

TO CONVERT INDIAN

Missionary Tells of Difficulty in Christianizing Several Tribes.

FOR APACHES LIBERATION.

Mrs. Albert R. Page Delivers an Instructive Discourse at Trinity Reformed Church.

The Cheyenne, Arapahoe, Apache
and Winnebago tribes of American Indians were the subject of an address from Mrs. Albert R. Page, a missionary, yesterday morning at Trinity Reformed church, and a congregation of large numbers was present to hear her. Mrs. Page is the field secretary of the Board of Home Missions and is spending much of her time among the aborigines of this country, teaching the Gospel and trying to reach the uncounted millions of Indians in Mexico and South and Central America.

Mrs. Page spoke favorably of a bill now before the Legislature at Washington, which has for its purpose the liberation of the Apache prisoners at Fort Sill. She declared that those of the prisoners now in durance are guilty of any participation in the crimes for which their parents were imprisoned and that they ought to be set free. But they will be sent to the Mescalero mountains in Arizona, where after twenty-four years of labor a church for Indians has been established, and there will not be enough missionaries
to look after their spiritual welfare.
She described the place as unattractive for humans and now, 7,000 feet above sea level, they have had but one church service in four years.

The difficulty missionaries find among the tribes is to break down the superstitions of centuries. They worship snakes and turtles, and the medicine men contrive with the help of a drug, Mescal, to influence the ignorant Indian against the teachings of Christianity. Among the Winnebagos the penalty for an Indian acknowledging Christ is death. According to Mrs. Page Mescal when properly prepared will cause the brain to perform prodigies
in eloquence and will bring back to the mind each event in the life of the user and it is through these remarkable performances that the Indian is influenced.

The big medicine men claim this to be literally as good as the Christian religion and take for their authority John 14:26, which is a promise to "bring all things to your remembrance." Since July, 1909, three missionaries and an Indian interpreter have done wonderful work
among these tribes in the Mescalero mountains, having built up a congregation numbering 216 souls in that short time. Mrs. Page declared that there were 50,000 Indians in this country and from twenty to thirty millions in Mexico and South America, who must in some way be reached with the Gospel. She made an appeal for funds to carry on the work.

The congregation had its first glimpse of the new memorial organ
and pulpit furnishings yesterday morning. The splendid instrument which is being installed by The Tallman Organ Co., of Brooklyn, is imposing in its simplicity. Forty-five plain old gold pipes form a charming contrast to the paneled quartered oak trimmings and solid appearing organ rail and pulpit. The whole scheme is of the solid substantial class and displays excellent taste. It is thoroughly in keeping with the other interior furnishings
of the church.

PATERSON COACH FOR MONEY SPINNER.

"The Money Spinner," to be given by the Park Comedy Club at the Park Club, Saturday evening, February 25, is presented for general patronage and not for the club members exclusively. Rehearsals for the play are being held under the direction of Fred C. Patterson, of New York, who, it will be remembered staged "Trelawney of the Wells," at the Plainfield theatre last spring.

A number of this cast will also appear in "The Money Spinner," and a successful presentation is assured.
Walter M. McGee is the fun-maker of the play and it is said that his portrayal of "Crocodile," the old French gambler, will be one of the best bits of character acting given at the Park Club. Tickets are on sale today at the club.

A Lecture on Japan.
The Dutch Arms, Men's Association of Trinity Reformed church, will meet Monday evening, February 20, when John M. Whiton, of this city, will give his lecture on Japan with 125 colored views. It will be "ladies' night" and all the women of the congregation will be invited.

CALLED AS PASTOR

Rev. F. L. Green Succeeds Rev.
Mr. L. R. Howard at Hope Chapel.

TAKES CHARGE ON MARCH 1.

He Comes From Sherman, N. Y., and Has Been In Ministry
For Seven Years.

Rev. Frederick L. Green, of Sherman, N. Y., has been secured as the successor of Rev. L. R. Howard, as pastor of Hope chapel, and he will enter upon the pastorate on March 1. Announcement of this was made at the close of the morning service at the chapel yesterday by G. Herbert Condit, secretary of the committee.

Mr. Green is a graduate of Union College, of Schenectady, N. Y., and Auburn Seminary. He has been in pastoral work about seven years. Mr.
Green is married, his wife being greatly interested in his work. He has no children. Mr. Green preached at Trinity Reformed church a week ago yesterday, when he was heard by many members of Hope chapel and the Crescent avenue church. He made a favorable impression.

Mr. Green is a native of Albany, N. Y. After his graduation from the high school in that city he entered upon a business career, in which he was very successful. So much so, that when he announced his purpose
of entering the ministry, his friends and relatives tried to persuade him not to do so. In 1894 he entered Union College, being then twenty-four years of age. He was graduated in 1898, after which he immediately entered Auburn Seminary. Upon his graduation there in 1902 he was engaged in pastoral work in Baltimore, Md., for two and a half year.

Leaving Baltimore he went to the Westminster House, Buffalo, N. Y., remaining there two and a half years,
when he went to Sherman, N. Y., a town of about one thousand inhabitants. While in Buffalo he met his wife, who was a co-worker at the Westminster House. Mr. Green is about 38 years old. He will preach his first sermon as pastor of Hope chapel, Sunday, March 5.

The committee which had charge of the work of securing a successor to Rev. L. R. Howard, comprised Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelle, G. Herbert Condit and John Leal, of the Crescent avenue church; J. Frank Lindsley, Willard H. Cook and Walter I. First-brook, of Hope chapel. The chapel has been vacant about four months
Mr. Howard resigning the pastorate on account of ill health.

THIRTY-FIFTH YEAR AS CHURCH DEACONS

During the past seventy-three years of the history of the Seventh-day Baptist church here, the church has been fortunate in long term services of its different officers. Asa F.
Randolph is only the third person to hold the office of clerk and last evening of the church, the thirty-fifth anniversary of the ordination as deacons of J. Dennison Spicer and Dr.
Thomas H. Tomlinson, was recognized by suitable resolutions and remarks by several persons.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor, introduced the subject with a few words and called upon Deacon Spicer, who responded and read a brief historical statement concerning the ordination.

On behalf of the other deacons of the church, Nathan H. Randolph had something to say, while Joseph A.
Hubbard responded for those who could easily remember the occasion, and Charles F. Neagle spoke for the younger generation. Several others made appropriate remarks and the exercises closed with a response by Dr. Tomlinson.

During the evening the following committee was appointed to make arrangements for the annual meeting and supper in April: Frank J. Hubbard, chairman; Rev. Edwin Shaw, Mrs. Orra E. Rogers, Franklin A.
Langworthy and Miss Ethel O. Rogers. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson was elected chairman for the annual meeting.

Two Stars Coming.

Effingham Pinto and Anne Swin-bourne, late stars of the Climax, will appear at the Plainfield theatre in two plays by Amelie Rives (Princess Toubetskoy) on Thursday evening, February 9, at 8:45. Music will be furnished from New York. The plays to be given are "The Kid Faun," a pastoral, with music by DeBussy, and
"The King's Garden," both plays written especially for Mr. Pinto and Miss Swinbourne. The seats are now selling at the theatre box office.

HEAR ARCHDEACON

Rev. Dr. Claiborne Addressed Episcopal Church Junior Auxiliary.

AT THE HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

Miss Mary Wood, "Secretary and Treasurer, Also Addressed Gathering—A Tea Followed the Service.

A neighborhood meeting of the Junior Auxiliary of the Episcopal church was held at Holy Cross church, Saturday afternoon, there being a large attendance of members
from Elizabeth, Metuchen, Roselle, Cranford, South Plainfield, Dunellen,
St. Stephen's church.

The vested choir of the church
took part in the service, the principal feature of which was an address
by Archdeacon Claiborne, of Sewanee, Tenn., who told in an interesting manner of his great work among the poor whites of the mountain districts of Kentucky and Tennessee, and especially at his school in Tennessee. He described the conditions of these people and told of the wonderful transformation after they are taught the Bible and given an education. The archdeacon is now on a trip for the purpose of raising funds for his school and is said to be meeting with great success.

Following his talk, Miss Mary Wood, secretary and treasurer of the State Junior Auxiliary, addressed
the gathering, telling what the auxiliary is doing in the State and of the numerous attractions used to get the young people into the organization. Both addresses were listened to with great interest. There were about thirty-five members of the local auxiliary present.

After the service all adjourned to the parish house, where tea was served by the local auxiliary. Miss Claire Kenworthy poured tea and Miss Marguerite Shotwell poured chocolate, and other members assisted as waitresses. They wore white caps with red ribbons, upon which were the letters "H. C. J. A." Holy Cross Junior Auxiliary. Those comprising the committee of arrangements were Mrs. George A. Warner, Miss Muriel Ashwell, Miss Carman,
Miss Burt, Mrs. Frank Allen, Miss
Iola Moore, Miss Sue Bennett, Mrs.
Robert Western, Miss Mildred St.
Clair, Miss Lena Rillink, Mrs.
Brandt and Miss Agnes VanOrden.

ENDEAVORERS HEAR A SPECIAL SERMON

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, delivered a special sermon last evening to the Christian Endeavor Society of the church,
the members of the society attending in a body. Mr. Broek took his text from John 12:26: "If any serve me, him will my Father Honor." In part Mr. Broek said:

"Jesus was about to leave His disciples. They were to win back the world to God, one of the most colossal enterprises which had entered the heart of man to conceive. What the disciples needed for their undertaking was power. Before we can have power, it is necessary to have a right starting point in service.

"The starting point of all service is a vision of the Son of God. It is a blessed thing when we begin to see.
When Paul was converted on the Damascus road 'he saw the Lord.'
When the Lord gets our eye He will get our ear and we will listen to His voice.

"The motive for all service is gratitude to Christ. The power for service is the new life in Him. For Christ's sake, men have done more,
endured more and suffered more than any other man. The ideals of service which Christ presents are different from those of the world. This age is entranced in big things. The spirit of the age says we must do something big to be useful to our fellow-men. The great thing which Jesus did was to take a towel and wash His disciple's feet. That towel has ever since presented ideals of what is really true and worth while in service.

"Another ideal of service which the world presents is that we are to get wrong ideas as to the real worth of a man. A man is rated more often by material things than by his character. The glory of the lower world is favored in possession and authority, but the glory of the higher world in which Jesus reigns is giving and serving. The place where God has put you is the place where we can serve Him best. Live your life for God and every day send up some material for your mansion in Heaven."

Four Local Councils of Order Holding a Fair at Sebring's Hall.

PRIZE CATS ON EXHIBITION.

Dancing Every Night—J. Y. Martin General Chairman of Undertaking, Which Ends Next Saturday Night.

A brilliant beginning marked the opening night of the Jr. O. U. A. M., fair Saturday night. Before 9 o'clock the spacious dancing floor of Sebring's Hall was alive with young couples dancing to the music of Military Band, and before 10 o'clock the hall was filled. The fair which is under the auspices of Franklin,
Benevolent, Somerset and Plainfield
Councils promises to be a success.

Several of the eluding merchants have contributed articles which are to be sold in the various handsomely decorated booths which are in charge of J. Y. Martin, general chairman, assisted by G. E. Thomas, J. D. Moon, D. B. Martin, H. Van
Pelt and J. Collier.

The fair is being conducted under the general chairmanship of I. M.
Wyckoff with A. H. Peck, treasurer,
and W. H. I. Cubberly, secretary.
The music is in charge of L. D. Hall, chairman; D. Patterson and A. Hoffman. Charles Wilson is floor manager and has these assistants: Joseph Pennington, A. Perret, Charles Doeringer, Fred G. Walsh and W.
H. I. Cubberly. There is a general committee composed of Clark Lowrie, J. H. Adams, Joseph Moon and F. W. Downs.

Not the least interesting among the attractions are the two prize
winning imported cats, the property of Mrs. Guy Thomas, of Dupont street. These two felines monopolized the attentions of the young women during the evening and it was well they were safely caged, as all expressed desires to snuggle them
"just once."

The fair will continue for the rest of the week ending next Saturday
night.

JACKSON'S OFF NIGHT CAUSED A WORDY ROW

Lewis Jackson, a colored resident of Race street, ordinarily returns home promptly with his pay at the week-end but failed in his custom.
Saturday night. His wife, Maggie
Jackson, waited patiently until 10 o'clock and when he still remained in the land of the missing, she sallied out on a soft-shoe hunt. The recreant husband was located on the Somerset street bridge, so badly intoxicated he would have been unable to navigate but for the enfolding arms of Ella Jackson, a young woman not related to him, not even a cousin.

The sight angered Mrs. Jackson and she broke loose in a tirade on Ella. The latter handed everything back with interest, finally accepting the wife's invitation to cross over the borough line and have it out.
The three moved up to Craig place
when Thomas Nebitt took a hand in the squabble, helping Ella. All kinds of bad words were being exchanged
in the presence of a big crowd when Chief Weiss and Marshal Keller called a halt by arresting the quartet.

Following a hearing before Recorder Doliver in the borough court, Nebitt and Lewis and Ella Jackson were fined $5 each. He declared Maggie Jackson equally guilty but suspended sentence, explaining that she had a right to her husband and had extreme provocation.

Sunday-school Kindergarten.

The first session of the Sunday-school kindergarten was held in the parish house of St. Stephen's church, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock with a gratifying attendance. This is fulfilling a long felt want. The course of study is taken from the Bible and kindergarten methods are employed.
A trained kindergarten is in charge
and children not members of any other church will be welcome. Later a class for older people will be started.

Chamber Banquet Tickets.

The fellow-townsmen of Senator-elect James E. Martine who would like to hear his first speech after his election to the United States Senatorship at the Chamber of Commerce Lincoln's Birthday banquet
had better secure their tickets early to insure a seat. They may be had upon application at the secretary's office, Frost building, at the cost of five dollars.

ance sale tomorrow at 9 o'clock. ***

DR. MITCHELL HERE

Former Pastor of First M. E.
Church Preaches Twice to Old Congregation.

DWELLS ON THE HOLY LIFE.

Every Heart Should Be Christ-ruled.
Declares Noted Divine From Chicago—Two Eloquent Discourses.

Rev. Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell, of Chicago, formerly pastor of the First M. E. church, occupied the pulpit of the local church, yesterday morning and evening, delivering two strong and interesting sermons to large congregations. The doctor is one of the leading preachers in Chicago and has always been popular among Plainfielders.

At the morning service, yesterday,
Dr. Mitchell preached on the subject: "The Kingdom of God Is Within You," and he gave an interesting exposition of the text. He declared that man is master of the material
forces, that God had left something for man to accomplish, notably the development of the rose, apples, as well as horses, and God had given man dominion over these things. He said that it was the duty of man to lay hold of these forces of nature.

The speaker said that man is what he is of his own choosing, whether good or bad. Worldly success was described as a personal willing on the part of man. He emphasized the fact that the law of inheritance must be recognized. No matter how beautiful a person is, in the opinion of Dr. Mitchell, he is naturally bent toward evil. It is the tendency of people to be married to the beast beneath them no matter how strong they may be linked to the good above.

The speaker did not think it necessary for a woman or man to become a nun to be sanctified or to enter a monastery to lead a good life. He said that a man could live in the world with other people and yet live
a holy life. He declared that God wants every heart Christ-ruled. A man who recognizes Jesus as Lord and Master is a Christian, said the preacher. In conclusion he emphasized the importance of his text. In the evening Dr. Mitchell again spoke to a large congregation.

The topic was "Going Up to Jerusalem," and the preacher held the close attention of his large audience throughout.

POST OFFICE MEN ENJOY A BANQUET

The letter-carriers and clerks attached to the local postoffice held their monthly meeting and banquet Saturday night in Columbus Hall on East Front street. After a short business meeting an adjournment
was taken to the banquet hall, where a fine menu was served by J. Mc-Cormick, assisted by J. J. Hines and William Demarest. Superintendent of Carriers E. T. VanWinkle was the guest of honor, and following the feast was among those who made speeches.

The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion by the committee. President E. E. Ripley and former president, James Bailey, together with Superintendent Van-Winkle occupied seats at the head of the table.

Among those who spoke was C. B.
Stephens, dean of the carrier force.
George Appar and George Keen were awarded the first and second prizes for eating the greatest number of raw and fried oysters. The affair was concluded just before midnight, when everyone joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne." Maurice River cove oysters were served, having been shipped direct from the oyster-beds at Bivalve for the occasion.

MacDonald & Ivamy Retire.

Commencing March 1, MacDonald & Ivamy will discontinue the service of being distributors for the product of the Crystal Ice Company, and the company will inaugurate a distributing service of its own on a large scale. The company will provide an efficient and satisfactory service
throughout the entire city and borough.

Will Raise Chickens.

Robert Hoffman has disposed of his interest in the Westfield Standard and will remove to his farm in Connecticut, where he will devote his time to raising chickens. Mr. Hoffman sold his interest to Benjamin Larrug, of Westfield.

COUNCIL CONFERS

as to Both Ellis and Fitch.

SEND MESSAGE TO THE MAYOR.

Request That He Appoint Board of Assessors — Conference Held On Friday Night.

That the Common Council at its regular monthly meeting tonight will neither confirm Mayor Moy's appointment of Rev. St. John Fitch as Overseer of the Poor, nor that of Leroy J. Ellis as a member of the Board of Health is learned on good authority. This appears to be the result of a conference among some of the councilmen on Friday night. At that time there was a general discussion
of the matter of appointments.

The objection of some of the city fathers to the confirmation of the minister's name is that they consider him not so well qualified as the present incumbent, Alexander Ayres.
Ayres, they say, has shown his capabilities and they declare that the mayor's objection to him is a purely personal one. Personal reasons, they add, will not be given weight.

As to Ellis, the objection seems to be that based on an incident ten years ago. The newspapers at that time published fully the report that a member of Mr. Ellis' household was a Christian Scientist and that the Fanwood borough authorities had placed a guard about the residence
to prevent the spread of scarlet fever with which Mr. Ellis' children were afflicted. For this reason some of the Common Councilmen are opposed to his selection as a member of the Health Board.

What will be done with the other appointments made by Mayor Moy is a matter of conjecture. Some say that they will be laid over, while others declare that they will be ratified.

At the Councilmanic conference on Friday a committee was appointed to wait on the Mayor and to inform him that the Common Council would not exercise its right to organize an assessor's board of three members as provided by statute. The information was also to be conveyed to the city's executive that the Common Council would be pleased to receive his nominations for a board of four members to succeed the present body.
When seen today the Mayor said that he was glad to get the message from the city fathers but that he would not have the time to transmit his appointments for the assessors' board
in time for tonight's meeting.

FINED WOMAN $20 RAN A 'SPEAKEASY'

For selling beer without a license, Mary Yano, of 337 Cottage place, was arraigned before Judge William G.
De Meza, this morning, in the city
court and fined $20 and warned.

Yesterday afternoon, it is alleged,
Andrew Mango, an Italian, attempted to assault Annie Sabino, of 339 Cottage place. She complained to the police and Patrolmen Frank Sweeney and George Dobson were sent to investigate. Meantime Miss Sabino had come to headquarters and complained that Mrs. Yano was selling beer next door and that her assaultant, Mango, was drunk and had procured his drinks in the Yano
woman's house.

The investigations of the two patrolmen led them to the cellar of the Mango house, where they found a couple of dozen empty beer bottles and three kegs which had evidently contained beer. She denied the selling both when arrested and this morning, but the evidence of several customers who had purchased the beverage was enough to convict.

Mango, who was arraigned on a charge of intoxication, was discharged with a suspended sentence, because of his good reputation and previous good behaviour.

Cake and Candy Sale.

A sale cake and candy sale was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. K. White, 816 Carlton avenue, for the benefit of All Soul's church on Park avenue. There was a good attendance and everything was disposed of. Mrs. Frank Lawrence poured tea and Mrs. J. C. Otterson and Miss Reed were in charge of the refreshments. The members of the Alliance assisted in the sale of cake and candy.

Rasores to Meet.

The Rasores will meet tomorrow morning with Mrs. I. C. Pierson, 733 Watching avenue. The subject will be "John Lothrop Motley."

NOT A CONSPIRACY

Charge Against Charles Kurtz-man and Abraham Schwartzman is Dismissed.

WAS ONLY A FAMILY AFFAIR.

Max Schwartzman's Clerk Not Believed—Famous Fur Case Ends
In Favor of Accused Men.

One of the longest drawn out cases ever heard in the local police court was tried this morning before Judge William G. DeMeza, the hearing lasting from 9 o'clock until shortly before 1 this afternoon. Max Schwartzman, the complainant, charged Abraham Schwartzman, his brother, and Charles Kurtzman, a cousin, of conspiring to defraud him
of $418.50 worth of goods by bribing a young salesman, Isaac Silver.

Max Schwartzman claimed that on January 29 Kurtzman took the goods
from his store in a dress suit case
for which he had paid Silver $70
and that in doing so he had taken advantage of the youth of Silver who was only an attendant at the store
and not a salesman and who had no authority to sell the goods.

Both A. Schwartzman and Kurtz-man denied these allegations, declaring that the goods had been duly purchased after Silver had conferred with Max Schwartzman at his store in Trenton. It was also brought out that neither Abraham Schwartzman nor the other defendant had at any time attempted to bribe the youthful salesman with gifts or money although this was also charged by the complainant.

Two letters, alleged to have been written by the complainant and acknowledged by him as his handwriting, were offered in evidence.
These epistles were written to one Davis, whom Schwartzman has since had indicted by the grand jury for alleged embezzlement and their purport was "kill Kurtzman," meaning
"put Kurtzman out of business." In paying for the goods - Kurtzman handed Silver twenty dollars in bills and a check drawn to the order of M. Schwartzman for $50. These were also offered as evidence of good faith
on the part of Kurtzman.

Judge DeMeza patiently heard the several witnesses all of whom are related and finally decided that Silver had lied in his testimony and dismissed the case. William R. Coddington, counsel for Max Schwartzman claimed that by reason of having asked Sergeant Overbaugh where the police station was on the night
he was removing the furs in question
that he knew he was doing something "wrong and that" he was afraid that he was "caught with the goods on" and there was no escape.
Kurtzman explained this action by saying he was afraid of a conspiracy against himself and wanted the police to see the goods.

Both Detective Sergeant Flynn
and Sergeant Overbaugh testified as to the truth of Kurtzman's testimony
so far as it related to what happened on the night of the arrest. The goods in question were turned over to Max Schwartzman by order of the court and the money was refunded
to Kurtzman thus ending a case which has been holding fire for the past two weeks.

Robert Newton Crane and W. R.
Coddington appeared for Max
Schwartzman while Kurtzman and
A. Schwartzman were defended by Judge William Newcorn.

In the February Strand Dr. Conan Doyle brings to a conclusion his latest "Reminiscence of Sherlock Holmes"—"The Adventure of the Devil's Foot"—which is as surprising in its denouement as any of the adventures which have gone before. Another "Adventure" is promised for the April issue. Other fiction is contributed by Frankfort Moore, Richard Marsh, C. H. Bovill, etc., and the articles are interesting and topical.

With a gayety rather unusual for the diffident National Magazine, with its strong masculine covers and lusty spirit, the current issue of Joe Chapple's Boston magazine appears with a shy and sweet sixteen head—and hair arranged in the very latest coiffure. The effect is positively stunning. Announcement is made that William Hodge, the "Man From Home," is to be presented as an author.

The February number of "Success Magazine" contains some timely articles both on political and social questions. Robert Sloss's article "Why is an Express Company?" is an inquiry into the methods of the express business, and the figures it contains are designed to show that the country needs a Parcel Post service to rid itself of the express octopus. In "The Twilight of Canonism" Robert Wickliffe Woolley brings Champ Clark, our next Speaker, into a friendly and familiar light and makes us acquainted with the personnel of the several important legislative committees.

In the Metropolitan Magazine for February M. E. Stone, Jr., the editor, publishes the second installment of "Theodore Roosevelt—Please Answer," a series of articles reviewing Roosevelt's career as a reformer. The current article is entitled "When is a Governor Not a Governor?" A new adventure series which should prove popular is called "Romances of Buried Treasure." It is by Ralph D. Paine, the first article in the February issue relates the true history of Captain Kidd.

The February number of Woman's Home Companion is a delightful St. Valentine number. There is a special valentine song, valentine ideas, and a valentine book-list. The fiction in the issue is a story by Kate Douglas Wiggin and her collaborators, which is making a big hit; "In the Land of Tomorrow," by Maude Radford Warren is now in its second part and is proving most exciting. Short stories in this number are contributed by such well-known authors as Alice Brown, Hulbert Footner, Owen Oliver and Mary Heaton Vorse.

Champ Clark, in the Speaker's chair, will be the exponent of the new purpose of democratizing the House. The place he will take in history will largely depend on the success with which he shall carry forward the purpose of restoring the House to its proper participation in legislation. In proportion as he shall be willing to be shorn of the petty powers of parliamentary dictatorship, he will gather to himself the vastly greater and more effective authority of big, broad, true leadership—The Munsey.

As Congress now approaches the problem once more, the vital question is that of the ratio to be adopted for the coming ten years. To maintain the present ratio means to increase the membership of the House upward of 470; to raise it to something like 215,000 means a membership of 425; only by stretching it to 233,000 can a membership of the present figure be preserved. No such sweeping increase has ever been made, nor is it now probable.—From "The Reapportionment of the House," by Frederick Austin Ogg, in the American Review of Reviews for February.

The Red Book Magazine for February is another exceptionally interesting issue of this deservedly successful publication. The leading story, "Cyrus Otken's Clear Chair," by Edward Price Bell, is as impressive a bit of drama as one recalls having recently read. It concerns an old clergyman's attempt at revenge upon a youth who had led his son into evil ways.

The mere fact that it contains George Randolph Chester's latest novel would be enough to interest most people in the February Lippincott's, yet the said novel is only one item—though it is perhaps the most important—in a long and imposing table of contents. Mr. Chester's new story is called, "The Forty-Third Pumpkin"—an unusual title, but then it is an unusual story. It is a tale of rural life, a bit farcical perhaps, yet full of shrewd character delineation. Rustic superstitions play a considerable part in the plot, and there are many uncanny happenings, all of which, however, are satisfactorily explained in the end.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will meet tomorrow night and muster in a candidate, with full ritual.

"Jack," an English bulldog, owned by Lynus Walpole, died Friday of last week from a dose of poison, which had been administered to him by some one who evidently has a grievance against the dogs in town, as this is the second valuable one that has been poisoned within a week. Chief Charles Meyer losing a valuable hound dog several days ago.

"Jack" was everybody's friend and the especial pet of the children in town and all of them are sad over his untimely end.

The special evangelistic meetings which were held in the Methodist church Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, were well attended, the interest manifested being very encouraging to the pastor, Rev. George Hollingshead. The meetings will be continued on the week-end evenings until further notice.

The quarantine which was placed on the rooms of the Public Library last week by the Board of Health, has been removed, the rooms having been fumigated.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zabinsky, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with Mrs. Zabinsky's mother, Mrs. Joseph Hoppock, of Prospect avenue.

An interesting weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

Remarkable Purchase Girls' Coats

Were it not for the fact that our girls' wear stock is as clean as a hound's tooth, this splendid bargain in girls' coats would of necessity have gone elsewhere. As it is, we were enabled to take a great quantity of goods, thereby securing the most remarkable concessions in price ever made by the concern which furnished us with these coats. Never before in all our lives have we seen the equal of this offering, and it is with great pride and pleasure that we invite the parents of Newark and vicinity to come and help themselves. When you see these beautiful coats you will be astonished at the values—you will wonder what possessed the maker to part with them at such a loss. If your daughter does not need a coat for this season's wear, buy for next year's use. Such an opportunity as this is too good to miss. Dozens and dozens of pretty effects, of finest cheviot or kersey cloth in every conceivable color. Pretty trimmings of velvet, braid and buttons. Sizes 6 to 14 years. Coats that we sold earlier in the season at from $8.00 to $15.00. In two big lots. No mail, 'phone or C. O. D. orders. None sent on approval.

MASTER BUILDERS OPPOSE INCREASES.

New Brunswick, Feb. 6.—The principal topic of conversation at the annual banquet of the Master Builders' Association, of this city, at the Mansion House, Friday night was a demand which members of the Bricklayers and Masons' Union made yesterday for an increase in wages. Masons are now receiving $4.40 for an eight-hour day here and they demand a new scale giving them $4.80 a day. They want the new scale to go into effect May 1.

Some of the master builders declared last night that they are not in favor of the increase, claiming that the high cost of labor causes a slump in building operations. Unless the increase is signed the masons will go on strike May 1.

The banquet last night was an enjoyable affair. Several builders from Perth Amboy were guests of the local association. William E. Leary, president of the local association, presided. The reception committee consisted of John TenBroeck, C. A. Long, H. L. Bartholomew, C. C. Van Doren and C. J. Bergen.

MORE PROTECTION FROM FIRE ASKED.

Elizabeth, Feb. 6.—At a meeting of the fire board next Tuesday evening it is likely that some action will be taken in the matter of providing a fire engine for the North End section of the city. This matter has been under advisement for some time but the necessary funds have not been provided.

Residents in the section, which is one of the most fashionable in the city, have petitioned the council for the improvement and an effort will be made by the fire board to bet an appropriation. The city extends northerly two miles from Broad street and there is not a single fire fighting apparatus within that territory.

An ordinance providing an appropriation for an engine house for this section was passed some time ago, but no action was taken, although the National Board of Fire Underwriters recommended extra fire protection for this section.

ELIZABETH TALKS MUNICIPAL WATER.

Elizabeth, Feb. 6.—Steps are being now taken by council members to learn whether or not the city has the right to erect or purchase a water plant of its own. This is in line with the Democratic platform which pledged itself to a municipal plant. Recently the contract with the Elizabethtown Water Company was renewed, but it contained a proviso that the contract could be cancelled within a short period of time if due notice was given. Concessions were also made in the contract.

Members of the councilmanic committee having the matter in charge have learned from City Attorney Connolly that council has power to purchase or construct a plant, provided this step is favored by a majority vote cast at an election to be called by the council.

HOLDS TWO STUDENTS.

No Bail for Princeton Men Accused of Arson.

Trenton, Feb. 6.—On a charge of attempted arson, Morris Stanley Boyer, of East Orange, and J. E. Jenkins, of Chicago, members of the freshmen class of Princeton University, were arraigned before Justice Harris in the Central Police Court Friday.

The complaint against the young men was sworn to by Montgomery Moses, manager of the Trent Theatre, which it was charged, the young men attempted to burn Thursday night just before the close of the vaudeville performance.

The students pleaded not guilty to willfully attempting to set fire to the building but were held without bail.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will hold a regular convocation in Masonic Hall, this evening.

SPORTS News and Notes

BASEBALL.

Charles Comiskey announces that his White Sox will be sent to the new training camp at Mineral Wells, Tex., a day earlier than at first proposed. The White Sox special will leave Chicago on February 27. The waters of Mineral Wells are declared every bit as healthful as those of Marlin Springs, where the Giants train.

Mineral Wells, the spring home of the White Sox, is not far from Marlin, and Comiskey is trying to arrange a series of exhibition games with the Giants. Manager McGraw, who will leave New York about February 15, will visit John T. Brush at San Antonio to talk over the proposition. It would make some battle if Christy Mathewson and Ed Walsh happened to hook up.

A story has just been sprung in Detroit to the effect that five teams of the American League are using signal tipping apparatus, the same sort of device which Detroit accused George Stallings of working at the Hilltop in 1909. Ban Johnson says that the statement is too much of a joke to demand a denial.

Howard Camnitz, the Pittsburgh pitcher, called on Barney Dreyfuss Saturday to try to straighten out his claim on that club for $1,200, which he alleges is due. The argument is the result of a bonus contract. Dreyfuss maintains his pitcher did not live up to his obligations and, consequently held out $1,200. Camnitz says that if Dreyfuss does not settle he will put his case in the hands of the board of directors of the National League at the spring meeting, February 14.

President Navin, of the Tigers, says the former champions will be thoroughly overhauled. He has just asked waivers on three veterans, the names of whom he refuses to disclose. None of the three will get out of the American League, Navin declares, as already two rivals have refused to pass the men to the minors. Detroit is now in a position to talk trade with those to whom the three athletes look good.

Eddie Grant, prize holdout of the Cincinnati Reds, is just about ready to cave. In Boston the other day he came forth with a big boost for Johnny Bates, and said that Doolin had the wool pulled over his eyes by the Old Fox in that celebrated trade of last fall.

Manager Frank, of the New Orleans club, says that he lost just $10,000 by keeping faith with Connie Mack. Charles Murphy offered Frank that sum for the release of Joe Jackson. The leader of the Athletics had turned Jackson over to New Orleans with the understanding that if he fully recovered from injuries he had previously sustained Connie would be able to recall the player. Frank claims he did not get

There is a deal of satisfaction in making up wash goods that you are assured are unfading. The A. P. C. Fabrics in this sale are assuredly fast color, as has been demonstrated by the fact that we alone have distributed over half a million yards and have never had a complaint. These fabrics are really equal to the time-honored Manchester printed goods of England, yet they are strictly American made and we ought to be proud of that fact.

This year's A. P. C. Cottons are remarkable for their beauty, especially notable being those exclusive designs which we alone can show, with novelty borders. These make up beautifully and conform with the present day advanced fashions. Thruout the stock is a wonderful variety of patterns and color combinations—a variety found in no other line of goods we know of, giving you widest possible choice.

See the Original Model Gowns made of the A. P. C. goods. Copy the new styles if you desire. They will help you immensely in getting the best results from these pretty fabrics.

No house in America distributes these goods more generously than this one. Only once in a season can we devote so much space as this vast quantity and variety requires for proper showing and selling.

Extra salespeople, cashiers and wrappers have been assigned for tomorrow and the days to follow, to the handling of the thousands of pieces of A. P. C. goods which we will sell in the next few days. Do not imagine that this is a one-day affair and that the best things will be picked out the first couple of days.

If you are unable to come to the store, order by mail or 'phone, stating the kind of fabric and color wanted. Orders will be carefully, intelligently and speedily filled.

THE FORUM.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE.

Editor, The Daily Press:—

Gentlemen will you please give me space in your paper and ask why should we allow people to come from other countries and violate our laws and why we as citizens of the United States should allow any one to violate our Sunday laws? If we should go to their country they would expect us to observe their laws and not our laws, as we do in our country. They would soon tell us what we were doing, why should they not observe our Sunday according to our Constitution of the United States.

The illustration herewith is an exact reproduction of the Ostermoor Extra Thick French Edge Mattress weighing Sixty Pounds. That means fifteen pounds more than regular, and naturally thicker, softer and of much greater resiliency.

It is guaranteed germ-proof, vermin-proof, damp-proof and odor-proof.

This annual special sale of luxurious Ostermoor $30.00 Extra Thick French Edge Mattresses at the bargain price of $18.50 each creates the keenest possible interest and is eagerly looked for by the great buying public all over the country.

Hand-laid building, makes the Ostermoor the most comfortable and durable mattress. It cannot mat, sag or bag. It cannot get lumpy. Its everlasting resiliency assumes its original form as soon as the burden it supports is removed.

The sterilizing processes used in preparing the raw material make the Ostermoor perfectly clean and sanitary.

The purchaser of an Ostermoor gets with it the "proof-of-service" of over one million satisfied users. The genuine Ostermoor is known by the trade-mark sewel on the end of each mattress.

Built by expert specialists in the daintiest possible manner, it is most luxuriously soft and comfortable, has round corners, soft rolled edge, in-seamed border and is tufted closer than regular.

The usual price is $30.00 and it is worth every penny of it, being sold at the Bargain Price of $18.50 only during Annual Special Sale.

The Ostermoor is the most striking and convincing advertisement of any in the March Magazines. It appears in over Forty Magazines and Periodicals which have a combined circulation of over Fifteen Million Copies.

FIND BOAT'S BOILER DID NOT EXPLODE

The police of Jersey City yesterday prevented the removal from the jurisdiction of the New Jersey authorities of the sunken power launch Whistler which some one was attempting to raise from its muddy bed at Communipaw. The Whistler it is thought will furnish the clue to the explosion of last Wednesday when several tons of dynamite shattered glass for miles around and also sent about twenty-five men into eternity without warning.

When the policemen on guard at pier 7 of the New Jersey Central Railroad saw that attempts were being made to raise the sunken boat they notified County Prosecutor Pierre P. Garven, who in turn notified Police Commissioner Job H. Lippincott. The police were told to stop any attempt at the removal of the boat. It has been discovered by the divers sent down to fix chains about the boat's hull that the boilers are intact and that it was not from a boiler explosion that the big blowup occurred.

Commissioner Lippincott said yesterday that the investigation had so far progressed that responsibility for the accident will be fixed shortly, but, he did not say who had been found specially to be responsible. Testimony of witnesses from the bark Sigurd was taken and a great mass of testimony is now in the hands of Prosecutor Garven, who will proceed when he has the case ready.

CITY FIRE DEPARTMENT RESPONDS TO TWO ALARMS.

The burlap wrappings on a quantity of machinery standing on a car in a railroad siding near Washington street, caught fire in some way early this morning. An alarm was turned in from box 25 at 5:55 and the firemen extinguished the flames with chemicals. There was practically no damage.

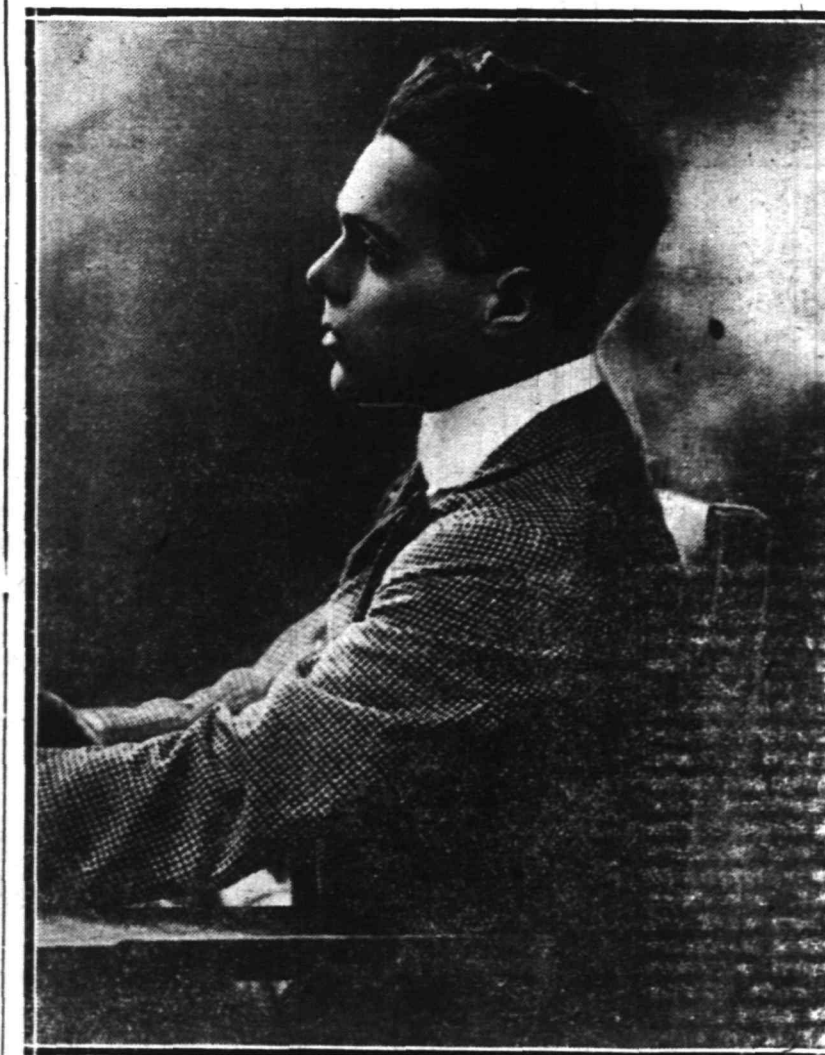

The West End company went out at 12:35 this noon on a still alarm for a blaze in a workshop in the rear of James L. Perry's residence, 1130 West Seventh street. It was caused by spontaneous combustion. The loss is placed at about $50.

Heavy Snow Predicted.

The weather man predicts a heavy snow for tonight and tomorrow with brisk east winds. The snow began falling about 11 o'clock this morning, and by afternoon the ground was well covered and the white flakes were gathering very fast.

COLLECT EVIDENCE ON SUNDAY SELLING

Acting under instructions for Chief Kiely, the police yesterday collected evidence against a large number of Hebrews and Italians who were doing business after having opened their stores at sunset on Saturday. This was in compliance with Mayor Moy's written order to the chief citing the laws and ordinances regarding Sunday selling and Sabbath observance.

No warrants have been issued and no arrests made. It is reported that the chief will serve the warrants as soon as ordered to do so by the Mayor. Although they have a legal right to do so, many of the news-dealers refused to sell papers yesterday. At the drug stores, restaurants and other shops in the heart of the business section it was well nigh impossible to buy a cigar.

Two Intoxicated.
Only two cases of drunkenness were brought before Judge De Meza in the city court this morning. W. J. Sanderson, colored, and Peter Kessler, fifty-five, white, of the west end. Sanderson was fined $5 and sentence was suspended in Kessler's case.

The Awakening.
I dreamed of her I once loved best,
Who once my being had possessed
Whose hand I'd passionately pressed.
Once more I sought her out with zest
"She'll joy to welcome me," I guessed.

And then, ah me!
That it should be,
With bitter pain
I guessed again.
I found a bird in last year's nest.
With plumage rare
Of yellow hair,
With her sweet golden head at rest
Upon the vest
He wore on his protruding chest!

HARRY ALLEN WEDS
MISS BESSIE ADAMS

G. Harry Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Allen, of Somerset place, and Miss Bessie G. Adams, daughter of Mrs. Jennie Adams, of Phillipsburg, were married at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother by Rev. Joseph Stump, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, Phillipsburg. The ceremony was witnessed by a number of relatives and friends of the couple.

Miss Edna M. Lear, of Phillipsburg, was the bridesmaid, and Watson H. Kimery, also of Phillipsburg, was the best man. Last evening the couple gave a dinner at the Hotel Huntington, Easton, Pa., for members of the bridal party. The couple will reside in the borough after a short wedding trip.

Mr. Allen has been employed at Proctor's theatre for nearly two years, where he has made many friends. The bride has been residing here and holds a position with DeMolli on West Front street, which she will retain.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Patrick McDonough, who went to Chicago several months ago, has given up his position there and returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson, of East Orange, are visiting Mrs. Jackson's mother, Mrs. Allen, of Maple avenue.

Judge and Mrs. W. E. Smith are entertaining Rev. J. J. Allen, of Crozier Seminary, over Sunday.

The public school has been closed and fumigated, and the pupils have had several days' holiday.

William Reilly's children are confined to their home with scarlet fever.

The trains 40 and 31 will not be discontinued but will be run as usual.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The funeral of Mrs. Josephine Dunham, of this city, who died at the son's home in Plainfield, Saturday afternoon, will be held at that place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery, Plainfield. Mrs. Dunham had been a resident of the borough for thirty-six years and was one of the most valued members of the Presbyterian church. She was also a teacher in the Sunday school.

The general committee in charge of the arrangements for the contemplated St. John's fair held a meeting in the rectory, yesterday. The dates set are April 20, 21, 22 and 24, directly after Easter. The committee members are already hard at work and the probabilities are that the coming affair will eclipse all predecessors. It will be held in Junior Hall.

Hary B. Kirchhoff's new pharmacy in the Runyon block was opened Saturday. This date was announced and maintained by the proprietor although a large part of his goods did not arrive as expected. The soda fountain did not reach here until Friday but is now in position. It is a very handsome affair.

Contractor J. Newton Apgar has commenced work on a $20,000 residence to be erected in Plainfield for William H. Apgar. It is located in the Hillside avenue section of the city.

The regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council will be held in the borough hall tonight. It promises to be a busy session.

The W. C. T. U. will meet next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. J. Todd.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

In "The Easiest Way," which Mr. Belasco will produce in the Plainfield theatre tonight, the author does not seek to argue. He merely presents a given case. He leaves the audience to draw its own conclusions. And without any effort to create sympathy for his heroine, or to ameliorate her wrongs, or to soften even the language, he brazenly proclaims his story. And the moral effect is unquestionable. To the most callous men in the audience it brings disgust for such women as Laura Murdock or Elsie St. Clair; to the inexperienced young man it destroys all illusions about stage folk of that caliber and the so-called "gay" life; to women it strikingly and bitterly points out the inevitable results of following any but the best way. Is there any sermon that can more effectively bring home these points?

"There is great satisfaction to be got out of 'The Easiest Way' by the student of the theatre in its dramatic value, its fine construction, and its splendid character drawing. There is a real conflict at hand. There are powerfully constructed scenes which issue naturally from the theme and there is an absolute disregard of the conventional tricks of the trade. The dialogue is sharp and to the point, there is no 'worked-up' entrance for the star, there is no irrelevant 'comedy relief.' Those who are willing to accept anything that is worth while on the stage, be it drama or minstrel show, have the right to ask for productions of the merits of 'The Easiest Way.' And as our education extends with regard to the theatre plays of its caliber will be more frequent."

Frank Daniels in the newest musical comedy success imported from Vienna, "The Girl in the Train," will be seen at the Plainfield theatre, for one night only, Saturday, February 11, under the management of Chas. Dillingham. "The Girl in the Train," is now being played in most of the capitals of Europe, and has been the rage of musical centres for the past year. It was written by Leo Fall, the famous composer of "The Dollar Princess," and the entertaining book was written by Victor Loon, who gained fame as the author of "The Merry Widow," the American adaptation has been made by Henry B. Smith.

Milk Purifiers Apprehended.
Fred and Steven Murphy, two small boys, were apprehended by a borough resident, Saturday night, stealing milk from the porch of the Bellis residence at Manning and Fairview avenues. They were turned over to Chief Weiss and later released on their promise to appear this morning, but failed to do so. They will be called to account during the day.

"Mexico, the Land of Mystery," will be the subject of an illustrated lecture to be given by Arthur M. Harris at the First Baptist church, Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Junior Mission Band of the church.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Men's club of Hope chapel are planning a "Martha Washington" sociable for the evening of Feb. 22.

"Building Battleships," was the subject of the sermon at the Congregational church yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

An inter-denominational day of prayer for home missions will be held at Trinity Reformed church, Thursday, February 23.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue church will hold a special meeting in the chapel of the church this afternoon at the usual hour.

Mrs. Randall has been appointed birthday superintendent of the Home department of Trinity Reformed church. Members will be remembered on their birthdays.

The recent fire in the pastor's study at Trinity Reformed church has confirmed his belief that the church needs an adequate safe for the care of its valuables and records. An extension electric drop light is also needed.

"The Cost of Victory," will be the topic of the mid-week prayer meeting at Trinity Reformed church, Wednesday night. Special reference will be made to the life of John G. Paton, whose life was spent for God in the New Hebrides Islands.

Under the auspices of the Junior Mission Band, of the First Baptist church, a missionary entertainment will be given at the church, Saturday afternoon, in which members of the band will represent various phases of Mexican life in costume. The public is invited.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The topic will be "Why do you believe in Christian Endeavor?" The intermediate leader will be Theodosia Vail and the Junior leader, Helen Foster. An important meeting will be held next week.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, has been requested to start a special fund for the payment for the new pulpit furniture and choir rail. The amount needed is $200. One substantial check has been received. If you desire to share in this work, hand or send your check to the pastor.

Moving Picture Service.

Rev. Charles S. Kemble, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, made an address at the moving picture service in the Palace theatre, Bound Brook, yesterday afternoon. The service consisted of moving pictures in the life of Moses, with music and singing.

In the Borough Court.

John Murphy, of the city side of the brook, was arrested by the borough police, Saturday night, for disorderly conduct at Craig place and Somerset street. He was arraigned before Recorder Dolliver, this morning, and fined $3.

PLAN MORE STATE ROAD IMPROVEMENT

A joint meeting of the boards of freeholders of Middlesex and Somerset counties will be held at Somerville on Thursday to approve of plans for the macadamizing of the line road from Franklin Park to Kingston. The two bodies, at a meeting in New Brunswick, Thursday, decided to go ahead with this work and instructed Frederick S. Simmons, the Middlesex county engineer, to prepare plans.

The building of this road will give automobilists a shorter route to Princeton and Trenton. The two boards got together about two years ago with the idea of building the road from New Brunswick to the Mercer county line, and at that time they macadamized the road from New Brunswick to Franklin Park and also a section at Rocky Hill. The present work will complete a direct line of good roads across the State, the present route of automobiles being the circuitous one from New Brunswick to Cranbury and then across to Princeton via Monmouth Junction.

The board also decided to seek a joint meeting with the Union county freeholders in an endeavor to have the road from Roosevelt to Elizabethport macadamized. There is now a wagon road between these two places, but it is ten and three-quarter miles long. The new road is a direct one and but five miles long, four miles of which is in Union county and one mile in Middlesex. Roosevelt is willing to pay a portion of the expense. Mayor Joseph A. Hermann, of Roosevelt, is seeking to get the two boards together.

THE CABMEN OF PARIS

Hailing One Is the Same as a Declaration of War.

THEY ARE INSOLENT ROGUES

Sneers and Caustic Advice Are Showed Upon Those Who Engage Them. On Wet or Festal Days the Cabbies Spurn Those Who Want to Ride.

Among Anglo-Saxons there is a general and instinctive desire to do business on the basis of an entente cordiale. In Paris the hailing of a cabman is looked on by both parties to the transaction as an implied declaration of war. The cabman takes your measure, and you take his number if you are wise. At once he will give you a reason to remark that he has a rooted and premeditated objection to drive you where you wish to go. Perhaps he prefers the opera quarter because it is central, or should the weather be fine his heart is probably set upon driving in the Bois, while you may have business at the bourse. He explains his views on the subject selfishly and rudely.

A foreigner alighted recently from the Catala train at the Northern railway station in Paris and ordered a typical Parisian cabman, bloated, pale and almost enfeebled, to drive him to the Rue Blomet, which is a street in the relatively distant Vaugrard quarter. "Faut on habiller la Rue Blomet?" (Is it possible to inhabit the Rue Blomet?) exclaimed the ragged ruffian in an epigrammatic note of disdain which would have done honor to Beau Brummel.

But it is when the Paris cabman has once started on his "course," a war-path in the strict sense of the term, that he proves to what a limitless extent he is the enemy of mankind. His hatred of the "bourgeois," the "man in the street," in spite of and indeed because of his being a potential client, is expressed at every yard. He constantly tries to run him down, which makes strangers to Paris accuse the Paris cabman of driving badly, while in point of fact he is not driving at all, but playing with miraculous skill a game of his own which suggests cannon billiards in the hands of a world's champion.

But it is not with the public alone that he is at war. On all other cabmen whose path he crosses, on omnibus drivers, motorcar men, bicyclists, private coachmen, costermongers with barrows and (sotto voce) the police he heaps deadly insults, the least outrageous of which are "Ours" ("Bear") and "Fourneau" ("Oven"), the latter containing a subtle double meaning, intelligible only to those who have Paris "argot" or slang at their finger ends and too long to explain.

The cabman's wild career through the streets, the constant wavering and slashing of his pitiless whip, his madcap burlesques and collisions, the frenzied gesticulations which he exchanges with his "fare," the panic stricken flight of the agonized women whose lives he has endangered, the ugly rushes which the public occasionally makes at him with a view to lynching him, the sprawling and fallings of his maddened, hysterical, starving horse, contribute as much as anything to the spasmodic intensity, the electric blue fire diabolie, which are characteristic of the general movement of Paris.

All that can be said in mitigation of the Paris cabman's method is that "he has them in the blood." Every Parisian (and the cabman is no exception) has the soul of a dictator and the spirit of an artist. To exercise autocratic power and, falling this, to enjoy the maximum of personal freedom from all restraint, moral or social, is the goal at which he is ever aiming, openly or secretly.

Watch a Paris cabman, for instance, on a wet day or on some festival occasion, such as the New Year, when there is a big demand for his services. With what haughty disdain does he drive along the streets, deaf to every appeal, refusing every fare, rejoicing in the discomfort and inconvenience he is causing, triumphant in the thought that at last he has "the bourgeois" at his feet; that the clientele which he detests and which detests him is now a humiliated, bemuddled or bedraggled mob of supplicants waiting on his will, whom he can enrage to boiling point with his sneers and his silence or lash with his sarcasms as cruelly as he beats his horse.

Cheerfully does he sacrifice half a day's earnings to the enjoyment of this exquisite revenge, for at least he can say to his hungry wife and children when he gets home, "J'ai vecu." They may not have dined, but he has lived.

It is because the Parisian recognizes in himself a certain community of sentiment with the cabman in this attitude toward life that he tolerates him, though he does not forgive him. —Harper's Weekly.

Her Only Course.

Lady Anne Lindsay, the author of the old poem "And Robin Gray," was not only a delightful conversationalist, but she was a great story teller.

This gift made her not only a welcome guest abroad, but a valuable member of the home circle, for it is related in "A Group of Scottish Women" that at a dinner party which she was giving to some friends an old manservant caused some amusement by saying in a perfectly audible undertone: "My lady, you must tell another story. The second course won't be ready for five minutes."

Temples of Siam.
Once a year all the Buddhist temples in Siam are visited by the king or his deputies, bearing the para kathin (yellow robes). In conformity with an ancient custom by which the priests were made to seek their apparel for the ensuing year. During the lifetime of Buddha monks and priests were sent out to beg for old castoff garments, which were afterward dyed yellow and patched together to form the required robes. This ancient mendicant custom gradually gave place to the present one of making the garments from a new cloth of a bright canary yellow, provided by joint contributions of king, princes, nobles and commoners. When the king goes in the royal throne barge to present the robes in person he does so with great pomp and ceremony. The priestly garments, folded in bundles, are carried to the door of the temple to await the appearance of his majesty and his suit. The king on arriving takes a priestly robe and places it on a decorated altar. The chief priest then lays his hands on the garment and chants an acknowledgment.—Wide World Magazine.

Won by His Wit.

A story is told of an English clergyman who owed his appointment to a rich living to a lucky pun. He was tutor to the son of a nobleman and had not long taken orders when he attended the funeral of the rector of the parish in which the nobleman's seat was situated. The father of his pupil was patron of the living and was also present at the funeral of the deceased rector. There was a young clergyman present also whose grief was so demonstrative that the noble patron was much affected by the sight and asked if the young man was a son of the deceased gentleman.

"Oh, dear, no, my lord," no relation at all," said the tutor.

"No relation?" exclaimed the nobleman in a surprised tone.

"None, my lord. He is the curate, and I think he is not weeping for the dead, but for the living."

His lordship, who was something of a wit and a cynic himself, was so delighted with the bonnet that he conferred the living upon the ready punster.

Through a Big Telescope.
The first look through a great telescope is disappointing, but the novice soon sees that the flat appearance which the heavens present to the naked eye is replaced by a curious concavity; the moon and stars seem to be hung in space rather than spread out on a flat surface. For a moment one feels at the telescope like a child watching the swift moving balls kept in the air by a juggler and expecting to see one of those great, bright bodies fall. Then comes the thought, "What keeps them there, apparently suspended in space with absolutely nothing to hold them firm?" The explanation of the learned astronomer causes the brain of the layman to whirl, and he sees himself, perhaps for the first time, as a child gathering pebbles on the great shores of the sea of knowledge or as "an infant in the night, an infant crying for the light, and with no language but a cry."—National Magazine.

The New Hen.

Of the late Atherton Blight, one of the founders of fashionable Newport, a Philadelphia said:

"Mr. Blight was amused by the antics of the militant suffragettes. At a luncheon at the Bellevue he once sat next to a lady with suffragette notions. Plovers' eggs, hard boiled, formed one course, and the lady called Mr. Blight's attention to the high cost of plovers' eggs that year.

"Even though," she said, 'they have to be shipped from England, I don't see why their price should have nearly doubled, do you?'

"Well—er—not exactly," murmured Mr. Blight, 'though they do say the hen plovers have taken to acting very oddly of late—strutting around, and growing topknots and spurs, and even trying to learn to crow.'—Exchange.

Court Dress of Laureate.

Tennyson's court dress when he received the laureateship did not cost him much, for it was the same court dress worn by Wordsworth, who in turn had it from the old poet Rogers, and it is still in the Wordsworth family. It is a wonder how Tennyson and Wordsworth got into it, for Rogers was a little fellow. Tennyson had no passion for courts, and so he went in second hand to save cost.—New York Press.

Hot Air Rates.

Benham—I wish you wouldn't use the telephone so much for out of town calls.

Mrs. Benham—I like to talk to mother.

Benham—That's what I object to: I'm tired of paying gas bills.—New York Press.

A Careless Man.

Father—Why have you quarreled with Harry? Daughter—Because he proposed to me last night. Father—Well, there was no harm in that, was there? Daughter—But I had accepted him the night before.—Illustrated Bits.

Perseverance.

Perseverance is more prevailing than violence, and many things which cannot be overcome when they are together yield themselves up when taken little by little.

Strict Obedience.

Salesman—Sir, will you have a negligee or a stiff bodice? Customer—Negligee, I guess. The doctor said I must avoid starched things.—Boston Transcript.

AFTER THE COLLISION.

The Effect It Has on the Nerves Leads to Some Very Murmurous Acts.

A wreck sometimes upsets even the most iron nerved. Once the wreck master on his arrival noticed a bare-headed man in overalls, covered with coal dust and blood, sitting beside his engine with tears running down his face. He recognized him as the engineer, who had been hauled out a few minutes before from under the mass of

Cavanagh, Forest Ranger

The Great Conservation Novel

By HAMLIN GARLAND

Copyright, 1910, by Hamlin Garland

Gregg resumed, enjoying the sensation he was creating. "Yes, that Basque herder of mine, the one up near Black Tooth, sent word he was sick, so I hunted up an old tramp by the name of Edwards to take his place. Edwards found the dago dying of pox and skipped out over the range, leaving him to die alone. Cavanagh went up and found the dago dead and took care of him. Result is he's full of germs and has brought his appendage down with it, and both of 'em must be quarantined right where they are."

"Good heavens, man," exclaimed Dalton, "this is serious business! Are you sure it's smallpox?"

"One of my men came from there last night. I was there myself on Monday, so was the deputy. The sheriff missed Tom this morning, but I reached him by phone, and Cavanagh admitted to us that the Basque died of smallpox and that he buried him with his own hands."

The sheriff spoke up. "The criminal part of it is this, Mr. Dalton—Cavanagh didn't report the case when he came down here, just when about leaving a trail of poison. Why didn't he report it? He should be arrested."

"Wait a moment," said Dalton. "Perhaps it wasn't pox; perhaps it was only mountain fever. Cavanagh is not the kind of man to involve others in a pestilence. I reckon he knew it was nothing but a fever, and not wishing to alarm his friends, he just slid into town and out again."

A flash of light, of heat, of joy, went through Lee's heart as she listened to Dalton's defense of Cavanagh. "That was the reason why he rode away," she thought. "He was afraid of bringing harm to us." And this conviction lighted her face with a smile even while the forester continued his supposition by saying, "Of course proper precautions should be taken, and as we are going up there the supervisor and I will see that a quarantine is established if we find it necessary."

Gregg was not satisfied. "Cavanagh admitted to the deputy and to me that he believed the case to be smallpox and said that he had destroyed the camp and everything connected with it except the horse and the dog, and yet he comes down here, infecting everybody he meets." He turned to Lee. "You'd better burn the bed he slept on. He's left a trail of germs wherever he went. I say the man is criminally liable and should be jailed if he lives to get back to town."

Lee's mind was off now on another tangent. "Suppose it is true?" she asked herself. "Suppose he has fallen sick away up there, miles and miles from any nurse or doctor?"

"There's something queer about the whole business," pursued Gregg. "For instance, who is this assistant he's got? Johnson said there was an old man in ranger uniform pottering round. Why didn't he send word by him? Why did he let me come to the door? He might have involved me in the disease. I tell you, if you don't take care of him the people of the county will."

The forester looked grave. "If he knew it was smallpox and failed to report it he did wrong, but you say he took care of this poor shepherd—nursed him till he died and buried him, taking all precautions. You can't complain of that, can you? That's the act of a good ranger and a brave man. You wouldn't have done it?" he ended, addressing Gregg. "Sickness up there two full miles above sea level is quite a different proposition from sickness in Sulphur City or the Fork. I shall not condemn Mr. Cavanagh till I hear his side of the story."

Lee turned a grateful glance upon him. "You must be right. I don't believe Mr. Cavanagh would deceive any one."

"Well, we'll soon know the truth," said Dalton, "for I'm going up there. If the ranger has been exposed he must not be left alone."

"He ain't alone," declared the sheriff. "Tom phoned me that he had an assistant."

"Swenson, I suppose," said Redfield, who entered at this moment. "Swenson is his assistant."

"I didn't see him myself," Gregg continued, "but I understood the deputy to say that he was an old man."

"Swenson is a young man," corrected Redfield.

The sheriff insisted. "Tom said it was an old man—a stranger to him—tall, smooth shaven, not very strong, he said—peered to be a cook. He had helped nurse the dago, so Tom said."

"That's very curious," mused Redfield. "There isn't an old man in the service of this forest. There's a mistake somewhere."

"Well," concluded Gregg, "that's what he said. I thought at first it might be that old hobo Edwards, but this fellow being in uniform and smooth shaven—his face changed; his voice deepened. 'Say, I believe it was Edwards, and, furthermore, Edwards is the convict that Texas marshal was after the other day, and this man Cavanagh—your police records show that—"

boring him."

"What nonsense!" exclaimed Redfield.

The sheriff banged his hand upon the table. "That's the whole mystery. I see it all now. He's up there concealing this man. He's given out this smallpox scare just to keep the officers away from him. Now you've got it!"

The thunder in his voice drew toward him all those who remained in the dining room, and Lee found herself ringed about by a dozen excited men, but she did not flinch. She was too deeply concerned over Cavanagh's fate to be afraid, and, besides, Redfield and the forester were beside her.

The supervisor was staggered by Gregg's accusation and by certain confirmatory facts in his own possession, but he defended Cavanagh bravely. "You're crazy," he replied. "Why should Ross do such a foolish thing? What is his motive? What interest would he have in this man Edwards, whom you call a tramp? He can't be a relative and certainly not a friend of Cavanagh's, for you say he is a convict. Come, now, your hatred of Cavanagh has gone too far."

Gregg was somewhat cooled by this dash of reason, but replied: "I don't know what relation he is, but these are facts. He's concealing an escaped convict, and he knows it."

Dalton put in a quiet word. "What is the use of shouting a judgment against a man like Cavanagh before you know the facts? He's one of the best and ablest rangers on this forest. I don't know why he has resigned, but I'm sure—"

"Has he resigned?" asked Gregg eagerly.

"He has."

"A good job for him. I was about to circulate a petition to have him removed."

"If all the stockmen in the valley had signed a petition against him it wouldn't have done any good," replied Dalton. "We know a good man when we see him. I'm here to offer him promotion, not to punish him."

Lee, looking about at the faces of these men and seeing disappointment in their faces, lost the keen sting of her own humiliation. "In the midst of such a fight as this how can he give time or thought to me?" Painful as the admission was, she was forced to admit that she was a very humble factor in a very large campaign. "But suppose he falls ill?" Her face grew white and set and her lips blither. "That would be the final tragic touch," she thought, "to have him come down of a plague from nursing one of Sam Gregg's sheep herders." Aloud she said: "His resignation comes just in time, doesn't it? He can now be sick without loss to the service."

Dalton answered her. "The supervisor has not accepted his resignation. On the contrary, I shall offer him a higher position. His career as a forester is only beginning. He would be foolish to give up the work now, when the avenues of promotion are just opening. I can offer him very soon the supervision of a forest."

As they talked Lee felt herself sinking the while her lover rose, and it was all true. The forester was right. Ross was capable of any work they might demand of him. He was too skilled, too intelligent, too manly, to remain in the forest, heroic as its duties seemed.

Upon this discussion Lize, hobbling painfully, appeared. With a cry of surprise Lee rose to meet her.

"Mother, you must not do this!" She waved her away. "I'm all right," she said, "barring the big marbles in my slippers." Then she turned to Dalton. "Now, what's it all about? Is it true that Ross is down?"

"No. So far as we know, he is well."

"Well, I'm going to find out. I don't intend to set here and have him up there without a cook or a nurse."

At this moment a tall, fair young fellow, dressed in a ranger's uniform, entered the room and made his way directly to the spot where Lee, her mother and Redfield were standing. "Mr. Supervisor, Cavanagh has sent me to tell you that he needs a doctor. He's got a sick man up at the station, and he's afraid it's a case of smallpox." He turned to Lee. "He told me to tell you that he would have written, only he was afraid to even send a letter out."

"What does he need?" asked Redfield.

"He needs medicine and food, a doctor, and he ought to have a nurse."

"That's my job," said Lize.

"Nonsense!" said Redfield. "You're not fit to ride a mile. I won't hear of your going."

"You wait and see. I'm going, and you can't stop me."

"Who is the man with him?" asked the forester.

"I don't know—an old herder, he said. He said he could take care of him all right for the present, but that if he were taken down himself—"

Lee's mounting emotion broke from her in a little cry. "Oh, Mr. Redfield, please let me go too! I want to help! I must help!"

Redfield said: "I'll telephone to Sulphur City and ask Brooks to get a nurse and come down as soon as possible. Meanwhile I'll go out to see what the conditions are."

"I'm going, too, I tell you," announced Lize. "I've had the cursed disease, and I'm not afraid of it. We had three sieges of it in my family. You get me up there, and I'll do the rest."

"But you are ill."

"I was, but I'm not now." Her voice was firmer than it had been for days. "All I needed was something to do. Ross Cavanagh has been like a son to me for two years. He's the one man in this country I'd turn my hand over for—barring yourself. Reddy—and it's my job to see him through this pinch."

In spite of all opposition she had her way. Returning to her room to get such clothing as she needed for her stay in the hills, she waited for Redfield to send a carriage to her. "I can't ride a horse no more," she sorrowfully admitted.

Lee's secret was no secret to any one there. Her wide eyes and heaving breast testified to the profound stir in her heart. She was in an anguish of fear lest Ross should already be in the grip of his loathsome enemy. That it had come to him by way of a brave and noble act made the situation only the more tragic.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE PESTHOUSE.

Cavanagh had kept a keen watch over Wetherford, and when one night the old man began to complain of the ache in his bones his decision was instant.

"You've got it," he said. "It's up to us to move down the valley tomorrow."

Wetherford protested that he would as soon die in the hills as in the valley. "I don't want Lee Virginia to know, but if I seem liable to fade out I'd like Lize to be told that I didn't forget her and that I came back to find out how she was. I hate to be a nuisance to you, and so I'll go down the valley if you say so."

As he was about to turn in that night Ross heard a horse cross the bridge and, with intent to warn the rider of his danger, went to the door and called out: "Halt! Who's there?"

"A friend," replied the stranger in a weak voice.

Ross permitted the visitor to ride up to the pole. "I can't ask you in," he explained. "I've a sick man inside. Who are you, and what can I do for you?"

Notwithstanding this warning the rider dropped from his saddle and came into the light which streamed from the door.

"My name is Dunn," he began. "I'm from Deer Creek."

"I know you," responded the ranger. "You're that rancher I saw working in the ditch the day I went to telephone, and you've come to tell me something about that murder."

The other man broke into a whimper. "I'm a law abiding man, Mr. Cavanagh," he began tremulously. "I've always kept the law and never intended to have anything to do with that business. I was dragged into it against my will. I've come to you because you're an officer of the federal law. You don't belong here. I trust you. You represent the president, and I want to tell you what I know, only I want you to promise not to bring me into it. I'm a man with a family, and I can't bear to have them know the truth."

There were deep agitation and complete sincerity in the rancher's choked and hesitant utterance, and Cavanagh turned cold with a premonition of what he was about to disclose. "I am not an officer of the law, Mr. Dunn, not in the sense you mean, but I will respect your wishes."

"I know that you are not an officer of the county law, but you're not a cattleman. It is your business to keep the peace in the wild country, and you do it. Everybody knows that. But I can't trust the officers of this country; they're all afraid of the cowboys. You are not afraid, and you represent the United States, and I'll tell you. I can't bear it any longer," he wailed. "I must tell somebody. I can't sleep, and I can't eat. I've been like a man in a nightmare ever since. I had no hand in the killing—I didn't even see it done—but I knew it was going to happen. I saw the committee appointed. The meeting that decided it was held in my barn, but I didn't know what they intended to do. You believe me, don't you?" He peered up at Cavanagh with white face and wild eyes. "I'm over seventy years of age, Mr. Cavanagh, and I've been a law abiding citizen all my life."

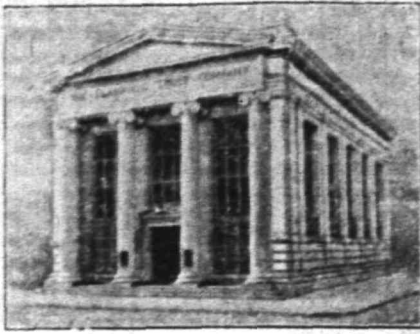

His mind, shattered by the weight of his ghastly secret, was in confusion, and, perceiving this, Cavanagh began to question him gently. One by one he procured the names of those who voted to "deal with" the herders. One by one he obtained also the list of those named on "the committee of rework." When did you first know what had been done?"

"That night after it was done one of the men, my neighbor, who was drawn on the committee, came to my house and asked me to give him a bed. He was afraid to go home. 'I can't face my wife and children,' he said. He told me what he'd seen, and then when I remembered that it had all been decided in my stable and the committee appointed there I began to tremble. You believe I'm telling the truth, don't

HE DISCOURSES ON THE FAULT-FINDER

"The Duty of Fault-Finding," was the subject of a discourse by Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire at the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday morning. The text was "Brother let me pull the mote out of thine eye." In part Mr. Maguire said:

"What we see in others we have the germs of in ourselves. The best way of judging another is by narrowly examining our own hearts. The fault-finders, like the poor, are always with us. We are commanded under the law and under the Gospel to reprove and rebuke with all long-suffering. A preparation is necessary to perform this task."

"First we must pull the beam out of our own eye before we can see clearly to take the mote out of our brother's. We should not take the platform and preach prohibition when we keep a barrel of beer in the cellar and a whiskey flask on our sideboard. No use in prating on political economy if we stayed away from the polls last election day. No use telling your boys not to smoke cigarettes while you are using a corn-cob pipe, a meerschaum or a briar root. No use in preaching social purity, when your own lips are blistered with impure stories."

"The second preparation is to put on the garment of charity. Charity suffereth long and is kind. The words of Abraham Lincoln will live as long as the nation exists and long after, 'with malice toward none and charity for all, and an ability to do the right as God has given us to see the right.'"

OBSERVE SABBATH URGES PREACHER

"Is it Business to do Business on Sunday," was the subject of the sermon by Rev. F. St. John Fitch at Hope chapel yesterday morning, before a large congregation, a majority of which were also present to hear the announcement of the successor to Rev. L. R. Howard as pastor of the chapel. Mr. Fitch is Mayor Moy's appointee for the position of overseer of the poor to succeed Alexander D. Ayers, and his sermon was of unusual interest in consequence.

The divine took his text from Exodus 20:8: "Remember the Sabbath Day and keep it holy." At the outset Mr. Fitch said that it was not his intention to differ or enter into any controversy with others regarding the legal status of Sunday, but his purpose was to give a message of instruction and inspiration as the Holy Spirit would be pleased to grant it. Continuing Mr. Fitch said in part:

"There are two aspects of the command found in our text—the civil and Scriptural. Consider the civil. I have adopted purposely a singular expression of the theme: obviously an economical or business, namely, 'Is it Business to do Business on Sunday?' That is a question for you and me to answer. With the exception of the lazy, wealthy or weary Willies, we are all in business, the object of which is to make money enough for comfort, convenience and competence for ourselves and dependants to be secured in an honest manner and approved business methods."

"Now for the Sunday proposition. Science, labor and nature have one and all have clamored loudly for a moment's pause, a cessation of action to rest and recuperate to regain spent energy. More than all man, the busy man, the business man, crowded and cramped for time—overburdened with the weight of hard labor and keen competition cries out for relief."

"It is his right and he will secure it. Unable alone he calls to his aid the strong right arm of the law. In time that is obtained. The police guard his treasure and for it he gratefully pays the price, appreciatively he upholds the Mayor in his efforts for law enforcement which is an asset to his business enterprise. The merchant, mechanic, farmer or whoever he is, is the better physically and mentally to pursue his business to a prosperous and successful issue."

"Turning from the law of necessity we find the civil law made and operated by man. A law older than New Jersey, older than America, older than Europe, as old as Moses, back in the organization of the Theocracy of Israel, we read God spake all these words, saying: 'Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it Holy.' Our memory takes us to those days when our ancestors and forbears rejoiced to see the dawn of the weekly Sabbath and they have left us a rich legacy in the influence of their virtuous lives and the wholesome advice they gave when so often they said: 'Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it Holy.'"

"Let us remember those early days; also those who have in recent years come to our shores and others later, leaving behind parents and friends, who observed this hallowed day of rest and worship and who are solicitous of their children's welfare. Shall it be that here in our land and our beautiful city of Plainfield they forget God and His laws—no never. Let us hold inviolate these sacred precepts more-over should others come to our country, made free and glorious by virtuous patriotism and consecrated loyalty to God, our eternal Father and Jesus Christ our blessed Saviour, and tear from us the treasure we hold dear. No! No! We are a Christian nation. We live in a Christian city and we have a Christian hope. It is surely a bad business to do business on Sunday, therefore, let us remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy."

ASK STATE AID IN POULTRY INDUSTRY

Senator Gaunt, of Gloucester county, who is master of the State Grange, at the request of the New Jersey branch of the American Poultry Association, will introduce a bill to provide for the establishment of a department of poultry husbandry as a part of the regular equipment of the State Agricultural Experiment Station at New Brunswick.

The measure will call for an appropriation of $25,000 and an annual maintenance fund of $3,000. The bill is urged upon the ground that, while the poultry industry is an important one in New Jersey, representing an investment of $10,000,000 and an annual value of products of about $8,000,000, only $500 is expended by the State in aid of it. New York, on the other hand, appropriated $9,000 last year for this work, while Massachusetts, Maine, Rhode Island and Connecticut also gave liberally.

In support of the bill it will be stated that New Jersey is the most intensive poultry State in the Union having more capital invested per square mile than any other State; that nowhere are soil, climate and market conditions more favorable for the development of the poultry industry, and that the rapid growth of the industry as compared with other lines of agriculture demand more attention on the part of the State.

Money invested in equipment on the farms of the State is estimated as follows: Dairy, $22,000,000; horticulture, $24,000,000, and poultry, $10,000,000.

23RD ANNIVERSARY OF VINCENT CHAPEL

The twenty-third anniversary of Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church was appropriately observed at the Sunday school session yesterday afternoon, when there was a large gathering of members and friends. The program, which was of an informal character, was in charge of James R. Joy, superintendent. Congratulatory letters were read from former pastors, Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of Jersey City; Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of Paterson; Rev. Dr. VanMeter and Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes, formerly of Jersey City.

There were also several short interesting addresses by Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney, of this city, who is president emeritus of Centenary College, Hackettstown; Rev. Dr. Charles B. Mitchell, former pastor, now of Chicago, who occupied the pulpit of the church morning and evening, and James R. Jackson, a former superintendent. All recalled former days, and the work which has been accomplished by the church and Sunday school.

The chapel was erected twenty-three years ago and named for Bishop Vincent, a former resident of this city and pastor of the church, but who has since become one of the leading and most influential members of the denomination. It is the only edifice of the kind in the city, erected exclusively for Sunday school work. During the past year the Ladies' Aid Society raised funds with which to refurbish the chapel and make needed repairs and it is now one of the most attractive places of worship here.

Livingston Barbour Coming.
Livingston Barbour, professor of elocution and oratory at Rutgers College, will appear at Trinity Reformed church, Monday evening, March 20, presenting Ralph Connor's famous story, "The Sky Pilot." The affair will be under the auspices of the Dutch Arms, Men's Association of the church. Prof. Barbour has an established reputation as an orator and will doubtless be heard by a large audience upon his appearance here.

Dr. Paul W. Harrison, missionary from Trinity Reformed church, requests the prayers of the congregation of the above church that ten Arabs in Muscat may be won for Christ this year.

OLD PENN'S GRADS TO HOLD BANQUETS

Former Mayor William L. Saunders will be the toastmaster at the banquet to be held by the New York Alumni Association of the University of Pennsylvania on Saturday night, February 18. The dinner will take place at the Hotel Knickerbocker, New York, and will be given in honor of the retiring provost of Old Penn, Charles Custis Harrison, LL. D., and the new provost, Edgar Fahs Smith.

Among the speakers will be Lloyd Griscom, New York Republican State chairman and formerly ambassador to Italy; Judge Galbraith Ward and S. Mallet Provost, all of New York. Many Jerseymen including some Plainfield graduates will be present.

A number of Plainfield graduates will also attend the university day dinner to be held at Scottish Rite Hall, in Philadelphia, on Washington's birthday, February 22. This year the dinner will be in honor of Dr. Harrison and Provost Smith. Among those who will speak is Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador. George Wharton Pepper, LL. D., of Philadelphia, will act as toastmaster.

NATURALIST'S TALK ON TAMING THE LION

Zoology, as studied through the carnivores and most powerful wild animals in captivity will be a special study at the High School, Wednesday morning at 10:15 o'clock. The pupils, and probably as many of the general public as can be accommodated, will enjoy a characteristic stereopticon lecture by Allen Samuel Williams, a New York naturalist.

A year ago he lectured at the school on serpent life. The lecturer has made a life-long study of wild animals in captivity and nature and has had his own experiences as an amateur instructor in the lion's den. In some of his tours Mr. Williams has been accompanied by Captain Jack Bonavita, the greatest lion tamer, Mr. Williams declares, who ever lived or in all probability ever will live. Captain Bonavita has volunteered to add to the interest of the occasion by his presence and the lecturer, after his exposition of the subject, will introduce Bonavita, who, wearing the specially designed khaki uniform in which he tamed and educated twenty-seven desert-bred male lions to perform in a group, will relate bits of his personal experiences to the students.

That there is danger in his vocation is attested by the absence of Bonavita's right arm, which is but one of many injuries he owes to his career of daring. In Bonavita's appearances on the platform there is nothing of the tricks of public talking; one of the most modest and diffident of men he acknowledges that he is more afraid of an audience than of a score of lions or tigers.

GIRLS OF THE N. P. H. S. DEFEAT ALUMNAE FIVE.

The girls' basketball team from the North Plainfield High School defeated the alumnae team of the school, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 33 to 8. At the end of the first half the score was 17 to 6 in favor of the school five. The game was played at Saengerbund Hall. The lineup:

N. P. H. S.—Forwards, Helen Hummel, Marion Mair, Margaret Eaton; centre, Bessie Conroy; guards, Clara Smith, Charlotte Wadams.

Alumnae — Forwards, Marjorie Cooley, Helen George, Nettie Steiner; centre, Marjorie Hart; guards, Ruth Weinberger, Helen George, Marjorie Cooley. Referee, Fred Becker; umpire, Herbert Stein; timekeeper, C. Taylor; scorer, Percy Bailey.

St. Stephen's Church Growing.
Rev. Elory G. Bowers, rector of St. Stephen's church, at the 11 o'clock service, yesterday morning, stated to his congregation that he was much encouraged with the hearty response, enthusiasm and co-operation on the part of his parishioners. Since he has become rector several new church organizations have been formed and all are working in harmony. Mr. Bowers commented upon the increasing membership and attendance at services; also upon the fact that several new families have identified themselves with the parish.

Royal Arcanum District Meeting.
Plainfield, Bound Brook, Bridgewater and Greenbrook councils, Royal Arcanum will join in a district meeting to be held with Plainfield Council, 240 West Front street, this city, Thursday night, February 9. The meeting will be in charge of Grand Vice Regent Joseph M. Arnold and the uniformed degree team of Bayonne Council, No. 695, will do the initiatory work. This will be one of eighteen district meetings to be held in New Jersey during February.

MRS. JOSEPHINE DUNHAM DIES AT HER SON'S HOME.

Mrs. Josephine Dunham, widow of Jeremiah Dunham, died Saturday afternoon at 5:30 at the home of her son, William Dunham, of East Second street. She was a resident of Dunellen and came here a week ago for a visit, being somewhat enfeebled by the infirmities of age. The following day she suffered a stroke of paralysis that resulted in her death.

Mrs. Dunham was born in New York State seventy years ago but had lived in New Jersey nearly all her life. She had resided in Dunellen for about thirty-six years. Her husband was one of the best known and most competent engineers on the Central Railroad. Her son, William Dunham, who is the only surviving relative, holds a similar position with the company. Mrs. Dunham was a member of the Dunellen Presbyterian church and a teacher in its Sunday school.

The funeral service will be held at Mr. Dunham's home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 and burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Census Figures.
According to the census figures for 1910 announced this week it is shown that Bound Brook has 4,000 people, a growth of more than fifty per cent. over the figures of 1900. It is now more than four times as large as it was thirty years ago and is now larger than Raritan. The 1910 census in five nearby Jersey towns, including the borough, follows: North Plainfield, 6,117; Somerville, 5,060; Raritan, 3,672; South Bound Brook, 1,024; Bound Brook, 3,970.

Barn Dance for Church.
Arrangements have been completed for a barn dance to be held in Debele's Hall, Chatham street, for the benefit of St. Joseph's church on Wednesday night, February 15. A prize will be offered for the best costume and the committee in charge anticipate an enjoyable time for all who attend.
