DEMOCRATIC ORGAN
SUPPORTS MARTINE

Branding as false and malicious the statement of those who are toiling for James Smith, Jr., that there is a lack of interest in Sussex County over the selection of a successor to United States Senator Kean, Jacob L. Bunnell, editor of the Sussex Herald (Democrat), declares in his leading editorial this week that public opinion is behind Governor-elect Wilson on his attitude in the Senatorial controversy, and that James E. Martine is the choice of his party. Not only this, Mr. Bunnell says, but the proper method of electing United States Senators, "is discussed in this county at the fireside, at the creamery, at the store and at all places of public meeting while every reference to the Senatorial problem in the papers is read and commented upon with deepest concern."

Sussex county was recently flooded with unsigned circulars in the interest of James Smith, Jr., as has been done in other counties. This, it seems, according to The Herald, has aroused the voters to the extent of resenting the attack upon the vital issue to which Governor-elect Wilson adhered, and which is written upon the platform of the Democratic party.

The voters are as firm in their belief that their Senator and Assemblyman should vote for the choice of the majority of the party, the Herald says, as they are that their honest debts be paid, their homes protected and defended; their sons and daughters grow up to be honest and respected men and women. The fact that a comparatively small vote was cast for a Democratic choice for United States Senator, it is pointed out in the newspapers, is due to the apathy of the Democratic State and county leaders.

"By their conspicuous inactivity," the editorial sets forth, "they discouraged rather than encouraged an emphatic vote upon a matter so vital to the interests of the people, so important to clean and respectable politics; a reform for so many years pleaded for in the platform endorsed with so much sincerity by State, district and county conventions."

There is no question as to where the voters stand, Editor Bunnell avers, but the problem is to bring the expression of public opinion to bear on the Senator and Assemblyman. A petition is now in circulation in various parts of the county demanding the representatives to carry out the wishes of the voters in standing by Governor-elect Wilson and the party platform respecting the election of the United States Senator.

As to its own conviction, The Herald says:

"The New Jersey Herald would be untrue to its record of service to the Democratic party for a period of more than four score of years; untrue to the party whose principles it has for so many years battled with undeviating zeal; untrue to that great body of Democrats who are today striving so earnestly for an enforcement of a principle they have so long and earnestly sought, if it did not join in the well-established and righteous plea that Senator Jacob C. Price and Assemblyman Charles A. Meyer cast their votes at the coming election for United States Senator for James E. Martine, of Union county, the Democrat for whom 40,000 fellow Democrats cast their votes at the primary election last fall."

The present stand of The Herald differs from that which it took soon after the Essex Assemblymen-elect invited James Smith, Jr., to be a candidate. In an editorial then The Herald had this to say: "Of available candidates there seems to be no limit—all good Democrats, too. Former Senator James Smith, Jr., who has many warm political and personal friends in this county—if the tone of the press of the State can be depended upon—is well at the head of the race, where he should properly be if continuous service to the Democratic party is to be computed at its true value. The eleven Assemblymen of Essex county have declared in favor of Senator Smith. His candidacy could not have received a higher compliment, or his fitness for the honorable position better indorsement."

This Caruso a Boothblack. Like Campanini, who was a blacksmith; Wachtel, who was a cab driver; Isaac Routman, who was an East Side huckster, and Mme. Scatchi, who sold fish, a new singer has been discovered. He was "found" on a subway local train Friday night, and to those who were thrilled by his wonderful voice, he gave his name as Raphael Giovanni, twenty-two years old, of Passaic, N. J. As a boothblack, he is earning money to study for grand opera. Seemingly unconscious of the presence of others, the youth sang selections from Puccini's opera, "The Girl of the Golden West." He was applauded by the passengers, some of whom were on their way to the Metropolitan Opera House. Men and women crowded around the young man at Seventy-second street to congratulate him. Giovanni said he came to America in the steerage when he was seventeen years old. He speaks English fluently, although he said he had not been to school in this country.

GOLF.

Golf players of the United States may go right on playing with such golf clubs as they see fit. The United States Golf Association at its annual meeting in Chicago, Saturday, adopted a resolution which received the approval of a large share of the members, failing to uphold the ban of the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, against the centre shaft putter known as the Schenectady putter.

The resolution was drafted during the meeting of the association held that the form and make of a golf club should not be a matter of rules in this country and that no club except real mallets should be barred from American greens.

The question of approving or disagreeing with the St. Andrews ruling was the chief question considered by the association. A sentiment frequently expressed prior to the meeting was that numerous members, notably several Eastern clubs would withdraw from the association should the body vote to uphold the St. Andrews rule.

Despite this feeling, the meeting was conducted with harmony. Active support of the St. Andrews ruling was limited largely to John M. Ward, of the Garden City Golf Club, of New York, who urged that American golfers maintain the same standard of play as Scottish players. The determination of the Garden City Club to endorse St. Andrews ruling had been reached by a decided vote in the New York organization, and Mr. Ward urged that his club be upheld.

President Calkins, of the Plainfield Country Club, was the leader of the move to oppose concurrence in the Scottish ruling.

The award of the championship for 1911 proved of little less interest than the decision over the putter. The National Amateur championship, the tourney for which the greatest contest was waged, was awarded the Apawamis Golf Club, of Rye, N. Y., the Deal Golf Club and the Philadelphia club being the chief contestants.

The national open championship went to the Chicago Golf Club. The national women's championship went to the Baltusrol Golf Club, of New Jersey.

For the first time the highest office of the association went to a Western club, Silas H. Strawit, of the Midlothian Golf Club, of Chicago, being elected president. The following were elected officers of the association: President, Silas H. Strawit, Chicago; first vice president, William A. Alexander, Exmoor Club, Chicago; second vice president, Milton Dargan, Atlanta Athletic, Atlanta, Ga.; secretary, Robert C. Watson, Garden City Golf Club, New York; treasurer, William F. Morgan, Baltusrol Golf Club, of New Jersey.

The following is the resolution approving the Schenectady putter as it finally was adopted: The United States Golf Association will not sanction any substantial departure from the traditional and accepted form and make of golf clubs which, in its opinion, consists of plain shaft and a head which does not contain any mechanical contrivance, such as springs; it also regards as illegal the use of such clubs as those of the mallet-headed type, or such clubs as have the neck so bent as to produce a similar defect.

Rube Waddell, sent from the major leagues to the Eastern, back to the big show, into the American Association and then to the St. Louis Americans, Friday night fanned twenty-five men in nine innings at indoor baseball. ## WILSON ATTACKS SMITH.

SMITH ATTACKS WILSON

Governor-elect Wilson evaded the home of his political enemy Saturday night in his campaign against James Smith, Jr., as a Democratic candidate for United States Senator. The New Auditorium, Newark, in which the incoming governor delivered his second instalment of "pitiless publicity," following his recent address in Jersey City, was crowded. Most of his auditors were Democrats, but there were many Republicans and progressives in the assemblage. Senators Harry V. Osborne, of Newark, the sole representative of Smith's county in the State Senate, and an earnest advocate of the election of James E. Martine to the United States Senate, presided.

Dr. Wilson declared with reference to the statement that his course might tend to split the Democratic party in New Jersey, that there was no possibility of such a result. He said that in opposing Mr. Smith he was not opposing any organization except that which had been built up around Mr. Smith's own personality in Essex county, which was purely local and identified only with Mr. Smith's interests.

He still held to the view expressed in Jersey City, that the removal of Mr. Smith from the senatorial campaign like the removal of a wart, was not a dangerous or capital operation, and that the party was likely to suffer but little in the "open clinic" which Dr. Wilson is conducting.

James Smith, Jr., in Newark, last night issued a statement in the New Jersey United States Senatorial contest in reply to the speech of Dr. Wilson.

Mr. Smith scores Dr. Wilson roundly for not having accepted the challenge to name the man who told him Mr. Smith would not be a Senatorial candidate, and charges him with failure to answer many other pertinent questions asked by Mr. Smith. He also reiterates the charge that Dr. Wilson has been untruthful.

AT MR PITNEY'S FUNERAL

Simple, but impressive, were the funeral services of former Vice-Chancellor Henry C. Pitney at Morristown on Saturday afternoon. They were held from the First Presbyterian church in that place and were conducted by the pastor, Rev. William Russell Bennett, assisted by Rev. John Macnaughtan, D. D., of the Ogden Memorial church, of Chatham, and formerly pastor of the Morristown church.

The church was filled with friends of Mr. Pitney, including many men of note from about the State. During the services the stores of the town were closed and flags were at half staff in the park and on many public and private buildings. The pall-bearers were Chief Justice William S. Gummere, Judge James J. Bergen, former Judge Bennett Van Syckel, former Chancellor William J. Magie, Vice Chancellor John R. Emery, Vice Chancellor Frederick W. Stevens, Vice Chancellor Eugene Stevenson, Vice Chancellor James E. Howell, Amzi Dodd, formerly president of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, of Newark; A. Pennington Whitehead, of New York; Gilbert Collins, of Jersey City; Alfred Mills, of Morristown; John L. Cadwalader, of New York; Dr. Stephen Pierson, Philander B. Pierson, president of the Morris County Savings Bank; Robert D. Foote, vice president of the National Iron Bank, and John E. Taylor, president of the Library and Lyceum of Morristown. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

Lord's Day Alliance.
The third meeting of the Lord's Day Alliance, of New Jersey, will be held on Thursday, January 26, at W. C. T. U. hall, Trenton. There will be two sessions, one at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, the other at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Addresses will be made by several pastors of churches in the State.

FAVORS DIRECT VOTE FOR U. S. SENATORS

The joint resolution to amend the constitution to provide for the election of Senators by direct popular vote brought the State to the verge of upheaval in Washington Friday. Charges of undue haste to change the fundamental law of the land and counter charges of designs to smother the resolution were exchanged and a more spectacular conflict was averted only by the decision of Senator Borah, sponsor of the resolution, to postpone further debate until next week. Incidentally, however, the sentiment of the Senate was foreshadowed in the vote on the motion to adjourn, made by Senator Hale, the purpose of which was to head off the possible adoption of the amendment. He was supported in his attempt by only seventeen Senators, while forty-three voted against him. Meanwhile the senior Senator from New Jersey was audible as well as visible.

When the resolution was reached Senator Kean was ready with an objection which would have prevented immediate consideration.

"Then," said Mr. Borah, "I move to take up the resolution notwithstanding the objections of the Senator from New Jersey."

"Oh, don't do that," pleaded Mr. Gallinger, in charge of the postal subvention bill, "the effect of favorable action would be to displace the ship bill as the unfinished business and I know the Senator does not want to do that."

He appealed to Mr. Kean to withdraw his objection. The New Jersey Senator consented, and the Senate, which had been giving its attention to perfunctory legislation, suddenly found itself on the point of upsetting its traditions and voting to change the Constitution without debate.

WEATHER TO BE FAIR FORCAST FOR WEEK

Following is the forecast of the Washington weather bureau:

An area of high barometric pressure that now covers the Middle West will advance eastward and cause generally fair weather the first part of the week in the eastern districts and a change to moderately low temperature Monday and Tuesday over the northern and central states east of the Mississippi Valley. A disturbance of considerable intensity will appear on the north Pacific coast by Monday, and move eastward crossing the Middle West the middle of the week and the Atlantic States Thursday or Friday; this disturbance will be preceded by rising temperature attended by widespread precipitation and be followed by a general change to colder weather.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The executive committee of the Dunellen Board of Trade held a meeting Friday night at which several matters that are to be brought up at the board's regular meeting this week were discussed. One of these was a suggestion to change the name of North avenue to Front street, in order to make it conform with the Plainfield thoroughfare, of which it is a continuation. Mr. Swackhamer mentioned the fact that the present Front street, Dunellen might be changed to Wilson street, in honor of the governor-elect who is to assume office tomorrow and who is making a commendable fight in the Martine-Smith controversy for the rights of the people. The suggestion was received with enthusiasm and will be presented at the board's regular meeting for action against or otherwise.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church will hold a novel gathering, Thursday night. It will be known as a "college" social and those attending will have to undergo an examination in a four years "course" before being eligible to further privileges. The entertainment committee, of which Miss Laura Todd is chairman, has charge of the arrangements.

H. B. Eckert has withdrawn as a member of the Home Building Association which has been erecting a number of houses in the borough. Mr. Eckert will continue building operations individually.

The New Market fire department will hold its annual meeting tonight at which officers will be elected and reports presented.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The rain of the past few days has made the sidewalks on Park avenue miniature mud rivers. There is only one redress; the taxpayers should vote a bigger appropriation for sidewalks, the small amount appropriated each year only repairs the walks on a small number of the streets.

Mrs. Louis Morel, of Park avenue, who has been ill for several days, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, Saturday morning, and was operated upon for appendicitis the same day. The operation was a successful one and Mrs. Morel is doing nicely.

Interment of the body of Miss Emily Moore, sister of the late George Moore, of Fanwood, who died at her home near Alton, Friday, was made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery here, yesterday afternoon.

Miss Marion Goodwin led the weekly meeting of the Epworth League held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

The weekly B. Y. P. U. meeting was held last night in the Baptist church. Mrs. John Z. Hatfield was the leader of the meeting.

The stormy weather of the past week has put an end for a time to the excellent skating which has been enjoyed for two weeks.

John Ford, Jr., has resigned his position as a conductor on the main line trolley of the Public Service Corporation.

Identifying Train Victims.

The body of Joseph Sebranch, one of the two young men killed by a Central "flyer" at Westfield, Friday, was positively identified by a relative who called at Cole's undertaking rooms, Saturday night. He lived at 311 East Seventy-first street, New York, and the body was immediately shipped to that address. The other victim, Patrick Gorman, is believed to have lived at Summit and a sister is coming to Plainfield this afternoon to make the identification positive.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Meeker have taken possession of their new home on Belvidere avenue.

SEPTIC POISONING FROM OLD WOUND

William E. Briggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noble H. Briggs, of Albert street, is seriously ill at his home with septic poisoning, the result of helping to dissect a cat at the Plainfield High School, four years ago. Shortly after taking part in the operation Mr. Briggs experienced considerable trouble with a finger which had become infected in some way. He was obliged to go to the hospital for treatment and as a result he was obliged to loose the nail on the finger.

The trouble disappeared and nothing more was thought of the incident until the latter part of December, when Mr. Briggs was taken ill. His trouble was diagnosed at first as nervousness, but later it was discovered that it was due to poor circulation of the blood and septic poisoning, it being the belief that some of the poison must have remained in the system after the wound healed in the finger. The physician, however, hopes that he will be able to counteract the effects of the poison and effect a recovery within a reasonable time.

102 YEARS OLD AND DIDN'T KNOW IT

John M. Butler, of Ocean Grove, is celebrating his 102nd birthday today by receiving his friends and joking with them about the mistake he made in computing his own age. According to Mr. Butler himself the joke is on him. And it happened this way: Last year he announced to his friends that he would celebrate his arrival at the century mark today and that he would invite all his old cronies and later acquaintances to help him do it up in style.

There were some skeptics among his friends who doubted the age of the centenarian and they proceeded to look up the records. After a search through the home the old family Bible was found and there was the record of Mr. Butler's birth. Instead of being 100 years, Mr. Butler is 102 years old, but he does not know where the two years got away from him.

According to all accounts Mr. Butler is spry as a man of sixty and can read without glasses. He attributes his longevity to careful living and a strict adherence to the principles of temperance which his mother taught him in the old southern home. Mr. Butler's reminiscences of the Civil War and the troublous times preceding it are interesting and he is never so happy as when he is recounting slave times in his old Virginia home.

ARKANSAS SAFELY LAUNCHED AT CAMDEN, SATURDAY.

Splashed with the traditional bottle of champagne, the Battleship Arkansas, whose displacement of 26,000 tons makes her the largest warship ever constructed in this country, was launched early Saturday afternoon from the yards of the New York Shipbuilding Company at Camden. Miss Mary Macon, daughter of Representative Robert B. Macon, of Helena, Ark., was the sponsor for the ship.

Following the launching the officials of the company entertained the guests at luncheon, spread in one of the big buildings of the plant.

The principal dimensions of the latest and largest addition to the navy are:

Length over all, 562 feet; beam over armor, 93 feet 2 1/2 inches; draft, 28 feet 6 inches; displacement, 26,000 tons. The contract for the ship calls for a speed of twenty and one-half knots an hour.

When complete the Arkansas will have the greatest gun power in broadside fire of any ship afloat. The main armament will consist of twelve twelve-inch breech-loading guns mounted in six heavy armor-protected turrets. For defense against torpedo boat attacks there will be a battery of twenty-one five-inch rapid fire guns. There will also be two submerged torpedo tubes and ten small guns. The total weight of broadside fire will be about 11,000 pounds. The armor belts will have an average thickness of ten inches. The Arkansas will be turbine-driven and will have 28,777 horsepower. The vessel will be fitted for a flagship, and her complement will consist of eighty-five officers and 1,030 men.

The keel of the Arkansas was laid last January, and at present the ship is about sixty per cent. completed.

Knew What was Popular.

When Bishop Phillips Brooks sailed from America on his last trip to Europe a friend jokingly remarked that while abroad he might find some new religion to bring home with him.

"But be careful, Bishop," remarked a listening friend; "it may be difficult to get a new religion through the custom house."

"I guess not," laughingly replied the Bishop, "any new religion popular enough to import will have no duties attached to it."—The House-keeper.

Plainfield in . . . The Olden Days.

Re-printed from
The Weekly Constitutionalist

August 7, 1873.

Our old and esteemed friend, "Uncle Billy Lane," on Tuesday last laid upon our table a cucumber grown on his farm, which had a curious freaked nature connected with it, being a perfect leaf growing from the end of the cucumber.

We received a visit this morning from Mr. Robert Little, an old gentleman residing at North Branch, who has not visited Plainfield before in 40 years. He was most agreeably astonished to note the many changes that have taken place here since he used to drive through the village of Plainfield, on his way to "York."

Accident—On Friday afternoon, last, while workmen were engaged in tearing down J. S. Cutter's building on Front street, a portion of the roof fell and seriously injured a workman named Isaac Colter. He received a severe cut on his head. He was taken into Voorhees' Drug Store and the wound dressed by Dr. Voorhees.

August 14, 1873.
Our thanks are tendered our old friend Sam. D. Frazee and his daughters, Sarah and Julia, also Mr. J. D. Brown, for the excellent serenade given us by them on Wednesday evening last and we trust we may often be the recipient of like favors.

False Alarm—This (Wednesday) morning, smoke was discovered issuing from the basement of the store occupied by Shotwell & Staats, (Pruden's Block) on Front street. Chief Voorhees, with other members of the department, being called upon, investigated the cause and after cutting holes in the ceiling became convinced that the smoke originated from a fire being built in a store in another part of the building, the dampness of the atmosphere causing the smoke to fill the lower part of the building.

Hot Blood

On a sunny April morning some fifty years ago a young man, Edward Page, and a girl, Della Venard, were walking along the bank of a stream in Louisiana. Page was a recent graduate of a northern university and had gone to Louisiana as a teacher. Previous to his coming Miss Venard had accepted attention from Pierre Legate, a creole and the son of a planter. Page had no sooner appeared than the young lady began to divide her favors between the two men. Legate, a hot blooded son of the south, was furious and took no pains to conceal his enmity toward Page. Page, who considered it the lady's part to decide to whom she would grant her favors, paid no attention to his rival's wrath. He did not know the danger of interfering with a man whose inherited excitable French blood had been heated by the hot sun of Louisiana.

As I was saying, Page and Miss Venard were walking on the bank of the stream. They were protected from the sun by the moss which in that country hangs in festoons upon the boughs of the trees. About them was that fan shaped vegetation peculiar to the climate, while here and there scampered a tiny green lizard. Suddenly from among the trees on the other side of the stream the girl saw Legate step forth, and in an instant he had drawn a pistol and pointed it at Page, who did not see him. Miss Venard sprang before the northerner just as a puff of smoke appeared at the muzzle of Legate's weapon, followed by a crack. She sank down, blood trickling from a wound in her side.

Legate, seeing what he had done and being unable to cross the stream, wrung his hands, then started to a bridge some distance above. When he arrived at the spot where the girl had fallen Page and Miss Venard were gone. Page had carried her to her home.

Miss Venard's wound was not serious. The first thing she did after her arrival at home was to exact a promise from Page that he would not reveal the cause of the trouble and that he would not seek revenge from Legate.

After her recovery Miss Venard continued to accept Page's attentions as before. Whether she met Legate or not no one knew. Legate expected that Page would challenge him, but since he did not the creole resolved to force him to fight. One morning the two happened to meet in the central square of the little town where they lived, and Legate in presence of others approached Page, called him a northern mudsill and threw a glove in his face. This new offense virtually relieved Page from his promise. Besides, he had now either to challenge Legate or leave the country, for at that time public opinion would not admit of any other course. He sent Legate a challenge.

They met in an open space by the stream on whose bank the outrage had occurred. Their seconds tossed for first shot. Legate just before the meeting had come to his senses so far as to see that if he killed Page his previous attempt to murder him might come out. He decided to simply get the better of him, though he found it difficult to forego a shooting to kill. He was a splendid shot and if he won the toss could win or kill his enemy, as he liked. Fortune favored Legate. He won first shot and struck Page in his right hand, the hand in which he held his pistol, knocking the weapon from his grasp.

This ended the matter, at least temporarily, for Page could not or did not attempt to shoot with his left hand. But if the southern blood is quick to anger the northern blood is sure. Some months after Page's wound had healed he sent his enemy word that he wanted the affair between them finished. They met again, this time, at Page's suggestion, on the very spot where Legate had tried to murder him.

Again they tossed for first shot, again Legate won, and again he struck his opponent in the right hand, rendering it useless. Legate looked relieved, and the seconds considered the affair ended. But Page took up his pistol with his left hand and covered his enemy.

"Mr. Legate," he said, "since our last meeting I have learned to shoot with my left hand, but I am not going to kill you. I have given away your life, not to you, but to a lady you have injured. She is now my promised wife, and I warn you that she and I in future will plan together to defend ourselves from your hostility. Do you see that knot on that tree?" He raised his pistol and put a bullet in the center of it. "I have shown you that your life is mine to give, but I require something in return. Leave this state and never return. If you are here tomorrow morning proceedings will be commenced against you to answer to a charge of attempted murder—do you know what and with what result?"

The villain as he used to be pictured in song and story has passed out. Legate had been mastered by his passions. His love for Miss Venard interfered with by another had impelled him to attempt murder and to unintentionally injure the girl he loved; but, if his southern hot blood impelled him to demean himself, in the end it prompted him to do penance. When his successful rival ceased to speak Legate's head dropped upon his breast, which heaved convulsively. Finally he mastered himself sufficiently to say: "I ask you only to crave my pardon for me. Neither she nor you shall ever see me again. I am convinced that self control is what all men should strive for, and I am going to the cool northern land where it is to be found."

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The Salem Board of Education has appointed Chief of Police Waddington a transient officer, subject to confirmation by Council.

Mrs. Mary Brennan, twenty-three years old, entered Kelly's saloon, at Brunswick and Montgomery streets, Jersey City, Thursday night, spoke to her husband, the bartender, and then drank carbolic acid. She died in the City Hospital.

With his jaws tightly locked, Louis Murray, a well-known Millville contractor, was hurried to the Vineland Hospital in the hopes of saving his life Friday. Mr. Murray has been suffering from a severe cold, but is unable to tell what has caused tetanus to develop.

In Passaic Police Court, Friday, Charles Penta, of River road, Garfield, defended himself in a desertion case, instituted by his wife, by declaring that his wife had driven him from the house by throwing water on him. He was put under $200 bail for court.

County Judge Hughes has ruled that Sheriff Johnson, County Clerk Wirby and Surrogate Shaver, of Atlantic City, are entitled to $4,500 per annum instead of $3,000 from January 1, as a result of an increase of the population of the county from 40,000 to more than 60,000.

The Englewood Field Club at its annual meeting in its newly constructed clubhouse elected these officers: President, Peter S. Duryea; vice president, Gerald M. Curran; secretary, James C. Chapin; governors, Franklin Bien, Jr., Dopley Humphrey, Gerald Curran and Peter Duryea. The old clubhouse was destroyed by fire a year ago. The club has a membership of three hundred.

Eloping from Camden several weeks ago with Kissar Hadad, a boarder, Mrs. John Fears was located at Newport News, Va., and when the couple were taken to the Camden Courthouse Friday to answer a charge preferred by the woman's husband the latter withdrew the complaint, declaring that he would forgive his wife if the boarder promised to remain away from her. The boarder not only promised, but immediately left for Virginia, where he had secured a position.

With a seven-inch silver plate in his leg, which was broken when the ferryboat Camden, on which he was a passenger, collided with the Wenonah during a fog on March 1 last, Michael O'Connor was on the witness stand in the Camden Circuit Court, Friday afternoon in his $25,000 suit against the Philadelphia and Camden Ferry Company. O'Connor, who lives at Gloucester, claims that he is permanently injured.

Federal revenue officers have been notified of the raid made on the idle plant of the Atlantic City Distilling Company and the disappearance of a big copper distilling tank. The care with which the still was disconnected leads the police to the belief that the thieves may be preparing to set up a "moonshine" plant in the lonely pine woods, and the federal officers will start a close hunt in the effort to prevent the setting up of the plant.

That the Fish and Game Commission is in earnest in trying to break up purse-net fishing in the three-mile limit in this State is being brought home to fishermen. As a result of the cruises from Barnegat City along the coast of the new patrol boat New Jersey, with Game Warden Alex Brinley, of Cedar Creek; Anson J. Rider, of Bass River, a number of fishermen have pleaded guilty to purse-net fishing and have been fined $200 each. The latest offender is Willis Sculthorpe, who lives at Toms River, but fishes from this place. He was fined by H. B. Spackman, a justice of the peace, at Tuckerton.

FIX DATE FOR HEARING ON COMMUTATION RATES.

The Board of Public Utility Commissioners received a communication Saturday from Secretary Edward A. Moseley, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, announcing that on Wednesday morning, February 15, at 11 o'clock, the commission would hear argument upon the appeals involving the commutation rates between New York and other points. At the same time the commission will take up for consideration the increased railroad rates in New Jersey.

The hearing will be given at the rooms of the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington.

Wedded Two Years Ago. Residents of Roselle and Roselle Park have just learned of the marriage of Dr. Harold N. Waite, of Roselle Park, to Miss Mary A. Wells, of Pottsville, Pa. The ceremony took place two years ago, and the girl's father, John P. Wells, of Pottsville, has made the announcement. Waite is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Edward Rushmore, of this city, is registered at The Chalfonte, Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, of New York, have returned after spending several days here with relatives.

John B. Cottrell, of West Sixth street, is planning to spend a week or so at Tolland, Mass., and enjoy some of the excellent sleighing in that part of the country.

Our plans gave it a place in trade history as the MOST SENSATIONAL VALUE-GIVING EVENT this community has known in ten years, and it is our purpose to make the second week GREATER than the first.

The Central Fact of this Occasion:

Our Last Winter Season In This Store

The fact that we have done such an enormous business during the past week shows two things:

That the sale is a great Bona Fide Bargain event of tremendous importance to the discriminating shoppers;

That the increasing crowds of shoppers are finding greater Bargains than they expected to see.

Unprecedented Bargains in all the lines. What we can say is this, and we wish to emphasize it---
