, and soon becomes greatly attached to her. He sees her struggle to win the $100 prize for the Red Cross Seal design, and finally sees her win it. Then he sees her give up all the ambitions of her life, when she turns over the $100 to a neighbor, so that her consumptive boy might have a chance to be cured at a sanatorium.

Struck by the noble sacrifice, Jordan unknown to Ellen buys the tenement, renovates the neighboring apartment, enlists the co-operation of a district nurse, and helps thus to restore the consumptive to health and remove from his family the danger of further infection.

Thus, in the end, when Jordan reveals to Ellen his identity, she finds in his proposal that she share with him his palatial Fifth avenue mansion, she has gained a great love, a home, and the satisfaction of her ambition, all because of the Red Cross Seal.

Funeral of Mrs. Murphy.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy, widow of Michael Murphy, was held in St. Mary's church, this morning. The solemn mass of requiem was said by Rev. Father Bogan as celebrant, Rev. Father Hogan, deacon, and Rev. Father Sciola, sub-deacon. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: Frank Brown, Lawrence Miller, William Townley, Charles Townley and Eddie Murphy.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE

Residence of D. C. Ivins Badly Damaged by Water and Flames.

LOSS PLACED AT $3,000.

Originated in Basement and Spread Through Walls to Second Floor—Firemen Hampered by Smoke.

The home of De Witt C. Ivins, located at Hillside avenue and Lake street, was badly damaged by fire at an early hour this morning. When discovered by the owner and his son, the only occupants at the time, shortly after 2 o'clock, the structure was filled with smoke emanating from the lower floor. It was afterward learned that the flames originated in the basement and may possibly have been caused by the wooden cold air box catching in some way from the furnace. In the opinion of Chief Doane the flames had been smoldering for several hours.

Mr. Ivins telephoned to fire headquarters as soon as he was aroused and when Chief Doane arrived with the first apparatus he sent in a general alarm from box 27. The men found the basement and first floor in flames, mostly in the partitions. The basement was finished off in plaster and lath and most of it had to be torn away before the water could be made effective. The task was rendered very difficult by the choking smoke which greatly hampered the choppers. Several of them were almost overcome.

The flames worked their way through the walls to the second floor but did not get beyond. The chemical stream and four lines of hose from the steamer poured water into the lower part of the house and the fire was finally drowned out at half past four. The recall was sounded at 4:48.

A number of holes were chipped in the first floor and these proved a danger to the firemen as they moved about in the darkness. One of them, G. H. Freeman, fell through to the basement and injured his back slightly. Others had narrow escapes.

Most of the furniture was gotten away from the water and flames so that practically all the damage was to the house. This is placed at $3,000. The loss on contents is trifling. In both instances the damage is fully covered by insurance.

Mrs. Ivins and her daughter, Miss Hope Ivins, are south at the present time and Mr. Ivins and his son have been living in the house alone.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH XMAS MUSIC PROGRAM.

The special program of Christmas music at the First Baptist church, Sunday morning, will be in charge of Howard M. Case, organist and choirmaster, and the Schill String Quartet will assist the quartet and chorus choir in the rendition of the music numbers. The service will be held at 10:30. The Bible school will attend this service and take part in the program. The usual session of the Bible school will be held at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and there will be no evening service in the church. The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, will preach in the morning. The musical program follows:

Prelude, Sarabande, Bach, string quartet; anthems, Benedictus, Stainer; Before the Heavens Were Spread Abroad, Barnby; The Grace of God, Andrews; Hallelujah, Child Jesus, Rubner; O Sing to God, Gounod; postlude, March from Athalia, Mendelssohn, for organ and strings.

Caro-Vanderhoff.

Miss Lillian Rose Caro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Caro, of Columbia avenue, the borough, and Harold Vanderhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vanderhoff, of West Front street, were married last evening by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, at his home on Central avenue. The couple was attended by the groom's parents. Mr. Vanderhoff was formerly employed as a conductor on the main line trolley. He is now associated with his father in the meat business.

Lorman Dismissed.

The case against Joseph Lorman for disorderly conduct, in which Mrs. Annie Slonsky was a complainant on Monday, was called this morning and as Mrs. Slonsky did not appear was dismissed by Judge Runyon. Lorman was ready to proceed with the hearing aided by his counsel, Francis J. Blatz.

Press Ads. Never Fail.

The hand bag which was advertised in The Daily Press as having been lost between the Congregational church and Richmond street, by A. W. Weseman, of East Sixth street, was found by Mr. Alberts, of East Fourth street, who saw the advertisement, and returned to the owner.

POPULATION IS 20,550

Plainfield's Percentage of Gain in Ten Years Has Been But 25 Per Cent.

MISS STITES WINS THE PRIZE.

Her Guess Was But 17 of the Exact Figures—Next Best Prediction Was Made by Robert Van Horn.

Plainfield's population is 20,550. This is the announcement contained in a dispatch received at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Director Durand, of the Federal Census bureau. This is a gain of but 5,181 in ten years. The percentage of gain is only a trifle above twenty-five per cent.

According to the census of 1900, Plainfield had 15,369. That was the twelfth census. The eleventh census showed a population of 11,267.

Miss Jean Montgomery Stites, of 110 East Fifth street, is the winner of the five dollar gold piece offered by The Daily Press to the person who made the guess nearest to the exact population. Her prediction was 20,567. Robert Van Horn, of 323 West Front street, was next best, his guess being 20,435. The third nearest prediction was 20,718. It was made by J. F. Bamberger, of West Front street.

The highest figure was submitted by Harry Christianson, of Netherwood avenue, who predicted 36,700. The lowest submitted was that of Walter J. Swalm, of New street, it being 15,352.

BOUGHT BITTEN CATTLE BUT REGRETTED BARGAIN

The North Plainfield township authorities have learned that the two cows bitten by the mad dog that ran amuck in Watchung about two weeks ago were the property of Silas Winans, who lives in the valley. It was not known at the time who was the owner and no safeguard could be taken.

Winans sold the cows after they were bitten to a local Hebrew butcher. The latter had them slaughtered, knowing that they had been victims of the rabid brute. When he learned that the bitten hogs belonging to Clarence Kellogg had gone mad he regretted his bargain and took the carcasses back to Winans, demanding the return of his purchase money. It was given back to him and the beef was buried.

So far as known, there were no other animals bitten by the dog but residents of the valley are keeping a close watch on all their stock. The canine's victims numbered the two cows, two dogs and three dogs.

MR. PUTNAM DENIES HE'S PARTNER OF DE BRIGARD.

Robert Putnam, who has always been looked upon as a partner in the firm of DeBrigard & Co., on whose goods an attachment was recently placed by Bolce, Runyon & Co., said this morning that he never had been a partner in the concern and that his only connection with it was that of an employee.

Mr. Putnam declares that he never signed the lease which he was charged with signing. He announces that he has gone into business in New York with an export house dealing in machinery and his friends wish him success in the new venture.

Express Co. Doing Well.

The United States Express Company is keeping well ahead with their deliveries of local packages. Under the supervision of Wilson Frederick the agency has worked early and late delivering incoming freight while taking care of the outgoing parcels with promptness. There are fifteen wagons besides one double truck in use together with an added force of fifteen men and up to this afternoon deliveries were being made on time with satisfaction all around.

Prominent Educator to Preach.

Rev. Dr. Herbert Welch, president of Ohio Wesleyan University, who is to preach at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, Sunday night, is a brother of Walter McGee, of the borough, and is one of the most prominent educators in the Methodist denomination today. It is predicted that he is destined to be made a bishop. He is also at the head of the social service league of the denomination.

MRS. G. H. BABCOCK DEAD

Well Known Woman, Noted for Benevolences, Succumbs After Long Illness.

A STEPSON SURVIVES HER.

She Had Large Realty Holdings Bequeathed by Her Husband—The Funeral Tomorrow Afternoon.

Mrs. George H. Babcock, aged 63 years, died suddenly at her home on West Eighth street, yesterday afternoon. The immediate cause of death was cardiac asthma. Mrs. Babcock had been ill for the past five years with a complication of diseases, including diabetic trouble, neuritis and last summer she suffered a second stroke of paralysis, while at her summer home in Watch Hill, R. I. She was able to be about, however. On Wednesday she took a drive and yesterday she was about the house during the early part of the day.

Mrs. Babcock was Miss Eugenie L. Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan K. Lewis, and she was born at Hopkinton, R. I., March 29, 1847. She spent her girlhood days at Hopkinton. Later she was engaged as a school teacher at Westerly, R. I. She came to Plainfield in 1883, having been engaged as a school teacher at the Bryant School. She held this position until 1893, when she was married to Mr. Babcock.

Mrs. Babcock was a woman of rare qualities and was beloved by all who knew her. The extensive educational, religious and charitable work carried on by her husband was continued by her. She was liberal in her contributions to worthy causes. She and her son, George L. Babcock, gave $4,000 toward the equipment of the laboratory at the Plainfield High School, it being given in honor of the late Mr. Babcock.

The English prize of $25 in books, which was given each year at the Plainfield High School commencement by Mr. Babcock, was continued each year by Mrs. Babcock. She also was generous in her contributions to local charity, as well as to the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of which she was a life-long member.

In addition to these benefactions, Mrs. Babcock was continually giving to the worthy poor, many individual cases receiving her care and attention. It has been said that no worthy person or cause was ever turned away by her, so anxious was she to help the needy. Mrs. Babcock had large property interests left to her by her husband. Mr. Babcock was for many years one of Plainfield's most prominent citizens, the business block on West Front street bearing his name, being considered one of the finest in the city.

Mrs. Babcock owned a handsome summer home at Watch Hill, R. I., and her residence on West Eighth street, which was recently completed, is without doubt one of the most attractive and handsomely furnished in the city.

Mrs. Babcock is survived by a son, George L. Babcock; a brother, Wyland W. Lewis, of Westerly, R. I.; also Nathan E. Lewis, of this city, a nephew, while Mrs. H. M. Maxson, of this city, is a cousin.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon and the interment will be at Westerly, R. I.

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES AT PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL.

Christmas exercises were held in the Plainfield High School this morning at 11:15 o'clock which were followed by the customary "roasting" of the juniors by the seniors and the presentations of insignia by Lindsay Best to the several members of the athletic association. The juniors banqueted the seniors and a dance concluded the celebration.

Following was the program: Song, Bethlehem; song, Gabriel; song, There were Shepherds, solo by Miss Laura Bristol; Christmas Address, Dr. H. M. Maxson; song, Sing, O Heavens; presentation of the Christmas gift, (a picture which is given each year by the pupils to the school), Miss Frances Newell; acknowledgement for the school, Sydney Karr; presentation of insignia, by Lindsay Best.

Surprised Pastor and Wife.

The members of the German Reformed church of Duer street and Craig place, gave a surprise party to Rev. and Mrs. Charles Schneegas, on Wednesday evening at the home of Philip Geise on Westervelt avenue. There was a large attendance and all had a good time. The pastor and his wife received many Christmas gifts.

PLAIN AND FANWOOD.

Santa Claus made his annual visit last night to the members of the Baptist Sunday-school and its friends. The event will long be remembered as one of the pleasantest Christmases the school has had in a number of years. An enjoyable program of recitations, songs and carols was rendered, after which Santa Claus arrived and a merry half hour was enjoyed distributing the presents for large and small, each scholar receiving some reminder of yuletide as well as a box of candy and orange. The members and friends of the church remembered the pastor, Rev. Franklin K. Mathews, in a substantial way, A. D. Beckon, acting superintendent, making the presentation. Mr. Mathews in accepting thanked the members.

The Methodist Sunday-school will hold its Christmas exercises tonight in the church. A pleasing yuletide program has been arranged and the friends of the school are invited to attend.

A Technical Wheeze.

Gibbs—Good many carbuncles afflicting humanity just now.

Nibbs—So Doc, Blunt tells me. He's got more'n a dozen patients suffering with 'em. Doc reminds me of one of the knights at King Arthur's round table.

Gibbs—Which one?
Nibbs—Lance-a-lot. Old, is it?
And Gibbs said if it wasn't it ought to be.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Broad View of Humanity.

Pat was being shown an incubator by one of his friends who had removed to the suburbs. He took great interest in all of the details and examined everything with great care. Then, as he looked at about 100 young chickens that had just been hatched, with an awed expression he said: "Human nature is a funny thing, after all"—Everybody's.

Art Versus Nature.

The Girl—The whole trip along the river was like a series of your superb etchings.

The Artist—Yes. Nature is creeping up.

Accidentally Embraced.

Myrtle—How do you like those hobble skirts?

Mamie—Fine! I have fallen into the arms of no less than five men this afternoon, and its only 4 o'clock.

Mistaken Meaning.

The Father—That young fellow who has been calling here lately is a very fine young man; he has the right ring about him.

The Daughter (eagerly)—Has he? Have you seen it? Is it a diamond?

Might Have Said It.

First Student—That was a swell looking girl you had at the football game.

Second Student—Yes, I suppose she was padded to the limit, but you needn't be harping on it all the time.

Protecting Hubby.

Little Hubby—It's only fools that get married.

Big Wife—That's how Providence looks after them.

Little Hubby—How?

Big Wife—By giving them wives to care for them.

Chamois leather should be washed, when necessary, in soapsuds, and rinsed in soapsuds—not in clean water. Treated thus it will always keep its original softness.

Who Was There That You Knew?

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps you can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan (tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review or Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

SPORTS

News and Notes

BASEBALL.

The stories are beginning to come in about players who have refused to sign for next season. Every year these rumors originate and every year finds most of the players in harness again at the beginning of the season. Many men have voluntarily severed their connections with the actual work on the diamond, but most of them are still connected with the game as owners, managers, scouts or in some capacity which keeps them actively interested in baseball.

There are a few men, like Fielder Jones and Jake Stahl, who have really retired at the height of their usefulness, but such cases are rare and even they may some day be unable to resist the old lure of the diamond. If a man does not send his signed contract in early, or if he delays signing while bargaining for better terms, the report that he has decided to take up some other profession permanently comes from every corner of the land.

The latest story is that Mordecai Brown and Orvie Overall are lost to the Cubs forever. It is said that the two famous pitchers have announced their intention of giving up baseball and devoting their entire time to their California ranches. They are reported as stating that they have no grievance against Murphy or Chance, but have simply decided never to return to the diamond. Will they feel the same way about it when the training camps open in the spring? The fans hope that they will exercise the privilege of women and ball players and change their minds.

Now that Fred Beebe, Paskert and Louis Stettler have signed for next year, most of the Phillies' contracts are autographed. With these two in line the club now has eighteen men on its books for next season.

Rowan and Lobert are still among the missing, but as they have been offered a handsome increase in salary, it is believed they will soon come safely into the fold.

PERSONAL

Frank Eick, of East Third street, is detained at home by illness.

George Allen, of the borough, has recovered from a recent serious operation.

Mrs. Andrew Findley, of Jersey City, has been visiting relatives here for a short time.

Miss Marguerite Brown, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

Mrs. William Moffett, of Elmwood place, has been entertaining her sister from Morristown.

Thomas H. Keller, formerly of this city, was in town yesterday calling on friends and relatives.

Clifford Randolph, of Grant avenue, has returned from the hospital, where he was under treatment for typhoid fever.

Miss Grace Stillman, of West Fourth street, who has been under treatment at the hospital, will return home this week.

LA MONTE, OF SOMERSET, WON'T VOTE FOR SMITH.

That he will not vote for James Smith, Jr., is stated in a letter written by George M. La Monte, Democratic Assemblyman-elect from Somerset county, to Mr. Smith himself. This information has been given to the Democratic Club of Bound Brook, where Mr. La Monte resides.

The letter, it is understood, was written in response to one from Mr. Smith, asking the support of Mr. La Monte. The Somerset Assemblyman would not talk about the matter yesterday, but said that his position would be made known in a formal statement next week.

COMES ACROSS HIDDEN MONEY.

While cleaning a closet in the old Dekay house in Vernon Wednesday, Miss Ida Simonson overturned an old wash-boiler and in it found $500 in gold, wrapped in old papers. Continuing the search, several bundles of bills were discovered. One of these contained ten $100 bills. The others were of smaller denomination. The "find" is worth $4,000.

The money had the appearance of having been secreted several years ago. The theory is advanced by some that a wealthy resident, who occupied the house during the Civil War, withdrew funds from the banks to escape the high tax rate, and died without telling of the hidden places of the coin.

Miss Simonson will give out no details, but neighbors believe the articles containing the money belonged to her mother.

The Simonsons were one of the pioneer families of the Vernon Valley and were well to do. Theodore Simonson, of Newton, who is a member of the State Board for the Equalization of Taxes, is a cousin.

...to induce Mr. Smith to withdraw from his candidacy. It was my sincere desire that he should earn the credit which is due him for the undoubted service of the Democratic State organization in the recent campaign. By withdrawing he would have won respect and applause and I should have been very glad to join in according him all just praise. I had hoped that it would be possible for me to assume office and enter on the performance of my duties without giving utterance to anything about individuals that would give them pain, or draw me away from the attitude of respect which I had tried to maintain. But I have been left without a choice in the matter.

"The issue is plain. If Mr. Smith is sent back to the United States Senate, the Democratic party and the State itself is more delivered into the hands of the very influences from which it had struggled to set itself free. Nothing could have been more unfortunate than Mr. Smith's candidacy. It revives the alarms and prejudices which make fair and just legislation so difficult and doubtful. It renews and intensifies the struggle between the people and selfish interests, between popular rights and property rights, between privilege and opportunity, which ought to be accommodated by laws which will be fair to all parties. It is a sad circumstance that the conflict must be fought out through this last unfortunate stage. But of course it must be. Mr. Smith and those whom he represents have made it inevitable.

"The people must now speak their minds in unmistakable terms to those whom they have chosen to represent them. It must now be determined whether the present members of the Legislature are representatives of the people or puppets of a bi-partisan machine. I believe in organization. I desire to co-operate with Democrats of every affiliation in carrying the party forward by union and harmony of action towards the great service which it can render the country, if it will but be true to its principles. But when organization is used for the elevation and benefit of individuals who do not represent the people, whose interests are opposed to those of the people, I must resist it by every means at my disposal.

"Over against all this selfish effort to use a machine, over against all this sinister pressure to put a man into the United States Senate who by common consent will not represent the people, stands the candidacy of Mr. Martine, supported by the votes of a very large majority of the Democrats who chose to express their preference at the primaries. It is my earnest and deliberate judgment that it is the duty of the Democratic members of the Legislature to ratify that expression of preference by electing Mr. Martine, a member of the Senate.

"The last time a Senator from New Jersey was chosen the party caucus formally indorsed Mr. Martine as its candidate. Three years ago Mr. Smith proposed Mr. Martine for the Governorship. Throughout the Union the Democratic party has turned with greater and greater enthusiasm to the practice of following the preference of the people expressed at the primaries in the choice of Senators. The Democratic party in New Jersey has again and again indorsed the principle and favored the practice. It cannot turn from its duty in this instance without completely discrediting itself and all its professions of faith in this popular and admirable reform.

"Mr. Martine is a man of sterling character, of fine fidelity to his party and to its principles, and is considered by those who know him best to be undoubtedly qualified to serve the State well and honorably in the Senate. His election will definitely and finally commit the State to the practice of elevating to the Senate men indorsed at the polls by the people. This is the opportunity, the significant and critical opportunity, for the Democratic party to prove its good faith in this cardinal matter of self-government. Confirm the vote of Mr. Martine and the principle of the people's choice is established—will live vitally in practice; ignore it and the people will distrust both primaries and parties. If the present members of the Legislature turn away from the people now they will never again have or deserve another opportunity to enjoy their support and confidence.

"The issue is, therefore, not merely an issue between choosing a representative of the people or a representative of the business machine, but an issue between sustaining or rejecting a great principle to which the party is unequivocally committed. I do not see how any true Democrat can in the circumstances doubt his

POST OFFICE BUSIER THAN EVER BEFORE

Nobody who has not seen the big stacks of mail at the local postoffice can realize the enormous job that Postmaster Bird and his clerks have on hand this year. Packages which would fill a Central Railroad freight car and then have some left over are being sorted and made ready for delivery, but it is quite likely that the job will not be finished until Monday. In spite of extra clerks and carriers the business has managed to get ahead of the handlers and it has been impossible to make regular deliveries.

Yesterday over 25,000 one cent stamps alone were sold which is an indication of the enormous business done in handling post cards, but in spite of all the heavy traffic outgoing mails have not suffered an instant's delay. Every night the outgoing mail has all been cleaned up before the office has been closed and the delay in delivery of incoming matter is made as little as possible.

Postmaster Bird said this morning that indications pointed to a large increase in mail matter to be delivered in this city than was handled last year at this time. It will necessitate the use of wagons by the carriers on their regular routes on Monday on which day there will be but one delivery. Everything will be delivered as far as it is possible to do so, but the postmaster hopes that the people will be patient and not censure the department if delays occur in delivery. The office will be open an extra hour on Sunday morning to accommodate those who call for their mail.

MATHIS LOSES HIS SEAT.

Decision of Judge Voorhees Implies That Ballot Boxes Were Stuffed, for Recount.

By an opinion handed down at Trenton by Justice Voorhees in the Supreme Court yesterday Senator Thomas A. Mathis of Ocean county, who sought to retain his seat in the State Senate after a recount had shown that he was elected over George C. Low, Democrat, will not receive a certificate of election, and Mr. Low, who was elected on the face of the returns on election night, will be seated. This will make the Senate stand: Republicans, 12; Democrats, 9.

Justice Voorhees based his decision on the ground that the ballots in the boxes at the recount were not those voted on election day. This is taken as a practical admission that the boxes were stuffed.

At the Senatorial Republican caucus this week here $12,000 worth of patronage was withheld so that it might be given to Ocean county, in the event of Mr. Mathis' success in the contest. It will not be distributed now that the seat was gained by a Democrat.

N. P. H. S. Christmas Dance.

The North Plainfield High School classes held the annual Christmas exercises and dance in Debele's auditorium, last night. The upper departments handed out customary knocks on the juniors and presents were distributed from a Christmas tree. Santa Claus being impersonated by Andrew Stiglitz, Jr. The dancing commenced at the conclusion of the exercises.

Remember The Day Nursery.

During the holiday season, when exchange of gifts is the rule, a request is made that The Day Nursery, the King's Daughters' charity, be not forgotten by the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield. The needs of the nursery are increasing all the time and gifts of fruits, vegetables, cereals and money will be acceptable.

Poor Children Enjoy Show.

Proctor's theatre is crowded this afternoon with children enjoying the hospitality of the Elks. Each youngster is presented with a ticket which entitles the bearer to cap, stockings and mittens.

According to the calendar, yesterday was the shortest day of the year. Take it from us, the day after Christmas will be the "shortest" for most people.

The circulating department of the Plainfield Public Library will be closed on Monday. The reading room will be open in the afternoon for 2 to 6 o'clock.

Rev. John W. Musson, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, will preach Sunday morning on the theme "Why He Came." There will be special Christmas service in the evening by the Sunday school, and in the afternoon there will be a union session of the school.

DUTIES OF CITIZENSHIP

Imitation of the Master and Practice of the Golden Rule.

SAYS SAMUEL S. SWACKHAMER.

Address to Men of Church of the Heavenly Rest—Upholds Woodrow Wilson and the Primary Election.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The trial of Oscar Harrison, of the borough, who was held in $100 bail by Recorder Campbell, will be heard at the January term of the Middlesex court. He is accused of assault by Andrew Compton, of Bedminster, who claims that Harrison struck him when he was discovered removing the extra tire from the complainant's automobile, left standing in front of Taylor's hotel. Harrison was placed under arrest by Marshal Benson, who witnessed part of the affair.

George Rinehart, of North avenue, is laid up with a badly crushed hand, the result of an accident while at work a few days ago. He is a member of the Central bridge gang and was engaged on a structure at Atlantic Highlands when his hand became caught beneath a heavy shoe. The injury was dressed by a physician and he returned to his home in the borough.

The annual Christmas exercises of the Methodist church Sunday-school will be held in the main auditorium tonight. An attractive program of carols, recitations and a short cantata has been arranged. Reward of merit cards will also be distributed to members of the school who have been present every Sunday during the year.

Harry Piddington, of New Market, had the ends of two fingers almost severed while at work in the J. D. Loizeaux lumber yard at Rock avenue, Wednesday. The hand became caught in one of the planing saws. The injured digits were dressed by Dr. Pittis, of Plainfield, and an effort is being made to save the tips.

The art store in Plainfield conducted by Louis DeBrigard, of Front street, the borough was closed on attachment Wednesday. The proprietor has been beset by business difficulties but hopes to have them properly settled in order to resume.

A watch night service will be held at the Methodist church on New Year's Eve. During the first week or two of January a series of evangelistic services will be conducted in the church.

Henry Vogel, who was incapacitated by having his foot run over by a wagon, is able to be about again but still has considerable difficulty in attending to his customary duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Carkhuff, of Centerville, have returned home after a week's visit with relatives in the borough and New Market.

Mrs. Mary Logan and daughter, Miss Mary Logan, were among the Christmas shoppers in New York, Wednesday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Several of the farmers in this vicinity will take advantage of the opportunity and will attend the meeting of the "College Farm" at New Brunswick, which will take place December 26, to the 31. A large staff of professors will discuss Agriculture in all its branches, and will give free lectures on the feeding and care of farm animals and poultry raising.

A saw mill has been erected on John Hogan's property on the Woods road and the woods in that vicinity are being cut down. The largest trees will be used for telegraph poles and the smaller wood cut for posts, grate and kindling wood.

The Christmas entertainment of the Baptist church will be held tonight at 8 o'clock. Carols will be sung by the choir and Sunday-school pupils and recitations by the infant department.

The house recently built by Mr. Dutenhoefer, of Plainfield, is now finished and occupied and is quite an ornament to Maple avenue. This is the first house to be built at Avon Park.

Miss Lulu M. Carson, who teaches here in the public school, will spend the holidays with her parents at her home in Bound Brook.

The public school held its Christmas entertainment yesterday afternoon, was enjoyed by the parents and friends of the pupils.

Miss Marjorie Voorhees will spend the Christmas holidays with her grandmother, Mrs. Susan Manning, at Lakeside farm.

Several new voices have been added to the Baptist church choir, among them Miss Theresa Brundage and Miss Pickering.

A dispossession notice was served by Mr. Mackey on John Spafford to vacate his house at the expiration of three days.

Mrs. Alfred Foote, who resided here for many years, is spending the winter at Battle Creek Sanitarium, Mich.

Miss Adams, of Raritan, has been visiting friends in the village.

Neuman Bros. will close their store all day Monday, on account of the Christmas celebration.

A goodly representation of the members of the Men's Club of the Church of the Heavenly Rest heard a speech by former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, last night, in the parish house which elicited three hearty cheers at its close. As a mark of esteem Mr. Swackhamer was elected an honorary member of the association and was besides given a rising vote of thanks.

Mr. Swackhamer spoke on "The Duties of Citizenship," telling the members of the club that they each had a duty that should not be shirked. He said that to bring the millennial down men must live in imitation of the Master and practice the golden rule. "The spirit of Democracy has spread," he said, "in Germany, England and in the United States, and in the latter country gave on November 8 last an unmistakable sign to the enemies of liberty of the people."

Mr. Swackhamer in his speech proceeded to demonstrate that the fight now on between Governor Woodrow Wilson and his supporters, and the opposition is momentous. He stated that trade politicians and those who had axes to grind were lined up in opposition to the right of the people to choose their United States Senators, and that these opposers were found in both parties alike; that the trusts and special interests were antagonistic to the popular choice of United States Senators, because the people would be likely to choose such men as would withhold their support from such legislation as these interests desired. He insisted that the only remedy for the evils of class legislation is the selection by the people of representatives who are in favor of equal rights and opposed to governmental favoritism. He said it was the duty of all good citizens to consider seriously the contest which is now on, and to act the part of patriots. He said it would be found that practically all the enemies of popular government are on the side of the special interests, and against the Governor in this struggle, and that this fact characterizes the conflict. He urged all citizens to take a hand in upholding the principle at stake, and predicted that the people would finally triumph.

Referring to the fight now going on between principle and "the interests" he said that the party which won so signal victory at the polls was now divided, but that the fight for the principle, whose champion was Woodrow Wilson, will be fought to a finish against the manipulators of both parties, and every honorable means would be used to save from final defeat the great victory won in November. Mr. Martine's candidacy for the United States Senate was upheld and the contest between him and James Smith, Jr., declared to be the greatest ever faced by the people of the State.

Following the speech the entertainment committee served hot coffee and sandwiches. On the evening of January 5 the club will hold a "ladies night" with progressive euchre.

HERE AND THERE.

Enforcement of Federal liquor laws in Northern Minnesota is interfering with church rites by preventing them from procuring wine for communion.

To remedy conditions Bishop McGolrick, of Duluth, conferred at St. Paul with Archbishop John Ireland Wednesday afternoon. Bishop McGolrick says the railroads have refused to carry wine for church use to towns in the "Indians country."

Archbishop Ireland and Bishop McGolrick will take action looking toward having the prohibitive order modified.

Six thousand Bibles are to be placed in the hotel bedrooms of Chicago. They will not be chained down. If a guest steals a Bible to read it, the book will be replaced and the loss charged to the credit account, because the purpose of the project is to encourage Bible reading.

The Gideons, an association of Christian traveling men of the United States, are back of the movement. The Bibles are to be delivered to the hotel bedrooms at 3 o'clock p. m. on the last day of the year. The delivery will be by 1,000 young men from the churches and other religious organizations.

The Bible carriers will be formed into a procession at the Central Y. M. C. A. and will march to a central point in the loop district, where they will break ranks and go to the various hotels.

On account of Monday being a holiday, Plainfield Council, No. 294, J. O. U. A. M., will omit its meeting for that night.

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks were dull and heavy yesterday.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook returned on the George Washington.

The Stock Exchange discovered that it had an amateur band, which is going to play today.

Fire Chief James Horan and twenty-two men were killed under falling walls at a fire in the Chicago stockyards.

A major of the Medical Corps, U. S. A., was arrested with two companions in Hoboken, on charges of disorderly conduct.

The death of an engineer brought the death list up to eleven as a result of the explosion in the New York Central terminal yards.

The threatened strike of express men in New England did not take place, the employees refusing to obey the order to quit work.

As a result of the fire in the Friedlander morocco factory in Philadelphia, fourteen men are known to be dead and forty injured.

The French government announced measures to prevent strikes, especially in public service utilities, by means of compulsory arbitration.

The Mauretania reached Fishguard, Wales, having accomplished the remarkable feat of making the round trip to New York city in twelve days.

President Taft and Secretary Knox held a conference on negotiations for reciprocity with Canada, which Washington officials expect to be successful.

Robert Mather told the Taft Commission on Securities that federal regulation should include giving railroads the benefit of the government's credit.

A lad in an extreme condition of neglect, who was seized by agents of the Children's Society, said he had been a prisoner in a room in The Bronx for two years.

Captain Trench and Lieutenant Brandon, of the British army, were convicted at Leipzig of espionage on German fortifications and sentenced to four years' imprisonment.

Cecil Grace, who made a successful flight across the English Channel from Dover to Calais, started to re-cross the Channel, and as he had not been heard from at a late hour fears are entertained for his safety.

Fraud in issuing fire insurance policies among East Side residents and the gambling element in the business done in the heart of New York were brought out in testimony before the legislative investigating committee.

It was said at Albany that Governor-elect Dix, in order to effect a retrenchment in state expenditures, would recommend in his annual message to the Legislature the reorganization of some of the state departments and the abolition of others.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment referred the Public Service Commission's letter on the Interborough's new subway plan to its transit committee, of which Prendergast and Mitchell, who oppose it, are a majority, with the Mayor as a minority member.

Love letters alleged to have been written by the Duchess de Choiseul-Praelin, when she was Mrs. Charles H. Paine, to "Count" d'Aulby de Gagny, were read in court at Tours, France, where the "count" is on trial for swindling; the duchess repudiated the letters.

THE HOME, SWEET HOME OF THE FUTURE.

HE.
What's happened to the dinner, wife?
The roast is more than rare,
The soup is cold,
The bread is old,
The coffee only fair.

SHE.
The cook has left me, hubby dear,
Her words I'll have to quote;
"Me duds O'll pack!
O'll won't come back!
For, faith, O'll hove me vote!"

HE.
What's happened to the parlor, love,
The dust is inches high?
An awful gloom
Pervades the room
And not a maid I spy!

SHE.
The maid has gone away, my pet,
She fitted from my sight
With just a word,
"Twas this I heard—
"At last O'll hove me roight!"

HE.
You have your hat on, wife sweet,
Oh, tell me, dear, I pray,
Now hubby's home,
Why will you roam—
Ah, what is this you say?

SHE.
A home is but to sleep in, dear,
A refuge from the wet.
I'm out, you see,
To tunch and tea,
Now I'm a Suffragette!
—LURANA SHELDON.

The officers-elect of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps will be installed jointly at the first meeting in January.

A FLOWER LEGEND.

How the Myosotis Came to Be Called 'Forgetmenot' is a Romantic, if Improbable, Tale.

Dr. A. F. Thomson communicated to Mills' "History of Chivalry" the following romantic account of the origin of the popular name, forgetmenot, of the favorite little flower myosotis. "Two lovers were lingering on the margin of a lake on a fine summer's evening when the maiden espied some of the flowers of myosotis growing on the water close to the bank of an island at some distance from the shore. She expressed a desire to possess them when the knight, in the true spirit of chivalry, plunged into the water and swimming to the spot, cropped the wished-for plant, but his strength was unable to fulfill the object of his achievement, and, feeling that he could not regain the shore, although very near it, he threw the flowers upon the bank, and, casting a last affectionate look upon his ladylove, he cried 'Forget me not!' and was buried in the waters. As the world insists upon a reason, this story is as good as another, but the worthy knight must have been sadly out of his element not to have been able to return from a bank on which his mistress could discern so minute a blossom, unless, indeed, we suppose him to have been clad in armor, which was a habilliment ill adapted for a lover by land or water."

THE RHINOCEROS.

This Malicious Brute is the Assassin of the Jungle.

If the genius of hell used up all his mental energy making a devil for the animal kingdom, he could not have created a more uncertain, malicious and ugly brute than the rhinoceros. This animal has buried more hunters than all other big game combined. It seems to be the hired assassin of the jungle.

Its success as a homicide is not due to the fact that it seeks its victim, but because its victim falls over it. If the rhino knows that there is an enemy about, it will try to get away without being seen. If, on the other hand, it thinks that by keeping still it will be passed unnoticed, it stays as silent and motionless as Gibraltar, its little box eyes watching the direction of the noise and its nose sniffing the air.

Should an enemy show up suddenly in the jungle the rhino charges like a flash, nose down and horns leveled like swords for the thrust, its huge bulk crushing through the brush like an express train. It is always a fight to the death, for a rhinoceros, once in a fight, wins or dies, and it mostly wins if it is not confronted with an express ride in the hands of a cool, good shot.—Hampton's Magazine.

The Old Time Album.

"The terrors of the autograph album" must have been more general in the middle of the last century than they are now. The volume had embossed pages of various colors and showed alternate literature and art—original verses and drawings of ruins and bridges heightened with white chalk. Girls presented it for contributions so universally that Charles Dickens was on one occasion much astonished to find none forthcoming. He had actually brought with him some verses addressed to a beautiful maiden, on whose parents he was calling, and he carried them away again. Sending them to her by post, he wrote, "I had meant to put these lines into your album, but you, who do nothing like anybody else, did not produce one."—London Standard.

In Morocco.

In Morocco, the prevailing tone is grayish white, men's clothes and houses, towns, bushes, tall umbrellas, nodding like ghosts in autumn—all are white; white sands upon the shore and in the Sahara and over all a white and saddening light, as if the sun was tired of shining down forever on the unchanging life. In no part of Morocco I have visited does the phrase "gorgeous east" have the least meaning, and this is always noted by the wandering easterners, who find the country dull and lacking in color compared with Asia, or, as the Arabs call it, "Blad Es Scharb."—"A Journey to Morocco."

Russian Vengeance.

The Russian revolutionaries have absolutely no mercy on those who betray them. It is well known that in the year 1903 a traitor caught at Odessa was bricked up alive in a cellar.

Regnier, a French spy in the pay of the Russian police, for a long time eluded the vengeance of the revolutionaries. But they caught him at last, and that just at the moment when he fancied himself safe. His body was found in his cabin on a ship which reached Antwerp. He had been suffocated by fumes of sulphureted hydrogen. How this was done was never discovered.

The Considerate Clock.

"One kiss!" pleaded a departing lover.
"Nonsense!" exclaimed his fiancée in a teasing mood. "Some one might see us."
"Who?"
"Why, the clock; it has a face."
"Yes, but it keeps its hands in front of it!"

When He Missed It.

The baldheaded man was asked if he missed his hair much.
"Only when some fool question makes me so mad I want to pull it," he replied pleasantly.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The rain falls on the just and unjust, but the latter nearly always have the former's umbrellas.—Town Topics.

THE SAILOR COLLAR.

Embroidered Linen is Mostly Seen in Connection With This Popular Adornment.

The popularity of the satin sailor collar on the jackets of this winter has started girls to making lingerie collars in the same shape for their one piece frocks and blouses.

Lace, especially Irish crochet, is not as first class as it was. We are rather tired of it in the form of endless collars. The embroidered linen ones are considered newer, and when well done they are exceedingly pretty.

If a girl wants something dainty for Christmas she will find them acceptable gifts. The new sailor collar differs from the old one in that it does not reach the armhole. It is longer than it is wide, and many reach halfway to the waist line.

The linen that has a faint tint of age, as though it had yellowed in a cedar chest, is the best kind to use for these collars. The deep ivory tone is considered better than dead white. The embroidery is dainty, even if done in the Chinese fashion.

The edges are not scalloped, but overcast with a heavy buttonhole stitch. Some are bound with black satin. These have square fronts and when worn are finished with a cravat of satin or velvet ribbon.

It will remain the fashion to go without the stock, and these wide collars are a graceful adjunct to a dark gown.

KNITTED GOODS.

Three Piece Costumes, Consisting of Cap, Gloves and Sweater Coat, Are the Latest Vogue.

There is at present a vogue of knitted goods. The latest fancy is the three piece costume, consisting of cap, gloves and sweater coat. This is intended primarily for skating, etc., but will be worn this winter even on the street. The coats are very long, with deep pockets and with leather revers and turnback cuffs.

Among caps there are the tam-o-shanter and the capuchin types, the latter buttoning in front and having a warm little cape that fits about the neck and shoulders.

Even knitted skirts are not unknown and are a joy forever to the happy autumn golfer. All these garments are made to fit rather snugly and do not require belts or any other form of extra fastening. Gray, white, brown and green are the favorite colors.

If you know how to knit or can learn how here is the way to make yourself a pretty and fashionable set for winter that will be warm itself when warmth is most desired.

Ruffles on Skirts.

The prevalence of the tunic and the overskirt has given rise to a modification of these in the shape of circular ruffles extending from waist to ankles. This is quite in the old style of several years back, but somehow combines stiffness with simplicity and maintains the tight and narrow skirt announced for this fall and winter. Usually five ruffles are used on a skirt. Sometimes these are plain; again they are edged or veiled with chiffon or tulle. This style is becoming to every one but the short, stout woman, who should beware of it.

To Try the Iron.

Keep on your ironing board a large folded piece of unbleached muslin on which to try the hot iron. If the muslin scorches it does not matter, and it is easy to supply a new piece when the old is burnt through. You will rejoice in the saving on the cover of your ironing board.

TRIMMED WITH WIDE RIBBON

The extreme simplicity of this little dinner frock does not give even an idea of the rich colors used in the model, for the material is gold satin charmeuse with a glint of olive green. The embroidered bands are in a green gold tone, and the velvet ribbon used in bretelle and sash effects is a shade darker than the satin of the frock.

In the square décolletage gold colored chiffon is set; this is laid over flesh colored chiffon to produce the effect of a deep décolletage, though as a matter of fact such a deep yoke could scarcely be worn without a lining of some sort.

USE PRESS WANT ADS

SILK BLOUSES.

Taffeta Has Given Way to Better Fitting Materials.

Buttons, Braids and Lace Used in Profusion Tend to Bring Out Very Decided Effects.

How different are the silk blouses of today from those of a few seasons ago! The stiff taffeta has been replaced by an attractive, good fitting style that shows silk in its most attractive colors, trimmed in clever ways and so designed that a tailored suit is instantly changed into a three piece gown. There are no straight silk collars that absorb the oil from the skin; there are no lines at the shoulder seams that verily hide the graceful figure under unnecessary folds.

Simplicity, attractive ornamentation of braid and buttons and the popular chemisettes of lace to insure freshness at the yoke and sleeves are the main factors that contribute to the importance that blouses have attained in the field of woman's dress.

Let us take, for instance, a blouse of plain dark blue satin. It is trimmed with a shallow yoke of lighter blue satin—natter blue—covered in easily stitched lines of soutache. Cuffs of this trimming edge the three-quarter length sleeves that are the favorite extension of the bodice. Collars and subcuffs are of lace. These are most satisfactory if made on a lawn or batiste lining, making a change of gumpes possible and lessening the wear on lace collars.

There is a great vogue for white satin in Paris. For women to whom colors are not becoming the soft white silk is suggested for afternoon wear. A white silk blouse with a military touch of dull silver braid and buttons is another valuable idea. These outline the shoulder seam and form a shield at the front. A tiny bow of black is caught at the collar line, the long ends reappearing at buttonholed slots below the yoke. Braid and buttons are used on the cuffs.

Dull crepe de chine in a soft gray in combination with silver lace and braid makes a beautiful blouse. The sleeves should be made bell shaped and button trimmed. In this case white mouseline forms the collar and yoke. A touch of silver lace is used to outline the rounded top edge.

In our fourth idea black and white are given one more opportunity to join hands in the season's modish alliance. Here a white crepe de chine blouse is to be worn with a black velvet suit. A square yoke and straight bands for the sleeves are of tucked black chiffon or mouseline. A collar and cuffs of Irish lace are added, while six dull jet buttons are used on the front. If you wish a touch of color you may use the shaded enamel buttons that cost much, but can be worn over and over again.

If you have just a little piece of material left after the coat and jacket are made you may use it for a blouse over a foundation of all over lace. A cream or dyed to match the fabric. A shield shaped front should be stitched and applied. The sides are curved almost like the lines of a bolero and the coat sleeves pieced out with lace. Here is the chance to use an old lace waist.

Dark green liberty silk is used in the model which is here illustrated. Velvet outlines the yoke that is cut in a modified line at the front over ecru lace. The buttons are of dull silver, placed on each side of the front and on the outer edge of each sleeve.

A silk waist from a little remnant is quite possible, and its becomingness is undeniable.

Filling Sachets.

Fill the tiny bags with a mixed powder of iris and heliotrope and add a few peppercorns, which will both preserve the perfumed powder and bring out its sweet scent.

A CONCRETE CORNER.

The Floor, Above All, Should Be Made of This Material, as Rats Cannot Nest in It.

Rats destroy grain, carry "catching" diseases from house to house and from their love of matches cause destructive fires. This useless waste has become such a national loss that the department of agriculture at Washington has issued a free bulletin on "How to Destroy the Rat." To get rid of the rat remove his nesting place. With this object in view the department recommends concrete floors, especially for barns, poultry houses, corncribs and granaries. The experience of many farmers is that grain mature enough to be placed in storage will not spoil on concrete floors. Corn will not mold in contact with them, provided there is good ventilation and the roof is tight.

For a corner choose a well drained site. Excavate a trench for an eight inch concrete foundation wall around the outside of the building and to the depth of two feet. With box forms of one inch siding on 2 by 4 inch studs, carry this eight inch wall to a height of twelve to eighteen inches above ground level, depending upon the height of the drag belt conveyors used by local corn shellers.

There are several ways of attaching the studding to the concrete floor. One of the simplest and easiest is the nailing sill or plate, generally a 2 by 6 inch piece bolted to the concrete foundation wall. For such a sill while the concrete is still a set five-eighths inch bolts eight to ten inches long, head down, three inches in from the outer edge of the foundation wall and projecting two and a half inches above the concrete. These bolts should be placed not more than three feet apart.

Some farmers prefer to countersink the nailing sill so that its top will be flush with the surface of the floor. So placed, the sill is liable to rot more quickly.

After the forms are removed place a well rammed fill between the foundation walls and within four inches of their tops. Coarse gravel and crushed rock are the best materials for this purpose. If some clay must be used, tamp it in the bottom, but let the floor rest on at least six inches of gravel or crushed rock. With the fill thoroughly settled, commence placing the four inch floor. This concrete should be only wet enough that it will flush a little liquid cement when tamped into place.

Experienced concrete workers often use only an outside board form, one wall, for the foundation walls. Since the strength of each floor, on account of the variation in size and loading, is a different problem, it is advisable to refer every piece of such work to a man who is thoroughly familiar with the principles of re-enforcing. The main point is that concrete floors last forever. They afford no nesting place for rats. And with dollar wheat, seventy-five cent corn and fifty cent oats the saving thus effected adds considerably to the profits of each year.

Short Feeding Poor Policy.

If there is not enough feed on the place to carry the hogs through and fit them quickly and if prices do not seem to warrant the purchase of feed, then it is much better to market them at once rather than stunt them by short feed in the winter. A stunted animal never made anybody money.

The best land for strawberries is a sandy loam.

To rid flowerpots of earthworms water with lime water.

The climbing or trailing nasturtiums can be planted either with or without support.

Do you save your tomato seed? If so obtain them from fine, large specimens of fruit.

Sweet potatoes should be dried and stored in boxes of sand before the frost touches them.

Good garden implements are essential for successful gardening. Much of the benefit and pleasure derived from work in the garden are missed by having poor tools. The best are the cheapest.

Remember that there is no fertilizer for the garden that compares with well rotted barnyard manure. Application may be made any time during the fall, even if the ground is not to be plowed till late.

JIM SMITH AT NEWS BRIEFS AND IN FORMER

History is repeating itself in Neapolis, Jersey. In the fall of 1892, shortly after Cleveland had been elected President, eight Assemblymen from Essex county addressed a letter to James Smith, Jr., asking him to become a candidate for United States Senator. Smith was the county chairman, and every one of the eight owed their election to him. Up to that time he had declared himself in favor of the election of Gov. Leon Abbott. There was supposed to be no other candidate in the field. But the letter from his henchmen paved the way for him to take the field in opposition to the Governor, whom he had promised to support. On the eve of the legislative caucus, he announced himself as a candidate, and by means which need not here be rehearsed, he was elected.

This year it was generally understood to have been one of the conditions which Woodrow Wilson imposed on the party leaders before he would consent to accept the nomination for Governor, that Smith should not later—in the event of a Democratic victory—become a candidate for the Senate. It was understood that a virtual promise was made to him by "Nephew" Nugent and others who professed to have the right to speak for Smith, that Smith accepted this condition and would not become a candidate.

Three weeks ago, the eight Assemblymen from Essex county, acting exactly as did their predecessors eighteen years ago, addressed a letter to Smith asking him to become a candidate for the Senate. Yesterday his reply to that letter was made public. In it he disregarded his pledge just as he did on the former occasion, and agreed to become a candidate.

There is this difference only: In 1893 he delayed the announcement of his decision until the eve of the caucus, when it was too late to prevent the betrayal. This year he has replied early enough, it is believed, for his opponents to demonstrate many powerful reasons why he should not be allowed to have another opportunity of misrepresenting his State in the Senate.

The political record of James Smith, Jr., the Democratic boss who aspires to succeed John Kean in the United States Senate, is one long story of betrayal of friends and of party. He has broken party pledges and personal promises. He has advanced his own interests at the expense of his friends and enriched himself. He has been unscrupulous in accomplishing partisan ends by means of trickery and the expenditure of enormous sums of money under the name of "campaign contributions," and then, in the same unscrupulous way and by the same means, he has accomplished his own ends at the expense of the party whose machinery he controls.

It is doubtful if another man of like prominence in public life in America today has a record that should so absolutely disqualify him from seeking a seat in the highest legislative body in the land.—New York Evening Post.

LITERARY

Price Collier recently returned to New York after a long absence, having spent about a year in India and the Far East, and then made a journey to South America. Mr. Collier's book, "England and the English from an American Point of View," opened to him the doors of the ruling class in India, and he has written for Scribner's Magazine a striking series of articles beginning in January on "The West in the East," particularly England's rule in India, and with special reference to America's own problems as a power in Eastern affairs.

A Straining Bag.

A flannel straining bag is a necessity in any kitchen where jellies are prepared. Instead of investing in an expensive strainer, an excellent substitute may be made of ordinary flannel, which should first of all be hemmed neatly and then soaked and wrung out in boiling water. When it is used, it should be laid inside a large bowl and the fruit or liquid jelly poured into it. The four ends of the flannel should then be tied together and a string passed through the knots. The bag can then be suspended over a bowl by means of a couple of chains and left to drain slowly until all the liquid has passed through. A blanket should be thrown over the top in cold weather, so as to prevent the jelly from setting too soon.

A Transportation Problem.

Reindeer's mighty skiddish and Dey don't look strong o' limb. Foh travellin' 'cross de winter land Out in de starlight dim, No matter what's de freight you draws, "Go slow" de safest rule; If I was Mistuh Santy Claus I'd git myself a mule.

Course, he could have a motor car— But s'pose he staht to skid? Dem aeroplane dey travels far; But s'pose dey comes undid An' draps de outfit?—if he'd pause An' figger calm an' cool, I bet o' Mistuh Santy Claus Would get hime'f a mule. Washington Evening Star.

OLD ZOUAVE ARMORY IS BEING TORN DOWN.

Elizabeth's old Veteran Zouave Armory, in Elizabeth, which was built forty years ago and was the scene of many notable events, including receptions to General Grant, General and Governor Gordon, of Georgia; Kansas City Veteran Zouaves and Chicago Zouaves, is being torn down. It was recently purchased by Commodore Walter Sumner, of the Elizabeth Yacht Club, for $405.

Only a few years ago the city of Elizabeth paid $11,000 for the structure, to be used as an armory for the National Guard, but it was found to be too dilapidated to answer the purpose. Then the Norwood Athletic Club offered the city of Elizabeth $500 a year for a lease of the place, but the city asked $800.

Automobiles Collide.

Two automobiles came together with a crash yesterday afternoon near the corner of Richmond street and South avenue, resulting in damage to both, but without injury to the occupants. Charles Livingston Hyde running on South avenue collided with a car belonging to Daniel F. Ginna, in which were Mr. Ginna's chauffeur and Miss Ginna. Mr. Hyde was alone. The lamps on Mr. Hyde's car were broken and the other car suffered damage to put it out of commission.

OAK LEAVES AND ACORNS.

Combined They Make a Most Attractive Design For a Library Table Centerpiece.

Oak leaves and acorns lend themselves readily for the design of a pattern which may be used for a library table for the use of the one who makes it, or, on the other hand, it is a very good suggestion for a gift.

Tan linen is the best for this, and the easy couching stitch may be used, with which most every one is familiar. Outline the leaves in this way, using the thick rope silk or cord that comes for couching, and catch down every half inch or so with a finer thread. In other words, you follow the outline with the left hand and the thick thread and tack it in place with your needle of the right hand.

It will be extremely effective if you combine green and brown or brown and red in the couching stitches, holding down the thicker thread with a contrasting color.

Work the stems in stem stitch with solid midrib.

The acorns you will outline in brown on the dome shaped tops and fill in the acorn cups with brown French knots. This is very striking and gives a few solid spots on the design.

Pad the scallops with darning cotton and work with brown, using the buttonhole stitch. If you wish you can enlarge this pretty centerpiece still more by adding wide ecru lace in torchon or cluny under the edge.

A little introduction of red or yellow is good; by adding an extra line below the couch stitching to emphasize the brown you will greatly improve this design.

This design is undeniably pretty. You will naturally have to enlarge it to whatever size you may wish.

The Christmas season being so near at hand, this suggestion should serve as a hint to all needleworkers.

SCARF AND MUFF.

Made of Velvet. These Are Very Effective, and the Cost Is Insignificant.

Straight from Paris comes the idea of a matched set that is less expensive than one entirely of fur and yet from the points of utility and beauty is equally successful. A broad band of black and white striped velvet forms the body of the scarf. The central portion is cut to fit the shoulders with a capelike perfection, and the ends taper to graceful points, from which hangs deep fringe.

An inner band of black fur is used to outline the entire stole, which is possibly three yards long. This fur is applied just inside the edge, and a filling of satin or mousseline softens the outer line.

With this there comes a muff, large, supple and flat. Striped velvet forms the central band, on each side of which is the fur, and broader puffing of velvet makes the assurance of size doubly sure. Quillings outline the openings at the sides.

Any idea can be carried out along these lines. Indeed, there is no excuse for old fashioned sets being kept in camouflaged inactivity. Bring them out and make them join forces with velvet or silk. The scarf and muff to match are too good to be missed.

HIGH BANDEAU HAT.

For so many seasons the bandeau has been absent and hats have got into such a way of settling down over head and hair that it is a decided change of fashion to see the hat lifted high by the bandeau once more. This fashion has already obtained great hold in Paris, where Lewis brought out the first of these scoop shaped hats raised thus at the back. Sometimes the space under the lifted brim is filled with chamois feathers, sometimes with matted roses and sometimes, as in the present instance, with lace frills and a drooping bow of velvet ribbon. The hat shown is of prune colored velvet, with a lining and ostrich plumes in a somewhat lighter shade of the same color.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Falling down the stairway of her home in Bridgeton, Tuesday, Mrs. George Young had both her arms broken and one leg fractured.

Dr. George C. Laws, one of Paulsboro's oldest residents, fell from the back step of his home Monday night, and sustained a couple of broken ribs, besides being shaken up.

Mother Superior-General Augustine, of the Order of the Perpetual Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, is investigating the field in Atlantic City for the erection of a sanitarium.

Caught in a polishing machine, Patrick Clancy, thirty-five years old, of 328 North Tenth street, Camden, sustained a badly torn hand, which was dressed at the Cooper Hospital Tuesday afternoon.

Hebrews of Atlantic City will expend $40,000 in the erection of a handsome synagogue on Pacific avenue, near Maryland avenue, a site recently purchased from the George Allen estate.

The little iron steamship Springfield which two years ago kept an open channel on the upper Delaware through eighteen inches of ice, had a temporary setback Tuesday afternoon in an effort to buck the floes between Burlington and Beverly. The vessel became wedged in ice.

Announcement was made in Trenton Tuesday of the engagement of William Nelson Blodgett, of Rutherford avenue, to Miss Eleanor Mae Haas, daughter of B. Frank Haas, of Diamond street, Philadelphia. No date for the wedding has been set.

Harry Kirbert, aged fifty-three years, of 831 Chestnut street, Camden, died in Cooper Hospital Tuesday, of gangrene, as the result of stepping on a nail and neglecting the wound. Kirbert was admitted to the hospital on December 14. As a last resort a hospital surgeon on Monday amputated the diseased toes.

A clash between policemen and employees of the Riverside Traction Company was averted Tuesday afternoon when the railroad submitted to the demand of Mayor Farner, of Burlington, that it erect only straight poles in the city. Complaints were made by property owners to the Mayor that the company was preparing to erect "corkscrew" poles at Broad and High streets.

Word was received at Mt. Holly Tuesday that Frederick C. Norcross, son of S. Dudd Norcross, of the sand firm of Norcross & Edmunds, had been seriously injured in a railroad accident near Spokane, Wash., Monday. The first message came to the local Elks, who were caring for the injured young man, a member of the order in Mt. Holly.

Atlantic City's big sixty-inch wooden water main, seven miles long, bound together with steel hoops, is finished, and it will be ready to deliver water in a few days at the rate of 7,000,000 gallons a day. This is more water than is today supplied by the three metal water mains which stretch across the meadows from the resort to the artesian wells near Absecon.

HERE AND THERE.

"I was much interested," said a man from up the State, "in a point raised by a visitor the other day as to which was better, a young man's impulse, or what is called sober judgment. I have a case in mind.

"Two brothers who grew up in my town started out in different ways. One, whom I will call Eph, was of a saving, thrifty nature. He burned the midnight oil, was sober and industrious and everybody said Eph would be one of the greatest financiers of his age. Eph came down to New York, went into business and everybody thought he was a millionaire when the crash of 1907 came. It left Eph a broken man, actually unable to make a decent living.

"The other brother, whom I may name Eli, discovered early in life he had a big crop of oats to sow. He went in for striped shirts and loud neckties and for coloring the town to match them. He inherited money but went through it, the end coming when he made one farwell swoop on New York. Here he fell in with a man from the West who was looking for somebody to grubstake him. He was down and out and Eli's heart went out to him. He gave him all the money he had except $100, devoted that to a farewell to Broadway and then went back home and got a small job.

"He worked away for several years incidentally serving as an illustration for local moralizers, and then suddenly one day came a telegram. The man he had grubstaked several years before had struck a good mine and out of gratitude had counted Eli in as a partner. Eli is now living in luxury and taking care of Eph."

Valuable Help.

"I understand that your wife collaborates with you?"

"Yes, he work aids me immensely."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic for the Week
Beginning Dec. 25, 1910.

Topic—"He born in us today."—Eph. iii, 14-21. (Christmas meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Today is the birthday of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. But Christ was not only born of the Virgin Mary by the power of the Holy Ghost, but He is also capable of being born into the human heart or of coming by faith into the hearts and lives of men and dwelling there and directing the motives and aspirations of the heart and the external acts of the life, which are the fruits or results of Christ "dwelling in us by faith."

The birth of Christ into the human heart is a mystery. This cannot be denied. No more can it be denied that it is a fact. This is the important phase of this tremendous claim. What matters the mystery if the glorious fact be true? The blind man could not explain how he was healed, but that was of little importance to him since he could say, "Whereas I was blind, now I see." His concern was not about the method of his being made to see, but it was concerned only with the fact that he could see. He knew he had been blind. But whereas he had been blind he knew that he could see. That was all sufficient for him. Hence if we know that Christ does dwell in our hearts, has been born in us by the power of the Spirit, why should we worry about the mystery in connection with the event itself? His own birth is mysterious, and many doubt or deny the virgin birth of Christ, but if we believe it, accept it and act upon it there need be no sleepless nights spent in considering how it could have been. "With God all things are possible." So it should be with Christ's indwelling in us.

The Scriptures declare the fact of Christ's indwelling presence. The topical inference consists of Paul's prayer for the Ephesians. It follows in form the Lord's Prayer, having (1) a preface, (2) petitions, (3) a benediction or doxology. This entire prayer is well worth our close and prayerful study. In one of the petitions Paul prays "that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith." Paul had had a deep religious experience. He spoke from experience. Christ lived or dwelt in Him by faith. To the Galatians he writes, "It is no longer I that live, but Christ liveth in me, and the life which I now live I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me" (Gal. ii, 20). If in Paul and in the Ephesians Christ lived He can and will also dwell in all who accept Him by faith.

The character of Christ demonstrates His indwelling presence. Christ is divine; He is deity—not divine merely in the sense that we are all divine or possess the image of God. He is "very God of our God." Hence He is omnipotent, all powerful and can do anything. Of course His physical body does not dwell in our bodies. No one could conceive of such an absurdity. It is spiritually that He abides with us, and since His departure from earth it is the Holy Ghost who dwells in us as His personal representative. "It is expedient for you that I go away, for if I do not away the Comforter [the Holy Spirit] will not come unto you." He also says to His disciples, "Abide in me and I in you." "I in you!" This is His own declaration, and, being God, He can and will fulfill it.

Personal experience proves the indwelling presence of Christ. Millions can testify by experience of the presence of Christ in them. What more do we want? The question of great importance now is, Does Christ dwell in me? If not, let Him come in now—this Christmas time—today! Today is the only day we are assured of. Yesterday is past, and tomorrow will never come. On a Christmas Sabbath evening a pastor closed his Christmas sermon by saying: "This is the day of giving gifts. Why not give to Him whose birthday we commemorate, the best of all gifts—yourself? He invites you to come. Will you accept His invitation?" A youth about seventeen years of age accepted, made a Christmas gift of himself to Christ and is now a successful minister of the gospel. "Let the dear Saviour come in today."

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. ix, 6; xl, 1-5; Matt. ii, 1-11; xl, 23-30; John xiv, 15-17; xv, 1-14; John iii, 1-8; Gal. ii, 20; iv, 19, 20; Col. i, 27; III, 8-14; Rev. iii, 20.

Quiet Moments.

In every church there should be a quiet moment after the benediction, when with bowed heads and reverent mien we wait before God, for the blessing which has just been invoked upon us all. In this respect the Episcopalians set an admirable example to most denominations in this country, though I have seen the same quiet moment observed in some Presbyterian churches in this country and always in Scotland.

Why should not every service, whether preaching, prayer meeting or Christian Endeavor, be closed with a silent moment of meditation and prayer with bowed head and closed eyes?

I commend this heartily as an invariable rule for the close of every Christian Endeavor meeting. Then when the benediction is pronounced there is another chance to show that God and heavenly things mean something to us by not relapsing into the frivolous small talk which often occupies the first half hour after the service.—Francis E. Clark, D. D.

How to Have a Warm House

First—install a BOYNTON "Square Pot," Patented, Furnace in the basement.

Then—in the morning before business and in the evening before retiring, step down and turn the BOYNTON clinkerless, ash-cutting grate. This clears the fire perfectly. Now put in a little coal; set the dampers for the degree of heat you wish, and leave the to do the rest. The BOYNTON is the most reliable house-heater known. It consumes less coal and gives more heat for the coal consumed, than any other heater on the market.

The BOYNTON "Square Pot" never holds dead fire. BOYNTON Boilers are now equipped with this same economical fire box and quick clearing grate. See your dealer about BOYNTON "Square Pot" furnaces and boilers.

THE HARVEST MOON

A Novelization of the Drama
of
AUGUSTUS THOMAS
By GEORGE HENRY PAYNE
Copyright, 1909, by Augustus Thomas

"Isn't this rather sudden?" she asked. "I can't help it, Dora," he said. "It's the only thing that will calm me down. In one way I feel that I ought to stay around in case you should need me; but, on the other hand, I don't think I will really be of much use, and I must get a change. I am going over for only a week or so, purely to get the sea air."

And the next day he sailed. While the future of the venture was a matter of doubt, the thing that bore most heavily on Dora was the thought that she, confessedly defeated, would have to meet Aunt Cornelia. That essentially decisive type of the New England spinster had become a veritable bete noire to the young girl, who was all sensitiveness, preponderately emotional and dominated by the gentlest impulses.

Her father met her at the train when she arrived in New York and was even more affectionate, more gentle and more sympathetic than was his wont, but underneath it all she could see that he was glad—that he regarded it a victory for his judgment—and she thought if he were unable to conceal his exultation over her defeat what would not Aunt Cornelia show.

They got into a cab at Forty-second street, and he explained that they were also in New York to meet M. Vavin.

"M. Vavin?" exclaimed Dora. "I did not know he was to come so soon." A warm thrill went through her at the thought that once more she was to meet the kind, distinguished gentleman who seemed always to have understood her, even more than her own father.

"His resolution was rather sudden," said the professor, "and, frankly, it caused a little trouble, as we had undertaken to have Dornice come over and give the lectures, and Dornice really was announced. Dornice himself wired up that there had been changes in his program made necessary by family affairs and that he had persuaded Vavin to deliver the course for him and take up the work. Of course it is perfectly splendid."

"And he is here in town?" asked Dora. "Yes; he is stopping at the hotel." She settled back in the cab. The first contented feeling that she had had since the announcement of the closing of the tour had come to her in the thought that at least in the company of Vavin she would gain the strength with which to meet the dreaded female relative.

Vavin was out when they arrived at the hotel, but they met at dinner, he just as blithesome and happy over the meeting as she was. He kissed her hand affectionately.

"My dear little Miss Dora," he said, "it is so nice to see you again."

Her father had told her during the afternoon that Vavin had been much interested in her experiment with the stage—in fact, he had written to him most sorrowfully that his daughter was about to go on the stage and that he had been unable to control her. It was in reply to this letter that Vavin had accepted the invitation to visit Fullerton and lecture in America.

"You have had a jolly experience, eh?" he said when they were seated. "You have been an actress, eh?" Then, noticing that through her smiles there was a suggestion of a tear, he patted her hand and said:

"It is very fine to be an actress, no? It's just what you need. What is that? A great experience. Had you succeeded or would you know little. You have failed; you are not forgotten."

Fullerton himself, however, did not seem to agree to the turn the conversation had taken, and during the rest of the dinner he carefully avoided allowing the subject to be brought up. It apparently was a great humiliation for this man that first a wife and then a daughter should have gone into things that to his mind were not of the well ordered world.

"They passed the evening at the theater, Vavin, much to his own amazement, had found that he had an engagement in the 'fat west,' as he called it."

"I had expected," he explained to Dora, "that if I did any other lecturing than that which Professor Fullerton had asked me to do it would be a matter that I would think over. But before I left Paris I signed an agreement to lecture quite frequently. I arrived today. I lecture tomorrow afternoon in Pittsburgh, is it not? Wonderful country! I should not have been surprised at all, though I hardly contemplated such a thing, believe me, had I been met halfway on the ocean by a steamship full of people who wished to hear of the wondrous beauties of the French lecture, of the drama and critique."

During the entr'acte Dora caught sight of Holcomb leaning over the rail at the rear of the orchestra gazing steadily at her. She bowed to him cordially. He seemed to hesitate, and then she gave him further indications that she would be glad to see him. He came down to life Box hesitatingly and looking a trifle guilty. She was too much pleased, however, to notice this, though Vavin's sharp eye caught the young man's embarrassment.

"Miss Fullerton tells me that you are also of the experiment," said Vavin politely.

"It had the ingredients of an experiment, sir," replied Holcomb, "but it hardly lasted long enough to be so denominated."

"You should be a good actor," said Vavin, looking at him and scrutinizing his face carefully.

"I should rather, sir, be a good author."

"Ah, you write, then?" "I had my first play accepted this afternoon, sir," he said, looking at Dora, whose face flushed with pleasure, for on the road he had told her of his ambitions, though he was hardly hopeful concerning a play which he had left in the hands of a manager before they left New York.

"The first play," mused Vavin, nodding approvingly—"that is a great thing. It is like a first marriage or a first baby. You can never have a first play a second time. I envy you."

Holcomb laughed.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The Great Powell, late of the Eden Musee, in New York city, and for many years its great drawing card, has been secured by the management of the Plainfield theatre for Christmas Day, Monday next. Powell comes to this city very highly recommended and all those desiring the best in a vaudeville performance that has been seen in this city in a long time will do well to attend either the matinee or night performance on that day. Powell's feats in magic are short of wonderful and he is continually adding additional ones to his already large repertoire. Prices are within the reach of everyone.

In connection with the coming engagement of "The Country Boy" at the Plainfield theatre on January 2, it will be interesting to the theatre-goers of this city to learn something of the personality of Henry B. Harris, the eminent New York manager, who will present Edgar Selwyn's great comedy hit of the year here. The "Country Boy" is a strong story of city life, and has been the greatest comedy hit of recent years. It was entirely due to the good judgment of Mr. Harris that Mr. Selwyn wrote the play. Both Mr. Harris and Mr. Selwyn are members of the famous Lyons Club in New York and at one of the annual Lamb's Gambles Mr. Selwyn contributed a one-act sketch showing a scene in a typical New York theatrical boarding house. Mr. Harris was impressed with the sketch and urged Mr. Selwyn to develop it into a comedy which he did and the result was "The Country Boy," a play which every critic in the Metropolis has praised.

For many years Mr. Harris' attractions have been coming to this city and the people have learned when they see the familiar sign "Henry B. Harris presents," that it means they will get a performance of unusual excellence given by a competent cast, because Henry B. Harris always keeps faith with the theatre-going public, and never sends out a mediocre production or a poor cast, and it is due to this fact that Mr. Harris has become so popular and prominent with theatre-goers all over this broad land.

Mr. Harris' offices are in the Hudson theatre on West Forty-eighth street, New York. There all the business details of the great Harris enterprises are worked out. Mr. Harris is a gentleman of culture and learning, easy to approach, and always most affable and pleasant. The most important person who calls at the Harris offices is treated with the same respect and consideration as is given to the most prominent.

The many stories which have been written concerning impudent and impertinent office boys in theatrical managers' offices, who treat those who have business with the managers with rudeness, could never have been written concerning the Henry B. Harris offices. Each visitor is courteously and pleasantly received and without formality of any kind, goes into Mr. Harris' private office and transacts whatever business he or she may have called about to discuss with Mr. Harris.

All really great men have impressed their personality on those who work for them and this is particularly true of Henry B. Harris. The men on his business staff, managers, the actors and actresses, and all others who are in the employ of Mr. Harris, go about their work with enthusiasm and a loyalty that is rarely found nowadays. This is simply the result of the fact that they know Mr. Harris treats them fairly, always with kindness and consideration, and more than this, he is thoughtful of those who are working for him.

Indeed, wherever theatrical people are gathered together, you will always hear the name of Henry B. Harris spoken of with the greatest respect. It makes no difference whether it is on the road or on the realty in New York. Mr. Harris was recently elected treasurer of the Lambs Club in New York in a hotly contested election, and this was a great tribute to his popularity with members of the profession. He is treasurer of the Actors' Fund of America and besides the Hudson and Hackett theatres in New York, has the Jackson Theatre in Bridgeport, the Grand Opera House in New Haven, and the Historic Walnut Street Theatre in Philadelphia. He is also completing now a new theatre in New York "The Folies Bergere."

Mr. Harris' father, Wm. Harris, is one of the best known men in the theatrical world, but Henry B. Harris has succeeded in becoming one of the greatest producing managers in this country by his own energy and ability. He has done more than any other manager to develop the native American dramatists, and today, stands as one of the most conspicuous figures in the theatrical world.

It is interesting to note in this connection, that whatever disagreement may have existed in the profession, men of all shades of opinion have always been most pronounced in the expression of their respect and admiration for Henry B. Harris. Mr. Harris is thoroughly familiar with all the details of the theatrical profession, and his high standard in conducting his many theatrical enterprises have won for him respect and admiration of both the members of the profession and the theatre-going public of this country.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Harry E. Hayden and John C. Myers.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the twenty-second day of November, Nineteen Hundred and Ten, in a cause wherein William F. Fruehauf is complainant, and you Harry E. Hayden and John C. Myers are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainant, on or before the twenty-third day of January next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage executed by Harry E. Hayden to William Frederick Fruehauf, dated August twenty-ninth, Nineteen Hundred and Seven, covering lands in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, and you the said Harry E. Hayden are made defendant because you executed the said mortgage, and you the said John C. Myers are made defendant because you have since taken the said mortgage and claim to be the owner in fee of the mortgaged premises.

MILLIONS OF SEALS

Reports from headquarters of the American Red Cross given out Tuesday indicate that at the beginning of the last week of the sale of Xmas Seals, nearly 35,000,000 have been sold and that the prospects are bright for a sale of more than 50,000,000.

The actual number of Seals sold to date is nearly 15,000,000 in excess of the entire number sold in 1909 and is already nearly three times the sale of 1908. If the sale this week keeps up at the rate as since December 1st, the national authorities estimate that over $500,000 will be added to the tuberculosis funds in all parts of the country. This will be double the amount realized last year.

Engaged in this campaign for selling Red Cross Seals is an army of over 100,000 including men, women and children of every rank and station. Agents have been appointed in one or more places in every state, except Idaho and Montana. Among the groups and institutions which are assisting in the movement are the Anti-Tuberculosis Societies, Red Cross Chapters, Women's Clubs, Labor Unions, Lodges, Schools, Banks, Theatres, Department Stores, Hospitals, and innumerable other agencies. Thousands of dollars worth of advertising is being donated to the campaign and many millions of circulars are being distributed to remind people to buy Red Cross Seals.

EVENING COATS.

Wonderful Blendings of Rich Fabrics Distinguish the Season.

Most of These Gorgeous Garments Are of Very Ample Width and Give Appearance of Being Wound Around the Wearer.

No richer cloaks and wraps have been seen in any season than those which swarm the corridors of the theatres at present. The richest velvets, most sumptuous brocades, finest gauzes and costliest furs clutter the walls. The coats of the present, while all are enveloping and often twice too big for their wearers apparently, as though they were intended to wind around them again and again, are still straight in line. The deep bands of fur at the bottom of many such coats drag them into the desired lines.

Until the season drove them in for very untimeliness gauze wraps flourished, often with swathings of the richest furs. Just now some of the hand-somest coats are made of brocade in old tapestry colors. A beautiful garment seen recently was of old rose velvet shot with silver gray. The skirt part, which was fairly full, was drawn down and shirred into a very deep band of chinchilla, and the same fur went around the neck and down the front and finished the bottoms of the kimono sleeves. A single jeweled button of great size closed
