

PUBLIC RECEPTION
FOR SENATOR-ELECTCitizens to Hold a Demonstration in Honor of James E. Martine.

W. L. SAUNDERS CHAIRMAN.

Respectful of Party Prominent Men

Consent to Serve on a Committee for the Celebration.

To show the esteem in which he is held by his fellow townsmen,

United States Senator-elect James E. Martine.

Irrespective of party, plans are being made on the initiative of this paper for a public demonstration for United States Senator-elect James E. Martine. What form the affair will take, of course, cannot be said at this time, but in all probability there will be a public reception in some large hall.

It is distinctly understood that there is no politics in the proposed demonstration, the sole idea being to pay tribute of respect to the Senator-elect. The community is proud of the fact that for the first time in history the exalted office of Senator from New Jersey comes to a Plainfielder. And the people generally are proud of the fact that James E. Martine has at last been signally rewarded for his years of steadfast loyalty to the political principles he represents. He lived here far more than two decades and as a citizen he is held in the highest esteem. These are the reasons that prompt those who have consented to serve on a committee to arrange an appropriate celebration.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, a warm personal friend and admirer of Mr. Martine, has consented to serve as chairman. The mayor of the city, George W. V. Moy, likewise has stated that he will be a member. So has Assemblyman Calvin E. Brodhead, Republican County Chairman Frank E. Smith, A. H. Atterbury, David J. Carney, Harry W. Marshall and Councilman President, R. I. Tolles and Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss. Others will be added to the committee.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF ERNEST BURDICK HELD.

The funeral service of Ernest Burdick, the infant son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles M. Burdick, of Central Islip, L. I., was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Smith, on Madison avenue, there being a number of relatives and friends present. The little fellow rested in a beautiful full length casket, which was almost completely covered with floral tributes. Rev. Edward Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, conducted the services and after reading a number of selections from the Bible, spoke in an impressive manner, offering words of consolation to the bereaved parents. He made a touching reference to the death of King David's child; also calling to mind texts of Scripture pertaining to children of the Bible times.

During the service, Mrs. John B. Cottrell, an intimate friend of the family sang one selection impressively. The remains were placed in the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery and will be interred later.

Sesame Club to Meet.
The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning at the residence of Mrs. Lewis Ross, 403 East Seventh street.

SILVER JUBILEE IN MAY EXPOUNDED X - SCIENCE JUMPED TO HIS DEATH

Exempt Firemen's Association Plan Monster Celebration in Newark.

ORGANIZED IN MAY, 1886.

Parade of 150 Companies of Paid Department and 60 Locals.—

Silver Souvenirs for All Delegates.

What, it is believed, will be the largest and most imposing firemen's parade ever held in the State will mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the State Exempt Firemen's Association on May 24 next in Newark. There will be at least 150 companies representing the paid departments and every exempt organization in the State will be on hand to make the occasion a memorable one.

Preparations have been going on ever since last September, to perfect the arrangements for the monster celebration, which will cover two days, and nothing that can be devised for the comfort of delegates to the convention will be left undone.

The object of the coming convention is to adopt amendments to the exempt firemen's constitution and by laws which have been prepared by Horace Adams, of this city, and approved by the executive committee, and to consider legislation in connection with the protection of the exemptions in the matter of relief which the State now provides for the firemen's relief association. The matter of this legislation is in the hands of James J. Manning, of Elizabeth, president of the exempt; Elias Leffle, of Trenton; Charles E. McGrath, of Newark; and J. B. Stevens, of Morristown. Others who have the interests of the exempt at heart and who are working with the end in view of establishing an entente cordiale between them and the relief association are Edgar T. Humphrey, chief of the Nutley fire department, and secretary of the State association, and Patrick Walsh, chairman of the executive committee.

In the parade in May there will be volunteers from all over the State representing the sixty-three locals. There is one congressional district which has not yet had its member appointed on the executive committee, Camden, Gloucester and Salem counties, but this vacancy will probably be filled at the convention.

The question of expenses of delegates which up to last September the relief association refused to pay the exempt has always been a bone of contention and a suit is now pending in the District court to be tried in February in which one of the exempt seeks to recover expenses for visiting conventions previous to September, 1910. A previous trial of this suit resulted in a verdict for the defendants.

A committee comprising all the members of the executive committee has been delegated to design and secure a suitable souvenir for the silver jubilee in May. The souvenirs will be distributed among the delegates at the convention. The executive committee consists of the following: George Kinkle, Bridgeport; John A. Danner, Perth Amboy; Horace G. Adams, Plainfield; P. W. Walsh, Phillipsburg; Frank Hoffman, Rutherford; Aaron Blum, Nutley; E. Doremus, East Orange; James McDonald, Harrison; and J. H. Fitzpatrick, Hoboken. The organization was formed May 22, 1886.

Entertainments Social Twelve.

The Social Twelve spent a pleasant time last evening at the home of Howard Debele. During the evening there were piano selections by William Allen. Games were played and George Poling won first prize and Joseph Kirch, second. Refreshments were served. Those present were Howard Debele, Millard Bellis, Lester Renfing, Joseph Kirch, Leo Poling, Eddie Allen, Clifford Cole, William Allen and Herbert Renfing.

Salvation Army Item.

A novel and interesting meeting has been planned by Adjutant Jackson, of the Salvation Army, and will be given at the Army hall tomorrow evening. It will consist of a description to the audience of the five armless and legless prophets. Their experiences, dispositions and character will be vividly described and will be beneficial to all. This is the first time this service has been given at the local corps.

Subscription Dances.

February 3 and April 21, Hartbridge auditorium. Kindly send replies to invitations to Miss Marian H. Hall, 630 Belvidere avenue. Owing to the absence from the city and subsequent illness of Miss Hooley, Miss Hall has had charge of all cards for the dances since January 14.

William D. McCrackan Delivers a Lecture on the Creed.

AT HARTHIDGE AUDITORIUM.

Miss Susan Corey Introduces the Speaker Whose Address is Heard by a Large Audience.

William D. McCrackan, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, Mass., delivered a lecture on Christian Science last night at the Hartbridge auditorium. He was introduced by Miss Susan Corey, first reader of the local church. Miss Corey said in part:

"In inviting you to a lecture on Christian Science, we are inviting you to share our best possession, namely: Our point of view of Christianity as an exact science, progressively unfolded to us as we understand spiritual law.

"We hope that you believe with us that spiritual law did not disappear with Christ and his disciples, but belongs to the eternal order of things. That it exists now, as it did when Jesus fed the multitudes or when Peter and John healed the lame man at the gate of the temple. We know that the principle is unchanging; it must be, then, the human consciousness which changes, and when it rises high enough, perceives the healing truth.

"In speaking of the unchanging order of whatever is based on principle, I am reminded of a little girl I knew who was beginning the study of arithmetic: 'Well, Mary,' said her aunt, 'how much do two and two make?' 'Two and two make five,' said Mary promptly. 'Why, no,' said her aunt, 'two and two don't make five, Mary, two and two make four.' 'Maybe they did, when you were a little girl, aunt,' said Mary, 'but times have changed.'

"There are some of us who believe that in the mathematics of Christianity two and two still make four, and therefore we believe that whenever spiritual understanding is applied to human need the product is now as in Christ's time, a healed and comforted human being.

"I know of none better fitted through demonstration and experience to point out to us the way of scientific progress along these lines than the speaker we have with us this evening and I feel it a great privilege as well as a great pleasure to be able to present to you William D. McCrackan, member of the Board of Lectureship of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, Mass.

Mr. McCrackan said in part: "It is not a new Bible which Christian Science contemplates, but one and the same Bible, explained in a spiritually progressive manner. It is not a new God which it proclaims, but the only true God, our Father, which is in heaven. It makes no attempt at an improved Christ, for there is but one Christ, who is in the bosom of the Father, perfect, eternal and indestructible. Christian Science is progressive, and marks an advance in religion because it throws the strong light of Science upon the nature and attributes of Deity, upon the teachings and works of the Christ, and because it picks out from the Bible's make-up the essential imperishable import of its spiritual message.

"Christian Science calls upon mankind for a frank and fearless revision of its own beliefs about the unchanging God, His man and His universe. This age, which is not afraid to fly in the face of the sun on filmy wings, is asked to display the necessary courage to pass in review the things which pertain to its own salvation from false gods. Why should not right and just views concerning God and His universe be capable of more precise statement? Why should it be thought a thing unreasonable with any one that God can become better understood by the average man than has been the case in the past? Why should not the understanding of how to grow in grace, how to deepen and broaden one's spiritual concepts, progress according to law. And why should not this knowledge concerning the fountain-head of all knowledge, the Giver of all good gifts, the absolute eternal Principle of all life, in whom we live, and move, and have our being—why should not this knowledge constitute demonstrable Science?

"Christian Scientists believe that it does; that Jesus pointed out the only true, final and real knowledge when he said, 'And this is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent.

"Christian Science teaches that mortal man is a false version of the true man, a counterfeit attempting to resemble the true, but, nevertheless, it does; that Jesus pointed out the only true, final and real knowledge when he said, 'And this is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent.

"The Democratic club has planned to hold a parade tonight at 8 o'clock, in honor of James E. Martine's election to the United States Senate. A drum corps has been engaged. All citizens are invited to participate.

Elliott W. Heaton Ended His Own Life While Despondent.

TRAGEDY IN NEW YORK.

He Sprang From Manhattan Bridge—Leaves a Wife and One Little Daughter—Lived on West Fifth Street.

Papers found in his pocket showing that he had made over his salary for the next four weeks to a loan company appeared to the police to indicate the motive yesterday for the suicide of Edward W. Heaton, of 214 West Fifth street, this city, who threw himself into the East River from the Manhattan Bridge, New York, before the eyes of hundreds of persons hurrying home from work late in the afternoon.

The young man was employed as a collector by the Blythbourne Water Company, of Brooklyn. He was well dressed and had well kept hands. There was no money in his pockets.

The man leaped to his death at half-past five o'clock, while the bridge was crowded with foot passengers. Their screams as he dived from among them could be heard at the Manhattan entrance to the bridge. The cries attracted the attention of Captain J. P. Grace, of the United States patrol Vigilant, and he recovered the body.

Crew Watches Plunge.

The Vigilant was proceeding up the river near the Manhattan shore when her crew were thrilled by shouts on the bridge over their heads. They looked up and in the falling light saw a man leap from the lower ironwork of the span a short distance from the Manhattan pier. As Captain Grace telephoned his engine room for a full stop the falling man struck the water a few yards from the patrol boat and sank. As he reappeared, William Strong, mate of the Vigilant, lunged with a boathook, which caught in the man's overcoat, but only tore away the collar. The body was recovered only after it had come up a second time.

Efforts were made to restore the man to consciousness while the Vigilant was sent full speed for Pier No. 52, at the foot of Gouverneur street. By the time the Vigilant had covered the distance to the pier a policeman who had seen the man jump had summoned an ambulance from Gouverneur Hospital. The surgeon in charge saw at once that the man was dead. The body was taken to Pier A in a police launch.

Papers found on the body indicated that it was that of E. W. Heaton. The man had been between twenty-five and thirty years old, five feet and a half tall and was well dressed. He wore a gray suit and overcoat and good linen and shoes. His hands and teeth were immaculate.

There was no money in the man's pocket, but there were a number of memoranda showing that E. W. Heaton had had dealings with a loan company in William street. The last loan had apparently been made on January 9. There was also a card directed to Hoyt Browne Evans, which read: "Have started for the South. Sorry I cannot see you before leaving. Will telephone on arrival."

Other papers were blank billheads informing persons in Brooklyn that they owed money for water rent to the Blythbourne Water Company and a commutation ticket issued by the New Jersey Central Railroad to E. W. Heaton, of Plainfield. The man's clothing was initialed E. W. H. in various places.

Persons who saw the man leap from the bridge told the police that there could be no doubt that his death was intentional. They said he was first noticed standing peering down into the river and that he then suddenly climbed over the rail guarding the foot walk, crawled down among the ironwork and threw himself off.

Mr. Heaton was thirty-nine years old. His wife left with their only child, a little daughter, for New York, when she heard the sad news. Until a year ago, Heaton was employed by the Public Service Corporation at its electric light plant here.

Dr. Harrison Transferred.
Rev. John Y. Brook, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, has received a letter from the church missionary, Dr. Paul W. Harrison, who is now in Arabia, in which he states that the mission board has transferred him from Bushra to Muskat, where, it is believed, that there is a greater need for his services. Dr. Harrison says that he is enjoying the best of health and that he is progressing well with his work.

BOUND BROOK PROTESTS

Delegation of Citizens Remonstrates Against Proposed Sewage Plant.

TO STATE HEALTH BOARD.

Bill Introduced in Legislature by Senator Frelinghuysen to Block North Plainfield.

A delegation of about fifty citizens of Bound Brook appeared before the State Board of Health, yesterday, to protest against the proposed action of North Plainfield borough to locate sewage disposal beds in the western end of North Plainfield township on land more or less adjacent to Bound Brook. Leon DuFour, as president of the Council, acted as spokesman for the Bound Brook delegation, entering a strong protest against the borough's proposed plans.

William J. Butfield, together with a representative from the office of Lindabery, Deane & Faulkner, one from the office of Hering & Fuller, engineers, were present to represent the borough's interests. The State Board of Health reserved its decision. According to the State law only persons residing within the municipality where such action is intended have the right to protest, which was pointed out as unfair especially in this case.

A bill was presented by State Senator Frelinghuysen, yesterday, making it necessary for municipalities to get the approval of the State Board of Health to the location and method of operating plants for the treatment and disposal of sewage.

WARREN TOWNSHIP BOARD OF HEALTH REORGANIZES.

The Warren township committee, which with the township assessor comprise the Board of Health, met at Mount Bethel, last night, and reorganized the latter body. John C. Cooper was made chairman and the other members are Alfred Binz, William Mernaugh and George Bowers. Mr. Mernaugh takes the place of Adam Sacks, resigned.

The township committee afterward met and decided to hold a public meeting the first week in February to discuss the application of the New York Telephone to erect poles and string wires on any road in the corporation limits without compensation. At the present time the company has a franchise to use certain roads. All the citizens in the township are invited.

New Real Estate Firm.

J. C. Field, Jr., of Park avenue, and Harry Kenyon, of this city, have formed a partnership under the firm name of Field & Kenyon, for doing a general real estate business. The firm will have its office at the present place of business of Mr. Field, on Park avenue.

Miss Lillian A. Force, of Duer street, is ill at home with an attack of the grip.

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF JAS. E. MARTINE

James Edgar Martine was born in New York city. He is 61 years of age. His father, Daniel Martine was a prosperous New York merchant. The family removed to this city when James was sixteen years old. The father purchased Cedar brook farm, which has since been the Martine homestead.

When but eighteen years of age, Mr. Martine attended the State convention which nominated Governor Randolph. He made a speech there that attracted the Governor's attention. From that day day until the present time he has been preaching Democracy in season and out of season. He has led many forlorn a hope as a candidate. Never seeking the office he has considered it his duty to be the standard bearer when no available candidate was in sight.

Spending his own money and never accepting any pecuniary or other payment for his services than the mere knowledge that he was doing what he should to promote his party's principles, Mr. Martine has spent his life in the political cause which he has often said is a religion to him.

There is hardly any office in the gift of the people, except the Presidency and Vice-Presidency of the United States that Mr. Martine has not been a candidate for. Several times he has run for the Assembly, twice for State senator, once for mayor of Plainfield. Three years ago he was the unanimous choice of his party for United States Senator and was beaten by Senator Briggs by but six votes.

Mr. Martine has always run away ahead of his ticket and although always running in a Republican district he has made a close fight for the office for which he was running. When pitted against Charles N. Fowler for Congress six years ago he came within 500 votes of being elected although the district is normally a Republican by 6,000. In the present campaign he was the primary choice for United States Senator. He was supported for election by the majority of Democratic legislators, the governor and almost without exception the public press.

Rewarded With Roses.

Thirty-five young women of the Y. W. C. A. enjoyed themselves last evening guessing the titles of books from costumes worn by their fellow members in the association. Prizes of pink roses were awarded to Miss Marjory Burtis, Miss Ella Ramsey and Miss Conover for guessing in the order named the largest number of volumes represented by the costumes. The affair was in charge of Miss Mead. Games were played and refreshments served after the guessing contest.

Will Take Pledge.

Lawrence Wallace, of the West End, got drunk again yesterday, his excuse being that he had an attack of the grip and that the only remedy he knew of was whiskey. He filled up on that and lost himself until found by Patrolman McGinley. He was allowed to go after promising to take the pledge.

Plainfielder Chosen by the Legislature in Joint Session

on First Ballot—Gets 48

Votes, 7 More Than

Necessary.

James E. Martine, of this city, was elected United States Senator at noon today by the Legislature in joint session in the State Senate chamber at Trenton. He will succeed John Kean. Mr. Martine received 48 votes, 9 in the Senate and 39 in the House.

Forty-one votes were necessary for election, there being 80 members in the Legislature, all of whom were present.

Former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., of Newark, who withdrew from the fight last night after issuing a statement, got three votes. Three Essex Assemblymen, at the behest of Smith's political manager, Democratic State Chairman Nugent, voted for the Newark publisher.

Former Governor Edward C. Stokes, of Mercer, the primary choice of the Republicans, received 21 votes. Former Governor John W. Griggs, of Passaic, got 5 votes. One vote each was cast for United States Senator John Kean, of Union county; former Governor J. Franklin Fort, of Essex county, and Justice Mahlon Pitney, of Morris county.

Martine—Assemblymen Agnew, Aylea, Ballentine, Boettner, Booram, Brodhead, Burke, Bunn, Cole, Christie, Davidson, Donnelly, Egan, Ford, Geran, Griffin, Hendrickson, James, McGrath, Matthews, Ramsay, Kenney, Lafferty, LaMonte, McLoughlin, Myers, Mylod, Newman, Simpson, Strietwolf, Taylor, Walsh, Hinners, Backus, Brown, Bracken, Leveen, Macksey, Martin—39.

Martine—Senate—Cornish, Fielder, Fitzherbert, Gebhardt, Johnson, Lowe, Osborne, Crite, Silzer—9. Total—48.

Smith—Assemblymen Chalvoy, Phillips and McGowan—3.

Stokes—Assembly—Adams, Bacharach, Jackson, Layden, Mather, McCann, Pickart, Pine, Radcliffe, Richmond, Thompson, White—12. Senate—Ackerman, Brown, Frelinghuysen, Gaunt, Edge, Leavitt, Lewis, Plummer, Prince—9.

Griggs—Assembly—Whyte, Whitcar, Turner, Coles, DeUnger.

Fort—Assemblyman Nicholls.

Pitney—Assemblyman Bradley.

Kean—Assemblyman Hand.

As president of the State Senate, Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, acted as presiding officers at the joint session. After the journals of the Senate and House were read and compared, Assemblyman Calvin E. Brodhead, of this city, gave way to Essex county to nominate Mr. Martine. Assemblyman Egan, of Essex, performed that duty; Assemblyman Macksey, of Essex, seconded the nomination.

In turn, Smith was nominated by an Essex county man, and the nominations of Stokes, Kean, Fort and Pitney followed. There was intense excitement as the balloting proceeded. Despite the efforts of the chairman, there was deafening applause when Martine was declared elected. Immediately after the announcement in the Senate of the result of the vote Senator Ernest R. Ackerman as chairman of the joint Assembly made this declaration:

"In accordance with an act of Congress approved on July 25, 1866, James E. Martine having received a majority of votes in the State Assembly, I therefore declare the said James E. Martine duly elected to the United States Senate for the full term of six years from March 4, 1911."

INTERVIEW INSERT

Mr. Martine issued this statement today: "I am deeply conscious of the great honor I have received through my election as United States Senator. I thoroughly appreciate the responsibility that the obligation incurs. I shall represent the whole people. This contest has been for a principle, one vital to future self-government. The victory is not that of an individual, but of the people. The significance of the result obtained in the Legislature today under the impulse of an honest application of a system of direct primary voting is that the people will welcome, in fact, demand, the privilege, the right of choosing members of the United States Senate by popular vote.

"I need scarcely add that I shall enter upon my duties in Congress determined to do my utmost to bring about constitutional reforms for the direct election of Senators.

"I fully appreciate the important

BASEBALL

Susquehanna League members, in session yesterday at Wilkes-Barre, re-elected William McCollum, of that city, president, secretary and treasurer and decided against national protection, although favoring a modified form that would leave the players free agents at the close of the season, but would enable the league to prevent organized ball from making inroads on their teams, if such can be secured. It was also decided that the playing season should consist of forty-two games, same as last year, but that the season should begin a week earlier, May 13, and close a week later, September 16, with only one game a week played during the first two weeks.

The executive committee of the Boston Nationals met in the Hub City yesterday afternoon and issued an "official denial" of any deal whereby Shean was to be transferred to the New York Giants in exchange for Shafer. As the executive committee consists of President Russell and Vice-President Page, it is very evident that the latter gentleman has succeeded in having his veto of the proposition go through. As far as the club is concerned, this ends the matter. Fred Tenney, the manager, has virtually received notice that he is the fifth wheel, and that what he says decidedly does not go. Whether McGraw will try to press his claim to Shean is another matter.

Eugene Elliott sent his signed contract to Secretary Davis, of the Yankees, yesterday. Elliott is a third baseman and comes from the McKeesport club of the Ohio and Pennsylvania League. He has been making the baseball fans in his vicinity sit up and take notice for several years now. Elliott's work attracted the attention of Scout Arthur Irwin. Having seen the youngster in action, Irwin believes him to be a coming third baseman. The Highlanders' scout thinks the McKeesport lad is a better man on the third sack than Austin.

George W. Heckert, manager of the Trenton Tri-State Club, left his home in York for Wilmington, where he says, the deal will be closed for the sale of the Williamsport franchise. Wilmington is certain of being a member of the league, despite rumors to the contrary, says Heckert. The difficulty over the selection of a ground will be adjusted this week, is the Trenton manager's prediction. Heckert has ignored the charges made by Manager Weigand, and when asked to make reply, said that one was not necessary.

Manager "Al" Selbach was yesterday afternoon re-elected to take charge of the Harrisburg Tri-State team for next season and will report within the next ten days for instructions. This year he will be a bench manager only, and in the event of the Harrisburg franchise going to a stock company he will be a free agent and the new company will have the selection of its own manager.

Joe Ralby, the former fast little shortstop of the Albany New York State League team, has signed to manage the Zanesville team of the Central League next season. Ralby's home is in Adams, Mass. He was a member of the Jersey City Club for a few weeks about three years ago. He managed the Grand Rapids team the last two seasons.

Manager Connie Mack, of the world's champions, and his bride are passengers on the Mauretania, which left Liverpool, England, last Saturday. The liner is due in New York on Thursday. The Athletics' leader and his wife have been abroad since October 20.

GOLF

The annual meeting of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association will be held at the home of Mrs. M. D. Paterson, No. 51 West Eighty-seventh street, at eleven o'clock on the morning of January 31. The Nominating Committee has placed the following ticket in the field: President, Mrs. M. D. Paterson, Baltusrol G. C.; vice-president, Mrs. Howard Whitney, Nassau C. C.; secretary, Mrs. E. F. Sanford, Essex County C. C.; treasurer, Mrs. H. M. Stockton, Plainfield C. C.; fifth member, Mrs. F. E. Donohue, Montclair G. C.

Report has it that the Country Club of Atlantic City will have a new professional next season in place of William Robinson, who has had charge there eight years. J. J. McDermott, the Merchantville home-bred, is also looking for another green.

A tract of 130 acres of land has been purchased by the Merion Cricket Club, on which the organization hopes to lay out one of the best courses in the East. Two women's national championship tournaments have been held over the old Merion links.

Plainfield, N. J., January 25, 1911.

A NEW CONTRACT.

It may be assumed that the Common Council is not favorably inclined to the scheme of obtaining a water supply from the Lamington or Raritan river. This is largely due to the necessarily large issue of bonds for estimated "first cost" and the unknown damage for water power rights and the like under recent court decisions and also because of knowledge of the fact that the water from such a source for drinking purposes would be most unsatisfactory. Thus the problem is narrowed to a question of organizing a municipal water plant by Plainfield to supply its own inhabitants or a water contract with the private corporations which now furnish the supply.

It is debatable whether Plainfield can issue bonds to cover the cost of laying pipes and supplying water beyond its corporate limits. According to the opinion of the late corporation counsel, Plainfield can condemn the pipes of the water company as now laid in the streets of our city, but it certainly cannot condemn the company's pipes in North Plainfield. Probably it could not condemn the pipes in the city limits through which Westfield and other towns are now supplied by the company for such a course would mean big losses and consequent damages since the existing contracts with various municipalities would be broken.

Unless North Plainfield, in some way, joins with Plainfield assuming a fair proportion of the cost of the plant, it does not appear that that municipal government or its inhabitants has, or should have, any voice in the matter. Regardless of this fact it is noticeable that much of the discussion, particularly at the private conferences of a few select citizens is being furnished by non-residents of the city.

There is another point to be made, among the many, and that is that the subterranean source and to what extent it may be relied upon for future needs cannot be determined. Assuming, however, that it has a limit the risk of exhaustion becomes more serious if two companies, the one public, and the other private, are drawing on it. Plainfield, it is believed, can make a fair and reasonable contract by which it can have a prior claim on this underground supply. On the other hand, the company itself will have no difficulty in securing other customers in place of this city should be contractual relations between it and the private company be ended.

The condemnation of the water company's plant in the Netherwood section is impracticable even if possible. The concern is in business to find water for its customers and it will go where it must to find the source of supply. Does it not seem reasonable and business-like to make a contract with the company rather than to launch forth into a costly venture, which would be an experiment to say the least?

Our thanks go to Mayor Moy for his courageous and summary action regarding the lunch wagon which has been allowed to use a public thoroughfare as a place to do business. As we pointed out a year ago the Common Council had no right whatever to issue a permit for such a purpose. Mr. Fisk, at that time took that view of the matter. Unfathomful of the law, however, the city fathers granted the license on the absurd excuse of "custom."

Plainfield congratulates Governor Wilson and the Legislature of New Jersey. The election of James E. Martine to the United States Senate is a fitting tribute to an honest man who has devoted his life to the political cause he represents. Fearless, able and aggressive, he will reflect credit on the State which has so signally honored him.

EXPOUNDED X-SCIENCE

less, easily detected because of his unlikeness to God, who is Spirit. God is not the author of mortal, material man, nor of mortal man's failures, limitations, and losses, of his final breakdown and his death sentence. God is not responsible for evil in any of its forms. He did not create it, since it could never lodge in His thought for an instant, else He were not wholly good and the Principle governing the universe were not wholly reliable.

"Evil has no origin in Spirit, no entity nor reality of God's making, and no eternity, but is always a false concept, assailing the mind of mortal man until such time as its lying nature is laid bare and its futile, transitory pretenses cease to frighten. Evil has no standing before God. Those who dwell in the secret place of the most High need not fear its empty threats, but, asserting their divine rights, may rise, in the words of the apostle Paul, in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."

"Thus it is that the two statements of the Bible, namely, that God is Love, and God is Spirit, find their reconciliation in Science. The doubts which have ever assailed suffering humanity concerning the goodness of God are dissipated. Though physical sense, left to its own devices, rises in opposition to the most High, and tries to give the impression that God is cruel and willingly afflicts His defenseless children, Christian Science, elucidating the Scriptures, proves that evil is not of God's creation or permission. Good and good only proceeds from the Giver of every good gift, and all assertions to the contrary are due to ignorance or blindness of heart. John's statement that God is Love lives on forever side by side with Jesus' profound explanation that God is Spirit.

NOTED SPEAKER FOR THE CHAMBER'S DINNER.

William J. Moran, who it was announced in the Daily Press would be among the speakers at the banquet of the Chamber of Commerce on February 13 was born in Rochester, about forty years ago. He was counsel for Ex-Mayor Grace in establishing the Grace Institute. He was also counsel for the American Museum of Safety and is a member of the legal committee of the National Civic Federation. He was also secretary to Mayor Low, and is considered a very brilliant, witty and able speaker and he is also an interesting and able man.

There is no doubt but that the Chamber of Commerce will have at its banquet some of the ablest talent in the country and the affair promises to be the greatest of its kind ever held in the city. Those who have not been so fortunate as yet in securing tickets had better do so soon provided they want to make sure of a seat. They may be had on application at the Secretary's office of the chamber in the Frost building or from any of the members of the chamber.

MISLEADING RAILROAD SIGNS.

Grade crossings are death traps, wherever located. Putting gates at such crossings and operating them carefully, intelligently and cautiously, day and night, all the year round, unquestionably reduces the dangers of such crossings, but never actually removes them entirely. There is no adequate remedy for a grade crossing but its absolute abolition.

It seems almost incredible that any railroad company would deliberately make grade crossings more dangerous than they naturally are, by placing misleading signs near them, yet this is exactly what has been done, as discovered by the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners.

On several lines the commissioners found that gates erected at dangerous crossings were operated in summer and left locked in an upright position during the rest of the year, with no one to lower them on the approach of trains. It is easy to see how persons approaching such crossings might be misled. Seeing the gates raised, which is a signal of safety, they would naturally suppose that the way was clear, when at that very moment an unseen train might be dashing toward the crossing at a rapid rate.

Fall Due to Drink.

Thomas Brown, a silk weaver, no home and seventy-one years old, was picked up by Patrolman Kelly, last night at 10 o'clock helplessly drunk at the corner of Elm place and East Front street. The old man would have frozen to death had not he been discovered in time. Judge DeMeza suspended sentence on the old man and advised him not to drink any more. Brown had fallen where he was found, cutting the back of his head. He was given first aid at Police headquarters.

F. H. Firstbrook to Move.

F. H. Firstbrook, the Liberty street grocer, has leased the store on West Front street now occupied by Daly Brothers, grocers and will remove there about April 1. Mr. Firstbrook has been located on Liberty street for fourteen years. It is not known where Daly Brothers will go. The store is in the building recently purchased by George J. Finner.

Rogers Plant Sold.

Clark T. Rogers & Co., of New Market, have sold their plant and business along with valuable real estate to H. C. Scandell and Samuel Slettsma, both of Midland Park. It is the intention of the purchasers to make some extensive improvements in the business plant. The sale was made through the agency of I. E. Giles, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Bugden, of Randolph road, have removed to Carbondale, Pa.

BILLS INTRODUCED IN THE LEGISLATURE

Monday night's Assembly session at Trenton was short and was devoted almost exclusively to the introduction of bills. Speaker Kenny objected to the crowding in of visitors who he claimed were hampering the work of representatives and insisted that the sergeant at arms clear the floor of intruders.

These bills were introduced: No. 67, by Mr. Simpson. Authorizes counties of the first class to provide for rapid transit railways therein. A county rapid transit commission consisting of three members, to be appointed by the Supreme Court justice sitting in the circuit in each first class county, and the director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders shall constitute such rapid transit commission.

No. 76, by Mr. Bracken, amends the automobile law by fixing a speed limit of twenty-five miles an hour anywhere in the State, provided that no one shall drive a motor vehicle at any speed greater than is reasonable. Having regard to the traffic and use of the highways.

No. 81, Mr. Hinnens amend the act of 1904 establishing the office of registrar of deeds by increasing the population so that only counties having 140,000 population may have such office.

No. 90, Mr. Richmond: Makes the standard of any milk to be such as shall contain not less than 1 1/2 per cent. of milk solids and not more than 88 per cent. of water fluid and not less than 3 per cent. of milk fat.

No. 92, Mr. Newman: Provides that the county collector, instead of the board of chosen freeholders, shall pay all necessary expenses incurred by prosecutors for the detention, arrest etc. of offenders.

No. 93, Mr. Pine: Makes it a misdemeanor for a person under the age of 21 to represent himself to be 21 years or over, so as to procure beer or other intoxicating drinks.

No. 98, Mr. Meyer: Provides that no milk be sold that contains less than 1 1/2 per centum of milk solids or more than 88 1/2 per centum of water fluids or less than 3 per cent. of milk fats.

A joint resolution was introduced by Mr. Layden authorizing the appointment of three Senators and three Assemblymen to draft a bill to protect the further destruction of historical landmarks of this State.

The Senate session was brief, also, and the following important bills were introduced:

No. 30, by Mr. Osborne. To create a new board of public utilities commissioners, consisting of three persons, beginning May 1, 1911 (term to expire in two, four and six years, respectively, and each two years thereafter) to be appointed by the Governor. Salary, $700 each and traveling expenses. Having power on its own initiative to investigate values of property and fix rates for public service.

No. 33, by Mr. Osborne: To prevent the employment of minors as messengers for telegraph and telephone companies or for distributing or delivering goods or any other service before 5 o'clock in the morning or after 10 o'clock in the evening of any day.

S. No. 38, by Mr. Fielder: To provide that in event of the death of the Mayor of any city, the president of the Board of Aldermen or Common Council shall act as Mayor until the next general election, to be known as Acting-Mayor, and receive same salary as Mayor.

S. No. 40, by Mr. Leavitt: To prevent the admission of children under 16 years of age to any dance house, concert hall, theatre or place of acrobatic or vaudeville performances or moving picture shows, without consent of parent or guardian, or unaccompanied by parent, guardian or an adult. Violators to be guilty of misdemeanor. Penalty, fine or imprisonment.

Enjoy Illustrated Lecture.

John M. Whitton, of this city, gave his illustrated lecture on "India and Burma," at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last night, under the auspices of the Men's Club. There was a large attendance of members and friends, all thoroughly enjoying the talk by Mr. Whitton; also his fine collection of pictures which were taken by himself on his travels. The lecture was practically the same as given at the Congregational church, Monday night, for the benefit of the Sunday-school.

Mrs. Edith Ann Binn.
Mrs. Edith Ann Binn, widow of Richard Binn, colored, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Angeline Gates, of East Third street. The funeral will be private.

MRS. STEWART'S TEA A DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

The second and last of the teas and receptions given by Mrs. Percy H. Stewart at her home on West Eighth street, yesterday afternoon, was one of the most charming social functions of the winter season. During the afternoon about two hundred society women of the city and borough were present to enjoy the delightful entertainment provided by Mrs. Stewart.

The beautiful home was tastefully decorated with a quantity of roses, including pink carnations, the arrangement of the table in the dining-room being especially attractive in its decorations of pink with candles of the same identical shade. Maresi furnished the refreshments.

Those who assisted Mrs. Stewart in receiving and in the dining-room were her sister, Mrs. Thomas Ewing, of Yonkers, N. Y.; Mrs. W. F. Tallaferrero, Mrs. Alfred Streuli, Mrs. Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Mrs. Annie Stewart, Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows and Mrs. James R. Joy.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Certain stories that have been circulated in the borough relative to Charles E. Tinsman were emphatically denied yesterday by Mrs. Tinsman. She told a Daily Press reporter that her husband had not disappeared, as gossip has it, neither has he gone away with anyone. She said that Mr. Tinsman was sent west on business about December 22 by the real estate firm of Park, Blackwell and Davis, of New York and has since been traveling for them. He was in Dunellen, she said, a week ago. When asked why her husband did not make it a point to return and put an end to the rumors, Mrs. Tinsman declared he would when the proper time came. She asserted that all the stories were started by a borough man who had been befriended by Mr. Tinsman on several occasions.

The Board of Trade illustrated Dunellen booklet has been distributed and has met with unstinted praise. The present edition of 2,000 has been almost entirely exhausted and it is probable that another issue will have to be made.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will hold a cake sale in the Gray building at North and Washington avenues, Saturday afternoon from 2 until 5.

Mrs. Boyle, of North avenue, has been seriously ill for the past week. Her son, Bernard Boyle, has come on from Indiana because of her condition.

Former Mayor William Wyckoff is able to be out after his long illness.

Leo Logan is able to be about after an illness with the grip.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

On Friday, February twenty-fourth, the younger members of the Catholic church will give a play in Washington hall, entitled "Home Trio". The proceeds will be for the benefit of the church.

Several families in the village have had their wash stolen off the lines, by being left out all night. Constable Reilly has been notified and will be on the lookout.

John Lindabury is nursing a broken ankle, the result of a fall upon the ice, on Spring Lake, while enjoying a moonlight skate.

Fire alarms have just been issued by Fire Chief William Hamilton and can be had on application.

William M. Ross is now settled in his new home, which was once a part of the old Valentine farm.

Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Cronkite, of Plainfield avenue, called upon friends in the village yesterday.

Mrs. Edward Hall, who has been visiting here has returned to her home in Raritan.

David M. Kellogg was robbed one day last week, of about fifty bushels of corn.

Philip Smith has returned from a week end house party in New York city.

J. C. Crater Seriously Ill.
John C. Crater, formerly of this city, but now of 121 New street, Newark, is very low at his home, following a stroke of paralysis on December 31. He is now also suffering with a severe attack of the grip. He is the father of Mrs. John Tier, Jr., and is a member of Trinity Reformed church, being a faithful attendant there when he resided in this city.

CHILD LABOR DISCUSSED BY WOMEN'S ALLIANCE

A largely attended meeting of the Women's Alliance of All Souls' church, was held at the residence of Mrs. Warren B. Travell, of Third place, yesterday afternoon, at which an interesting paper was read by Mrs. George Greene, former factory inspector. A light luncheon was served after the meeting, Mrs. Travell pouring tea.

Mrs. Greene's paper, an interesting story of her experiences as factory inspector, a position to which she was appointed while carrying on the work of Whittier House, held the attention of the women present for nearly an hour and led to a discussion on child labor which brought out many facts hitherto unknown to many.

Miss Mabelle Phillips, explained that the new law regarding child labor which was passed at the last session of the legislature becomes effective on July 4 of this year. This law provides that no minor child under the age of 16 years may be employed in any factory at night and was aimed at the glass manufacturing plants in South Jersey. Women work in factories and other places where crowding was the habit, was also discussed after the formal reading.

position which the New Jersey occupies in the industrial world and want to make it emphatically plain that neither honest capital or labor need have any apprehension about adverse action on my part at Washington. The Democratic party may be relied upon to legislate fairly with reference to the tariff question and to that end give assurance that my best judgment shall be exercised.

"I think it worthy of mention at this moment to say that I have not expended one dollar in seeking the election as Senator nor have I solicited either directly or indirectly votes of members of the legislature. My candidacy was based upon eternal truth in government which public opinion vitalizes."

Senator Smith last night issued the following statement:

"In view of the preponderance of legislative favor for Governor Wilson's candidate for the United States Senate, I feel that I should not longer stay the consummation of the Executive's purpose.

"In reaching this conclusion I am influenced by two reasons—my regard for the feelings of the loyal men who still give me their support in spite of the indignities to which they are being subjected, and my unwillingness to stand longer in the way of plans which the new friends of my old party are so industriously formulating.

"I have been a long time in the ranks of Democracy. It has always had my loyalty and best wishes. It will continue to have them in the future, however far from the front I may be battling. I would like to believe that under the guidance of recently assumed ambitious leadership the old party may not depart from its former standards, nor repel the allegiance of the faithful ones who have shown the same loyalty in adversity and success, but my mind is not free from foreboding.

"As I lay aside my candidacy for Senatorial honor, releasing those who have been faithful to me and pledging them my life-long gratitude, my sincere wish is that the Democratic party may retain the confidence of the people, that it may hold to its close union with the masses and that greater triumph in the State and nation await it."

P. H. S. NOTES.

The meetings of the Science club have been suspended until after the mid-year examinations, but the officers of the club are arranging for some interesting meetings later. Allen Fulmer who has invented on improved engine for aeroplanes is expected to lecture on "Aviation" at the next session of the club.

The next inter-scholastic basketball game will be played on Friday afternoon between the P. H. S. team and North Plainfield High. A spirited contest is looked for.

Miss Grace Gray recited "The Man of the Crisis" before the assembly this morning. Miss Gray is a sophomore.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

At the Plainfield theatre on Saturday, January 28, matinee and night, Henry B. Harris will present the great novelty of the season in dancing, when Ruth St. Denis appears in her new Egyptian dances. The new dances in which Ruth St. Denis will appear are the result of two years' work and study. She began her preparation immediately the success of her Hindu numbers was assured. Miss St. Denis is supported by a company of some fifty people and a large special orchestra is required to interpret the music written for the dances by Walter Meyrowitz.

Spoke Better Than He Knew. The seventh grade was having an oral "test" in Stories from English History and William Hume was called upon to tell the story of King John and the Magna Charta.

"They made him come to Runnymede as he was awful mad, an' he looked around at the barons an' he said, 'Am I your prisoner?' An' they didn't want to make him any madder for fear he wouldn't sign it after all, so they all shouted out real loud, 'No, you are not our prisoner, you are our souvenir.'—Harper's Magazine.

A Practical Girl. "She accepted me on one condition."

"And that is?" "That she doesn't get a better offer between now and spring."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Thirty-five new houses are booked to be built in Glassboro the coming spring and summer.

Rena Sutton, of Collingswood, has been invited to participate in a world's championship typewriting contest.

Such an epidemic of measles is spreading in the little village of Bridgeboro that school attendance is cut down to eight scholars and three teachers.

Millville glass bottle factories are now working more steadily than for years, and there is a rumor that two more large furnaces will be placed in operation.

Holly Beach has all the other resorts of Five-Mile Beach beaten this winter in the number of cottages going up at one time. Thirty-eight are now in the course of construction.

The Government Lighthouse Board has sought permission from the Board of Island Managers to erect a lighthouse station on the upper end of Burlington Island, in the Delaware River.

By the accidental discharge of a revolver he was examining, William Gurber, twelve years old, of 7 Park place, Camden, was shot in the left leg Monday. The bullet lodged above the knee and was removed.

Woodbury Board of Education Monday night held a special meeting to consider a change of site in rebuilding its burned High School. It is considered possible to sell the old site to the government for a public building site.

Samuel Summer Marcy, durgist, of Cape May, was found dead in his store Monday by his son, Samuel, Jr., who dropped in to see him. The clerk was absent and had left Marcy in apparently his usual health only a few minutes before death.

Because members of her family are too poor to defray the expenses of a funeral residents of the Italian colony of the resort will pay for the burial of Miss Santa Elle, who was found dead in a gas-filled apartment in Atlantic City last Friday. The family of the girl live at Johnstown, Pa.

A child of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Ritter, of Philadelphia, was buried in Bridgeton Monday. The father, who is a professor at Medico-Chirurgical College, was unable to accompany the casket because of the critical condition of the mother. Afterward word came that she, too, had passed away.

John De Vorico, aged fourteen years, of Rutherford, is in the General Hospital, Paterson, suffering from a gunshot wound. Having a revolver and no cartridges, he attempted to fill an empty shell. He had the powder in the shell and was about to ram down a load of buckshot. He hammered this so hard that it exploded and sent the shot and powder into his face. The wound is said to be serious.

A fund for the relief of thirty families made homeless by a fire that destroyed six frame tenement-houses in Avenue C, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets, Bayonne, was started Monday. Many of the families are being sheltered by neighbors. They lost almost all their possessions. Bayonne Lodge of Elks and the Democratic Club started the work of relief.

Refusing to be "fired," Assistant Building Inspector Simon Wescott, of Atlantic City, an old soldier, who held the office for many years and claims he came under the protection of the veterans' tenure of office act, reports for duty every day. He is refused assignment, and thereupon maps out his own work and keeps doing labor that he performed before he was "dropped" from the pay roll without notice on the first of the year. The legality of his removal is now in court.

That Charles Kurth kept his word with Vice-Chancellor Leaming was made evident Monday in Camden when final arguments were heard on a rule to make permanent an order for alimony. Several weeks ago Kurth said he could not pay alimony because he was unable to get work. The vice-chancellor had him before him for contempt, but he gave Kurth another chance. He told the man, a roofer, he must go to every place in the city and apply and make a report in the event of his failure to secure employment. Yesterday, when the case was ready, Kurth telephoned the vice-chancellor that he could not attend because he was too busy mending roofs. Kurth escaped contempt proceedings but he must pay his wife Caroline $4 a week alimony.

Sure of His Facts. An earnest preacher in Georgia, who has a custom of telling the Lord all the news in his prayers, recently began a petition for help against the progress of wickedness in his town with the statement: "O, thou great Jehovah, crime is on the increase. It is becoming more prevalent daily. I can prove it to you by statistics."—Everybody's Magazine.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week
Beginning Jan. 29, 1911.

Topic.—A missionary journey around the world.—I. Missions in the United States (north and east). Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The locations north and east in the United States are rather indefinite, and the topic should have included boundary lines. Does the north extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific or to the lakes, or to what limit does it extend from the coast? And what is included in the east—the entire eastern boundary, including the southern states on the coast? And if so where does the south begin when that section is studied or the west when it alone is the topic? No information having been given, each one will be compelled to make his own boundaries. The author of these topics will take the Mississippi river, the center between the east and west; that between the north and south the Mason and Dixon's line, including the entire country below that line as south, and the entire section west of the Mississippi and north of the Mason and Dixon's line as west, including Alaska. This leaves the north and east to include the section from the Atlantic to the Mississippi and from the northern boundary east of the Mississippi as far south as the Mason and Dixon's line. These seem to be the only sensible divisions of north and east, the south alone and the west alone.

In this section north and east as defined it may seem to many that there is no missionary work to be done, but the opposite is the case. One would think that all people in this section were Christianized or had Christian opportunities, but when we look over the field from three standpoints we shall find that there is much need of missionary work. These three viewpoints are (1) the support of old and weak churches, (2) the organization of churches in sections recently built and (3) the work among the foreign population.

1. The support of weak churches, many of which are old. In these old churches the young people have left the country for the city, and many historic churches with only a few old people left to support them have died or are about dead. It is said that in New England the farms in some sections have been almost deserted, and the few people remaining, being no longer able to support the churches, have allowed them to die. The buildings are in a deplorable condition, and the people are even worse spiritually. The Sabbath day is practically forgotten, and work is done on that day just as on other days. New England, the former settlement of the pilgrims and Puritans! Does not such a condition demand the missionary to revive the old time religion? One denomination alone in Pennsylvania aids 193 churches. The same denomination assists in paying 137 ordained ministers in the same great state. Besides, it has many evangelists in the state, going from place to place, and the 137 ministers in many cases have two, three and even four churches under their care.

Considering the origin of New England, the case there is the saddest of all. Some one recently said (and it was not meant facetiously), "The little brown men of Korea had better come to New England and do missionary work among the descendants of the Puritans!"

The missionary work is required for the organization of churches in new towns and villages. This section has special demands upon it along this line. Railroads cover it as a network. What is even more, the trolley cars have gone almost everywhere. As a result new settlements are springing up on all sides. Towns of 500, 1,000, 1,200 and 1,500 dot the country otherwise not inhabited. Here is where we need organized church union. The first church organized should have the field, or a religious census of the towns should be taken, and the denomination having the largest number of adherents should have the only church. But, alas, how long it takes us to learn from experience!

When will we get over such a foolish system? One church in a town will be strong, be able to select one of the finest of ministers, pay him a living salary regardless of hard times or high prices, and also to keep him if it likes him, for where another church wants him so much as to pay him a higher salary or other allurements the one church will be able to step up and say, "We can and will do for you as much as any other church, and, besides, we love you, and the Lord is blessing you in your work here." That will end the matter, and he will stay. Thousands of ministers in city and country are living on dying salaries, but never murmur, and largely because of the existence of too many churches, located too closely together. When will the Protestant church learn the lesson that the Catholic church is daily learning before them? Think of six churches in a town of 1,200 population! What does it mean? Six starved ministers' families—many people dodging corners when they see certain persons for fear of having their pockets of some kind about the church washed before them.

2. Missionary work among the foreign population in the north and east. In this section, as defined, there is a larger number of foreigners than in all the rest of the country combined.

Cavanagh, Forest Ranger

The Great Conservation Novel

By HAMLIN GARLAND

Copyright, 1910, by Hamlin Garland

To Lee Virginia the talk of "the curse of democracy" and "the decay of empire" was unexciting, but when Cavanagh told of the sheepmen's advance across the dead line on Deer creek and of the threats of the cattle owners she was better able to follow the discussion. Bridges was heartily on the side of law and order, for he wished to boom the state (being a heavy owner in a town site), but he objected to Redfield's ideas of "bottling up the resources of the state."

"But we're not," retorted Redfield; "we're merely defending them against those who would monopolize them. We believe in their fullest use, but we see no reason for giving away the resources when the country needs the revenue."

Mrs. Redfield rose as soon as the coffee came on. "You gentlemen seem bent upon discussing matters of no interest to us," she said, "so we'll leave you to fight it out alone. I'm sure you'll all agree with Hugh in the end. Like General Grant, he's a very obstinate man."

No sooner were they seated in the big living room than Mrs. Enderby began to relate comical stories of her household. Her cats had fits and ran up the wall. Her dogs were forever getting quilled by reason of foolish attacks upon porcupines, or else they came home so reminiscent of skunks that they all but smothered the cook. "Invariably they return from encounters of this kind just as we are sitting at dinner," she explained. "Furthermore, Enderby's ditches are habitually getting clogged and overflowing the lawn and filling the cellar, and he stands in terror of his cowboys. When I think of all these irritations and distractions England's order and routine seem heavenly. But Charley finds all this amusing, more's the pity, and leaves me to set things in order. Most ludicrous of all to me is his habitual claim that the ranch is paying. I tell him there's an error in his bookkeeping somewhere, but he assures me that his receipts exceeded his expenditures last year, which is quite too incredible. You've no idea how high wages are and how little we raise."

"Oh, yes, I have," laughed Mrs. Redfield. "And my cat had a fit too. Hugh says it's the high altitude. I tell him it's melancholia."

Cavanagh showed himself. "I hear so much laughing I'm coming in. We're all so laughably political out here, and, besides, I came to see the ladies, and I can stay only a few minutes longer."

"You're not going back tonight?" exclaimed his hostess.

"I must be on my own precinct by daylight," he replied. "The supervisor has an eye on me."

Mrs. Redfield explained to Lee Virginia. "He rode fifty miles over the mountains."

"Thirty," corrected Ross. "But what does that matter when I'm in the company of such charming ladies?" he added gallantly.

"And now he's going to ride all the way back tonight."

"Think of that," gasped Mrs. Enderby. "And no moon!"

"How can you find your way?" asked Mrs. Bridges, to whom this was a mortally dangerous journey.

"Oh, it's quite simple! If you don't bump against a tree or fall into the creek you may be quite sure you're on the trail," laughed Ross.

Mrs. Redfield knew the true reason for his coming and was not at all pleased, "for with all Lee's personal charm," she said to her husband, "she is socially beneath Ross Cavanagh even in a state where social barriers are few."

"Come out on the veranda," suggested Cavanagh, "and I'll show you the hills I must climb."

Lee accepted innocently, but as the young people left the room Mrs. Enderby looked at her hostess with significant glance. "There's the lady Ross rode down to meet. Who is she?"

"Her mother is that dreadful old creature that keeps the Wetherford hotel in Roaring Fork."

"No!" exclaimed Mrs. Enderby.

"Yes; Lee Virginia is Lize Wetherford's daughter."

"But the girl is charming."

"I cannot understand it. Hugh came home a week or so ago full of her praise"—and at this point her voice dropped lower, and the other drew closer.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE CASE OF LEE VIRGINIA AND ROSS. LEE and Ross stood in silence on the Redfield veranda. There was no moon, and the mountains rose darkly, a sheer wall at the end of the garden, their tops cutting into the starry sky with a dull edge, over which a dim white cone peered.

"That snow peak is Wolfhook and thirty miles from here and at the head of my 'beat,'" said the ranger after a pause as they leaned against the railed and looked away to the south. "I go up that ridge which you see faintly at the left of the main canyon and through that deep notch which is above timber line."

The girl's eyes widened with awe of the big, silent, dark world he indicated. "Aren't you afraid to start out on such a trip alone—I mean, don't you dread it?"

"I'll be sorry to start back, yes, but not because of the dark. I've enjoyed my visit here so much it will be hard to say good night."

"It seems strange to me that you should prefer this wild country to England."

"Do you like the east better than the west?"

"In some ways; but, then, you see, I was born out here."

"So was I—I mean to say I was regenerated out here. The truth is I was a good deal of a scapegrace when I left England. I was always for hunting and horses, and naturally I came directly to the wild west country, and here I've been ever since. I've had my turn at each phase of it—cowpuncher, soldier, rough rider and finally forest ranger. I reckon I've found my job at last."

"Do you like it so much?"

"At the present time I am perfectly contented. I'm associated now with a country that will never yield to the plow. Yes, I like my work. I love the forests and the streams. I wish I might show them to you. You don't know how beautiful they are. The most beautiful parks in the world are commonplace to what I can show you. My only sorrow is to think of them given over to the sawmill. Perhaps you and your mother will come up some time and let me show you my lakes and streams. There are waters so lovely they make the heart ache. Hugh is planning to come up soon; perhaps you and Mrs. Redfield will come with him."

"I'd like it above everything," she responded fervently. Then her voice changed. "But all depends on my mother's health."

It hurt him to hear her call Eliza Wetherford mother. He wanted to forget her origin for the moment. He was not in love with her—far from it! But she was so alluring, and the proprieties of the Wetherford House were not nice, and that made one doubt the daughter.

She broke the silence. "It seems dreadfully dark and mysterious up there." She indicated his path.

"It isn't as bad as it looks. There is a good trail, and my pony knows it as well as I do. I enjoy riding by night."

"But there are bears and other wild things, are there not?"

"Not as much as I wish there were."

"Why do you say that?"

"I hate to see all the wild life killed off. Some day all these forests will have game refuges like the Yellowstone National park. They are coming each year to have greater and greater value to the people of the plains. They are playgrounds, like the Alps. If I should ever settle down to a home it would be in a canyon like this, with a great peak at my front door."

"It is beautiful," the girl said in the tone of sadness which he won't forget the perfect night, the perfect flower, the flawless landscape. "It is both grand and peaceful."

This tone of sadness pleased him. It showed her depth of perception, and he reflected that she had not uttered a vacuous or silly phrase since their first meeting. "She is capable of great development," he thought. Aloud he said: "You are a strange mingling of east and west. Do you realize it?"

"In what way?" she asked, feeling something ardent in his tone.

"You typify to me at this moment this whole state. You fill me with enthusiasm for its future. Here you are, derived from the lawless west, yet taking on the culture and restraint of the east so readily that you seem not in the least related to it."

He checked himself at this point, and she said: "My mother is not as rough as she seems, Mr. Cavanagh."

"She must be more of the woman than appears or she could not have borne such a daughter. But do you feel your relationship to her? Tell me honestly, for you interest me."

"I didn't at first, but I do now. I begin to understand her, and, besides, I feel in myself certain things that are in her, though I think I am more like the Wetherfords. My father's family home was in Maryland."

Ross could have talked on all night, so alluring was the girl's dimly seen yet warmly felt figure at his side, but a sense of danger and a knowledge that he should be riding led him at last to say: "It is getting chilly. We must go in, but before we do so let me say how much I've enjoyed seeing you again. I hope the doctor will make a favorable report on your mother's case. You'll write me the result of the examination, won't you?"

"If you wish me to."

"I shall be most anxious to know."

They were standing very near to each other at the moment, and the ranger, made very sensitive to woman's charm by his lonely life, shook with newly created love of her. A suspicion, a hope, that beneath her cultivated manner lay the passionate nature of her mother gave an added force to his desire. He was sorely tempted to touch her, to test her, but her sweet voice, a little sad and perfectly unconscious of evil, calmed him. She said:

"I hope to persuade my mother to leave the Forks. All the best people there are against us. Some of them have been very cruel to her and to me, and, besides, I despise and fear the Men who come to get their

"You must not exchange words with them," he all but commanded. "Be aware of Gregg; he is a vile lot. Do not trust him for an instant. Do not permit any of those loafers to talk with you, for if you do they will go away to defame you. I know them. They are unspeakably vile. It makes me angry to think that Gregg and his like have the right to speak to you every day, while I can see you only at long intervals. I wish my station were not so far away. But I'll ride down as often as my duties will permit, and you must let me know how things go. And if any of those fellows persecute you you'll tell me, won't you? I wish you'd look upon me as your big brother. Will you do that?" His voice entreated, and as she remained silent he continued: "Roaring Fork is one of the worst towns in the state, and a girl like you needs some one as a protector. I don't know just how to put it so that you will not misunderstand me, but, you see, I protect the forest, the streams and the game, I help the settler in time of trouble, I am a kind of all round big brother to everybody who needs help in the forest. In fact, I'm paid for protecting things that can't protect themselves, and so—here he tried to lend his voice the accent of humor—"why shouldn't I be the protector of a girl like you, alone—worse than alone—in this little town?"

She remained dumb at one or two points where he clearly hoped for a word, and she was unable to thank him when he had finished. In this silence a curious constriction came into his throat. It was almost as if he had put his passion into definite words, and as the light fell upon her he perceived that her bosom was heaving with deep emotion.

"I am lonely," she faltered out at last—"horribly lonely. And I know now how people feel toward my mother, and it hurts me—it all hurts me. But I'm going to stay and help her." She paused to recover her voice. "And you do seem different. I—I trust you."

"I'm glad you understand me," and you will let me know if I can help you, won't you?"

"Yes," she answered simply.

"Good night," he said, extending his hand.

She placed her palm to his quite frankly, but the touch of it made further speech at the moment impossible.

They went in with such telltale faces that even Redfield wondered what had passed between them.

Excusing himself almost at once, Cavanagh left the room, and when he looked in a few moments later he was clothed in the ranger's dusty green uniform, booted and spurred for his long, hard ride. Mrs. Redfield followed him into the hall and out on the doorstep to say: "Ross, you must be careful. This girl is very alluring in herself, but her mother, you know, is impossible."

"You're needlessly alarmed, as usual," he smilingly replied. "She interests me, that's patent. But beyond that, why, nonsense! Good night."

Nevertheless, despite his protestations, he went away up the trail with his mind so filled with Lee Virginia's appealing face and form that he would certainly have ridden over a precipice had it not been for his experienced pony, which had fortunately but one aim, and that was to cross the range safely and to reach the home pasture at the earliest moment.

Left alone, Lee Virginia thought over her past. She was not entirely without experience as regards respectful courtship. Her life in the east had brought her to know a number of attractive lads and a few men, but none of these had become more than a good companion or friend, and though she wrote to one or two of these youths letters of the utmost friendliness, there was no passion in them, and she felt as yet the sting of nothing more intense in her liking for Cavanagh. But he meant more to her now that she was lonely and beleaguered.

That he had ridden all that long, rough way merely to see her she was not vain enough to believe, but she had nevertheless something of every woman's secret belief in her individual charm. Cavanagh had shown a flattering interest in her, and his wish to be her protector filled her with joy and confidence.

She heard a good deal more about this particular forest ranger next morning at breakfast. "He is throwing himself away," Mrs. Redfield passionately declared. "Think of a man of Ross' refinement living in a mountain shack miles from anybody, watching poachers, marking trees and cooking his own food! It's a shameful waste of genius."

"That's as you look at it, my dear," responded Redfield. "Ross is the guardian of an immense treasure chest which belongs to the nation. Furthermore, he is quite certain, as I am, that this forest service is the policy of the future and that it offers fine chances for promotion, and then, finally, he likes it."

"That is all well enough for a young man, but Ross is at least thirty-five and should be thinking of settling down. I can't understand his point of view."

"My dear, you have never seen the procession of the seasons from such a point of view as that which he enjoys."

"No, and I do not care to. It is quite lonely enough for me right here."

Redfield looked at Lee with comely blankness. "Mrs. Redfield is hopelessly urban. As the wife of a forest supervisor she cares more for pavements and tramcars than for the most splendid mountain park."

"I most certainly do," his wife vigorously agreed, "and if I had my way we should be living in London."

"Listen to that! She's ten times more English than Mrs. Enderby."

"I'm not, but I long for the civilized instead of the wild. I like comfort and society."

"So do I," returned he.

"Yes; the comfort of an easy chair on the porch and the society of your forest rangers. This ranch life is all very well for a summer outing, but to be tied down here all the year round is to be denied one's birthright as a modern."

All this more or less cheerful complaint expressed the minds of many others who live amid these superb scenes. When autumn comes, when the sky is gray and the peaks are hid in mist, they long for the music, the lights, the comfort of the city. But when the April sun begins to glow down in a smother of crimson and flame and the mountains loom with epic dignity, or when at dawn the air is like some divine flood descending from the unstained mysterious heights, then the dweller in the foothills cries out: "How fortunate we are! Here are health and happiness! Here poverty is unknown!"

Mrs. Redfield was becoming more and more interested in Virginia, who had not merely the majestic reputation of her mother to content with, but the memory of a traitorous sire to live down, and when the girl went to her room to pack her bag the wife turned to her husband and said:

"Ross is terribly smitten with her."

Redfield coughed uneasily. "I hope not. Of course he admires her, as any man must. She's physically attractive, very attractive, and, besides, Ross is as susceptible as a cowpuncher. He was deeply impressed the first time he saw her; I could see that."

If you are a COMMUTER and are absent from Plainfield during banking hours, you will appreciate our "Banking by Mail" system. Its advantages are many—no standing in line, no time limitations, out of town checks credited free of exchange, and 3% interest paid on checking accounts of $500.00 or more. Accounts may be opened by mail and all deposits made in this manner will be acknowledged over the signature of an officer. Many New York business men are carrying their accounts with this Company.

MRS. HOOD HOSTESS AT AFTERNOON TEA.

Mrs. R. H. Hood, of Stelle avenue, gave the second of two teas and receptions at her home, yesterday afternoon, the affair being attended by about one hundred prominent women of the city and borough. Like the first function, this one was replete with pleasing details and all enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess. The decorative scheme was particularly effective, pink being the prevailing color.

Mrs. Hood was assisted by Mrs. Guy Hinsdale, of Hot Springs, Va., and Mrs. Max Munger, of this city, who poured; also by her sister, Miss Sparks, of Philadelphia, and the Misses Goddard, Finch and Murphy, of this city.

NEW BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION FORMED.

At a meeting held at the office of Ira L. LaRue, action was taken on the formation of the People's Building and Loan Association of Plainfield, the charter of which has been returned approved by the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance.

A formal meeting for organization and the election of officers will be held in the near future. Subscription for shares in the first series is now open at Mr. LaRue's office.

BOBBY BURNS' BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION TONIGHT.

A fine array of talent has been engaged for the Burns celebration to be held at Reform Hall, this evening, under the auspices of Clan Mackenzie, Order Scottish Clans. A feature of the program will be the appearance of The Macintosh Brothers, champion pipers, wearing over one hundred prize gold medals. There will be noted Scotch singers and dancers.

There will be addresses by Grover P. Hinman, Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, Edmund L. Mackenzie, of this city, and Rev. Thomas Ironsides, of Morristown; David King, the royal treasurer of the Order Scottish Clans and others. In addition to the entertainment there will be a supper. Tickets can be secured from Robert Murray or other members of the Clan.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO PETER ORLOWSKY?

Irving Appar, coal dealer, of Bound Brook, is anxious to find Peter Orlofsky, a driver of one of his coal wagons who disappeared yesterday under peculiar circumstances. Orlofsky delivered a ton of coal at the blacksmith shop of Forgeson Bros., on Somerset street and afterwards put his team up at Hedden's livery, on East Fourth street, separating himself from human ken immediately afterwards.

Mr. Appar notified the police last night of the strange disappearance of his man and team and the investigation made disclosed the whereabouts of the horse and wagon, but no trace of Orlofsky has been found.

Sunday-school Institute.

The annual institute of the Plainfield Primary Graded Union will be held at the First Baptist church, Monday afternoon and evening, February 6. The afternoon session will be held at 3 o'clock and the evening session at 7:45 o'clock. A number of prominent Sunday-school workers will speak at the institute and all phases of Sunday-school work will be considered.

Entertainment*THE HALLET & DAVIS PLAYER-PIANO

Here is something WORTH WHILE. A piano which anyone in the family can play.

Music lovers are fast beginning to realize that the Hallet & Davis Player-Piano has made them independent of the professional artist. Now, you, just yourself, with only a few instructions, can play any music—popular, operatic, classical—anything you like.

Maybe there is someone in the family who can play; if so, this instrument is used for hand playing, as an ordinary piano. But you don't want to listen to someone play, as nine times out of ten they don't play what you want. Play yourself.

It's more fun to play baseball than to watch. It's more fun to play the Hallet & Davis Player-Piano yourself than to listen to someone else. Try it and see.

The price of our player-pianos is moderate. The new style Hallet & Davis, 88-note (patented), is only $750, and no amount of money can buy a better player. Then, we have the Conway—a splendid player—at $600, and other good players at lower prices. We will make liberal allowance for uprights taken in exchange, and convenient terms of purchase may be arranged, if desired.

Come in. Try the player yourself. You'll be delighted. If you can't call, let us send you interesting catalogs.

Plan County Institute.
The executive committee of the Union County W. C. T. U. held a session in the rooms of the local union, yesterday afternoon, to consider plans for the winter months; also the program for the county institute to be held at Dunellen about April 20. The program will be of unusual interest to all the members and friends of this work. Several other matters of minor importance were discussed. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, president of the county union, presided at the session.

The weekly meeting of the W. C. T. U. announced for tomorrow afternoon, will be omitted, owing to the fact that many of the members have other duties that will detain them.
