

Miss Green Celebrates.
Miss Agnes Green, daughter of Lawrence F. Green, of West Third street, celebrated the fourteenth anniversary of her birthday yesterday and last night, she entertained about fifty friends at her home. There was a musical program by Mrs. Howe and Mr. Hallows and refreshments were served. Miss Green received many gifts.

GOOD WORK.

Done Daily in Plainfield—Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Dona's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Plainfield still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, 304 West Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "A dull, heavy, bearing down pain in my back bothered me a great deal, especially when I caught cold. I also had frequent headaches and was at times so dizzy that I could scarcely see. If I did much stooping or lifting my back became very lame and though I used plasters, I was relieved only for the time being. Finally on the advice of a friend, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Pharmacy and began their use. They acted in every way as represented and in a short time rid me of all symptoms of kidney trouble. I am pleased to recommend a remedy of such undoubted merit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

NEWS OF THE WORLD FOR THE BUSY MAN

Stocks were dull and strong yesterday.

Pasture Institute believes that the Chinese plague will not gain a foothold in Europe.

Police dispersed a crowd demanding work which gathered near the castle in Berlin.

Works of Rubens, Van Dyck and Teniers were burned at Antwerp; the loss is estimated at $40,000.

Twenty-three officers and sailors, survivors of the Haytian gunboat Liberté, were condemned to death for mutiny.

Crowds paraded the streets in Guayaquil in protest against the proposed lease of the Galapagos Islands to the United States.

Both Peru and Ecuador charge invasion of the frontier, several men were killed in the fighting; grave fear of war is entertained.

Plans for a trust company to be organized to relieve Mrs. Hetty Green of her financial burdens were outlined by her son, Colonel E. H. R. Green.

The Pacific Coast Line steamer Cottage City was wrecked on the coast of British Columbia; the passengers and men escaped in the vessel's boats.

Opinion in Canada generally favors the reciprocity agreement on the ground that a great increase of trade with the United States would result therefrom.

President Taft and members of the administration are confident of the adoption of the Canadian reciprocity agreement, although strong opposition is developing in Congress.

The United States Supreme Court dismissed the boycott suit of the Buck's Store Company against the American Federation of Labor on the ground that it had been settled out of court.

It was learned at Albany that the Democratic leaders were making a canvass for a compromise candidate for United States Senator; there was no quorum present at the joint legislative session.

Congress—Senate: Most of the day was occupied by Mr. Cummins, who closed his speech opposing the majority report of the Lorimer investigating committee. House: The District of Columbia appropriation bill was under discussion.

Deputy Commissioner Flynn, of New York, said the police had ceased looking for Miss Dorothy Arnold because they were sure no harm had come to her and that she would return to her home, though her father said he thought she was dead.

Public Service Commissioner Martin Decker announced at Utica that, as the result of a hearing held there, there would be ordered a general reduction averaging 20 per cent in the charges of carrying all express packages under one hundred pounds weight.

The Standard Oil Company filed its first suits for libel, demanding $250,000 damages from the publisher and $100,000 damages from Cleveland Moffett, writer of an article in "Hampton's Magazine" for February, charging the company with selling poisonous glucose.

HERE AND THERE.

A. T. Stewart, the famous New York merchant, was shown one day by one of his confidential employees an amusing caricature of himself done in pencil, says an exchange.

"Good, good!" he laughed, "that's excellent. Who did it?"
"A young salesman at the linen counter. He scratched it off as you passed the other morning. I managed to get it from him and now he's scared stiff for fear you'll see it," was the laughing reply.

"Scared stiff, is he?" said Mr. Stewart, with a twinkle in his eye. "Just send him to me, will you?"

A little later a slim youth entered Mr. Stewart's private office and said he understood he had been sent for.

"Yes," said Mr. Stewart gravely, and holding up the sketch asked, "Did you do this?"

The lad grew pale and stammered: "I—I beg your pardon, sir—it was only a bit of fun—I meant no offense."

"That's all very well, but you'll have to give up your job here." The youth humbly protested, when Mr. Stewart burst out laughing and said: "Don't say any more, my boy; I'm only joking. Your sketch is excellent, and as it would be a sin to keep a man of your artistic talent behind a linen counter, I propose to supply you with the means to study art."

Mr. Stewart's proposition was gratefully accepted and it was thus that John R. Rogers, the sculptor, began his artistic career.

Rev. Dr. C. B. Mitchell, of Chicago, will preach at the First M. E. church, his former charge, on Sunday, February 5, morning and evening, and on the following Monday night he will deliver his lecture on "The Original Idiot," in that church.

Harold Gernert, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Gernert, is slowly recovering from the effects of a skating accident, which occurred a few days ago on Doughty Pond. He fell heavily on the ice, breaking several bones in his ankle.

The Armour stock farm has just shipped 100 finely bred trotting colts to New York. Mr. Bradley, owner, will soon stock his farm with several hundred young mules. Many will be used in his contracting business in New York.

The condition of Rev. Dr. William H. DeHart, pastor of the Third Reformed church in Raritan, continues to improve.

Archibald Taylor, of East High street, left this week for Denver, where he intends spending several months.

Dean Gessner Better.

Very Rev. Dean Gessner, rector of St. Patrick's church, Elizabeth, who was a victim of the grip, has so far recovered that he was able to be out in the church for a short time yesterday morning. The malady, however, has left him in a much enfeebled condition, owing to his advanced age. Numerous telephone messages were received during the day at the rectory inquiring as to his condition. When told about this Dean Gessner smiled and said he was not quite ready to die yet.

The Junior Mission Band, of the First Baptist church, is planning to give an entertainment in the church in the near future for the benefit of mission work.

"Alma, Where Do You Live?"

whose long run at Joe Weber's theatre continues with unabated success, will remain in its present house for the balance of the season. No production which has appeared on Broadway this year has won the popular favor accorded this interesting musical comedy. Bright lines, catchy music and laughable comedy situations are the foundations upon which this play is constituted, and so well has the author builded that the box office of the cozy Weber play house has enjoyed a season of almost unprecedented prosperity. The featured principles, Truly Shattuck and John McCluckey, have won personal success in their parts, their beautifully trained voices blending most harmoniously in the duet numbers, and their artistic interpretation of the roles of Alma and Pierre compelling applause.

Apparently cast in a characteristic Otis Skinner part—that of Denis Roulet, clockmaker, strolling player royster, conspirator, in short, fearless adventurer, one to come life in a play and living merely a succession of fictitious parts—Mr. Skinner appears at the Criterion theatre in Henri Lavedan's "Sire." This is the newest of Henri Lavedan plays to find its way into Broadway since "The Duel," in which Mr. Skinner also performed four years ago. "Sire" is in four acts. Its story evidently took form in its author's fancy by the simple process of reflecting upon the drama and comedy that must actually have been enacted in many a Royallist French family because of the blind belief of its members that the son of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette did not die in the Temple, but survived and was still (1848) in hiding, ready to ascend the throne as Louis XVI. That is, "Sire" is not a historic drama or comedy; it makes no pretense at adding to the multitude of theories current in France, especially in Bourbon, France, concerning the fate of the lost Dauphin.

GLOUCESTER FISH MEN RISE UP TO PROTEST.

While flags on the fishing fleet were flown at half mast, union down, at Gloucester, Mass., yesterday, as a protest, those who oppose the agreement for reciprocity with Canada, including free fish, are planning a bitter fight before Congress. Gloucester fishing interests declare that they will be supported by the entire fishing interests in the country and that telegrams are pouring in from all ports on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts pledging aid.

A committee is to be appointed today to act with similar committees representing the Atlantic and Pacific cod, herring, mackerel and salmon fisheries in opposing the ratification of the agreement.

The Junior Epworth League of the First M. E. church met yesterday afternoon in Vincent chapel and enjoyed a special program under the direction of Miss May Randolph, superintendent.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

A class of thirty-five was graduated from the State Normal School, Trenton, last evening.

Plans for the "old home" week celebration in Millville are being rapidly perfected, and the affair promises to be elaborate.

Merchandise to the value of $100 was taken by burglars early Thursday morning from the general store of Miss Allie Sickler, at Sickerville, Camden county.

The boys of the Salem Y. M. C. A. have organized a "State Senate," a representative being selected for each of the counties of the State, and questions of importance in the State are being taken up.

At a conference Thursday afternoon between Dr. Kalmson von Heitling and Dr. Victor Beoska, of Dundee, it was decided to drop all efforts to establish a hospital in that section of Passaic, for the present.

A Salem concern has shipped two carloads of canning machinery to the National Cannery convention to be held at Milwaukee next month. A corps of fifteen men will go out to operate the machinery.

The W. C. T. U. has appealed to the Millville authorities to stop the sale of "rock-and-rye" candies at confectionery stores. The women claim that children who buy the drops may acquire an appetite for liquor.

His skull fractured and his right arm broken by a fall of twenty-five feet at the plant of the New York Shipbuilding Company, Arnold Pascoe, twenty-two years old, of 635 Royden street, Camden, died in Cooper Hospital Thursday.

The insurance companies are still holding off the claims of the Woodbury Board of Education for the loss on the High School building burned last month. The board wants the full insurance, $56,000, while the companies offer $50,000.

State Road Commissioner Gilkyson has approved the plans for the third section of the Seashore road, from Beesley's Point to Marshall's store, a distance of seven miles, and work will soon be started. This is part of the State Ocean boulevard.

Trenton police authorities are searching every nook and corner for John Dankowitz, who was last seen in the company of well-known characters Christmas Day. He was well known to have had considerable money and foul play is suspected.

For sending in two false alarms of fire "just for the fun and excitement of seeing the horses run," Ernest Wetthammer, nine years old, and George Hurdell, thirteen years old, were fined $25 each by Recorder Stockhouse Thursday in the Camden police court.

Brought into court for desertion, on charges preferred by Acting Overseer of the Poor De Hart, of Atlantic City, Nathan Pincus, a musician, Thursday "kissed and made up" with his wife and the charge was dismissed. The prisoner seemed touched and when he and his wife left the courtroom each held the hand of one of their two small children.

Asserting that her husband had been brutal to her ever since they were married seven years ago, Mrs. Daniel Toomey, in the Camden Police Court, Thursday told Recorder Stockhouse that she would have been without the necessities of life had it not been for assistance rendered by her mother. Toomey, who pleaded enforced idleness, was directed to pay his wife $3 weekly for her support.

W. P. Broakwater, of Bridgeton, has been held in $250 bail by Justice of the Peace Paulin, for the non-support of his wife. At the hearing the eighteen-year-old wife declared that their marriage was illegal as her husband had another wife living at the time of their marriage. Mrs. Broakwater has instituted divorce proceedings against her "illegal" husband, and the authorities are wondering what the next move will be.

SPORTS News and Notes

BASEBALL.

The majority of fans judge a ball player by the number of errors he makes or doesn't make. Errors do count when a certain number is reached, but until they affect a player's fielding, which is seldom in a major league, they are only looked upon as incidents of the game.

Fred Tenney tells a story on Billings, one of the old Boston owners. Tenney was playing the greatest game of his career, when Billings summoned him to his office. The owner had a newspaper report of the two Boston club's fielding records. "See here, Tenney," he said severely, "how does it happen that you are off in your fielding lately? La Chance is fifteen points ahead of you."

"Did you think my fielding was off color before you looked at the paper?" Tenney inquired.

"No," Billings replied, slowly. "But when figures are so plain as that—"

"Mr. Billings," said Tenney "the owners of the American League team would give you La Chance for me any time you want to make the proposition."

Billings never talked fielding averages with him again.

The franchise of the eight clubs in the New York State League, which expired yesterday, were renewed for five years, numerous constitutional amendments were adopted. John H. Farrell was re-elected president, secretary and treasurer, and the salary limit was fixed at $3,000, at the annual meeting of the organization.

It was decided that in the event of a club's retiring from membership and another being chosen to fill its place, the retiring club will not have a vote on the question.

Any club or officer carrying a dispute into court automatically forfeits the franchise and membership in the league. In case of a tie for the championship five games will be played, instead of three, as heretofore. The meeting adjourned, to meet in March at Binghamton. Manager Clark, of the Albany team, announced the purchase of infielder E. S. Havel from the New Britain club of the Connecticut League.

President Lynch, of the National League, yesterday announced approval of the following contracts and releases: Contracts—With Boston, Charles E. Brown, Joseph J. Callahan, O. L. Herzog, Wilbur Gooden, Bayard H. Sharpe; with Chicago, Harry McIntyre; with New York, Frank Forsythe, J. W. Jenkins, Jack Johnston, Frank Manush, Fred C. Merkle; with Philadelphia, F. ### Change in Billing "Foreign Messages."

FOLLOWING the suggestion of many of our subscribers, that bills for tolls, or "foreign messages," be rendered as promptly as possible, we are adopting a new method of billing for such messages. Heretofore charges for "foreign messages" sent during any month have appeared on the bill for the second month following, or, some thirty days after the "foreign messages" were sent. After a careful study of the whole accounting problem, a change has been decided upon, by which the billing of "foreign messages" will be brought up to within ten days of the end of the month during which messages were sent.

To make this change effective at once, and to bring the billing up to date, the bills to be sent out February 1st will carry charges for "foreign messages" for the month of December, under the old method, and up to and including January 20th, under the new method. Subsequent bills will cover charges for "foreign messages" from the 21st of one month up to and including the 20th of the next month. For instance, the March 1st bill will include such charges from January 21st up to and including February 20th.

In addition to bills being rendered as promptly as possible after the "foreign messages" are sent, a memorandum will accompany the bill showing the dates on which the "foreign messages" were sent. The additional data will aid the subscriber in checking his accounts.

name of "Bugs," sent in his signed contract to the New York National League club yesterday, the document being forwarded from Dwight, Ill., where Raymond will stay for three more weeks. If Raymond keeps in trim, he ought to shatter some pitching records next season. He has done marvelous work when he did not take proper care of himself, and there is no telling what he can do when he attends strictly to business.

The playing schedules of both major leagues are now practically arranged. Most of the work was done in Cincinnati, and since that time the committees of each league have been making some minor changes. The National League owners will meet in New York to adopt the schedule about the middle of February. At that meeting President Lynch will announce any changes that are to be made in his umpiring staff. It is expected that at least two new umpires will be appointed.

Manager Connie Mack and his bride arrived in New York yesterday on the Mauretania, which made a record-breaking run from Liverpool to New York. Connie was greeted at the pier by a number of his friends. It is not likely that he will return to Philadelphia before today or tomorrow.

Benjamin Kauff, an outfielder of the Parkersburg, W. Va. league team, was signed by the Yankees yesterday. Kauff is a left-handed batsman and is said to be something of a hitter. He will report at Athens, Ga., to Arthur Irwin for spring training.

GOLF.

According to Bernard Darwin, a well known English amateur, most golfers do not realize the fact that they are indifferent putters and that when they do putt well it is only through a fit of inspiration. Continuing, he says:

"We recognize the fact that we are radically bad putters and that we only putt well through a fit of inspiration. When the inspiration is on us we are afraid of wasting any one of our good putts, and we know by bitter experience that the inspiration cannot last long. It is a terrible confession of weakness. I really do not know how much the very best of putters do practise. Tom Ball is reported to do so assiduously. I do not know with how much truth. Mr. Travis certainly practises enormously but he is a player with wonderful powers of concentration. I remember Mr. Tait putting hard at the practice holes at Hoylake, before a certain great match he played in the championship with Mr. Hilton, and Jamie Anderson, so we read in the "Badminton," used to play two rounds of the ladies' links at St. Andrews, which is a putting course, every day before breakfast.

A. H. Pogsöhl, chairman of the Metropolitan Golf Association Handicap Committee, has sent out handicap blanks to all the clubs in the district with the request that they be filled out and returned not later than February 7. The clubs are requested to return handicaps up to eleven strokes, inclusive, based on par and prepared according to detailed instruction. The Handicap Committee is made up of A. H. Pogsöhl, J. E. Erickson, F. J. Phillips, George H. Barnes and Wyatt W. Taylor.

MORE POLICEMEN FOR TOWNS, OSBORNE'S AIM.

Senator Harry V. Osborne had never given much thought to the number of policemen he met on his way home late at night until he moved to South Orange a year or two ago. Then he became aware that the minions of the law were pitifully few and far between, and started out to find the reason why.

Mr. Osborne found many of his fellow-citizens of the same mind as himself, but was confronted by the officials of the village with the information that a State law made it unlawful for any municipality to have more than one policeman for each 700 persons.

The Senator came to the conclusion that such interference as this by the State in the purely private affairs of a municipality was unequalled for and so he introduced in the Senate at Trenton, Tuesday a bill taking the restriction out of the present act and giving each city and town the right to employ as many police officers as its needs require.

A clause in the bill provides that nothing in the new measure shall restrict or diminish the number of policemen now serving in each municipality, or affect the appointment of superior officers.

Mrs. Charles Conover, of Elmwood place, has recovered from a recent severe attack of grip.

Mrs. A. D. Edgar, of East Front street, has been visiting relatives at Lebanon, Hunterdon county.

—W. H. Hillman has been appointed manager of J. C. Field, Jr.'s stationery store on Park avenue.

Mrs. T. A. Garthwaite, of West Front street, who has been ill since the death of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. Hatfield, is much improved. She will leave today for Philadelphia where she will visit her cousin, Mrs. Peter Gray, for a time.

EAGLES' PAST CHIEFS' GATHER AT BANQUET

The Past Chiefs' Association, District No. 10, comprising New Brunswick, Plainfield and Somerville, held its annual meeting and banquet at the Hotel Waldorf last night. There were about fifty of the seventy-five members present, representing the three towns. Prior to the banquet, there was a short business meeting, when these officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Lewis C. Davis, of Golden Crown Castle, No. 52, Somerville; vice-president, William Day, Freedom Castle, No. 42, Plainfield; secretary, Granville Moore, New Brunswick Castle, No. 71, New Brunswick; treasurer, Robert V. Kinney, Freedom Castle, No. 42, Plainfield; sergeant-at-arms, Arthur Hardy, New Brunswick Castle, No. 71, New Brunswick. It was also decided to hold the next meeting in Somerville on Thursday, March 30.

Completing this business the past chiefs adjourned to the banquet room of the hotel, where Henry Windham provided a fine repast for his guests. The dining-room was tastefully decorated for the occasion, while the menu left nothing to be desired. Mr. Windham was highly complemented in the speeches which followed.

The printed menu was a novel affair, having been arranged by Past Chief William Day, of this city. It was appropriately illustrated with cuts, and this paragraph amused the knights:

"Man is the only animal that was made to laugh. Laughter makes you healthy; it increases your blood circulation; it enlarges the heart; it expands the lungs; it jiggers the diaphragm; it promotes the dioculation of the spleen. Never trust a man who laughs from his neck up. An honest man laughs from his diaphragm, and there is much truth in this 'mirth cure.' It will never be advertised, because laughter is free and you can't sell it. 'Laugh and the world laughs with you; snore and you sleep alone. Smoke up.'"

After the banquet there were a number of excellent speeches pertaining to the welfare and progress of the association, as well as the order in general. Those who spoke were Past Grand Chiefs L. C. Davis, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, Horace J. Martin, M. F. Gano, Granville Moore, William Day, Thomas Depew, Frank Bailey, and Fred Van Doren.

The affair was concluded with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne." The past chiefs present were:

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

More than passing interest attaches to the appearance at the Plainfield theatre, Saturday, February 4, matinee and night, of the popular American actor, Wilton Lackaye in Charles T. Dazey's latest comedy-drama "The Stranger." Like "In Old Kentucky," which still retains a following of generous proportions among discriminating theatregoers, "The Stranger" is a Southern play, the action being laid in a little Georgian town. There is the true Southern touch which distinguished Mr. Dazey's earlier effort. The Characters are such as can be found almost anywhere in that part of the country, and they are drawn with fidelity to actual conditions. There is much good in the story.

Raising of the Maine.

The newspapers of Spain are giving much space to dispatches from the United States describing the investigations incident to the raising of the wreck of the battleship Maine in Havana Harbor. They appear peculiarly interested in anything in the way of evidence that the warship was lost as the result of an explosion from within. Moderate comments are made on the injustice of the Spanish-American War.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

John Fenner, the local hardware dealer, has leased the corner store of the Gray building at North and Washington avenues and will take possession Monday. This will give him the entire premises and has been made necessary owing to his increased business. Mr. Fenner will enlarge his business in accordance and carry a stock second to none in this part of the state.

Miss Emma Voorhees, of the borough, will succeed Miss Anna Allen, as book-keeper for D. T. Hume and son. She is at present employed in the Wodhull-Martin store in Plainfield, but will leave today and assume her new duties on February 6.

Mrs. Bridget Boyle, who has been seriously ill at her home on North avenue, is now much improved. Her son, Bernard Boyle, who was called from Crawfordville, Ind., by her dangerous condition, will probably return home the first of the week.

Harry Kirchhoff's new pharmacy will probably be opened on the first of the month. The fixtures are all in place with the exception of the soda fountain which has been delayed in transit.

Walter Blair, of New Market, is one of the latest additions to the sick list, being a victim of grip. Dr. Platt is in attendance.

The new owners of C. T. Rogers general merchandise business at New Market, will take possession on February 10.

Adam Denlaman, who has been seriously ill, is now much improved.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The special week end meetings at the Methodist church are being well attended. Rev. Mr. Hollingshead is being assisted in the meetings by fellow students at Drew Seminary. Services are being held Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights and every one is invited to attend.

The building recently purchased by the Borough Council is being altered to suit the needs of the borough, a court room and Borough Council meeting room is to be made and a number of other improvements made.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be held at the usual hour, morning preaching by the pastor at 10:45; Bible study meeting at 4 p. m.; B. Y. P. U. meeting at 7 p. m.

Joseph Meier has sold his property on Midway avenue in the borough, to a New York party, who will take possession February 1.

John B. Stillger, of Brooklyn, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Frederick K. Clark, of Front street.

Mrs. Frank Corrona, of Prospect avenue, has been entertaining friends from out of town.

HERE AND THERE.

I've battled hard for forty years—
Stood many a bump and toss;
But now, b'jocks—hooray! hooray!
Old Jim put one across.

It's the U. S. Senate now for mine—
Some class to that—eh, wot?
You thought I was a "has been"?
huh!

Well, Jimmy's right on top.

Say, boys, let's have a rousing cheer:
"Three cheers for Sunny Jim!"
Correct! line up; take what you want
What's mine? Oh, I'll take gin.

SCHENCK TURNS WIFE DOWN.

Says He Will Never Take Woman Back.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 28.—In his first public interview since the arrest of his wife on the charge of poisoning him with arsenic and lead, John Schenck said yesterday that he would never take his wife back if she should eventually be acquitted of the charge. He was bitterly disappointed at the failure of the jury to agree on a verdict of guilty, and declared that he would not, unless forced to, stand any of the expense of his wife's first trial. Mr. Schenck declared with emphasis that he would never give up his children to the woman unless forced to by the courts.

Didn't Lose Pocketbook.

Judge DeMeza gave James Murray and Joseph Kerr ten minutes to leave town in yesterday afternoon. The two men were arrested on complaint of James Patterson who charged them with stealing his pocketbook while riding on a main line trolley car. As a matter of fact the pocketbook with its contents safe was found in the pocket of another pair of Patterson's trousers after the pair of alleged pickpockets had been thoroughly searched at police headquarters.

Says He is Incorrigible.

Michael Shapiro, an alleged incorrigible Hebrew boy, twelve years old, was put in charge of assistant probation officer Hamilton this morning. Max Shapiro, the boy's father, said that he was unable to control him although he had used moral suasion, and had even resorted to corporal punishment. The youngster was not at all fazed by his punishment and left the court smiling to give Mr. Hamilton his pedigree.

Saddening Effect.

She—I wonder what it is down here by the sea that makes one so sad?

He—I don't know unless it's because your pocketbook can't keep pace with the scenery.

Had to Talk.

He—I thought you said those two women didn't speak to each other?
She—They didn't, but one of them had a secret she couldn't keep any longer.

The Plainfield Lyceum will give a sacred concert at Bethel chapel, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. A special musical program has been arranged. A silver offering will be received at the door.

THEIR SUDDEN CHANGES.

"We've had some sudden changes in the weather lately," remarked the butcher, as he delivered a porterhouse steak at the janitor's door.

"Yes," responded the janitor, who was watching the retreating hand on his heater gauge, "but they ain't nothin' to the sudden changes that me tenants has."

"How is that?" asked the interested butcher.

"Why," explained the janitor, when he had hastened the speed of the hand on the gauge by closing the damper, "th' very exact instant me tenants gits cold they gits hot."

No Use for Back Numbers.

The up-to-date society maiden was having her palm read.
"And I see a handsome youth," confessed the fortune teller, "who will love you in the same old way."
But the society girl tossed her head with impatience.
"Oh, bother the same old way," she pouted. "I want the new-fashioned way. Motor-boat trips and aeroplane flights by moonlight and all those things."

Bright Lad.

The teacher was trying to familiarize her little pupils with the definition of the word "tame."
"And what do most animals become after they have been in the zoo a long time?" she asked her class.
Up went the chubby hand of the little boy in the blue reefer.
"Please, ma'am, I know," he chirped.
"What, Willie?"
"Peanut eaters, ma'am."

Historically Accurate.

Roman Citizen (just a few B. C.)—
See here! What do you mean by smoking? Don't you know that tobacco won't be introduced into Europe for 1,500 years?

Marcus Scapulus—Oh, that's all right, old sport! Roman soldiers smoke. Didn't I see one of 'em smoking a "perfecto" in the Hudson-Fulton carnival parade up in New York?—Puck.

HER PREFERENCE.

Lodger (chaffing)—Well, Biddy, wouldn't you like to marry a young man with a future?
Biddy—Sure, then, I'd rather have an old man without one.

Natural.

Now, when the wind, like icy bat,
Strikes my poor frame and leaves a sting,
I wish I had my ulster that
I gave away in balmy spring.

Getting Wise.

"Before I married," said Mr. Henpeck, "I didn't know what it meant to support a wife."
"I presume you know now?"
"Yes, indeed. I looked up the word 'support' in the dictionary and discovered that one of its meanings is 'endure.'"

Race Dangers.

"Yes, my boy."
"This paper says that no race is safe from cholera."
"Is that so? Well, my son, you mustn't go in any more of those Marathons, then!"—Yonkers Statesman.

An Accident.

"There was a time," said the has been, "when I had the world at my feet."
"Well?" queried the man who had arrived.
"Then," concluded the other, "my foot slipped."

Literary Advice.

"I'm thinking of writing a novel."
"Don't do it."
"Don't write a novel?"
"No; don't think about writing it and then you may be able to turn out a best seller."

Trucking.

"I raised all the wood in that truck on my own farm," said the man on the wagon.
"Oh, I see; yours is a truck farm?" replied the innocent one.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Reason.

"When I was your age, sir, I got home early and did not spend money foolishly."
"You must have married mighty young, dad."

Appropriate Gardening.

"How many smoke trees there are in that garden?"
"Yes; it belongs to a tobacconist."

SHORT JACKETS.

Bid Fair to Be Leaders Among Early Spring Fads.

Odd Little Garments Add Much to a Smart Toilet—Fur a Much Used Trimming For Gowns and Mantles.

From now on look out for the arrival of the little jacket in endless shapes and developments. Winter is hardly the time to bring it in in pronounced and varied styles, but now that spring clothes may be looked for to crop out here and there the little jacket is sure to occupy a very important place, if not the center of the stage.

The jacket shown in the drawing is one of the early manifestations. Here it is of black velvet, a sleeveless affair with girle of the same material and a wide band of fur to shorten the waist line. This band has a jaunty finish of tails and a fur covered ornament. The neck is plain, a mere crossover, which, with its hard outline, brings out the daintiness of the lace yoke underneath. The band of the skirt and the sleeves are of lace over gold tissue. The fur band at the hem of the skirt is too familiar these days to need comment. Street gowns, dinner toilets, dance frocks sometimes and even matinees all receive such treatment.

The long, all enveloping mantles are the most conspicuous things in any group of persons gowned or wrapped for evening. Some of the mantles are rich in the extreme. They are made of all fur, of velvet trimmed with fur, of costly brocades, of sheer stuffs with snug interlinings, of satins, silks and cloths. But one and all owe much of their effect to fur trimmings. These all enveloping mantles have all but taken the place of the tailor made coat and skirt suit this season, for they appear over gowns mornings and afternoons as well as evenings.

A new fancy in the linings of long coats is the use of a pale color in the upper part and a dark one at the bottom. The fad is certainly practical, for the long coats are subjected to soil from the payments as much as a skirt and the dark lining at the bottom saves some of the murky appearance that is sure to appear in a light lining with a few times' wearing.

In the ermine furs that have been coming out for southern use—ermine is an ideal fur for sunny lands—some are made up in stoies and muffs with the little skins arranged to form a number of Vandey points in the center, while the outer edges are bordered with another fur. Some such sets have linings of seal and facings of seal and may be worn either side out. Fur is used in an endless number of ways by the milliner. A big picture hat covered smoothly with white kid and lined with brown velvet has a gold cord around the crown at the bottom, and around the high crown at the top there is a whole sable skin, the head at one side of the front and the tail and paws falling off at the other side of the front.

Coats and hats are the first interest of every one as a new season approaches, and this time the interest is unusually keen because there is a general feeling that a definite change of the styles is at hand.

The best argument against excess of physical training is the fact that few great athletes attain to great age.

There is no need for any one being excessively thin. Proper exercise, nourishing food and abundance of sleep will build up the emaciated body and develop arms that were thin, legs that were spindly and chests that were flat.

ATTRACTIVE KIMONO BLOUSE.

Large Variety of Materials Available, in Connection With Gold Lace and Embroidery, For Its Perfection.

This season the question of blouses is important, because every woman, whether she makes an attempt at elaborate dressing or strives only for plain effects, must give her waists special attention. This being the case, any model that has smart lines and is simple and easy to make will find many admirers, and the blouse pictured here fills all these requirements.

For wear with a coat suit this model will be attractive if developed in silk or in marquisette laid over a silk lining.

If this blouse is to complete a costume, broadcloth, cashmere, henrietta, challis, nun's veiling or some of the novelty silk and woolen weaves would be an excellent selection.

In order to cut the waist as pictured without piecing the goods must be thirty-six or more inches wide, and one and one-quarter yards will be needed.

To make a model in this type the trimming and yoke material are as important factors as the choice of the goods for the blouse.

As trimming for the garment bands of net braided or embroidered will be effective on chiffon or marquisette. The yoke of such a blouse could be of net in a matching color laid over gold or silver cloth.

If the waist is to form part of a costume the banding could be of silk and the yoke of baby Irish or cluny lace. If an elaborate dress is wanted the yoke band of the silk could be shaped so it would extend in points on the front of the waist. The edges could be couched with heavy silk floss in the same color, but a shade or two lighter than the silk.

Hand embroidery, cleverly arranged so it lies over the edges of the silk bands and parts extend on the cloth, will add to the attractive appearance of the waist. If more elaboration is needed insets of lace that match in pattern with that used for the yoke would be effective and harmonious. This lace should be caught around the edges to the material invisibly and the goods cut from beneath.

ORIENTAL SASHES.

Fashion Dictates That They Must Be Tied to Give a Distinctly Japanese Effect.

This is the way to tie your sash. The effect is distinctly Japanese, especially the oblique arrangement of the thick velvet ornamented with silver cords and cabochons.

But as they are the very latest from Paris these sashes will find favor with us, and some dresses past the first youth will gain a new lease of life from the sash with long wide ends which cover up such a multitude of discrepancies.

The illustration here shows that the waist line is still to be high, but it has always been noticeable that the minute a wide sash appears in the fashions the belt line comes down. This is because every woman likes to appear as slender as possible, and by just giving the sash a little point in the front and pinning it down she acquires the desired effect and lengthens the waist line.

The obi sash can only be worn by a very slight figure, for the double folds of chiffon velvet even in the finest quality cannot be said to diminish one's size. The upper part of the bow, which is fastened to the waist—in this case to the coat—is distinctly Japanese in appearance and has a tendency to make the back look wide, an effect not usually desired. However, it is smart and will be worn, like everything else that is new and unusual.

This model is of deep gray velvet, the obi and the bottom of the dress being the same color, while the coat itself is of a dull rose colored cloth embroidered in silver and hose. There is a band of fur around the bottom of the dress and another band of blue fox at the hem of the coat. A large black velvet hat trimmed with dull rose wings completes the costume.

There is, besides, the "pinwheel" bow, made of soft satin, with six large loops arranged to resemble a child's pinwheel around a central piece of stiffening covered with a chon of the same satin.

There are other arrangements in bows, some being stiff little affairs for afternoon dress, others being chiffon bows draped on the frock. A butterfly bow in black crepe de chine without ends is also suggested. The bow is securely fastened to the dress at all points.

MILKING A KICKER.

An Arrangement of Boards That Will Protect the Milker From Injury.

Many devices and suggestions are annually brought forward for the best method of milking a kicking cow. All of them are good, and the selection of one of the methods depends merely on its convenience to the individual.

Here is a suggestion which may prove effective with a great many dairymen:

Tie the cow in a stall, allowing her no surplus rope. To the right hand manger post bolt (loosely) a board that will reach to opposite left hand post at rear of cow. The board should be a little springy, but strong. A simple catch will hold the board in place. Since all stables are not made alike the general principles can only be given. But the main point is to have the board so adjusted as to press firmly against the cow's right side. Thus a wedge shaped space between board and partition is obtained in which the cow is securely held.

In the illustration the right hand partition is removed to give a better view of device. A hook made of heavy wire serves to hold board up out of the way when not in use.

SCOURS IN CALVES.

A Good Method of Prevention of and Cure For This Infectious Disease.

Scours, or calf cholera, is a serious complaint and very difficult to overcome.

It is an infection caused by one of two or three different specific germs which gain access to the blood of the calves through some wound or broken skin surface. The germ is present some place in the barn or lots. First thoroughly clean and disinfect all calf pens, barns and sheds inhabited by the calves. Keep the calves out of mud or wet stalls. These considerations are incidental to the main prevention, but must be given very careful attention. It will be found a hard fight, and every precaution must be taken in a thorough manner.

The main operation in preventing the disease is to watch closely for the birth of all calves. Have a strong string soaked in a solution of creolin or lysol, and just as soon as the youngster is born thoroughly bathe and disinfect the umbilical cord and tie the string tightly around the cord close to the body. This is the usual source of infection.

Without these precautions the disease will probably never be eliminated, but where all of them are carefully observed, and especially in the latter, the trouble will soon die out. The infection is not caused by the feed. Experienced breeders have found that to prevent scours in young calves an excellent plan is to feed a teaspoonful of blood flour, which can be purchased direct from the packers, in each feed of milk given to each calf.

COMFORT FOR COWS.

Neglect Will Rapidly Result in a Decreased Production of Milk.

If stock is made uncomfortable by being fed at irregular times, so that they spend a great deal of their time expecting to be fed, the discomfort shows in lower production. If they are made uncomfortable by having a poor bed, by being roughly handled, by having a dog set on them or by being left out in the cold or allowed to go thirsty, these conditions result in decreased production.

One of the great advantages of weighing the milk every day from each cow is that it gives one a quick check on any condition that brings about discomfort to his animals. If any cow shows a dropping off of the milk flow, as a rule, a little observation will show that she has been made uncomfortable in some of the ways mentioned above, and knowing these facts, the farmer is able to check these unfavorable conditions quickly.

If you want to know how long to allow cows to stay out in the winter just take off your coat and go out into the yard and stand around awhile. When you begin to feel uncomfortable and feel like going into the house put the cows in the barn.

Various boards of health, government inspectors and sanitarians everywhere urge the use of manufactured ICE.

Why? BECAUSE it is pure. We manufacture the purest Ice that can be produced and sell no other. PRICES REASONABLE.

The DAIRY

DAIRYING IN WINTER.

The Advantages That Can Be Derived Therefrom if Proper Methods Are Pursued.

Those having cows giving milk this winter are fortunate, as there is a good demand for all dairy products at excellent prices. Besides this, there is generally an abundant supply of feeding material for the production of milk throughout the country. In New England there was a large crop of hay, at the west the crop of corn was the greatest ever grown, while over the country generally the several grains have yielded well.

Silens have also been increasing in number, which shows the continued interest that is manifested in the value of the corn plant in the form of ensilage for the dairy.

With this combination of the different kinds of feeds, along with proper barn arrangements and good care, the cows should be made to do their best in the production of milk even in winter.

It would be better if more attention were given to this kind of work at least in that part of the country where the conditions are the most favorable. Of course there needs to be good barns with convenient, comfortable stalls for the purpose both for the cows and those who have the care of them. Then with a variety of suitable fodder there should be the best of success.

More grain has been raised, which will be of help to the farmer. With milk and butter at high prices it certainly will pay to feed liberally—not to waste, but as much as the cows can make a good and profitable use of.

There is usually plenty of time to attend to this kind of work, more than in the busy season of the year. Another advantage is the rearing of calves in winter for the use of the dairy.

With proper feed and care from the first these little animals will grow and thrive just as well as in warm weather and by next May will be large enough to turn to pasture and care for themselves.

Every farmer should endeavor to do a little better the coming year than the last, making such progress as will be fully discernible not only to himself, but also to others.

A BAG FILLER.

A Very Simple Way to Make Work of Storing Potatoes, Apples, Etc., Lighter.

It very often happens that one wishes to fill sacks with small grain, apples, potatoes, etc., but has no one to help hold the bag. An excellent method of doing this is to procure an old wooden or metal bucket and knock out the bottom. If it is a metal bucket, file the edges smooth to prevent its tearing the bag. Set the bucket in the mouth of the bag as shown in the illustration and you will have no trouble in filling it.

SKIMMILK.

Its Value as a Marketable Commodity and as a Feed is Generally Underestimated.

Comparatively few people appreciate the value of skimmilk when properly used. If we refer to experiments that have been conducted with skimmilk we find prices put upon it varying from 15 cents to over a dollar per hundred. It depends upon the kind of live stock that receives the skimmilk with what feeds it is mixed, how it is handled, etc., as to the amount received for it.

When tankage sells for $40 per ton skimmilk is worth 15 cents per hundred for feeding pigs. When a well bred grade dairy calf is raised on skimmilk it easily returns to the farmer 50 cents per hundred, for grade dairy calves readily sell for $25 apiece at six months of age. If fed to pure bred the skimmilk amounts to considerably more.

When skimmilk is fed to poultry it is worth at least a dollar per hundred. It is plain, therefore, that much depends upon how the skimmilk is used as to what return it gives.

Some farmers are beginning to realize that they have not the comprehension of farm products that will lead to get all out of the farm that is in it. Before farms are organized to yield the highest profit it is going to take earnest thought and co-operation of the farmers.

Cavanagh, Forest Ranger

The Great Conservation
Novel

By HAMLIN GARLAND

Copyright, 1910, by Hamlin Garland

To the casual observer in a town of this character there was nothing specially noticeable in three horsemen driving a pack horse, but to those whose eyes were keen the true relationship of the ranger to his captives was instantly apparent, and when they alighted at Judge Higley's office a bunch of eager observers quickly collected.

"Hello, Joe! What luck?" called Ballard.

"Our luck was a little too good—we caught a game warden," replied the young sportsman.

The ranger was chagrined to find the office of the justice closed for the day and, turning to his captives, said: "I'm hungry, and I've no doubt you are. I'm going to take you into Mike Halsey's saloon for supper, but remember you are my prisoners."

In fifteen minutes the town was rumbling with the news. Under Ballard's devilry all the latent hatred of the ranger and all the concealed opposition to the forest service came to the surface like the scum on a pot of broth. The saloons and eating houses boiled with indignation. "What business is it of Ross Cavanagh's?" they demanded. "What call has he to interfere? He's not a game warden."

"Yes, he is. All these rangers are game wardens," corrected another.

"No, they're not. They have to be commissioned by the governor."

"Well, he's been commissioned. He's warden all right."

"I don't believe it. Anyhow, he's too fresh. He needs to have a halt. Let's do him. Let's bluff him out."

Lee Virginia was in the kitchen superintending the service when one of the waiters came in breathless with excitement. "Ross Cavanagh has shot Joe Gregg for killing sheep!"

Lee faced her with blanched face. "Who told you so?"

"They're all talking about it out there. Gee, but they're hot! Some of 'em want to lynch him."

Lee hurried out into the dining room, which was crowded with men and voicing deep excitement.

A half dozen men were standing before the counter talking with Lize, but Lee pushed in to inquire with white, inquiring face: "What is it all about? What has happened?"

"Nothing much," Lize replied contemptuously, "but you'd think a horse had been stole. Ross has nipped Joe Gregg and one of his herders for killing mountain sheep."

"Do you mean he shot them?"

"Yes; he took their heads."

Lee stood aghast. "What do you mean? Whose heads?"

Lize laughed. "The sheep's heads. Oh, don't be scared! No one is hurt yet."

The girl flushed with confusion as the men roared over her blunder. "One of the rangers told me Mr. Cavanagh had killed a man," she explained. "Where is he?"

Lize betrayed annoyance. "They say he's taking supper at Mike Halsey's, though why he didn't come here I don't see. What's he going to do?" she asked. "Won't the marshal take the men off his hands?"

"Not without warrant from Higley, and Higley is out of town. Ross'll have to hold 'em till Higley gets back or else take 'em over to Chauvenet," Lize snorted. "Old Higley! Yes, he's been known to disappear before when there was some real work to be done."

Lee went back to her own task with a vague sense of alarm. "Certainly they will not dare to interfere with an officer in the discharge of his duties," she thought. She was eager to see him, and the thought that he might be obliged to ride away to Chauvenet without a word to her gave her a deeper feeling of annoyance and unrest. That he was in any real danger she could not believe.

It was disheartening to Cavanagh to see how some of the most influential citizens contrived to give encouragement to the riotous element of the town. A wink, a gesture, a careless word to the proper messenger, conveyed to the saloon rounders an assurance of sympathy which inflamed their resentment to the murderous point. It was confessedly one of the worst communities in the state.

"Let's run Cavanagh!" was the suggestion of several of Gregg's friends.

The fact that the ranger was a commissioned officer of the law and that the ram's head had been found on the poacher's pack made very little difference to these irresponsible instigators to assault. It was wonderful how highly that looting young rascal Joe Gregg, was prized at the moment. "It's an outrage that the son of a leading citizen should be held up in this way by one of the forestry cowboys," declared one of the merchants.

The discussion which took place over the bars of the town was at the riot heat by 9 o'clock, and soon after 10 a crowd of howling, whooping bandits and disreputable ranch hands were parading the walks, breathing out vile threats against the ranger.

Accustomed to men of this type, Cavanagh watched them come and go at Halsey's bar with calculating eyes. "There will be no trouble for an hour or two, but meanwhile what is to be done? Higley is not to be found, and the town marshal is also 'out of town.'" To Halsey he said: "I am acting, as you know, under both federal and state authority, and I call upon you as a law abiding citizen to aid me in holding these men prisoners. I shall camp right here till morning or until the magistrate or the marshal relieves me of my captives."

Halsey was himself a sportsman—a genuine lover of hunting and a fairly consistent upholder of the game laws; but, perceiving that the whole town had apparently lined up in opposition to the ranger, he lost courage. His consent was half hearted, and he edged away toward the front window of his barroom, nervously seeking to be neutral—"to carry water on both shoulders," as the phrase goes.

The talk grew less jocular as the drinks took effect, and Neill Ballard, separating himself from the crowd, came forward, calling loudly: "Come out o' there, Joe! Come out and have a drink!"

His words conveyed less of battle than his tone. He was, in fact, urging a revolt, and Cavanagh knew it.

Gregg rose as if to comply. The ranger stopped him.

"Keep your seat," said he, and to Ballard he warningly remarked, "And you keep away from my prisoners."

"Do you own this saloon?" retorted the fellow truculently. "I reckon Halsey's customers have some rights. What are you doing here, anyway? This is no jail."

"Halsey has given me the privilege of holding my prisoners here till the justice is found. It isn't my fault that the town is without judge or jail." He was weakened by the knowledge that Halsey had only half consented to aid justice, but his pride was roused, and he was determined upon carrying his arrest to its legitimate end. "I'm going to see that these men are punished if I have to carry them to Sulphur City," he added.

"Smash the lights!" shouted some one at the back.

Here was the first real note of war, and Ross cried out sharply, "If a man lifts a hand toward the light I'll cut it off!"

There was a stealthy movement in the crowd, and, leaping upon the counter, a reckless cub reached for the lamp.

Cavanagh's revolver shattered the globe in the fellow's very palm. "Get down from there!" he commanded.

CHAPTER XI.

LIZE PLAYS A MAN'S PART—ALSO LEE.

THE mob besieging Cavanagh in Halsey's saloon had not found its leader. It hesitated and blustered, but did not strike and eventually edged out of the door and disappeared. But the silence which followed its retreat was more alarming to the ranger than its presence. Some slier mischief was in these minds. He feared that they were about to cut the electric light wires and so plunge him into darkness, and to prepare for that emergency he called upon the bartender (Halsey having vanished) for a lamp or a lantern.

The fellow sullenly set about this task, and Ross, turning to Gregg, said, "If you've any influence with this mob you'd better use it to keep them out of mischief, for I'm on this job to the bitter end, and somebody's going to be hurt."

Gregg, who seemed quite detached from the action and rather delighted with it, replied: "I have no influence. They don't care a hang about me. They have it in for you, that's all."

Edwards remained silent, with his hat drawn low over his eyes. It was evident that he was anxious to avoid being seen and quite willing to keep out of the conflict; but, with no handcuffs and the back door of the saloon unguarded, Ross was aware that his guard must be incessant and alertly vigilant.

"Such a thing could not happen under the English flag," he said to himself, and at the moment his adopted country seemed a miserable makeshift. Only the thought of Redfield and the chief nerved him for the long vigil. "The chief will understand if it comes up to him," he said.

Lize Wetherford came hurrying in, looking as though she had just risen from her bed. She was clothed in a long red robe, her grizzled hair was loose, her feet were bare, and she carried a huge old fashioned revolver in her hand. Her mouth was stern.

Stopping abruptly as she caught sight of Ross standing in the middle of the floor unharmed, she exclaimed: "There you are! Are you all right?"

"As a trivet," he replied.

She let her gun hand relax. "What was the shooting?"

"A little bluff on my part."

"Anybody hurt?"

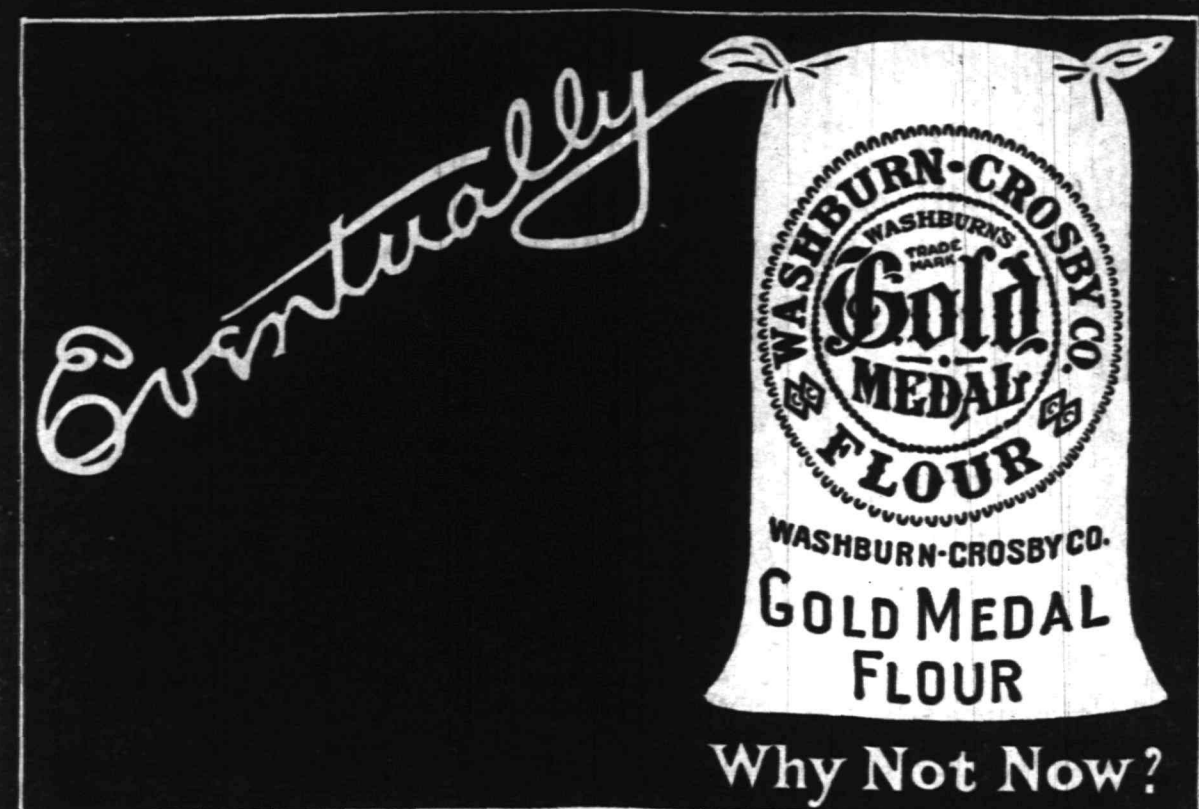

"No."

She was much relieved. "I was afraid they'd got you. I came as quick as I could. I was abed. That fool doctor threw a chill into me, and I've been going to roost early according to orders. I didn't hear your gun, but Lee did, and she came to tell me. Don't let 'em get behind you. If I was any good I'd stay and help. What you going to do—hold your men here all night?"

"I don't see any other way. Halsey turned the place over to me, but—" He looked about him suspiciously.

"Bring 'em into my place. Lee has had new locks put on our doors; they'll help some."

"I don't like to do that, Mrs. Wetherford," he replied, with greater respect

"THERE YOU ARE! ARE YOU ALL RIGHT?"

than he had ever shown her before.

"All the better; I'll be on hand to help. But they're less likely to boil in on you through a locked door."

"But your daughter? It will alarm her."

"She'll be in the other house, and, besides, she'd feel easier if you are in my place. She's all wrought up by the attack on you."

Ross turned to his prisoners. "Follow Mrs. Wetherford and—eyes front!" "You needn't worry about me," said Joe. "I won't run."

"I don't intend to give you a chance," replied Ross.

Edwards seemed to have lost in both courage and physical stature. He slouched along with shuffling step, his head bent and his face pale. Ross was now profoundly sorry for him, so utterly craven and broken was his look.

As Ross brought his two prisoners to the Wetherford House Lee was waiting on the porch of the hotel, tense with excitement, straining her ears and eyes to see what was taking place.

The night had started with a small sickle of moon, but this had dropped below the range, leaving the street dark save where the lights from the windows of the all night eating houses and saloons lay out upon the walk, and while she stood peering out the sound of rancorous howling and shrill whooping came to her ears with such suggestion of ferocity that she shivered.

A few of the hotel guests had gone to bed, but the women were up, excited and nervous, starting at every fresh outburst of whooping, knowing that their sons or husbands were out in the street "to see the fun" and that they might meet trouble.

At last Lee discerned her mother returning from Halsey's, followed by three men. Withdrawing from the little porch where she had been standing, she re-entered the house to meet her mother in the hall. "Where is Mr. Cavanagh?" she asked.

"Out in the dining room. You see, Mike Halsey is no kind of use. He yamoused and left Ross down there alone with his two prisoners and the lights likely to be turned out on him. So I offered the caddy as a calaboose. They are sure, in for a long and tedious night."

Lee was alarmed at her mother's appearance. "You must go to bed. You look ghastly."

"I reckon I'd better lay down for a little while, but I can't sleep. Ross may need me. There isn't a man to help him but me, and that loafer Ballard is full of gall. He's got it in for Ross and will make trouble if he can."

"What can we do?"

"Shoot!" replied Lize, with dry brevity. "I wouldn't mind a chance to plug some of the sweet citizens of this town. I owe them one or two."

With this sentence in her ears Lee Virginia went to her bed, but not to slumber. Her utter inability either to control her mother's action or to influence that of the mob added to her uneasiness.

The singing, shouting, tramping of the crowd went on, and once a group of men halted just outside her window, and she heard Neill Ballard noisily, drunkenly arguing as to the most effective method of taking the prisoners.

"Come on, boys!" said Ballard, his voice filled with reckless determination. "Let's run him."

As they passed the girl sprang up and went to her mother's room to warn her of the threatened attack.

Lize was already awake and calmly loading a second revolver by the light of the electric bulb. A jarring blow was heard. "Hear that? They're breaking in!" said Lize. She started to leave the room.

Lee stopped her. "Where are you going?"

"To help Ross. Here!" She thrust the handle of a smaller weapon into Lee's hand. "Ed Wetherford's girl ought to be able to take care of herself. Come on!"

With a most unheroic horror numbing her limbs, Lee followed her mother through the hall. The sound of shouts and the tramping of feet could be heard, and she came out into the restaurant just in time to photograph upon her brain a scene whose significance was at once apparent. On a chair between his two prisoners and confronting Ballard at the head of a crowd of frenzied villains stood the ranger, a gleaming weapon in his hand, a look of resolution on his face.

What he had said or what he intended to do she did not learn, for her mother rushed at the invaders with the mad bravery of a sea bear. "Get out of here!" she snarled, thrusting her revolver into the very mouth of the leader.

They all fell back in astonishment and fear.

Ross leaped to her side. "Leave them to me!" he said. "I'll clear the room."

"Not on your life! This is my house. I have the right to smash the fools." And she beat them over the heads with her pistol barrel.

Recognizing that she was minded to kill, they retreated over the threshold, and Ross, drawing the door close behind them, turned to find Lee Virginia confronting Edwards, who had attempted to escape into the kitchen. The girl's face was white, but the eye of her revolver stared straight and true into her prisoner's face.

With a bound Ross seized him and flung him against the wall. "Get back there!" he shouted. "You must take your medicine with your boss."

The old fellow hurriedly replaced his ragged hat and, folding his arms, sank back into his chair with bowed head, while Lize turned upon Joe Gregg. "What did you go into this kind of deal for? You knew what the game laws was, didn't you? Your old dad is all for state regulation, and here you are breaking a state law. Why don't you stand up for the code like a sport?"

Joe, who had been boasting of the smiles he had drawn from Lee, did not relish this tongue lashing from her mother; but, assuming a careless air, he said, "I'm all out of smokes; get me a box, that's a good old soul."

Lize regarded him with the expression of one nonplussed. "You impudent little cub!" she exclaimed. "What you need is a booting!"

The ranger addressed himself to Lee. "I want to thank you for a very opportune intervention. I didn't know you could handle a gun so neatly."

She flushed with pleasure. "Oh, yes, I can shoot. My father taught me when I was only six years old."

As she spoke Ross caught the man Edwards studying them with furtive glance, but upon being observed he resumed his crouching attitude, which concealed his face beneath the rim of his weather worn hat. It was evident that he was afraid of being recognized. He had the sinking air of the convict, and his form, so despairing in its lax lines, appealed to Lee with even greater poignancy than his face. "I'm sorry," she said to him, "but it's my duty to help Mr. Cavanagh."

He glanced up with a quick sidewise slant. "That's all right, miss. I should have had sense enough to keep out of this business." He spoke with difficulty, and his voice was hoarse with emotion.

Lize turned to Lee. "The doc said 'no liquor,' but I guess here's where I draw one. I feel faint."

Ross hurried to her side, while young Gregg tendered a handsome flask. "Here's something."

Lize put it away. "Not from you. Just reach under my desk, Ross; you'll find some brandy there. That's it," she called as he produced a bottle. Clutching it eagerly, she added, "They say it's poison, but it's my meat tonight." Little remained of the woman in Lize, and the old sheep herder eyed her with furtive curiosity.

"I was afraid you'd shoot," Lize explained to Ross, "and I didn't want you to muss up your hands on the dirty loafers. I had the right to kill. They were trespassers, and I'd 'a' done it too."

"I don't think they intended to actually assault me," he said, "but it's a bit discouraging to find the town so indifferent over both the breaking of the laws and the doings of a drunken mob. I'm afraid the most of them are a long way from law abiding people yet."

Joe, who did not like the position in which he stood as respecting Lee, here made an offer of aid. "I don't suppose my word is any good now, but if you'll let me do it I'll go out and round up Judge Higley. I think I know where he is."

To this Lize objected. "You can't do that, Ross; you better hold the fort here till morning."

Lee was rather sorry, too, for young Gregg, who bore his buffeting with the imperturbable face of the heroes of his class. He had gone into this enterprise with much the same spirit in which he had stolen gates and misplaced signs during his brief college career, and he was now disposed (in the presence of a pretty girl) to carry it out with undiminished impudence. "It only means a fine, anyway," he assured himself.

Cavanagh did not trust Gregg, either, and as this was the first time he had been called upon to arrest men for killing game out of season he could not afford to fall of any precaution. Tired and sleepy as he was he must remain on guard. "But you and your daughter must go to bed at once," he urged.

FIRE LAID TO BOY.

Benz Sets Torch to Mother's Home for Revenge.

Elizabeth, Jan. 28.—Conrad Benz, nineteen years old, who has a bad record in this city and who has served a term in the State House for Boys at Jamesburg School, was yesterday arraigned in the City Criminal court and held in $500 bail to await the action of the grand jury on each of two charges of arson. Benz set fire to the home of his mother at 931 Olive street.

It is claimed that young Benz asked his mother for money and when she refused he started the fire for revenge.

The fire Thursday he caused by setting fire to a bundle of newspapers in an egg box in a clothes closet on the top floor of his mother's house.

MRS. HETTY GREEN'S NEW TRUST COMPANY

A trust company organized to take care of the business of a single family is soon to be added to the long list of financial institutions in New York. When it is known that the family in question is that of Hetty Green, one of the several "richest women in the world," the fact that a trust company is needed to look after the property is not surprising.

With the formation of the company, Mrs. Green, now seventy-five years old and for more than half a century recognized as the shrewdest business woman in the country, will retire from the active management of her $75,000,000 estate. After a trout of eighteen years in Texas, Mrs. Green is at last convinced that her only son, Colonel Edward H. R. Green is qualified to assume control of the vast property and will turn over the management to him.

All the Green properties, including real estate holdings in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Boston, Toledo, St. Louis and throughout the Southwest, paper mills at Bellows Falls, Vt., cotton mills at New Bedford, Mass., gold mines in California, stocks and bonds in nearly every railroad of consequence in the country and the various Texas properties, will henceforth be managed from an inside room of the new trust company.

"Actual experience has shown me," Colonel Green said yesterday, "that the best use of inherited wealth is that which will create the largest number of life jobs rather than satisfy the hunger of a day."

SEEK PROTECTION.

Liquor Dealers Oppose Sales by Unlicensed Firms.

Trenton, Jan. 28.—The Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association at its annual meeting in the Hotel Sterling here decided to take action relative to the recent Supreme Court decision whereby wholesale liquor dealers from other States are permitted to make deliveries in this State without a license. Acting under the direction of the executive committee former Judge Hudspeth, counsel for the association, has drawn a bill to be presented to the present Legislature giving the wholesale dealers of the State the right to deliver in counties other than the one in which they are licensed. The bill was ratified by the members.

There was a legislative committee appointed to watch the work of the present Legislature. The members of the committee are: E. L. Kerns, Trenton, chairman; John Fee, Jr., South River; William Somer, Newark.

Mrs. Amos Stites, of East Second street, who underwent a delicate operation on Wednesday is doing nicely. Drs. Endicott, Gesswein and Longbottom had charge of the operation.

OFFICIAL WILL NOT SURRENDER BOOKS.

Rahway, Jan. 28.—Yesterday things assumed an active turn in the office of the Board of Assessors when Clerk Robert D. Gibby received the following communication:

"Robert Gibby;
"Dear Sir:—You are hereby notified that if you have any personal property in the City Hall to have the same removed at once,
"CHARLES W. LUDLOW,
"Chairman of city property committee."

Later Mr. Gibby was waited upon by the newly appointed Board of Assessors, consisting of Charles A. Grove, Peter Tillman and Nathan V. Compton. Mr. Grove served the following notice:

"R. D. Gibby, Esq.;
"Dear Sir:—Having assumed the duties as clerk of the Board of Assessors I respectfully request that you turn over to me at once all of the city property now in your possession, consisting of books, papers, etc., appertaining to the assessor's office. Very truly yours, "C. A. GROVE,
"Clerk of the Board of Assessors."
Mr. Gibby said: "Your demand or your request I positively decline to accede to. These books can be had from me only by due process of law as I am a member of the Board of Assessors and clerk of that board."
Mr. Gibby says that he will fight for the retention of the office. As he believes that he is the only clerk of the board and that the new board was unlawfully appointed.

GOES AGAINST OWN RULING.

Court, However, Holds Ex-Judge's Decision Correct.

New Brunswick, Jan. 28.—Former Judge C. T. Cowenhoven had one of his own court rulings cited to him yesterday in opposition to a motion in the county court. Mr. Cowenhoven, as counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Murphy, held in jail for keeping a disorderly house, was opposing an order of the court that no visitors, outside of counsel, be permitted to see the Murphys at the county jail, unless on written order of the prosecutor.

Mr. Cowenhoven said that he did not think that prisoners should be placed incommunicado; in fact, that was one of the things the French revolution had aimed to abolish.

"I remember a precedent in this court," interposed Prosecutor Theodore B. Booraem. "When I was somewhat younger I applied to Judge Cowenhoven, who was then on the bench, for permission for certain parties to see a certain prisoner, and Judge Cowenhoven promptly ruled against me."

"I was younger, too, then, and did not know as much as I know now," promptly rejoined Mr. Cowenhoven.

The court declined to vacate his ruling.

Win the Deciding Basketball Game From North Plainfield Boys by Score 36 to 24.

STUBBORN FIGHT NEAR END.

Withdrawal of Leal's School Leaves

Two Teams in Final Struggle

—Ricketts, Karr and

Bristol the Stars.

The Plainfield High School basketball team clinched the inter-scholastic championship yesterday afternoon by decisively defeating the team from the North Plainfield High School by a score of 36 to 24 in a fast, clean and stubbornly contested game. Owing to the withdrawal of the Leal School team, the championship lay between these two. The borough boys have held the championship for two successive years so yesterday's victory of the local boys has caused general jubilation.

In the first few minutes of play so close was the guard kept on the basket that scoring was impossible for either team until Stine, of North Plainfield scored the first goal on a foul. Ricketts started the scoring for P. H. S. a few seconds later and the ensuing struggle was one pretty to witness and one which brought forth cheers from the assembled rooters. The game was played on the Y. M. C. A. floor and the rafters fairly rang with the encouragement shouted at the players.

Ricketts was on the job for his team, scoring two goals in quick succession and enlivening the whole team into greater effort. Some admirable short passing which the borough lads tried in vain to break followed Ricketts' spurt and the score climbed up so that at the end of the first half P. H. S. led by 26 to 6.

North Plainfield took a decided brace in the second half, scoring 18 to P. H. S.'s 10, but they could not overcome the long lead the locals had taken in the earlier part of the game. Captain Stine started the rally making a basket from the foul line which he soon followed with two field goals. This spirited play rallied the energies of the boys from "across the brook" and some splendid team work ensued. Toward the end Wyckoff and Taylor replaced Townley and Walker, but the fresh muscles and eager work were unable to alter the final score and the team work was not much improved. The score: Plainfield, field goals, Ricketts, 5; Karr, 5; Bristol, 3; Manley, 2; Clarke, 2; fouts, Bristol and Manley. North Plainfield, field goals Stine, 4; Wyckoff, 3; Taylor, 2; Walker, 1; fouts, Stine, 5.

The line up:

TAGGART RETIRES.

To Relinquish Place on Democratic National Committee.

Indianapolis, Jan. 28.—The chief topic among Democrats here yesterday was the speech at the banquet (tendered last night to Senator-elect John W. Kern, by the Indiana Democratic club, of Thomas Taggart, who pointed to the election of Mr. Kern as one of the happiest of all the successes of the party in the State. He announced that he has decided to withdraw entirely from the active field of political life and that he would not serve again on the Democratic National Committee, nor in any way participate actively in political campaigns, although he assured Democrats of Indiana that he would always be interested in the success of the party.

Rev. Dr. E. W. Davis, of the Shiloh Baptist church, will preach tomorrow morning on the subject: "Man's First Interest on Earth and in Heaven," and in the evening, he will deliver a special sermon to the missionary society.
