CITY'S NEW MAGISTRATE

Judge William G. De Meza Inducted into Office Amid Floral Display.

CONGRATULATED BY THE BAR.

A Hundred Friends Extend Congratulations While Bar Association Presents Floral
Horseshop.

Scores of citizens augmented a delegation from the Plainfield Bar Association yesterday morning in a greeting extended to Judge William G. De Meza, who sat in the city court for the first time. Judge De Meza

City Judge Wm. G. De Meza.

was the recipient of congratulations at the hands of the visitors and his desk was a mass of flowers contributed by members of the bar and their chambers of the city.

No prisoners were to be arraigned and immediately after the induction of adjournment of the court until this morning, Counselor J. Henry Crane arose and in behalf of the members of the bar presented to Judge De Meza an immense floral horseshoe and said:

"May it please your honor, on behalf of the members of the bar of the city it is my pleasure to felicitate you on your elevation to the bench of this court. The people of Plainfield have signally honored you and we join with them in approval of their choice. Your forte has been as an advocate before the bar of criminal justice and now you are called to the criminal bench."

"Your experience as an advocate, your deep knowledge of human nature, your broad sympathetic disposition, all eminently fit you for the honor conferred upon you and to uphold and maintain the honor and dignity with which it has been maintained by the eminent gentleman whom you have succeeded."

"We present to you this tribute of our esteem, the emblem of good fortune and bespeak for you happiness and success in your judicial career." Judge De Meza responded happily, accepting the horseshoe which he said he believed represented the sentiments of his friends. He declared that he would endeavor to fill the position satisfactorily to everybody and that he would act without fear or favor dispensing justice in a manner to win the approval of his friends and the public at large.

Other floral pieces were sent in by Frank Linke, W. A. Schorb and others. Among the lawyers present were Winfield S. Anglemann, Martin B. Stutsman, J. Henry Crane, Judge Rene V. P. Von Minden, Robert Newton Crane. Among the citizens were Charles H. Hand, P. J. Reville, Frank Linke, and many others. Many of those who had never been at headquarters before took the opportunity of inspecting the police building.

Judge De Meza is the second of the family to assume the judgeship of the city court. His brother, George De Meza, preceded Judge William N.
Runyon, having served for two years and ten months, his term ending with his death in 1898. He is the son of the late George W. De Meza and Charlotte De Meza, of West Second street, and has a record as a practitioner in the criminal courts which is unique. In his thirteen years' practice but two cases have been decided against him. Judge De Meza is married and lives at 52 Sandford avenue, where he recently purchased a home.

Judge De Meza enjoys the esteem and friendship of a majority of the residents of this city and is well known for his courteous and urbane characteristics. It is believed that he will make an admirable magistrate. His commanding personality inspires confidence and that he will carry out his announced program of impartiality cannot be doubted.

Judge De Meza formally took over the office on Sunday at noon, receiving the keys of the desk and other appurtenances of his office as well as the congratulations of his predecessor, Judge William N. Runyon.

FIRST BAPTIST CHORUS REPEATS XMAS MUSIC

The quartet and chorus choir of the First Baptist church repeated the Christmas music at the church, Sunday evening, under the direction of Howard M. Case, organist and choirmaster, and was assisted by the Schill String Quartet, of Newark. The program was given entire and was thoroughly enjoyed by an audience that about filled the lower floor of the edifice. In the rendition of the anthem, the work of the choir seemed to be even better than on Christmas Sunday, while the singing of the soloists, Miss Ruth Harris, soprano; Miss Hazel Hatfield, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor, left nothing to be desired.

Besides accompanying the choir in the rendition of anthems, the string quartet rendered "Processional to the Cathedral, from Lohengrin; Album Leaf, Hollander; March from Athalle, Mendelssohn, and the execution was perfect. During the service, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor, delivered a twenty minute sermon appropriate to the occasion.

C. A. FREDERICKSON WEDS MISS MARIE E. THOMAS

Miss Marie E. Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Helen Thomas, of Spooner avenue, was married on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock to Charles A.
Frederickson, son of Captain Christian Frederickson, of the local police department. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, in the parlor of the home which was prettily decorated for the occasion. The bridesmaid was Miss Jennie Thomas, a sister of the bride; the best man was Otto Frederickson, a brother of the groom.

After a reception and collation Mr. and Mrs. Frederickson left for a honeymoon trip to Binghamton, N.
Y. Mr. Frederickson is in the employ of the Scott Printing Press Works and on his return from Binghamton will go either to Cuba or to Dallas, Texas, on business for the company.

Organ Broke Down.

The electrical apparatus connected with the organ of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church broke down Sunday morning just before the service began and the choir had to begin their service unaccompanied.
Repairs were made and in the evening the organ recital was given by Alexander Russell, the organist, but owing to the illness of Miss Watt, the soprano of the quartet, the original musical program was not sung.
Mr. Pilcher sang beautifully "My Soul is Awaiting for God" from Gaul's Holy City.

Masquerade Dance.

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St.
Mary's church will hold a masquerade dance at St. Mary's school hall, this evening. The grand march will begin at 10 o'clock and there will be a prize for the most original costume.

To Act On Pastor's Resignation.

The permanent council of the East New Jersey Baptist Association meets in Newark this afternoon to take official action on the resignation of Rev. W. S. T. Lumbard as pastor of the Mt. Pleasant Baptist church, that city.

FOUGHT TWELVE ROUNDS

Two Colored Pugilists From Newark Fight for $50.
Purse in Borough.

"BUDD" WHITE'S SECONDS QUIT.

Threw Up the Sponge When Their Man Was All but Knocked Out —Battle Fought in Broad Day Light.

Why North Plainfield was selected as the battle ground by Newark sports on Saturday afternoon will probably never be known, but that a twelve round prize fight was pulled off under the very noses of the police is an indisputable fact. The fight lasted for twelve rounds and the backers of "Budd" White went home broke as "Flatnose" Burrows made White quit, his seconds throwing up the sponge near the end of the twelfth round when White was bleeding from his eyes, ears and mouth.

The tip was quietly passed around at noon Saturday that there would be a scrap and lots of the colored gentry were put wise to the place and time. Between thirty and forty colored men surrounded the improvised ring when time was called for the first round in a patch of woods not more than a mile away from the brook which separates the two municipalities in the East End.

The affair was so quietly conducted that no white person witnessed the affair, and it was only after persistent sleuthing around that the details with the names of the principles were obtained. It was said that the affair was the outcome of a personal grudge growing out of a clash between lovers. White's face looked as though he had been hit by a battering ram while Burrows showed only a puffed eye and a split lip.
Nearly all the men including the principals came here from Newark and after White was patched up and traces of the battle removed they returned to their homes some via trolley and others by an afternoon train. The purse fought for was said to have been $50.

DR. SCHENCK'S MOTHER PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY

Mrs. Catherine E. Schenck, daughter of the late Isaac Stryker and Gertrude Brokaw, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning at the home of her son, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, on West Front street, aged eighty-five years. Her death was due to old age primarily, but the immediate cause was heart dropsy. This household has been sorely afflicted and the sympathy of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances is expressed for the bereaved family. Only a few weeks ago, Mrs. Schenck suffered the loss of her mother, Mrs. Jane Williams, and since then Mrs. Schenck has been very ill. This fact together with the severe affliction of Dr.
Schenck has aroused the deepest sympathy.

Mrs. Schenck was born at Millstone, and was the widow of Josiah Schenck. She spent her girlhood days there, later removing to New Brunswick. Of late years she divided her time between New Brunswick and this city, living with her two sons, Rev. Isaac V. Schenck, of the former place, and Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of this city. She was a devoted and faithful member of the First Reformed church, of New Brunswick. Mr. Schenck came to Plainfield last Wednesday and was then in feeble health. She failed rapidly since that time, despite every care.

There were four children who lived to maturity, Rev. Jacob W. Schenck, pastor of the Reformed church at West Ghent, N. Y., who died in 1879, aged 29 years; Miss Annie B.
Schenck, who died in 1882, aged 27 years; Rev. Isaac S. Schenck and Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, the last two, are living.

Mrs. Schenck was a life-long Christian. Her piety was deep, but un-demonstrative. Her strong characteristics were loyalty, industry, unselfishness and throughout her long years she spared not herself in doing whatever her hands found to do for others.

Private funeral services will be held at the home of Rev. Dr. Schenck tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and the interment will be at Millstone.

New Year's Reception.

New Year's Day receptions were held yesterday at the homes of United States Senator John Kean and Congressman Charles N. Fowler in Elizabeth, and each one was largely attended by men more or less prominent from all parts of the State, including some from this city.

MESSAGE IN NUTSHELL

Following are the important points made in Mayor Moy's first annual message:

"We should discourage favoritism."
"Be ever watchful against extravagance."

"Firmly convinced that a very large majority of the people desire and expect that a municipal water supply will be installed." Favors installation of municipal water works "without delay," obtaining supply "from our own underground."

Sewage disposal beds "inadequate to sustain for very long the burden imposed upon them." Must find a remedy.
Taxes "have not been equally assessed" and property not assessed at true value. The law should be enforced.

Weights and measures ordinance should be passed and an inspector appointed.
"All city supplies should be controlled by a purchasing department in charge of an officer appointed for that purpose."

"Municipal control of disposal of garbage and ashes not of vital importance now, but will refer to it later."

Wants stop put to beer being distributed in wagons by dealers from other counties paying no license.

Favors expenditure of reasonable sum for a free dental clinic for poor children.

Demands enforcement of the law providing for keeping a record of bail money and unclaimed goods in the police department.

Trusts that playground movement be extended.

"City officials should receive an adequate salary for their service and all fees should be abolished."

"Recommend appointment of a board of guardians to stop sale of liquor to habitual drunkards, and minors."

Sale of cigarettes to youths, violations of automobile speed laws, smoke, noise and bon-fire nuisances should be stopped.
"I do not think the city is receiving fair treatment from the P. S. C. in the matter of trolley service and I suggest that pressure be brought to bear to have this service improved. The same may be said of the street lights."

"Politics can have no place in the chamber set apart for the carrying out of the people's business."

"The people are at all times entitled to the fullest information concerning all things pertaining to the public welfare."

"Secret conclaves and caucuses are the relics of a by-gone age."

CHARLES BARRY DIES SUDDENLY AT HIS HOME

Charles Barry, the well known cabman, died suddenly at his home on Howard street at 1 o'clock this afternoon. He had been indisposed seated in a chair when a stroke of apoplexy came upon him and he passed away in a moment. Dr. Pit-tis was summoned but could do nothing.

Mr. Barry was fifty-four years old and had lived here for nearly half that time. He had been engaged in the cab business for a long time and through it was widely known in the

by a wife and six children.

per was served by Mrs. Henry Johnson, of the Park Club.

EDEN LAING BOICE DIES; AGED EIGHTY-TWO YEARS

orchestra, of Brooklyn. The children danced from 7:30 to 9 o'clock and from the latter hour until 12 o'clock the young people enjoyed the privi-

MAYOR MOY'S MESSAGE

New Executive Refers to City's Needs in Addressing Common Council.

FOR "M. O." WATER PLANT.

That and Sewage Disposal System of Prime Importance—Better Trolley Service and Other Valuable Suggestions.

Mayor George W. V. Moy assumed his official duties on Sunday in an informal manner. Former Mayor Charles Joel Flisk presented the keys of his office to the incoming Chief magistrate on Saturday and during

Mayor Geo. W. V. Moy.

the evening gave a helping hand to Mr. Moy in re-arranging his office.
There was no formal reception held yesterday, the Mayor simply receiving the calls of a large number of taxpayers and well-wishers with a cordial shake of the hand and a hearty wish for a happy and prosperous new year.

The new Mayor's first message delivered to the Common Council last night follows:

"Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 2, 1911.
"To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J."

"Gentlemen—Pursuant to what appears to be the usual custom, and in obedience to what I believe to be my duty under the law, I beg to submit my views on the following matters, as being of some interest to your honorable body. Aside from the custom, it is quite proper that the Council should have, as near as may be, a forecast of the policy to be pursued by the incoming administration, which policy must be predicated upon the platform, if any, upon which the Mayor has been elected, for it must be regarded as the wish of the people to have the platform upon which the candidate is elected, carried out, and in this respect it may not be improper for me to refer briefly to some things upon which I have heretofore made public comment.

PLAINS AND FAIRWOOD

The election for fine department officers will be held tonight, in the company rooms. It is reported that Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company will not put a ticket in the field as they are satisfied that the Bucket and Engine Company can outvote them. The Bucket and Engine Company members, however, do not intend to be caught napping and will hustle to get out the full vote.

The People's Ice Company started to harvest its winter crop of ice on Sunday. The two houses were about half filled when the rain began and the work had to be abandoned for the time being. Only one accident occurred during the day. Albert Walpole taking an involuntary bath. Handy ice hooks were used and Albert was dragged out colder but none the worse for the plunge.

The year 1911 was ushered in here with noise. The members of the Baptist church held a social and old-fashioned watch meeting. The day itself was more quiet as everyone seemed to be satisfied with the opening welcome.

One good 1911 resolution: Have the Daily Press left at your door every night during the year and keep in touch with local affairs.

The public schools reopened this morning after a holiday vacation of ten days, which has been fully enjoyed by scholars and teachers.

Miss Harriett M. Squires has returned from a week's stay at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Alfred Lacey, of Plainfield, has been visiting friends in town.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The public school pupils of Dunellen and New Market assembled for studies today after the Christmas holidays. The majority of the teachers were away during the vacation and returned yesterday. Principal Guy H. Reutheier, of the borough schools, spent the time at his old home in Pennsylvania.

The watch-night service in the Methodist church New Year's eve, was well attended. The congregation is now interested in the evangelistic services that will be continued during the next two weeks.

Charles E. Tinsman, of the borough, entered upon his new duties today in the real-estate office of Greenway, Park & Davis, of 178 Broadway, New York. He will have charge of the farms department.

The Dunellen Board of Education will meet tonight. It will be the first session of the year but no business of importance is on the slate.

Miss Estelle Tomlinson, of New Market, has returned home after a week's visit with relatives in New York.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. J. F. G. Kinney.

Samuel B. Merrill has returned from a three weeks' visit with his son in Newark.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Henry Suydam has recovered from a severe attack of poison, which he contracted while cutting wood in the swamp on the Ohl farm.

The Baraca Class of the Baptist church gave a moving picture entertainment in the church Saturday evening.

John Linnaberry, ticket agent at the Leigh Valley station, is detained at home by illness.

William Voorhees, of Brooklyn, has been visiting friends here.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Alfred Cooper, who plays the part of Hezekiah Jenke, in Edgar Selwyn's brightest comedy of city life, "The Country Boy," which Henry B. Harris will present at the Plainfield theatre tonight, is a Chicago boy, who has made rapid progress on the stage. Mr. Cooper received his early education in his native city and was interested in the production of amateur plays, and at last determined to go on the professional stage. He secured a position with a stock company at St. Paul and his clever work there attracted the attention of the New York managers. Mr. Harris heard of Mr. Cooper and secured him for his special company of "The Country Boy." Besides being an actor of ability, Mr. Cooper has written many short stories. His bright novelette, "Elgo," attracted much attention last year and Mr. Cooper is now at work on a series of humorous stories about the different phases of life an actor sees in his travels on the road. This is a broad field and as Mr. Cooper has a delightful sense of humor his stories will undoubtedly have the same effect on the reader as "The Country Boy" has on the audience; namely, that of dispelling that feeling of depression we all suffer with at times.

REPEATED XMAS MUSIC AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Only a small congregation heard the repetition of the Christmas music in the First Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, but those who braved the rain were amply repaid. This quartet has never sung better than it did on Sunday, the soloists admirably sustained by Organist Clifford A. Braider, literally sang their way into the hearts of all who heard them.

Harry Rowe Shelley's "Star of the Orient" and Harker's cantata, "The Star of Bethlehem" were both rendered in masterly fashion. There were solos for each of the four parts all splendidly sung. Miss De Cant sang her solo, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," with delicious freshness and beauty of tone. Mrs. C. Kendall Mason, Aleck MacGowan and C. P. Tittsworth all contributed their share to a successful interpretation of the music.

BOROUGH COUNCIL MEETS

Members Assemble at Noon and are Addressed by Mayor Smalley.

VAN ARSDALE MADE PRESIDENT

Chief Executive Says Harmony Prevails and Re-appoints all Officials—Some of His Suggestions.

The North Plainfield Common Council met in the borough chambers yesterday for the purpose of re-organization and the beginning of business for the new year. Mayor N. B. Smalley was in the chair and the newly elected members of the body, Alex Milne, was escorted to his seat by Councilman VanArsdale.

According to his annual custom, Mayor Smalley addressed the Council on the important questions apt to be brought up and a general review of the borough affairs. He stated at the outset that such complete harmony existed in all departments he would make practically no changes in his appointments and hoped that the same condition of things would prevail during 1911.

"I will appoint no borough counsel," the mayor continued, "as we have had none for some time but secured our advice from time to time as we needed it. The sewage commission has been guided in this way and will do so until some other arrangement is made."

The mayor said that in past years economy had always been practiced in all departments of the borough and he intimated that it would be wise to adhere to absolute economic lines.

"The location of our borough," Mr. Smalley went on, "limits us to a great extent to our needs and I hope the time will come when we will not have to call upon the township of North Plainfield for things we want. The location of the proposed sewage disposal beds is an instance of this kind, but I believe this matter will be taken care of at Trenton during the month."

"The mention of sewers brings to mind that all large improvements mean more taxes and for this reason anything that can be done to secure a revenue as well as keeping the rate down is sure to revert to the benefit of the community. Taking this view, I favor and always have favored, the installation of a public water plant in North Plainfield. I believe there is a plentiful supply about us that can be pumped at less cost than the people are now paying and at the same time add something to the borough treasury. There are lots of towns in New Jersey that are doing it profitably and there is no reason why we should not."

The mayor told the councilmen he hoped they would not hesitate to express their opinions while in session and to introduce any resolution they believed would be for the public good. He said if he agreed with them he would back them up, and if he didn't he would oppose them honestly.

"During the coming year," he went on, "I hope some one in this Council will introduce an ordinance to widen Somerset street from Jackson avenue north. We have had an opportunity to see the benefit derived from the improvement in the lower end and know that it will be appreciated. I also want to see the macadamizing of upper Watchung avenue attended to."

Referring to the underground conduit commission recently appointed, the mayor said he could not say anything as he had not received any report. When he does, he said, he would act upon any suggestion made and either continue or dismiss the commission. The opinion prevailed that a favorable report will be made to have public conduits installed while the streets are torn up for sewers.

The mayor announced these appointments, afterward ratified by the Council: Borough clerk, Frederick A. Martin; borough physician, Dr. D. C. Adams; overseer of the poor, Fred Becker; borough engineers, H. C. Van Emburgh and F. J. Hubbard; recorder, Charles Doliver; members of the Board of Health, A. E. Kenney and C. H. Rugg; chief marshal, George Weiss; chief of fire department, William McCullough; tillermen, Albert Fritz.

be discussed at considerable length, but I know that you are so familiar with them that it would be useless for me to say more.

Taxes.

"It is apparent to anyone who has taken the trouble to consider the matter that taxes have not been equally assessed in the city; that the law has not been complied with, requiring that all property be assessed at its true value. This is a matter perhaps not within your immediate power and control, and yet it is full worthy of your consideration. The law should be enforced, and your moral support to its enforcement should be given.

Weights and Measures.

"From the somewhat startling results of investigations in other municipalities disclosing practices of dishonest dealers, it would appear that the ordinance which I understand has been drawn, relating to weights and measures, should be passed, and an inspector appointed. This we owe to the public, and to honest dealers, as a protection against dishonest dealers.

Purchasing Department.

"The purchase of all city supplies should be controlled by a purchasing department in charge of an officer employed for that purpose, and I strongly urge that you give to this your earnest consideration.

Municipal Control of Disposal of Garbage and Ashes.

"This subject has been before various councils at various times, and the only result thus far has been the acquisition of a worthless disposal plant, on which the city has been paying interest for a number of years. The question of garbage disposal is one to which I have not given much thought, nor do I deem it of vital importance at this time; it is, however, worthy of mention, and I will, with your permission, address you again at a future time concerning the same.

Depository of Public Moneys.

"The public money should be deposited equally in the various banking institutions of the city, carrying checking accounts, and the balances equally maintained so far as conveniently may be. There certainly should be no favoritism shown in this matter.

Sale of Liquor.

"My attention is directed to the fact that beer is being distributed around the city in wagons by dealers from other counties, without the payment of any license to this city. This is a peculiar situation presenting a nice legal question, but I trust we shall be able to put a stop to this practice, at any rate we will make a strong effort.

Dental Clinics.

"The question of establishing a dental clinic has been placed before me, and I feel that the expenditure of a reasonable sum for this purpose would result in great benefit, especially to the poor children of the city.

Bail Money and Unclaimed Goods.

"I have made inquiry as to the disposition of bail money and unclaimed goods coming in the hands of the police department, and I find that for the past several years no record has been kept of these matters. This should be inquired into and the law of 1909, Chapter 214, relating to money and goods coming into the hands of the police department and providing for the disposition of the same, should be enforced.

Children's Play Grounds.

"I have been very glad indeed to note the utilization of the school yards as children's play grounds during the warm season, and I trust this work may be extended and other school yards made use of. Anything that shall appear to be of real benefit to the children will always have my earnest sympathy and support.

Fees and Salaries.

"City officials should receive an adequate salary for their service, and all fees should be abolished.

"I may say generally, that I observe too many cigarette smoking boys; too many drunken men; too many automobiles violating the speed laws by reckless running, violating the health law with smoke and noise; too many bonfires kindled in the streets with the resultant litter of unburned fragments and of ashes blown hither and yon, all of which may be corrected by an enforcement of the laws.

"Cigarettes may not be sold or given to boys of less than eighteen years of age; liquor may not be sold or given to habitual drunkards, or those likely to become such, provided a Board of Protectors be appointed under the act of 1909, having power to direct liquor dealers to desist from selling or giving liquor to habitual drunkards, or those likely to become such, and I recommend the appointment of such a board.

"The automobile law regulates the running of automobiles, and the Board of Health has control over that which is detrimental to the health of the community and therefore, over the smoke and noise of the automobiles; so it is after all the enforcement of the existing laws that is required.

"I have not attempted, as you will observe, to enter into an acute analysis of the doings of the various city departments for the past year, for the reason that you have before you, embodied in the reports for the year, much fuller information that I could possibly give you. I may say that I do not think the city is receiving fair treatment from the Public Service Corporation in the matter of trolley service, and I suggest that pressure be brought to bear to have this service improved. The same may be said of the street lights.

"Some of the matters touched upon may appear to you as being trivial, and it may not be amiss for me to state that it was with considerable diffidence that I brought myself to the task of presenting to a body of seasoned legislators (for with one exception you have all seen councilmanic service) the views of one who is for the time being somewhat of a novice in the handling of municipal affairs, and in reading and considering this, my maiden effort, you will, I trust, consider my lack of experience. Permit me to say that I consider that the acceptance of a public office, either elective or appointive, carries with it an unvoiced pledge of absolute fidelity to the duties of that office. Politics can have no place within the chamber set apart for the carrying on of the people's business. The people are entitled at all times to the fullest information concerning all things pertaining to the public welfare. Secret conclaves and caucuses are the relics of a bygone age, and should be relegated to that place in history to which they belong. You are the law making body, and upon you devolves the responsibility for the laws enacted by you. The Mayor is the chief executive officer of the city upon whom falls the burden of enforcing the laws of the State and the city, and in this particular the Mayor will endeavor to do his duty.

"I am your obedient servant,

"GEORGE W. V. MOY,

"Mayor."

The council adjourned to meet Tuesday night, January 10.

THE HARVEST MOON

A Novelization of the Drama of
AUGUSTUS THOMAS
By GEORGE HENRY PAYNE
Copyright, 1906, by Augustus Thomas

Dora had appeared at rehearsal promptly on Tuesday, and this fact, coupled with her apparent happiness, braced Holcomb for what was already a trying ordeal. He had made some suggestions for changes in the cast, but the management had its own not particularly high minded reasons for inflicting on him absolutely incompetent people, and, to make matters worse, Ludlow, who had been his friend, seemed to take a special delight in thwarting him and letting the performance down frequently. Playing opposite to Dora as he did, the leading man seemed to get particular pleasure out of annoying Holcomb by being just a shade too familiar with the young lady. Despite all this, the rehearsals moved fairly rapidly, and they were ready for production three weeks after they had started. To add to Holcomb's troubles, however, it had been decided against his better judgment and fervent pleadings to open "flat" in New York City.

He had been an actor long enough to know that at least three or four performances outside of the metropolis were necessary for an adequate presentation of a play, at least on the part of the actors. Only those who have come in intimate contact with the spectacle can appreciate the overwrought and hysterical attitude that the average actor takes toward his first appearance in New York. For some reason the majority of the managers encourage this high strung attitude, explaining their belief in it by the statement that the actor gives a better performance when he is in a hysterical condition than when he is calm. Actors themselves have gone so far as to say that an actor who has all his self possession on the first night is not endowed with genius.

Dora had been stopping with Mrs. Winthrop, whose son, having completed his wanderings, was taking his amatory defeat with a new calm. Mrs. Winthrop had done everything possible to make Dora happy, and at her suggestion Holcomb invited Mrs. Winthrop, her son and Judge Elliott to be present at the dress rehearsal which was to begin on Sunday night. Had Holcomb been in charge absolutely the play would have progressed very smoothly, for even with his limited experience he had definite ideas of what he wanted and a gift for expressing them precisely. Being a young author, however, his authority was limited purely to the lines and the actors, while almost an entire regiment of "bottle holders" had final say on matters that were considered their departments.

He had intended to run through the play act by act without interrupting. His plan was to make notes as they went along of such changes as he desired and have the corrections made when the act was finished. The two managers who had the final say in all matters had a different method, and these, aided by costumers, a so called expert on lights, the scene builder and an officious consulting playwright, dragged the first act along until 1 o'clock.

There was a pause for coffee and sandwiches before the first company and a few faithful auditors, scattered about the darkened auditorium, entered on the second act. At the conclusion of this part of the play Holcomb, to add to his other troubles, saw that Ludlow was giving an entirely different interpretation of the part from that which the author had intended. Instead of making the young lover that he played a fresh, romantic creature of circumstance, Ludlow was endowing him with all the sinister qualities that made his own off the stage character interesting if not healthy. He had interrupted the actor time and time again to ask him to get back to the original key and had always been answered with a polite and sometimes mocking "Yes, sir," but had succeeded in making no change. Dora, too, he had been obliged to criticize, for she seemed to be taking Ludlow's cue.

When, therefore, the two came to their "big love-making scene" in the third act Holcomb completely lost control of himself. As he looked back at it afterward he knew that he had done wrong, but he excused himself on the ground of the nervous tension under which he had been working and the fact that this particular scene as interpreted by Dora meant even more to him than did his play.

Not only did they give the speeches that they delivered a character that he had never thought of, but they introduced "bits of business" which were to him repulsive interpolations. "Stop it!" he shouted in the middle of their scene, jumping from his seat and rushing down the aisle. "Stop it, for God's sake! The whole thing is damnable vulgar! What do you mean?" And then, directing his words to Ludlow, he said:

"If you can't play this part the way I rehearsed it I don't want you to play it at all. This man whom you are charging is a gentleman, and he acts like a gentleman." "Are you quite sure," said Ludlow, with a sneer, "that you are able to recognize a gentleman?" But, enraged as he was, Holcomb was hardly prepared for Dora's remark.

"Do you think, Mr. Holcomb," she said, apparently as uncontrolled as he was, "that you could rehearse one in the manners of a gentleman?" And without another word she walked off the stage.

Holcomb rushed through the stage box and tried to pacify her. "Don't talk to me," she said. "In a way I am glad that this has happened. It has shown me what I am to expect."

"But, Dora, dear, you don't understand what you were doing. You don't appreciate how it looked from the front. This man Ludlow was pitching things in a key that was absolutely repulsive and vulgar."

"And you expect me," exclaimed the girl, "to allow you to call me vulgar in public?"

"My dear girl," began Holcomb, but at this moment Mrs. Winthrop, Judge Elliott and Graham made their way back on the stage, and, turning away from the unfortunate young author, she made for her dressing room and closed the door on him with a bang.

"I think you made a lot of fuss over nothing," said the two managers, who had also come through the stage box. "But that isn't what I wanted, and it's my play."

"Yes," said the senior partner, "but you don't want to forget that it's our money, and Ludlow is the best man in his line in America, and, while you may be able to write a play, you can hardly teach him how to act."

"There were more words of the same nature, Ludlow standing by indifferently, and the act was concluded, the stage manager reading Dora's part.

As for Holcomb, he had quarreled with Dora. He could hardly understand how he had allowed such a disheartening circumstance to occur, and her defiant attitude toward him seemed to sound a warning note to him as of impending disaster.

It cannot be said that the Winthrops and Judge Elliott viewed this scene with any great sorrow. To them it simply seemed that Holcomb had played into their hands and that the explosion would result in Dora's giving up her idea of going on the stage and surely that of marrying the dramatist. As they drove home little was said except what was soothing to the girl's feelings, though they were hardly prepared for her parting statement that, provided an apology was forthcoming from Holcomb, she would appear the next night and would continue in the part until the management had had an opportunity of obtaining and rehearsing some one else. But, even in the face of this, Mrs. Winthrop, whose love for her son was an abiding and dominant part of her life, had hopes that it would once more reinstate him in Dora's affections and bring about a match which she had long planned and eagerly desired.

Holcomb had left several cards at the apartment of Mrs. Winthrop before he was able to see Dora the next day. He had no sleep for after the rehearsal he had a long argument with the manager and an even sharper wrangle with Ludlow and had then set to work making some changes that the officious consulting playwright had insisted upon.

When Dora did see him near noon-time it was against the advice of her friend and her father's attorney, who, with a tact that is sometimes purely legal, had sent a telegram to Professor Fullerton, suggesting that his presence on the ground might bring about the desired result of having Dora go back home, a telegram that drew—not Fullerton, but Aunt Cornelia.

"Dora," pleaded the young man the moment he entered the room, "you cannot mean what you say in this letter—one that she had written and sent by messenger before she had gone to bed that morning.

"I do mean it," she replied. "A man cannot say that he loves a woman when he treats her in public in the way you treated me last night."

The January term of court opened at Elizabeth, this morning, with Justice James J. Bergen and Judge Edward S. Atwater on the bench.
There was the usual large number of lawyers from all parts of the county in court. Judge E. Clark Wittmore, on behalf of the Union County Bar Association, presented a set of resolutions recognizing the death of Craig A. Marsh, and they were ordered spread on the minutes of the association.

The Plainfield members of the Grand Jury for the present term are Julius Williams, Augustus F. Jenkins, Cornelius VanHerwerden and Henry Lefke. The term gives promise of being a short one so far as the number of cases is concerned.

WEDDING PLANS CHANGE DUE TO SISTER'S ILLNESS.

Owing to the fact that Miss Anna G. Fisk, the youngest daughter of former Mayor and Mrs. Charles Joel Fisk, is ill at her home with scarlet fever, the home in West Seventh street is quarantined. Consequently a change in the wedding plans of Charles W. Fisk and Mrs. Katharine G. Felton has been made. The ceremony will take place at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, Thursday afternoon.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelle, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will officiate, and only a few relatives and friends will be present.

Miss Fisk was taken ill on Saturday, but it was not determined until yesterday that she had scarlet fever.
The Board of Health was notified and Health Officer O'Brien went to the Fisk home, fumigated all those who desired to leave the premises and then quarantined the house.

MISS ROMONA HARPHAM NOW MRS. CHARLES DIEHL.

Miss Romona Harpham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Harpham, of 214 East Fifth street, and Charles Diehl, of this city, were married at 8 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Dr. C.
M. Anderson, pastor of the First M.
E. church, performed the ceremony.
Mrs. Frank Diehl was the matron-of-honor, and Frank Diehl, brother of the groom, was best man. A reception and supper followed. After a trip the couple will reside with the bride's parents. The groom is employed by J. G. Williams & Co., the West Front street grocers.
